The "notions" again include hardware, glass, cutlery, camphor, cloves, cinnamon, sandal-wood, verdigris, quicksilver, tea, and everything with which Sheffield can tempt the taste of semi-barbarian tribes. The total amount of the trade, it will be perceived, is only thirty-four lakhs, but it has increased, and there is little doubt that the estimate we have previously given, is a close approximation to the truth. The import of treasure shows that the balance of trade is in favour of India, and though the total amount is not large, there are few of the items which are not susceptible of very considerable extension. We hope speedily to be in possession of further returns, when we shall return to a subject on which a little information, better adapted to popular comprehension than official tables, would be exceedingly advantageous.—Friend of India.

THE SOCIAL PROGRESS OF THE PUNJAB AGRICULTURE.

In a recent article upon the social aspect of the Punjab, we noticed how much its prosperity was impeded by the over population of a limited range of cereals. This evil, which arises primarily from the disproportion between the producing and consuming classes universal in Oriental countries, and which is felt more or less in every province of the empire, falls with peculiar severity upon the Punjab. The people are essentially agricultural. The farmers have been accustomed to pay their rent in kind, and to believe that breadth of cultivation may compensate for a heavy fall in prices. The first effect of a regular and powerful government, therefore, has been to increase the land subject to tillage in the settled districts. The second has been to flood the market with corn from districts which once produced nothing but banditti, and which even now are scarcely subject to the taxation we have made so omnipresent. Both causes have increased the supply of grain till it has reached the point, where the profit is almost below the ordinary wages of daily labour. There is a glut of food, and without the possibility of exportation, with an enlarged irrigation, and an increasing pressure upon land hitherto untilled, there is little prospect of any diminution in the process. It is absolutely necessary to remedy this state of affairs by the introduction of new cultivations, of a wider range of productions, and of a cheaper husbandry. It is to these objects that the local Agri-Horticultural Society has devoted itself, and hitherto with remarkable success. We have no space for its voluminous records, important as we allow them to be, but we propose to sum up its efforts and successes in one brief and pregnant summary.

This body differs from all similar associations in India. It is not simply a collection of gentlemen who "have taste for horticulture," and who contribute funds, to be returned to them in improved fruits and gigantic vegetables. It is really a department of the administration, and by no means the least important or efficient. It essays to correct a great social evil, or rather to obtain for the Government that information without which its efforts at correction must be made at hap-hazard. The Society was organized in 1851, and was almost immediately successful. Patronized by the Governor-General, and aided by all the local chiefs, it received the active support of the more important natives, and became directly mixed up with the administration. Its first object was to ascertain the facts with which it had to deal, the actual condition of agriculture in the province. Inquiries were addressed to all the district authorities, and they produced a mass of information, which, in accuracy and completeness, equalled that collected from the oldest provinces in India. The great defects were found to be waste of manure, the injudicious method of the soil, caused by a bad rotation of crops, the injudicious method of planting, and the inattention to the quality of the staples produced. Practical tracts, in the vernacular, were prepared on all these subjects by Colonel G. B. Tremeneere, and circulated among the Zemindars.

It has been proposed to employ reaping machines in the Eusufzye district, where labour is scarce and dear. Exertions have been made to procure good seeds. Sugar cane has been indented for from Jamaica, cotton and maize from America, olives from Spain, and a variety of seeds from England. A correspondence has been opened with the authorities at Florence, Turin, and Naples, all places under the same climatic conditions as the Punjab. Experiments have been made in Lahore and other districts with Egyptian wheat, New Orleans cotton, apricot seed, flax, tobacco, clover, mangel-wurzel, yams, and West India sugar cane. Every tropical country has been called upon for its contribution, and the Society has paid especial attention to the immediate and apparent profit, which alone can make such innovations acceptable to the cultivators. The entire absence of pasturage in the settled districts gives a peculiar importance to the cultivation of turnips and mangel-wurzel, and the Society, with the same view, has determined to establish grass farms, on the plan of the famous winter meadows of Italy. All these efforts are directed to one end, the introduction of new and more profitable staples, and more especially of such as are adapted for exportation.

The next effort of the Society was dictated by a circumstance peculiar to the Punjab. It has no trees. Successive inroads, accompanied by all the wanton destruction which distinguishes Oriental warfare, has absolutely denuded the country of its trees. It is as bare as Cambridgeshire, where, according to the popular legend, suicide would be universal, but that there are no trees to hang upon. In this department, the Society has been singularly successful. It has imported forty thousand trees of ninety different kinds, including sissoo, seris, toon, mulberries, poplars, tamarinds, peepuls, bamboos, and plane trees. We question if the peepul, the greatest of nuisances in Bengal, can be a blessing anywhere; but the remainder must all be beneficial. The Malabar teak has also been imported; the canals are all to be lined with trees; the roads will pass through avenues; the Zemindars receive rewards for new plantations; and in a generation, the denudation of the country, the worst, because the most obvious relic of a barbarous time, will have ceased to arrest the attention of the traveller.

Soon after, the Society, observing the great and increasing exports of wool from the Punjab via Kurrachee to Bombay and England, resolved to take this subject in hand. Inquiries were instituted concerning the wools imported into the Punjab from Thibet and Cabul, and the wools produced in the centres of the several Doabs. Samples of the exported article were submitted to the Bombay Chamber of Commerce, and to mercantile houses at Liverpool and London. The brisk demand is evinced by the great amount of exports, which must by this time have risen to 30,000 maunds. It will doubtless increase, inasmuch as the latest advices declare that the Australian wool is on the decline, as labour and superintendence has been diverted to the gold fields. That the Punjab can produce an unlimited supply, from the countless flocks and wide-spreading pasturage of the uncultivated tracts, is certain. But at present, the fleece is pronounced to be coarse in quality. It could never compete in softness of texture with the Hill wools. A moister and cooler temperature would be required, in order that the wool of the plains might rival the downy fleeces of the Himalayas. But, fortunately for the Punjab, the wool of the Hills cannot command so ready and easy a market for export as the wool of the plains. To improve the latter, then, becomes an encouraging task.

Little could be effected by importing rams from the Himalaya or Thibet. They would rapidly deteriorate, if they did not die, under an Indian sun. But it was hoped that the Australian breed might be naturalized in the Punjab. The society accordingly made an application to the Supreme Government, which was liberally responded to, and some thirty rams are now on their way from Sydney, and twenty-four from Mysore, where the Australian breed has been already introduced. It has been proposed to establish screw-presses at Lahore, Ferozepore, Pind Dadun Khan, and Mooltan for the compression of wool and cotton. At present, there are no presses nearer than Kurrachee, Futehgurh, and Mirzapore, and in reaching those distant emporia to be pressed, the articles contract dirt, and imbibe moisture.

The production of raw silk in the Punjab has been attempted, and will probably be ere-long effected under the auspices of the society. At present, about 1,000 maunds a year are imported from Bokhara and Khorasan, and some considerable amount of inferior quality also finds its way to Umrtsur from Bengal. The manufacture is conducted at most of the chief cities, but the silk fabrics of Mooltan are more especially renowned. From a careful inquiry made by the secretary to the society it appears that about 4,000 men in all, are engaged in the manufacture, and that a capital of not less than 90,000*l.* has been embarked in the trade. It becomes important, then, that the Punjab should produce its own silk for this manufacture, and ultimately for exportation.

The process is greatly accelerated by the fact that the country offers more than ordinary facilities for the production of the mulberry, and the tree will flourish in luxuriance. The difficulty consists in providing a temperature sufficiently damp and equable for the silk-worm. Experiments have been made at various times from the period of the Mogul emperors downward, by various persons, natives and Europeans, and at various places, Umballah, Loodianah, Noorpoor, Goozerat, Rawul Pindee, and Kangra. A small silk-producing concern is even now at work in Deenannuggur.

Some success attended most of these experiments, and perseverance and capital seemed only wanting to ensure complete results. The society, therefore, resolved on making an experiment of its own at Lahore. A small supply of worms was procured from Moorshedabad, and during 1853 a million of worms were bred at the society's garden. These ought to have produced some fifty seers of raw silk, but owing to the inexperience of the managers, the full amount was not realized. Some thirty seers were, however, ultimately obtained. Valuable experience has been gained, and on a fair consideration of the impediments to be overcome, the first trial must be pronounced successful. Here, again, the liberality of the Government has been displayed. The establishment of Rs. 50 per mensem has been sanctioned; and two Armenian silk growers, one to receive from Government a salary of Rs. 100 per mensem, and the other Rs. 80, are now on their way from Moorshedabad to Lahore, with all the necessary appliances of their trade. The finer species of mulberries, such as the morus multicaulis of the Phillipine Isles, and the morus ciccensis, which feeds the prolific silk-worms of China, have been introduced in considerable quantities. Numerous cuttings of both these descriptions are in a thriving state.

Our sketch has extended to too great a length. We have omitted many of the facts we might have related; how the society has endeavoured to lighten the labour of irrigation by improved machinery, and how it has striven to improve the cattle employed as the motive power. We have said nothing of the difficulties it has been necessary to overcome, and nothing of its internal organization. Enough remains to sustain its claim to the character we have assigned to it, of a most efficient department of the administration. In justice to many of its subscribers, it must pay some attention to horticulture and botany, to fruits and flowers. But in justice to the Government which has supported it so liberally, and to the many public-spirited who have rendered aid by their knowledge and ability as well as by their subscriptions, it must not forget its nobler mission and its wider sphere. Inquiries have been made, questions have been ventilated, measures have been rough-hewn, and initiatory steps have been adopted. But the actual results are yet to come. To attain these, perseverance must be displayed, disheartening failures must be endured, apathy and ignorance must be striven against. We hope the time will arrive when Egyptian wheat, Jamaican cane, and American cotton shall be staples in the Punjab; when flax and hemp, and Australian wool, shall be exported in thousands of tons; when raw silk shall be an indigenous product, and when the face of the country shall be adorned with groves and avenues of the teak and the plane, the sissoo and the mulberry. The society may then boast that it has had no mean share in one of the great Indian facts of the day, the social progress of the Punjab.—Friend of India.

THE ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.

We have great pleasure in being able to state that Dr. O'Shaughnessy, at the Telegraph Office here in Agra, communicated with Cawnpore, 175 miles off, through the Jumna cable yesterday. He sent messages to Government announcing this fact, using for the purpose only five small cells, although the whole line is without insulation.

The telegraphic line towards Bombay having been completed betwixt Agra and Gwalior on the 28th ultimo, has thus far been open for correspondence from that date. The Maharajah of Gwalior, accompanied by Major Malcolm, the political agent, visited the office at that station on the evening of Thursday last, and several messages were sent to and received from Agra, in his presence. Among these, was an order on Mr. Melver here, for a watch, intended, we presume, as a present to the signaller on duty at Gwalior. The message was sent in writing to Mr. Melver, from the Agra office, acknowledged by him, and the answer placed in the Rajah's hand, all within a quarter of an hour, including the time occupied by the messenger in going from the telegraph office to Mr. Melver's and back.

His highness and his attendants expressed great astonishment and delight at the performance which they witnessed.

The electric power found necessary for working the telegraph is extraordinarily small. Two small sulphate of copper cells operate effectually betwixt Agra and Gwalior, a distance of seventy-five miles, although the line is totally uninsulated. Double this number of cells will doubtless suffice even in rainy weather. This facility of working is owing to the great weight of the iron line and the delicacy of the instruments in use.

Measures are in progress for extending the line with great rapidity towards Indore, up to which place Dr. Green is working with five construction-parties. We may thus expect very soon to be placed within a few hours' talking distance of Bombay.

A correspondent of ours offers for Dr. O'Shaughnessy's consideration a contrivance for printing electric messages with one wire only. We fear his invention is not likely to be adopted. It is very ingenious, no doubt; but we have already seen a message printed in bold Roman capitals with one wire, in this country, and we strongly doubt if Mr. Harcourt's apparatus would furnish the desideratum stated by him, of "printing a despatch in good legible type as fast as the human eye can read!"

We observe that another step has been taken for extending the utility of the telegraph betwixt Calcutta and Kedgerie. It is officially announced that messages from Calcutta will be received and made up at the Kedgerie office for despatch by the out-going mail steamer on her passing the lower station. This will be a great advantage to commercial men, correspondents of the home newspapers, and others desirous of transmitting the very latest intelligence from Calcutta. Those who avail themselves of this advantage, however, will have to pay high for it, as, according to the Hurkaru, a message of ten words, of not more than two syllables each, would cost five rupees, and two annas for each additional syllable above that quantity. This, for a short line of less than a hundred miles, is an unreasonably heavy charge, and we think that the Government could afford to reduce it considerably. It is to be hoped that the Calcutta and Kedgerie scale will not be taken as the basis of the tariff for communications on the longer lines. —Agra Messenger, March 4.

THE AGRICULTURAL RESOURCES OF GWALIOR.

We mentioned a short time ago the extraordinary cheapness at which iron was produced in the Gwalior territories. From official documents before us, we are now enabled to afford some information regarding another article, which was produced to a large extent within the same province, and forms a staple of considerable trade. Tillage or black seed is cultivated to a large extent, and oil is expressed therefrom by an exceedingly simple process, and at a little more than a nominal cost. The machinery used is a sort of mill, the cost of which is estimated at about ten rupees. The chief and most expensive part of it consists of a trunk of a tree of hard wood, hollowed out at one end, and set perpendicularly on the ground. It will last for about forty years, and during the first three years requires no repairs.

At the end of that period, however, the inner basin, in which the seed is pressed, requires annual renewal. This is made by driving down wedges of wood so as to form a new basin. The cost of repairing the machine every year is about two rupees. One man and one bullock work six hours at the time. Two men and two bullocks work twelve hours out of twenty-four, and they press twenty seers of seed, which will produce eight seers or forty per cent. of oil. The process of expressing oil is as follows: Two seers of seed are put into the mill. The seed is sprinkled three or four times with hot or cold water (in all about eight ounces) by which means the seed obtains a consistency, and forms into a sort of cake round about the sides of the mill. After the seed has been well bruised, about a seer of scalding oil is poured into it, which makes the seed pulpy, and causes a quicker extraction of its oil.

When about a seer of oil has been collected in the earthen pot placed under a hole at the bottom of the mill as a receiver, it is placed on a fire made scalding hot, and again poured into the mill. This is repeated three or four times, the quantity of oil collecting in the receiver increasing each time in nearly a double proportion, until at last it is ascertained by breaking off a piece of the cake, which by that time gets very hard and is adhering to the sides of the mill, that no more oil remains in it. This process takes about three hours.

The practise of sprinkling the seed with water after placing it in the mill may be dispensed with, but in that case the seed will take a much longer time to bruise, because so long as it is dry, and the shaft works round in the basin, a considerable portion of the seed will move round also in front of the shaft instead of being pressed against the side of the mill.

The object of adding the hot oil is to soften the seed to a pulp. The addition of hot oil may also be dispensed with, but the work which is done in three hours could not be done in double that time, and even then the oil would not be thoroughly extracted. The capital required for the undertaking consists in the cost of the mill and two bullocks. The former is ten and the latter twenty rupees, being thirty rupees altogether. The cost of labour is two annas a day for each labourer, and one anna for the feed of each bullock. The average cost of seed is two rupees per maund, which, as stated, will yield sixteen seers of oil, and is attained in twelve hours by the labour of two men and two bullocks. We have, therefore,

Cost of 1 maund of seed	..	..	Rs. 2 0
Feed of 2 bullocks	..	..	0 2
Labour of 2 men	..	..	0 4
			<hr/> Rs. 2 6

Total cost of sixteen seers of oil, which sells readily on the spot for Rs. 2 12, giving the thailies or oilmen a profit of nearly sixteen per cent. We believe there is no place in India, where, with such simple machinery, an equal quantity is extracted from the seed, but the circumstance is attributed to the quality of the seed grown, which is said to contain an extraordinary proportion of oleaginous matter. If, then, by such a simple contrivance as that used by the natives of Gwalior, so large a quantity can be extracted, it may be surmised that European presses could be worked with still greater advantage.—Hurkaru.

FEMALE INFANTICIDE IN THE PUNJAB.

No. VI. of selections from the public correspondence of the Punjab administration contains "Papers relating to Infanticide in the Punjab." The substance and purport of the most important of these documents has already been made known to the public, and the subject to which they refer has been largely and widely discussed. It is, however, a matter which so strongly appeals to the best feelings of our nature, and one of such importance to the happiness and well-doing of a most interesting nation, recently brought under British rule, that we may be excused if we notice this publication at some length.

As our readers are already aware, the murder of female infants has been found to prevail to a fearful extent almost throughout the Punjab. The fact was first brought to the notice of the higher authorities in November, 1851, by Major Lake, the deputy-commissioner of Goordaspoor, who remarked on the prevalence of child-murder among the priestly caste of the Bedees, and proposed measures for its suppression. On this the Board of Administration called for information upon the subject from the several commissioners throughout the Punjab, and the result was, abundant evidence of the practice being existent in nearly every part of the province. It prevails among the Rajpoots of the hills and the Khutrees of the plains. The Sikh priest and the Mahomedan cultivator are alike stained with this most unnatural crime. Superstition and pride are the two evil spirits by which it is chiefly prompted. According to Major Edwardes, whose admirable report has been throughout worthy of publication, the Bedees, descendants of the Baba Nanuk, cite the command of Dhurm Chund, grandson of that saint, as their authority for the destruction of their daughters. The origin of the practice is thus described:—

"The practice was first enjoined on their tribe by Dhurm Chund Bedee, grandson of Baba Nanuk. He had two sons, named Mehr Chund and Manik Chund, and one girl, who, at the proper age, was espoused to the son of a Khutree, as was then the custom of the Bedees. When the bridegroom's procession reached the house of Dhurm Chund, the door was found too narrow to admit the litter on which the boy was carried, and the riotous attendants, with more than the usual license of the occasion, proceeded to widen it by force. The incensed Bedee prayed 'that the threshold of the Khutree tribe might, in like manner, come to ruin;' and the nuptial rites were celebrated amidst mutual ill-feeling. When the bridegroom and his party were departing, the two sons of Dhurm Chund, as in duty bound, accompanied them to give them 'Rook-sut.' The weather was hot, the party out of temper; and they took a malicious pleasure in taking the young Bedees further than etiquette required. When the lads returned home, foot-sore, Dhurm Chund asked—'If the Khutrees had not bid them turn back sooner?' The boys said, 'No;' and it was then that the old man, indignant at all the insults which the bridal of his daughter had drawn down upon him from any inferior class, laid the inhuman injunction on his descendants; that in future no Bedees should let a daughter live.' The boys were horror-stricken at such an unnatural law, and with clasped hands represented to their father, that to take the life of a child was one of the greatest sins in the Shasters. But Dhurm Chund replied—

"That if the Bedees remained true to their faith, and abstained from lies and strong drink, Providence would reward them with none but male children. But at any rate, let the burden of the crime be upon his neck, and no one else's; and from that time forth Dhurm Chund's head fell forward upon his chest, and he evermore walked like one who bore an awful weight upon his shoulders.

"With consciences thus relieved, the race of Bedees continued for 300 years to murder their infant daughters: and if any Bedee, out of natural feeling, preserved a girl, he was excommunicated by the rest and treated as a common sweeper."

Such is the origin to which tradition traces the practice among the Bedees. Even among that tribe, however, it has been strengthened and confirmed, if not actually originated, by the unwillingness of the people generally to marry the female descendant of a great saint, whom they cannot employ in the humble drudgery of housekeeping.

With other classes the ungenial union of high birth and narrow means produces this monstrous form of crime. The gentility of the family is estimated by the dowry of its daughters and the bill for marriage expenses. Competition in this test has run up the total to so ruinous a figure, "that either the father's fortunes or daughter's life must too often be sacrificed," and, as Major Edwards remarks, "the choice lying with the fathers, they choose infanticide in preference to beggary or wounded vanity." The destruction of daughters would have been more complete than it was, had not a religious superstition dictated a preservation of one or two in each family. We again quote from the report of Major Edwards:—

"It was happily necessary to preserve one or two for this reason; that to receive the 'Kunecadan' is by the inconsistent law of the Shastras a great sin; but to give it, is one of the most meritorious of acts; consequently to rear a daughter and give her in marriage was necessary to every Hindoo who had ever been married himself."

"Kunecadan, or the Virgin's gift, is the water which the bride's father takes in the palm of his hand, and after the Bramins have read prayers over it, pours into the hand of the bridegroom. The sin of receiving it is thenceforth on the head of the bridegroom, until he has himself reared a daughter and given the same gift to others at her bridal. A Bramin tried to explain the sin to me as consisting in this, that 'Kunecadan' is a form of 'Poon' or religious gift, which none but a Bramin should dare to receive."

For the eradication of this horrid practice of child murder, it is necessary at once to introduce a deterring influence, and to remove as far as possible the various inducements and temptations. The needful influence is to be found in a declaration of the displeasure of Government, in the vigilance of its officers, and in the strict enforcement of the laws. The neutralization of causes is to be effected by such means as the general reduction of caste and custom, which restrict marriages to certain families and tribes. These means have been set vigorously to work, and with the happiest effects thus far. The central and district authorities of the Panjab have entered on the humane duty of suppression with energy and hearty good-will. Already the dread of punishment and the hope of support and rewarding approval have been brought into play with the most beneficial results. The crime which was once boasted of as a mark of birth, is now committed, when at all, in fear and trembling; and men can preserve their daughters and proudly show them, without fear of being treated as meekers, as one heroic Bedee father was in the days of Sikh rule.

Towards the removal of causes also, much has been done and is doing. The people have been encouraged to revise their rates of marriage expenditure, to enter into alliances for marrying and giving in marriage betwixt tribe and tribe. Chiefs and people have been assembled, in "monster meetings," presided over by the British officers of the administration, to form or ratify such rates and agreements. The recent assemblages at Umritsur and Mooltan will be in the memory of our readers. The publication now before us is largely occupied with copies of these various documents, suited to the circumstances of various classes of the people. The idea, and in part the details of this mode of eradication, are taken from the plan adopted with such success among the Chouhans of Mynpoorie, by Mr. C. Raikes, when magistrate and collector of that district.

Even before these formal and regular efforts for the suppression of infanticide in the Panjab had been commenced, however, much had been done, almost spontaneously, and by the people themselves, for the eradication of the crime. The introduction of British rule seems to have been the signal for a general though unconcerted and scarcely recognised attack on the horrible system. Nature then first ventured to protest loudly and openly against the suicidal cruelty, and her cry found an echo and an interpretation in many a heart which custom and pride had before rendered deaf to her touching appeal. Hence, even when it was discovered that the crime existed as a common practice, it was also found that it was ceasing so to exist. The Bedees, whose religion is going out of fashion, who can therefore no longer lord it over the multitude, and who regard their humiliation as a judgment for their cruel murder of their children, have been the first to break the bonds of the inhuman custom. In one district of the Jullunder alone, fifty Bedee girls had been preserved by less than three hundred families in the four years of our administration. At the same time the long-suppressed feeling broke out in the nation at large, and made such murders infamous, and to be done in secret when done at all.

The people were ready to meet, to consult, to form and execute plans and agreements for suppressing the crime, and removing the temptation to it; and Government has thus had little more to do than to direct and sustain the popular feeling on the subject.

Infanticide will soon be in the Panjab what suttee is to India at large, and what thuggee is rapidly becoming,—a thing to be wondered at in recollection. It will not entirely disappear at once, probably: here and there, men from greed, vanity, or addiction to custom, will still sacrifice their daughters; but it will be just as, for other reasons, other crimes are committed by isolated criminals. It may be necessary to hang a few such unnatural fathers, and if a few offenders in the higher classes, on the crime being fully brought home to them, were tucked up by way of warning, this proof of earnestness in the Government would expedite the complete eradication of the system. At any rate, with the feeling of the people strongly against it, as it must be when he dares to speak out, with a little extra vigilance on the part of those intrusted with the administration, and a steady, rigorous enforcement of the ordinary laws against murder, female infanticide will cease to be a system and be degraded into a mere vulgar, infamous crime.—Agri's Messenger, March 18.

THE IRON DISTRICTS OF INDIA.—NIMAR.

In the district of Mundlairsir, a portion of the territory ceded by Scindiah for the pay of the contingent, exists a bed of iron ore, said to be of almost unequalled richness. We are not in possession of the minute information we have received from some other districts; but the country along the banks of the Nerbudda, from Hosungabad to Mundlairsir, is covered with the mineral. Specimens have been examined by professional mineralogists, who have declared them to be of a richness almost unknown in the most favoured iron districts of Europe. From Burwai, a place some twenty-five miles east of Mundlairsir, to Hosungabad, the iron is raised in considerable quantities, but in the wretched fashion we have so frequently described. In Nimar, as everywhere else, the native system involves the maximum of expenditure and the minimum of result. Every circumstance, however, is favourable to the introduction of European methods of manufacture. The richest of the mines are in the neighbourhood of Poonassa, and at Poonassa there is a great bed of limestone, which as a flux would be invaluable. Fuel is plentiful and cheap. The south bank of the Nerbudda is, as it was in the days when it was ruled by Hunuman, an almost impervious forest, and along the north bank from Burwai to Nimawer, wood for charcoal is abundant. The place appears already to have attracted the attention of Europeans, and a geologist employed from a private company, has recently examined the country around Poonassa.—Friend of India.

THE NEW FURLOUGH RULES.

We continue receiving letters from all parts complaining about the mysteries of the new furlough regulations. We have published one, and here is another, also from an officer holding a very high position in the army, which we recommend to the attentive perusal of our military friends. It is one of the clearest elucidations of the new rules which we have yet seen.

"After an attentive perusal of the new furlough regulations, it appears to me, that all the papers both in India and in England, in which I have seen the subject discussed, give a more favourable interpretation to them, than, I am afraid, they will be found to warrant. So far from officers proceeding on private furlough, being allowed to draw six months' allowances, para. 4. only gives that indulgence to those proceeding 'on furlough or on leave of absence on sick certificate;' while para. 7 grants only pay of regimental rank to officers on furlough on private affairs.

"The wording of para. 4 appears to me to have reference to para. 10, and that, if I am correct, is intended to include all sick leave 'in India, at the Cape of Good Hope, and elsewhere within Indian limits,' so that an individual going on sick leave to the hills in future, as to England or any other part of the world, would draw his pay and allowances for six months only, and merely pay for the remaining period of his absence. Rather a sell for Simla and Mussoorie householders.

"Para. 6 grants a furlough of two years after ten years' service; a second furlough of two years after twenty, but none apparently after thirty years' service. This rule, I imagine, may be interpreted in many ways, and give rise to various surmises. If a man takes advantage of his first and second furloughs, is he then bound to India for life; for two periods are only allowed?

"If another officer serves uninterruptedly for twenty years in India, can he then take only two years' furlough, or may he take the whole four, or even only three? And suppose he has served thirty years without having taken any furlough at all, can he then go only for two years? Before any officer is safe in determining whether to accept the old or the new rules, it is very necessary that one point should be settled, namely, whether leave in India or within Indian limits, obtained previous to the promulgation of the new rules, is to count as service in India or not; because this will make a very material difference to officers now wishing to go home.

"Para. 11 allows an officer to count as service in India three years' leave of absence of any kind and to any part of the world, out of twenty-five years' aggregate service. If he has been more than three years absent on leave, on whatever account, within Indian limits or out of them, he cannot count more than three years. He must do twenty-two years' duty out of twenty-five years' aggregate service. But how will this affect officers now wishing to go home under the new rules? By the rules which obtained up to the publication of the new furlough regulations, an officer might have been able to produce a certificate signed by the military secretary to Government, stating that such officer had served twenty-five years in India, exclusive of three years' furlough. Supposing that officer has not been home for ten years, and then on sick certificate, but now wishes to take his furlough, under the impression that, having served twenty-five years in India, he is entitled by para. 11 to add his first three years' furlough to his time of service, or count the time of his second furlough. But what it is very necessary to know is, whether it is intended that leave obtained in India previous to the promulgation of the new rules is now to be brought against an officer applying for furlough on sick certificate or private affairs?"

"If so, many who are now entitled to count twenty-five years' service in India, exclusive of furlough, would not then count twenty, as, besides their previous furlough, already deducted from their time of service, all leave within Indian limits would be added to the deduction. Thus, if an officer had attained an aggregate of three years' leave in India during an aggregate service of twenty-five years in the country, he could not now go home and count his time in England as service. It might be said to him 'You have had your three years, which you have counted, and may continue to count as service, but no advantage by the new rules at all will you get.' Why, an officer very lately appointed to staff employ has been one half his period of service on leave.

"The following table, which I have compiled, will show how lieutenant-colonels and majors would stand in point of income under the old and new rules.

"Under the new rules, a lieutenant-colonel on eighteen months' sick leave to England would draw as follows:—

Pay for the first 6 months .....	Rs. 6,013	8
Remaining 12 months .....	2,934	0
	Rs. 8,947	8

Pay of a major on 18 months' sick leave as above, first 6 months .....	Rs. 4,555	2
Remaining 12 months .....	2,191	8
	Rs. 6,746	10

"The above officers would therefore draw as follows under new and old rules, &c.

	Lieutenant Colonels.	Majors.
New rule .....	Rs. 8,947 8	Rs. 6,746 10
Old rule .....	4,400 0	3,287 4
Difference	Rs. 4,546 8	Rs. 3,459 6

"Now, this apparently entails a loss of Rs. 4,546 8 and Rs. 3,459 6 upon the Government for every lieutenant-colonel or major that may go to England on sick certificate under the new rules; but mark the immense advantage which John Company gains on the other hand, by such officer not proceeding to the Cape instead.

Pay of lieutenant-colonel at the Cape for eighteen months .....	Rs. 18,045
By the new rules, if going to England, as shown, he would draw only .....	8,947
Gain to John Company .....	Rs. 9,098
Pay of major at the Cape .....	Rs. 13,599 6
Deduct, as shown by the new rules ..	6,746 10
Gain to John Company .....	Rs. 6,852 12

"The Government, therefore, by every lieutenant-colonel or major whom they can coax by the new regulations to go to England instead of proceeding on the old rules to the Cape, or within Indian limits for a similar period, actually saves Rs. 9,098 and Rs. 6,852 12 respectively. Moreover, by the old rules, a lieutenant-colonel, or any other officer, may go to the Cape for two years, come to Calcutta for a day, and return to the Cape for two years more, on the same pay.—Vide Pattie, Angelo, &c. So you see, that before an officer is safe in deciding whether to go to England on the old or new rules, the late promulgation of the new furlough regulations requires considerable elucidation."—Hurkaru.

THE LONDON MAIL of February 8th arrived at Calcutta March 16th (per Bombay).

EXAMINATION IN NATIVE LANGUAGES.—The Calcutta Gazette of Wednesday, March 1st, announces that military officers who desire to pass in the languages, will in future be examined by a sub-committee of the presidency committee of examiners. The duty was formerly intrusted to the examiners of the College of Fort William, which has been abolished.

MR. R. MANDERSON, of the Bengal civil service, and Mr. P. Carnegie, deputy-collector, Allahabad, have published an "Elementary Treatise on Summary Suits."

JOTEERSAUD.—Another portion of Lalla Joteersaud's accounts with Government, amounting to one lakh and seventy-five thousand rupees, have been passed and paid.

CIVIL CODE OF PROCEDURE.—It is said that Mr. Harrington, a judge of the Sudder Court of Agra, while employed at the presidency conjointly with Mr. Mills in framing the code of civil procedure, is to receive a monthly salary of Rs. 4,350.

BELLEW v. EDEN.—The crim. con. case of the Rev. J. C. M. Bellw v. the Hon. Ashley Eden, came on in the Supreme Court of Calcutta, on Friday, the 3rd March. The suit was undefended, but mitigation of damages was sought on the ground of the youth of the defendant. Damages were finally given for 500*l*.

THE LUCKNOW correspondent of the Englishman states, that Captain Need, agent for a company in England, enjoys almost a monopoly of the smaller commerce of Oude. His former relations with the country give him influence, his goods are not taxed, and his boats pass down the rivers without obstruction from the land-holders. The writer declares that the Gogra has always four and a half feet water, and that steamers might ascend in the very hottest season of the year. He contends that if a good road were constructed, connecting the river and Lucknow, the city would become a place of first-rate commercial importance.

MAHARAJAH DHULEEP SINGH, in charge of Dr. Login, leaves Futehgurh for Calcutta, on the 5th March. He will reside at Government House, Barrackpore.

ASSAM TEA COMPANY.—The annual meeting of the Assam Tea Company was held in Calcutta on the 1st March. The report submitted by the directors was satisfactory. The crop of the season amounted to 3,66,687 lbs. of tea, being an increase of 96,647 lbs. over that of the previous year. The plantations are flourishing, and the breadth of land under cultivation is still increasing. The company, however, complain of the defects in the present system of communication with Assam, and of the deficient supply of labour. Why do they not imitate the planters of Guiana, and import Chinese?

THE GREAT TIBETAN ROAD.—A correspondent says that the great Tibetan road from Simla is not yet finished. From Simla to Cheenve, a distance of 185 miles, but little has been done, and from thence to the Chinese frontier, not even the outline has been commenced. There are great engineering difficulties. In some places, hundreds of feet of rock must be blown away, and in others, walls 30 feet high must be erected "to get a * * foundation for the road." The writer, however, speaks in high terms of the commercial advantages of the route, and mentions that he has met Russian traders in Ladakh.

ALLAHABAD.—A letter from Allahabad says:—"The 25th N.I., commanded by Lieut.-Col. Sewell, was reviewed a few days ago by the commandant of the station, Col. Moule, and it was one of the best sights we have had here for a long time. Nothing could have been better than the marching and manoeuvring of this regiment, the whole body marching as one man, one heavy distinct tread, and the firing was most perfect and regular. The Lieut.-Colonel's voice was heard sharp and clear throughout the field, as it used to be on the boards of your old Drury, and must of itself have inspired the men to execute the manoeuvres well. There was not a mistake, in fact, throughout the day, and I heard that Col. Moule is going to make a special report of his satisfaction to the Major-General at Cawnpore."—Bengal Hurkaru, March 7.

COLONEL LISTER.—From letters from the Cossyah Hills, we are sorry to learn that the health of Lieut.-Col. F. G. Lister, the political agent, is so impaired, that he contemplates coming down to the Presidency on sick certificate, and thence proceeding to the Cape, as recommended by his medical adviser.—Hurkaru, March 10.

ARCHDEACON PRATT.—We are sorry to hear that the venerable Archdeacon Pratt has not received any material benefit from his trip to Tumlook, and that a voyage to Europe has been recommended as affording his only chance of a restoration to health.—Hurkaru, March 14.

THE I. G. S. N. COMPANY.—At the half-yearly general meeting of shareholders of the I. G. S. N. Company, held at the company's offices yesterday evening, only ten shareholders attended, and the meeting was consequently ineffective for the transaction of business. This was not what had been anticipated, as the chairman and one of the directors had entered a protest against the 7th clause of the report, in which a statement made by the chairman at the last meeting was alleged to have been reviewed and found to be incorrect. It was expected that the three directors, whose voice had been potential to introduce this clause, would have attended to support their conduct in so doing against their two protesting colleagues; but the majority did not show. This seems to us hardly fair. Some degree of censure is implied in the report by the marked contradiction of a statement made by the chairman; an opportunity should therefore have been given to the latter of maintaining his assertion, or of explaining how he was led to make it.—Hurkaru, March 14.

KISHNAGHUR.—The following is from our Kishnaghur correspondent:—"We had a dreadful fire at Gouary a few days ago, which consumed an innumerable number of huts, and even destroyed or otherwise injured pucha buildings. The fire originated in an accident. A man, who was cooking his food, happened to go out of the kitchen after putting some oil in a frying-pan which was on the fire. The oil ignited, the flame caught the jaffrey-work, and soon set the house on fire. The darogah is engaged in taking a list of the huts burnt, for the information of his superior the magistrate.—There is a case pending before the sessions judge, committed by the magistrate, in which a fisherman lost his life from a most trivial cause. Three fishermen were washing their nets in a stream, when they commenced discussing some question connected with their trade. One of their number, an old man, happening to say something in the warmth of debate, one of his young companions took offence, and taking a stick which was lying close by, gave the old man a blow on the head, which instantly killed him."—Hurkaru, March 16.

SECRETARY TO THE COUNCIL OF EDUCATION.—The appointment is to be made over to the Uncovenanted Educational Service, and given to the most efficient and deserving man in that branch, with a salary of Company's Rupees 1,000 a month. This is the proper way to arrange, so as to get a thoroughly efficient and active secretary; and we have to congratulate that very deserving and highly useful branch of the public service, the uncovenanted educationals, on having at last handed over to them—for a perpetuity, we hope—an appointment which was always of right theirs. There are three favourites in the field for the vacant appointment; but if we may be permitted to make a guess, we should say that Mr. Woodrow will be the new secretary of the Council of Education, and a fitter it would not be easy to find.—Calcutta Morning Chronicle.

THE BETHUNE TESTIMONIAL.—We understand that the committee of the Bethune Testimonial met yesterday morning at the chambers of the Chief Justice, to take into consideration the best mode of expending the fund collected, so as to do honour to the memory of the deceased, and at the same time benefit those whose welfare he had so much at heart.—We believe that a position for founding scholarships in connection with the Bethune Female School met with the most general approval on the part of the committee, but as it appears upon reference to the prospectus by which the subscriptions to the fund were originally set on foot that the committee was under a promise to take the opinion of the subscribers generally, as to the disposal of the fund, the meeting was postponed, for the purpose of calling one of a more general character, at which all subscribers might be present.—Hurkaru, March 8.

COAL.—The Calcutta journals republish a report by Captain James upon several descriptions of Indian coal. The most interesting facts relate to the comparative usefulness of the coals for the production of gas, which may be estimated from the following table:—

Names of the Places from whence the Coal comes.	Cubic feet of Gas per ton.	Illuminating power of Gas in candles.
Neighbourhood of Sylhet	10,700	14
Singrowlee, South of Mirzapore	10,400	15.5
Cossiah Hills	10,200	15
Chota Nagpore	9,600	14.5
Raneegunge (Burdwan)	9,400	13.5
Garesfield (Newcastle)	10,800	13.4

The Sylhet coal, therefore, is the best, and the Raneegunge coal the worst for purposes of illumination.

ALLOWANCES TO SIKH PRISONERS.—The Englishman states that the following allowances have been granted to the Sikh prisoners of state:—

Chutter Singh, per annum	Rs. 8,000
Shere Singh	6,000
Utter Singh	2,400
Dewan Hakim Roy	1,200
Kishen Koomar	600
Oojim Singh	600
Lall Singh	840
Motabe Singh	840
Oomed Singh	4,800
Jugget Chuud	2,400

Rs. 28,480

THE SHIP ALFRED.—Those who complain of the frauds in trade committed by the natives of India, would do well to look at two bolts taken out of the Alfred when in dock. One of them is a keel bolt about an inch and a half in diameter. It consists of some base metal, apparently an alloy of lead and copper, coated over with a thin surface of good copper, about an eighth of an inch thick. Thus the owner of the ship has been defrauded by being charged the price of copper for this worthless composition, but this is the least part of the crime, for the ship being fastened with bolts, certainly not of half the intended strength, might have been destroyed by an accident which would otherwise have done her only a slight injury. It is rather fortunate that she has been examined here, and these worthless materials replaced by good solid metal. The owner of the Alfred will, no doubt, take pains to sift this fraud to the bottom, for this may not be the only ship which has been so sent to sea, and if he has been in the habit of contracting for the fastenings, he may have been equally cheated in many other instances. On looking at one of the bolts, we observe that the base metal is quite visible where the bolt was clenched; so that it can hardly have escaped the notice of the workmen employed in fastening the ship. We suppose the facts of this case will not fail to be reported to Lloyds, and it is to be hoped the fraud will be traced to its origin.—Englishman, March 7.

DEATH OF COLONEL SIR JAMES TENNANT.—We have to record, with much regret, the decease, at Meerut, on Monday evening, the 6th of March, of Colonel Sir James Tennant, K.C.B., of the Bengal Artillery, Brigadier of the 1st Class, Commanding the Station of Lahore. His remains were interred yesterday evening, with the customary military honours, in the Artillery burying ground, followed by nearly the whole of the officers at Meerut, and many civil and military officers from Anarkullee and Lahore. The funeral cortege was formed by the men of the Artillery Division, the flank companies of H.M.'s 10th Foot, and the 39th Native Infantry, the whole commanded by Lieut.-Colonel Mowatt, minute guns, corresponding with the age of the gallant old veteran, being fired by Horse Artillery guns, during the time the procession was in motion. After the coffin had been committed to the grave, the Artillery fired three salves, the Infantry three volleys, and the ceremonies for the departed were concluded. Few officers in the Bengal army have been more actively engaged than Sir James Tennant. During forty-eight years' service, he has always been to the front "ubique," according to the expressive motto of his regiment. In Boondelkund, in Oudh, at Kalinzer, at Bhurtpoor, under Sir David Ochterlony, and under Lord Hastings, at Maharajpoor, and at Chillianwala, as a subaltern, as a captain, as a field officer; and, finally, at Goojrat, as brigadier-general of artillery, and virtual conqueror of the Sikhs, the gallant veteran earned distinctions for himself, and for his corps, which it has been the lot of very few of his cotemporaries, or even of his predecessors, to achieve. Sir James Tennant was also a distinguished mathematician. We sincerely condole with his family on the great loss they have sustained; for we have reason to believe that, in private life, he was as amiable a man as he was a distinguished soldier. By the death of Brigadier Sir James Tennant, the command of the station devolves on Colonel Caley, of the 64th native infantry, the senior officer present. Captain Young succeeds to the temporary command of the 64th native infantry.—Lahore Chronicle, March 8.

MILITARY ON-DITS.—The left wing of H. M.'s 81st foot reached Meerut on the 28th February.—The Gazette announces the transfer of H. M.'s 8th regiment of foot from the Bombay to the Bengal presidency.—The head quarters of the artillery have arrived at Meerut.—The 35th L. I. are expected at Delhi on the 22nd and 23rd of March.—The 41st N.I. may be expected at Delhi on the 15th or 16th of March.—We are sorry to hear that Major Burt, pension paymaster, Sirhind division, has been suffering from paralysis; he is now on his way to Calcutta, having been ordered to Australia.—The report of abolishing the station of Umballa gains ground, the troops now stationed there to be removed to Loodhiana. It is also said that there is to be a great addition made to the number of troops, both native and European, throughout the Punjab.—Letters from Dinapore mention that the 38th regt. N. I. arrived there on the 2nd of March, halted four days to change some of the boats, and receive pay, and started again in the morning of the 7th, a gale blowing. They expect to arrive at Cawnpore on the 12th of April, as they disembark at Benares, and march from that station. Weather delightfully cool.—We believe there is some probability of a wing of the 46th N.I. being ordered to Roorkee, in order to assist at the ceremony attendant on the opening of the Solani aqueduct on the 8th proximo.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS.

THE FURLOUGH REGULATIONS.

Head Quarters, Camp, Kumora Damora, Feb. 23, 1854.—With reference to the 12th para. of the Honourable the Court of Directors' despatch published in Government General Order No. 110, of the 1st instant, his excellency the Commander-in-Chief desires to call the attention of all officers concerned to the necessity for their intimating, when applying for furlough or leave of absence, whether or not they desire to retain what may be considered the advantages of the old regulations; as, in the absence of any such intimation, it will be presumed that they prefer to adopt the new rules; and transmitting officers will be careful not to forward to head-quarters applications deficient in this respect.

MOOLTAN PRIZE MONEY.

Fort William, Feb. 17, 1854.—No. 158 of 1854.—The Most Noble the Governor-General of India in Council is pleased, in pursuance of H. M.'s warrant and the orders of the Hon. the Court of Directors, as published in G.O.P.C., No. 674, dated Dec. 19, 1851, and G.G.O. No. 496, dated Aug. 13, 1852, to direct the publication of the following statements, Nos. I. and II., relative to the distribution of the booty taken in the city of Mooltan and at the forts of Mooltan and Chinoote.

2. Prize money to the captors being payable less the amount received by them as donation batta; the statement No. II. shows the sum now receivable by certain ranks.

3. Such of the European commissioned officers on the Bengal establishment as are entitled to the difference between prize money and donation batta, will submit bills through the presidency paymaster to the military auditor-general, who, as a member of the general prize committee, will pass them for payment if unobjectionable.

4. The claims of the bhithies and bullock drivers entitled to prize money, but who have not received donation batta, will be submitted in the usual manner through regimental and station prize committees, in the forms and manner at present in use.

5. After the lapse of twelve months from the commencement of the distribution, the general prize committee will forward to the secretary to Government in the military department a return of the European officers who are entitled to difference between prize money and donation batta, but who, from having died or left India before the distribution commenced, may not have received their shares: when the return shall have been prepared and transmitted, no payments must be made in India on account of the shares therein specified.

The claims of the officers and men belonging to the Bombay establishment will be adjusted at that presidency as heretofore.

No. I.

Amount at the credit of the Mooltan Prize Fund on the 28th December, 1853, with interest to 19th December, 1851 .. .. Co.'s Rs. 16,77,340 10 5

Deduct:

Commission of the prize agents at  $\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. .. Rs. 25,160 1 9
Less the amount already received by them .. 21,488 0 0
3,672 1 9

Leaves .. Co.'s Rs. 16,73,668 8 8

Deduct  $\frac{1}{4}$  share for the Commander-in-Chief, 2,09,208 9 1

Leaves for distribution, Co.'s Rs. 14,64,459 15 7

RANK.	Number of each Rank.	Number of Shares for each Rank.	Amount for each Share.	Total.
Major Generals and Brigadier Generals .. .. .	7	1,600	9,876 10 9	69,136 11 3
Colonels .. .. .	7	600	3,950 10 8	27,654 10 8
Lieut. Colonels, Superintending Surgeons, Adjutant Generals, Quarter-Master Generals, Judge Advocate Generals, Commissary Generals, and Captains of the Indian Navy ..	59	360	2,370 6 5	1,39,853 10 7
Majors, Commanders of the Indian Navy, Deputy Adjutant General, Deputy Quarter-General, and Deputy Commissary General .. .. .	98	240	1,580 4 3	1,54,866 0 6
Captains, Surgeons, Brigade Majors, Regimental Paymasters, Assistants and Deputy Assistants, Adjutant General, Assistants and Deputy Assistants Quarter-Master General, Assistants and Deputy Assistants Commissary General, Surgeon to the Commander-in-Chief, Chaplains and Aides-de-Camp, Lieutenants and Masters of Indian Navy .. .. .	363	120	790 2 2	2,86,819 2 6
Lieutenants, Cornets, Ensigns, 2nd-Lieutenants, Assistant Surgeons, Veterinary Surgeons, Regimental Adjutants, Quarter-Master of Queen's Troops, Deputy Commissary of Ordnance, Deputy Assistant Commissary of Ordnance, Provost Marshal, and Unconvenanted Physician, 2nd-Master, Ship's Clerk, Ship's Gunner, Boatswain, Engineers, and Assistant Surgeon of the Navy .. .. .	1,064	60	395 1 1	4,28,253 6 4
Conductors, Riding Masters, Apothecaries, Stewards, and Deputy Provost Marshals ..	52	15	98 12 3	5,135 13 0
Sub-Conductors, Assistant Apothecaries, Assistant Stewards, Regimental Sergeant-Majors, Quarter-Master Sergeants, Staff Sergeants, and Orderly Room Clerks ..	319	3	19 12 1	6,301 14 7
Brigade and Colour Sergeants, Sergeants, European Drum, Trumpet, and Fife Majors ..	710	2	13 2 8	9,348 5 4
Corporals, Bombardiers, European Drummers, Trumpeters, Rough Riders, Gunners, Privates, Farrier Majors and Farriers, Boatswain's Mates, Armourers, Blacksmiths, Quarter-Master, Captain Forecastle, Ship's Cook, Engineer Apprentices, Hospital Apprentices, Seamen and other Europeans of the Indian Navy .. .. .	12,509	1	6 9 4	82,350 14 8
Subadar Majors .. .. .	26	8	52 10 10	1,369 9 8
Subadars, Ressaldars, Ressaldars, and Woordee Majors .. .. .	453	7	46 1 5	20,878 1 9
Jemadars and Naib Ressaldars .. .. .	570	3	19 12 1	11,260 7 6
Havildars, native Drum, Trumpet, Fife and Bugle Majors, native Doctors, Sirdars of Ordnance Drivers, and Hospital Assistants .. .. .	2,550	1 $\frac{1}{2}$	9 14 0	25,181 4 0
Naicks, Tindals, Tent Lascars, Nishanbuddars, Naggarchees, Kote Duffadars, Duffadars, Trumpeters, Drummers, Buglers, Sepoys, Troopers, Sowars, Privates, Farriers, Bhithies, Bullock and Ordnance Drivers, Syces, Grasscutters, Nokees, native Rough Riders, Laboratory Men, Sirdars, Workmen, Chowdry, Guides and Bildars, Stokers, Bhandaries, Lascars and other natives of the Indian Navy ..	44,658	$\frac{1}{2}$ rds.	4 6 2 $\frac{1}{2}$	1,96,018 6 1 $\frac{1}{2}$
Lost by fractions .. .. .				31 9 1 $\frac{1}{2}$
Total Company's Rupees .. .. .				14,64,459 15 7

No. II.

Comparative Statement showing the Amount of Prize-Money divisible to the Army of the Punjab, and the Amount already admitted as Donation Batta to the Officers and Men, as also the Sum now payable.

RANK.	Amount of Prize Money.	Amount of Donation Batta already received.	Amount now receivable.
Commander-in-Chief .. .. .	2,09,208 9 1	35,598 0 0	1,73,610 9 1
Major Generals and Brigadier Generals .. .. .	9,876 10 9	12,420 0 0	Nil
Colonels .. .. .	3,950 10 8	4,565 10 0	Ditto
Brevet Colonels .. .. .	3,950 10 8	3,652 8 0	298 2 8
Lieutenant Colonels and Captains of the Indian Navy .. .. .	2,370 6 5	3,652 8 0	Nil
Brevet Lieutenant Colonels, Adjutant Generals, and Quarter-Master General, } being Regimental Majors .. .. .	2,370 6 5	2,739 2 0	Ditto
Brevet Lieutenant Colonels, and Judge Advocate Generals, being Regimental Captains and Superintending Surgeons .. .. .	2,370 6 5	1,095 12 0	1,274 10 5
Majors .. .. .	1,580 4 3	2,739 2 0	Nil
Deputy Adjutant General, Deputy Commissary General and } being Regimental Captains, .. .. .	1,580 4 3	1,095 12 0	484 8 3
Brevet Majors, .. .. .	790 2 2	1,095 12 0	Nil
Captains and Surgeons .. .. .	790 2 2	730 8 0	59 10 2
Brevet Captains being Regimental Lieutenants and Surgeon to the Commander-in-Chief, being Assistant Surgeons .. .. .	790 2 2	1,095 12 0	Nil
Brigade Majors .. .. .	790 2 2	730 8 0	59 10 2
Regimental Paymasters .. .. .	790 2 2	547 14 0	242 4 2
Assistants and Deputy Assistants Adjutants General .. .. .	790 2 2	1,095 12 0	Nil
Assistants and Deputy Assistants Qr. Mast. General .. .. .	790 2 2	730 8 0	59 10 2
Assistants and Deputy Assistants Commissary General and Aides-de-Camp .. .. .	790 2 2	547 14 0	242 4 2
Chaplains, Lieutenants, and Masters of the Indian Navy .. .. .	790 2 2	1,095 12 0	Nil
Lieutenants, Assistant Surgeons, Veterinary Surgeons, Regimental Adjutants, and Quarter-Master of Queen's Troops, being Lieutenants, Deputy Commissary of Ordnance, Provost Marshal, Uncovenanted Physicians, and 2nd-Masters of the Indian Navy .. .. .	790 2 2	730 8 0	Ditto
Cornets, Ensigns, 2nd-Lieutenants, Regimental Adjutants, and Quarter-Master of Queen's troops, being Regimental Ensigns, and Deputy Assistant Commissary of Ordnance, Ship's Clerk, Gunner, Boatswain, and Engineers of the Indian Navy .. .. .	395 1 1	547 14 0	Ditto
Assistant Surgeon of the Navy .. .. .	395 1 1	1,095 12 0	Ditto
Conductors, Riding Masters, Apothecaries, Stewards, and Deputy Provost Marshal .. .. .	98 12 3	365 4 0	Ditto
Sub-Conductors .. .. .	19 12 1	273 14 0	Ditto
Assistant Apothecaries and Assistant Stewards .. .. .	19 12 1	180 0 0	Ditto
Regimental Sergeant Majors, Quarter-Master Sergeants, Staff Sergeants, and Orderly-Room Clerks .. .. .	19 12 1	38 0 0	Ditto
Brigade and Colour Sergeants, Sergeants, European Drum, Trumpet, and Fife Majors .. .. .	13 2 8	38 0 0	Ditto
Corporals, Bombardiers, European Drummers, Trumpeters, Rough Riders, Gunners, Privates, Farrier Majors, Farriers, and Hospital Apprentices .. .. .	6 9 4	38 0 0	Ditto
Boatswain Mates, Armourers, Blacksmiths, Quarter-Master, Captain Forecastle, Ship's Cook, Engineers, Apprentices, Seamen, and other Europeans of the Indian Navy .. .. .	6 9 4	41 0 0	Ditto
Subadar Majors .. .. .	52 10 10	{ C. 240 0 0 I. 180 0 0 }	Ditto
Subadars .. .. .	46 1 5	{ C. 240 0 0 I. 180 0 0 }	Ditto
Reesaldars and Reesaidars .. .. .	46 1 5	240 0 0	Ditto
Woordie Majors .. .. .	46 1 5	96 0 0	Ditto
Jemadars .. .. .	19 12 1	{ C. 96 0 0 I. 90 0 0 }	Ditto
Naib Reesaldars .. .. .	19 12 1	96 0 0	Ditto
Havildars and Native Doctors .. .. .	9 14 0	60 0 0	Ditto
Native Drum, Trumpet, Fife and Bugle Majors, Sirdars of Ordnance Drivers, and Hospital Assistants .. .. .	9 14 0	18 0 0	Ditto
Naicks .. .. .	24	{ C. 48 0 0 I. 60 0 0 }	Ditto
Kote Duffadars .. .. .	4 6 24	60 0 0	Ditto
Nishanbuddars, Naggarchees, and Duffadars .. .. .	4 6 24	48 0 0	Ditto
Trumpeters, Drummers, Buglers, Sepoys, Troopers, Sowars, Privates, Farriers, Ordnance Drivers, Native Rough Riders and Bildars, Stokers, Bhandaries, Lascars, and other natives of the Indian Navy .. .. .	4 6 24	18 0 0	Ditto
Bheesties and Bullock Drivers .. .. .	4 6 24	* 0 0	Ditto
Tindals, Tent Lascars, Bheesties, Bullock Drivers, Syces, Grass-cutters, Nokeobs .. .. .	4 6 24	12 0 0	Ditto
Laboratory Men, Workmen, Chowdry, and Guides .. .. .	4 6 24

LIEUTENANT E. PLOWDEN.

Fort William, March 7, 1854.—The following paragraphs of a military letter, No. 5, from the Honourable the Court of Directors to the Governor of the presidency of Fort William in Bengal, dated 8th January, 1854, are published for general information:—

1. In consideration of the earnest recommendation of the court-martial in favour of Lieutenant Edmund Plowden, and of the numerous testimonials in his behalf from officers in the army, including Lieutenant-General Sir George Pollock, G.C.B., and Lieutenant-General Sir John Littler, G.C.B., we are disposed to consider that he may be granted prospectively the advantage of the vacancy which occurred in the 5th light cavalry, whilst his case was under reference to us by your Government.

2. Upon these grounds, and in consideration of all the circumstances of the case, we have resolved that Mr. Plowden shall, from the 16th November, 1853, be restored to the service with the rank of captain, and that on and from the same date he shall be placed on the retired list on a pension equivalent to the half-pay of captain, in substitution for the pension previously granted to him.

3. This resolution has received the concurrence of the Board of Commissioners for the Affairs of India.

BURMAH MEDAL.

March 10, 1854.—No. 261 of 1854.—With reference to Government General Order No. 88 of the 23rd January last, intimating the grant of a medal to commemorate the services rendered by the forces employed against the Burmese, the Most Noble the Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct that all the officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the several naval and military forces that were employed during the progress of the war with Burmah, and who, under the notification in the foreign department, No. 226, dated 30th June, 1853,* are considered entitled to the donation batta therein authorized, shall be entitled to the medal in question.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BEAUVAIS, E. T. to be post. mr. of Indore.
 BELL, W. to be a mem. of the local committee for the management of the charitable dispensary at Rungpore.
 BIRCH, E. G. to be superint. of the rev. surv. in north div.
 BRODHURST, W. H. to be jt. mag. and dep. coll. of Furreedpore.
 COCKBURN, G. F. coll. of Midnapore, to offic. also as mag. dur. abs. of Bright.
 DALRYMPLE, J. W. to be coll. of Bhaugulpore, March 10.
 FERGUSON, H. D. H. to be jt. mag. and dep. coll. of Noacolly, but cont. to offic. as mag. 24 Pergunnahs, March 10.
 FLETCHER, G. C. to be coll. of Monghyr, March 10.
 GUBBINS, M. R. to offic. as agt. to lieut. gov. in Rohilcund.
 HORNE, C. jt. mag. to be a memb. of loc. committee of pub. instron. at Bareilly.
 KINLOCK, C. W. perm. to resign the Company's service, fr. March 16.
 LATOUR, E. F. ret. to du. March 2; re-attached to Bengal div.; to offic. as coll. of Bhaugulpore dur. abs. of Dalrymple, March 10.
 LILLEY, J. E. S. to be mag. of Nuddea, March 10.
 LIMOND, C. to be an asst. to mag. and coll. of Bhaugulpore, with pow. of a jt. mag. and dep. coll.
 LONGMORE, W. J. to be a jt. mag. and dep. coll. 2nd grade, in Cuttack, March 10.
 MANSEL, C. Q. to be commissr. of Nagpore.
 NELSON, H. to be mag. of Dinagore, March 10.
 PASSANAH, G. to offic. as prov. sudder ameen of Orai, dur. abs. of Andrews.
 PEARSON, E. S. to be mag. of Burdwan, March 10.
 RIDDELL, H. P. A. B. to assu. ch. as director gen. of post office in India.
 THOMASON, J. G. to offic. with pow. of joint mag. and dep. coll. of Pilleebheet Bareilly, in suc. to Hon. R. Drummond.
 UNWIN, H. to offic. as agt. to lt. gov. of Agra, March 3.
 WATSON, J. to be superint. of the rev. surv. in west div. March 10.
 WOODROW, H. to be secry. to the council of education and book agent, March 10.
 YOUNG, J. H. ret. to duty, March 2; re-attached to Bengal div.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ANDREWS, T. fr. March 1 to Nov. 30, on m.c.
 BAYLEY, E. C. 2 mo. fr. Feb. 15, prep. to proceeding on furl. to Europe.
 BRIGHT, G. 1 mo.
 EDGEWORTH, M. P. 3 weeks.
 ELLIOTT, A. J. 1 month.
 GRANT, J. 1 month.
 HOGG, F. F. leave cancelled.
 KINLOCK, C. W. 20 days prep. to ret. fr. the serv. prep. leave canc.
 LOWE, W. H. leave canc. fr. date on which he resumed ch. of his duties.
 MACDONALD, A. G. 1 month.
 MANDERSON, R. leave canc. fr. date on which he resumed his duties.
 MARRIOTT, R. to England on furl.
 MONTRESSOR, C. F. to England.
 PASLEY, C. B. 10 days.
 TUCKER, H. C. 16 days.

ECCELESIASTICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

STURROCK, Rev. W. to England on furl.
 WALKER, Rev. R. O. M.A. ret. to du. March 2, to be chaplain of Dunshaie for a period of 2 years, March 15.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ABBOTT, Brev. maj. J. art. to be maj. fr. Mar. 6, in succ. to Tennant dec. to be agt. for manufacture of gunpowder at Ishapore, succ. to Anderson, prom.

ADAMS, Lieut. R. R. 12th N.I. fr. Sept. 3, 1853, in suc. to Capt. T. Cole, res.
 ANDERSON, Maj. W. c.B. art. to be lieut. col. fr. Mar. 6, in succ. to Tennant, dec.
 ASHBURNER, 2nd Lieut. to be 1st lieut. of art. fr. Jan. 23, in suc. to Voyle, prom.
 BAMFORD, Ens. H. F. 38th N.I. to be lieut. fr. Mar. 7, in succ. to Nepean, dec.
 BAZELEY, Capt. F. D. to be maj. of art. fr. Jan. 23, in succ. to Day, prom.
 BOULDERSON, Lieut. S. S. 37th N.I. serv. pl. at disp. of for. dept.
 BROCKMAN, Capt. H. J. 4th asst. to be 3rd asst. to Mysore commiss.
 BRODIE, Lieut. and adjt. F. W. actg. commdt. of cavy. United Molwa cont. to be actg. commdt. of inf. when relieved by Capt. Forrest.
 CARTER, Ens. A. H. 73rd N.I. passed colloq. ex. Feb. 15.
 CAULFIELD, 2nd Lieut. H. 1st Eur. Fus. to be 1st lieut. fr. March 3, in suc. to Caulfield prom.
 CAVE, Lieut. G. N. to act as pol. agt. Cossiah Hills dur. abs. of Lester on leave.
 CHRISTOPHER, Lieut. L. R. to be supt. of Abkaree Mehal in the cantonment of Allahabad, March 7.
 CLARK, Capt. T. 3rd asst. to commiss. and actg. superint. of Astagram, to be superint. of Astagram.
 CORBET, Lieut. A. F. 43rd L. I. to act as interp. and qr. mr. v. Pogson.
 CORFIELD, Lieut. Col. F. B. fr. 48th to 55th N.I.
 CORFIELD, Capt. A. H. inv. est. perm. to res. and draw his pay, &c., fr. paymr. at Bombay.
 DAVIES, Lieut. W. G. 71st N.I. serv. pl. at disp. of For. dept. to be an assist. commiss. in the Punjab, Mar. 14.
 DAY, Brev. Lieut. Col. E. F. to be lieut. col. of art. fr. Jan. 23, in suc. to Huthwaite, prom.
 DODDS, Capt. R. S. supt. of Astagram to be superint. of Chittledroog.
 DOUGLAS, Ens. H. Mc D. recently posted to 67th N.I. to do duty with 42nd L.I. at Benares, until the arrival of his corps.
 D'O'LY, Lieut. G. F. assist. commiss. in Pegu. assd. ch. of his office in the Promie dist. Feb. 4.
 DREW, Lieut. H. R. 8th N.I. ret'd. to duty, Mar. 5.
 DUNCAN, Lieut. A. to be capt. on the Veteran Estab. in consequence of his long (62 years) and meritorious service, Mar. 3.
 ELLIOTT, Capt. W. R. 8th N.I. serv. pl. at disp. of for. dept.
 FORREST, Capt. L. T. 40th N.I. resu. ch. of his appt. as commdt. of cavy. united Molwa cont. Feb. 24.
 GARDNER, Lieut. H. C. 38th N.I. to be adj. v. Lieut. F. R. M. Gosset, res.; to be capt. fr. March 7, in succ. to Nepean, dec.
 GILL, Lieut. P. H. P. 37th N.I. to res. ch. of interp. and qr. mr. estab. consequent on his having app. to have his leave cancelled.
 GREATHREAD, 1st Lieut. W. W. H. engr. to offic. as exec. engineer of 1st or Dum-Dum div. dept. public works, v. Loftie.
 HAMILTON, Capt. O. 7th L. C. to be an a.-d.-c. on personal staff of C.-in-C.
 HERBERT, Lieut. C. 18th N.I. to be offic. com. of Calcutta N. militia dur. abs. of Capt. Raleigh.
 HILL, Brig. W. assum. com. of Gwalior cont. fr. Parsons, Mar. 14.
 HOPKINS, Sergt.-maj. John, 1st Eur. Bengal fus. to be ensign unattached.
 HUGHES, Lieut. H. J. 62nd N.I. to be adjt. v. Thomson, prec. on furl.
 HUTHWAITE, Lieut. col. E. to be lieut. col. com. art. fr. 23rd Jan. in suc. to Col. W. H. L. Frith, dec.
 JAMES, Capt. T. resu. ch. of Kotan conting. fr. Capt. J. B. Denny.
 JOHNSON, Lieut. A. B. 5th N.I. d. 'd. 4 Sikh local corps, to be an assist. commiss. in the Punjab, to cont. to d. d. with 4th Sikh local corps till further orders.
 JOHNSTON, Lieut. A. B. 5th N.I. serv. pl. at disp. of for. dept.
 LAWRENCE, Capt. J. G. 24th N.I. ret. to duty, Mar. 9.
 LOCH, Lieut. H. B. 3rd L.C. perm. to res. adjutancy of corps.
 MALLESON, Lieut. G. B. 33rd N.I. perm. attached to army comm. dept.
 MACMULLEN, Capt. S. F. 6th L.C. to ch. of inv. of comps. serv. proc. to England, per ship Afred.
 MARTIN, Capt. A. P. 4th irr. cav. ass. ch. of adjt. office.
 MAXWELL, Capt. W. exec. engr. to be a memb. of local com. of pub. instruction at Bareilly.
 MAXWELL, Lieut. P. 37th N.I. serv. pl. at disp. of For. dept.
 MCBARNET, Capt. G. G. 55th N.I. to ch. of Sudder bazaar v. Scott.
 MCKENZIE, Lieut. col. K. F. fr. 55th to 48th N.I.
 MORLAND, 2nd Lieut. J. 1st Eur. Fur. to be 1st lieut. fr. Mar. 5 v. Pope res.
 POGSON, Brev. capt. W. Q. 43rd N.I. to be capt. fr. Mar. 6, in succ. to Lyell ret.
 PORTER, Brev. maj. J. F. supt. of Chittledroog to be superint. of Nuggur.
 POWELL, Ens. T. E. 43rd N.I. to be lieut. fr. Mar. 6, in succ. to Lyell ret.
 PRESGRAVE, Lieut. D. K. 59th N.I. serv. pl. at disp. of for. dept.; to be an assist. commiss. in the Punjab, Mar. 14.

* Published in G. G. O. No. 541 of the 4th July, 1853.

RIPLEY, Lieut. F. W. to offic. as prin. assist. to commis. of Arracan at Akyab, dur. abs. of Capt. Faithfull.
 SALUSBURY, Lieut. F. O. 1st Eur. Fus. to be capt.
 SANDFORD, Lieut. C. A. 3rd L.C. to be adj. v. Loch.
 SEWELL, Capt. A. H. C. asst. to agt. to gov. gen. in Rajpootana, left Rajpootana, in progress to join his corps at Rangoon, Feb. 22.
 SHAKESPEARE, Cornet W. to cont. to act as adj. of cavalry, United Malwa cont.
 STEVENS, Lieut. W. F. sen. jun. asst. to be 4th asst. to Mysore commis.
 ST. GEORGE, Lieut. E. 1st Eur. Fus. service being no longer req. with Kotah conting. pl. at disp. of mil. dept. and govt. of Bombay.
 STORY, Brig. P. F. C. B. posted to Cawnpore brig.
 TWAMLOW, Lieut. col. G. art. to be lieut. col. commandant, fr. March 6, in succ. to Tennant, dec.
 VANRENEN, Ens. J. A. 54th N.I. to act as interp. and qr. mr. dur. abs. of Anderson.
 VINCENT, Lieut. W. 49th N.I. services pl. at disposal of foreign dept.
 VOYLE, Lieut. G. E. to be capt. of art. fr. Jan. 23, in suc. to Day, prom.
 WADDEY, 1st Lieut. W. P. art. to be capt. fr. March 6, in succ. to Tennant, dec.
 WHITEFOORD, Capt. J. art. ret. to duty, March 6; fr. 4th comp. 6th batt. to 1st comp. 5th batt.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE—ARRIVED AT DATES SPECIFIED.

ARMSTRONG, R. G. March 5.
 BRISHBY, C. M. (abroad).
 MACLEAN, C. S. March 5.
 OWEN, W. March 6.
 PERREAU, M. C. (abroad), fr. March 7.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ABBRCROMBIE, Brev. maj. J. art. fr. May 1 to Oct. 31, to hills n. of Deyrah.
 AITKEN, Lieut. R. H. M. 13th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Simla, and hills n. of Deyrah.
 ANDERSON, Lieut. R. P. 25th N.I. 2 yrs. to Europe, on m.c. under the old regulations.
 BIDDULPH, Maj. G. 45th N.I. 18 mo. to Europe, on furl. on m.c. under the old regulations.
 BLUNT, Ens. A. 13th N.I. 6 mo. fr. March 15, to pres. Bareilly, and hills n. of Deyrah.
 BOGLE, 1st Lieut. A. H. art. 18 mo. furl. to Europe.
 BONAMY, Lieut. J. C. 32nd N.I. 18 mo. furl. to Europe, on m.c.
 DELANE, 1st Lieut. W. art. 6 mo. fr. April 25, to Simla, under old regulations.
 DOWNING, Lieut. col. D. 27th N.I. 18 mo. to Europe, on furl. on m.c. under the new regulations.
 FAITHFULL, Capt. G. 4 mo.
 FITZGERALD, Brev. maj. G. F. C. art. 18 m. to Europe, under new furlough regulations.
 FORBES, Capt. L. T. 40th N.I. 3 mo. to pres. on m.c.
 HERBERT, Capt. G. E. 9th L.C. to Europe, m.c.
 HODGSON, Lieut. W. S. R. 1 m. and 21 days.
 LISTER, Lieut. col. F. G. pol. agt. Cossyah Hills, 3 mo. fr. Feb. 18, on m.c. making over ch. of his aff. to Lieut. Cave.
 LOCK, Lieut. H. B. 3rd L.C. 18 mo. furl. to Europe, on m.c.
 MAISTER, 1st Lieut. G. art. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Cashmere.
 MATHIE, Lieut. col. J. 17th N.I. to Europe on furl. under old regulations.
 MCKENZIE, Lieut. col. K. F. 55th N.I. 1 mo. fr. Feb. 15, in ext.
 MEREWETHER, Lieut. A. 61st N.I. 3 yrs. furl. to Europe, on m.c.
 PLAYFAIR, Ens. W. 4th N.I. 18 mo. to Eur. on m.c. under the old regulations.
 POTT, Capt. G. to presidency, to apply for leave to the Cape, on m.c.
 ROBERTS, Col. A. 13th N.I. to Eur. m.c.
 SANDERS, Lieut. col. T. inv. est. fr. Feb. 15 to March 31, in ext. to rem. within limits of Cawnpore div.
 SHERWILL, Brev. maj. M. E. 2nd Eur. fus. 2 yrs. to Cape, m.c.
 SHUCKBURGH, Brev. maj. H. A. 40th N.I. 6 mo. to the Cape.
 TALBOT, Maj. H. C. inv. estab. 3 mo. fr. Feb. 15, to Cawnpore and pres.
 THOMPSON, Lieut. E. 2 mo. fr. Feb. 21, in ext. to remain at pres. on m.c.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ADLEY, Asst. surg. W. 20th N.I. to continue at Bayeed Khail, on return of his regt. to Peshawur, and aff. med. aid to troops.
 BATSON, Surg. S. H. 14th N.I. to rec. med. ch. of hd. qu. wing of 55th N.I. dur. abs. of Asst. surg. H. W. Tytler.
 BROUGHAM, Asst. surg. J. P. to be surg. fr. March 1, v. Wood, retired.
 BUCKLE, Asst. surg. H. B. 15th N.I. to aff. med. aid to 4th N.I.
 BUTT, Asst. surg. W. B. with 1st Eur. Fus. passed colloq. exam.
 COX, Asst. surg. C. L. 16th irr. cav. to aff. med. aid to 20th N.I.
 DAVIDSON, Surg. J. perm. to retire on pension fr. March 26.
 EWART, Asst. surg. J. M.D. to do duty with art. at Dum Dum.

FLEMING, Dr. A. to be post-master of Sarun, March 10.
 FORBES, Asst. surg. C. 66th or Gorkha regt. to aff. med. aid to civ. jail, hosp. and estab. v. Cape, rem.
 MACLAGAN, Assist. surg. J. to do duty with 3rd Bur. regt. at Chinsura.
 MOIR, Assist. surg. H. M.D. to do du. with H.M.'s 98th regt. in Fort William.
 MOTT, Asst. surg. M. W. to proc. to Rangoon, and do duty under supt. surg. Pegu circle.
 PARRY, Vet. surg. H. B. 3rd L.I. to vet. ch. of Hauper stud dur. abs. of Bichnell.
 PATON, Surg. A. 16th N.I. to act as assist. gar. surg. at Delhi, v. Townsend.
 SIMPSON, Asst. surg. B. to pl. himself under ord. or superint. surg. Lahore arc.
 THRING, Asst. surg. R. S. O. M.D. pl. at dispos. of lieut. gov. N. W. P.
 TIERNEY, Asst. surg. J. F. to med. ch. of detach. proc. to upper provinces under com. of Lieut. J. M. Mackenzie, 70th foot.
 TOKE, Surg. J. S. posted to Dinapore circle.
 TUCKER, Asst. surg. St. G. W. M.D. 14th irr. cav. to proc. and assu. med. of guide corps, v. Lyell.
 TUCKER, Asst. surg. S. R. 7th irr. cav. to med. ch. of staff and 5th tr. 1st brig. h. art. v. Cape, rem.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT DATES SPECIFIED.

CREWE, A. G. March 5.
 O'BRIEN, P. Feb. 6.
 PURCHARD, J. March 5.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BELL, Asst. surg. A. M.D. 6 mo. to Europe, under the new regulations.
 ROLFE, Asst. surg. W. A. fr. May 15 to Nov. 15, instead of former leave.

HER MAJESTY'S FORCES IN THE EAST.

CAVALRY.

9th Lancers. Brev. maj. R. A. Yule, passed in Hindustani; Capt. the Hon. C. Powys, 2 mo. to Bombay, and 2 yrs. to England.—10th Hussars. Maj. Lord G. A. Beauchamp, 2 yrs. to England; Lieut. T. Williams, to be A.D.C. to C.-in-C. of Bombay, v. Beauchamp.

INFANTRY.

10th. Asst. surg. Webb, 1 mo.—22nd. Lieut. T. Young, 3 mo. to Calcutta, and 2 yrs. to England.—24th. Lieut. S. J. J. Burns, passed in Hindustani; Lieut. R. J. L. Crutchley, to act as interp. to 61st; Lieut. J. T. Tovey, to be interp.—25th. Capt. Lyle, 2 yrs. to England.—43rd. Brev. Lieut. col. Hon. P. E. Herbert, to Sept. 9, in ext.—43rd. Lieut. col. J. Brown, to be a brig. of 2nd cl. and to com. Malabar and Canara.—51st. Capt. D. G. A. Larroch, dep. asst. qu. mr. gen. of the force in Pegu, repl. at disp. of C.-in-C. with a view to his proc. with his regt. to England.—52nd. Lieut. G. L. W. D. Flanshead, passed in Hindustani.—64th. Lieut. F. J. Hutchinson, 2 yrs. to England.—78th. Brev. capt. T. Geller, to be mil. sec. for C.-in-C. of Bombay, v. Harvey.—86th. Lieut. R. E. Henry, March 12 to April 11, to pres.—87th. Capt. Hammer, passed in Hindustani.—92nd. Lieut. E. B. Elphinstone, to be A.D.C. to C.-in-C. of Bombay.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

ALLSOPP, wife of W. s. at Calcutta, Mar. 6.
 ANGER, wife of P. d. at Calcutta, Mar. 2.
 BELL, Mrs. James d. at Calcutta, Mar. 4.
 BOSWELL, wife of Capt. N. C. 2nd N.I. at Etawa, Mar. 6.
 COWIE, wife of T. N. d. at Seebpore, Mar. 14.
 DAMZEN, wife of R. d. at Calcutta, Mar. 8.
 GLASSE, wife of R. W. s. at Midnapore, Mar. 10.
 JOAKIM, Mrs. H. J. s. at Calcutta, Mar. 5.
 POGOSE, the lady of J. G. N. s. at Dacca, Mar. 1.
 ROBBIO, wife of J. R. s. at Calcutta, Mar. 13.
 ROBERTS, wife of R. H. d. at Agra, Feb. 26.
 ROSE, wife of T. s. at Bogwangola, Mar. 8.
 WAGENTREIBER, Mrs. C. d. at Dacca, Mar. 6.
 WROUGHTON, wife of Capt. R. C. d. at Cawnpore, Feb. 28.
 YOUNG, wife of D. s. at Dharwar, Feb. 24.

MARRIAGES.

BRADFORD, Lieut. H. R. 36th N.I. to Henrietta A. E. d. of the late B. Hutchinson, at Meerut, Mar. 11.
 CUNNINGHAM, Asst. surg. J. M. to Mary F. d. of Surg. James McRae, at Meer Meer, Mar. 2.
 GREATHEAD, E. H. to Louisa F. widow of the late G. Archer, at Allahabad, Mar. 8.
 HENNIKER, W. G. to Charlotte Ann B. d. of the late J. B. Dorrett, at Bareilly, Feb. 13.
 HERITAGE, H. to Miss Julien Gnthrie, at Calcutta, Feb. 28.
 HINE, J. R. to Ann C. d. of C. Beresford, at Alleghur, Feb. 27.
 MATHIAS, Ens. H. V. 50th N.I. to Ellen M. d. of the late Capt. E. C. Mathias, at Dinapore, Mar. 8.
 ORDE, W. to Sophia E. d. of Capt. J. Skinner, at Belaspoor, Mar. 2.

SHAKESPEAR, Capt. J. T. to Emma Anne M. d. of the late Maj. W. H. Waterfield, at Burdwan, Mar. 9.
SNELL, Lieut. G. 64th N.I. to H. J. d. of the late Dr. S. Davies, at Lahore, Mar. 7.
STAPLETON, E. G. T. to Sarah, d. of the late G. Hornett, Mar. 17.

DEATHS.

ADAMES, Thos. on board the ship Almohamedy, to Mauritius, aged 32, March 12.
ATKINSON, James, at Calcutta, aged 42, March 11.
BALL, Eldred J. s. of John, at Lahore, aged 4, Feb. 8.
CLARKSON, Alice F. d. of the Rev. W. at Mahabeshwur, aged 3, March 1.
COOK, Henry S. s. of Rev. Geo. at Malabar Hill, March 1.
DUNBAR, Louis A. s. of Capt. H.M.'s 75th, aged 1 mo. Feb. 28.
FITZGERALD, Sisson B. at Calcutta, aged 27, Feb. 26.
HALL, Mary T. d. of Capt. S. P. at Sukong, aged 2.
JONES, Florence E. d. of F. W. at Calcutta, aged 9 mos. March 7.
MOORE, Walker A. E. s. W. J. at Calcutta, aged 10 mos. March 6.
NEPEAN, Capt. E. P. T. 38th L.I. at Dinapore, March 7.
POPE, Julia, widow of Silvester, aged 84, Feb. 15.
POWELL, Charles H. s. of Apoth. J., H.M.'s 10th foot, at Lahore, aged 1, March 6.
SCOTT, James, G. infant s. of J. G. at Calcutta, March 9.
SEWELL, Arthur, s. of Capt. A. H. C. 47th N.I. at Calcutta, aged 2, March 17.
SHEAD, Serjt. Josiah, 2nd batt. art. at St. Thomas's Mount, aged 28, Feb. 24.
STURT, R. R. c.s. at Monghyr, aged 47.
TENNANT, Col. Sir James, K.C.B. of the art. at Lahore, aged 64, March 6.
VALLIS, Catherine, wife of John, at Calcutta, aged 29, March 17.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MARCH 5.—James Alexander, Redley, London. 7.—Ayrshire, Miller, Maulmein; Hannah Salkeld, Corder, Liverpool; Arachne, King, Liverpool; Sourfield, Affindie, Balasore. 8.—Camillus, Jelliooe, Mauritius and Vizagapatam; Meloe, Dulinte, Pondicherry. 9.—Orissa, —, False Point. 10.—Edward Marquard, Durnford, Negapatam and Madras. 11.—Regina, Lock, Madras. 12.—Prince Albert, Durham, Melbourne; Dido, Youngerman, Singapore and Penang. 13.—Steamer Fire Queen, Maulmain, Rangoon, Kyook Phoo, and Akyab; Gallant, Black, Tandemaneur, Point Pedro. 14.—Futty Salam, Furness, Mauritius; Evadne, Smith, Melbourne; Lady Franklin, Smith, Melbourne; Anna, Barbel, Cardiff. 16.—Royal Sovereign, La Croix, London; Paragon, Murch, Madras and Masulipatam, Coringa, and Colingapatam; Aurora, Ryan, Mauritius; Recorder, Sharp, Liverpool; Anne Longton, Copland, Liverpool. 17.—Steamer Bombay, Tregear, Suez; Alex. John Kerr, Dickson, Penang and Akyab; Thane, Wales, Rangoon. 18.—John Hepburn, Galatin, Rangoon; Vankatesoloo, Nacoda, Coringa.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per James Alexander.—Mrs. Redley.
Per Edward Marquard (March 10).—Mrs. DeBaux and family; Mr. Doyle, Land Surveyor.
Per Prince Albert (March 11), from MELBOURNE.—Mr. and Mrs. Turner; Messrs. Herring and Russel.
Per Dido (March 12), from SINGAPORE.—Messrs. Henby, Manook, and Raven.
Per Steamer Fire Queen (March 13), from MAURITIUS.—Lieut. Col. Hanscomb, Capt. Beecher, Lieut. Burn, Mr. and Mrs. Begbie, and child; Capt. Ward, Lieut. Playfair; Messrs. Pyne, Cornelius, Farrington, Mercado, Lily, Swarris, Fitzgerald, and Hornby; Mrs. Quin and girl, Lieut. Woodcock, Mr. and Mrs. Halliday and two children.
Per Futty Salam (March 14), from MAURITIUS.—Messrs. Wilson and Domes.
Per Evadne.—Mrs. Baxter.
Per Royal Sovereign (March 16), from LONDON.—Mrs. Hogan; Misses Martin, Kelly, O'Dowda, Lawrence, Caulkin, Boyle, Lessey, and Anthony; Mrs. Walters, Ensign Dogg and Lady, Messrs. Hickman and May, Mrs. Hedger.
Per Paragon (March 16), from MADRAS.—Mrs. Summers, and J. Kera-kosse, Esq., M.D.
Per Alexander John Kerr.—Capt. Tididon.
Per Thane.—C. Delcan, Esq.
Per Steamer Bombay (March 17), from SUEZ.—From SOUTHAMPTON.—Mrs. Col. Abbot, Mrs. Latour, Miss Money, Miss Gilbert, Capt. Tapp, Lieut. Forbes, Mr. Redmayne, Mr. R. Grant, J. Pitt, E. L. Beake, C. Clarke, W. Bogg, and H. Harrington. From MARSILLAS.—Mr. H. Medlicott. From MALTA.—Miss Chimmio and Mr. Roberts. From GALLÉ.—Major Walter, and Reuben Beekiel. From MADRAS.—Gen. Jochous, L. Jackson, Esq., Ens. A. Balmer, and Ens. Chubby. Cornet Prendergast, A. Blund, Esq., and native servant, C. Farquharson, Esq., Mr. Shallow.

DEPARTURES.

MARCH 4.—Prince of Wales, Hopkins, and Asia, Robertson, London; Rouennais, Lemattais, Havre.—5. Nasser-ul-Musjed, Fairweather, Mauritius; steamer Berenice, Berthon, Rangoon.—6. Tippoo Saib, Cornforth, Liverpool; steamer Bentinck, Bouchier, Madras, Ceylon, and Suez.—7. Steamer Tenasserim, Simson, Maulmain and Rangoon.—8. Rory O'More, Church, Sydney; Cambroune, Ravilly, Bourbon; Louis XIV., Gouffre, Dunkirk.—9. Theodore, Meulenbroek, Akyab; Rienzi, Taylor, London; Sans Nom, Doreyle, Bourbon; Harry, Dare, Adelaide; steamer Zenobia, Rennie, and steamer Sesostris, Neblett, Rangoon.—11. Audubon, Arthur, London; Euphrasia, Smith, Boston; Anne, Nunn, Akyab; Teak, Steinhause, Melbourne; Melanie, Bird, Mauritius.—13. Mary Ann Johnston, Johnston, and Amelia, Millard, Mauritius; Catherine, Humphrey, London.—15. Almohamedy, Conry, Mauritius; Sutlej, Peppercorne, and Inca, Higgins, London; Anna Henderson, Husband, Liverpool; Juniata, Temme, and Granville, Burrows, London.—19. Steamer Oriental, —, Madras and Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Queen, for LONDON.—Mrs. Williamson, Mrs. Corfield, Mrs. Sherey, Mrs. Masters and infant, Mr. Power, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Burmister, Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. McGeorge, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Bristow, Mrs. Cowell and infant, Mrs. Blechynden, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Melies, Mrs. Dawson, Col. D. Williamson, Col. Corfield, Col. Sherey, Maj. Masters; Capt. Power, H.M. 29th in charge of troops, Lieut. Kneebone, H.M. 29th with troops; Lieut. Martin, Lieut. Morgan, Lieut. Croly, Rev. R. J. Wilkinson, Rev. C. Davis, A. H. Blechynden, Esq. William Bristow, Esq. C. Dawson, Esq. Miss Williamson, Miss Power, Miss Saunders, Miss Parker, Miss Wilkinson, Miss Smith, Miss Sachs, Miss Fagan, Master J. Driberg, Master Healy, Master Pugh, Master Nicolette, Master McGeorge, children, William Charles Lindsay, Mary Ann Lindsay, Charles Burmister, Henry Burmister, Walter Burmister, Louisa Burmister.

Per Indiana, from CALCUTTA to SOUTHAMPTON.—Mr. G. H. Smith, Mrs. G. H. Smith and child, Mrs. Tucker and 4 children, Rev. F. Mason, D.D.; Mrs. Mason and 3 children; Dr. Wood, Mrs. Johnson and child, Mrs. Beaton and child, Mrs. Maxwell and 2 children, Mrs. Col. Rainer, Col. Hope Dick, Mrs. Kinlock and child, Mr. D. Maxwell, Ensign Lawford, 59th N.I.; Mr. G. Lancaster, Mr. Archibald Black, Mr. Playfair, B. N.I.; Lieut. Sutton, 50th N.I.; Lieut. Hughes, H.M.'s 90th Regt.; Maj. Biddulph, Mr. Kinlock, Mrs. Plowden, Rev. W. Hurrock and Mrs. Col. Tritton. From CALCUTTA to CAPE.—Mr. Reginald Thornton, Mrs. Reginald Thornton and child, Maj. Shirwell, Mrs. Shirwell and 3 children, Capt. Pott, Lieut. Col. Mackenzie, Mrs. Col. Mackenzie, Mrs. Shuckburgh, Lieut. Norris, and Mrs. Norris and 4 children. To MAURITIUS.—F. A. Bell, Esq. To GALLÉ.—Tomboy Sahib, and Ahamed. To MADRAS.—Mrs. Plutcher, F. A. Carson, Esq.; Mahomed Meer Allee, and Mr. W. Warrington.

Per Oriental, for MADRAS.—Capt. Vine and Halland, and Mr. W. T. Healey. For BOMBAY.—Sergt. Thos. Kenwick. For SYDNEY.—Mr. M. E. David. For ALEXANDRIA.—Mr. George May, Mr. Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. Strand, Mr. Bogle, Mr. G. H. Schmidt, and Mr. Martin. For MALTA.—Capt. Lyle and Lieut. E. Perry. For MARSILLAS.—Mr. and Mrs. Sturges, and Lieut. Pope. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Mr. and Mrs. Halliday, and 2 children, Mr. and Mrs. Begbie and infant, Mr. and Mrs. Dodd, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Capt. Ireland, Dr. Campbell, Mr. Brodie, Mr. Marriott, Mr. and Mrs. Rood and child, Mr. and Mrs. Wall and 2 children, Mr. Lock, Mr. Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Austin, and Mr. L. S. Jackson, B. C. 8.

Per Sutlej (March 15), for LONDON.—Mrs. Gould, and family, Mrs. Reede and 3 children, Mrs. Samson and child, Mrs. Crosier and child, Mrs. Pond, 4 children, and servant; Mrs. McGregor, Mrs. Dixon, infant, and servant; Mrs. Falkland, 4 children, and servant; Mrs. Newcomen, Mrs. Marshall, 5 children, and servant; Mrs. Monteith, Mrs. Forster and child; F. C. Reede, Esq. C. S. J. Monteith, Esq., Capt. Sansom, H. Newcomen, Esq., Maj. Pond, Maj. Cox, James Dixon, Esq., P. McGregor, Esq., Master McGregor, 3 children of Capt. Wright, and 4 children of Maj. Cox.

Per steamer Oriental, (March 19), to MADRAS and SUEZ.—To MADRAS.—Capt. Vine, Capt. Holland, Hr. Healy, Serjeant Green, Mr. McHutchin. To SYDNEY.—Mr. M. E. Daniel. To ALEXANDRIA.—Mr. G. May, Mr. Macdonald, Mr. Gilmore, Mr. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Stroud, Mr. Schmidt, Mr. Bogle, Mr. J. B. Rentiers. To MALTA.—Mr. Lyle and Lieut. Perry. To MARSILLAS.—Mr. and Mrs. Sturges, Lieut. Pope and Mr. Linstead. To SOUTHAMPTON.—Mr. and Mrs. Halliday, child, infant, Mr. and Mrs. Begbie and infant, Dr. Campbell, Mr. Marriott, Mr. and Mrs. Ross and child, Mr. Loch, Mr. Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Austin, Col. Downing, Mr. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Dodd, Capt. E. Christian, Mr. J. S. Roughhead, William Morgan and James Colley.

COMMERCIAL.

Calcutta, March 18, 1864.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.		Sell.	Buy.
Transfer Stock Paper 5 per cent.	prem.	6 0	to 6 2
New Co.'s 5 do.	.. ..	Par.	to 4 as. prem.
Third Sicoa 4 do.	.. ..	dis.	1 8 .. 1 10
New Co.'s 4 do.	.. ..	prem.	0 4 .. dis. 0 10

BANK SHARES.

Bengal Bank (Co.'s Rs. 4,000)	..	2600 to 2650
Agra Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	700 to 720
N.W. Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	300 to 305

BANK OF BENGAL.

Discount on Government acceptances (3 months)	..	7 per cent.
Do. on private bills and notes	do. ..	5 per cent.
Interest on deposit of Co.'s paper..	.. ..	6 per cent.
Do. on open cash credit accounts	.. ..	6 per cent.
On deposit of Metals, &c.	.. ..	7 per cent.

PRICES OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Syces Silver	Co.'s Rs. 104	4 to 104 12	} per sa. wt.
China Gold Bars	15	4 .. 16 1
Gold Dust	13	0 .. 13 8
Spanish Dollars	223	0 .. 225 0	} per 100.
Mexican ditto	222	0 .. 223 0
Sovereigns	10	0 .. 10 1	} each.
Madras Gold Mohurs	16	0 .. 16 4
Old Gold Mohurs	20	9 .. 20 10

EXCHANGES.

Six months' sight Bills are 2s. 0½d. to 2s. 1d. Treasury Bills, at 30 days' sight, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¼d. Navy Bills, at 3 days' sight, and Bank of England Post Bills at sight, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¼d.

FREIGHTS.

To London and Liverpool, 7½. to 7½. 15s.

IMPORTS (Calcutta, March 18).—Cotton Goods, &c.—Dealers have not been buying freely, but imports in February were moderate, and a good business again after the holidays was looked for. Grey Shirtings.—Medium qualities of 36 and 40 inch have continued in demand at full previous value, but 54 inch are not so saleable. White Shirtings.—Most widths of medium qualities are neglected, but the finer cloths are bringing extreme prices. White Cotton Mule Twist.—Prices had declined somewhat, but are again firmer, and 40s. have been placed to some extent during the week at full value. Metals.—The limited stocks, and consequent high prices, reduce business to purchases for actual requirements, and but little had been done since our last. The market, however, continued in a healthy state, and shipments from home light.

IMPORTS (Bombay, March 27th).—During the fortnight, there has been a better inquiry for goods, and prices rather above than that last quoted. Grey Long Cloth, 36 yds. 40 in. an advance of from 1 to 3 ans. has taken place on 8 to 9 lbs. cloth, with good inquiry; on 9½ lbs. and upwards there is no change, with but little inquiry; 45 in. 10 lbs. are scarce and wanted. Metals.—Since last report, there has been a better inquiry for metals, with the exception of Copper, which has declined from Rs. 2 to 3.

MADRAS.

DISTURBANCES IN VELLORE.

The attempted introduction of the Improvement of Towns Act at Vellore, in supposed consonance with the wishes of the majority of the people, seems to have raised a troublesome spirit. Taking advantage of the popular excitement, as the time for the levying of the tax under the Act drew on, the great grain dealers, it appears, gathered a mob one night, and set about organising some scheme of resistance, of what nature we have not heard. Mr. Sullivan, the Head Assistant to the Collector, of course knew of this, and having obtained the aid of the Brigadier and a company of the 51st N.I., he seized 120 of the mob at midnight, including the ringleaders, as they were thronging to the bazaar. No resistance was offered, and the mob melted away. Next day an unarmed body of about 1,000 persons went to his Cutcherry, to demand the release of the apprehended, especially the ringleaders.

After much talking, bail was offered for the latter, and he let them go, on which the mob went back to the town and dispersed. The leaders of the combination, however, had that morning forced all bazaar-men, both in the Sudder and military bazaars, to shut up shop, and placed small pickets on the roads to prevent the usual supplies from being brought into the place. They also forbade milkmen, barbers, &c., to ply their trades, on pain of stick, which is said to have been in some instances not quite an empty threat.

When Mr. Sullivan released the prisoners as above, the large grain dealers promised to resume business themselves, and relieve the pressure on the minor ones; but they subsequently broke faith and demanded to be exempt from the assessment under the Towns Act, which boded further trouble.

Accordingly the necessary military precautions were in course of being taken, and the brigadier had a plan of operations laid down against necessity, but Mr. Sullivan once more successfully reasoned with the leaders of the mob, whom he went out to meet while on his way to the Cutcherry, telling them that he was going to recommend the military authorities to give strict orders to all guards to stand fast over their several charges, and that these orders would be tom-tom-ed in the Bazaars; that it would consequently not be prudent to starve the place any longer, for fear the Mussulman population should take a fancy to visit their stores—the disturbance having been so far confined to Hindus—and otherwise words of the same nature, which brought his audience to reason. They began to reopen their stores slowly the same evening, and by the following afternoon all was again flowing in the usual quiet channel of Vellore native life.

BANK OF MADRAS.—A meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Madras took place in March for the purpose of filling up the two vacancies in the direction, occasioned by the going to England of J. Goolden, Esq., and the disinclination of R. O. Campbell, Esq., who had been previously chosen, to take his seat at the Board. The choice of the meeting fell on Physician-general R. Sladen, and P. Carstairs, Esq., although the chairman, Major Smith, entered a protest against the second party, on account of his having declared at a former meeting his opinion that the bank ought to be managed with a view solely to the advantage of the proprietors.

EXPENSE OF A MADRAS TRUNK ROAD.—Government have directed the early repair of the road between Porto Novo and trunk road No. 9, and have authorised the expenditure of above Rs. 19,000 on that account.

COCHIN.—A correspondent of the Spectator reports, that the rajah of Cochin had left that place on a pilgrimage to Ramiseram.

That the British resident, Lieut.-Gen. Callen, was on his way to Trichoor to meet his Highness en route.

PEPPER.—Owing to the scarcity of rain, there has been a lamentable failure of pepper this year on the other coast.

THE BOARD OF REVENUE.—We are glad to learn that Government have directed the Board of Revenue to prepare and send in for the future, within four months from the close of each Fusly (ending on the 11th of July), the practice to commence from the present Fusly, a compendious review of the annual revenue settlement of this presidency, with a view to its publication and sale. In furtherance of this measure, we understand that the commissioner of the northern circuits has been instructed to transmit to the Board a like statement of the settlement of those districts subject to his exclusive supervision. We are aware that the Revenue Board does already submit to Government a separate review of each district, but the annual settlement report now called for will, we are told, furnish a statement of the estimated amount of revenue in each district, together with an explanation of the cause of variation in the respective sums, compared with those of previous years.—Spectator, March 15.

HYDERABAD.—In consequence of affairs at Hyderabad being entirely under the direct authority of the Government of India, both as to political and civil matters, the Governor-General has decided that the whole of the financial concerns, both of the contingent and assigned districts, should be under the same authority through the agency of the department of audit and accounts in Bengal.

FORMATION OF A LOCAL POLICE CORPS.—A correspondent of the Athenaeum reports that orders have been received for the formation of a Local Police Corps at Malabar, as follows:—

1 Commanding officer.	Civil allowance	Rs. 200
1 Adjutant	.. ..	100
2 Subadars,	each Rs. 25	50
2 Jemadars,	each Rs. 15	30
12 Havildars,	each Rs. 10	120
12 Naigues,	each Rs. 8	96
2 European sergeants,	each Rs. 30	60
1 Serjeant-major,	.. ..	60
2 Buglers,	each Rs. 6	12
150 Privates,	each Rs. 6	900

Rs. 1,628

DISSENSION IN THE MEDICAL COLLEGE.—From this day's Spectator we extract the following:—"Some time ago we mentioned, that in consequence of the dissensions prevailing among the members of the Medical College council, the governor had felt called upon to take the painful step of removing Dr. Smith from the secretaryship. Dr. Evans, the professor of medicine, having just returned to his duties from Australia, has been directed by the Board to take charge of the secretariat duties, as a provisional arrangement. It is said to be in contemplation to appoint one of the junior medical officers, at present doing duty at Madras, and unconnected with the college, permanently to the post."

NAGPORE.—The Athenaeum announces that the territory of Nagpore has been incorporated with British India, and is henceforth an integral portion of our possessions. Mr. Mansell has been appointed commissioner. Nagpore has always been occupied by Madras troops, and it is now nothing but fair to expect that they will be allowed to continue in possession, and thus an expiation may in some degree be made for the crying disproportion that has hitherto existed between the numbers of Bengal and Madras officers on staff employ.

STRIKE AT THE BEYPORE IRON WORKS.—The Madras Athenaeum reports a strike which has occurred at the Bypore iron works. One of the furnaces, it appears, was in successful operation, and the workmen struck for an increase of wages. The manager instantly stopped the work, and the men, finding their attempt at extortion has produced no results, are returning to their labour.

MILITARY ON DITS.—From Vizagapatam, we learn that a detachment of the 7th regiment, under the command of Captain R. Chester, embarked in the Hugh Lindsay steamer for Maulmain on the morning of the 10th of March.—A correspondent of the Athenaeum, writing from Trichinopoly, reports:—"That the left wing of the Highlanders have got the cholera very badly. Doctor Graham went off by dāk to join them."—Brigadier Sandys, lately appointed to the command of the Northern division, was expected at Wallair on or about the 24th of March.—The right wing of H.M.'s 94th foot left Bangalore for the presidency on a certain Tuesday morning in March, and to the surprise of many, marched back again on the Wednesday. This countermarch was occasioned by receipt of orders from army head-quarters, that the route should be altered, and the corps sent by Vellore, in order to avoid coming in contact with the 25th N.I. marching from Kurnool to Madras, in the camp of which regiment cholera prevailed.—We (Athenaeum) are sorry to hear that cholera has severely attacked H.M.'s 74th regiment on its line of march.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS.

DEPARTURE OF THE 49TH FOOT FOR ENGLAND.

Head-Quarters, Madras, March 14, 1854.—The 94th regiment being ordered to embark for England, his exc. the lieutenant-general commanding has to record the high sense he entertains of its discipline and good conduct, during its fifteen years' service in India—he feels pride in having been selected by her Majesty as the colonel of this fine corps, and trusts that, where opportunity offers, they will emulate the fame, and show themselves to be worthy successors of the old 94th.

By order of his Exc. Lieut. General WILLIAM STAVELRY, C. B.
(Signed) T. S. PRATT, Col.

OFF-RECKONINGS.

Fort St. George, March 14, 1854.—In consequence of the demise of Colonel Henry Walpole, of the infantry, the following addition to the list of officers entitled to off-reckonings is authorized.

Colonel W. L. G. Williams, to half a share from the off-reckoning fund, from Jan. 30, 1845.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

HOLLOWAY, W. to be hd. asst. to coll. and mag. of Masulipatam.
HUDLESTON, W. to act as hd. asst. to register to court of Sudr and Foudaree Udaltur dur. emp. of Ellis.
MATHISON, Mr. civ. and sess. jud. of the zillah of Chittoor, resumed ch. of the court fr. Mr. Goldie, March 15.
SHUBRICK, C. J. to act as civ. and sess. judge of zillah of Chingleput.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

COPELSTON, F. 1 mo.
INGLIS, W. A. D. 1 mo. prep. to Eur.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BROCKMAN, Capt. H. J. to be 3rd asst. to commiss. of Mysore.
CAMERON, Capt. J. 1st L.C. ret. to duty, March 13.
CLERK, Capt. T. act. superint. to be superint. of Astagram.
CLARKE, Ens. H. M. T. to do duty 44th N.I.
DALLAS, Capt. A. R. 1st N.I. perm. to resu. staff appt. on expir. of leave.
DOBBS, Capt. R. S. to be superint. of Chittledroog, March 10.
ELLIOTT, Lieut. col. W. E. A. fr. 9th to 49th N.I. March 16.
FRASER, Cornet, to do duty with B troop, h. art. at the Mount.
GORDON, Lieut. C. V. 25th N.I. to be q. mr. and interp.
GRIFFIN, Brev. capt. J. G. B. 3rd Eur. regt. perm. to resign his appt. as offic. asst. in the Rajpootana agency, fr. Feb. 15, fr. which date his services are placed at disp. of Govt. of Fort St. George, placed at disp. of C. in C.
HARGOOD, Ens. W. to do duty, 2nd batt. art. St. Thomas's Mount, to join.
HENDERSON, Capt. R. engs. to act as superint. eng. Hyderabad subsid. force, to join.
JENKINS, Lieut. A. 2nd N.I. to be adj.
LANE, Lieut. T. G. M. 40th N.I. perm. to resign his appt. of asst. civil eng. Kistna div. March 20.
LOSH, Brev. maj. J. J. 9th N.I. to be maj. fr. Jan. 29, v. Roberts, prom.
MASON, Lieut. F. J. M. 29th N.I. to be capt. by brev. fr. Mar. 10.
McCALLUM, Capt. C. C. dep. jud. adv. genl. is removed fr. centre div. to Nagpore subsidiary force, March 15.
ONSLow, Brev. major W. C. 44th N.I. perin. to res. app. in the Mysore commiss. March 10.
PAXTON, Lieut. G. 44th N.I. to be capt. by brev. fr. March 10.
PEARSE, Capt. J. L. 5th N.I. perm. to resu. st. appt. on expir. of leave.
PORTER, Brev. maj. J. F. to be superint. of Nuggur, March 10.
POWER, Capt. E. H. actg. dep. jud. adv. genl. to act as depy jud. adv. gen. to Nagpore subsidiary force, dur. McCallum's abs. on foreign serv.
PRESCOTT, Brig. W. services pl. at disp. of the C. in C. on his being relieved by Brig. Brown.
ROBERTS, Maj. H. 9th N.I. to be lieut. col. of inf. fr. Jan. 29, v. Walpole, dec. posted to 9th N.I. March 16.
STEPHENS, Lieut. W. H. to be 4th asst. to commiss. of Mysore.
STEVENSON, Lieut. J. F. J. 26th N.I. passed exam. in Burmese.
STONE, Ens. T. H. E. 9th N.I. to be lieut. from Jan. 29, v. Roberts, prom.
TAYLOR, Capt. R. 2nd L. C. returned to duty.
THOMSON, Lieut. T. H. 9th N.I. to be capt. fr. Jan. 29, v. Roberts, prom.

TIGHE, Lieut. J. T. 8th L.C. passed exam. in Hindustani, qual. as interp.

WALKER, Lieut. G. W. engs. to act as civ. engr. of 3rd div. dur. abs. of Brev. maj. Henderson.

WAPSHARE, Capt. W. H. dep. jud. adv. gen. centre div. now offic. in the Nagpore subsidiary force, to proceed to the presidency and take up his appt. of dep. jud. adv. gen. centre div. March 15.

WHITE, Capt. J. dep. jud. adv. gen. southern div. to off. in centre div. until arr. of Wapshare, March 15.

WILLIAMS, Brev. col. W. K. L. G. to be col. of inf. fr. Jan. 29, v. Walpole; posted to 41st N.I. March 16.

WRIGHT, Capt. J. H. 1st N.I. passed exam. in Burmese.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.

CAVALRY.

FRASER, H. M. March 13.

INFANTRY.

CLARKE, H. M. S.

HARGOOD, W.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BRISTOW, Lieut. J. J. 8th N.I. to Europe, on m. c. new regulations.

CAMPBELL, Ens. J. A. 52nd N.I. 1 mo.

CLOGSTOUN, Brev. capt. H. M. 19th N.I. to Dec. 31, to Bangalore and Neilgherries, on m. c.

DALLAS, Brev. maj. A. R. dept. asst. qr. m. gen. ceded districts, leave cancelled.

DAVIDSON, Lieut. A. G. 29th N.I. to May 15, in ext.

FARRAN, Capt. J. W. 25th N.I. to April 4.

LAWFORD, Lieut. E. M. 4th L.C. in ext. to April 15.

MICHAEL, Lieut. J. 39th N.I. leave cancelled at his request.

NEILL, Brev. lieut. col. J. G. T. fr. Feb. 27, to pres. prep. to app. for leave to Europe, on m. c.

NORRIS, Lieut. W. vet. estab. 18 mo. to Cape, on m. c.

REVELL, Capt. B. 31st L.I. 2 mo. fr. March 20, to Neilgherries.

SANDERS, Lieut. G. W. 9th N.I. to April 30, in ext.

SANSOM, Capt. F. H. 3rd N.I. 18mo. furl. to Eur. on m. c.

SURTEES, Lieut. A. S. 41st N.I. 3 mo. fr. Feb. 25, to Calcutta, on m. c. for the purpose of obtaining a certificate to return to Eur.

WARDEN, Lieut. and qr. mr. J. H. 13th N.I. to Eur. on m. c.

WEST, Capt. W. H. 1st Madras fus. to Eur. on m. c. old regulations.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BURTON, Asst. surg. J. C. M.D. do. du. with 45th, posted to 45th N.I.

COOPER, Asst. surg. C. to do du. under superint. surg. Mysore div. with foot art. at Bangalore.

HILBERS, Asst. surg. W. to be med. offr. in ch. of farm in Mysore, v. C. M. Duff.

PAUL, Asst. surg. J. L. serv. pl. at disp. of govt. of Bengal, with a view to his appt. as civ. asst. surg. at Moulmein.

REYNOLDS, Surg. J. A. posted to 7th N.I. Mar. 14.

SHAW, Asst. surg. H. T. to do du. with 2nd batt.

SUPPLE, Surg. J. 7th L.C. fr. do. du. with 3rd L.C. to do du. with 5th L.C.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BABINGTON, Asst. surg. W. R. 1 mo.

MORROGH, Surg. G. to Eur. m. c.

SIMPSON, Asst. surg. M. 25th N.I. to April 4.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

COHEN, wife of W. d. at Cattina, Feb. 22.

DASHWOOD, Mrs. T. s. at Madras, March 14.

FINLAY, wife of Lieut. G. C. 12th N.I. d. at Kurnool, March 7.

GROUBE, the lady of Capt. G. B. 5th L.C. s. at Secunderabad, March 4.

HAWKINS, wife of F. N. s. at Vizagapatam, Feb. 4.

LAYBOURN, Mrs. G. B. d. at Madras, Feb. 20.

OGLVIE, wife of asst. surg. J. R. d. at Wurrunzul, Feb. 22.

POLLARD, wife of Capt. asst. civ. eng. d. at Guntur, March 9.

PRICHARD, wife of Lieut. A. 28th N.I. s. at Jaulnah, March 5.

PURVIS, wife of Lieut. C. A. art. s. at Ootacamund, March 6.

SERRES, wife of Lieut. W. 51st N.I. s. Ootacamund, March 9.

MARRIAGES.

KIRKPATRICK, Asst. surg. J. to Margaret J. d. of the late W. Proctor, at Madras, March 14.

ROBINSON, J. D. c.s. Gertrude Fennell, at Mercara, May 7.

STILER, Lieut. G. H. 4th N.I. to Emily L. d. of Revd. W. T. Blenkinsop, at Madras.

DEATHS.

DAILY, C. L. inf. s. of C. R. at Black Town, aged 1, March 13.

DYSART, H. C. inf. s. of Capt. C. 3rd Eur. regt. at Bellary, March 16.

EDWARDS, E. H. S. d. of J. W. at Vepery, aged 3, March 17.

EDWARDS, J. H. J. inf. s. of J. W. at Madras, March 12.

EYKYN, F. C. s. of Capt. J. 15th N.I. at Madras, aged 5, March 8.

FARRAN, Sarah K. H. inf. d. of Capt. J. O. C. at Bangalore, March 10.
 HUNTER, Lieut. C. F. 22nd N.I. at Mhow, March 17.
 HUNTER, widow of the late W. at Madras, March 12.
 MORRIS, Martha, widow of the late D. at Arcot, aged 61, Mar. 18.
 NEWCASTLE, D. at Chicacole, aged 80, March 2.
 NORRIS, Lieut. H. M. at sea, on board the steamer Indiana, March 15.
 O'DELL, Charlotte C. d. of the late Lieut. col. R. D. at Vepery, aged 29, March 13.
 PURVIS, Charles, inf. s. of C. A. art. at Ootacamund, March 6.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MARCH 9. Pekin, Whitby, Tranquebar.—12. Valle de Luz, Dupeyrat, Barwah; Amelia, Maiden, Ganjam.—13. Pauline Victoire, Desparment, Pondicherry; Amiral Dupene, Martin, Point de Galle; Str. Bombay, Tregear, Suez, Aden, and Galle.—17. Ignis Fatuus, Rossiter, Adelaide.—18. Hannah, Heritage, Rangoon.—19. Lord Geo. Bentinck, Edgell, Rangoon; Melpomene, Lawrenson, Port Phillip; Benjamin Buck Greene, Gammon, London and Mauritius; Piscataqua, Wendell, Boston.—20. Screw steamer Indiana, Lambert, Calcutta; Bury St. Edmunds, Miller, Port Louis, Mauritius.—21. Domizion, Green, Sydney.—25. Steamer Oriental, Calcutta.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Pekin (March 9), from TRANQUEBAR.—Mrs. Nicolls and family, Capt. Nicolls, 25th N.I. asst. commy. gen.; Lieut. Warden, 13th N.I.
 Per Amelia (March 12), from GANJAM.—Mr. G. Williams, Mrs. Maiden and child.
 Per steamer Bombay (March 13), from SUEZ, ADEN, and GALLE. From SOUTHAMPTON.—Mrs. Horne, Miss Butler, Messrs. H. Fraser, H. Clarke, and Hargood. From SUEZ.—Capt. Cameron. From BOMBAY.—Mr. Corbett. From SOUTHAMPTON to CAYLON.—Lieut. Newbold. From SOUTHAMPTON to SINGAPORE.—Mr. J. Guthrie, Mr. Fredericks, and Mr. Heydone. From SOUTHAMPTON to PENANG.—Mr. Lamond and Mrs. Hemley. From SOUTHAMPTON to CALCUTTA.—Mrs. col. Abbott, Mrs. Latour, Miss Money, Miss Gilbert, Capt. Tapp, Lieut. Forbes, Mr. Redmayne, Mr. R. Grant, J. Pitt, and E. L. Beake, W. Bogg. From HARRINGTON and C. Chambers. From MARSEILLES to CAYLON.—Mr. Barnes. From MARSEILLES to PENANG.—Mr. Rhodes. From MARSEILLES to CALCUTTA.—Mr. H. Medlicott. From MALTA to CALCUTTA.—Miss Chimmo and Mr. Roberts. From GALLE to CALCUTTA.—Major Waters and Reuben Ezekiel.
 Per Hanna (March 14) from RANGOON.—Mr. and Mrs. Seymour and son, Mrs. S. E. Holmes, 2 children.
 Per Lord George Bentinck (March 19), from RANGOON.—Lieut. col. Ford, Lieut. col. Neill, Capt. Scott, of the Madras army, Capt. Irby, Capt. Marston, Lieut. Drought, Lieut. Sheaf, Ens. Goddard, Asst. surg. Crawford.
 Per Piscataqua (March 19), from BOSTON.—Rev. Mr. Tracy, lady, two children, Rev. Mr. Little and lady.
 Per screw steamer Indiana (March 19), from CALCUTTA.—For MADRAS.—Mrs. Plutcher, J. A. Carson, Esq. Mr. W. Warrington, Mr. Rowden, Rev. W. Sturrock and Maho Meer Allee. For GALLE.—Tomboy Sahib and Ahmed. For MAURITIUS.—Mr. Bell. For CAPE.—Lieut. Norris, Mrs. Norris, 4 children and 2 servants, Lieut. col. and Mrs. McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. R. Thornton, child, Maj. and Mrs. Shuivell, 3 children, Capt. Pott and Maj. Shuckburgh. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Smith, child, and servant, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Mason and 3 children, Mrs. Tucker, 4 children, Dr. Wood, Mrs. Johnson and child, Mrs. Beatson, child, Mrs. Rainier, Col. Hope Dick, Mr. and Mrs. Kenlock, 1 child, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell, 2 children, Ens. Lawford, 50th N.I. Mr. C. Lancaster, Mr. A. Black, Mr. Playfair, B.N.I. Lieut. Suttan, 56th N.I. Lieut. Hughes, H.M. 95th, and Maj. Biddulph.
 Per steamer Oriental (March 25), from CALCUTTA.—Capt. Vine, Capt. Holland, Mr. Healy, Serjt. Green, and Mr. Mellicham.

DEPARTURES.

MAR. 13. Lord Petre, Dickinson, Cuddalore and London; steamer Bombay, Tregear, Calcutta.—15. Adelaide, Parrey, Calcutta.—18. Valle de Luz, Dupeyrat, Pondicherry and Bordeaux.—20. Victor Amédée, Passel, Coringa; screw steamer Indiana, Lambert, Ceylon, Mauritius, Cape, and London.—22. Earl of Hardwicke, Pope, London.—24. Steamer Oriental, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Lord Petre (Mar. 13), to CUDDALORE and LONDON.—Ens. Cunningham, 25th N.I. to join at Pondicherry; Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, and Lieut. Sanders.
 Per steamer Bombay (Mar. 13), to CALCUTTA.—Ens. A. Balmer and Ens. Clibbey, E. A. Blundell, Esq.
 Per Adelaide (March 15), to CALCUTTA.—Brig. gen. Sandys, Lieut. and Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. Murch and child, Dr. and Mrs. Forster, Mrs. Haigh and child.
 Per screw steamer Indiana (March 20), to SOUTHAMPTON.—Brig. gen. James and son, Brig. H. R. Milner, Capt. and Mrs. Hodson; Lieuts. Barber and J. Parget, 15th Hussars; Dr. Mrs. and Master Beauchamp; Capt. F. W. Horne, H. M.'s 15th Hussars; Dr. and Mrs. Marragh and 3 children; Lieut. col. and Mrs. Bond and 2 children; Mr. Wedderburn's 2 children; Mrs. Gordon, 2 children and infant; Mrs. Martin and daughter; 2 Masters Pritchard, Capt. G. Sturrock, Lieut. J. H. Warden, Major C. H. J. Hicker, Mrs. Prescott, Miss Budd and 2 children, Mr. Gomm and 2 children.
 Per Earl of Hardwicke (March 22), to LONDON.—Mrs. Campbell, Lieut. col. Dennis, commanding H.M.'s 94th regt.; Capt. A. Campbell and Lyster, Lieut. J. Buchanan, Ens. S. Marthus, Lieut. and adj. R. R. Meade, Asst. surg. Stoney, Capt. J. Macartney, Lieut. J. C. Macartney.
 Per steamer Oriental (March 24), to SUEZ. To SOUTHAMPTON.—Lord Spencer S. Compton, Major G. F. C. FitzGerald, Mrs. FitzGerald, Mrs. Symonds, Miss Thomas, Miss Slater, Lieut. C. Steel, 1 child of Capt. J. Stewart. To MARSEILLES.—Capt. B. Weyland. To ALEXANDRIA.—Capt. A. Ponsonby and Col. R. Phillips. To KING GEORGE'S SOUND.—Mrs. M. A. Haines.

COMMERCIAL.

Madras, March 23, 1854.

BANK OF MADRAS.

Rates of Interest—on Loans.

On deposit of Government Paper ..... 5 per cent.
 On existing cash credit accounts on do. .... 5 do.

RATES OF ADVANCE.

On Government 5 per cent. Stock Receipts ..... 100 per cent.
 On 5 per cent. Promissory Notes ..... 98 "
 On 4 per cent. do. Sica and Co.'s ..... 88 "
 On Tanjore do. .... 88 "

Discount.

On Government Acceptances ..... 3 per cent.
 On Private Bills, at or within 30 days ..... 5 "
 Ditto above 30 days ..... 6 "
 Investments ..... Rs. 35,96,204 6 7
 Circulation and Deposits ..... 45,93,727 5 7
 Specie in the Bank ..... 39,57,612 9 8

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

5 per cent. loan of 1825-26
 1829-30
 1841  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  prem.
 4 per cent. .. 1832-33  $\frac{1}{2}$  dis.
 1835-36  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  prem.
 1843  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 1 prem.
 5 per cent. transferable } 5 to 6
 book debt .. ..
 Tanjore Bonds .. ..  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  prem.
 Bank of Madras Shares .. 14 to 15 prem.

PRICE OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Sovereigns ..... Rs. 10-4 each
 Bank of England Notes ..... 10-2 each
 Spanish Dollars ..... 220 per 100

EXCHANGES.

Bills on England, according to sight, 1s. 11d. to 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.
 H.M. Treasury Bills, 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 0 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.
 Bank of England Post Bills, 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 0 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.
 Mauritius Government Bills, 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 0 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.
 Ceylon do. 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 0 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.
 Court of Directors' Bill on the Government of Bengal, 60 days' sight, none.

Calcutta.—Buy,  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. disct.
 Sell, par.
 Bombay.—Buy,  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. disct.
 Sell, par.

FREIGHTS.

Quotations to London and Liverpool are 4l. 10s. to 5l. per ton of 20 cwt.

BOMBAY.

THE NATIVE CIVIL SERVICE.

It has been our object to show that the formation of a Native Civil Service, and the diffusion of European literature among the educated classes, are calculated at once "to attach the people to our sway," and "to render them averse to change of masters." Pursuing the same interesting subject, we shall now consider "what is due to the English, who, coming to reside in India, undergo a life of voluntary exile for the means of existence."

It is the rage just at present to cry up the native at the expense of the European. The latter is incompetent, overpaid, tyrannical, a stealer of sheep, and defrauder of chicken-venders; or he is a murderer, a forger, and, in short, a rampant demon of iniquity, whose gratification and ordinary amusement it is, to crush and afflict a helpless people. The nation readily receives this reading of the Saxon character, and forms itself into associations and windy petition-writers. It is full time to have done with this senseless exaggeration—this mad attempt to knock our own influence on the head, and calmly to take a common sense view of existing abuses.

There is a certain line of familiarity with—and sympathy for—his "native friend" that the Englishman cannot overstep. God has made the two races distinct and unequal. The attempt of man to force a premature equality, must miserably fail. We are most eloquent in support of his rights—on paper: in denouncing with burning eloquence the tyranny and oppression of his English master—on paper: in demanding for our native friend a prominent place in the government of the country, and even a seat in council—on paper: in holding up to public obloquy the imperfect tions of our own countrymen, their sheep-stealing and official chicken-buying—on paper; but what is the conclusion written on the tablets of our hearts—tablets that we so seldom or superficially consult, but which every man should study with religious care before he dares to use the press as the medium of his undigested clap-trap—what is that conviction?

We know that everything is grossly exaggerated and overdone. We know that things are not so bad in the Mofussil as they are represented. We know that there are good men and true Englishmen, labouring in the jungles, exposed to many discomforts, seeing no English face for months, exiles from their home and early friends, whom possibly they will never again revisit. We know that many of these men, with a distaste for the dry details of their profession, and a mad longing for the intellectual pleasures of society in England, heroically and anxiously exert what ability they have, to secure the welfare of the people about them. We know that the chief obstacle to success is in the fraud and falsehood of the people themselves. We know all this and much more, and we howl at them as incompetent and vicious, and cannot sufficiently wonder at the way they buy chickens and defraud the ryots!

We suffer our generosity and our "enlarged views" to run away with our convictions and our common sense. At present it is impossible that we can put the native on an equality with the Englishman in the government of India. If he now is equal, let us pack up our trunks and our types, and leave the country, for God requires us, as a nation, no longer in this land. If he be not our equal in intelligence, courage, invention, promptness of action, determination, and all those qualities which stamp the superiority of a race, then let us by all means cease our senseless declamation about native members of council, and native sadder judges. In vindication of our enlarged views and liberal philanthropy, we may dress up Govind Rao, and Gazette him as extraordinary member of council; we may swear him in, and even fire off large canons in his honour; but you only degrade him in his own eyes by so doing. He will feel that he is a puppet with a turban and good income, placed there by men of "enlarged views." His voice will command no silence, and his opinion no weight. He is still Govind Rao, with a private taste for betel-nut—with the organs of veneration, caution, acquisitiveness, and imitation, largely developed; but with little or no firmness, conscientiousness, causality, or comparison. He has still a religious respect for bullocks, and you know that if a Mhar touches him, he is a defiled man till he has partaken with his friends of a little cow-dung! And yet, throbbing with generous impulses, and impelled by "enlarged views," you would force on him responsibilities for which he is unfit; you would bestow on him capacities which God has denied him, and you would put him on an equality with the Saxon, knowing in your heart that he is inferior. Call him, if you will, a member of council; but he will be a member without an opinion; which is equivalent to a horse without legs, or a newspaper without a grievance!

Therefore the two services—the native and European—must be kept distinct; one for the details, the other for supervision and superintendence. Be sure that any attempt to amalgamate the two, or to put the European under the orders and control of the native, must create serious resistance and confusion. The pride and obstinacy of the Saxon character is proverbial; he will not obey the man whom he does not respect; and you will never force him—pig-headed Saxon that he is—to respect Govind Rao. In the plenitude of your "enlarged views," you may nominate Donald or Jock 3rd assist. to Balcrushna, who is full collector of Nothalsabad; but you cannot enforce obedience and respect from Donald or Jock, who, in a very short time, will have rendered their official superior contemptible and degraded, by their opposition and independence.

All this is so plain and obvious, that it is a waste of pen and ink to write down an argument in its favour; but there are very many men "of enlarged views" who advocate the promotion of natives to the council-board and the bench. These liberal, fine-hearted reformers, are generally theorists at home, who dream philanthropic dreams of government for India in their closet, or parties residing in the presidency town, under the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. Give these presidency reformers by-and-by a Brahman puisne judge in place of Sir Charles Jackson, and then measure with mathematical nicety the length of their countenances! Oh, ye members of the Bombay Association, learn to depend a little upon yourselves. Meet together, we implore you, for friendly consultation. Determine, without the aid of any legal friends, what it is that you really require from the Home Government, for your countrymen and yourselves. By proving that European Mofussil judges are incapables, you will not show your own fitness for the posts. By crying out, in piercing tones of bitter agony, that Europeans only give so many annas for chickens in Kandeish, you won't convince any one that natives in power would not have given less. Be sensible, consult together, forgetful of your differences, and when you have fully ascertained your real wants, send us the results of your deliberation, you will find our columns ever ready to support all that is reasonable and intelligible in your claims.

Take our proposition of a native civil service into consideration, we have presented you with an outline of what we consider desirable. Give evidence of native capacity for legislation, by filling up the details. Thus will you at once vindicate the character of the association, and afford the press of this presidency an opportunity of discussing important and absorbing questions connected with the welfare of the Indian people.—Telegraph and Courier, March 1.

LAUNCH OF THE "ASSAYE."

The launch of the Assaye on Wednesday night, the 15th March, was most successful; and none can record the fact with more satisfaction than we do, although we are not at all sure, whether, under all circumstances, that daylight is not the proper time for such an undertaking. The arrangements made preparatory to the launch in every part of the dockyard were perfect, the grounds were well illuminated, and order and regularity preserved. Soon after nine o'clock, crowds of people of all ranks and classes began to assemble, special care having been taken to make everybody as comfortable as possible. About the same hour, the temporary ball-room, which was very tastefully decorated with flags, swords, fire-arms, and evergreens, and neatly covered with carpets and cloth, began to be filled with the guests of Lady and Sir Henry Leake, and, before ten o'clock, there were nearly three hundred ladies and gentlemen in the room.

It would be vain to attempt to give a list of them, as we should have to publish the names of nearly all the members of society at present in Bombay; and it must suffice to say that Lord Elphinstone honoured the occasion with his presence, as did also Sir Charles and Lady Jackson. Colonel Outram too was present. Dancing soon after commenced, and was kept up with spirit for nearly an hour and a half, the governor's and commodore's bands playing in rotation. At half-past eleven, the company repaired to the platform erected at the bow of the vessel, the sides of the dock being crowded also with spectators, while large numbers of people were in boats afloat to witness the scene. The Assaye was dressed out in flags and flowers, and lighted lanterns were hung from each port-hole, which illuminated her throughout, and formed a tout ensemble magnificent and imposing. Precisely at fifteen minutes to twelve, the blocks and other impediments being removed, Miss Leake gracefully performed the ceremony of naming the vessel, when it moved slowly and majestically along, amidst the cheers of the multitude and the booming of cannon from the saluting battery and the Hon. Company's ships in harbour—the bands playing "Rule Britannia." Lord Elphinstone then took his leave, and the votaries of Terpsichore returned to the ball-room, when dancing was resumed for a short time preparatory to an adjournment to the refreshment-tents, where every delicacy of the season was laid out with liberal profusion. The ball-room was again the source of attraction, and dancing was kept up until a very late hour, or rather early hour, one good-natured old gentleman remarking, that he verily believed, that if provided with music and shoes, the ladies, dear creatures, would dance without intermission till midnight on Saturday. The following are the dimensions of the new steam vessel Assaye:—

	Feet.	Inches.
Length over all .. .. .	280	0
Length between the perpendiculars .. .. .	250	0
Breadth maulded .. .. .	38	3
Breadth extreme .. .. .	89	6
Extreme breadth of paddle-boxes .. .. .	63	10
Depth in hold .. .. .	25	6
Burthen in tons (builders' measurement) .. .. .	1,800
Number of horse-power .. .. .	650

She has since gone into the Duncan Dock, and her machinery being expected to arrive in all next month, there is every reason to hope that she will be thoroughly fitted up before the beginning of September.—Bombay Times.

THE LONDON MAIL of February 24th arrived at Bombay March 26th (per Queen).

CAPT. HAINES and LIEUT. CRUTTENDEN, have both been removed from political employ, in consequence of a defalcation in the Aden accounts to the extent of nearly three lacs of rupees. The future employment of these officers in the Indian Navy will depend upon the satisfactoriness, or otherwise, of the answers which may be given by them to certain questions which have been put by the authorities. Not even the suspicion of fraud attaches, it is believed, to either of the parties.—Bombay Gazette.

MONUMENT TO THE DUKE OF WELLINGTON.—It is proposed to erect an obelisk in Bombay to the memory of the Duke of Wellington. It is to be a hundred feet in height, and to cost Rs. 14,000. Rs. 10,500 has already been subscribed.

EDUCATION.—The Bombay Times mentions, that the Court of Directors have sanctioned an additional grant of Rs. 50,000 a year for educational purposes in that Presidency. This is exclusive of Rs. 10,000 allotted to Scinde, and Rs. 7,000 to Sattara. The total sum expended on education in that presidency, now amounts to Rs. 1,92,000.

GOLD IN PERSIA.—The Bombay Gazette states on native authority, that a gold mine has been discovered in Persia.

INTRODUCTION OF GUTTA PERCHA.—The Bombay Times states, that we are indebted to Dr. Montgomerie, superintending-surgeon in Burmah, for the introduction of gutta percha.

PREJUDICES OF CASTE.—The Bombay Sumacher, a vernacular journal, records facts which prove that the prejudice of caste are nearly as strong in Bombay as in Bengal. Rangrao Bapoo, agent to the ex-rajah of Sattara, has been for twelve years in England. On his return, the caste was divided as to whether he could be readmitted, but his wealth and the influence of his relatives prevailed, and it is believed, that he will be permitted to return. In another instance, a poor man, a Sonar, fell sick in a village, and received some rice-water from the hand of a woman of another caste. His castemen, when appealed to for their opinion, were divided; and the two parties now treat each other as separate castes. It is remarkable, that the tendency to subdivision so often remarked in Hindoos, has not broken up the caste system altogether.

GOVERNMENT-GENERAL ORDER.

WHISKERS AND MOUSTACHES.

Head-Quarters, Bombay, March 15, 1854.—The Commander-in-Chief is pleased to direct that officers, non-commissioned officers, and soldiers, of all European corps of the Hon. Company's army under this presidency, serving regimentally, shall in future wear their whiskers and moustaches; his Excellency being of opinion, that these appendages will be found most conducive to the soldier's comfort in this country, by protecting him from the scorching rays of a tropical sun, to which, when on field service, he must necessarily be exposed, oftentimes for hours together, at all seasons of the year.

To insure a general uniformity, the Commander-in-Chief directs that the chin only be shaved, and in a straight line from the corners of the mouth completely down the throat: the whisker and moustache are to be trimmed to a moderate and uniform length.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BAGSHAW, R. S. actg. senior assist. judge, and sess. judge of Surat for the detach. station of Broach, rec. ch. of the Adawlut.
DALZELL, P. M. rec. ch. of Customs dept. at Kurrachee.
FERRIS, W. E. rejoined the court of Sudder Adawlut, March 20.
JONES, E. C. coll. of Poona, to rem. in the district of his coll. on duty till the close of the fair season, March 18.
LUARD, R. D. perm. to resign, March 17.
NEWTON, H. to act. as jud. and ses. jud. of Sholapore dur. abs. of Harrison, March 13.
RAVENSCROFT, E. ret. to duty, March 4; to be acting second assist. to coll. and mag. of Ahmedabad, March 18.
TRAVERS, A. C. ret. to du. March 10.
TUCKER, H. P. Lieut. gen. to act as jud. and ses. jud. of Ahmedabad dur. abs. of Hebbert, March 13.
TYTLER, C. E. F. actg. sub. coll. of Colaba, to proc. into the district on du. fr. Feb. 16.
YOUNG, H. commis. of customs, salt, and opium at the Presidency, rec. ch. of asst. of coll. of continental customs and excise fr. A. D. Robertson, Mar. 10.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BLANE, G. J. 2 mo. to Mahabaleshwar.
BOSWELL, H. B. 1 mo.
COLES, G. 1 mo.
ELPHINSTON, A. 4 mo. to Mount Aboo, on m. c.
ERSKINE, J. M. 1 mo. in ext.
FERRIS, H. B. E. 2 mo. and 22 days.
MITCHELL, J. to pres. on m. c.
MURPHY, R. X. 1 year, on m. c.
ROBERTSON, A. D. 1 mo. prep. to apply for furl. to Europe.
THORNTON, T. 6 mo. in ext.
WARDEN, J. L. 2 mo. to pres.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

STEVENSON, Rev. Dr. to proceed on a tour of visitation to the Presbyterians at Ahmednuggur, and to be absent from the presidency on this duty fr. March 14 to April 4.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

AGAR, Capt. E. W. 3rd N.I. perm. to retire on pension of maj. fr. April 1.
BALDWIN, Capt. T. C. to act as adj. to N. V. batt. on dept. of Tyrwhitt.
BELL, Ens. G. E. T. 2nd N.I. returned to duty.
BLACK, Lieut. J. actg. 2nd asst. to pol. agt. asst. ch. of agency.
BLAKENEY, Ens. W. 18th N.I. to be Lieut. from March 5 in suc. to Macdonald, dec.
BRUCE, Capt. C. J. art. returned to duty.
BURROWS, Lieut. 15th N.I. placed at the disp. of the C.-in-C.
CAVAYE, Col. W. 25th N.I. perm. to res. his command fr. March 28.
CRACKLOW, Lieut. col. comdt. H. com. gar. of Bombay, perm. to res. com. on May 23.
CREAGH, Lieut. 19th N.I. placed temp. at the disp. of the Military Board, March 10.
CURRIE, Lieut. J. 15th N.I. placed temp. at disp. of the C.-in-C. for reg. duty, March 10.
EALIS, Lieut. G. D. 29th N.I. to be 2nd in com. of Belooch batt. v. Thatcher, March 18.
FENNING, Capt. H. 21st N.I. to act as super. of police at Dharwar, dur. abs. of Cormack.
FORREST, Lieut. J. O. B. 3rd Eur. regt. placed at the disp. of the C.-in-C. March 10.
FRANCES, Capt. J. supt. Poona and Tanna rev. survey, to be an assist. to the coll. of Tanna.
GAYE, Lieut. art. to rec. vet. ch. of the horses of No. 6 lt. field batt. dur. abs. of Vet. surg. Hallen, March 18.
GILLESPIE, Ens. 2nd Eur. L.I. placed at the disp. of the C.-in-C. March 10.
GRANT, Capt. C. T. 3rd N.I. placed at the disp. of the C.-in-C. Mar. 10.
HENDERSON, Lieut. J. R. art. serv. pl. at disp. of the mil. dept. of Bengal Govt. and the Govt. of Bombay.
JACOB, Lieut. H. B. 18th N.I. to be capt. fr. Mar. 5, in success. to Macdonald, dec.
JOFF, Ens. D. A. W. 27th N.I. to be lieut. fr. Mar. 15, v. Phillipson, res.
KNIGHT, Lieut. 16th N.I. placed at the disp. of the C.-in-C. Mar. 10, to act as adj. to left wing.
LECHIE, Capt. 21st N.I. to office as executive engr. Rajpootana field force dur. abs. of Mumbey; to office as mag. of brig. to Rajpootana field force, v. Youngusband.
MACAULEY, Lieut. 16th N.I. placed temp. at the disp. of the C.-in-C. for reg. duty, Mar. 10.
MALCOLM, Capt. 1st N.I. placed at the disp. of the C.-in-C.
PATULLO, Capt. H. E. 1st Eur. regt. to proc. and join head qrs. of his corps at Aden, Mar. 22.
RAIKES, Lieut. S. N. 18th N.I. pass. exam. in Hind. qual. as interp. Mar. 10.
ROBERTS, Col. H. G. 21st N.I. perm. to resign his com. March 10.
ROSE, Lieut. 25th N.I. placed temp. at the disp. of the C.-in-C.
SCOBIE, Maj. D. M. 29th N.I. placed temp. at the disp. of the C.-in-C. March 14; to join his corps March 16.
STEVENSON, Lieut. 14th N.I. to act as q. m. fr. to 15th N.I. on dep. of Weinwright.
TAYLOR, Lieut. 20th N.I. placed temp. at the disp. of the C.-in-C. for reg. duty, March 10.
THACKER, Capt. S. 9th N.I. to be 2nd class commiss. agent at Surat, March 10.
TURNBULL, Ens. S. J. to do duty with 12th N.I.; to join.
WHITLIE, Maj. W. T. C. B. art. to be dy. princ. com. of ordnance at pres. v. Brett, dec. March 10.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE—ARRIVED AT THE DATE SPECIFIED.

INFANTRY.

LANE, W. M. March 10.
MCGILLIVRAY, S. F. March 10.
STEVENSON, A. J. W.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BALLARD, 2nd Lieut. J. A. enrs. 6 mo. to Eur. on m. c.
BILLAMORE, Lieut. G. R. 2nd Eur. L.I. fr. March 10 to April 30, to Bombay, on m. c.
BRYANS, Ens. J. W. 22nd N.I. 2 yrs. to Neilgherries, on m. c.
CAVAYE, Col. W. 25th N.I. to Eur. on furl.
COTTELL, Lieut. J. W. 26th N.I. fr. April 4 to May 4, in ext. to remain at Bombay.
CRACKLOW, Lieut. col. comdt. to Eur. on furl.
DICKSON, Lieut. W. D. 3rd N.I. two yrs. to Eur.
DICKINSON, Lieut. 1 mo. fr. April 3, to Presidency, prep. to apply for furl. to Europe.
DODD, Ens. J. D. C. 8th N.I. fr. March 15 to April 10, in ext. to Mahabuleshwar, on m. c.
FRASER, Brev. maj. T. G. 29th N.I. 6 mo. to Eur. on furl.
GAZE, Lieut. D. art. fr. April 15 to May 31.
GREEN, Capt. F. G. 7th N.I. 3 yrs. furl. to Eur. on m. c.
JACKSON, Brev. maj. T. fr. Apr. 10 to June 10, to Bombay and coast within the Presidency limits.
JONES, Lieut. W. S. 22nd N.I. 2 yrs. to Neilgherries, on m. c.
LITTLE, Lieut. A. B. 25th N.I. fr. Apr. 20 to June 10, to Neemuch.

LOWRY, Capt. E. 25th N.I. fr. date of dep. of his corps fr. Neemuch to Feb. 13, to rem. at Neemuch, on m. c.
MILLS, Ens. W. T. 25th N.I. 1 mo. fr. Apr. 1, in ext. to Bombay, on m. c.
ROBERTS, Col. H. G. 21st N.I. to Eur. on furl.
SMITH, Lieut. G. 2nd L.C. 1 mo. fr. Mar. 23, to Bombay, to be exam. in the Hind. lang.
STACK, Brig. 30 days.
TURNBULL, Ens. C. J. 1 mo. fr. Mar. 22.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BEATTY, Asst. surg. T. B. passed exam. in Hind. qual. as interp.
HUNTER, Asst. surg. to assume med. ch. of garrison staff and details at Asseerghur, dur. abs. of Trestrail, March 17.
PIRIE, Asst. surg. 26th N.I. to act as civ. surg. at Ahmednuggur, dur. abs. of Wyllie.
RITCHIE, Surg. D. M.D. 4th N.I. to act as med. store-keeper at pres. dur. abs. of Leggett, on m. c.
SHAW, Asst. surg. G. J. M.D. to be surg. fr. March 1, v. Nicholson, dec.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BATTERSBEE, Vet. surg. E. 2nd L.C. fr. March 16 to April 20, to Bombay, on m. c.
LARKINS, Asst. surg. T. B. leave cancelled.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

CAPEL, Mids. to join the Hastings, March 23.
CLARKSON, Mate, fr. the Hastings to the Victoria, March 23.
DASHWOOD, act. 2nd class 2nd mast. from the Ajdaha to the Victoria, March 23.
DE BOULAY, Volunt. J. G. arr. March 16, to join the Hastings.
DUNSTAN, act. mast. fr. the Victoria to the Hastings, March 23.
FRASER, Lieut. to join the Hastings, March 23.
HAMILTON, Lieut. R. to be forest ranger in Scinde, March 20.
JONES, Com. J. F. ret. to duty to com. the Cornet, March 10.
MONK, Mids. W. to join the Hastings, March 23.
NIXON, Lieut. to join the Ajdaha, March 23.
ROBINSON, Lieut. 3 yrs. furl. to Europe on m. c.
RUSHTON, Mate, to join the Hastings, March 23.
SEARLE, Mate, W. perm. to reside on shore, March 10.
TARLETON, Lieut. ret. to Bu. to join the Ajdaha, March 23.
TWINAM, Lieut. T. S. H. to join the Pulkand, March 23.
WILLIAMS, Asst. surg. L. to join the Hastings.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BROOKE, wife of Capt. J. C. Mezwar Bâtel-corps, d. at Kurrachee, March 14.
GILMORE, wife of Lieut. H.M.'s 78th highlanders, s. at Malabar, March 21.
KYTE, wife of C. J. S. at Gergaun, March 20.
NATCHEL, wife of W. d. Bycullab, March 23.
PRICE, wife of W. s. at Kurrachee, March 3.
SCOTT, wife of Lieut. W. 13th N.I. s. at Bombay, March 24.
WHITENBURY, wife of Mr. d. at Sholapore, Feb. 22.

MARRIAGES.

BEATTY, T. B. to Jane C. d. of Brig. Woodburn, a.n. at Kurrachee, March 16.
THACKER, Lieut. J. 9th N.I. to Emily, d. of the Rev. W. Beynon, at Belgaum, Feb. 21.

DEATHS.

CAMPBELL, Annie H. d. of Lieut. H. D. H.M.'s 78th, at Malabar Hill, March 19.
GENTLE, J. at Bombay, aged 34, March 21.
POWELL, Eliza C. inf. d. of Mr. at Mazagon, March 17.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

BOMBAY.—March 14. Culloden, McLean, Greenock; Salem, Gibson, Aden.—16. Steamer Ajdaha, —, Surat; steamer Douro, Hederstedt, London; Cocanada, Graves, Calcutta; steamer Malta, Purchase, China, Hong-Kong, Singapore, Penang, and Galle; Pauline, Pritchard, Bushire.—21. Nottingham, Robinson, Liverpool; Hero of the Nile, Hunt, London; steamer Victoria, Menesse, Kurrachee.—23. Caldera, Harrison, Sunderland; steamer Dwarka, Woolley, Kurrachee; steamer Bombay, Berte, Dwarka; Euphrates, from Mandavia.—24. Polinaise, Allen, Port Phillip and Point de Galle; Recruit, Morrison, Port Phillip.—26. Steamer Queen, —, Southampton.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Sir J. R. Carnie, from RUTNAGHERY.—Mr. and Mrs. Docker.
Per Ajdaha (March 16), from SURAT.—Lieut. Benison, H. M.'s 6th regt.
Per Cocanada (March 16), from CALCUTTA.—N. Musleah.
Per Malta (March 16), from CHINA, &c.—Lieut. Fraser, Mr. Bushon, Mr. Capel, Mr. McKenzie, Mr. Hollis, Mr. Pollard, Mr. Fauball, Mr. Brooks Wales, W. Fotheringham, F. McClelland, D. Lucy, W. Pike, Jewajee and Solbo, Indian navy, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Lungraus and servant, Mr. Bradford and servant, Hajee Mahomed Fakar.
Per Pauline (March 16), from BRECHER.—Mr. and Mrs. Gasper and 2 infants, Mrs. Litchfield and 1 infant, J. Amier, E. Arston.
Per Hero of the Nile (March 21), from LONDON.—A. Fullerton, esq.

Per Victoria (March 21), from KURRACHEE.—Maj. gen. Sir Henry Somerset, a.n. and s.n., Brig. Hearsey, Lieut. and Mrs. H. P. Berthon, art.; Lieut. Baynes, H. M.'s 60th Rifles; Lieut. C. W. Smith, 1st Fusiliers; Lieut. C. D. Riet, 9th Queen's Royal Lancers; Lieut. Becker, 43rd Bengal L.I.; Capt. and Mrs. Hall; Lieut. Hearsey, 86th Bengal inf.; Mr. Hill, H. M. 22nd regt.; Mrs. Shortrode and infant; Mrs. Barnett and two children.
Per Phlox, from SURAT.—Capt. and Mrs. Younghusband and child; Mr. London.

Per Carnac, from SURAT.—Capt. Sandwith, 1st Grenadiers.

Per Recruit (March 24), from PORT PHILLIP.—Mrs. Morrison, Mast. G. Morrison, Mrs. Hastings.

Per Dwarka (March 24), from KURRACHEE.—Mr. and Mrs. Frere and children, Mr. and Mrs. Sapte, Lieut. Forrest, Ensign Dickinson, Miss Clara Ellis.

Per steamer Queen (March 26), from SOUTHAMPTON.—Capt. and Mrs. Philpotts, Bom. army; Messrs. Durand, Boyd, and Cotgrave, cadets; Mr. Reach and Mr. Angier. FROM ADEN.—Mrs. Cruttenden and Mrs. Thorold.

DEPARTURES.

MARCH 13.—Victoria, Smith, Calcutta; Redgauntlet, Kerr, Whampoa; Hamood, Barnes, Mauritius; Union, London, Bordeaux; Queen's Town, Haiman, London; Janet Wilson, Barr, Glasgow; Mahomed Saduck Samdany, Pichey, Colombo and Madras.—14. Patriot, King, Wise, Liverpool.—18. Steamer Cadiz, Roberts, Galle, Penang, Singapore, and Hong-Kong.—22. Captain, Danford, London.—23. Steamer Ajdaha, Barker, Kurrachee and Scinde; William Gillies, Brown, Liverpool.—24. Glen-dorah, Smith, Singapore and China.—28. Steamer Victoria, —, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Cadiz (March 14), to GALLE, &c.—For GALLE. Mrs. Tritton, Miss Leishing, Capt. and Mrs. Lodwick, Dr. and Mrs. Le Galt; Mr. Bou-verie, H.M.'s 22nd regt.; Mr. Bowing, Bengal c.s. For PSANG.—Dr. and Mrs. Maillardet. For HONG-KONG.—Dorabjee Pestonjee Camjee, Esq.; Heerjeebhoy Hormusjee, Esq. For CALCUTTA.—Capt. and Mrs. Ramsay.

Per Captain, to LONDON.—Mrs. Danford.

Per Sir J. R. Carnac, to SURAT.—Mr. G. B. Macconochie and several natives.

Per William Gillies, to LIVERPOOL.—Mrs. Brown.

Per Glendarah, to SINGAPORE and CHINA.—Mr. Macdonald, Mr. Flynn, Mr. and Mrs. Miller and child, Master Smith, and 41 natives.

Per Mountstuart Elphinstone, to SURAT.—Three gentlemen and several natives.

Per steamer Victoria (March 26), to SURAT.—Lady Jackson and 3 children, Mr. and Mrs. Kinloch Forbes and 3 children, Mrs. Rivett, Miss Lenders and 2 children of the Hon. John Warden, Mr. and Mrs. Frere and 3 children, Mrs. Barnett and Mrs. Saptis and 2 children, Mrs. Mylne and a child, Mrs. H. W. Brett, Mrs. Col. Delamain and 3 children, Mr. William Clure, A. A. Triscott, Esq. Brig. J. B. Hearsey, Lieut. J. Hearsey, Hajee Jooosob Hajee Sayebdina, J. Tanner, Esq. Capt. F. G. Green, Rev. George Candy, G. H. Walker, Esq. Fe John Mary, Madame St. Teresa, Madame St. Joachim, Rustumjee Sorabjee, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, Shaik Ibrahim, Cursetjee Manuckjee.

COMMERCIAL.

Bombay, March 28, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

4 per cent. transfer loan ..	Rs. 100 for Nos. regist.
5 Do. do. 1841-42 ..	for trans. p. 100 Sa.
4 Do. do. 1832-33 ..	Rs. 100 Co.'s
4 Do. do. 1835-36 ..	Rs. 100 p. 100 Sa.
4 Do. do. 1842-43 ..	Rs. 101½ p. 100 Ca.
	Rs. 101½ do.

PRICES OF BULLION.

Sovereigns, each .....	Rs. 10½ nominal.
Bank of England Notes, per £ .....	10½ nominal.
Spanish Dollars, per 100 .....	332
German Crowns .....	218
Sycee Silver, per 100 tolas .....	104½ to 105½
Gold Leaf, per tola, range of quality .....	16 5-16ths
Gold Ingots, according to touch, per tola .....	16 5-16ths

BANK SHARES.

Bombay Bank .....	Rs. 1,000 each	1,000 pd. up	30 p. ct. pm. sales
Oriental Bank .....	250 each	250 do.	85 sales.
Commercial Bank ..	1,000 each	500 do.	26½
Agra Bank .....	500 each	500 do.	45 p. ct.
Bank of Madras .....	1,000 each	1,000 do.	16 p. ct. pm.
Apollo Press Com...	12,500 each	12,000 do.	19,000
Colaba Press Com...	7,000 each	7,000 do.	6,000
Colaba Land Com...	10,000 each	10,000 do.	9,500
Bombay S. N. Com.	510 each	400 do.	55 p. ct. dis.
Gr. Ind. P. R. Com.	12 Rs. prem.	each share.	—Sales.

EXCHANGES.

On London—at	6 months' sight, per rupee, 2s. 1½d.	For doc. bills.
6 .....	2s. 0d. 15-16ths to 2s. 1d.	For cred. bills.
On Calcutta at 60 days' sight, per 100....	98 13-16ths.
..... 30 days' sight .....	99½
..... at sight .....	99 13-16ths.

FRIEGHTS.

Our quotations are, to London and Liverpool, £4. 5s.; China, per candy, Rs. 21.

CEYLON. DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

DRONKER, wife of J. B. d. at Colombo, March 13.
FELSINGER, wife of J. B. R. s. at Kornegalle, March 10.
SHAND, wife of C. d. at Colombo, March 16.
TYLER, Mrs. s. at Kandy, March 22.

MARRIAGE.

BARNES, A. to B. Mary Ann, d. of H. V. Deerlin, at Madras, Feb. 22.

DEATHS.

BAILEY, Charles B. s. of the Rev. B. at Colombo, aged 4, Mar. 9.
BENNETT, John, at Colombo, aged 22, March 19.
DONEVE, B. F. S. d. of E. F. at Colombo, aged 1, March 12.
EBERT, Mary L. inf. d. of C. D. at Colombo, March 18.

CHINA.

THE LONDON MAIL of January 9th arrived at Hong-Kong February 26th (per Norna). The Singapore, with London Mail of January 24th, left Singapore March 6th, en route to Hong-Kong.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTH.

HANCOCK, wife of W. d. at sea, on board the St. Norna, Feb. 25.

MARRIAGE.

BROWN, Henry, D. to Ellen, d. of Sir J. Douglas, at Victoria, March 3.

DEATH.

URMSON, inf. s. of G. at Macao, March 4.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

FEB. 23. Guinare, Lucas, Hobart Town.—24. Hero, Finlay, Liverpool.—26. Norna, Black, Bombay. MAR. 2. Bitah, Woods, North Pacific.—5. Wynnstay, Langley, Liverpool.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per steamer Norna (Feb. 26).—Mr. Newby, Mr. and Mrs. Hancock, Miss Douglas, Mr. Maitland, Mr. Pavion, Asst. surg. Austen, Mr. Menjies, R.M., Lieut. Barnaby, R.N., Capt. Searle, R.M.
Per Jorge Juan.—Mr. Wise, Mr. Bugland.
Per Zephyr.—Mr. Taylor and Mr. Comstock.
Per Wynnstay (Mar. 5).—Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Dick and son, and Miss Nordstedt.
Per steamer Salamander.—H. E. Sir Geo. Bonham and suite.

DEPARTURES.

FEB. 23. Evangeline, Hutton, Liverpool.—24. Matilda, Guldger, Port Phillip.—MAR. 1. Walter, Morrice, Port Phillip; Martha, Chambers, Port Phillip; Alert, Smith, Liverpool.—5. Leo, Clark, Australia.—8. Thomazine, Holmes, Sydney.—11. Norna, —, Point de Galle.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Jorge Juan.—Mr. John Wise and Mr. Pavion.
Per steamer Lady Mary Wood.—Messrs. W. Kay, W. Crampton, Piccopp, W. S. Wetmore, W. G. Howell, J. L. Dawes, A. Smith, E. W. Robinson, E. C. Smith, and Capt. Chape.
Per Pathfinder.—Messrs. Julius Meyer, William Buckler, and C. G. da Cruz.
Per Norna (March 11), for SOUTHAMPTON.—Messrs. George Chapman and W. Stericker. For MALTA.—Mr. W. O. Comstock. For ALEXANDRIA.—Mr. Mrs. and Miss Rosales, Mr. Ramon Acha, Mr. Jose Eulate, and Mr. Enrique Alburung. For BOMBAY.—Mr. F. Hubibhoy.

COMMERCIAL.

China, March 11, 1854.

EXCHANGES AND BULLION.

On England, Bills, 4s. 1d.

On India Company's Accepted, Rs. 233 to 234 per 100 doll.

Californian Gold, 14 to 15 doll. per ounce.

FREIGHTS.

To England, £6 10s. to £7. To the United States, 22 to 24 dolls.

IMPORTS (Shanghai, March 2).—Cotton Goods.—In grey shirtings considerable improvement has been manifested. Purchases have been chiefly on foreign account, and some few damaged goods disposed of at auction. Woolens.—We do not hear of any purchases, except long ells—2,000 pieces bought on foreign account at 5 dol. 10 cents. per piece. Lead.—Has been more in demand. Sales, 1,40 peculs at 5 dolls. 50 cents.—present price about 6 dolls. 50 cents.

MANILLA.

SHIPMENT OF MERCHANDIZE IN SPANISH WAR-STEAMERS.

The new Governor-General of the Phillipines—the Marquis De Novaliches—has gone to work with a will on his entrance into office, as will be seen from the following translations from the Boletin de Filipinas of the 16th ult., of two of his editals. The want of a regular steam communication with Manilla has long been felt, and the closing of the first despatch, announced for to-day, will be red-lettered in the annals of our Luzon and China intercourse. For the proverbially proud Spanish Government to permit the shipment of merchandize in their war-steamers, is a concession to public interests which the good community of Manilla, we hope, will duly appreciate.

Manila, February 13th, 1854.

As there exists at the present time two communications every month from Europe to Singapore and China, via Suez, and we have not yet established any private line of steamers between those ports and this, for the transport of passengers and light merchandize and jewellery; and the inhabitants of this vast and rich place, both native and foreign, more especially the military and civil employes, coming from and going to the mother country, having no sure means of taking advantage of that route; and this government being anxious to give the greatest facility to improve the communications with the metropolis, whilst no private line of steamers is established between this port and Singapore or China, for the carrying out so much desired an object, I propose to influence and aid with the most decided protection and help of this government: so that from hence we may begin to reap the advantages as much as possible of such communications. I therefore decree the following:—

Art. 1st. Once every month will leave this for Hong-Kong, one of the war steamers, as the convenience of the service may permit, with proper anticipation, the day of her intended departure and name of the vessel being duly announced.

Art. 2nd. Passengers shall be admitted to the cabin, forward, and upper decks, and fine merchandize, gold, silver, and jewellery, both going and coming, as far as the capacity of the vessel and other circumstances will permit.

Art. 3rd. There will be a special agency here and at Hong-Kong for the sale of (passenger) tickets, and for the adjustment of freight on above classes of merchandize.

Art. 4th. The agencies of this and Hong-Kong will publish shortly the tariff of passage-money and freights, in agreement with the instructions of this government.

Art. 5th. There will be on board a special superintendent to negotiate with the agents and passengers in respect to their maintenance, to sign bills of lading, receive goods, &c.

(Signed) NOVALICHES.

THE CIGAR FACTORIES.

CIRCULAR.

Superintendent of Trade's Office.

The departments to which I have given most attention; on taking charge of this superintendency, are those of the cigar factories, their revenue being the most important of the islands, and which promises to reunite more elements for a prosperity always on the ascendancy. But neither the fertility of the soil, nor the good quality of the tobacco which it produces, nor the wise dispositions of H.M.'s Government, will be sufficient properly to augment this precious source of public prosperity, if the heads and employes of the factories do not carry out their obligations with zeal and integrity.

I then recommend the inspector and accountant general, and the inspectors of the factories, to take the greatest care that this leaf tobacco be distributed to the work tables in the proper proportion; that there is the proper quantity of each class; and, to the working up, that they correct the defects they may observe in the manufacture of cigars and cigarillos; that they examine if the cigars are worked up with proper merit; if they are of the exact size and weight; and, finally, that they keep an incessant watch so that the manufacture may improve and arrive at the greatest imaginable perfection, in order that the current cigars may fill the desire of the consumers, and augment this branch; at the same time that the manufacture of the superiors, destined for exportation, may augment the credit which cigars from these factories have in foreign markets.

Confident that it never will be necessary for me to use severe measures towards the heads, employers, and workpeople of all classes, to induce them to comply with their respective duties in exactness and vigilance, I simply tell them that I shall always have my attention fixed on their conduct; and it will be my greatest satisfaction to find nothing but merit, which the Government through me will amply recompense.

(Signed) THE MARQUIS OF NOVALICHES.

—Friend of China, March 1.

* * Should any delay or irregularity occur in supplying this paper, a communication of the fact to the Publishers will insure a remedy.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL,

LONDON,

FRIDAY, April 28, 1854.

TESTIMONIES TO THE MERITS OF THE CHINESE SYSTEM.

IN our last publication we announced that the note of preparation had been sounded for the application to India of the Chinese system of manufacturing state functionaries. It is somewhat edifying to observe how little expectation its advocates entertain of its success, or of its operating in the way of improvement at all. Sir Thomas Erskine Perry is one of its admirers, and in the course of his examination last session, before the committee of the House of Lords, being asked, "Do you consider that you always get the best man for active service, by selecting the person who is able to carry off a prize at an examination in a school?" he answered, "No, I should not be inclined to say so." A little further on, being thus addressed by a noble member of the committee, "You do not consider an examination at a school as necessarily testing a man's fitness for practical work in India, but only as testing his general ability?" the answer is, "I am not sure that it even does that. I have observed in life, that those men who distinguish themselves at school and at the university, very often do so by great cramming, and go over the heads of much abler men than themselves, who are idle;"—it might have been added, or who are diffident; and it should have been added, that when the cramming is over and the prize awarded, the well-crammed man will cram no more. His purpose is answered, his object is gained, and he will live upon the credit of his former gluttony. It is a fine thing to talk about sifting out the talent of the country, and bringing it forward; of picking out the grains of wheat, and blowing away the chaff; but the Chinese system does not, and never can, effect this operation with certainty, or with anything approaching to certainty. You get men who make a show on parade, but this is all. Another witness before the Lords' committee,—Mr. George Campbell, says: "I do not think that any test on entering college can ever be sufficient, because I do not think that sort of examination could be made strict enough without producing a cramming education, which I believe is most prejudicial in every way." We have seen what is the opinion of Sir Erskine Perry, a champion of the Chinese system, as to its tendency to secure even the highest general ability. Mr. Horace Hayman Wilson, in his evidence before the Commons' committee, after offering a favourable judgment as to its possible effects in insuring a "highly-educated class of men," adds, "I am not quite sure that there would be a more respectable class of men." So we shall probably fail of securing either talent or respectability by adopting the Chinese system; but we are to have it, because, by one of those caprices of fashion which affect both the highest and the lowest matters, the studies of incipient manhood as well as the shape and material of a lady's slipper, it happens to be the rage.

But as admission to office is to be regulated à la Chinoise, why not try to borrow something else useful or elegant from the Chinese? The fine arts are much talked about; why not seek from the Chinese the means of their improvement among ourselves? For instance, why not take from that ancient and highly-respectable people a few lessons in the laws of perspective? We hope this hint will be attended to. Pigtales are forgotten; but we need not despair of seeing our countrymen walking about with Chinese appendages of this nature, which shall put to shame the paltry attempts made by our forefathers of the days of George the Third towards cultivating tails.

NEWS FOR INDIAN READERS, AND THOSE WHO SEND THEM BOOKS.

THE transmission of books through the post to India, Ceylon, and Mauritius (a privilege, it is called), by way of Egypt, has, in consequence of there being "a screw loose," been resumed. On the 19th of this present April it became lawful, and will remain so until the Post-office authorities shall change their minds, to forward "printed books, magazines, reviews, and pamphlets (whether British, colonial, or foreign), by the overland mail, via Southampton." We have followed the official enumeration as the safe course, although that enumeration appears to throw a doubt upon the fact that the Edinburgh Review and the New Monthly Magazine, and the trash published by some society, the name of which we forget, are actually printed books, and not recondite and valuable MSS. And now for an answer to the important question, "What is to pay?" On this point the announcement is more clear than satisfactory. Early in the notice we find a passage setting forth, in apologetic mode, "the great difficulty and expense attending the transmission of heavy packets across the Isthmus of Suez." This is in the true style of advertising wine-merchants, who dwell upon the failure of the vines in many wine-producing countries as a reason for—the reader knows what is to follow. So this touch of trade on the part of the Post-office is succeeded by the information that "a slight addition will be made to the charge formerly levied." The "charge formerly levied,"—to speak commercially, as the Post-office has taught us,—was a shilling a pound; books, not weighing more than half a pound, being carried for sixpence. Now—and we request attention to the fact that we are at present speaking of what is, and not of what has been—the charge is to be sixteen pence per pound; books under half a pound eightpence; no broken parts of a pound recognised beyond this, a book over one pound being charged as two pounds, &c. If it were allowable to animadvert on any part of the proceedings of so awful a department as the Post-office, we would submit that an increase of charge, amounting to thirty-three per cent., can scarcely with propriety be described as a slight addition: it appears to our unsophisticated minds, unhackneyed in the mysteries of postal verbiage, to be rather a considerable one. But as a well-known upholder of the powers that were some fifty or sixty years ago, John Bowles, after a slight (really slight) expression of disapprobation, said "A feeling of respectful loyalty closes" our "lips," or stops the course of our pen, or dries up our ink,—or anything the reader pleases. We go on, to use the language of the shop in which the Post-office notice initiates us, to the "next article." No packet for India—mark these words—must exceed three pounds in weight. The word "packet" requires a caution, being equivocal. A packet must contain one book, or magazine, or review, or pamphlet, although, according to the ordinary use of language, a packet might contain any number; but Post-office language is not ordinary. A sort of explanation upon this point is given in a subsequent part of the notice, but the explanation is about as dark as the thing explained. It is as follows:—"It [the packet] must contain a single volume only (whether printed book, magazine, review, or pamphlet), the several sheets or parts thereof, when there are more than one, being sewed or bound together." Now a magazine or review is always published in separate parts: if half a dozen numbers were sewed together, would the Post-office pass the whole as one "packet?" To guard our friends from being misled, we will give our opinion, though of course with great humility. We do not think that half a year's magazines merely sewed together would be admitted to be one packet, though if bound together, perhaps they would. A magazine, review, and even a pamphlet, is declared a volume—another departure from customary forms of speech! But with deep contrition we check our arrogant quill. It is decided that a number of a magazine is a volume, and a volume, we suppose, a number,—

"Nought is everything and everything is nought."

So we submit, as becomes such very humble persons. To return to the limitation to three pounds weight in regard to India. This does not apply to Ceylon and Mauritius, for there is an express provision that on packets for these places, exceeding three pounds, the charge for the excess is to be at the market rate of sixteen pence a pound. Why this difference? Mr. Rowland Hill has taken most elaborate pains to prove to us that distance ought not to be considered an element in the charge for postage. Why then should India be restricted from postal advantages conceded to Ceylon and Mauritius? The other conditions are much as before. Every "packet must be sent without a cover, or in a cover open at the ends or sides;" no packet must exceed two feet in length, breadth, width, or depth;"—the difference between breadth and width we leave to the Post-office authorities to settle, we cannot;—there must be "no writing upon the cover or its contents, except the name and address of the person to whom it may be sent;"—so that if a man happen to possess a volume enriched with notes by Bentley or Porson, or Burney, he must not make a present of it to a friend in India, or he will have to pay fearfully; the postage must be prepaid in stamps. Books, &c. for Hong-Kong will be subject to the "increased scale of charge," whether to the limitation as to weight is not stated. Indeed, the framer of the notice seems to have forgotten till the very last moment that such a place as Hong-Kong existed, notwithstanding the knight in Mr. Glover's popular song consigned his lady-love thither, and notwithstanding, moreover, it has recently been brought before the public eye by the ever-memorable appointment of a Governor, a Commander-in-Chief, a Vice-Admiral, and we know not what besides.

Lastly, Parliamentary papers, for Ceylon or Hong-Kong, will be subject to the same rates and conditions as printed books; but it is added, that "no alteration will at present be made in the charge on Parliamentary proceedings to the East Indies or Mauritius;" and on this matter we leave the reader to his own meditations.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

THUGS and Phansigars existed long before their existence was suspected by Europeans; and possibly many other associations, whether for lawful or unlawful purposes, may at some time be brought to light, but of which at this time no one dreams. In our last number, we quoted from the Friend of India an account of certain secret societies at Singapore, the objects of which appear to be to secure impunity for their members, whatever they may do, and to declare war on all mankind beside. These societies are composed exclusively of Chinese, a race very numerous at Singapore. Their members are bound together by oaths, which have only lately been discovered; but it is obviously high time for authority to deal with the parties to them in a vigorous manner. These oaths bind to the performance of some moral duties, but they bind also to breaches of the fundamental laws of morality—to acts which, indeed, remove and set at nought all the bonds of society, and turn man loose upon his fellow-man. A breach of the laws of this brotherhood,—and it is a breach of them to abstain from standing by a brother, right or wrong,—is punishable with death. Thus murder stalks abroad, under a mask indeed; but is by this circumstance rendered more terrible. No one beyond the circle of conspirators knows who is the contemplated victim, for vengeance extends to all who have the misfortune to incur the hatred of these atrocious associations. Nothing is recorded of the secret societies of the middle ages, nothing can be found in the practices of the Jesuits, more appalling than the dogmas and deeds of the criminal fanatics who actually abound in a dependency of Queen Victoria. The European inhabitants of Singapore naturally look upon these societies with feelings of alarm; and their continued existence, now that their rules are no longer matter of doubt, would be a libel upon the character of any government pretending to be civilized. At least it ought to be ascertained whether the lawful government, as we take it to be, or its secret rival, is to have the upper hand. Singapore has prospered, and its commercial progress has been rapid almost beyond precedent. But once let it be known, or even generally suspected, that life and property are there not secure, and its decline, if not more speedy than its rise, will be not less certain. A government determined to uphold right, and strong enough to enforce its determination, is nowhere more necessary than in a place which has sprung into importance as if by the wand of the magician.

DR. CARR, late Bishop of Bombay, has accepted the rectory of Bath, at the hands of the trustees of the late Mr. Simeon, of Cambridge, the patron. The annual value of the benefice is 750l.

INDIAN SUBSTITUTES FOR RUSSIAN HEMP. — At the last meeting of the Society of Arts Dr. Forbes Royle read a paper on "Indian Fibres fit for textile Fabrics, or for Rope and Paper-making." He stated that in the white-fibred plants, such as the bowstring hemp, the aloe, the pita-fibre, the pine-apple, and, above all, the plantain, we had boundless resources of material not only for paper-making, but for cordage, which would rival Manila hemp, or the American aloe which bridged over broad rivers. The oakum of these plants might be converted into paper, and the fibres into fabrics of different qualities; and, though they might not be fitted for making knots, they would yet make ropes which were capable of bearing considerable strains. Among the malvaceous and leguminous plants, or those among which the brown hemp and "sunn" of India were found, with the jute among the linden tribe, we had a variety of cheap products, because the plants could be grown with ease and their fibres separated with facility. If we required fibres possessed of all the strength of Russian or of Polish hemp, we should find this property not only in the hemp of the Himalaya, but in the various nettles which clothed the foot of these mountains, from Assam to the Sutlej. One of the latter—the rhea fibre—he felt assured would not only undersell every other fibre, but, in point of strength, would take a position second to none of all the fibres at present imported. Some of this fibre had been made into a 5-inch rope, and had been tried at Messrs. Huddart's rope manufactory, where it was found that each square inch made from the wild rhea bore, in the first experiment, 844 lbs.; in the second experiment, 894 lbs.; and that from the rhea fibre, 910 lbs.; while the average strength of rope made with the best hemp, and after numerous experiments, from the year 1803 to 1808, was 805 lbs. per square inch. In December last some experiments were made at the East-India Company's military stores, with fibres of equal weights and of equal lengths. The weight that each fibre broke with was ascertained to be as follows: St. Petersburg hemp, 160 lbs.; Jubbul-pore hemp, 190 lbs.; Wuckoonar fibre, 175 lbs.; mudar, or yercum fibre (common all over India), 190 lbs.; China grass, 250 lbs.; rhea fibre, 320 lbs.; wild rhea, from Assam, 343 lbs.; and Kote Kangra hemp, no breakage at 400 lbs. This hemp was the cannabis sativa of botanists, and was cultivated in every part of India on account of the intoxicating property of its leaves. Dr. Royle stated, in conclusion, that the Court of Directors had ordered twenty tons of the rhea fibres, as well as of the Himalayan hems, to be sent here yearly for the purpose of having them tried. A vast number of specimens of the different fibres, and of the articles manufactured from them, have been left at the Society of Arts, for a few days, for inspection.

EAST-INDIA SHIPPING.—The East-India and China Association have published their usual comparative statement of the number of ships, both British and foreign, with their aggregate tonnage, entered inward and cleared outward with cargo from and to places within the limits of the East-India Company's charter, from the 1st of January to the 31st of March, in the years 1853 and 1854. According to the statistics of vessels entered inward, the port of London shows an increase of 35 vessels and 19,734 tonnage, the difference between 187 vessels with 97,595 tonnage in 1854, and 152 vessels with 78,861 tonnage in 1853. Liverpool exhibits an increase of 10 vessels and 7,814 tonnage, the arrivals in the former period having been 63 vessels with 39,095 tonnage, and, in the latter, 53 vessels with 31,281 tonnage. Bristol figures for an increase of 3 vessels and 3,166 tonnage, the difference between 16 vessels with 7,118 tonnage in 1854, and 13 vessels with 3,952 tonnage in 1853. The return for the Clyde presents an increase of 8 vessels and 4,141 tonnage, the arrivals in the former period having been 24 vessels with 10,052 tonnage, and in the latter 16 vessels with 5,911 tonnage. The total increase is 55 vessels and 33,490 tonnage, the difference between 290 vessels with 153,860 tonnage, and 235 vessels with 120,370 tonnage. The principal arrivals have been from Madras, Bombay, Ceylon, Singapore, Mauritius, New South Wales, Phillipine Islands, and the Cape of Good Hope. The statistics of vessels cleared outward show a general decrease. In the case of the port of London it is 59 vessels and 11,748 tonnage, the difference between 168 vessels with 88,016 tonnage in 1854, and 227 vessels with 99,764 tonnage in 1853. Liverpool figures for a decrease of 43 vessels and 13,311 tonnage, the departures in the former period having been 73 vessels with 46,068 tonnage, and in the latter, 116 vessels with 56,409 tonnage. Bristol presents a decrease of 1 vessel and 211 tonnage, the difference between 2 vessels with 473 tonnage and 3 vessels with 684 tonnage. The return for the Clyde exhibits a decrease of 19 vessels and 1,803 tonnage, the departures having been 24 vessels with 11,803 tonnage, against 43 vessels with 13,606 tonnage in 1853. The total decrease, as exhibited by the general return, is 119 vessels and 26,419 tonnage, the difference between 267 vessels with 146,360 tonnage, and 386 vessels with 172,779 tonnage. The chief diminution has occurred in the departure of vessels for New South Wales, New Zealand, &c., the decrease having been 71 vessels; but the amount of tonnage in those cases has not seriously declined, being only 6,873 tons below the corresponding period last year. The other items of decrease are connected with the number of vessels which have sailed for Calcutta, Bombay, China, Singapore, and Penang, Java, and Sumatra, and the Cape of Good Hope.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

APRIL 15.—Alice Thompson, Henderson, Madras.—17. Crown, Chandler, Bengal; Empress, Thorn, Mauritius; Camertonian, Kirkpatrick, Bengal.—18. Harbinger (steamer), Lane, Sydney and Melbourne; Sovereign of the Seas, Warner, Melbourne; Duke of Bronte, Lawson, Madras.—19. Allison, Marshall, Singapore.—20. Richard Battersby, Jeffrey, Bengal; Hydaspes (steamer), Benson, Bengal and Cape; Spirit of the North, Howard, Bengal.—21. Albion, Adams, Madras and Pondicherry; Security, Pennington, Hong Kong; Royal George, Stapleton, Bengal; Mehemet Ali, Gallilee, Madras.—24. Sibella, Withers, Ceylon; Parland, Smith, Penang; Neptune, Dunlop, Madras and Karikae (at Havre); Somnauth, Lawson, Bombay; Vallisneria, Fowler, Cape; John Martin, Clark, Mauritius.—25. Statesman, Godfrey, Port Philip; Constance, Carr, Maulmain. 27. Blackwall, McKerie, Melbourne; Pantaloon, Guy, Mauritius; Panic, Ingleton, Shanghai.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED AT SOUTHAMPTON.

APRIL 18, per steamer Hydaspes.—Lieut. and Mrs. Gossett and 2 infants, Mrs. Shillito, Capt. J. H. Fergusson, Mr. C. E. and Mrs. Davidson and 2 children, Mr. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins and 2 infants, Mr. and Mrs. Prosser and 2 children, Maj. and Mrs. Huish and 2 children, Mrs. Forsyth and child, Miss Benson, Lieut. E. Smyth, Mrs. Hyde and 2 infants, Mr. H. S. Inglis, Lieut. W. Wilson, Mr. T. A. Dearman, Mrs. Stewart, Capt. and Mrs. McLeod and 2 children, Hon. E. W. Douglas, Mr. R. Hunt, Lieut. R. W. Pilkington, Mrs. Austin and 2 children, Mrs. Marriott and 2 children, Mr. Grierson, 2 Master Brockmans, Master Batchelor, Mrs. Louiver and 2 children, Mr. Frank, Mr. Atkinson, Mrs. J. Shaw and 2 children, Mr. Grey, Mrs. Laing and child, Dr. and Miss Donaldson, Mr. T. Deas, Mons. Enouf, Mons. Fert, Maj. and Mrs. Browne and 5 children, Mr. W. Edwards, Mr. J. A. Brodie, Col. and Mrs. Armstrong and 2 children, Mons. Gludie, Mrs. St. John and 2 children, Mrs. Wyllie, Mr. Broadway, Mr. Myburgh and 2 sons, Mr. Merrell, Mr. Yorke, Lieut. Gore, Col. Cloete, Lieut. Col. Forbes, and Lieut. Thornton, &c.

PASSENGERS EXPECTED AT SOUTHAMPTON.

MAY 3.—Per steamer Colombo.—Mr. and Mrs. Halliday and 2 children, Mr. and Mrs. Begbie and infant, Dr. Campbell, Mr. Marriott, Mr. and Mrs. Ross and child, Mr. Loch, Mr. Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Austin, Col. Downing, Mr. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Dodd, Captain E. Christian, Mr. J. S. Roughed, Lord S. D. Compton, Maj. and Mrs. G. F. C. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Symonds, Miss Thomas, Miss Slater, Lieut. C. Steel, and Capt. J. Stewart's child.

DEPARTURES.

From the Downs, APRIL 11.—Spirit of the Age, Heaton, Sydney; Caucasian, Davidson, Bombay.—13. Racer, Ainsworth, Sydney.—14. Ballarat, Jones, Melbourne; Ann Black, Bell, Kurrachee and Maulmain; Alice Maud, Winn, Algoa Bay; John Knox, Munro, Cape; Merry Monarch, Melville, Bombay; Gladiator, Skelton, Mauritius.—18. Gratitude, Simpkin, Madras; Spirit of the Deep, Hewitt, Calcutta.—20. Rubens, Ritchie, Mauritius.—22. Canopus, Crosby, Cape; Centurion, Edwards, Bombay; Maggie, Fluelin, Hong-Kong.—23. Clara Ann, Hatch, and Chieftain, Dewar, Calcutta.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Ripon, from SOUTHAMPTON (April 19), to proceed per steamer Bombay, from SUEZ.—For MALTA, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Drury, Asst. surg. Langham, Asst. surg. Cussell, Asst. surg. Miller, Mr. J. F. Gunning, Dept. act. comm. gen. Webb, Col. Allen, Mr. L. Army, Pay mr. Pope, Mrs. Pope, Capt. Sankey, Capt. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. de Fonblanque and infant, Act. comy. gen. Edwards, do. Routh, do. Downes, do. Hawkins, Mrs. Reira, Mr. Davidson, Gen. Airy, Gen. Buller, Col. Lord, W. Paulett, Maj. Airy, Maj. Mackenzie, Capt. Hackett, Lieut. Hon. H. Clifford, Dr. Fortenth, Mr. Romaine. For ALEXANDRIA.—Mr. Hoskins, Lt. Gardner, Mr. Gardner. For ADEN.—Mr. Baumbach, Mrs. Manger and infant, Mr. J. W. Ward, Lieut. Hawkin, Capt. E. Simpson, Capt. Fearon, Mrs. Fearon, Mr. Steven, Mrs. Moyle, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell. For CEYLON.—Mr. Portman, Miss Cohen, Mr. C. Robertson. For MADRAS.—Rev. C. and Mrs. Rhenius and child, Mr. T. H. Fenwick, Capt. Disbrow, Mr. Gunning, Mr. Master, Capt. Tripe, Mr. and Mrs. Collins, Mr. J. D. Nicholson, Lieut. Gough, Mr. Pharaoh. For CALCUTTA.—Mr. Stephenson, Miss Norton, Mr. D. McGill, Mr. R. Hodge, Mr. Repton, Mr. Patton, Mr. and Mrs. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Palin, Mr. R. Drabble. For SINGAPORE.—Mr. and Mrs. Fraser, Miss Rawson, Mr. Sames. For HONG-KONG.—Mr. Andrews, Mr. Simpson.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BEVAN, the wife of F. R. s. at Cheshunt, April 23.
BEVAN, the wife of Beckford, d. at Cheverells, Herts, April 22.
HOPKINS, the wife of Capt. s. at Italian-villa, Bays-hill, Cheltenham, April 19.
KEITH, Mrs. s. (stillborn), at 3, Marlborough-hill-gardens, St. John's-wood, April 17.
PINE, the wife of C. 4th dragoon guards, s. at Newbridge, April 20.

MARRIAGES.

BLANDY, Frederick, to Ellen M. M. d. of the late Capt. John T. Hon. E.I. Co.'s service, at St. James's, Piccadilly, April 25.
CRUMP, Henry, of Graham's Town, Cape of Good Hope, to Maria A. d. of John Penrice, at St. Mary's, Gloucester, Apr. 22.
DOUGLAS, Lieut. John R. M. to Margaret J. d. of Capt. G. A. Barton, late of the 8th Bengal L. Cavalry, at Plymouth, March 25.
GADSDEN, Frederick, 5th Madras N.I. to Mary C. d. of the late Capt. Thomas Warlow, Bengal engineers, at Lee, Kent, April 20.
HAY, William J. to Maria, d. of George Canham, late of Purneah, Bengal, at St. John's church, Kensington, April 18.
MINIFIE, William, of the East India House, to Francis A. third d. of William Collingwood, of Bow, Middlesex, at St. Mary's, Stratford-le-Bow, April 27.
RAWLINS, Lieut. James J. 44th Bengal N.I. to Emma A. W. d. of the late Major Parke, H.M.'s 61st regt. at Walcot, Bath, April 20th.
SEAWARD, George, M. S. Bombay Medical Establishment, to Maria, d. of Robert Molsey, at St. George the Martyr, Queen-square.

DEATHS.

ASHBURNHAM, Lady Elizabeth F. at Richmond, aged 90 years and 11 months, April 16.
 CUMBERLAND, Lieut. Richard R. 61st Bengal N.I. at Walcot, near Brigg, aged 26, April 12.
 DAY, Emma, wife of Capt. J. H. of the ship Soubahdar, at Greenhithe, aged 26, April 17.
 EDEN, Elfrida, eldest d. of Sir William and Lady, of Windlestone Hall, county of Durham, at Harrogate, aged 9 years and 2 months, April 22.
 EYKYN, Capt. James, 15th Madras N.I. of Achleton, Shropshire, April 16.
 FLETCHER, Mrs. Charlotte, widow of the late Major Joseph, of the old 12th Bengal N.I. aged 79, April 11.
 HOOPER, Walter R. third s. of W. T. of the East-India House, and Elm Lodge, Walthamstow, by the accidental discharge of a gun, aged 12, April 14.
 HORSBURN, W. H. of Newpark, N. B., at Brompton-row, April 8.
 MARRIOTT, Charlotte P. relict of Capt. Richard, Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, at Horsham, aged 80, April 15.
 MARJORIBANKS, Clementina Burdett, d. of Edward, jun. at 28, Belgrave-square, aged 1 yr. and 6 months, April 19.
 MILLETT, Bertha, M., d. of Charles, at Maiden Evlegh, Berks, aged 3, April 20.
 SCATCHERD, Lieut. G. R. 24th Bombay N.I. s. of the late J. T. Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, at Oliver-terrace, Mile End-road, Apr. 18.
 SHILLITO, Jane Charlotte, the wife of surgeon, 51st Bengal N.I. on her passage from India, on board the Hydaspes, April 13.

EAST-INDIA HOUSE.

20th April, 1854.

ARRIVALS REPORTED IN ENGLAND.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Capt. John Innes, retired.
Madras Estab.—Lieut. col. W. Litchfield, 2nd cav.
Bombay Estab.—Capt. T. R. Morse, 1st Eur. reg.; Lieut. W. D. Dickson, 3rd N.I.

PERMITTED TO RETURN TO THEIR DUTY.

MILITARY.

Beng. Estab.—Lieut. A. P. Simons, art.; Brev. maj. A. G. F. J. Younghusband, 35th N.I.
Madras Estab.—Capt. G. Rowlandson, art.; Lieut. col. G. P. Cameron, invalids.

MARINE.

Bombay Estab.—Lieut. R. Barker, Indian Navy, in June next.

GRANTED EXTENSIONS OF LEAVE.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Brev. capt. H. G. C. Plowden, 9th cav., 6 months; Major G. B. Michell, 2nd Eur. reg., 6 months; Brev. Lieut. col. T. F. Tait, c.b., 2nd Eur. reg., 6 months.
Madras Estab.—Lieut. col. F. B. Lucas, 28th N.I., 3 months.

PERMITTED TO RETIRE FROM THE SERVICE.

MILITARY.

Madras Estab.—Major R. Gartin, 2nd cav.

APPOINTMENT.

MARINE.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. Henry James Philips, admitted a volunteer for the pilot service.

CHANGES AND PROMOTIONS
IN H.M.'S REGIMENTS SERVING IN INDIA.

WAR OFFICE, APRIL 21, 1854.

43rd Foot.—Lieut. col. James Brown, from the 91th Foot, to be lieut. col. v. Phillips, who exchanges. Dated April 21, 1854.
 81th Foot.—Lieut. Robert Hyde Page, from half-pay 76th Foot, to be lieut. v. Campbell Barber Browne, appointed to the 30th Foot. Dated 21st April, 1854.

STOCKS AND SECURITIES.

India Stock ..... 225
 India Bonds ..... 5s. dis.
 East-India Railway, all paid ..... 1½ to 2½ prem.
 Great Indian Peninsular Railway, all paid ..... ½ to ¾ prem.

BENGAL GOVERNMENT LOANS.

	Buy. s. d.	Sell. s. d.	Actual Sales.
5 per Cent. Transfer Stock Paper, 1834-5, div. payable in London..
Book Debt of 31st Dec. 1834, 3rd Jan. and 3rd July.....	Ss.Rs.	—	2 2½
Do. 10th Aug. 1835, 13th Feb. and 13th Aug. ....			to 2 2½
Do. 15th Jan. 1836, 18th Jan. and 18th July .....

INDIA EXCHANGES.

BILLS.	Commercial Bills, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.	E. I. Co.'s Bills, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.	Amount of E. I. Co.'s Bills, drawn fr. Apr. 8 to Apr. 22.
On Bengl ..	1s. 11½ d. to 2s. 0d.	2s. 0d.	83,93 6 2
Madras ..	2s. 0d.	2s. 0d.	8,13 15 0
Bombay..	2s. 0d.	2s. 0½ d.	407 8 0
		Bi-Monthly ..	92,480 9 2

Annual sum required by Court of Directors in England..... } From 1st May, 1853, to 30th April, 1854, } £3,500,000
 Ditto ditto .... } From 1st May, 1854, to 30th April, 1855, } £3,768,000
 Bank Post Bills ..... 2s. 0d.
 Madras do. ....
 Bombay do. .... 2s. 0d.

EXPORT OF BULLION.

Per Steamer Ripon, April 18, 1854.

	Gold.	Silver.
Malta .....	£50,600	—
Alexandria .....	15,300	—
Ceylon .....	1,000	—
Singapore .....	1,030	£27,408
Hong Kong .....	1,155	45,158
Canton .....	—	56,591
Shanghai.....	—	500
	£69,085	£129,657

ADVERTISEMENT.

East-India House, 27th April, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That a Quarterly General Court of the said Company will be held at their House, in Leadenhall Street, on Wednesday, the 21st June next, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 27th April, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Transfer Books of the said Company's Stock will be shut on Thursday, the 8th June, at 3 o'clock, and opened again on Thursday, the 13th July, and

That the Warrants for the Dividends on the said Stock, payable on the 6th July, 1854, under the 11th sec. of the Act 3 & 4 Will. 4, cap. 85, will be ready to be delivered on that day.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 27th April, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready, on or before Wednesday, the 10th May next, to receive proposals in writing, sealed up, from such persons as may be willing to supply the Company with

BRITISH IRON.

And that the conditions of the said contract may be had on application at the Secretary's office, where the proposals are to be left, any time before 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the said Wednesday, the 10th day of May, 1854, after which hour no Tender will be received.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 27th April, 1854.

THE COURT OF DIRECTORS OF THE EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready, on or before Wednesday, the 10th May, 1854, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, to receive Tenders, sealed up, from such persons as may be willing to supply the Company with 3,000 Tons of Coal, of any of the under-mentioned sorts, to be delivered at Bombay, viz:—

WEST HARTLEY COAL,
CARR'S HARTLEY COAL,
BUDDLE'S HARTLEY COAL,
DAVISON'S WEST HARTLEY COAL,
HARTLEPOOL WEST HARTLEY COAL,
RAVENSWORTH WEST HARTLEY COAL,
JONASSOHN'S HARTLEY COAL,—or GLASGOW HARD SPLINT COAL,

Screened.

The Tenders are to be made according to a form which may be had upon application at the Marine Branch of the Secretary's Office, in the East-India House, with Conditions annexed; and the Tenders are to be left at the Secretary's office at any time before 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the 10th May aforesaid, after which hour no Tender will be received.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

TO THE HOME MEMBERS OF THE BENGAL MILITARY FUND.

THE INCREASED SUBSCRIPTIONS, as decided by the Votes of the Members, will be deducted at the next Quarterly Issue of Pay, at the India House, viz:—

25 per cent. increase from Married Subscribers;
12½ per cent. ditto from Unmarried Subscribers.

H. B. HENDERSON, Major,
Agent.FAMILY ENDOWMENT, LIFE ASSURANCE AND ANNUITY SOCIETY.

(No. 12, CHATHAM PLACE, BLACKFRIARS, LONDON.)

CAPITAL, £500,000.

Empowered by Act of Parliament, 19th May, 1836.

DIRECTORS.

William Butterworth Bayley, Esq., Chairman.
John Fuller, Esq., Deputy Chairman.
Lewis Burroughs, Esq.
R. Bruce Chichester, Esq.
Major H. B. Henderson.
C. H. Latouche, Esq.
Edward Lee, Esq.
Lieut.-Col. J. W. Ouseley.
Major Turner.
Joshua Walker, Esq.
Secretary—Mr. John Casanova.

INDIAN BRANCH.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT AT CALCUTTA.

C. Binny Skinner, Esq.
James Stuart, Esq.
T. C. Morton, Esq.
Richard Stuart Palmer, Esq.
Joseph S. Judge, Esq.
Medical Officer—Richard O'Shaughnessy, Esq.
Bankers—Bank of Bengal.
Solicitors—Messrs. Sandes & Watts.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT AT MADRAS.

Richard Barnes Bell, Esq.
J. Bidgood Jaunessy, Esq.
Capt. Francis Henry Scott.
Agents—Messrs. Binny and Co.

AGENTS AT BOMBAY.

Messrs. R. Strong and Co.

RATES OF PREMIUM FOR ASSURING 1,000 RUPEES.*CIVIL.

Age next birthday.	One Year.	Three Years.	Five Years.	Seven Years.	Life with participation	Without participation.
30	28	29	30	30	38	34
40	30	31	32	32	49	45
50	35	40	41	44	63	59

MILITARY.

Age next birthday.	One Year.	Three Years.	Five Years.	Seven Years.	Life with participation	Without participation.
30	32	33	34	34	44	41
40	38	39	40	41	58	49
50	48	49	50	51	66	61

To the policy holders on the profit scale, who have paid five years' premium, a bonus of twenty per cent. has been annually allowed for the last three years.

The Society grants an immediate reduction to the English rates to parties proceeding to Europe for a permanency, and a reduction after one year to those who come for a short period only.

The civil rate only charged on the lives of parties in the military service, holding civil offices, as long as they continue in such office.

Deferred Annuities and Endowments payable at any given period are also granted.

Tables and full information may be had at the Office in Chatham Place; or on application to the Secretaries at Calcutta, Messrs. GORDON, STUART, and Co.; or to the Agents at the other Indian Presidencies.

UNIVERSAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

No. 1, KING WILLIAM STREET, CITY, LONDON.

Established 1804.

Empowered by Special Act of Parliament, 6 WILL 4, cap. 54.

DIRECTORS.

SIR HENRY WILLOCK, K.I.S., Chairman.
JOHN STEWART, Esq., Deputy Chairman.
Lieut.-Gen. Sir Richard Armstrong,
K.C.B., K.C.T. and S.
John Bagshaw, Esq., M.P.
Augustus Boanquet, Esq.
Charles Dashwood Bruce, Esq.
Ellis Walkin Cunniffe, Esq.
William Kilburn, Esq.
Francis Macnaghten, Esq.
Charles Otway Mayne, Esq.
Major John Arthur Moore.
William Rothery, Esq.
Robert Saunders, Esq.
Capt. Samuel Thornton, R.N.
Brodie McGhie Wilcox, Esq., M.P.

The marked success which has attended the operations of this Society justifies the Directors in calling the attention of the public to the superior advantages held out to all classes desirous of affecting Assurances upon their lives.

The subjoined scale of rates is framed with the greatest care, and will be found to be as MODERATE as is CONSISTENT WITH PERFECT SECURITY.

Annual Premium required for the Assurance of £100 on a single Life, with participation in Profits:—

20	£1 18 8	35	£2 14 11	50	£4 5 6
25	2 3 3	40	3 3 0	55	5 5 10
30	2 8 10	45	3 12 2	60	6 13 2

Tables for Policies to be effected in India have been especially prepared from the records of the East-India Company, on the experience of mortality in that country.

During the last twelve years, the reduction of Premium on Policies entitled to participate in Profits has averaged more than 44 per cent., and in the last three years it has been declared at 45 per cent.

An annual division is made of one-fifth of the ascertained profits of the five preceding years; the other four-fifths being set apart to enter into the average of succeeding years.

Of the sum annually divisible, 75 per cent. is apportioned to Policy-holders who have paid six annual Premiums, either in a Reduction of subsequent Premium, or as a Bonus added to the Policy. The remainder is apportioned to the Shareholders.

Assets of the Society, upwards of £600,000.—Amount of Policies in force, £29,000,000.—Annual income arising from Premiums, exclusively of interest on the invested capital, exceeds £180,000.

Weekly Board-day, Thursday, at 1 o'clock.

Committees sit every Tuesday and Saturday, at 12 o'clock, when Policies requiring despatch may be effected.

AGENTS IN INDIA:—

Messrs Braddon & Co., Calcutta. | Messrs. Balmbridge & Co., Madras.
Messrs. Leckie & Co., Bombay.

MICHAEL ELIJAH IMPEY, Secretary.

In post 800., price 7s..

PUBLIC WORKS IN INDIA,

WITH

SUGGESTIONS FOR THEIR EXTENSION AND IMPROVEMENTS,

By Lieut.-Col. A. T. COTTON,
CHIEF ENGINEER, MADRAS.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street;
and all Booksellers.

TREATISE

ON

FORTIFICATION AND ARTILLERY.

By MAJOR HECTOR STRAITH,

LATE PROFESSOR OF FORTIFICATION AT ADDISCOMBE.

SIXTH EDITION.—In 2 vols. 8vo. and 4to. Plates, price £2. 2s.

INTRODUCTORY ESSAY

TO THE

STUDY OF FORTIFICATION,

FOR

YOUNG OFFICERS OF THE ARMY.

By MAJOR STRAITH.

SECOND EDITION.—In 8vo. and 4to. Plates, price 13s.

Candidates for admission to Her Majesty's Army, and Direct Cadets for the East-India Company's Service, will find this a valuable book.

LONDON:—WILLIAM H. ALLEN & CO.,
7, LEADENHALL STREET.

STANDARD ORIENTAL WORKS,

EDITED OR COMPILED BY

DUNCAN FORBES, LL.D.*Dictionary, Hindustani-English and

English-Hindustani. By DUNCAN FORBES, LL.D. Royal 8vo. cloth, £2. 12s. 6d.

"Dr. Forbes, by his Grammars and other works on the Hindustani and Persian Languages, has, heretofore, conferred an invaluable boon on all the students of Oriental literature: but this Dictionary crowns the series of his magnum opus, for a great work we have no hesitation in pronouncing it, whether we regard its vast utility to the learner, or consider the immense amount of labour and practical skill brought to bear upon it by the author."—Calcutta Review, No. 19.

Hindustani Grammar, Reading Lessons,

and Vocabulary; in the Oriental and Roman Characters, forming an Introduction to the Bagh-o-Bahar. By DUNCAN FORBES, LL.D. 8vo. 12s.

Hindustani Manual;

Being a short Grammar, Dialogues, Vocabulary, &amp;c., in the Roman Character. By DUNCAN FORBES. 18mo. bound, 6s. 6d.

Bagh-o-Bahar, in Hindustani.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 12s.

Bagh-o-Bahar, in English.

By DUNCAN FORBES. 8vo. 10s.

*.* The Bagh-o-Bahar is the text-book in which Cadets and Assistant-Surgeons are examined in India.

Tota Kuhani, in Hindustani.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 10s.

Oriental Penmanship;

A Guide to the Study of Oriental Manuscripts. By DUNCAN FORBES. 4to. 8s.

Hindustani Reader.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 2s. 6d.

Persian Grammar, Reading Lessons, and

Vocabulary. By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 12s. 6d.

LONDON: WM. H. ALLEN AND CO., 7, LEADENHALL STREET.

ENGRAVING BY ORDER OF THE HON. EAST-INDIA COMPANY.

AN ATLAS OF INDIA.

On a scale of four miles to an inch. From Trigonometrical Surveys made for the purpose, being intended to form a complete Map of the whole of India, on an uniform plan, the Sheets being issued separately as they are completed, at 6s. each.

The following Forty-three Sheets are also completed:—

- |   |   |
|---|---|
| 28. Junjaga, Rutnageriah, Visadroog                     | 68. Fauruckabad, Etawah.                |
| 27 and 41. Goo. Dharwar, Belgaum.                       | 69. North Bundelcund.                   |
| 41. Sattara, Bejapoor, Meerut.                          | 70. South Bundelcund.                   |
| 42. North Canara, Mysore, &c.                           | 71. Nagpore.                            |
| 43. South Canara, Kooty, &c.                            | 72. Hyderabad.                          |
| 44. Part of Malabar.                                    | 73. Quatoo, Kurnool, &c.                |
| 47. Himalaya Mountains.                                 | 77. Cuddapah, Nellore, &c.              |
| 48. Dehra Doon, Sirhind, and Upper Doon.                | 78. Madras, Arcot, &c.                  |
| 49. Delhi, Meerut, &c.                                  | 79. Salem, Trichinopoly.                |
| 50. Agra, Bhurtpoor, Jeypoor.                           | 80. Rannad, Tanjore.                    |
| 51. Nandair, Kowlas, Beder.                             | 81. Tuticorin.                          |
| 52. Part of the Ceded Districts, and Nizam's Dominions. | 84. Rewar, part of Mirzapore.           |
| 53. Part of the Ceded Districts, and Mysore Dominions.  | 89. Rajahmundry, Elloor, Coringa.       |
| 54. Mysore Dominions.                                   | 95. Masulipatam, Mouths of the Krishna. |
| 55. Mysore Dominions.                                   | 107. Ganjam, Goomsur.                   |
| 56. Coimbatore, Neilgherry Hills, Malabar.              | 108. Ganjam, Part of Vizagapatam.       |
| 57. Travancore, Cochin, Dhodigul.                       | 109. Part of Vizagapatam.               |
| 58. Tinnevely and Travancore.                           | 124. Lower Assam.                       |
| 59. Himalaya Mountains.                                 | 125. Sylhet.                            |
| 60. Gurhwal, Kumaon.                                    | 129. Upper Assam.                       |
| 61. Moradabad, Bareilly.                                | 130. Upper Assam.                       |
|   | 131. Munnipoor.                         |
|   | 132. North-East Part of Assam.          |

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

ALLEN'S MAPS OF INDIA, &c.

DRAWN BY JOHN WALKER,

*Geographer to the East-India Company.A New Map of India;

Showing the British Territories subdivided into Collectorates, and the Position and Boundary of each Native State; chiefly compiled from Trigonometrical Surveys executed by Order of the Honourable Court of Directors of the East-India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 6 in. high; 5 ft. 8 in. wide. £2; or on cloth, in case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or with rollers, and varnished, £3. 3s.

*.* The object kept in view in compiling this Map, has been to render it available to the greatest possible extent for popular use. For this purpose the names of all Stations—Civil and Military—are inserted, as well as those of all Towns and places of note, likely to be looked for. To make clear the subdivisions of the whole of the country, both British and native, the limits of the various Districts and Collectorates, with their names, are distinctly indicated. The Railways are laid down, and the trunk roads conspicuously coloured. The newly-acquired district in Burmah is included. To avoid, however, the confusion consequent upon over-crowding, and make the Map clear and easy for Reference, the names of many small villages, and places of no present importance, have been omitted, and thus a very wide measure of comprehensiveness has been attained, while needless diffusiveness has been shunned.

A General Map of India;

Compiled chiefly from Surveys executed by order of the Hon. East-India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 3 in. wide; 5 ft. 4 in. high. £2; or on cloth, in a case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or with rollers, and varnished, £3. 3s.

Map of India;

From the most recent authorities. On two sheets—Size, 2 ft. 10 in. wide; 3 ft. 3 in. high. 16s.; or on cloth, in a case, £1. 1s.

Map of the Routes in India;

With Tables of Distances between the principal Towns and Military Stations. On one sheet—Size, 2 ft. 5 in. wide; 3 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or on cloth, in a case, 12s.

In this Map are given the whole of the Military and Civil Stations, together with the principal Towns, the villages being omitted so as to make the stations more prominent. The colouring defines the boundaries of the three Presidencies.

A Map of the Western Provinces of Hindoostan;

The Punjab, Cabool, Sindh, Bhawalpore, &c.; including all the States between Candahar and Allahabad. On four sheets—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 4 ft. 2 in. high. 30s.; or on cloth, in a case, £2; or on rollers, and varnished, £2. 10s.

Map of India and China, Burmah, Siam,

the Malay Peninsula, and the Empire of Annam. On two sheets—Size, 4 ft. 3 in. wide; 3 ft. 4 in. high. 16s.; or on cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

Map showing the Steam Communication and Overland Routes

Between England, India, China, and Australia. Size, 4 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 4 in. high; on cloth, in a case, 14s.; or with rollers, and varnished, 18s.

Map of Arabia;

Compiled from all the most recent authorities, by order of the Court of Directors of the East-India Company.—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 3 ft. 3 in. high; on cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

Map of the Punjab and Sikh Territory.

On one sheet, 6s.; or on cloth, in a case, 8s.

Map of Afghanistan and the adjacent Countries;

On one sheet—Size, 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or on cloth, in a case, 12s.

Map of China,

From the most authentic sources of information. One large sheet—Size, 2 ft. 7 in. wide; 2 ft. 2 in. high. 8s.; or on cloth, in a case, 11s.

Map of the Burman Empire,

Showing the annexed district of Pegu. One sheet, 3s. 6d.; or on cloth, in a case, 5s.

London: WM. H. ALLEN &amp; Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

CHARTS,

COMPILED FROM THE LATEST SURVEYS AND OFFICIAL DOCUMENTS,

PUBLISHED BY

WM. H. ALLEN &amp; CO., 7, LEADENHALL STREET.

Outline,—England to China. 7s. 6d.

English Channel and the Coast of France, with Sailing Directions; an accurate Description of the Coasts of England, South of Ireland, and Channel Islands; from Trigonometrical Surveys and other original Documents, executed by order of the English and French Governments; to which are added, Detailed Accounts of all the Lights, Shoals, Banks, Rocks, &c., up to the present time. J. & A. Walker. 12s., or the Chart separate from the Directions, 10s. 6d.

* In this Chart are given, in separate compartments, on large scales, Plans of Spithead and St. Helen's Road, with Portsmouth and Langstone Harbours, Southampton River, Needles Channel, Weymouth and Portland Road, Tor Bay, Plymouth Harbour, Falmouth Harbour, entrance to Cork Harbour, entrance to the Seine, and Scilly Islands.

North Atlantic Ocean, from England to Equator and to 46° W. long., Capt. J. Horsburgh. 6s.

South Atlantic Ocean, from Equator to 45° S. lat., and from 30° E. to 43° W. long., Capt. Horsburgh. 7s. 6d.

Cape of Good Hope and Mozambique Channel; from Equator to 39° S. lat., and from 15° to 52° E. long., Capt. Haywood, R.N., with additions to 1832. 2 sh. 10s. 6d.

The Bird Islands, Doddington Rock, and adjacent Coast, 1814. 3s. 6d.

Anchorage at Gough's Island. 1813. 2s.

Part of the Indian Ocean, from 10° to 52° S. lat., and from 30° to 111° E. long., Capt. Horsburgh. 7s. 6d.

Hindustan, Coasts and Islands, from 26° North to 10° S. lat., and 63° to 87° E. long., Capt. Horsburgh, 1833. 7s. 6d.

Indian Ocean, from the Cape of Good Hope to Calcutta, including the Red Sea and Persian Gulf; from the Surveys of the Officers of the E. I. Company and the Royal Navy, J. Walker. 2 sh. 10s.

* This Chart has also Table and False Bays, the Mauritius, Bombay Harbour, and the Gulf of Aden, given on much-extended scales.

Indian and Pacific Ocean, from Calcutta to China, Australia and New Zealand; chiefly from Surveys of the Officers of the E. I. Company and the Royal Navy, J. Walker. 2 sh. 12s.

Madagascar Archipelago, Capt. Moresby, 1822. 2s.

Northern part of the Red Sea, Comm. Moresby and Lieut. Carless, 1833. 2 sh. 6d.

Southern part of the Red Sea, Capt. Elwon, Lieut. Pinching, and Comm. Moresby, 1834. 2 sh. 6s.

Harbours in the N. part of the Red Sea, Comm. Moresby, &c., 1833. 2s.

Ditto in the S. part of ditto, Comm. Haines, Capt. Elwon, and Lieut. Pinching, 1837. 2s.

Sailing Directions for Red Sea, Capt. Elwon and Comm. Moresby, 1841. 3s.

African Coast, from Jibul Jarne to Sayara, Lieut. Barker, 1841. 2 sh. 5s.

N.E. Coast of Africa, from Ras Gulwainee to Rass Haffoon, Lieut. Carless, 1838. 2 sh. 5s.

S.E. Coast of Arabia, from Straits of Bab el Mandeb to Misnaat, with several Plans, Comm. Haines, &c., 1836. 4s. 6d.

The several Bays near Cape Aden, Comm. Haines, 1836. 3s.

Kooria Moorla Bay and Islands, Comm. Haines, &c., 1837. 3s.

Island of Socotra, Lieut. Haines, &c., 1834. 3s.

Arabian Sea, from 10° S. lat. to Sucoz, and from 39° to 63° E. long., Capt. Horsburgh. 7s. 6d.

Entrance to the Gulf of Persia, Comm. Brucks, &c., 1825. 2s. 6d.

Coast of Arabia, from Ras Goberhindee to Ras Soaote, Comm. Brucks, &c., 1828. 3s.

Gulf of Persia, Comm. Brucks, 1830, 2 sh. 4s.

Persian Gulf (Arabian side), in 5 sh., from Cape Moosendom to the Euphrates, at 3s. 15s.

Island and Harbour of Bahrein, Lieut. Brucks, &c., 1825. 2s. 6d.

Anchorage off El Katiff, Lieut. Brucks, &c., 1825. 2s.

Entrances to the Rivers at the head of Persian Gulf, Lieuts. Brucks and Haines, 1827. 3s.

Coast of Persia, from Ras Tuloop to Bushire, 1826. 2s. 6d.

Bushire Roads, 1826. 2s.

Coast of Persia, from Bushire to Bassadore, Lieuts. Brucks and Haines, 1828. 3s.

Clarence's Strait, 2 sh., Comm. Brucks, &c., 1828. 5s.

Coast of Persia and Beloochistan, from Kooe Mubarrack to Kurrachee, with Plans, 1823. 3s.

Soonmieanee Harbour, Lieut. Montriou, 1842. 1s. 6d.

Kurrachee Harbour, Lieut. Carless, 1838. 2s.

Entrance of the Gulf of Cutch, 1833. 1s.

Gulf of Cutch, 1821. 3s.

Coast of Kattywar, from Dio to Dwarka, Lieut. Whitelock, 1833. 2s. 6d.

Kattywar Coast, from Diu Head to Perim Island, Lieut. Ethersey, 1836. 2 sh. 4s.

Diu Harbour, Lieut. Whitelock, 1833. 1s.

Gulf of Cambay, Lieut. Ethersey, 1845. 3s.

Malacca Banks, Lieut. Ethersey, 1845. 1s. 6d.

Bombay Harbour, Lieut. Cogan, &c., 2 sh., 1829. 4s.

Bombay Harbour, Capt. Horsburgh, 1834. 10s. 6d.

Laccadive Islands, Lieut. Moresby, 1828. 2s. 6d.

Maldeeve Islands, Comm. Moresby and Lieut. Powell, 3 sh., 1835. 10s.

Maldeeve Islands, reduced from the above. 5s.

Chagos Archipelago, Comm. Moresby and Lieut. Powell, 1836. 3s.

Principal Groups in the Chagos Archipelago, 1836. 2s.

Nautical Directions for the Maldeeve Islands and Chagos Archipelago, Comm. Moresby. 2s.

Coast of Tinnevely, Mr. J. J. Franklin, R.N., 1842. 3s.

Coast of Madura, Lieuts. Powell and Ethersey, and Mr. J. J. Franklin, R.N., 1838. 3s.

Western Side of Palk's Straits, Lieuts. Powell and Ethersey, 1838. 3s.

Roadstead and Harbour of Tuticorin, Mr. J. J. Franklin, R.N., 1842. 3s.

Paumben Pass, Lieuts. Powell and Ethersey, 1837. 2s.

Pulicat and Armegon Shoals, Capt. Maxfield, 1821. 2s.

Balasore Roads, Entrance into the Hoogly, &c., Comm. Lloyd, 1841. 3s.

River Hoogly, and the Approaches to it from False Point to Calcutta; from the latest Surveys of Capt. Lloyd and others, J. Walker. 7s.

River Hoogly, from Calcutta to Saugor Point, Comm. Lloyd, 1836. 4s. 6d.

Sea-face of the Soonderbunds, 3 sh., Comm. Lloyd, &c., 1840. 6s.

Chittagong River, Comm. R. Lloyd, &c., 1840. 1s. 6d.

Bay of Bengal, Capt. J. Horsburgh. 6s.

Chittagong to Arracan River, Capt. Ross. 3s.

Arracan River to Foul Island, Capt. Ross, with additions by Comm. Lloyd Capt. Halstead, R.N., 1841. 2s.

The London Mail,

Published on the 8th and 24th of every month, to meet the requirements of the Commercial, Military, Civil, and Naval interests of Australia, India, and the Colonies. The general politics of the LONDON MAIL are conducted on strictly independent principles, advocating liberal views on all public questions, irrespective of party.

The Mercantile Intelligence—including Markets, Shipping, and Exchange—is fully and accurately reported.

The ADVERTISEMENT charge is 3s. 6d. for nine lines, and 6d. for every additional line.

The LONDON MAIL, price 2s. per annum (including Marseilles postage), can be regularly forwarded to friends in Australia or India, by application at the LONDON MAIL Office, No. 143, Strand, where all letters to the Editor should be addressed.

Agents, Messrs. THACHER, SPINK, and Co., Calcutta; Messrs. PHAROAN and Co., Madras; Mr. JAMES CHEESON, Bombay.

Printed and published by JOHN JAMIESON, the Proprietor, at the LONDON MAIL Office, No. 143, Strand.

THE SIXTH EDITION, 2 vols. 4to. price £4. 6s.

HORSBURGH'S INDIAN DIRECTORY;

OR,

Directions for Sailing to and from the East Indies,
China, Australia, &c.

HORSBURGH'S CHARTS for the Navigation from England to India and China, and throughout the Eastern Seas, viz.—

- |   |  |
|---|--|
| 1. North Atlantic Ocean, 5s.  | 16. Straits of Malacca and Singapore, one sheet, 6s.                 |
| 2. South Atlantic Ocean, 5s.  | 17, 18, and 19. Straits of Malacca and Singapore, three sheets, 15s. |
| 3. Anchorage at Gough's Island, 1s.   | 20. Straits of Sunda, 5s.  |
| 4. Bird's Islands and Doddington Rock, 1s.                                    | 21. Straits of Banca and Gaspar, 7s. 6d.                             |
| 5 and 6. Cape of Good Hope, S.E. Africa, and Madagascar Seas, two sheets, 8s. | 22. Carimata Passage and Borneo West Coast, 6s.                      |
| 7. Indian Ocean, 6s.  | 23. Straits of Rhio, Durian, Lingin, and Singapore, 6s.              |
| 8. Arabian Sea and East Africa, 7s. 6d.                                       | 24 and 25. China Sea and Coast adjacent, two sheets, 12s.            |
| 9. Hindoostan Coasts and Islands, 6s.   | 26. Canton River and its approximate Channels, 6s.                   |
| 10. Bombay Harbour, 5s.   | 27. East Coast of China, 7s. 6d.                                     |
| 11. Goa Road and River, and Marmagao Anchorage, 6s.                           | 28. Bashee Islands and Channels between Luzon and Formosa, 2s.       |
| 12. Maldiva Islands and Channels, 2s.   | 29, 30, and 31. Eastern Passages to China, three sheets, £1. 1s.     |
| 13. Bay of Bengal, 5s.  | 32. Passages through the Barrier Reefs, Australia East, 2s.          |
| 14. Peninsula and Islands of India, East of Bengal Bay, 7s.                   |  |
| 15. West Coast of Sumatra, 5s.  |  |

Horsburgh's East-India Pilot, £12. 15s. 6d.

Hand-book for Pilots and Coasters navigating to and from the river PIAMSE, through all the Channels to DUNGENESS and OXFORDNESS. By Lieut. E. BURSTAL, R.N., from the Survey of Capt. BULLOCK, R.N. Price 1s. 6d.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street;

Of whom may be had,

A LIST of CHARTS for the Navigation of the Eastern Seas.

SURVEYING ARMY APPOINTMENTS IN INDIA.

OFFICERS at Home on Furlough, and GENTLEMEN CADETS, desirous of qualifying themselves for the Diplomas in SURVEYING and ENGINEERING, may obtain the requisite information by applying to Mr. HENRY JAMES CASTLE, Associate of the Institute of Civil Engineers, and Lecturer in Surveying and Levelling at King's College, London, who is at all times prepared to give Private Instruction (or to form a class for practical Field-work) in the use and application of the several instruments required for Surveying and Levelling. If desired, one or two Pupils could reside with the Lecturer.

OFFICERS' BEDSTEADS AND BEDDING.

HEAL and SON beg to call the attention of gentlemen requiring Outfits to their large Stock of Portable Bedsteads, Bedding, and Furniture, including Drawers, Washstands, Chairs, Glasses, and every requisite for home and foreign service.

HEAL and SON, Bedstead and Bedding Manufacturers, 198, Tottenham Court Road.

LADIES' OUTFITS TO INDIA.

JOHN BESEMERES AND CO., Manufacturers of LADIES' READY-MADE LINEN, Under-clothing, Baby-linen, and every article required for a family proceeding to India, are now compiling Outfits at their Manufacturing Prices, thus effecting an important saving in the outlay. Wedding Outfits on the same terms.

Ladies' Long Cloth Chemises, 1s. 6d., 2s., 2s. 6d.; Frilled Night Dresses, 2s. 6d., 3s., 3s. 6d.; Long Cloth Drawers, 1s. 6d., 1s. 9d., 2s.; Petticoats, 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d.; Dressing-gowns, 7s. 6d., 8s. 6d., 10s. each. A detailed Priced List of every article may be ordered by post. The Outfit Department is entirely superintended by young women of competent skill, aided by dressmakers of taste and experience.

All the Under-clothing is made up by selected classes of carefully-trained private hands, needlewomen, who receive constant employment throughout the year, at a liberal and fixed rate of wages. This system, ORIGINATED BY THIS THE OLDEST ESTABLISHMENT OF THE KIND IN LONDON, has effectually redeemed the character of Ready-made Linen for strength and neatness, while its admitted usefulness and economy for garments for family and general home use, have placed it among the successful manufactures of the day.

To the Merchant exporting to Australia and other settlements, these goods, from the high character they bear, are very attractive, and rank among the safest shipments to those parts.

Ready-made Linen Warehouses, 61, 62, 63, and 64, Houndsditch, London.

ALLSOPPS' PALE ALE.

MESSRS. S. ALLSOPP and SONS beg to inform the TRADE that they are now registering orders for the March Brewings of their PALE ALE, in Casks of 18 Gallons and upwards, at the BREWERY, Burton-on-Trent; and at the under-mentioned Branch Establishments:—

LONDON, at 61, King William Street, City;
LIVERPOOL, at Cook Street;
MANCHESTER, at Ducie Place;
DUDLEY, at the Burnt Tree;
GLASGOW, at 115, St. Vincent Street;
DUBLIN, at 1, Crampin Quay;
BIRMINGHAM, at Market Hall;
SOUTH WALES, at 13, King Street, Bristol.

Messrs. ALLSOPP and SONS take the opportunity of announcing to PRIVATE FAMILIES that their ALES, so strongly recommended by the medical profession, may be procured in DRAUGHT and BOTTLES GENUINE from all the most RESPECTABLE WINE-MERCHANTS, BOTTLE-4, and LICENSED VITUALLERS, on "ALLSOPPS' PALE ALE" being specially asked for.

When in bottle, the genuineness of the label can be ascertained by its having "ALLSOPP and SONS" written across it.

Brewery, Burton-on-Trent.

PAYNE and SONS' INDIAN CURRY POWDER, UNEQUALLED for its delicious FLAVOUR and stimulating QUALITIES, in 1 lb. Bottles, 3s. 6d.; ½ lb., 2s. 3d.; or 7 lbs. for 21s.

CURRY and MULLIGATAWNY PASTE, 1 lb. jars, 3s. 6d., ½ lbs., 2s. 3d.

CURRY SAUCE, Delhi and Osele Chutnee, 1s. 6d. per bottle.

Pickled MANGOES, HUMPS, TAP SAUCE, and every description of Indian Delicacies, may had, at greatly reduced prices, from

PAYNE and SONS' FOREIGN WAREHOUSE, 323, REGENT STREET, LONDON.—A List forwarded on application.

TO LATE RESIDENTS IN INDIA.—TRUE

MADRAS CURRY, and MULLIGATAWNY PASTE and CHUTNIES.—Messrs. BARRIE and Co., Vepery, Madras, to enable their old correspondents returning from India to continue the use of the celebrated Condiments, have made arrangements to forward regular supplies of the above, packed in glass jars for family use, at 1s. 9d. and upwards, which may be had of CROSS and BLACKWELL, Purveyors to Her Majesty, 21, Soho Square; FORTNUM, MASON, and Co., Piccadilly; and of the principal Sauce Vendors throughout the kingdom. Each bottle is labelled, and BARRIE and Co., Madras, stamped on the glass.

THE GENUINE INDIAN CURRY AND MULLIGATAWNY MIXTURE, PREPARED BY A LADY (long resident in India), who was instructed in the preparation by the late celebrated Fysoo Kausumah, of Calcutta.

This MIXTURE is prepared with the same ingredients that are used in India in the preparation of CURRIES; is so ready and simple that a REAL INDIAN CURRY can be prepared with it in half an hour, is highly approved by those who have resided in India, who pronounce the CURRIES prepared with it "THE BEST they have eaten since they left India."

To be had of WM. ASHDOWN and Co., 167, Piccadilly, and (wholesale) by letter addressed to Messrs. BARRIE and Co., 25, Colman Street, Brompton.

JEREMIE'S SEDATIVE SOLUTION OF OPIUM

AND ANTI-SPASMODIC.—Thirty years have elapsed since Captain Jeremie, the inventor of this most valuable preparation of Opium, first offered it to the public, since which period most of the respectable Members of the Profession in India, England, and on the continent of Europe, have prescribed it and recommended it as the safest and most efficient remedy in all cases requiring the use of Opium. The universal patronage which this medicine has obtained in England in arresting the Diarrhoea and Vomiting, the premonitory symptoms of Cholera, and the great and increasing demand for it from all parts of the continent of Europe, is the greatest proof of its efficacy and good effects.

Prepared only by SAVORY and MOORE, Chemists, 143, New Bond Street, London.

N.B.—None can be genuine unless surrounded with a Government stamp.

Agents for India—Messrs. R. SCOTT, THOMSON, and Co., Calcutta.

TO LADIES—The high and universal celebrity which

ROWLAND'S KALYDOR continues to maintain as an active, yet mild and soothing extirpator of all impurities of the skin, is, during the period of Spring, most pleasingly evinced. This preparation, eminently balsamic, restorative, and invigorating, is equally distinguished for safety in application, as for unfailing efficacy in eradicating all redness, tan, pimples, spots, freckles, discolorations, and other cutaneous visitations. The radiant bloom it imparts to the cheek, and the softness and delicacy which it induces of the hands and arms, render it indispensable to every toilet.—Price 4s. 6d. and 2s. 6d. per bottle.

ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL.—The successful results of the last half-century have proved, beyond question, that this unique discovery possesses singularly nourishing powers in the growth, restoration, and improvement of the human hair, and when every other specific has failed.—Price 3s. 6d.; 7s.; or family bottles (equal to four small), 10s. 6d.; and double the size, 21s.

ROWLAND'S ODONTO, or Pearl Dentifrice,—a white powder. Prepared from Oriental herbs with unusual care, transmitted to this country at great expense, this unique compound will be found of inestimable value in preserving and beautifying the teeth, strengthening the gums, and in giving sweetness and perfume to the breath.—Price 2s. 6d. per box.

Sold by A. ROWLAND and SONS, 20, Hatton Garden, London, and by Chemists and Perfumers.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS, remarkable for their efficacy

in curing DYSPEPSIA.—Mrs. Nicholls, of Longton, had been a sufferer for years from a troublesome cough, shortness of breath, and a constant lassitude of feeling, rendering her unwilling to move or attend to her domestic duties; she had the advice of several medical practitioners without deriving any benefit whatever; shortly afterwards, about the meridian of life, her various complaints settled into a confirmed dropsy, and no hopes whatever were entertained of her life; however, by a steady perseverance in the use of HOLLOWAY'S PILLS, she soon improved in health, and is now completely recovered, being better than ever she was before.

Sold by all Druggists, and at Professor Holloway's establishment, 244, Strand, London; and by all European and Native vendors of medicine throughout the whole of the East Indies.

THIS DAY IS PUBLISHED,

In royal 8vo. cloth, price 38s.

LADÁK,

PHYSICAL, STATISTICAL, AND HISTORICAL;

WITH

NOTICES OF THE SURROUNDING COUNTRIES.

BY ALEXANDER CUNNINGHAM,

BREVET-MAJOR, BENGAL ENGINEERS.

Illustrated by numerous Plates and a large Map.

LONDON: WM. H. ALLEN AND CO., 7, LEADENHALL STREET.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.—A Clergyman, a Graduate of Cambridge, residing in a highly-salubrious situation, within twenty miles of London, wishes to receive one or two Children of either sex, or a brother and sister, into his family. They would receive parental kindness, a first-rate education, and their moral and religious training be most carefully conducted. The Clergyman's wife and daughter are thoroughly qualified to teach French, Italian, Music, Singing, and Drawing. Children whose parents may be abroad, or young people whose education has been neglected, would find great advantages and a happy home. Terms, £150 per annum. The first references given and required.

Address Rev. L. L. B., Mr. Farquharson's, Newnham, Bloomsbury Street, Bedford Square.

TO FAMILIES RESIDING IN INDIA, AND PARENTS GENERALLY.

A LADY, the Daughter of a beneficed Clergyman (resident with her parents, in a healthy part of the county of Norfolk), is desirous of obtaining the charge of two or three young PUPILS, whose parents or guardians may require for them the advantages of a sound education, and the comforts of a substituted home. The Advertiser believes herself competent to fulfil the duties of such a charge, and could give the strictest testimonials.

For terms and further particulars, apply by letter addressed to E. N. B., care of Messrs. J. Hatchard and Son, Publishers, Piccadilly, London.

THE ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION grant DRAFTS and negotiate or collect BILLS payable in Bombay, Calcutta, Ceylon, Hong-Kong, Madras, Mauritius, Singapore, Melbourne, and Sydney. They also issue, free of charge, Circular Notes and Letters of Credit for the use of Travellers on the Continent, and to India overland. They undertake the agency of parties connected with India, the purchase and sale of Indian Securities, and the effecting of Remittances between the above dependencies. They further buy and negotiate in London paper of the Indian Government Loans.

W. W. CARGILL, Chief Manager.

Walbrook, London, March, 1854.

ORIENTAL, AUSTRALIAN, and GENERAL STEAM AGENCY.

PARCELS, PACKAGES, and MERCHANDISE forwarded, and Passages engaged to all parts of the world. Baggage shipped. Insurances effected, &c.

INDIA and CHINA—overland, 4th and 20th of every month.

AUSTRALIA—overland, 4th May, and alternate months.

Ditto—via Cape of Good Hope, 4th June, and alternate months.

Prospectuses, with reduced rates, from 2s. 6d., upwards, forwarded free, on application. Overland Guides, 1s., per post, 1s. 6d.

G. W. WHEATLEY and Co. (late Wagborn), 156, Leadenhall Street.

EAST-INDIA GENERAL AGENCY.

C. R. THOMPSON AND CO.,
53, OLD BROAD STREET, LONDON,
And 10, ORIENTAL PLACE, SOUTHAMPTON.

The increasing support which this Agency continues to receive, enables us confidently to invite your attention to our method of conducting every branch of our business as East-India Agents and Wine Merchants, having greatly facilitated the means of carrying on the same by the establishment of an Office at Southampton for the convenience of Passengers passing to and from the East. Our prompt and careful attention is given to

THE SUPERINTENDENCE of Outfits—securing Passages by all routes, and the Shipping and Insuring of Baggage.

THE EXECUTION of every description of Orders on the most favourable terms. Wines and Spirits have our best attention, having always a large stock on hand expressly for our Indian Customers.

THE RECEIPT of the Wives and Children of Officers residing in India, and the receipt of remittances and payments of bills on their account.

THE RECEIPT also of Pay, Pensions, Annuities, Dividends, and the execution of all other Monetary and Banking transactions.

PARCELS received on the 2nd and 18th of each month, and forwarded Overland to all parts of India, &c. Baggage and Parcels also shipped to India, Australia, and other parts of the world, as occasion may require.

INDIAN APPOINTMENTS.

MESSRS. GRINDLAY and Co. beg to announce the Removal of the OUTFIT branch of their establishment from St. Martin's Place to 63, Cornhill, and 124, Bishopsgate Street.

Detailed scales of OUTFIT, and plans of all SHIPS sailing to India, with prices of their accommodation, forwarded on application.

EAST-INDIA ARMY AGENCY,

63, Cornhill, and 124, Bishopsgate Street.

PASSENGERS to INDIA, AUSTRALIA, and NEW ZEALAND.—GRINDLAY and Co. negotiate Passages by first-class Sailing-vessels and Steamers to the above places.

All information given to parties about to emigrate, with Plans of the Ships, Rates of Passage-money, &c., free of all expense.

Apply to GRINDLAY and Co., 63, Cornhill; 124, Bishopsgate Street; and 8, St. Martin's Place, Charing-Cross.

THE following SPLENDID SHIPS, belonging to Messrs. GREEN, of Blackwall, built expressly for the INDIA TRADE, will be despatched punctually from GRAVESEND at the under-mentioned dates:—

Name.	Tons.	Commanders.	Destination.	To sail.
Malabar.....	800	F. Noaks.....	Madras direct.....	Sailed.
Roxburgh Castle ..	1200	E. Hight.....	Ditto.....	Sailed.
Nile.....	1250	E. P. Nisbet.....	Madras & Calcutta ..	10 June.
Barham.....	1200	L. W. Valle.....	Ditto.....	25 —
Agincourt.....	1050	C. Hyne.....	Cape & Calcutta ..	15 July
Monarch.....	1400	C. Wiltshire.....	Calcutta direct.....	25 —
Vernon.....	1000		Cape and Calcutta ..	5 Aug.
Prince of Wales.....	1350	W. F. Hopkins.....	Calcutta direct.....	20 —
Duke of Wellington	1700	J. Gimblett.....	Ditto.....	15 Sept.
Sutlej.....	1250	W. F. Pepperorne.....	Ditto.....	1 Oct.
Trafalgar.....	1250	J. H. Taylor.....	Madras direct.....	10 Sept.
Earl of Hardwicke.....	1000	W. H. Pope.....	Ditto.....	1 Oct.
Seringapatam.....	1000	H. J. Gimblett.....	Bombay direct.....	30 Sept.
Owen Glendower ..	1000	W. H. Pare.....	Ditto.....	30 July.
Alfred.....	1400	A. Consitt.....	Ditto.....	1 Sept.
Wellfleet.....	1100	A. Parish.....	Madras & Calcutta ..	31 May.

For Plans and Terms of Passage, apply to Messrs. GRINDLAY and Co. 63, Cornhill, or 9, St. Martin's Place, Charing Cross; or to

F. GREEN & Co., 64, Cornhill.

To sail from Gravesend as usual on the 1st September.

FOR CALCUTTA, the Ship QUEEN (belonging to Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM and Sons, of Blackwall), 1,350 tons, WILLIAM BELL (late of the Bucephalus), Commander. Will load in the East-India Docks. This Ship has excellent accommodations for Passengers, and will carry an experienced Surgeon.

For Freight or Passage, apply to CAPT. W. BELL, or to McLEOD, ALLPORT, and Co. (with Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM and Sons), 156, Leadenhall Street.

Communications for the Editor, and Advertisements, should be sent under cover to Messrs. Wm. H. Allen & Co., 7, Leadenhall-street.

COUNTRY AGENTS:—
Edinburgh, W. Blackwood and Sons.
Dublin, Hodges and Smith.
Brighton, C. Booty.

LONDON:—Printed by CHARLES WYMAN, of 13, Hunter Street, Brunswick Square, in the Parish of St. George, Bloomsbury, Printer, at the Printing-Office of COX (Brothers) & WYMAN, 74 & 75, Great Queen Street, Lincoln's-Inn Fields, in the Parish of St. Giles-in-the-Fields; and published by LAWRENCE WILD, at 13, Catherine Street, Strand, in the Parish of St. Mary-k-Strand, all in the County of Middlesex.—April 28, 1854.

that Nuwab Jubber Khan had breathed his last; but the writer states that this requires confirmation. Travellers from Herat state that forty Russian officers had landed at Astarabad, who, after being joined by an equal number of Persian agents, had, by order of the Shah, scattered themselves in parties through Khorasan and Toorkistan; two of these parties were already at Herat, with intent to induce Mahomed Saeed Khan, son of the late Wuzeer of Herat, to cede that place to them whilst the war rages between Russia and Turkey, offering in return Neeshapore, a Persian province in Khorasan, of equal value to Herat, which they would then strengthen and garrison properly.

"A report prevailed in respectable quarters at Cabul, that the Russian and Persian ambassadors had arrived at Candahar, with intention of presenting themselves ere long at Cabul; and it is further stated, that the Khassendee merchants, of whom our correspondent has already written, are agents in the pay of Russia; they have had interviews with the ameer, and are now preparing to return to the Russian general at Khiva. Duplicity is hinted at on the part of the ruler of Cabul; but of course we must receive all this with caution, our own impression still being, that he must well know it to be his interest to make friends with the British Government. Sooltan Mahomed Khan, on the contrary, speaks out in favour of Persia, and of her supposed ally Russia."

"From another letter (without date) we take the following:—
"There has been a heavier fall of snow this cold season at Cabool than ever. In the city it fell to the depth of two yards, and in the suburbs more than that. Many houses came down, and buried several persons under the heaps of mud and snow. Numerous families had left their houses for the fear of their falling upon them, and gone to live in tents pitched on the cliffs, suffering severely from the piercing cold. Others came down to Jellalabad for a warmer climate. Sirdar Gholam Haidur Khan is still at Jellalabad with an army of about 5,000, both cavalry and foot. He is collecting the revenue of the province. The news has arrived, that through the advice of the Russian general, the Khan of Khiva has united himself with the king of Persia, and so has the king of Bokhara. Dost Mahomed Khan apparently speaks favourably of the English, but in secret has deputed 'Jafur Khan' to the king of Persia towards 'Tahran.' Sooltan Mahomed Khan, the ex-chief of Peshawur, has also despatched Allahdad Khan to H. M. on his own part. This step has been adopted by the Barukzadee chiefs of Cabool, through the advice of the 'Khokund' (Kokan) merchants, the object of whose coming to Cabool I stated to you some time ago. They are now about to start for Khiva, as is said in secret circles of the friends of the ameer. The latter mentioned to his confidentials, as 'Gholam Mahomed Khan Mookhtar,' &c., that in consequence of the war between Russia and Turkey (Roos wa Room), the gentleman or 'Sahib in Peshawur (meaning of course Major Edwardes) has begun to flatter, and sound his mind lately; and that though he distrusts the Christians, he will think and discuss the matter on the return of 'Jubbar Khan Nawab' from his fort of 'Tatung.'

"A report is also current here, that the king of Persia has sent an ambassador to 'Mahomed Saeed Khan,' son of the late Vazeer Yar Mahomed Khan of Herat, advising him to place his family at 'Neeshapoor' (Persian province in Khorasan, near Herat), until peace is established between the states of 'Khoorshaid Koolah' (Sunny Cap, meaning the emperor of Russia) and the Sooltan, and collect its revenue for his own expenses; because the eye of the many fighting nations is on Herat. He has also directed him, as well as the chiefs of Candahar, to keep their troops ready and march them to any side he may authorize them hereafter. 'Nowroz' (the equinoctial festival of the Persians) was fixed as the day for the departure of the families from Herat. The Persian ambassador is deeply engaged in gaining the confidence of the population of Herat, both Persians and Afghans. He treats them with every assurance of kindness on the part of the Shah of Persia."

Affairs in Oude and in the Nizam's country go on just as usual.

The triumphs of the electric telegraph furnish just now the most stirring of Indian subjects. It will be seen in the proper place that we have not neglected them.

In a Bombay paper, bearing date April 14, we read that General Staveley, commander-in-chief at Madras, left that presidency 25th March, on a tour of inspection, but was expected to return shortly, to be present at the swearing in of the new governor. Alas! his return was then impossible. At the date when the article in the Bombay paper was written, the general was numbered with the dead. He had expired, suddenly, on his tour, ten days before, of disease of the heart.

Sir Henry Pottinger was to leave India for England on the 24th April.

At Bombay hot weather was raging. The Commander-in-Chief had left the presidency for Mahableschwur. The Governor had been presiding over the distribution of prizes at the Elphinstone Institution; then inspecting the site of the waterworks proposed to be constructed near Vepar for the supply of Bombay, and which, apparently, are not thought of before they are wanted, the water at present in use being said to be fearfully bad and unwholesome, unfit to answer the purpose of a beverage without previous boiling (as is too generally the case in this country); and when this precaution is neglected, as for the most part it is, productive of cholera and other diseases. The Governor had also been exchanging visits with the Raja of Kolapore, and it is said that his Lordship does not propose to leave the presidency all the season. The following testimony to his labours, and to those of some of his predecessors, from the Bombay Courier, it is gratifying to quote:—

"Certain it is that we have not for a long time had either so active or so hard-working a ruler in Western India; to the truth of this our 'local' columns will this day bear witness. The native community say that he knows more of the presidency than any governor, except Mr. Elphinstone, Mr. Anderson, or Mr. Reid did, when their time for giving up the reins of rule had arrived."

Some facilities of access to Government records about to be conceded to editors of local newspapers are spoken of; and this will not tend to diminish his lordship's popularity with the press.

The accounts from China do not enable us to form any decided opinion as to when the war will terminate, or how. In Canton it is stated that there had been a wholesale execution. One sufferer was subjected to a punishment to which it is painful to Christian feelings to allude; sixty-five were beheaded, and three, having been partially flayed, were then cut to pieces, and their hearts taken to the mandarins for inspection. Did they inspect them as of old they inspected the entrails of birds, for purposes of augury? But let it not be forgotten, that it is the people who inflict these demoniacal punishments, that are now held up to our imitation, as those from whose customs we may learn to become wise and civilized as themselves.

The following from the Friend of China gives a no very flattering impression of Imperialist prospects. The pay we think would, if the work were constant, be good for playing at soldiers, seeing how many endure all the hardships and perils of real military service for no better; but the word "occasional" makes a difference. These men, after all, in point of dress, must, we suppose, be better than Falstaff's ragged regiment.

"Samqua's further movements about Shanghai, in the absence of Heang yung, are confined to the occasional daily hire of three or four thousand men to make a show. These men—rebels in heart—harpies by principle—put on the Imperialist uniform for small pittances; Canton men for a sum equivalent to a shilling a day—natives of Shanghai do it at ninepence. On the occasion of Sir S. G. Bonham's recent visit to Shanghai, and interchange of calls with Samqua, there were some strong musters; but a large proportion of them forgot to return their arms, which afterwards found their way into the insurgent barracks in the city. An extensive conspiracy was discovered in Samqua's camp a short time ago, and several of his officers have been sent to Soo Chow and there decapitated. Altogether, the chances of the Imperialists' ability to retake Shanghai, now nearly half a year in rebels' possession, are very small. At other places on the coast all appears to be quiet."

The paper from which the above is taken appears to estimate highly the religious pretensions of the party opposed to the old or Tartar authorities. We do not.

CASUALTIES BY DEATH IN THE ARMIES OF INDIA, REPORTED SINCE OUR LAST PUBLICATION.

BENGAL.—Capt. W. J. E. Boys, 6th L.C., at Almorah, Mar. 21; Capt. J. G. Lawrence, 24th N.I., at Calcutta, Mar. 27; Cornet G. K. Swinton, 4th L.C., at Sealkote, aged 21, Mar. 17; Capt. C. R. Woodhouse, 63rd N.I., at sea, on board the ship Hotspur, Feb. 12.

MADRAS.—Lieut. C. F. Blair, 22nd N.I., at Mhow, Mar. 17; Ens. J. Innes, 46th N.I., on the road between Cuddapah and Nellore, April 5; Lieut. W. Norris, 1st Nat. Vet. Batt., at sea, Mar. 15; Lieut. G. W. Onslow, art., at the Cape of Good Hope, aged 23, Mar. 8; Capt. P. F. Ottley, 48th N.I. at Berhampore, aged 33, Mar. 15; His Exc. Lieut. Gen. Wm. Staveley, C.B., Commander-in-Chief of the Madras army, while travelling in his transit-carriage, at Tippicadoo, April 4.

BURMAH.

RANGOON.—The latest accounts from Burmah, of March 18, still represent the state of the country as most unsatisfactory. A detachment of sepoy, escorting provisions to Prome, had been attacked by dacoits, if, as the Hurkaru remarks, credit can be attached to their reports, when two sepoys were killed and fourteen wounded. The party, numbering seventy men of the 10th Bengal Native Infantry, under the command of Captain Phillot, when five miles from Taphoon, was, it is represented, fired into from the dense jungle through which the road lay, and in which the dacoits were concealed. On the first fire the cart-drivers unyoked their bullocks, and ran away, so that Captain Phillot could neither advance nor return without leaving the wounded men of his detachment behind, the only dooly he had being occupied by a wounded man who subsequently died. However, the captain charged his assailants and drove them through the jungle at the bayonet's point, but no sooner were they dislodged from one point than they appeared at another. After two hours' hard fighting, Captain Phillot's detachment was reinforced by a party of the 4th Sikhs, under the command of Lieutenant Dunbar, who were accompanied by two elephants, upon which the wounded were placed, and all returned to Taphoon. Captain Phillot is said to have had a most narrow escape; the pony he was on was shot dead, the ball passing through the animal and grazing the rider's leg. Another bullet went through his forage-cap and lodged in the shoulder of one of the sepoys. The loss sustained upon this occasion by the Burmese has not been accurately ascertained; but a wounded chief, who had been made prisoner, died on the road to Taphoon. Major Nuthall has marched from Yargun with 250 of the 10th and 47th Arracanese and Peguese, in search of Gounghee; and it is hoped he may be successful in capturing that dacoit leader. The report that Major Allan, the deputy quartermaster-general, had been attacked and wounded, and the announcement that the king of Ava had been poisoned, are, as we anticipated, alike without foundation. All parties concur in considering an advance on Ava unavoidable, and some dissatisfaction is beginning to be expressed at the policy pursued in reference to the Burmese by the Governor-General.

The Zenobia left Moulmein on the 15th March at 1 20 P.M.; Colonel Bogle reports the left bank of the Sittang river as tranquil as any part of the Tenasserim district.

The Hon. Co.'s steamer Tenasserim arrived at Moulmein from Rangoon on the 14th instant, at which date everything was perfectly quiet in the province of Pegu. No foundation for the idle report of the king having been assassinated.—Calcutta Englishman, March 20.

We are informed that orders have been issued by Government to the commissioner of Pegu to pay the compensation awarded to merchants and others by Mr. Wilkins, the late commissioner for inquiring into those claims. Those who are proved to have sold gunpowder and other military stores to the Burmese after the commencement of hostilities, are to have no compensation.—Englishman.

Sir Scudamore W. Steel, K.C.B., has been appointed to the command of the forces in Burmah, and is to proceed thither forthwith.

Colonel Donald Macleod succeeds Sir S. W. Steel in the command of the ceded districts; and we hear that he has appointed Captain Horne, of the Lancers, to be his aide-de-camp.

MILITARY ON-DUTY.—The following is from They Mew, dated 24th February, 1854:—The Honourable Company's steam sloop Mahanuddy, Eales commander, arrived here early this morning from Meaday, bringing the intelligence that Major Allan, "the deputy commissioner," and his brave band of Sikhs, under the command of Lieutenant Williamson, had just entered the above fortress after a long but very delightful march from Tonghoo. All hands well and hearty, though somewhat knocked up by the great heat.—On the 22nd instant, some fifty rank and file of the 1st European Bengal fusiliers, and No. 6 company of the 65th Bengal infantry, under command of Captain Hilton, of the latter regiment, accompanied by Lieutenant White, the assistant commissioner, proceeded in the direction of Kama, to meet and to escort the commissioner, "Captain Phayre," who is daily expected to reach that village from Prome.—On the arrival of the commissioner at Meaday, it is expected he will proceed to the frontier to select two outposts, each to be situated some forty miles to the east and to the west of that fortress. The posts to be extensive enough to contain two guns, half a company of native artillerymen, twenty-five irregular horse, and some two hundred native infantry, the garrison to be relieved every six months by the troops at this station. Brigadier Dickinson has arrived and assumed command of the frontier, so soon, I hope, we shall get things into a little like order. Lieutenant-Colonel Welchman has also joined his new corps, the 1st European Bengal fusiliers, vice Colonel Matthie, who proceeds home immediately. The departure of Col. James Matthie from the old regiment in which he had served for upwards of thirty-three years, is deeply and deservedly regretted. His unaffected, though firm demeanour, in the maintenance of discipline; his impartiality and moderation as commanding officer; his gentleness and urbanity of manner, to both men and officers; his considerate and prompt attention to the wants of every individual under his command; were, indeed, such as to ensure his being beloved, as well as respected by all.—Prior to the departure of the gallant colonel, he presented his old messmates and brothers in arms with a very chaste and handsome silver vase, value £100. To the regimental band, an institution of which he has ever been a strong and warm supporter, he has presented a splendid bass drum, manufactured by F. Kay, of London, upon the newest and most approved principle, value £20; so that for many years to come his name will be remembered in the old corps.—Hurkaru Correspondent.

BENGAL.

A CORPS OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.

Indian governments are fettered at every turn by the want of civil engineers. Parliament rails at them for the delay in the construction of roads, the people demand assistance for great works of irrigation; the empire requires railways and canals, and the Government itself is anxiously desirous to complete surveys. Scheme after scheme is suggested and approved; plans which may fairly be called gigantic are matured; even the financial difficulty is overcome, and then comes the inquiry, where are we to obtain men? The corps of engineers, the only agency really at the disposal of government, is utterly insufficient to meet its ordinary requirements. It was inadequate ten years ago. It is a mere stop-gap now that four new kingdoms demand immediate attention, that public works have become a parliamentary cry, and that railways are admitted to be a political necessity. Not to mention that the training of the corps is to a certain extent incomplete, and that a large section is required for purely military operations, its actual numbers are wretchedly insufficient. One and the same man is wanting to complete a revenue survey, to remedy the blunders of a board, which persists in building embankments at rates that the workmen will not voluntarily accept, and to make a road through a wilderness longer than all England. There are no men even for the greatest undertakings, and little works remain undone, or are clumsily patched up by officers, whose energy wants nothing but the aid of a little scientific counsel.

The Grand Trunk Road may be kept up, but the bridge which would facilitate the commerce of a district, the quay which would rescue a station from the river, the tramway which would bring a coal-mine into communication with a market, remain unmade for years. The difficulty is increased by a circumstance almost peculiar to the Indian Government. Like the Czar, it is exposed incessantly to the danger of combined and organised plunder. The vastness of the area over which its operations extend, the impossibility of minute control, the low morality of the people, and even the circumstances of climate, combine to encourage enormous and systematic frauds. Unlike the Czar, however, the Government refuses to shirk its responsibilities, to allow of peculation, and to make up the difference by cutting salaries. It strives to check all dishonesty, and experience has proved that the most efficient check is to trust to the integrity of the commissioned officer alone. Hence arises the incessant complaint, that the engineers are compelled to perform the work of clerks. They must keep their own accounts, make every measurement themselves, examine every statement of their subordinates.

The real work to be done is lost sight of in the maze of pecuniary responsibility; and we have accounts instead of roads, figures instead of railways, and reports instead of works of irrigation. It is the age of estimates. The evil is felt, at least, as keenly by the Government as by the public; but what is to be done? The Russian commissariat and the English dockyard system are satisfactory proofs of the consequences which follow an absence of control. The alternative is pillage or delay; and a Government whose bête noir is a financial deficit prevents the one, and accepts the other.

The remedies hitherto suggested for this state of affairs, even if they were practicable, are not altogether satisfactory. The most popular is a very great extension of the corps of engineers. Doubtless, this would remedy many of the evils complained of. It would enable Government to construct roads, and to keep them up; to commence the great works so urgently required in the south, and to push on the improvements desired in the Punjab and in Pegu. But this is not all.

The engineers, besides being a costly arm, is in some respects deficient. We do not want men trained at Addiscombe, and learned in spherics, so much as civil engineers, men who can devise expedients, cross a stream by a bridge which is not picturesque, and prevent an inundation by a device not to be found in Tredgold. There are reasons too, why the engineers, considered as a portion of the army, should not be unduly increased, and the suggestion of importing engineers as the railway company have imported them, has frequently been offered in its stead. It is open to one material objection. These civil engineers come out with all their English ideas, and two English ideas are almost ineradicable. The first is that a hundred miles of anything, railway, tramway, canal, or road is a "great work," and the second that "expense is no object." Both theories are utterly inapplicable to India. As we have so frequently observed, India, like Russia and America, is oppressed by its own vastness. Distances are vast, rivers are vast, every feature of nature is vast, and public works to be of any utility must be vast also. An Indian road must be 500 miles long to reach anywhere.

An Indian swamp would cover half an English county, an Indian bridge must sometimes be measured by miles, if the traveller is not to find himself in a quicksand at its end. The only thing not to be vast, is the expenditure, and experience has shown that great works cheaply executed, are precisely those to which English engineers are most incompetent. We want men, who to English science add the American ability for practical effort, men who can entertain the idea of a Burmese bridge half a mile long, and costing less than half a lakh of rupees, who conceive a wooden railroad not absurd, and believe it to be sometimes expedient to go round a hill instead of through it. The third remedy, that of turning officers of the line into engineers, needs no discussion. The system has been stretched as far as it will bear, and the drain upon the regiments must either be discontinued, or we must attempt a most perilous reorganization of the entire army.

Nevertheless, we see not why it is impossible to combine the advantages of the first two expedients. The country requires civil engineers, and the government desires to have the security of a commission, and the control to be derived from an almost military discipline. Both objects, it appears to us, may be secured by the creation of a regular service, or corps of civil engineers. The members of such a service, regularly paid and pensioned, would look to India and India alone for their career. Though their education must be obtained in England, their practical experience would be acquired in India, and they would rapidly fit themselves to the peculiar circumstances of the country. Arriving at an early age, they would have little to unlearn, while the fact that their lives must be passed for the most part in the East, would render them desirous to deserve the confidence of the public, rather than by one "great idea" to make for themselves a momentary reputation. They would not, perhaps, put an arch higher than the Ochterlony monument in the bed of the Hooghly, but they would enable people to cross it, if only on wooden piers.

With such a force at their command, capable of indefinite extension, habituated to the climate and the people, and solely dependent on "the service," the Government might commence works, for which it can at present only hope.

To perfect the scheme, one other necessity ought to be supplied. We need a consulting engineer, a man of first-rate attainments, and who is familiar with the latest advances in engineering. Such a man, paid and considered as a member of the Government, would save in a few years ten times the sum expended on his office. Mr. Sims unquestionably was a failure. But the principle which led to his appointment was not the less correct, and the consequences of abandoning it would long ere this have been perceived, but for the accidental circumstance, that the Governor-General was also president of a railway department.—Friend of India.

THE CENSUS OF BENGAL ONCE MORE.

We are in possession of a statement which really appears to throw some light upon the much-vexed question of the density of our native population. It is a census of the 24-Pergunnahs and Baraset, taken with most unusual care, and with some attention to the first principles of statistical investigation. The results, moreover, allowing for one fatal deficiency in Oriental censuses, appear to be in consonance with the laws believed to regulate population in Europe. It was taken in this wise. In five of the largest pergunnahs, in the neighbourhood of Calcutta, the men, women, and children were counted head by head. In the remainder, the males only were counted, and the proportion of females observed in the other pergunnahs was accepted as the general ratio. The result is remarkable. The number of the sexes, so far from exhibiting a vast disparity, is nearly equal, the difference not being greater than may be readily accounted for by the reluctance of the natives to mention the female members of the family. The disparity, also, exists in almost the same proportion in every pergunnah where actual enumeration was attempted, a strong proof of the accuracy of the account. Moreover, the general result is strongly in favour of those who assert, as we are inclined to do, that all popular estimates of the population of Bengal are below the truth.

DISTRICT TWENTY-FOUR PERGUNNAHS.

Names of Pergunnahs.	Area in Sq. Miles.	1 Male Population.			2 Female Population.		3 Boys.		4 Girls.		5 Total.		Average per Sq. Mile.
Calcutta	164,224	35,998			32,107		16,540		12,648		97,293		568
Khaspore	20,852	5,166			4,608		2,373		1,815		13,962		665
Magoorah	153,855	32,603			29,079		14,980		11,455		88,117		572
Balleah..	46,403	5,606			5,000		2,576		1,969		15,151		330
Ghur ..	12,934	1,699			1,515		781		597		4,592		353
Punchakoollee ..	22,869	1,928			1,720		886		677		5,211		226
Azimabad	54,782	7,809			6,965		3,586		2,774		21,106		384
Moorgatcha	136,833	26,832			23,931		12,328		9,428		72,519		530
Mydanumul	120,801	15,251			13,602		7,007		5,359		41,219		343
Shahpore	25,125	2,004			1,787		921		704		5,416		217
Duckyn Segur	3,164	576			513		264		202		1,555		492
Shahnugur	7,796	948			845		436		333		2,562		320
Moydah	41,862	2,081			1,856		956		731		5,624		134
Boreedhantsee	65,578	16,473			14,693		7,569		5,789		44,523		674
Hattighur	116,960	15,203			13,559		6,985		5,341		41,968		351
Kharee..	10,961	532			475		245		187		1,439		131
Excluded :— Punchaundagram City of Calcutta	23,173 7,805	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
	1,005,000	170,709			152,255		78,435		50,978		461,377		459

A similar table for Baraset, which is too bulky for our columns, yields us almost identical results. The population of the entire zillah, the males having been counted head by head, amounts to 485,827. Of these 179,757 are male adults, 160,323 females, 82,591 male children, and 63,156 female children. The total ratio of area and population is 391 to the square mile, the area being the true fiscal area. Even this number, though smaller than that of the Twenty-four Pergunnahs, is greatly in excess of the English average, and Baraset, be it remembered, is by no means a thickly-peopled district.

Again, the population of 919 villages, belonging to the Bengal Indigo Company, have been actually counted, man, woman, boy, and girl, and the result is still the same. There were—

	Men.	Women.	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
Hindoos ....	56,010	54,271	25,990	20,556	156,827
Mussulmans	70,003	64,407	28,618	22,305	185,334
	126,013	118,678	54,608	42,861	342,161

The acreage included in these villages, amounts to 700 square miles, and the population, therefore, estimated under circumstances peculiarly favourable to accuracy, amounted to 488 to the square mile. The number of houses was 60,402, showing an average of 5.87 per house, a trifle more than the average of the North-West. These tables were compiled from actual enumeration. They tally to a very considerable extent with other tables in our hands, and if they are in the slightest degree reliable, indicate the three truths we have so frequently endeavoured to establish. The number of the sexes born in Bengal, as everywhere else, is nearly equal, the ratio of population to a house is a fraction above five, and the official estimate of the aggregate is too low by some millions.

The area of Bengal is 173,000 square miles.—Friend of India.

COLONEL OUTRAM.

"It is easy to take Chandernagore," said its Gascon governor, "mais après la—" The Guicowar and the creatures who fatten on the abuse of his authority, may alike ponder that sentence with advantage. It is easy to kill Col. Outram, but the united power of the Indian princes could scarcely delay the vengeance which would follow the perpetration of the deed. The art of poisoning always flourishes in its most rank luxuriance among the most demoralized communities. It is, therefore, carried to perfection in the palaces of Indian princes. Nevertheless, though it may afford a powerful native a safe and easy means of disposing of a private foe, it may not be quite so safe when directed against the representative of the British power. The present Governor-General has already fought one campaign, destroyed a principality, and transported its chief, to avenge the murder of an officer without the title of Col. Outram's power or popularity.

The lesson should be studied at Baroda. Bhow Tambekur has watched the worst portion of the weakest of Indian Governments, till he has forgotten that there is a power in India inaccessible to his arts, and which is as willing as it is able to exact summary vengeance for the disappearance of its servants. We warn, not Bhow Tambekur, but all whom it may concern, that should Col. Outram's mission be suddenly cut short, the protection of their master would not save them from the punishment of their crime. However high their rank, or however vast the wealth they may have accumulated, neither rank nor wealth would save them from mourning the loss of both in fetters at Maulmain. Nor is it inexpedient to remind the imbecile prince, whose protection fosters such mistakes, that the cup of British endurance is nearly full, that ten words in the Gazette would deprive him of power and princedom, as he has long been deprived of all the qualities which could lend dignity to either.

The hour of Colonel Outram's decease may be the last of the quasi independence of Guzerat. We are not writing upon rumours. The best friends of Colonel Outram believe him to be in danger more imminent than any he has ever encountered from the jezails of Affghans, or the swords of Beloochees. The Government of India cannot prevent that danger. It cannot invent antidotes to datura, or hedge its representative with a retinue of food-tasters. But it can, and most assuredly will, stretch its power to the utmost to avenge a successful crime, to punish its perpetrators as ordinary felons, and to extinguish for ever the possibility of a third attempt. And whatever the Guicowar, surrounded by slaves and flatterers, may think, if ever fairly confronted with the British Government, he will find himself—to use the expression of his countrymen—a lizard under the foot of an elephant.—Friend of India.

THE PARIS EXHIBITION OF 1855.

At the present moment, when England and France have stepped forward as the declared defenders of Turkey against the wanton aggressions of the Czar of Russia, the co-operation which the East-India Company evince with regard to the Great Exhibition to be held at Paris, in the spring of 1855, assumes a political significance. Under such circumstances, it cannot be but acceptable to our home readers to be informed of the spirit in which it is intended to meet the wishes of His Majesty the Emperor of France, and we are sure it will be a matter of gratification to all to hear that the Indian Government, which has been furnished with a carte blanche, proposes to carry out the subject with the utmost liberality. A notification, which appeared in the official Gazette, contains the names of a number of men who, independent of the high position they hold, are acknowledged to possess most eminent qualifications for the office intrusted to them. They have been constituted into a committee for the purpose of forming a select collection of the works of art and industry of this country, and it has been particularly impressed upon them that the contribution to the French Exhibition should be such as would be becoming the credit of the East-India Company. The gentlemen appointed on the committee are:—

The Hon. Sir Lawrence Peel, Kt., Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Judicature of Bengal, President.

The Hon. Sir James Colville, Kt., Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court.

Sir Robert Barlow, Bart., Presiding Judge of the Sudder Adawlut.

H. Ricketts, Esq., senior member of the Board of Revenue.

J. P. Grant, Esq., foreign Secretary to the Government of India.

Colonel W. N. Forbes, mint master.

A. Grote, Esq., Secretary to the Board of Revenue.

Dr. H. Falconer, superintendent of the H. Co.'s Botanical Gardens.

Dr. F. N. Macnamara.

E. De Valbesen, Esq., Consul to H. M. the Emperor of France.

James J. Mackenzie, Esq., President of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce.

H. Piddington, Esq., President of Marine Courts, and Curator of the Mineralogical and Geological Museum.

Rajah Pertaub Chunder Sing, Vice-President of the Agricultural and Horticultural Society.

Baboo Ramgopal Ghose, Vice-President of the Asiatic Society.

Captain P. Saliz, French Agent.

Baboo Joykissen Mookerjee.

A. M. Dowleas, Esq., principal uncovenanted auditor of the Commissariat.

Mr. A. M. Dowleas has been appointed secretary to the committee, and has been selected for that office by the Governor-General himself. The appointment has given general satisfaction; not only on account of the unquestionable talents of that gentleman, but also in consideration that the success which attended the Indian contribution to the London Exhibition of 1851 was chiefly owing to the indefatigable exertions on his part, in forming and forwarding the collection to England.

From the list of articles recommended for the guidance of the committee, and appended to the Government notification, the collection will embrace specimens of every work of art and industry, and comprise a selection of the most costly manufactures of India; and special care will be taken to include such of the productions of the soil as are comparatively unknown on the continent, and may be found of more immediate commercial interest. The whole contribution will be worthy of the undertaking, and highly creditable to the East India Company.—Hurkaru.

THE ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH BETWEEN AGRA AND CALCUTTA.

The opening of the electric telegraph between Agra and Calcutta is an event which deserves something more than a passing notice. Dr. O'Shaughnessy, in the prefatory remarks to his manual of instructions for the subordinates employed in the departments says, "in April and May, 1839, the first long line of telegraph ever constructed in any country was erected by himself in the vicinity of Calcutta." He will have now the gratification to add that the only line of similar length ever constructed within such an extraordinarily short time as that erected by himself between Calcutta and Agra, and if it be considered that within a few weeks more the line to Bombay will likewise be completed, he may safely challenge all other countries to show similar despatch of construction. Though at present the general utility of the telegraphic line is not sufficiently proved, still its importance far outweighs any considerations that might be raised on the score of financial economy. It affords an undeniable index to the change which the spirit of the age is working in India; it proves that the apathy which formerly existed to the practical introduction of scientific discoveries into this country is gradually dying away; and it shows that whatever the case may have been in which formerly the vast revenues of this country may have been applied, Government has at last seen the necessity of expending a portion, and a considerable portion too, for the improvement of the very country from which these revenues are being derived.

The construction of electric telegraphs being entirely defrayed by government, the public are less directly interested in the financial results. We must, therefore, view the importance of the undertaking in another light; we must estimate it by the change it will produce in the commercial and political relations of British India. We have already on a former occasion alluded to the fact that the commerce of this country is entirely influenced from abroad, and that the local trade of India, however extensive it may be, is wholly based upon the state of commercial affairs in Europe. There is perhaps no other country which is so liable to influence from abroad as India, because whilst drawing from the mother country the manufactured article of consumption, it in a great measure supplies the raw material for this manufacture. In former times, when trade was a monopoly and communication with Europe slow and uncertain, speculation could not be based upon any fixed data. It is true that perhaps larger and quicker fortunes were realized in those times, but the trade was then confined to a few houses only, who in the absence of local banks had the monopoly of the whole capital belonging to the civil and military services.

Steam communication wrought a wonderful change, and brought the commercial relations between India and the mother country to a nearer level; the business formerly monopolised by a few became divided among a large number, and it followed that the division created a corresponding increase of the trade. Witness the custom house returns, which show that trade within the last twelve years has almost doubled. The electric telegraph will work a further revolution by bringing us nearly ten days nearer to England. The uncertainty as to the outturn of Indian crops will no longer influence the markets at home, or at all events such uncertainty can be but of short duration. In the same manner our imports will be less liable to the fluctuations caused by more doubts as to the real position of affairs in the manufacturing countries, and thus, whilst both exports and imports will be subject to a more scrutinising control, the relative value of the articles of trade between England and India must be brought to a nearer level, and thereby give an additional stimulus to consumption.

In a political point of view, the importance of the Electric Telegraph can hardly be overrated. It now decides the long pending question with reference to the most advisable seat of the Supreme Government of India, by the fact that it is virtually immaterial whether it be at Calcutta or Agra. The orders of government may be printed simultaneously at both places, and the movements of armies, as well as all political measures, may be directed from one place with the same facility as from the other. The word distance is gradually becoming exploded, for words hardly uttered by the mouth may be repeated thousands of miles off almost the next moment. The fabulous stories of Asmodeus carrying the student Salamanca from place to place, are, in point of rapidity, completely thrown into the shade by the wonders of the Electric Telegraph; even Bürger's celebrated poem of the Abbott has lost one of its charms. In fact, Railways and Electric Telegraphs have brought the remotest corners of the globe within reach of each other, and it may be truly said that the world has grown smaller. What will be the next scientific discovery that may create a revolution similar to that caused by the application of steam and electricity to practical purposes?—Hurkaru.

THE ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.—Wednesday last, the 15th of March, 1854, was a day to be remembered in the history of India, and especially in the annals of these North Western Provinces. On that day, "the wonder-working wire" was first brought into use, on a large scale, in the conveyance of public intelligence in this country, and in expediting our communications with the Fatherland. From Seepree to Agra, a distance of nearly 160 miles, the news by the first February mail was flashed along the line, and formed, with a copy of the Queen's Speech on opening Parliament, sent up in like manner, the longest telegraphic message ever yet laid before the public in India. This remarkable despatch, we, with all possible celerity, presented to our readers in the form of an Extra, being able, through the indulgence of our active and public-spirited post-master, to forward one or more copies to each station up the country, by that morning's dawn.

This achievement of Dr. O'Shaughnessy and his youthful staff of signallers has furnished to the public in this part of India a striking practical illustration of the marvellous capabilities of the wire road and the lightning mail. While the regular overland express was toiling up the very indifferent road on the other side of Gwalior, the news which it was bringing had been caught up as if by a spirit of the air, and flung forward some eighteen hours' journey in no time; and then by the aid of that other wonder—now somewhat an old-fashioned wonder—the press dispersed far and wide to the four winds of heaven. And this is but a slight sample of the miracles which the wire will work for our advantage. Ere very many days have passed it will virtually bring us six days nearer to England, and place us in almost instantaneous communication with Calcutta, eight hundred miles away.

It is worthy of remark how very accurately the telegraph did its work on this occasion under all the disadvantages of a first attempt on a large scale by inexperienced hands. In order to save the post we were compelled to let our extra go out with only such corrections as the printers could make in their own work; yet even in the Queen's speech there were few errors, and those, we must confess, chiefly errors of the press. Altogether this inaugural despatch from Seepree is one of which Dr. O'Shaughnessy has great reason to be proud; and we most heartily congratulate him and his assistants on a triumph to which that of victory is commonplace and poor.—Agra Messenger, March 18.

In the north-west the electric telegraph is called "dak bijlee," lightning mail. It is the best name yet introduced.

BANK OF BENGAL.

The directors of the Bank of Bengal, as we expected, did advertise yesterday for a secretary, and have thus officially declared that they will once more break through that rule of justice which prevails in most public institutions to reward long and faithful service by promotion, and which, when strangers are admitted, makes them take their places at the bottom of the list. The present deputy-secretary, Mr. Plumb, has proved himself quite equal to the duties of the higher office, by acting for the secretary more than once during his absence, and may challenge any scrutiny into the manner in which his own duties have been performed during the many years that he has served in the bank. In like manner, during Mr. Plumb's absence, Mr. Lee conducted the greater part of his business, and Mr. Cooke, in like manner, performed a part of that of Mr. Lee; therefore, no pretence can exist for asserting that any of these gentlemen are unequal to higher or more responsible work, for they have done it already; but their pockets, it seems, are not strong enough to hold the heavier salary.

In fact the only excuse that we have heard for not promoting Mr. Plumb, is that it is "too much honour for the like of him." Had the office of bank secretary been hitherto only conferred upon one of the highly educated, this reluctance on the part of directors, to admit within the pale a mere outsider, would be intelligible, but having been successively bestowed upon a bankrupt merchant and a bankrupt attorney, it is scarcely possible to imagine that a personal objection can be taken to the social position of the deputy secretary. His exclusion is an injustice to all the officers of the bank, since it stops their promotion as well as his own, and makes them feel uncertain whether even in the inferior offices of the bank may not some day or other be subject to similar intrusion, and whether they may not consequently be deprived of their long-expected reward, after perhaps a quarter of a century of assiduous service.

That no very unusual skill or knowledge of business is required to conduct the routine of the bank, is proved by the fact that Mr. Grey, who assumed charge without the smallest previous training, and with rather an unusual degree of ignorance of the mysteries of bookkeeping, has in a short time become a very efficient secretary, and given satisfaction to all who have transacted business with the bank. His introduction was felt to be a wrong to the proprietors—his withdrawal is equally so, since under the resolve of the directors to elect a stranger, another person will probably have to learn the business at their expense; and though they recovered their money in the last gold mohur forgery case, they may not always have the same luck. For an office so well paid, and so respectable, there will of course be no lack of candidates. We have heard of about a score, among whom are three of the highly educated, namely, Mr. W. G. Young, Mr. J. A. Crawford, and Mr. W. Maples. Among the merchants we may name, as a well-qualified candidate, Mr. James Stuart, of the firm of Gordon, Stuart, and Co., who was brought up in the Royal Bank of Scotland, came to this country with testimonials of the highest character from the managers of that institution, and is well known as a man of business to the whole mercantile community of Calcutta. The Bank of Bengal is not likely to get a better man by sending to England. Mr. J. J. Mackenzie, of the firm of Mackillop, Stewart, and Co., was also reported to be a candidate, but we are positively assured that he has no intention of relinquishing his present business.—Englishman, March 25.

THE LAND RENT OF CALCUTTA.

For four and thirty years have the Government of Bengal endeavoured without success to confer a benefit on the landholders of Calcutta. So early as 1819, they offered to permit the perpetual redemption of the land-tax for fifteen years' purchase.

The proposition, however, was unpopular. Calcutta was perfectly contented that matters should remain upon their former footing, and only eleven proprietors came forward. In 1824, a brighter thought appears to have occurred to the revenue department. The scheme for permitting perpetual redemption was withdrawn, and another, unparalleled we suspect in the history of financial experiments, was substituted. The holders of lands were permitted to redeem for a term of years, at rates varying in an inverse ratio with the length of the redemption. Thus a commutation for—

10 years' cost	7½ years' purchase.
15	10½
20	12½
25	14
30	15½

They had just failed to secure fifteen years' purchase by an offer of perpetual redemption, yet they expected to obtain a larger sum for an exemption extending over only one generation. This failed also, and the project of converting Calcutta into a rent-free estate was left in abeyance, except when occasional applications were received from individuals. In 1852 it was revived. The settlement and survey of the town was rapidly proceeding; the extraordinary disproportion between the receipts and the expenses of collection forced itself annually upon the Government; and in May, 1853, came out a notification, declaring that all lands might be redeemed for ever, on the payment of twenty years' rental. We noticed this project at the time; but, like all which had preceded it, it failed. The landholders of Calcutta, the majority of whom are table servants, refused to understand their own best interests. They had all kinds of objections to offer to the proposition.

The Company were only farmers, and could not, therefore, grant a perpetual exemption. They would hereafter reimpose the tax, though in a different form. The redemption would permit the rich proprietors to introduce the Zemindaree system, and with it injustice and oppression. Finally, such a redemption would not pay. The Khitmutgars and other landed proprietors of Calcutta, unable to perceive that an exemption from the taxgatherer must increase the value of their properties, looked only to the immediate return, and this was only five per cent., scarcely half the market rate for money. For all these reasons, and many others, one of which probably was the scarcity of ready money peculiar to the class, they refused the proffered boon. The government, however, did not even yet despair. They reduced the rate of exemption to fifteen years' purchase, and have again called upon the landholders to exempt themselves and their posterity from the system which educated Bengal declares to be "iniquitous."

There is a reason for this steady perseverance on the part of Government in a design as unpopular with the landholders as opposed to all sound principles of finance. The circumstances of Calcutta with reference to the land-tax are certainly exceptional. The high value of land in the metropolis and its suburbs has produced a series of subdivisions, which have proceeded till the average size of each holding is scarcely eight cottahs, or half a rood. The city, including its suburbs, contains some 28,000 separate and distinct holdings, and of these the 11,000 which lie within Calcutta itself are subject to a demand of only Rs. 24,000 a year, scarcely the collector's salary. Even of this sum but little is collected. Some holdings belong to individuals in joint-tenure. Others are mortgaged, others have no known proprietor, and so infinite is the confusion that the balances are almost always in excess of the receipts. There are remissions for public lands, and remissions to private individuals, remissions because the owner cannot pay, and remissions because he has absconded. In fact, the revenue system of Calcutta is like that of an Irish estate, the collector gets what he can, and is thankful, the middleman pockets as much as the collector will leave him, cottiers absorb the remainder, and the landlord goes without. Nevertheless, though we admit the whole force of these arguments, we cannot admit the principle upon which this offer of a perpetual redemption must be founded. We are not prepared to deny that the government of the day may bind its successors, more particularly in pecuniary transactions. But we do deny that it has a right to pass an edict, declaring that a certain marketable commodity shall remain untaxed to all generations. More especially do we deny its power to declare that the article shall be taxed everywhere, except in one particular collection of villages. The British parliament has unquestionably the power to say, that tea shall be no longer taxed. It has, nevertheless, no right to enact that the legislature of 1,900 shall lay no tax upon tea. Still less, can it continue to tax all tea drunk in Shoreditch, and exempt all that may at any future time be consumed in Belgrave-square. Yet this is precisely what the board of revenue is attempting to do. It says practically, the profits of the tax in Shoreditch are large, and in the square small, and therefore the square shall drink its tea untaxed, not only now, but in all time to come. Land in India is a taxable commodity, almost the only one we possess, and to exempt a bit of it in perpetuity, is beyond the just authority of any government in the world. It may be said that the redemption of the land tax was permitted in England. Taxes have been laid upon the land since then, and a precedent cannot be accepted as proof of a principle. Moreover, the right of redemption was extended to all England, and was in effect an abandonment of the tax, sanctioned by the legislature, and not simply by the executive.

We contend against this project, as we have contended so often before, because it involves a most important principle. We have not the slightest hope of exciting any public interest in the question, and little fear of awakening the landlords to a sense of the magnitude of the advantage offered. But if the executive government, of its own mere motion, can relieve a single town of its taxes, all hope of an equalization of the public burdens, the want of which is one of the greatest defects of our Indian policy, may finally be abandoned.—Friend of India.

THE PIRATES AT THE NICOBAR ISLANDS.

We have been favoured with the sight of a letter from the commander of the brig Harry, of London, to the agents for Lloyd's, in Calcutta, containing a statement which, it appears to us, is well worthy the attention of the masters of vessels trading to the Straits, and to which we therefore give publicity.

Captain Dare reports that on the passage from South Australia to this port, when passing to the eastward of the Nicobar Islands, and about three miles to windward of the island of Camorta, on the 9th of January, at eight A.M., discovered a large boat about half-way between the ship and the shore. This boat continued to approach the ship with the evident intention of intercepting her before she could clear the N.E. extremity of the island. At ten A.M. the boat had come sufficiently close to enable Captain Dare to perceive that she was about sixty feet long, and full of men, and altogether bore a very suspicious appearance. At this time the N.E. point of the island bore about four points on the brig's lee bow, and Captain Dare checked the braces, and made all possible sail to the N.W. The boat also hoisted sail to assist the oarsmen, but after an hour's chase, finding they had lost ground, they gave up the pursuit.

That the boat in question was a piratical craft there cannot be a shadow of a doubt; and we fear that a large proportion of the inhabitants of the coasts in the neighbourhood referred to are pirates in a greater or less degree, in spite of the assertion in Horsburgh's Directory, "that the natives of these islands are friendly." We consider that it was very fortunate for Captain Dare and others on board the Harry that a steady breeze enabled them to decline the visit from the gentlemen in the long red boat. If they had reached the vessel, we fear that the commander would never have written an account of the compliments interchanged between those on board the respective crafts, and we certainly think he has reason to be thankful that he escaped any closer acquaintance with the friendly gentlemen of the Nicobars.

It is to be regretted that all vessels trading to the Straits cannot carry at least a couple of carronades. A round shot across the bows of a suspicious craft would be the best possible method of announcing the "not at home" to a disagreeable visitor. If Joey Hume, and any of the others who are persecuting Sir James Brooke, should come out to take a survey of the eastern seas, we should wish them no worse than to be compelled to make their voyage of inspection in a small unarmed trader. They would never go home to report upon what they have seen, and there would be an end to their humanity-monstering, causing trouble and vexation to better men than themselves, and driving such pioneers of civilization as Sir James from their advanced posts, where they are promoting the welfare of humanity by exterminating piratical hordes, who prey upon their weak neighbours, and murder as well as plunder the navigator.—Hurkaru.

THE LONDON MAIL of Feb. 24 arrived at Madras March 30, and Calcutta, April 2nd (per Hindustan).

MR. J. C. PERRY, of Agra, is to be the deputy-manager of the Delhi Bank.

MAJOR DICKEY is to be nominated inspector-general of studs. ROORKEE COLLEGE.—The Court of Directors have desired that the Roorkee College should be henceforth designated the "Thomson College of Civil Engineering."

PROFICIENCY IN HINDEE.—The Governor-General has conferred a degree of honour and a donation of Rs. 800 on Mr. W. Waterfield for his proficiency in the Hindue language.

MR. C. E. CHAPMAN has received a donation of Rs. 800 for his attainments in Bengali.

THE VENERABLE ARCHDEACON PRATT is again so ill, that his medical advisers have ordered him to proceed to the Cape for change of air, with as little delay as possible.

DR. FALCONER, Superintendent of the Botanic Garden, intends permanently to retire from the service—Englishman.

MR. H. M. REID.—We hear that the salary of Mr. H. M. Reid, the controller of surveys, has been raised from Co.'s Rs. 18,000 to 23,000 per annum, being equivalent to the salary of a collector of revenue in the larger districts of the regulation provinces.

MR. N. HERSHELL has received the reward of Rs. 800 for his eminent knowledge of Hinduee.

PATNA.—The following is from a correspondent at the above station, of date the 14th instant :—"The deputy magistrate of the sub-division of Barh (Mr. F. A. Vincent), owing to protracted ill-health, has applied to our new commissioner, Mr. Dampier (late superintendent of police for the lower provinces), for leave of absence for a half-year, for his recovery.

LIEUT. CAVE is to obtain the command of the Sylhet light infantry. The agency to the Cossyah Hills will be conferred on one of the assistants to the commissioner of Assam, and all appeals will in future be made to that officer.

ROGERS v. BLUETT.—The case of Rogers v. Bluett came on for trial in the Supreme Court in March last. Mrs. Bluett declares that she paid Captain Rogers, the superintendent of marine, Rs. 3,000, to appoint her son to a midshipman's berth on board the Pluto. Captain Rogers accordingly prosecuted her for libel. The defence was justification. The Court fixed the damages at Rs. 2,000.

NEW ROAD—GYA TO PATNA.—Government has sanctioned the construction of a new road from Gya to Patna. One of the grand works upon this line will be a viaduct, twenty-seven miles long, over a country annually inundated. The expense is estimated at £100,000.

THE NEW FURLOUGH REGULATIONS.—A correspondent of the Delhi Gazette remarks on the operation of the new furlough regulations :—

"The movements connected with the present state of the furlough regulations are truly amusing, as you may imagine, when I tell you that we have four or five different kinds of men going home at the same time with different views and intentions as regards their furloughs. The other day I sat at table with an officer who is going home under the old regulations, because he does not understand, and consequently does not like the new ones; but he thinks that as the latter are to be entirely revised and remodelled, he will be able to turn them to account before his time is up. There was also present a man going home, under the new regulations, which he, too, does not understand, and who may be benefited whilst in England, and cannot be injured by their revision and correction. Flanking these officers was one going home under the old regulations, to whom the new ones are useless; and another going home under the new ones, who could not have attempted to move but for them. The Governor-General has, as I told you before, sent the new rules home for revision or explanation, and it is also said that he has sent the applications that have been made here for information on the different clauses and points to the Court of Directors."

ARMY CLOTHING ABUSES.—A correspondent of the Delhi Gazette at Calcutta writes :—"I will tell you a piece of military news which I have not as yet seen, that I can recollect, in any of the newspapers, but which cannot fail to interest your military readers. You must know, then, that the old and vicious system of clothing the army, and paying the colonels of regiments, has received its death-blow from the home authorities, and the final orders of the Court of Directors on the subject have come out to the Governor-General. I can give you some of the new arrangements in this letter, and will complete the sketch in my next. The new system comes into operation on the 1st of January, 1855, on which day the present Clothing Board expires. The great benefit of the new system is, that the corrupt and dishonest 'off-reckonings' are at an end, and general officers are in future to receive an equivalent for them as follows :—An estimate has been made of the amount realized by this off-reckoning system for the last twenty years, and an average taken of the sum received yearly by each colonel for a regiment entitled to share. That average gives the sum of 640l. sterling per annum to these old fellows, and that is what each of them is to pocket annually in lieu of the old off-reckonings. This 640l. a year is payable by the state, just like any other allowance, and all connection between general officers and soldiers' clothing is to be dis severed for ever. So far for the colonels of regiments; you will now naturally want to know what is to be the new system of doing that which they were supposed to do—clothing the army? I must tell you frankly that I don't know; but you may depend upon getting full details in my next. What I have given you is certainly very interesting to the general officers of the army, who will, from the 1st of next January, be paid as officers and gentlemen, and not as tailors and slop-sellers."

THE AGRA SAVINGS FUND has published its half-yearly report. The profit on its operations has been at the rate of 28½ per cent. per annum upon its capital. The dividend declared is at the rate of sixteen per cent., with a bonus of eight per cent. more.

MR. J. P. GRANT has, it is said, been appointed provisional member of council.

IRONSTONE.—The Agra Messenger informs us, that at Deorah, twenty-two miles from Chuttepore in Bundelkund, fifty baskets of ironstone produce two maunds and twenty seers of iron. Common iron sells at sixteen seers to the rupee, and good iron at twelve or thirteen. There is plenty of fuel in the neighbourhood, and a small river, which is never dry.

SURVEYING AND ENGINEERING.—It has been determined that the rules on the subject of qualification in surveying and civil engineering, which, with the sanction of Government, were published for the Bengal army, shall also be applicable to H.M.'s officers serving in India.

TRAFFIC ACROSS THE RAVEE.—The Lahore Chronicle publishes some statistics of the traffic across the bridge of boats on the Ravee. It amounted during January and February to about 1,66,685 maunds, carried by 89,454 porters, 17,277 bullocks, and a large number of ponies, mules, and horses.

THE NORTH-WESTERN BANK.—Judgment was given yesterday in the case of the Official Assignee against the North-Western Bank, at very great length, as usual. The report of this case was published in our paper on the 11th instant, in which it appears that the most important point of law at issue was, whether the bank was entitled to a general lien which it had obtained under a letter of agreement, signed by Mr. Thomas, on behalf of Hickey, Bailey, and Co., shortly before the stoppage of that firm. The Court has established the bank's lien on two grounds, as we are informed. One being that the lien was given more than two months before the adjudication of insolvency. As to the computation of the period of two months, however, there was a difference of opinion upon the bench, that of the majority being that the months were lunar months in the Act of Parliament, not being expressed as calendar months; but the Chief Justice was of the other opinion, and according to the construction which prevailed, the lien was given before the statutory objection came into operation. But it was also supported, we understand, on the more general ground that it was founded on a good consideration. Very important matters of account were also involved in the case, and the Court thought there had been no final account, and has directed one to be taken, with leave to the official assignee to surcharge and falsify any part of the account already taken, but, except so far as the official assignee may be able to impeach it, the past account is to stand. Our readers will see that it is quite impossible to know what the result may be for the shareholders of the North-Western Bank.—Englishman, March 28.

AN ANCIENT PILLAR is about to be set up in the grounds of the Benares college. It was found in the Ghazee pore district, whence it was removed to Benares, and "is a monolith of brown laminated sandstone, about forty feet in length, with a diameter which tapers from three or four feet at the base, to about two feet at the summit." It has a Sanscrit couplet inscribed upon it.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.—The Englishman hears it has been finally decided to remove the department of public works from the control of the Military Board in May next. That institution will then become the Board of Ordnance, while the public works are placed under the charge of three chief engineers. Is it impossible to have a chief artilleryist also, and do away with the worn-out machinery altogether?

COINAGE.—Rupees were first coined for the East-India Company in Bombay, after the cession of that island by the Portuguese. It was in 1790 that machinery was first forwarded to Calcutta for the Mint, and that rupees were issued with milled edges. In 1830 steam power was introduced, and the Mint rendered capable of turning out 300,000 pieces of coin in seven hours. The pice now current, with the legend in the native language, were issued in 1795.

A CLAIM AGAINST GOVERNMENT.—The Englishman states that certain Delhi merchants claim from government a sum of thirteen lakhs of rupees. The money, it is said, was advanced to ransom the British officers and ladies taken by the Afghans. The merchants hold bills for the amount, but they were dishonoured, on the ground that the full sum had not been paid. A committee appointed by the Lieut. Governor has already decided against them, and against this decision they have appealed. The story seems one-sided.

MR. WOODROW.—We deeply regret to notice in the Englishman, that an accident has occurred to Mr. Woodrow, the new secretary to the council of education. The explosion of some chemical preparation has injured his eyes.

SMALL CAUSE COURTS.—Messrs. Mills and Harrington have reported on the introduction of Small Cause Courts into the Mofussil. They have advised that the Moonsiffs should be entrusted with those powers. In other words, we presume they are ready to abolish all records in those courts, the greatest reform yet suggested.

A MONSTER HOTEL.—The Hurkaru announces that Calcutta is at last to have a first-rate hotel. A "three-storied palace" is to be erected on the site of the premises now occupied by Messrs. Thomson and Co. A giant hotel, on the American plan, half boarding-house, and half inn, ought to succeed in the metropolis. It should be built, too, on a somewhat similar plan, so that its great colonnades might become the lounge for half Calcutta.—Friend of India.

COMPARATIVE AGES OF GENERAL OFFICERS.—The Hurkaru quotes from the Naval and Military Gazette a statement, that the average age of the general officers in the Queen's army is seventy-three years. He adds, that the average age of the colonels in the Bengal army is sixty-four years, and out of seventy-three officers of that rank upon the lists, only eight are under three score. Fortunately for the honour of our arms, the Queen's government in a serious emergency is not afraid of supersession, and local rank soon overcomes difficulties of precedence.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS.

THE ARMY OF INDIA.

Head-Quarters, Camp Chajlait, Feb. 28, 1854.—His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief considers it to be due from him to the army of the Honourable Company serving throughout India, more particularly so to its body of regimental officers, to promulgate generally, and draw especial notice to an order recently issued to the troops of the Bombay presidency, dated Bombay, 11th February, 1854.

His Excellency feels the greater satisfaction in giving all the effect in his power to the matter of the general order in question, since his own sentiments, grounded also upon a sufficiently extensive experience, are entirely in accordance with those so heartily given expression to by Lord F. Fitzclarence; both with regard to the professional merits and gentlemanly bearing of the officers of the Honourable Company's service generally, and their entire freedom from the reproach so unwarrantably cast upon them in a publication appearing under the signature of an officer who had rendered valuable service in his station on the Bombay establishment; but reflecting gravely, and in a most objectionable mode, upon the character and institutions of the whole native army: a course of proceeding with so much reason animadverted upon in the general order in question.

MOONSHEE ALLOWANCE.

Head-Quarters, Camp Nahtore, March 3, 1854.—The Commander-in-Chief has much pleasure in announcing the decision, on a reference, of the Most Noble the Governor-General in Council, that moonshee allowance shall in future be admissible to captains and surgeons, in like manner with subaltern officers and assistant surgeons, who may pass the interpreter's examination, or that in Hindoostanee under existing regulations, or in Punjaub or the Burmese language.

THE ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.

March 27, 1854.—The Most Noble the Governor-General in Council having, on the evening of the 24th March, received from the city of Agra a message by electric telegraph, conveyed in one hour and fifty minutes, is pleased to direct that the fact shall be published in the Government Gazette, for general information.

The construction of the electric telegraph was only commenced after the end of the last monsoon. That a message should have been transmitted along 800 miles of continuous line in this month of March is very honourable to the superintendent, and most creditable to those who under his orders have accomplished the work.

Such energy and industry deserve reward. His Lordship in Council is therefore pleased to direct that double pay shall be given to the whole establishment which has been employed on the electric telegraph between Agra and Calcutta, for the month of March, during which their exertions have accomplished the opening of the first great section of the Indian electric telegraph.

By order of the Governor-General of India in Council,

C. ALLEN, Offg. Sec. to the Govt. of India.

NEW CANTONMENT MAGISTRATE AT RANGOON.

Fort William, March 20, 1854.—The Most Noble the Governor-General in Council is pleased to authorize a cantonment joint magistrate for the station of Rangoon, and to appoint the brigade-major for the time being at that place to the situation.

COURT MARTIAL.

LIEUTENANT WILLIAM CUMMING.

Head Quarters, Camp Deyrah, March 17, 1854.—At a general court-martial, assembled at Rawul Pindee, Feb. 23rd, 1854, Lieut. W. Cumming, H.M.'s 32nd regt., was arraigned on the following charges, viz.:—

1st. For gross disrespect to his superior officer, Capt. Moore, H.M.'s 32nd foot, in having at Rawul Pindee, Dec. 26, 1853, proceeded to the quarters of Lieut. J. Hallows, H.M.'s 87th regt., and insisted on reopening a dispute with that officer, which had been amicably settled two days previously, in the presence and with the sanction of Capt. Moore, to whom he, Lieut. Cumming, also apologized for rejecting his mediation at the early stage of the difference, and he, Lieut. Cumming, at the settlement of the said dispute, having been released from the arrest in which he had been placed by Capt. Moore, on the express understanding that the dispute was to be considered as finally settled.

2nd. For having, at Rawul Pindee, on Dec. 26, 1853, given a challenge to Lieut. Hallows, 87th foot, to fight a duel with him, Lieut. Cumming.

Finding.—Lieut. W. Cumming, 32nd regt., guilty of the first charge, with the exception of the word "gross," of which he is acquitted. With regard to the second charge, guilty.

To be severely reprimanded.

(Signed) W. M. GOMM, General C.-in-C., East Indies.

Remarks by his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.—The Commander-in-Chief has confirmed the sentence of the court, but is unable to accord his approval of it, and declines to inflict it; the punishment awarded being, in his Excellency's opinion, quite inadequate to the serious offences of which Lieut. Cumming has been convicted.

Lieut. Cumming is to be released from arrest, and directed to rejoin his regiment for duty, without delay.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BERFORD, G. M. G. to be civ. auditor N. W. P. March 21.
CARMICHAEL, C. P. to be asst. sec. to Govt. N. W. P.
CARNEGIE, P. dep. coll. in Allahabad, prom. to 2nd grade.
CHAPMAN, G. C. S. to be dep. mag. 24-Pergunnahs, with powers of a mag. and to be dep. coll. in the same dist. March 9.
CHRISTIE, J. extra asst. at Loodianah, to be an ext. asst. at Simla for two years' duration.
DAVIS, H. M. to be register of deeds in the dist. of Noacolly.
DONNITHORNE, W. S. resigned E.I.C.'s civ. serv. fr. end of April.
DUNLOP, R. H. W. to be superint. of the Dehra Dhooon, Mar. 21.
FORSYTH, T. D. to offic. as depy. commis. of the Kangra dist. dur. abs. of C. B. Bayley, March 22.
GORDON, D. J. to be postmr. of Ghatal and Keerpoy, March 17.
GRANT, J. P. to be sec. to Govt. of India, foreign dept. March 22.
GREATHED, H. II. to be civ. and sess. jud. of Allahabad.
HARRISON, E. F. to act as coll. of Backergunge, dur. abs. of Hampton.
HERSCHEL, W. J. qual. for public serv. attached to Bengal div. of pres.
LARMOUR, R. to be a mem. of the local comm. for management of the charitable dispensary at Mulnah.
LOYD, T. K. to be mag. and coll. of Humeerpore, but to continue to offic. as mag. and coll. of Moozuffernuggur.
LOWIS, J. M. to be in charge of sub-div. of Govindpore, with powers of a jt. mag. and dep. coll. in the district of Maundhoom.
MANGLES, J. H. to be a mem. of the ferry fund committee at Bancoorah.
MONEY, G. P. to be mag. and coll. of Allyghur, March 21.
PROWETT, N. H. E. permitted to resign the Company's service.
ROBERTS, J. B. to be asst. to ch. mag. of Calcutta, with pow. of a dep. superint. of police, fr. March 6.
ROSE, H. to be regr. of deeds and marr. regr. in Beerbhoom.
ROSS, J. G. dep. mag. and dep. coll. of Rohtuck, to assu. ch. of dist.
SHANK, A. judge of Benares, rec. ch. of Gov. Gen.'s agcy. at Benares fr. H. C. Tucker, March 4.
SHERER, J. W. to be jt. mag. of Allyghur.
THORNHILL, M. B. to be jt. and dep. coll. of Rohtuck, but to cont. to offic. as mag. and coll. of Azimghur till further orders. March 21.
TYLER, E. F. to be civ. and sess. judge of Mynpoory, March 21.
UNWIN, H. to be agt. to Lieut. Gov. at Agra, March 21; to be commis. Agra div.
WISE, J. P. to be a mem. of the local comm. of public inst. at Dacca.
WOOD, B. superint. of chokies at Jellalore, is vested with powers of a superint. of salt chokies, within the Hidgellie agency.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BRUCE, T. 1 mo.
HAMPTON, R. 1 mo.
HAMPTON, G. B. 2 mos.
JACKSON, L. S. to Europe on furl.

LEAN, J. leave cane.
 LINDSAY, C. R. to Nov. 8, to Deyrah, m.c.
 POWER, J. 1 mo.
 SHANK, A. leave cane.
 TUCKER, H. C. 16 days.
 VINCENT, F. A. 6 mos. m.c.

ECCLESIASTICAL. LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BURNEY, Rev. H. B. 2 mos. leave to Presidency, prep. to app. for furl. to Europe.

LASCELLES, Rev. H. 1 mo. leave.

MALTBY, Rev. R. B. order for his remaining at Peshawar till rel. cane.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ARMSTRONG, Ens. R. G. to do duty with 42nd L.I. at Benares.
 BODDAM, Lieut. H. M. art. to make over ch. of the district and station staff at Arracan, to Lieut. Gibbs dur. his absence.
 BOGLE, Lieut. col. Sir A. fr. 22nd to 48th N.I.
 BRASER, Lieut. J. adj. and acting 2nd in com. regt. of Ferozepore, to offic. as qr. mr. v. Sheffield.
 BROWNLOW, Super. 2nd Lieut. H. A. Engs. brought on the effective strength of the corps fr. Feb. 15 in suc. to Maunsell pro. for the augmentation.
 CHESNEY, Super. 2nd Lieut. G. T. Engs. brought on the effective strength of the corps fr. Feb. 15 in suc. to Oliphant pro. for the augmentation.
 CHRISTOPHER, Lieut. L. R. 71st N.I. to be supt. of Abkaree Mehal in Allahabad.
 CRASTER, Super. 2nd Lieut. G. A. Engs. brought on the effective strength of the corps fr. Feb. 15 in suc. to Stuart pro. for the augmentation.
 COLE, Lieut. A. N. 10th N.I. to continue to offic. as maj. of brigade at Prome until relieved by Lieut. Ross.
 DARLING, Ens. P. 24th N.I. to be Lieut. fr. March 26 in suc. to Lawrence dec.
 DORIA, Capt. R. A. to be com of 4th cav. Hyderabad contingent.
 DRUMMOND, Lieut. H. executive eng. Tenasserim div. to be executive eng. Delhi div.
 EDWARDS, Capt. G. R. asst. to supt. of operations for sup. of Thuggee to offic. as gen. supt. during leave of Capt. Sleeman.
 EWART, Capt. N. T. 30th N.I. to offic. as asst. adj. gen. Cawnpore div. dur. abs. of Lindsay.
 FAGAN, Lieut. C. S. to be 2nd. in com. of 1st reg. inf. Hyderabad conting. March 27.
 FARQUHARSON, Lieut. L. J. 6th L.C. to be capt. of a troop fr. March 21, in suc. to Boys dec.
 FERRIS, Lieut. R. J. D. 55th N.I. placed at disp. of foreign dept. to be an asst. commis. in the Punjab, March 31.
 FIDDES, Col. T. fr. 1st Eur. fus. to 42nd N.I.
 FINNIS, Lt. col. J. fr. 38th to 67th N.I. March 7.
 FORBES, Lieut. F. M. H. 39th N.I. ret. to duty, March 17.
 FORSTER, Lieut. T. F. 39th N.I. to be adjt. of the Sheklhawtee batt. v. Babbage, March 6.
 FRASER, 1st Lieut. A. art. ret. to duty.
 GAMBIER, Ens. C. H. Fitzroy, to do duty with 7th N.I. at Berrampore, Feb. 9.
 GARNETT, 2nd Lieut. A. W. engs. to be 1st lieut. fr. Feb. 15, for the augmentation.
 GODBY, Lieut. R. F. to act as adjt. to 35th N.I. v. Commelin, nom. to offic. in the army commis. dept. March 6.
 GIBBS, Lieut. J. T. adj. 68th N.I. to rec. ch. of district and station staff at Arracan du. abs. of Lieut. Boddam.
 GULLIVER, 2nd Lieut. H. W. engs. to be 1st lieut. fr. Feb. 15, in suc. to Strachey, pro. for the augmentation.
 HARRISON, Lieut. G. A. 2nd cav. Hyderabad cont. to be 2nd com. v. Murray, trans. March 27.
 HENDERSON, Ens. D. to do duty with 48th N.I. at Barrackpore.
 HILL, Ens. E. to be adj. 1st reg. cav. Hyderabad conting.
 HILLERSDEN, Capt. W. R. to offic. as asst. adj. gen. of div. v. Baker.
 HOPKINS, Unattached Ens. J. to act as qr. mr. regt of Ferozepore, v. Sheffield, March 7.
 HOME, 2nd Lieut. D. C. engs. to be 1st lieut. fr. Feb. 15, for the augmentation.
 INNES, 2nd Lieut. C. D. engs. to be 1st lieut. fr. Feb. 15, in suc. to Pott, pro. for the augmentation.
 JENKINS, Lieut. F. H. 57th N.I. passed colloq. exam.
 JERVIS, Lieut. S. C. to be an assist. to the superint. of the Akyab and Chittagong road.
 KENNEDY, Capt. J. H. act. cantonment adj. at Jaulnah to be marriage regr. for dist. north of Godavery riv.
 LANE, Lieut. C. S. 26th L.I. to act as interp. and qr. mr. to 17th N.I. v. Fuller.
 LAWRENCE, Lieut. Col. H. 58th N.I. to be a brigadier of 2nd class to complete the estab. in suc. to Tennant, dec.
 LEEDS, Lieut. F. 47th N.I. to do duty with 4th Sikh local infy.
 LEES, Lieut. W. N. 42nd L.I. to offic. as prin. of Calcutta Madressa College, ex-officio visitor and director of Hooghly Madressa, and examiner of candidates for situation of law officer, dur. abs. of Dr. A. Sprenger.

LENNOK, Lieut. col. W. G. fr. 67th N.I. to 38th L.I. Mar. 7.
 LOCKWOOD, Cornet J. C. to do duty with 1st L.C. at Cawnpore.
 LUMSDEN, Ens. W. H. 68th N.I. to do duty with Arracan batt. to proc. to Naraghain, and take com. of blockhouse at that post, and of detach. of batt. there.
 LYALL, Cornet W. T. 63rd L.C. to be lieut. fr. Mar. 21, in suc. to Boys, dec.
 MACLEAN, Ens. C. S. to do duty with 44th N.I. at Dinapore.
 MARSHALL, Lieut. col. G. T. fr. 12th to 59th N.I.
 MAUNSELL, 2nd Lieut. F. R. engs. to be 1st lieut. fr. Feb. 15, for the augmentation.
 MCANDREW, Lieut. G. 47th N.I. to act as adj. to detach. under com. of Major Pott.
 MCKENZIE, Lieut. col. K. F. fr. 48th to 22nd N.I.
 METCALFE, Ens. H. D. to do duty with 50th N.I. at Benares.
 MONTGOMERIE, 2nd Lieut. T. G. engs. to be 1st asst. in the great trigonometrical survey; brought on the effective strength of the corps, fr. Feb. 15, in suc. to Gulliver, prom. for the augmentation.
 MOORE, Lieut. J. A. H. 23rd N.I. to do duty at the Landour convalescent depot, Mar. 7.
 MURRAY, Lieut. W. 3rd cav. Hyderabad contingent, to be 2nd in com. v. Doria, prom. March 27.
 OLIPHANT, 2nd Lieut. W. S. engs. to be 1st lieut. fr. Feb. 15, in suc. to Young, prom. for the augmentation.
 OSBORN, Ens. R. D. to do duty with 50th N.I. at Benares, Feb. 9.
 OWEN, Ens. W. to do duty with 50th N.I. at Benares.
 PASKE, Lieut. C. F. 4th N.I. attached to 1st co. sappers and miners, to be an asst. in the civil engineer's dept. in the Punjab.
 PASKE, Lieut. E. H. 58th N.I. 2nd in com. 1st Sikh local inf. to be an asst. commis. in the Punjab, March 31.
 PACKE, Lieut. E. H. 4th N.I. placed at disp. of foreign dept.
 PETTINGAL, Lieut. col. E. fr. 45th to 12th N.I.
 POLLARD, 2nd Lieut. C. engs. to be 1st lieut. fr. Feb. 15, in suc. to Smith, pro. for the augmentation.
 POTT, Brev. capt. S. engs. to be capt. fr. Feb. 15, for the augmentation.
 POWYS, Lieut. J. 61st N.I. to be supt. Dhoon canals, N.W. Provinces, March 28.
 PRIOR, Brev. maj. C. 64th N.I. offic. dep. asst. adj. gen. of Lahore div. to be a dep. asst. adj. gen. of div. in suc. to Pond, on furl.
 RABAN, Lieut. H. to act as 2nd in com. Sylhet lt. inf. batt.
 RAIKES, Capt. R. N. 2nd in com. Gwalior conting. to act as commandant dur. abs. of Brev. maj. A. C. Dewar.
 REVELLY, Lieut. W. to act as adjt. to a detach. consisting of Nos. 1, 5, 6, 7, light and rifle cos. and a sub-div. of No. 4 co. during its separation fr. reg. h. q. March 10.
 ROSS, Capt. A. H. 42nd L.I. dep. asst. adj. gen. of div. to be an asst. adj. gen. of div. in suc. to Pond, on furl.
 ROSS, Ensign S. to do duty with 42nd L.I. at Benares.
 RUSSELL, Lieut. L. to be an asst. to the superint. of the Akyab and Chittagong road.
 SANCTUARY, Lieut. P. J. 5th N.I. appt. to be adjt. of the regt. is cancelled, March 3.
 SCOTT, Ensign E. H. 55th N.I. to act as adj. to right wing, proc. towards Peshawar.
 SIMPSON, Ensign E. H. 39th N.I. to do duty with Kelat-i-Ghilzee regt.
 SINCLAIR, Lieut. J. de C. art. to be com. of 4th comp. art. v. Ward, res. March 27.
 SMITH, Brev. capt. R. B. engs. to be capt. fr. Feb. 15, for the augmentation.
 SMITH, Lieut. A. S. 24th N.I. to be capt. fr. March 25, in suc. to Laurence, dec.
 SMITH, Lieut. W. H. to act as detach. staff to troops serving at Bazeed.
 STEWART, 2nd Lieut. C. T. engs. to be 1st lieut. fr. Feb. 15, for the augmentation.
 STEWART, Super. 2nd lieut. P. engs. brought on the effective strength of the corps fr. Feb. 15, in suc. to Howe, pro. for the augmentation, to be executive eng. 8th div. grand trunk road, v. Gulliver.
 STRACHEY, Brev. capt. R. engs. to be capt. fr. Feb. 15, for the augmentation.
 TAYLOR, Capt. C. P. act. asst. adj. gen. of Hyderabad subsid. force at Secunderabad, to be marriage regr. for districts south of Godavery river.
 TENNANT, 2nd Lieut. J. F. eng. to be 1st asst. in the great trigonometrical survey.
 THOMPSON, Lieut. R. L. 10th N.I. permitted to rejoin his regt. to do duty with Arracan batt.
 TREVOR, Super. 2nd lieut. W. S. eng. brought on the effective strength of the corps fr. Feb. 15, in suc. to Garnett, pro. for the augmentation.
 TROTTER, 2nd Lieut. A. J. A. A. to do duty with 1st comp. 1st batt. dur. abs. of Turnbull.
 TROUP, Lieut. col. C. fr. 59th to 45th N.I.
 VINCENT, Lieut. W. 49th N.I. appt. to be an assist. commiss. The Punjab is cancelled at his own request.
 WALKER, Super. 2nd lieut. E. engs. brought on the effective strength of the corps fr. Feb. 15, in suc. to Innes, pro. for the augmentation.
 WARRAND, Super. 2nd lieut. W. E. engs. brought on the effective strength of the corps fr. Feb. 15, in suc. to Pollard, pro. for the augmentation.

WARREN, Col. G. fr. 42nd N.I. to 1st Eur. fus.

WELSH, 2nd Lieut. D. G. 5th co. 8th batt. art. on his return from leave to Australia, to do duty with 4th co. 5th batt. and No. 11 lt. field battery, pending the result of his application to be posted to the latter company.

YOUNG, Brev. capt. C. B. engs. to be capt. fr. Feb. 15, for the augmentation.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT DATES SPECIFIED.

CAVALRY.

PRENDERGAST, M. M. March 16.

INFANTRY.

FARQUHARSON, C. M. March 17.

GRANT, R. J. March 17.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BARTON, Brev. maj. N. D. 6th L.C. to Nov. 30, m.c. previous leave canc.

BOWRING, Capt. G. G. 59th N.I. leave canc.

BROWN, Lieut. C. L. 46th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to pres. under old regulations.

BUCKLEY, Ens. F. A. 37th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Darjeeling, under old regulations.

CARFY, 2nd Lieut. De V. F. art. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Simla and hills north of Deyrah, under old regulations.

CAUTLEY, Lieut. col. P. T. art. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Calcutta, prep. to app. to retire.

CHANNER, Capt. G. G. art. fr. Apr. 2 to Nov. 30, to hills north of Deyrah, on m.c.

COMBE, Brev. maj. H. T. 1st Eur. fus. 5 mo. fr. Dec. 15, to pres. prep. to app. for perm. to retire.

COOKSON, Lieut. S. B. 6 mo. fr. Apr. 15, to Cashmere, under old regulations.

CORFIELD, Capt. A. H. inv. est. 18 mo. furl. to Europe, on m.c. under new regulations.

DANSEY, Lieut. J. J. 16th N.I. fr. March 20 to Nov. 30, to Nynce Tal and Almorah, on m.c. under old regulations.

DYKE, Capt. A. H. 25th M.I. to May 20, prep. to Eur. prev. leave canc.

ELLIOT, Capt. E. K. asst. res. at Nagpore, leave canc.

FAGAN, Brev. capt. C. G. 8th L.C. to Sept. 15, Mussoorie.

FOWLE, Lieut. C. T. 22nd N.I. 18 mo. furl. to Eur. under new regulations.

FRASER, Capt. J. E. 4th N.I. 2 years furl. to Eur. under new regulations.

GILBERT, Lieut. E. K. O. 27th N.I. 6 mo. pres. and hills north of Deyrah, under old regulations.

GLANVILLE, 2nd Lieut. G. J. 2nd Eur. Bengal fus. 18 mo. to Eur. on m.c. new regulations.

GRAHAM, Cornet J. 4th L.C. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Cashmere, under old regulations.

GRIFFIN, Ens. R. D. 64th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Cashmere, under old regulations.

HANDSCOMB, Lieut. col. J. H. 40th N.I. 12 mo. furl. to Europe on m.c. under old regulations.

HARRIS, Capt. A. asst. commissr. at Mithunkote to May 12, 3 years to Europe on furl. to embark at Bombay, old regulations.

HEARSEY, Lieut. J. 38th N.I. 3 years to Europe, on m.c.

HENDERSON, Capt. G. 30th N.I. 3 years.

HICKEY, Lieut. R. J. F. 1st Eur. Beng. fus. leave cancelled at his request.

HOME, Brig. R. 8 mo. fr. March 16 to Mussoorie and hills north of Deyrah, on m.c. under new regulations.

LAMB, Lieut. J. 29th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15 to Cashmere, under old regulations.

LANCE, Lieut. W. H. 74th N.I. fr. May 1 to Oct. 15, to Almorah and Lohoghaunt, under old regulations.

LANDERS, Lieut. col. J. E. 9th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Simla, under old regulations.

LESLIE, Lieut. H. G. 37th N.I. 6 mo. fr. Apr. 15, to Darjeeling, under old regulations.

LONGDEN, Maj. H. E. on spec. du. in Kangra Hills, leave canc.

LYALL, Cornet W. T. 6th L.C. 18 mo. furl. to Europe, under old regulations.

MACINTYRE, Ens. D. 66th Goorka regt. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Cashmere, under old regulations.

MANNING, Lieut. H. D. 19th N.I. to Oct. 1, Meerut.

MARSDEN, Maj. F. C. dep. commissr. of Goorgaira, 2 mo. prep. to 1 year's leave to England.

MARTIN, Lieut. C. 1st L.C. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to pres.

MASTER, Maj. R. A. 11th irr. cav. 6 days fr. Feb. 20, to enable him to rejoin.

MATTHEW, Lieut. col. J. 17th N.I. 3 mo. fr. Feb. 13, to pres. prep. to app. for furl. to Europe.

MILLIGAN, 1st Lieut. G. art. 3 years' furl. to Europe, under old regulations.

MOIR, Capt. G. art. 2 years to Europe on furl. to embark at Bombay, new regulations.

MURRAY, 1st Lieut. R. art. 6 mo. fr. Apr. 15 to Nynce Tal, hills north of Deyrah and Simla, under old regulations.

PARLEY, Ens. B. T. B. 7th N.I. 6 mo. fr. Apr. 15 to pres. under old regulations.

PRESENT, 1st Lieut. T. art. 6 mo. fr. Apr. 15, to Kemaon and hills north of Deyrah, under old regulations.

RUSSELL, Cornet F. W. 4th L.C. 6 mo. fr. Apr. 15 to Cashmere, under old regulations.

SIDDONS, Capt. G. R. 6 mo. fr. Apr. 15 to hills north of Deyrah, under old regulations.

SLEEMAN, Capt. J. gen. superint. of operations for sup. of Thuggee, 1 mo. prep. to Eur.

STEWART, Col. J. C.B. 31th N.I. 6 mo. to Europe on furl. on m.c. new regulations.

STEWART, Ens. A. McL. 61th N.I. 6 mo. fr. Apr. 15 to Cashmere, under old regulations.

STEWART, Capt. R. 16th N.I. fr. Apr. 20 to Oct. 15, to Cashmere, hills north of Deyrah, and Simla, under old regulations.

TAYLOR, Lieut. R. T. 41st N.I. fr. Mar. 15 to Nov. 1, to Nynce Tal and Almorah on m.c. under old regulations.

THOMSON, Ens. W. B. 13th N.I. Oct. 15.

THOMSON, Lieut. I. R. 29th N.I. 6 mos. fr. Apr. 15, to Kangra, under old regulations.

TYLER, Ens. J. H. 20th N.I. 6 mos. fr. Apr. 15, to Cashmere, under old regulations.

VINCENT, Lieut. W. 49th N.I. 6 mos. fr. Mar. 20, to Cawnpore, under old regulations.

WATSON, Capt. E. D. 44th N.I. 6 mo. fr. Apr. 15, to Nynce Tal and Almorah, under old regulations.

WESTERN, Brev. maj. J. R. engs. 6 mo. fr. Apr. 15, to pres. prep. to app. fr. furl. to Europe.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ANDERSON, Surg. F. M.D. 13th N.I. to aff. med. aid to 2nd comp. 3rd batt. art.

ATKINSON, Assist. surg. A. R. M.D. to return to Lahore in ch. of 2nd and 4th cos. 4th batt. art. Mar. 9.

BADDELEY, Surg. P. F. H. 2nd batt. art. to relieve Asst. surg. Atkinson fr. med. ch. of lt. wing of that batt. March 9.

BROWN, Asst. surg. J. B. S. to assume med. ch. of 43rd N.I. dur. abs. of Corbyn, March 8; to rec. med. ch. of 2nd comp. 7th batt. art. fr. Asst. surg. Corbyn.

CARDEW, Surg. G. S. 33rd N.I. to med. ch. of the div. and station staff at Barrackpore, March 10.

CHAPMAN, Surg. H. perm. to retire on pension fr. March 31.

COCKBURN, Asst. surg. R. to aff. med. aid to detach. of 50th N.I. at Jaunpore.

CORBYN, Asst. surg. J. C. M.B. 43rd N.I. to proceed to Julundur and relieve Asst. surg. Stokes, fr. med. ch. of 3rd tr. 1st brig. h. art. proceeding to Sealkote, March 8.

DALE, Asst. surg. A. J. to proceed to Pegu.

DALY, Asst. surg. D. O. M.D. to med. ch. of hd. qrs. and 2nd comp. 6th batt. art.

DALY, Asst. surg. G. H. M.D. to proceed, and place himself under the orders of the superint. surg. Agra circle, March 8.

DUKE, Asst. surg. T. M.D. to be civ. asst. surg. of Tipperah.

DUKE, Asst. surg. pl. at disp. of Govt. of Bengal.

FARQUHAR, Asst. surg. T. M.D. to med. ch. of corps of Guides, v. Lyell.

GARRAD, Vet. surg. J. W. to do duty with 1st L.C. at Cawnpore.

GIBSON, Surg. A. 65th N.I. to rec. med. ch. of 40th N.I. fr. Asst. surg. M. Keller.

GREENHOW, Asst. surg. H. M. to do duty with 3rd Eur. regt. at Chinsurah.

JESTON, Asst. surg. R. P. to rem. at Meerut, to do duty with 1st tr. 1st brig. h. art. on its arrival, March 8.

KNIGHT, Asst. surg. R. C. M.D. placed at disp. of supt. surg. Peshawur circle.

LAWRENCE, Asst. surg. J. J. T. to proc. to Umballah.

MACANISH, Surg. 17th N.I. to aff. med. aid to 6th co. 8th batt. art. and No. 15 lt. field battery.

MCLOSH, Surg. J. M.D. to make over med. ch. of detach. Beng. art. at Prome, to Asst. surg. Mudge.

MCRAE, Surg. D. 74th N.I. to aff. med. aid in the Cawnpore station and magazine hospital, and to recruits of 38th N.I. in addition to his other duties, v. Bond, March 10.

MOUAT, Surg. F. J. posting to 3rd N.I. is cancelled.

NAISMITH, Asst. surg. J. M.D. to be surg. fr. March 26, v. Davidson, retired.

PATON, Surg. G. to be postmr. gen. N.W. provinces.

PITT, Surg. W. posting to 15th N.I. is cancelled.

PICHALE, Asst. surg. J. to proc. to Umballah.

RIND, Surg. McN. 7th L.C. to civ. and staff med. duties at Julundur.

SPRY, Assist. surg. W. H. passed colloquial exam. in Hindustani.

STEWART, Civ. assist. surg. H. to affil. med. aid to a detach. of that regt. on duty at Azinghur, March 6.

STEWART, Assist. surg. C. M.D. 1st Eur. fus. to proc. to Henzadah and ass. med. ch. of Pegu lt. inf. dur. abs. of De Benzy.

STOKES, Surg. J. McD. to rec. med. ch. of 29th N.I.

TAYLOR, Assist. surg. E. to rec. med. ch. of 3rd batt. art. fr. Surg. J. Davidson.

TOWNSEND, Assist. surg. T. C. to return to Delhi and do duty with 26th L.I.

WALLICH, Surg. G.C. M.D. 37th, to assume ch. of 48th N.I. in addit. to his present duties, March 10.
WELLS, Assist. surg. W. W. to be surg. fr. March 31, v. Chapman, retired.
WHITE, Assist. surg. J. M.D. 13th irreg. cav. to affd. med. aid to 3rd co. 7th batt. art. and ch. 5 lt. field batt. ret. fr. the annual practice.
WHITE, Assist. surg. A. M.D. 45th N.I. to rec. med. ch. of 3rd co. 7th batt. art. and No. 5 lt. field batt.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE, ARRIVED AT THE DATE SPECIFIED.
HICKMAN, T. March 18.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BICKNELL, Vet. surg. J. 18 mo. furl. to Eur. under new regulations.
PHILLIPSON, Surg. R. 18 mo. to Eur. on furl. on m.c. new regulations.
ROSS, Assist. surg. J. T. C. 1st Punjaub cav. 7 mo. to Murrece hills.
THORPE, Assist. surg. E. C. M.D. 1 mo. fr. Feb. 3.
TOPE, Surg. J. T. leave canc.

HER MAJESTY'S FORCES IN THE EAST.

STAFF.

Lieut. col. H. Havelock, c.s. dep. adj. gen.; Capt. T. Gilley, mil. sec.; Lieut. T. Williams, A.D.C.; Dr. Hall, dep. inspec. gen. of hospitals, to accompany C.-in-C. of Bombay to the Dekkan; Brev. col. H. Bates, 98th, to be mil. sec. to gov. of Bombay.

INFANTRY.

10th. Capt. S. B. Lamb, passed exam. as surveyor; Lieut. M. V. Bull, to April 30, to Bombay, and 2 yrs. to England.—22nd. Ens. B. M. Deane, to June 23, to Rawul Pindee and Murrece, on m.c.—24th. Lieut. S. J. J. Burns, to off. as interp. 22nd.—43rd. Lieut. C. Calvert, 2 yrs. to England; Lieut. J. F. Girardot, 2 yrs. to England; Lieut. C. R. Mure, 2 yrs. to England.—53rd. Capt. W. Payn, 2 mo. to Calcutta, and 2 yrs. to England.—60th. Captain H. J. Darell, to October 14, to Cashmere; Asst. surg. J. Crerar, to rel. Surg. A. Paton fr. med. ch. of detach. of art. recruits at Umballah.—61st. Lieut. col. W. H. Vicars, 3 mos. to Bombay and 2 years to England; Lieut. Richardson, to March 24, in ext.—75th. Lieut. W. H. Urquhart to April 14, 1855, in ext. to Umballa and England, on m.c.; Capt. C. E. P. Gordon, pl. at disp. of Govt. for employ und. exec. eng. Jullundur Doab.—81st. Capt. C. E. Goodwin, to March 31, in ext.—83rd. Lieut. H. S. Cooper, to Oct. 15, 1855, to rem. in England, on m.c.—86th. Capt. J. H. Kirby, passed as surveyor; Lieut. J. K. D. Mackenzie, passed as surveyor; Lieut. R. Henry, to be superint. of works on the Nagpoor dak line, v. Macdonald, dec.; Ensign R. J. Wallace, perm. to retire.—90th. Lieut. col. T. M. Wilson, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Simla; Capt. R. Roney, April 15 to Oct. 14, to Darjeeling; Lieut. G. H. Cochrane, 1 mo. to Calcutta, and 12 mos. to Ceylon, Mauritius, or New South Wales, on m.c.—98th. Capt. E. J. Ellerman, to Sept. 22, to Penang and the Straits.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BEAUMONT, Mrs. C. A. d. at Calcutta, May 19.
BOYLE, wife of A. d. at Calcutta, March 1.
BRIND, wife of Capt. J. art. d. at Peshawur, Feb. 27.
BROOKE, wife of Capt. J. C. d. at Kherwara, March 14.
COLLINER, wife of Mr. d. at Umballah, March 15.
COLES, Mrs. A. G. d. at Calcutta, March 20.
COVENTRY, wife of Lieut. col. F. s. at Nowgong, March 17.
COWIE, wife of T. H. d. at Seepore, March 14.
DIXON, wife of T. A. s. on board the ship Sutlej, March 14.
D'MELLO, Mrs. P. H. d. at Calcutta, March 27.
FITZGERALD, wife of Lieut. 10th N.I. s. at Rangoon, March 16.
GARSTIN, wife of C. c.s. d. at Pankabaree, March 21.
GORDON, wife of Dr. C. A. s. at Mean Meer, March 30.
GRAVES, Mrs. James, s. Chinsurah, March 23.
HATHAWAY, wife of C. M.D. d. at Lahore, March 22.
HAWES, wife of Lieut. B. 2nd Eur. fus. s. at Jubbulpore, March 17.
HEBERDEN, wife of Lieut. s. at Chinsurah, March 21.
HILLIARD, wife of J. M.D. s. at Barrackpore, Mar. 25.
HOLROYD, wife of Capt. G. 43rd L.I. s. at Simla, March 26.
JENNINGS, wife of C. R. d. at Calcutta, Mar. 26.
KEELAN, Mrs. H. d. at Deyrah Doon, Mar. 25.
LAYARD, wife of Capt. F. P. 19th N.I. d. at Barrackpore, Mar. 25.
LEWIS, Mrs. G. A. d. at Calcutta, Mar. 21.
LORD, Mrs. G. d. at Calcutta, Mar. 20.
MAINWARING, wife of Lieut. N.W. 73rd N.I. s. at Meerut, Mar. 23.
MATHEWS, Mr. F. H. s. at Calcutta, Mar. 19.
MAYLARK, wife of H. W. d. at Calcutta, Mar. 15.
MCDONELL, wife of W. T. c.s. d. at Chuprah, Mar. 14.
MURRAY, wife of Lieut. C. 70th N.I. d. at Barrackpore, Apr. 1.
ROOKE, Mrs. E. s. at Mugra, Mar. 10.
SKEARS, Mrs. A. d. at Calcutta, Mar. 30.
SMITH, wife of W. s. at Calcutta, Mar. 25.
THOMPSON, wife of Lieut. G. H. d. at Ferozepore, Mar. 31.

YOUNG, wife of W.G. c.s. d. at Calcutta, Mar. 24.

MARRIAGES.

BAKER, F. W. to Matilda Martha, d. of J. Appleton, at Calcutta.
HUDSON, H. R. to Henrietta, d. of the late F. Saunders, at Calcutta, Mar. 28.
JAMES, C. to Augusta, d. of the late T. W. King, at Cawnpore, Mar. 16.
JEFFERY, Vet. surg. S. W. 9th L.C. to Elizabeth C. d. of the late B. Chimmo, at Calcutta, Mar. 18.
MAYHEW, Maj. 1st asst. adjt. gen. to Maria E. d. of the late G. G. Macpherson, at Calcutta, Apr. 3.
MCGILVERAY, A. to Miss M. Carswell, at Calcutta, Apr. 1.
POURCAIN, C. D. St. to Miss Adeline C. Perrier, at Calcutta, Mar. 19.
TAYLOR, Lieut. H. A. 74th N.I. to Emily, d. of the late T. Phillips, at Cawnpore, April 4.
WHYTE, Alex. to Mary R. d. of the late Capt. F. H. W. Hawkins, at Calcutta, Mar. 30.
YOUNG, Lieut. J. 3rd Eur. regt. to Frances J. E. d. of W. S. Goodeve, at Calcutta, Mar. 29.

DEATHS.

ATKINSON, J. at Calcutta, aged 42, March 11.
BELL, L. M. s. of James, at Calcutta, aged 4, March 21.
BOYS, Capt. W. J. E. 6th L.C. at Almorah, March 21.
BRIND, wife of Capt. James, art. at Peshawur, March 2.
BROWNE, Archibald, s. of Lieut. col. art. at Peshawur, aged 4.
COVENTRY, inf. s. of Lieut. col. at Nowgong, March 17.
D'CRUZ, Eliza, wife of James, at Calcutta, aged 25, March 26.
ELIAS, wife of M. B. at Simla, aged 28, March 18.
FENWICK, Hester H., inf. d. of Maj. H.M.'s 10th, at Meean Meer, March 24.
HEBERDEN, Henrietta E. d. of Lieut. 3rd Eur. reg. at Chinsurah, aged 5, March 18.
HOUGHTON, wife of Lieut. col. R. 63rd N.I. at Cawnpore, March 15.
LAWRENCE, Capt. J. G. 24th N.I. at Calcutta, March 27.
LEAL, Maria C. widow of the late P. at Calcutta, aged 89, Mar. 28.
PERERIA, Miss Caroline, at Calcutta, aged 24, March 18.
PIGOT, Ann S. d. of the late Capt. H. E. at Chinsurah, March 20.
PLATTS, E. H. wife of J. T. at Lahore, aged 20, March 22.
ROSS, Wm. W. S. s. of Lieut. W. H. D. 28th N.I. at Umballah, aged 2, March 30.
SCOTT, Mary Anne, wife of the late E. at Calcutta, aged 51, March 10.
SEWELL, Arthur, s. of Capt. A. H. C. 47th N.I. at Calcutta, aged 2, March 17.
SWAN Evelina A. d. of the late J. at Calcutta, aged 10, April 1.
SWINTON, Cornet G. K. 4th L.C. at Sealkote, aged 21, Mar. 17.
THORNTON, J. P. at Calcutta, aged 44, April 1.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MARCH 20. Steamer Zenobia, Rennie, Maulmain; Clairvoyant, Sergeant, Coringa.—21. Steamer Berenice, Berthon, Rangoon; Hindoo, Miller, Melbourne; Patel Rozack, Andrew, Rangoon; Forbes, Johnstone, Sydney.—23. Adelaide, Pavey, London and Madras.—24. Screw steamer Paou Shun, Burt, Hongkong and Singapore.—25. Negrais, Kidd, Maulmain.—26. Steamer Tenasserim, Fryer, Maulmain and Rangoon; Joseph Manook, McKenzie, Rangoon.—27. Steamer Sesostris, Niblett, Maulmain and Rangoon.—28. Hebrides, Ferguson, Mauritius.—29. Rance, Campbell, Liverpool; State of Maine, Ford, London; Henri IV, Maubance, Melbourne.—30. Screw steamer Shanghai, Paterson, Hongkong and Singapore; Saladin, Mayers, Melbourne.
APRIL 2. Eliza, Noble, Port Philip.—3. Steamer Hindostan, Tronson, Suez.—4. Alliance, Hyslop, Melbourne.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Clairvoyant.—Mrs. Sergent.
Per steamer Berenice (March 21), from Rangoon.—Capt. Smith, M.I.; Lieut. McHutchin, M.I.; Lieut. Cahill; Ensign Waller, and 340 rank and file 40th B.N.I.
Per Patel Rozack (March 21), from Rangoon.—Lieut. Wroughton, Ensign Phillips, 40th B.N.I.; 267 rank and file, Mrs. Andrew and child, Mr. and Miss Godfrey.
Per Adelaide (March 23), from MADRAS.—Mrs. Murch, Mrs. Meland and 2 children.
Per steamer Paou Shun (March 24), from HONG-KONG.—Capt. and Mrs. Mann and family, and J. Hunt, Esq.
Per steamer Tenasserim (March 26), from Rangoon.—Mrs. Malcolm and child, Lieut. Dickenson and lady, Ensign Reynolds, Maj. Chitty, Brev. Maj. Minchin, Lieut. Harris, Capt. Mein, Ensign Cox, Conductor Forsyth, 1 sergeant major.
Per steamer Sesostris (March 27), from Rangoon.—H. Neville, and E. Rean, Esqrs., Messrs. Shaw and James.
Per Joseph Manook (March 26), from Rangoon.—Mrs. Tulloh and child, Mrs. and Miss Johnson.
Per steamer Shanghai (March 30), from HONG-KONG.—Mr. Gubbay, Mrs. Benjamin, and 2 children.
Per Saladin.—Mrs. Cussen, Mr. Hildebrand, Mr. Baillie, wife, and child.
Per Rance.—Misses Campbell and Caswell.
Per State of Maine (March 20), from LIVERPOOL.—E. M. Dalyell, C. B. Massey, and H. T. Black.
Per steamer Hindostan (April 3), from SUZ.—From SOUTHAMPTON. Lieut. and Mrs. Hailes, Gen. Fane, Capt. Fane; Messrs. J. Sconce, H. Sconce, and Gibbons; Dr. Farncombe, Mrs. Erskine, Mr. Chester, Col. and Mrs. Eckford, Mr. Eckford, Capt. Horsburgh, Mr. Thein, Mr. and Mrs. Hill, Mr. Ward, Synd Abdoolla, Dr. Elliott, Dr. McKebbin, P. and

O. Surgeon, and F. Steel and J. Johnson. From MARSHALLS.—Mr. Harrison. From MALTA.—Mr. Lindquist. From SUZ.—C. Chambers. From GALLÉ.—Mr. Craig. From BOMBAY.—Capt. and Mrs. Ramsay. From MADRAS.—Capt. Power and Lieut. Davidson.

DEPARTURES.

MAR. 16. Steamer Loodiana, Lambert, Madras, Ceylon, Mauritius, Cape, and London.—17. Queen, Bell, London; Hydree, Row, Bombay.—18. Erin, Box, Pinang; Hamood, Tingate, Mauritius and Muscat; Orissa, —, —, —; Nouvelle Antigone, Dubroqua, Bourbon.—19. Fulwood, Fitzsimons, Liverpool; Bushire Merchant, Woodhouse, Bombay; steamer Formosa, Christian, Pinang, Singapore, and China.—20. Theresa, Murrier, Bourbon; Hydroose, Eaglesham, Alleppey, Cannanore, and Bombay.—21. Caroline Read, Tibbetts, London; Joseph Bushby, Davey, London; Anne Mary, Harris, Mauritius; Shoe Gong, Mendham, Rangoon; steamer Fire Queen, —, —, —.—22. Jalawar, Macallan, Mauritius; Rajasthan, Kerr, Liverpool.—23. Arrow, Rodgers, Singapore; Cœur de Lion, Clendon, Mauritius; John Taylor, Cawket, Akyab.—24. Minerve, Cleret, Havre; Futtay Allum, Biale, Mauritius.—25. Aga Baker, Barnett, Rangoon; steamer Zenobia, —, —, —.—26. Edith Rose, Crowell, Boston; Cowasjee Family, Dando, Singapore and China; Lahore, Tesseymann, Rangoon; steamer Berenice, —, —, —.—30. City of Calcutta, Connell, London; Colonel Burney, Crisp, Rangoon; Trafalgar, McKidder, London.—31. Witch of the Wave, Miller, Boston; Dido, Youngerman, Singapore.—APRIL 1. Alfred, Voss, London; Mountstuart Elphinstone, Dale, Mauritius.—2. Newton, Whitney, Bombay.—4. Steamer Bombay, —, Madras and Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Bombay (April 4), to MADRAS and SUZ. To GALLÉ.—Mr. W. H. Hume. To SUZ.—Lor. H. Scott, Rev. H. Stobart, and Mrs. Molloy. To ALEXANDRIA.—Mr. Graf. To MALTA.—Mr. Henderson. To MARSHALLS.—Captain Ireland and Mr. H. Lidars. From CALCUTTA to SOUTHAMPTON.—Hon. Mrs. E. Drummond, 2 children, Mrs. Molley, 2 children, infant, Dr. and Mrs. Chapman, Lord Schomberg Kerr, Col. Stuarts, Mr. Spence, Mr. James Masmyth, Dr. Davidson, Mr. Stuart, Hon. Capt. Powys, Capt. Durham, Mr. J. Brodie, Mr. Craik, A. McBeath and H. Bartlett. To MADRAS.—Mrs. Hodgson and Mrs. Ricketts, 2 children, 2 infants, Capt. and Mrs. Mann, child, infant, Capt. Mein, Capt. Ward, Lieut. Woodcock, Ens. Cox and private Griffiths, Mrs. J. F. Bell, Mrs. Smith, 2 children, and Mrs. C. Biggs.

COMMERCIAL.

Calcutta, April 4, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.		Sell.	Buy.
Transfer Stock Paper 5 per cent.	.. prem.	6 0	to 6 2
New Co.'s 5 do.	.. ..	Par. to 4 as.	prem.
Third Sica 4 do.	.. ..	dis. 1 12	.. 2 0
New Co.'s 4 do.	.. ..	0 2	.. dis. 0 4

BANK SHARES.

Bengal Bank (Co.'s Rs. 4,000)	..	2600 to 2650
Agra Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	700 to 720
N.W. Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	300 to 305

BANK OF BENGAL.

Discount on Government acceptances (3 months)	..	7 per cent.
Do. on private bills and notes	do. ..	5 per cent.
Interest on deposit of Co.'s paper..	.. ..	6 per cent.
Do. on open cash credit accounts	.. ..	6 per cent.
On deposit of Metals, &c.	.. ..	7 per cent.

PRICES OF BULLION, &amp;c.

PRICES OF BULLION, &c.
Sycee Silver .....	Co.'s Rs. 104	4	to 104	12	} per sa. wt.
China Gold Bars .....	15	4	..	16		1
Gold Dust .....	13	0	..	13		8
Spanish Dollars .....	223	0	..	225	0	} per 100.
Mexican ditto .....	222	0	..	223	0
Sovereigns .....	10	0	..	10	1	} each.
Madras Gold Mohurs .....	16	0	..	16	4
Old Gold Mohurs .....	20	9	..	20	10

EXCHANGES.

Six months' sight Bills are 2s. 0½d. to 2s. 1d. Treasury Bills, at 30 days' sight, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¼d. Navy Bills, at 3 days' sight, and Bank of England Post Bills at sight, 1s. 11d. to 1s. 11½d.

FREIGHTS.

To London and Liverpool, 7l. to 7l. 15s.

IMPORTS (Calcutta, April 4, 1854).—Another fortnight has passed without being productive of much change in the Import Market. It has continued on a tolerably even course, and some descriptions of Cotton Goods are apparently looking up, dealers appearing more inclined to enter fairly into business. Figured Shirtings.—An improvement in prices has taken place with an increased demand. Madapollams are being taken in small lots at former prices, and in some instances a shade higher, though the demand is far from being active. Jaconets.—The demand appears to be on the increase, and sales of 23,050 pieces have been effected at various prices, ranging from 1-11-0 to 4-14-0 per piece. Printed and Coloured Goods.—The stock still continues larger, and sales are being effected on a moderate scale. White Cotton Mule Twist.—A little lower prices have been accepted. Metals.—A good demand exists. Copper, Iron, and Spelter maintain full prices, but in consequence of the firmness displayed by holders, sales have been much checked.

MADRAS.

MYSORE CHESS.

The following ingenious numerical table in chess has been invented by his Highness Maha Rajah Kristna Rajah Wodaver Bahadoor, Rajah of Mysore.

On this board of 64 squares, termed Poornataraculaturroo, the figures are placed according to the movements of the Knight, and will give a total of 260 in 116 different ways, by adding the figures horizontally, perpendicularly, and in a variety of other ways, taking at a time 8 spaces that bear the same relative position to each other.

11	46	21	52	13	44	19	54
22	49	12	45	20	53	16	43
47	10	51	24	41	14	55	18
50	23	48	9	56	17	42	15
35	8	25	64	29	40	57	2
26	63	36	5	60	1	30	39
7	34	61	28	37	32	3	58
62	27	6	33	4	59	38	31

It further rests with the ingenious to obtain the same singular numerical property on this board of 64 squares in which the Knight is made to move; as for instance, 130 if 4 spaces, 260 if 8 spaces, 520 if 16 spaces, 1,040 if 32 spaces, and 2,080 if 64 spaces are added together.

MOHAMEDAN SOCIETY OF ARTS, ETC.

We have received a pamphlet, in Persian, from Madras, containing copies of papers on scientific and literary subjects read at the meeting of a society of natives lately established at that presidency. It is matter of congratulation to see these proceedings, which we hope will be followed at the other presidencies and stations in India where the communities are sufficiently large. The letter that accompanies the papers will explain more fully the objects of the society. Edward Balfour, one of the committee, is surgeon to the Body Guard, and Lord Curator of the Museum formed and forming at Madras, and it is to be hoped that the European servants of the Company, as well as other residents, will join, and give their countenance to such society:—

"Triplicane, Madras, March 7th, 1854.

"Sir,—We have the honour to inform you that weekly meetings have been held since November last, for the purpose of instituting a literary society amongst the Mahomedan inhabitants of Madras, these meetings being conducted, by appointment of a chairman and the reading of papers, in the manner pursued by similar societies in England.

"We have the honour to inclose, for your information, a copy of some of the papers which have been read, and to mention that it has been resolved by the provisional committee to call a public meeting of those interested in the advancement of science amongst the Mahomedan people, with a view to establishing a society of arts and science in Triplicane. The meeting will, with permission, be held in the Mudrassa-i-Azum, the school of H.H. the Nabob of the Carnatic, on Tuesday next, the 14th March, and your attendance is respectfully requested.

"We have the honour to be, Sir,

"Your most obedient servants,

(Signed) "Edward Balfour, Khayre ood Deen Khan,
Suraj ood Dowlah, Jan i Jahan Khan,
Salar ool Moolk, Mustakeem Jung,
Meerza Abdool Baki, Sumsam ood Dowlah,
Itimadood Dowlah, Ahmad Ali,
Munavur Jung, Meer Mohib Ali."

BERAR AND ITS RESOURCES.

(from the Bombay Times, April 8.)

The cession of the province of Berar to the British raises an important question as to how we may best take advantage of its resources. We are told by a correspondent, who has been kind enough to call our attention to the subject, that it is a country capable of producing cotton to an unlimited extent, which alone will suffice to invest it with no mean importance in the eyes of the gentlemen of the Manchester school. To open out its resources, however, the want is that of general India, viz., the means of communication. Now it appears that the Godavery and Wardah rivers, are either navigable, or may readily be made so. Captain Fenwick has tried the experiment, and pointed out the obstacles and obstructions, and we learn that Captain McDowell, late of the Nizam's service, has made an offer to open the navigation at his private expense, on the condition of being allowed to levy a toll at the junction of the Godavery and Wardah rivers at Wone. We are not prepared to pronounce upon this gentleman's project from the evidence before us, as we cannot understand whether he proposes to render the upper Godavery navigable, or merely to institute a regular means of communication for parties inclined to use it. The Madras Government has rejected the proposal. It is however, most imperative for that government, now that it has full evidence before it, to apply itself immediately to the removal of such obstructions as exist to the navigation. Amongst these, as we understand, not the least formidable to natives is the system of exaction pursued by the petty zemindars on the banks. To these gentlemen no mercy should be shown; their black mail practices should not be tolerated for a moment. Government should give them due warning by a proclamation, and if this were disregarded, oust them at once. Depend upon it, there is no chance at all of native merchants embarking in an enterprise, the success of which must, in a great measure, depend on the caprice of a number of petty tyrants. To our mind the system of creating or maintaining a number of these Brummagen potentates to the detriment of the people at large is essentially bad.

We do not object to the holding of estates, but we do object to the power in many cases attached to such holding. We should in point of fact be very glad to see more private estates than there are in India, but at the same time should like to see their profits drawn legitimately from the improvement and cultivation of the land, and not from such petty exactions and extortions, as the one we are now complaining of. In a matter like this, however, we cannot expect a reform to be spontaneous. Government must, therefore, interfere with the strong hand. The opening up of the navigation of these rivers is a national matter, which no individual interest must be allowed to interfere with, or retard. These zemindars lose nothing by being prevented taxing the course of the stream, as there is no navigation upon it, thanks, partly to themselves. They should therefore be told distinctly, and at once, that all such right is for ever abolished. We incline to the belief that rivers are natural highways which no one has a right to obstruct. The only tolls that should ever be levied, are such as are needed to preserve or improve the navigation, and for works such as quays, wharves, &c., calculated to facilitate trade.

If we wish to see an ill example of the effects of allowing rivers to be laden with unjust tolls, we may look at the city of London, with its infamous coal-tax, pressing heavily on the heads of the poor, and injuring, not a little, the trade of the place itself. In like manner, we could point to other rivers in England, which have been loaded with unjust tolls. In the corrupt old times, when the nobility had pretty much their own way, claims, such as these of our Godavery zemindars, were elected into rights which have not easily been got rid of. This error must be avoided in India. There is no apparent difficulty in establishing a good system at the outset, and such must be done. We have European science, and European experience to guard us from error, and the plain conclusion is, that error must not be tolerated. We are sorry that we cannot speak more confidently on Captain McDowell's plan; but the truth is, that we cannot make out from his letter to Government, whether he would fit up an experimental expedition, establish a line of communication, or take means to improve the river itself. Our idea is, that he simply proposes to make one or more mercantile trips to show the way. In this case Government have very properly declined to entertain his proposition to levy a toll—to which he would have no right.—Bombay Times.

DEATH OF THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.

It is with deep regret we have to announce the death of his Excellency Lieutenant-General William Staveley, c.b., Commander-in-Chief of the Madras army. The melancholy event took place on the morning of the 4th April, in his transit-carriage, shortly after his departure from Tippicadoo. We learn, the General since leaving Madras had improved in health and spirits, and early on the morning of the 4th expressed himself as being "never better in his life." At Bandipoorah he partook of an excellent breakfast, and on arrival at Tippicadoo left his carriage, and walked some few yards. Upon his re-entering the transit, he laid down as if for the purpose of going to sleep, into which he immediately fell, and from that passed to death, without the slightest struggle or groan.

The body was examined on the morning of the 5th at Ootacamund, and extensive disease of the heart was discovered.

The remains of his Excellency were interred on the afternoon of the 5th April. We annex a statement of the Lieut.-General's services.

"Lieut.-Gen. William Staveley, c.b., joined the army under the Duke of Wellington at Oporto, in May, 1809, and was present at the battle of Talavera, actions at Pombal, Redinha Poz d'Arouce, and Sierra de Moita; battle of Fuentes d'Onor, storming and capture of Ciudad Rodrigo and Badajos, deputy-assistant quartermaster-general at the actions of Osma and Morillas, battle of Vittoria, passage of the Bidassoa, storming the heights of Vera, action at Sarree, battle of the Nivelle, battles of the 9th, 10th, 11th, and 12th Dec. 1813, near Bayonne, passage of the Adour, storming St. Etienne and investment of the citadel of Bayonne, actions at Vic Bigorre and Tarbes, and battle of Toulouse. Served also the campaign of 1815, including the battle of Waterloo and capture of Paris. He has received the war medal with eight clasps, and a reward of 100*l.* per annum, for distinguished service through the Peninsular war, and the campaign of 1815, including the battle of Waterloo and capture of Paris. Was wounded severely on the last occasion."

GENERAL ORDERS BY THE RIGHT HONOURABLE THE GOVERNOR IN COUNCIL.

Fort St. George, April 8, 1854.—With great grief the Right Hon. the Governor in Council announces to the army the demise of His Excellency Lieutenant-General William Staveley, Companion of the Most Hon. Military Order of the Bath, Commander-in-Chief at this presidency, which event took place at Tippicadoo, on the 4th instant.

On this melancholy occasion, the flag of the fort will be hoisted half-mast high, and seventeen minute-guns, corresponding with the rank of the late Commander-in-Chief, will be fired at each of the principal military stations under this Government. The Governor in Council further directs, that the officers of Her Majesty's and the Hon. Company's army will wear mourning for a fortnight from the present date.

By order of the Right Hon. the Governor in Council,
H. C. MONTGOMERY, Chief Secretary.

The announcement of the death of his Excellency Lieutenant-General William Staveley, c.b., makes known that the command of the Madras army is again vacant, for the eighth time within eighteen years; during which period the command in chief has been held by the following officers:—Sir P. Maitland; Sir J. Nicholls; Sir S. Whittingham; Sir Hugh Gough; Lieut.-Gen. Marquis of Tweeddale, who was Governor as well as Commander-in-Chief; Lieut.-Gen. Sir George Berkeley, 13th March, 1848; Lieut.-Gen. Sir Richard Armstrong, 29th September, 1851; Major-Gen. Staveley, 27th October, 1853.

In the intervals between the departure or death of one Commander-in-Chief and the arrival of another, it is customary for the senior general officer of division to take the command of the forces, and since Sir Jasper Nicholls, this is the fifth time that such temporary command has been held. In consequence of the death of General Staveley, Major-General Sewell, c.b., commanding the Mysore division, being senior of the division generals, now becomes commander of the forces, but without a seat in Council, and therefore without the emoluments of a civil councillor, 5,000 rupees per mensem.—Oerland Athenæum, April.

SCARCITY OF FOOD.—The Madras Athenæum declares that food will this year be twice as dear throughout that presidency as in ordinary seasons. The scarcity will be most severely felt in Cuddalore, where, however, the population will to a great extent be employed on public works.

THE ACCOUNTANT-GENERAL AND THE ATHENÆUM.—The Madras Examiner states, that the accountant-general of that presidency is about to institute proceedings against the Athenæum for "its alleged malicious and long-continued vilification of that officer, with reference to the corruption and dishonesty charged against him in the matter of the Tanjore bonds and other matters."

THE BISHOP OF MADRAS consecrated the new church at Coonor, on the Neilgherries, on the 8th April.

DR. JOHN SCOTT has been presented by his numerous patients, with a pair of double-branched silver candelabra and a silver coffee-pot, as a tribute of their respect and esteem.

MALABAR OIL.—A correspondent of the Athenæum thus writes from Calicut:—"The excellent Malabar fish-liver oil made here is being sent in large quantities to the medical officers of the various presidencies. Its beneficial effects have been experienced by many. Such is the great demand for the oil, that even the trade is busy with its manufacture."

AT A VICE-ADMIRALTY COURT held before the Hon. Sir Christopher Rawlinson, Knight, Commissary, Mr. Henry Nelson (of the firm of Parry and Co.) and Mr. Benjamin Brooks, were sworn in; the latter as registrar, and the former as marshal, of the Vice-Admiralty Court, and took the usual oaths of allegiance.

THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF has left the presidency on a tour of review and inspection. A salute of seventeen guns was fired on the occasion of his leaving.

ELEPHANTS CAUGHT IN CAGES.—A correspondent of the Madras Athenæum states, that in Coimbatore elephants are caught in cages. An immense cage is erected in the jungle, and the elephant driven into it by the hunters. The objection to this plan is, that the cage is immovable, and the elephants find out the device. In Travancore they are caught in pits, but the plan is attended with considerable danger. The writer, therefore, asks for suggestions as to the readiest mode of catching the animals.

A CREWLESS SHIP.—It is always a pleasant office to award merited praise, and especially so when the desert of the party lauded happens to exceed the common. On this principle we feel great satisfaction in testifying to the claim of Captain Rossiter, of the English barque Ignis Fatuus, just arrived in our roads, to the commendation of the press. He has accomplished a task probably without a parallel in the record of nautical achievements, having brought his vessel hither from Australia without a crew to navigate her. The Ignis Fatuus, belying her name, is a substantial craft, though of small dimensions, being only of 174 tons burthen. She is clipper-built, very sharp, and fitted up, as regards blocks, rigging, &c., in the most efficient manner. So far, she has all in her favour, but Captain Rossiter is not the less entitled to praise. He has brought her to Madras in the teeth of unprecedented difficulties, his navigating aids having consisted of one mate and an apprentice boy, the latter quite new to the sea; neither more nor less! His reason for leaving Australia without a crew was disinclination to submit to the outrageously extortionate demands of the seamen at Adelaide; and being the part owner of the craft, he ran both personal and pecuniary risk, for the sake of resisting gross imposition. Had the vessel encountered bad weather, she would most likely have been lost, and even though his life had been saved, he would by his daring enterprise have vitiated the insurance on her. Looking at all the circumstances of the case, it is a very remarkable feat. He had to beat nearly 2,000 miles in a high latitude, against strong westerly winds, before rounding Cape Leeuwin, and was throughout the voyage burthened with duties probably unexampled. Often he alone was on deck, working and steering the ship at the same time—officer of the watch, helmsman, and crew combined in one person—yet he made the passage in forty-five days—a very good run! Fortunately the Ignis Fatuus assisted by steering herself, when, as frequently happened, he was obliged to leave the wheel to attend to other matters. But that was a lucky accident. We think that Captain Rossiter is entitled to high commendation, and his two subordinates must of course share in it.—Spectator, March 22.

THE screw steamer *Mauritius anchored in Madras roads April 5, after a protracted voyage of eighty-one days. It affords us (Athenæum) great pleasure to learn that the rumours prevalent here regarding her probable detention, are entirely unfounded, and that her non-appearance earlier is solely attributable to the heavy head winds she experienced nearly the whole time she has been out. It appears that she was obliged to steam nearly the whole distance.

FURIOUS DRIVING.—The following order has been issued to the Madras army:—"The Honourable the Court of Directors having had under recent consideration several cases of accident resulting from furious riding and driving in military cantonments, the Commander-in-Chief has been requested to protect the inhabitants against outrages of this nature. His Excellency, therefore, calls upon all commanding officers to exert themselves in suppressing, without delay, this objectionable practice."

MILITARY ON-DITS.—Cornet W. Shakespear of the 3rd M.C. has been ordered to settle disputed boundaries in Malwa. Some six states are interlaced in one province, and the boundary disputes are endless.—A correspondent of the Athenæum has heard that the Kamptee force is to be considerably reduced, and "Sindwarrah," "Chanda," and "Ryepore," to be made stations for single corps.—The 40th N.I., en route to Kamptee from Jaulnah, have had small-pox among them.—Head quarters and the right wing of H.M. 74th Highlanders reached Jackatalla on the 30th March.—A detachment of recruits for the infantry, under the command of Capt. Keating, 3rd L.I. had arrived from England on board the ship Diana. They marched to St. Thomas's Mount.—H.M.'s 43rd regt. was paraded for review, by Maj.-Gen. Mackneil, commanding the centre division, on March 28.—Maj.-Gen. Sewell, C.B. commanding the division, will commence the half-yearly inspection of H.M.'s 12th Royal Lancers this morning.—Herald, March 28.—April 4. The head-quarters of H.M.'s 51st regt., and the remaining portion of the right wing of H.M.'s 94th regt. embarked for England on the 4th of April, on board the ship Hougoumont.—Several sickness prevailed in Bangalore and its neighbourhood. Much deaths from cholera had occurred, and the small-pox was raging.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDER.

BRIGADIER ELLIOTT'S FAREWELL ORDER.

Rangoon, Feb. 19th, 1851.—No. 1. Brigadier Elliott, K.H., will embark to-morrow morning with the head-quarters of H.M.'s 51st K. O. L. I. for Madras and England, and is happy to give over command of the station to Brigadier Franklyn from this date.

On relinquishing the honourable command, consisting of the artillery, H.M.'s 51st K. O. L. I., 9th and 35th regiments of the Madras presidency, to which he was appointed at the commencement of hostilities with the Burmese government, Brigadier Elliott returns his sincere thanks to the heads of departments and commanding officers who acted under his orders during the earlier portion of the late operations, for the able assistance they have at all times afforded him.

The brigadier begs that all officers on the staff who have acted with him, or under his orders, in connexion with this brigade, will be assured of the high estimation in which they are held by him for the zeal and attention with which they executed the orders and instructions emanating from the brigadier himself; and he requests that Captain Lloyd, brigade-major, will accept his best thanks for the perfect efficiency and unwearied zeal which he has exhibited in performance of the onerous duties of his office, both at Prome, and since the arrival of the brigade at this station.

Commanding officers are desired to express to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and men, the brigadier's admiration of their gallant conduct in the field, their patient endurance of sickness and privation, and their general good conduct, whether in camp or quarters, by which they have well sustained the reputation for gallantry, and high discipline which has distinguished the army of the Madras presidency, when and wherever employed.

In recording his sense of their excellent conduct, Brigadier Elliott remarks with pleasure that there has been but little crime, and that not an instance of lawless marauding or ill-treating of the inhabitants of the country by the troops forming this force, has occurred since its arrival in Burmah.

It is by such steadiness and discipline that the honour of the British name is supported, and the reputation of both officers and men enhanced.

Those regiments which are about to return to the presidency, embark with the conscious pride of men who have well performed their duty, and by their soldierly conduct won the approbation of their sovereign and the Government.

In a short time the troops who formed the 1st Madras brigade, late of the army of Burmah, will be dispersed, and in publishing this his last order, Brigadier Elliott assures the officers and men of the brigade, that he will always entertain the warmest interest in their welfare, and that wherever they may proceed, they will bear with them his hearty good wishes.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

AMES, C. H. to be assist. to mag. and coll. of Tinnevely, Mar. 31.
SHUBRICK, C. J. act. civ. and sess. jud. zillah of Chingleput assum. ch. March 27.
SMOLLETT, P. B. ret. to duty, March 30.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE—ARRIVED AT THE DATE SPECIFIED.
ALEXANDER, H. S. March 30.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

COCKERELL, J. R. 8 mo. to Neilgherries, on m.c.
FREER, H. 1 month.
ROBINSON, J. D. head assist. to coll. and mag. of Malabar, 1 mo. in ext. to rem. at Neilgherries.

ECCELESIASTICAL.

APPOINTMENTS.

HAMILTON, Rev. R. K. A.M. to do duty at Trichinopoly and Jackatalla.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BAIRD, Lieut. J. S. to be 1st lieutenant. fr. April. 1, v. Ward, ret.
BEAN, Lieut. J. Engs. to be 1st lieutenant. fr. Feb. 15, to complete the estab.

BROCKMAN, Capt. H. J. 4th Asst. to Mysore commissioner, to be 3rd asst.
 CHADWICK, Ens. R. A. 5th N.I. to be Lieut. fr. Sept. 11, v. Skinner, dec.
 CLERK, Capt. T. 3rd Asst. to commissr. and acting superint. of Astagram, to be superint. of Astagram.
 COTTRELL, Lieut. C. C. 1st N.V. batt. to com. detach. of 2nd N.V. batt. at Poonamallee, as a temp. measure, April 4.
 DAKYNE, Ens. H. F. 22nd N.I. to be lieut. fr. March 17, v. Blair, dec.
 DOBBS, Capt. R. S. supt. of Astagram, to be supt. of Chittledroog.
 DUN, Lieut. E. W. 42nd N.I. to be adj. v. Harrison, from March 27.
 FORD, Capt. B. 12th N.I. to be employed as exec. offr. under ord. of the department of public works.
 FRASER, Cornet H. from do. du. B. troop H. art. to do duty 1st L.C. to join under orders fr. Adj.-Gen. of the Army, April 1.
 GOLDINGHAM, 2nd Lieut. G. A. art. posted to 2nd batt. to continue to do du. with head qrs. 2nd batt. at the Mount, until return of A. comp. of that batt. fr. Burmah.
 GRANT, Capt. W. D. 50th N.I. to act as dep. gr. mr. gen. of the army, as a temp. measure until the return of Capt. Gillilan fr. Burmah, April 1.
 HAIG, 2nd Lieut. F. T. engs. to be lieut. fr. Feb. 15, to complete the estab.
 HANDS, Lieut. col. F. W. fr. 6th to 29th N.I. March 30.
 HARRINGTON, Ens. W. H. 42nd N.I. doing duty 2nd batt. art. perm. to proceed and join his corps via Calcutta, April 4.
 HEWETSON, Ens. G. S. B. to do du. with 46th N.I. to join.
 HICHENS, Ens. R. H. 29th N.I. ret'd. to du. Feb. 28.
 HILL, Ens. H. S. to do du. 44th N.I. to join.
 HITCHINS, 1st Lieut. B. C. art. fr. 2nd to 5th batt.
 HORSLEY, Corn. F. 6th L.C. to be lieut. fr. Feb. 11, v. Hay, dec.
 HORSLEY, Lieut. W. H. engs. to be capt. fr. Feb. 15, to complete the estab.
 HOWLETT, Capt. A. 27th N.I. to be dep. asst. gr. mr. gen. to forces in Pegu, v. Darroch.
 LUDLOW, Lieut. S. O. E. engs. to be capt. fr. Feb. 15, to complete the estab.
 LUGARD, Ens. H. J. 47th N.I. to do duty with 50th N.I.
 MACDONALD, Lieut. H. C. 35th N.I. to do duty with 50th N.I.
 MACLEOD, Col. D. cav. to be a brig. on the staff, and to command the ceded districts, March 28.
 McMAHON, Lieut. A. R. 30th N.I. passed exam. in Persian, to rec. moonshee allowance; exam. in Telooogo cred. prog. moonshee allow.
 MOBERLY, Lieut. F. J. engs. to be 1st lieut. fr. Feb. 15, to complete the estab.
 MOBERLY, 2nd Lieut. A. S. engs. to be lieut. fr. Feb. 15, to complete the estab.
 NICOLAY, Maj. F. L. 29th N.I. to be officer command. the Neilgherries, fr. April 7, to be jt. mag. in dist. of Coimbatore and Malabar.
 OGILVIE, 2nd Lieut. A. J. art. 4th to 1st batt.
 ONSLOW, Brevet maj. W. C. 44th N.I. resigned appt. in Mysore commission, fr. May 1.
 PORTER, Brevet maj. J. F. Porter, supt. of Chittledroog, to be superint. of Nugur.
 PRINGLE, Capt. G. 35th N.I. to be a mem. of pres. mil. exam. committee in Hindustani; to do duty with 50th N.I. March 31.
 REID, Lieut. col. F. A. c.b. fr. 29th to 6th N.I. March 30.
 RUSSELL, Lieut. W. G. B. 8th L.C. resigned the service.
 SAMWELL, Ens. M. 48th N.I. to be lieut. fr. March 15, v. Ottley, dec.
 SANDERS, Lieut. G. W. 9th N.I. to perf. du. of adjt. to Pegu L.I.
 SANDYS, Col. G. 6th L.C. to be a brig. gen. April 1.
 SCOTT, 1st Lieut. A. N. art. fr. 4th to 2nd batt. to continue to do duty with head qrs. of 2nd batt. until return of the A. comp. of that batt. fr. Burmah, and then to join the comp.
 SELBY, Lieut. G. art. to be capt. fr. Apr. 1, v. Ward, ret.
 SHAKESPEAR, Capt. C. M. 9th M.N.I. to be 2nd in com. 4th inf. Hyderabad contingent, Mar. 27.
 STEPHENS, Lieut. W. F. to be 4th asst. to commis. of Mysore.
 STEVENSON, Lieut. J. F. I. 26th N.I. passed exam. in Burmese.
 STRICKLAND, Ens. W. G. M. 49th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 TRIPE, Capt. A. 51st N.I. to act as dep. asst. adjt. gen. to force in Pegu, v. Neill, on leave, Mar. 31.
 TYTLER, Ens. T. P. F. to do duty with 2nd batt. art. to join.
 WARD, Brev. maj. W. art. perm. to retire fr. the service of the Comp. on pens. of a lieut. col. fr. Apr. 1.
 WATKINS, 2nd Lieut. J. W. art. posted to 2nd batt.
 WEST, Lieut. J. C. 11th N.I. ret. to duty, Mar. 10.
 WRIGHT, Capt. J. H. 1st N.I. passed exam. in Burmese.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT DATE SPECIFIED.

INFANTRY.

DICKEN, W. P. Mar. 30.
 HEWETSON, G. S. B. Mar. 30.
 TYTLER, T. P. F. Mar. 30.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BEDDEK, Lieut. C. H. 2nd Eur. L.I. to Eur. m.c.

BEGGIE, Capt. A. J. 1st N.V.B. perm. to reside at Bangalore dur. his leave of abs.
 BOLTON, Lieut. R. H. 16th N.I. to Mar. 7 in ext.
 BOWER, Maj. H. 52nd N.I. to Eur. m.c.
 CAMERON, 2nd Lieut. C. h. art. to Europe on m.c.
 DICKEN, Ens. W. P. 6th N.I. 6 mos. to Calcutta and Patna.
 DREVER, Lieut. M. S. 31st L.I. April 2 to May 1 to Bellary.
 GILL, Brev. Major R. 2nd N.V.B. 2 mos. fr. April 1.
 GOAD, Brev. Capt. J. W. art. leave altered fr. Cape of Good Hope to sea and Neilgherries.
 GORDON, Lieut. C. V. 28th N.I. fr. April 19 to June 19 to Bombay, new regulations.
 HALHED, Ens. C. M. 52nd N.I. fr. Mar. 25 to Sept. 15 to Bangalore on m.c.
 HALY, Capt. G. T. 41st N.I. 1 mo. to pres.
 HARRISON, Lieut. and gr. mr. W. P. 7th N.I. 1 year on m.c.
 HENDERSON, Lieut. J. R. T. 52nd N.I. fr. Mar. 25 to Sept. 15, to Bangalore on m.c.
 ISACKE, Lieut. L. H. 2nd Eur. L.I. to Europe on m.c. old regulations.
 KERRICH, 2nd Lieut. W. D. O. art. fr. Mar. 20 to Dec. 31, to Bangalore and Neilgherries.
 LANE, Lieut. T. G. M. 40th N.I. fr. Mar. 20 to May 1 on m.c. to pres. prep. to app. for leave to Europe on furl.
 MACKECHNIE, Lieut. D. 16th N.I. to Eur. m.c.
 NEIL, Brev. Lieut. col. J. G. S. 1st fus. to Europe on m.c. new regulations.
 SEWELL, Maj. genl. W. H. c.b. thirty days to Neilgherries.
 STUART, Ens. C. J. 51st N.I. Apr. 6 to May 5, to Madras.
 WARD, Capt. A. 1st fus. fr. Jan. 31 to Nov. 1, to Maulmein, Madras and east coast on m. c. via Calcutta.
 WATTS, Capt. W. H. 5th N.I. leave cancelled.
 WROUGHTON, Capt. N. D. N.V.B. to Eur. m. c.
 YOUNG, Capt. F. 24th N.I. leave canc.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ALLEN, Asst. surg. P. to rank fr. Oct. 14, 1853.
 BUCHANAN, Surg. R. H. posted to 5th N.I. April 1.
 COOPER, Asst. surg. C. M. D. to rank fr. Nov. 20, 1853.
 BARKER, Asst. surg. N.I. leave cancelled.
 FLEMING, Asst. surg. J. B., A tr. art. to Eur. m. c.
 JOSEPH, Asst. surg. J. M., m.d. to July 20, to Moulmein and Madras on m. c.
 LLOYD, Asst. surg. W. M. D. fr. 2nd N.V.B. to ch. of N.I. depôt at Palaveram, March 31.
 SANDERSON, Asst. surg. m.b. and m.a. to rank fr. Oct. 20, 1853.
 SHAW, Asst. surg. G. J. to be surg. v. Nicholson, dec. March 1.
 SHAW, Asst. surg. H. T. to rank fr. Sep. 10, 1853.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

ADEY, wife of Lieut. G. 31st L.I. s. at Hurryhur, March 14.
 BROWN, wife of J. A. s. at Trivandrum, March 17.
 BYWATER, wife of W. H. d. at Paumber, March 19.
 CANNAN, wife of Lieut. A. 26th N.I. s. at Ootacamund, March 26.
 CLEMENTSON, wife of Lieut. 14th N.I. d. at Bellary.
 COPESTON, wife of F. c.s. d. at Bangalore, March 15.
 COX, wife of Maj. E. T. 2nd N.V.B. d. at Chicacole, March 14.
 COX, wife of Surg. S. L. s. at Bangalore, April 6.
 EVANS, the lady of Surg. W. M. D. s. at Madras, March 24.
 JARRO, wife of Rev. P. J. s. at Tinnevely, March 25.
 McANDREW, wife of Capt. J. D. H.M.'s 78th, d. still-born, at Ootacamund, March 28.
 McCREA, wife of H. T. s. at Madras, April 1.
 OUCHTERLONY, wife of J. s. at Madras, March 28.
 POPE, wife of the Rev. J. P. d. at Masulipatam, March 24.
 SMITH, wife of C. d. at St. Thomas's Mount, April 2.

MARRIAGES.

FISCHER, J. to Seila, d. of G. F. Fischer, at Salem, April 3.
 KOMARECK, W. to Mary Anne, widow of the late P. Laurent, at Black Town, March 29.
 REDDOCK, J. to Charlotte Maria, d. of the late C. King, at Black Town, March 29.
 SHURRICK, C. J. to Louisa Maria Ann R. d. of the late J. Taylor, at Madras, March 25.
 SIMPSON, Lieut. J. 48th N.I. to Sophia, d. of Capt. Watch, 26th N.I. at Cochin, Feb. 25.
 TAYLOR, G. W. M. to Miss Charity C. Thacker, at Vepery, April 3.

DEATHS.

ATKINSON, R. at Madras, aged 27, March 30.
 BLAIR, Lieut. C. F. 22nd N.I. at Mhow, March 17.
 FISCHER, Harriet E. F. d. of Maj. T. J. 4th N.I. at Mercara, March 15.
 INNES, Ens. J. 46th N.I. on the road between Cuddapah and Nellore, April 5.
 LOUDON, W. H. s. of Lieut. J. dep. assist. commy. gen. at Hoonsvoor, aged 5, March 17.
 LUARD, George A. s. of Capt. G. F. 37th N.I. at Kamptee, aged 1, March 17.

NORRIS, Lieut. W. 1st nat. vet. batt. at sea, March 15.
 ONSLOW, Lieut. G. W. Madras art. at the Cape of Good Hope, aged 23, March 8.
 OTTLEY, Capt. P. F. 48th N.I. at Burhampore, aged 32, March 15.
 RUSSELL, G. at Hoonsoor, aged 40, March 16.
 SMART, C. at Black Town, aged 28, April 1.
 TWIGG, R. W. inf. s. of R. W. at Madras, aged 10 mo. March 24.
 WELLS, W. s. of John, at Calicut, aged 3, April 2.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MARCH 30. Steamer Hindostan, Tronson, Suez, Aden, and Galle; Steamer Hugh Lindsey, Crowther, Vizagapatam, and Masulipatam; Coldstream, Adams, London, Gravesend, and Cape of Good Hope. APRIL 1. Herculean, Berreman, Port Phillip; Peregrine Oliver, Binet, Port Philip; Duchess of Sutherland, Williamson, Sydney.—2. Dinapore, Wilson, London.—4. Emerald Isle, Pellatt, Port Adelaide; Benares, Doull, Sidney; Screw steamer Mauritius, Seales, Southampton, St. Vincent, Ascension, Table Bay, Mauritius, and Galle.—5. Diana, Fletcher, London.—6. Emulous, Trixeira, Chittagong and Pondicherry.—9. Kalliboka, Buchanan, Liverpool.—11. Steamer Bombay, —, Calcutta.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per steamer Hindostan (March 30), from SUEZ, ADEN and GALLE.—FROM SOUTHAMPTON.—Messrs. Alexander, Dicken, Hewetson and Tytler, Capt. and Mrs. Griffin. From MARSEILLES.—Mr. Smollett. From GALLE.—Capt. and Mrs. Goad, 2 children and Mrs. Ouchterlony, Mrs. Sinclair and infant, Miss Turlton and Lieut. Hedley. From SINGAPORE.—Mr. Hinds. From SOUTHAMPTON to CALCUTTA.—Lieut. and Mrs. Hailes, General Fane, Messrs. J. Sconce, Gibbons, Farncombe, Brskine, and Chester, Col. and Mrs. Eckford, Capt. Horsburgh, Mrs. Shein, Mr. and Mrs. Hill, Mr. H. Sconce, Mr. Ward, Syed Abdoola, Dr. Elliott, Mr. McKibben, F. Steel, and J. Johnson. From MARSEILLES to CALCUTTA.—Mr. Harrison. From MALTA to CALCUTTA.—Mr. Lindquist. From SUEZ to CALCUTTA.—C. Chambers. From GALLE to CALCUTTA.—Mr. Craig and Macan Macar. BOMBAY to CALCUTTA.—Capt. and Mrs. Ramsay.

Per steamer Hugh Lindsey (March 30), from VIZAGAPATAM and MASULIPATAM.—Lieut. Campbell.—From MASULIPATAM.—Lieut. Henegan, Mrs. Crewe and 2 children, Major Mann and 2 servants, Lieut. Harrison, Lieut. Hunfrays, and Miss Bury.

Per Coldstream (March 30), from LONDON, GRAVESEND, and the CAPE.—Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Nieschel and child, Lieut. col. Monkland, 74th, Mrs. Monkland, Capt. du Vernet, 43rd regt. Lieut. King, 74th regt. Ensign Martin, 74th regt. Lieut. Hodgson, 12th Lancers.

Per Duchess of Sutherland (April 1), from SYDNEY.—Capt. Heathcote and Miss Smith.

Per Dinapore, from LONDON.—Mr. P. Schaffter and Mr. W. Schaffter. Steerage.—Mr. J. Penson and 1 native.

Per screw steamer Mauritius (April 2), from PLYMOUTH, &c.—FOR MADRAS.—George Ellis, Esq. m.c.s. Mrs. Ellis, 2 children; Miss Brookings, Miss Gertrude Brookings, Miss Minchin, Miss Barstow, Rev. Geo. Hall, B.A. Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Ratliff, Miss Ireland, Miss Katherine Ireland, Rev. P. Gannon, Ensign Oakley, H.M.'s 84th foot; Mrs. Magrath, Mr. Lough-ton, Mons. De la Cour. From the CAPE to MADRAS.—Maj. Johnson. From the MAURITIUS.—Lieut. R. Thompson, C. J. Webb, Esq. For CALCUTTA.—Mrs. O'Donel, Miss O'Donel, Mr. Connell O'Donel, Miss Cash, Mrs. Whitcombe and infant, Mrs. Bell and 2 children, Mr. Gilmore, Mr. Donald, Mr. Hildebrand, Rev. W. Gleeson, Lieut. F. Ellis, H.M.'s 9th Lancers; Mrs. Currie Maclean and O'Donel; Messrs. H. N. Noble, G. Graham, A. Copland, and R. Currie.

Per Diana (April 5), from LONDON.—Capt. Keating, Comg.; Lieut. Campbell, Miss Keating, Mr. Hay, Mr. Bernard, Asst. surg. and 220 E.I.C.'s troops.

Per Emulous (April 6), from CHITTAGONG and PONDICHERY.—Mrs. B. R. Trixeira and child.

Per steamer Bombay (April 11), from CALCUTTA.—Mr. Smith and 2 children, Capt. H. Mann, Mrs. Mann, and 2 children; Mrs. Hodgson, Mrs. Ricketts, 2 children, 2 infants; Mrs. F. J. Bell, Capt. Mein, Lieut. Woodcock, Capt. Ward, and Mrs. C. Biggs.

DEPARTURES.

March 23.—Melpomene, Lawrenson, London; Talavera, McCaully, Liverpool, via Akaby.—25. Pekin, Whitby, Mauritius; Virginie, Finney, Chittagong.—26. Curreen Bux, Manook, Rangoon.—28. Amelia, Maiden, Northern Ports.—29. Benjamin Buck Green, Gammon, Mauritius.—30. Steamer Hindostan, Tronson, Calcutta; steamer Hugh Lindsey, Crowther, Rangoon and Moulmein.—31. Admiral Duperre, Martin, Marseilles, via Tranquebar.—April 4. Herculean, Berreman, Coringo.—5. Hougoumont, Darke, London.—6. Screw steamer Mauritius, Seales, Calcutta.—8. Dominion, Green, Mauritius.—9. Ignis Fatuus, Rossiter, London.—11. Steamer Bombay, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Curreen Bux (March 20), to RANGOON.—Capt. and Mrs. Lightfoot; Mr. O. H. Mutt, 2 Misses Mutt, and servant; Mr. and Mrs. Claudius and 2 children; Mrs. Wyatt; Messrs. Hall, Catchick, T. D'Silva, and Geills.

Per steamer Hindostan (March 30) to CALCUTTA.—Capt. E. H. Power.

Per screw steamer Mauritius (April 6), to CALCUTTA.—Mr. W. P. Dicken.

Per steamer Bombay (April 11), to SUEZ.—TO SOUTHAMPTON.—Ensign A. P. Kerr, H.M.'s 51st; C. J. Webb, Esq.; Capt. W. H. West; F. A. Carson, Esq.; Lieut. C. H. Beddek; Capt. H. R. Manners, Mrs. Manners, and child; and Lieut. S. A. Madden. TO ALEXANDRIA.—Capt. H. F. Marston. TO BOMBAY.—Mrs. Fernandez and infant.

COMMERCIAL.

Madras, April 11, 1854.

BANK OF MADRAS.

Rates of Interest—on Loans.

On deposit of Government Paper ..... 5 per ct.
 On existing cash credit accounts on do. .... 5 do.

RATES OF ADVANCE.

On Government 5 per cent. Stock Receipts ..... 100 per ct.
 On 5 per cent. Promissory Notes ..... 98 "
 On 4 per cent. do. Sica and Co.'s ..... 88 "
 On Tanjore do. .... 88 "

Discount.

On Government Acceptances ..... 3 per ct.
 On Private Bills, at or within 30 days ..... 5 "
 Ditto above 30 days ..... 6 "
 Investments ..... Rs. 37,38,389 0 0
 Circulation and Deposits ..... 46,02,265 9 10
 Specie in the Bank ..... 37,31,793 10 5

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

5 per cent. loan of 1825-26
 1829-30
 1841 ½ to ¾ prem.
 4 per cent. .. 1832-35 ½ to 1½ dis.
 1835-36 Par. to ½ prem.
 1843 ½ to ¾ prem.
 5 per cent. transferable } 5 to 6
 book debt .. ..
 Tanjore Bonds .. .. Par. to ½ prem.
 Bank of Madras Shares .. 14 to 15 prem.

PRICE OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Sovereigns ..... Rs. 10-4 each
 Bank of England Notes ..... 10-2 each
 Spanish Dollars ..... 220 per 100

EXCHANGES.

Bills on England, according to sight, 1s. 11d. to 1s. 11½d.
 H.M. Treasury Bills, 1s. 11½d. to 2s. 0½d.
 Bank of England Post Bills, 1s. 11½d. to 2s. 0½d.
 Mauritius Government Bills, 1s. 11½d. to 2s. 0½d.
 Ceylon do. 1s. 11½d. to 2s. 0½d.
 Court of Directors' Bill on the Government of Bengal, 60 days' sight, none.

Calcutta.—Buy, ½ per cent. disct.
 „ „ Sell, par.
 Bombay.—Buy, ½ per cent. disct.
 „ „ Sell, par.

FREIGHTS.

Quotations to London and Liverpool are 4l. 7s. 6d. to 4l. 10s. per ton of 20 cwt.

BOMBAY:

THE WRECK OF THE "HAMODY."

We have received from a friend in this town the following account of the shipwreck of the Hamody, written by Captain Barnes, the master of the vessel:—

"You are the first to whom I have written in reference to the unfortunate loss of the Hamody, which no doubt you have ere this heard of. According to your advice, I was proceeding to the westward of the Laccadives, and on Wednesday after I left Bombay I was in the latitude of the Cherbimani reef, and by the chronometer many miles (I write from memory) to the westward, nothing being visible. From noon I stood S. by W., and nothing to leeward, in fact, a good S. by W. ½ W. course, naturally thinking I must be many miles clear of all danger. At seven P.M., I was sitting on the lee-side of the poop with Mrs. Barnes, when the chief officer suddenly said, 'Why, there is a shoal here!' I started up, and saw a white streak running out from the weather-beam of the ship. I at once saw she would not clear to windward, and all being smooth on the lee-side put the helm up; but before it had time to act on the ship she struck. We clewed all sail up, lowered the gig, and sounded ahead, in hope of forcing her into deep water, but found only 2½ fathoms and less ahead. Our only chance now was to heave her astern; but to do this I had no kedge-anchor, no stream-chain, or light chain of any description, no warp, not a single thing available; of course, the bower-chain was out of the question. In the mean time both wind and sea were setting the ship momentarily higher on the reef, and after a short time she swung broadside on, and commenced labouring very heavily. We now got out the long boat, and as the ship was nearly on her beam ends and heavily laden, I cut away the masts, when she lay more easily, and partially righted. No sooner was the long boat in the water, than nearly all the lascars crowded into her, all my persuasion being unavailing to induce them to come on board. In this position I was all night, with not more than ten men on board. About midnight the rope of the long boat broke, and she was drifting away, full of people, when I despatched in the pin-nance a gun as an anchor, with a good rope, thus she was anchored some two miles from the ship, and with some trouble towed alongside at daylight. The ship now being bilged, and her lining planks floating under her lee, we prepared the boats as best we could, for an effort to reach some place of safety—being under the impression I was on the Byramgore shoal. However strange it might be, I watched anxiously for Betra Par, which could not in that case have been very distant, but no land was observed. Before leaving the wreck, took sights for chronometer, and at about 10 A. M., started the mate and nine men in pinnace, myself in the long boat towing the gig, in all about 54 souls. At noon, we observed lat. was  $11^{\circ} 56'$ , the wreck then bearing N. W., distance six miles. From 10 to near sundown, we made the best of our way, steering about E. S. E., for the greater part of this time in not more than two or three fathoms water, and fell in with a large space of broken water at least fifteen miles from the wreck, the long. I made  $71^{\circ} 26' E.$  Lat. about  $12^{\circ} 0'$ . The first night parted company with the pinnace, and after pretty favourable weather, though suffering much from the crowded state of the boats and the sun, reached Tellicherry before noon on Monday, where every attention and assistance was given by Mr. Brannan, and offered by others there. After much difficulty we succeeded in hiring a small paddamar to go to the wreck, and inducing some of the Lascars to accompany us; but finding our water getting short, we put into Mangalore, where the tindall of the paddamar refused to proceed any farther. However, through the prompt and kind assistance of Mr. Chamier, the assistant collector, we got sufficient boats to carry 180 tons of cargo, and in the morning I proceeded to the wreck, and trust I shall be able to save much of the cargo and ship's property. You have now a full statement of the matter, and should any false reports about the wreck have got into the papers, you may use this as you think best.

"Horsburg gives the longitude of the Byramgore  $71^{\circ} 55'$ , and the western extreme  $71^{\circ} 50'$ . My altitude gives me  $71^{\circ} 26'$ , and the chronometer I found correct to a mile in Tellicherry, after my arrival; thus it would seem these shoals are not at all correctly laid down in the charts."—Telegraph and Courier, April 7.

THE LONDON MAIL of March 8th arrived at Bombay April 10, (per Feroze).

THE BOMBAY RAILROAD during seven weeks ending 12th of March has had 8,479 passengers, and has realised nearly 2,500 rupees per week.

CAPTAIN AGAR, of the 3rd Bombay Native Infantry, is about to retire from the service.

HADOW v. HENRY.—The action for crim. con., Hadow v. Henry, was heard in the Supreme Court, on the 4th April, before Sir C. Jackson, Puisne Judge. The defendant having allowed damages to go by default, His Lordship assessed them at 6,000 rupees.

A COMET has been seen at Kolapore, Mahableshwar, and Bombay. It was seen at Bombay on the 6th April, at Kolapore, some days earlier. It is described as between the Pleiades and Orion's belt.

DEATHS.—We regret to state that our obituary contains the names of two most deservedly regretted officers of the Indian navy, Mr. A. Daniell, second assistant to the master attendant, and Lieut. Leeds. The former gentleman dropped down dead near the dock-yard, at about 8 o'clock, A.M., on the 8th instant; the latter died on the 12th, by his own hand, whilst labouring under temporary insanity, on board the Hastings.—Bombay Times.

INDIAN NAVY. PRESENTATION OF A SWORD TO COMMANDER CAMPBELL.—The following paragraph of a despatch from the Court of Directors, published at Bombay, will be gratifying to every officer in the Indian navy:—"We also inform you that the government of India has noticed in very flattering terms the conduct and services of the several commissioned officers of the Indian navy who were employed and have distinguished themselves in the course of the war; and that it has appeared to us, that advertising to that communication and to the other commendatory despatches which have been published in the London Gazette during the progress of hostile operations, we might very appropriately show our sense of the conduct of the Indian navy by conferring some special mark of favour and approbation upon Commander Charles Dugald Campbell, who is the senior of the Indian naval officers named in such despatch of the 2nd of July, 1853, whose rank is immediately below that which would render him eligible for the honorary distinction of the Bath. We have accordingly resolved that Commander Charles Dugald Campbell, Indian navy, be presented with a sword of the value of 200 guineas, with a suitable inscription, in testimony of the high sense entertained by the Court of Directors of his services in the Burmese war."

BUNDER ABBAS.—We have received intelligence from this port up to the 7th by the Bugla Futeel Khyr, which arrived here on the 18th instant. It appears that about 800 Persian horsemen had taken up a position a short distance from the fort of Abbas. The Arab Chief Mahomed Saleem with about 1,000 men were in the fort, and for twenty days a sharp fire was kept up between the contending parties. A three-masted vessel belonging to the Arab chief with two Buglas, containing in all about 500 armed men, were also firing on the Persians, who are reported to have 110 men killed, and the Arabs only ten. It is believed the Persians will be obliged to retire, as the Arabs are well supplied with ammunition, and the former are exposed to the fury of the elements. Sheik Kanoon of Abood Dubbee and the Charga chief were, it appears, inclined to assist the Arabs, and with this view, had put out in boats, but were prevented by the British agent, who desired them not to interfere. The ryots of Bunder Abbas were safely located at Kissim.—Sindian, March 22.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO CAPTAIN CAMPBELL.—We deeply regret to announce that Capt. Edmund Campbell, formerly of the 28th N.I., and now of the recently formed 3rd Europeans, sustained a severe accident on the morning of Wednesday last, which had wellnigh proved fatal to one of the most gallant and intelligent officers of the Indian army. It would appear that, in consequence of the negligence of the native groom in attendance, the saddle-girth of Captain Campbell's horse gave away, the gallant officer, although an accomplished equestrian, being thrown with violence from his seat, and sustaining a fracture of the left arm, with painful contusions on the head and face. Capt. Campbell was immediately carried in a state of insensibility to his bungalow, the medical officer, who was immediately summoned, not deeming it advisable to set the limb until the frightful swelling had somewhat abated. As soon as the bruit of the disaster became known, the utmost anxiety was evinced to ascertain the extent of the injury; the general sympathy and solicitude not having been confined to the numerous personal friends of the sufferer, who is deservedly beloved by the soldiers of his corps for qualities of head and heart rare in their combination. It is some alleviation of the sorrow of the 3rd Europeans, to know that the accident has not been attended with the fatal results originally anticipated, and that the captain's health is as favourable as can be expected under the circumstances of the contretemps in question. It is the enviable distinction of Capt. Campbell to have won, in a brief period, the golden opinions of all who have approached within the sphere of his influence; and we scarcely infringe the privacy of the service when we remark that, while second to none in the knowledge and execution of the arduous duties incident to his position, the winning grace and amenity of manner which have charmed the circle of his equals in society, have invested with twofold value Capt. Campbell's thorough sympathy with the feelings of the humblest private of the regiment which proudly boasts of so distinguished an ornament.—Poona Observer, April 8.

COLONEL GIDLEY'S COURT MARTIAL has at length terminated. The court reassembled on the 8th April, and Captain Boyé, judge advocate, proceeded to read his rejoinder to the prisoner's defence. It occupied about three quarters of an hour. Colonel Gidley declined to put in any reply, and so this unusually protracted trial came to a close. Of course, the proceedings cannot be published until the award of the court and the decision of his Exc. the Commander-in-Chief are known.—Telegraph and Courier.

DEATH OF MR. SUART.—We regret to have to record the death of Mr. E. M. Suart, acting judge and session judge of Kandeish. The melancholy event occurred at Mundoor, sixty-seven miles to the north-west of Dhoolia, on Friday, the 7th April, and was occasioned by an attack of cholera.

CHOLERA.—In the memory of even "the oldest inhabitant" of Bombay, there has never been more—if so much—cholera and diarrhoea in the island as at present. The reason is said to be, that the quality of the water we are drinking is more or less deteriorated all over the place. All persons should be most careful to have all the water they drink during the next two months, boiled first and filtered afterwards. There is much more illness amongst such classes of the natives as are forbidden by custom, or caste, to filter the water they use, than with the European population, or with the natives who are not forbidden to use filters. Ice in the water we drink is also a good preventative against the prevalent complaints.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS.

INDIAN NAVY.—WAR BATTAL.

Commodore's Office, Bombay, April 7, 1851.—The commodore commander in chief has much gratification in publishing to the service the subjoined copy of a letter from the Hon. the Court of Directors to the address of the Most Noble the Governor-General of India in Council, No. 8, dated the 7th December last.

COPY.

Marine Department, December 7, 1853.—Our Governor-General of India in Council.

1. Your foreign letter, No. 39, dated 20th June last, submits for our consideration claims preferred on behalf of the royal and Indian naval squadrons, recently employed in Burmah, to war batta for their services during the expedition, and requests to be informed how far those claims are affected by the participation of the navy in the six months' donation batta granted to the forces, whether naval or military, engaged in the war.

2. In the China and Punjab wars, when donation batta was conferred, war batta was not given, notwithstanding the General Order dated 16th August, 1811.

3. Observing, however, that the ships have been employed during the greater part of the recent war in Burmah, and that their crews would receive more by the war batta than by the donation batta; considering also the very meritorious services of the sailors; we authorize you to allow them in those cases where the aggregate amount of war batta shall exceed the aggregate amount of the donation batta, to receive the excess in addition.

4. We are of opinion that the regulation of the 16th August, 1841, should be altered, and therefore desire that it may be so expressed as to prevent a claim arising for the issue of war batta for any services for which donation batta is granted.

FURLONGS AVAILABLE.

Bombay Castle, March 20, 1854.—The following disposition list of furlongs available is published for general information:—

Furlongs available on this date, 4.

Admitted, Mr. A. D. Robertson.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BELL, W. W. Actg. coll. of Ahmednuggur, to rem. in the districts of his collectorate 4 mo. March 24.

DALZELL, P. M. dep. coll. of customs at Kurrachee, vested with pow. of a dep. mag.

DAVIES, C. J. to be a dep. commiss. of customs, &c.

ERSKINE, J. M. to act as mil. acct. dept. acct. gen. and ditto to sup. court dur. abs. of G. J. Blane assu. ch. March 30.

FREERE, H. B. E. del. or. ch. of off. of commissr. in Scinde, to B. H. Ellis, March 20.

HOBART, Hon. G. A. to be act. asst. jud. and sess. jud. of Poona, and act. asst. agt. for Sirdars in Deccan, dur. abs. of H. Newton.

KARR, G. B. S. del. over ch. of the Baroda residency to Lieut. col. Outram, c.p. March 20.

ROBERTSON, A. D. resu. ch. as dep. commissr. of customs, &c.

ROBERTSON, J. W. to be dept. commissr. of customs salt and opium.

SCART, E. M. to be sen. asst. jud. and sess. jud. of Surat for the detach. station of Broach, March 28.

TRAVERS, A. C. to be act. sub. coll. and mag. of Colaba.

TYTLER, C. E. F. to be act. coll. and mag. of Rutnagherry.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

PASLEY, R. S. L. S. to May.

ROBERTSON, A. D. leave canc.

STACK, J. W. 1 mo.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ANDERSON, Capt. G. S. A. 18th N.I. to rank fr. Feb. 17, in suc. to James, prom.

ASTON, Maj. H. 10th N.I. 1st asst. and act. pol. agent in Kattywar, perm. to resign these appts. fr. Feb. 22; perm. to retire on pension of maj. fr. April 16.

BARR, Capt. J. T. to be 1st asst. to pol. ag. in Katteewar, rec. ch. of agency.

BEALE, Capt. E. C. 22nd N.I. qual. as surveyor.

BLACK, Lieut. J. to be 2nd asst. to pol. ag. in Katteewar.

BROWN, Brig. to proc. and join com. to which he has been app.

BROWNE, Brig. W. J. to be a brig. of 1st class, v. Roberts, to Europe.

BRUCE, Capt. C. J. art. fr. 1st batt. to 2nd batt. to join at Ahmednuggur.

BURNS, 1st Lieut. 1st Eur. fus. to act as qr. mr. and interp. dur. abs. of Dansey.

CHAPMAN, Ens. J. F. 3rd N.I. to be lieut. fr. April 1, in suc. to Agar, ret.

CLOSE, Lieut. J. B. G. engrs. to be 1st lieut. fr. Feb. 15. v. Hart, prom.

CREAGH, Lieut. 19th N.I. to join wing of that corps at Kolapore.

DUNCAN, Ens. G. M. engrs. to rank as 2nd lieut. in regt. fr. Feb. 15.

DANSEY, Lieut. E. 1st Eur. fus. to act as asst. pol. agent, at Aden, March 31. rec. ch. of the post office from Lieut. Crutenden, I.N. March 9.

DAVIES, Capt. 29th N.I. to act as fort adj. at Surat, dur. abs. of Lieut. Piers.

DAY, Lieut. J. 19th N.I. qual. as surveyor.

ELLIOTT, Lieut. H. H. 1st L.C. to rank fr. Nov. 25, 1852, v. Hardy, prom.

FRANCIS, Capt. J. T. 5th L.I. qual. as surveyor.

FULLER, Lieut. J. A. engr. to be 1st lieut. fr. Feb. 15, v. North, prom.

GOLDIE, Lieut. R. 27th N.I. ret. to du. Nov. 10, 1853.

GRANT, Lieut. E. 3rd N.I. to be capt. fr. April 1, in suc. to Agar, ret.

GRAY, Lieut. W. sub. asst. commy. gen. at Shalapore, to assume ch. of the commissariat and bazar dep. at Ahmednuggur, April 3.

HANCOCK, Lieut. Col. H. adj. gen. to proc. with C.-in-C. to the Dekhan.

HARDY, Lieut. 1st L.C. to act as line adj. at Neemuch, dur. abs. of Capt. G. A. Leckie, offic. maj. of brig. to the Rajpootana field force, March 30.

HARDY, Lieut. E. A. 1st L.C. to be capt. fr. Nov. 25, 1852, v. Valiant, ret.

HART, Lieut. P. L. engrs. to be capt. on the augmentation, fr. Feb. 15.

HOLLAND, Lieut. H. W. sub. asst. commy. gen. at Ahmednuggur, to be act. dep. asst. commy. gen. v. Salmon, attach. to dep. commy. gen. office at pres. April 3.

HOLLAND, Lieut. col. J. qr. mr. gen. to proc. C.-in-C. to the Dekhan.

JAMES, Lieut.-col. H. to rank fr. Feb. 17, 1852, v. Roberts, prom.

KEAYS, Ens. C. F. 14th N.I. to be act. 1st cl. commissat. ag.

KEMBALL, Capt. J. S. to act as superint. of pol. at Poona.

KNIGHT, Lieut. T. 16th N.I. to act as interp. to H.M.'s 12th Lt. Drags, dur. abs. of Capt. Fellows, on furl. April 3.

LAURENT, Ens. A. 19th N.I. to do duty with detach. at Poona of 78th Highlanders.

LAWRENCE, Lieut. 12th N.I. attached to the drill detach. to rec. ch. of the details at Mahableshtar, April 1.

LOUIS, Cadet J. to do duty right wing 1st Eur. fus. to join.

LUCAS, Capt. A. W. sub. asst. commy. gen. at Bombay, to assume ch. of the commissariat and bazar dep. at Nusseerabad, Apr. 3.

LUMSDEN, Ens. W. to do duty with 4th N.I. at Poona, to join at expiration of leave, April 1.

MACAN, Lieut. col. H. 24th N.I. to be a brig. of 2nd class, fr. April 16, v. Stach.

MARSH, Lieut. E. N. 18th N.I. to rank fr. Feb. 17, in suc. to James, pro.

MAYNE, Cornet A. G. posted to 1st L.C. to rank fr. Sept. 20, 1833, v. Sherwood, pro.

MAYOR, Capt. F. inv. estab. ret. to du. March 25, perm. to reside and rec. his pay at any station under pres. of Bombay.

MCCNEIL, Lieut. J. 3rd Eur. reg. ret. to du. March 25.

MERRIMAN, Ens. C. J. engr. to rank as 2nd lieut. in reg.

MIGNON, Lieut. T. P. 1st class commis. agent at Bombay, to assum. ch. of the commiss. and bazaar duties at Sakkar, April 3.

MILLAR, Capt. J. G. sub. asst. comm. gen. at Sukkur, to assume ch. of the commiss. and bazaar duties at Hyderabad, April 3.

MORRIS, Ens. S. G. 13th N.I. to rejoin his corps.

NORTH, Lieut. C. F. engr. to be capt. on the augmentation, fr. Feb. 15.

PARA, Lieut. col. T. C. 6th N.I. to be brig. of 2nd class, v. Woodburn, prom.

PARTRIDGE, Maj. S. H. 18th N.I. to rank fr. Feb. 17, 1852, in suc. to James, prom.

PITTMAN, Lieut. H. horse brig. to join 4th tr. at Deesa, forthwith, March 27.

ROBERTS, Col. H. G. to rank fr. Feb. 17, 1852, v. Taylor, dec.

SALMON, Capt. W. B. dep. asst. commy. gen. at Nusseerabad, to be act. commy. gen. v. Fraser, proc. to Deesa, April 3.

SELLON, Ens. A. S. engrs. to rank as 2nd lieut. in regt. fr. Feb. 15.

SHERWOOD, Cornet R. S. 1st L.C. to be lieut. fr. July 26, 1853, v. Farquharson, dec.

SHORTT, Lieut. A. Y. to be 3rd asst. to pol. agent, in Katteewar.

SKINNER, Lieut. col. R. H. judge adv. gen. to proc. with C.-in-C. to the Dekhan.

SMEE, Lieut. col. W. N. T. 7th N.I. to be brig. of 2nd class, v. Brown, prom.

SOADY, Ens. J. R. engrs. to rank as 2nd lieut. in regt. fr. Feb. 15.

STACK, Lieut. col. M. C. B. 2nd L.C. perm. to resu. his command fr. April 16.

STOCK, Capt. T. asst. adj. gen. to proc. with C.-in-C. to the Dekhan.

TAVERNER, Lieut. E. L. 20th N.I. qual. as surveyor.

TAYLOR, Capt. 5th N.I. to act as interp. dur. abs. of Lieut. Boodle, Mar. 31.

THACKER, Capt. 9th N.I. to act as Fort adj. at Surat, dur. abs. of Lieut. Piers, and commissariat agent at Surat dur. abs. of Lieut. Piers, Mar. 30.

THOYTS, Lieut. N. B. 21st N.I. replaced at disposal of C.-in-C.

TREVELYAN, Maj. H. W. to be pol. agt. in Mahee Kanta, and to contin. to act as pol. ag. in Kutch.

TREVOR, Lieut. J. S. engrs. to be 1st Lieut. on the augmentation for Feb. 15.

TYRWORTH, Lieut. G. B. 5th L.I. joined his app. as dep. coll. in Scinde, Mar. 18.

WALLACE, 5th N.I. to act as qr. mr. dur. abs. of Lieut. Boodle, Mar. 31.

WILKINSON, 2nd Lieut. H. E. 1st Eur. fus. to join head qrs. of regt. at Aden.
 WILKINS, Lieut. H. St. engrs. to be 1st lieut. on the augmentation for Feb. 15.
 WOODBURN, Brig. A. to be a brig. of 1st cl. v. Cavare; to proc. and join con. to which he has been app.
 YOUNGHUSBAND, Ens. G. A. P. 13th N.I. to be adjt. 5th regt. of cav. Punjab irreg. force, v. Paget, prom. March 31.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.

INFANTRY.

BOYD, J. M. March 26. DURAND, A. March 26.
 COTGRAVE, E. C. March 26. WILKINSON, H. E. March 25.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

AGAR, Capt. E. W. supt. of police Ahmedabad, 1 mo. to pres.
 BACON, Lieut. E. A. H. 25th N.I. to May 31.
 BILLAMORE, Lieut. G. R. 2nd Eur. regt. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 BOLTON, Lieut. W. M. S. 2nd gr. N.I. to April 30, in ext.
 BOYD, Lieut. M. 11th N.I. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 BOURDILLON, Capt. C. 25th N.I. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 BRYANS, Ens. J. W. 22nd N.I. 3 yrs. to Europe.
 BUCHANAN, Lieut. W. 3rd Eur. regt. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 CRISPIN, Ens. J. B. 4th N.I. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 GOLDIE, Lieut. R. 27th N.I. fr. April 9 to May 15, in ext. to Dapoolie.
 GORDON, Lieut. J. 1st N.I. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 GRAHAM, Lieut. J. 2nd N.I. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 GRAY, Capt. W. B. 26th N.I. to May 15.
 HEATHORN, 2nd Lieut. T. B. art. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.; and 18 mo. to Europe on m.c. under new regulations.
 HOBART, Lieut. Hon. W. W. 3rd Eur. reg. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres. 3 yrs. to Eur. m.c.
 HOLT, Lieut. J. M. 20th N.I. April 14 to May 14.
 KENDALL, Lieut. W. exec. eng. at Surat, to April 31, to rem. at Bombay.
 LAING, Capt. J. 27th N.I. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 LE GEY, Corn. P. H. 3rd L.C. to May 14, in ext.
 MACKINTOSH, Ens. J. E. A. 3rd Eur. reg. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 MACNEIL, Lieut. J. 3rd Eur. reg. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 MASON, Lieut. W. H. 3rd. N.I. 1 mo. fr. April 1, in ext. to rem. at Mahebleswur, on m.c.
 MCPHERSON, Lieut. W. E. 3 yrs. to Eur. m.c.
 RICHARDS, Capt. R. 3rd N.I. 2 mo. fr. March 7, to Deesa.
 ROBERTSON, Lieut. J. F. 28th N.I. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 SCOTT, Lieut. C. 1st asst. of roads, 1 mo.
 SMITH, Lieut. J. D. 6th N.I. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 STACK, Lieut. col. M. C. B. to Eur. on furl.
 THOYTS, Lieut. N. B. 21st N.I. 4 mo. fr. Feb. 1.
 WARREN, Lieut. W. B. 20th N.I. fr. April 14 to June 16, to Bombay.
 WRAY, Capt. E. art. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BATTERSBEE, Vet. surg. trans. fr. the 2nd to the 3rd L.C. Mar. 29.
 HARRIS, Asst. surg. 9th N.I. to rec. med. ch. of detach. of art. fr. Asst. surg. Lawrence.
 HOSKEN, Surg. to act as interp. to 15th N.I. fr. Jan. 25.
 LAMB, Vet. surg. trans. fr. 3rd to the 2nd L.C. March 29.
 MACKENZIE, Asst. surg. J. M. ret. to duty, March 25.
 PITMAN, Asst. surg. H. civ. surg. Tanna, to assume med. ch. of the left wing, 16th N.I. March 30.
 STRATTON, Asst. surg. attach. to 17th N.I. to act as res. surg. dur. abs. of Davey, on m.c. March 31.
 VON LIEBEG, Asst. surg. J. H. P. attach. to Eur. gen. hospital at pres. to join.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BATTERSBEE, Vet. surg. E. 2nd Lt. cal. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 BRASSEY, Capt. W. 2nd Eur. L.I. to Aug. 31, in ext.
 DAVEY, Asst. surg. W. 17th N.I. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 MACKENZIE, Asst. surg. J. M. to April 30, in ext. to rem. at pres.
 MCALISTER, Asst. surg. leave canc.
 PEET, Asst. surg. J. leave cancelled.
 TRESTRAIL, Asst. surg. J. C. 11th N.I. to April 30, on m. c.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BRABNER, Volunt. J. arr. March 29, to join the Hastings.
 CATTLEY, Mids. A. C. of the Auckland, perm. to resign, fr. Apr. 5.
 DICKSON, Lieut. to join the Hastings, April 10.
 HELLARD, Lieut. S. B. 3 yrs. furl. to Europe, on m.c.

HEWETT, Mids. released fr. arrest, and transf. fr. the Hastings to the Falkland, April 10.

JENKINS, Com. G. 3 yrs. furl. to Europe.

WALTER, J. J. to be act. mast. and to join the Hastings, April 5.

WILLIAMS, Purser H. of the Auckland, perm. to reside on shore.

YATES, Mids. of the Hastings, perm. to reside on shore, fr. Apr. 6.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MARCH 28.—Tigris, Dakers, Bushire; John Adam, More, Calcutta; Warren White, Towne, Aden; steamer Queen, Young, Aden; Result, Cow, London.—28. Futtay Sultan, John McQueen, Singapore; Penang, Julia, Rowe, Mauritius; Shaw Allum, Wadge, Mauritius.—29. Sultana, Dumayne, Calcutta, Allepee; steamer Ajdaha, Barker, Kurrachee; Arrarat, Cochrane, Calcutta; Chrysolite, Enright, Liverpool; Port Durand, Odin, Cape of Good Hope.—30. Bank of England, Davidson, London; Cochbin, Banker's Daughter, Pace, Australia; Quintin Leitch, Warden, Greenock.—31. Queen Margaret, Spence, Sydney.
 APRIL 1.—Sagof, Lugin, Calcutta.—2. Steamer Noonia, Black, Hong-kong, Singapore, Penang, and Galle; Gauntlet, Inglis, Melbourne.—3. Eliza Perrie, Pearson, Aden; steamer Feroze, Drought, Suez.—10. Eden, Bristow, London; Duke of Wellington, Campbell, Aden.—11. Angelina, Blandin, Point de Galle; America, Perrie, Aden.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Result (March 26), from LONDON.—Capt. and Mrs. Mayor, Miss Bell, Miss Stevens, Miss Samuel, Mr. Loudon, Mr. Wilkinson, Lieut. McNeill, Dr. McKenzie, Mr. Rogers.
 Per Tigris (March 26), from BUSHIRE.—Lieut. J. P. Anderson, I.N.
 Per Queen Margaret (March 31), from SYDNEY.—John Cropton.
 Per Bank of England (March 30), from LONDON and COCHIN.—Lieut. Robertson; James Walter, Esq.; C. F. Nepean, Esq.; James Brobner, Esq.; Mrs. Benson and 2 children.
 Per Quentin Leitch (March 30), from GREENOCK.—Mrs. Warden.
 Per Sagof (April 1), from CALCUTTA.—Mrs. Lugin.
 Per Norma (April 2), from HONG-KONG, &c.—Mr. Grant, Mr. C. James, Mr. J. Pennell, Mr. M. Libbey, Mr. J. Elliott, and J. Hubebhoy.
 Per Gauntlet (April 2), from MELBOURNE.—Mrs. Strong.
 Per Victoria, from KURRACHEE.—Lieut. Walah, Dr. Kaye, Lieut. Naylor, Assist. surg. Hewlett, 1st fus.; W. Nassmann, Esq.; Mrs. Gain, Mrs. Reid and 2 children.
 Per Angelina (April 11), from POINT DE GALLE.—Mr. Le Compte.
 Per Mount Stuart Elphinstone. Capt. and Miss Ager, Wm. Ireland Esq.; per steamer Feroze, April 3, from Suez.

DEPARTURES.

MAR. 28. Pauline, Richard, Batavia.—31. Steamer Ajdaha, Barker, Persian Gulf.—APR. 1. Steamer Pottinger, Stead, Gall, Penang, Singapore and Hong Kong; Hero of the Nile, Hunt, Calicut and London.—2. Norton, Bristow, London.—3. Lutchny, Kesajee, Colombo.—4. Jansettee Jejeebhoy, Fitzmaurice, Whampoa; Courser, Day, Canton; Roscoe, Cleuents, Liverpool.—5. William Stevenson, Williams, Liverpool; Jumna, Conway, Liverpool; Niobe, Evans, Canton.—8. Steamer Bombay, Beyts, Kurrachee.—10. Cathaya, Winder, Whampoa; Royal Sovereign, Haunay, Liverpool.—14. Steamer Queen.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Victoria, to KURRACHEE.—Capt. and Mrs. Younghusband, Capt. Saunders, Lieut. Hutchinson, Assist. surg. Hewlett, Mrs. Saunders and child.
 Per ship Pauline (March 28), to BATAVIA.—Mr. and Mrs. Gaspar and 2 children, Mrs. Litchfield and infant, Mr. Johannes Amir, Mr. C. M. Nahapiet.
 Per Ajdaha (March 3), to PERSIAN GULF.—Mirza Hoosen Khan, the Persian Consul.
 Per Pottinger (April 1), to GALLE, &c.—Capt. and Mrs. Mayne, Capt. Clascott, C. D. Leggatt, Esq.; Capt. and Mrs. Hall, Mr. Rogers, Mr. McQueen, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Macindoe, Mr. Parnell, Mr. Hajee Jacree Mahomed, H. M. Baker, Nemaice.
 Per Norton (April 2), to LONDON.—Mrs. Southey, 5 children, and a servant; Lieut. Hill.
 Per Courser (April 4), to CANTON.—Mr. Rogers, to Calicut.
 Per Bombay (April 8), to KURRACHEE.—T. C. Robertson, Esq.; Lieut. Cheshire.
 Per steamer Queen (April 14), to SUEZ.—Lieut. Beeher, 43rd Bengal Lt. Infantry; Mrs. Gune, Rev. T. A. C. Firminger, Lieut. T. B. Heathorn, Assist. surgs. J. B. Fleming, R. D. Luard, Esq., C. S.; Lieut. C. Cameron, and a gentleman.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

DAVEY, wife of Assist. surg. s. at Colaba, March 30.
 DAY, wife of Lieut. H. 19th N.I. s. at Bombay, April 6.
 GONSALVES, wife of D. s. at Colaba, March 9.
 MENESSE, Mrs. C. d. at Byculla, April 12.

MARRIAGES.

EYRE, Capt. T. 3rd L.C. to Annie, d. of the Rev. R.B. Eyre, at Byculla.
 MILES, T. W. to Miss P. Anne Petters, at Kurrachee, May 30.
 RYAN, P. to Miss Mary E. McFadden, at Byculla, April 3.

DEATHS.

GRAVES, inf. s. of Capt. 3rd L.C. at Nusseerabad, aged 1 March 28.
 WALTER, Mary, wife of A. at Mazagon, aged 32, April 11.
 WING, J. at Bombay, aged 26, March 22.

COMMERCIAL.

Bombay, April 14, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

5 per cent. transfer loan ..	Rs. 111 for Nos. regist.
	for trans. p. 100 Sa.
5 Do. do. 1841-42 ..	Rs. 99½ Co.'s
4 Do. do. 1832-33 ..	Rs. 105½ p. 100 Sa.
4 Do. do. 1835-36 ..	Rs. 99½ p. 100 Co.
4 Do. do. 1842-43 ..	Rs. 99½ do.

PRICES OF BULLION.

Sovereigns, each .....	Rs. 10-1½ 16th. noml.
Bank of England Notes, per £.....	10½ noml.
Spanish Dollars, per 100 .....	232
German Crowns ..	218
Sycee Silver, per 100 tolas .....	104½ to 104½
Gold Leaf, per tola, range of quality .....	16 5-16ths
Gold Ingots, according to touch, per tola ....	15½

BANK SHARES.

Bombay Bank.....	Rs. 1,000 each 1,000 pd. up 31 p.ct. pm. sales
Oriental Bank.....	250 each 250 do. 82 sales.
Commercial Bank ..	1,000 each 500 do. 24
Agra Bank .....	500 each 500 do. 45 noml.
Bank of Madras ....	1,000 each 1,000 do. 13 p. ct. pm.
Apollo Press Com....	12,500 each 12,000 do. 19,000
Colaba Press Com....	7,000 each 7,000 do. 5,750
Colaba Land Com....	10,000 each 10,000 do.
Bombay S. N. Com. ..	510 each 400 do. 58 p. ct. dis.
Gr. Ind. P. R. Com. ..	12 Rs. prem. each share.—Sales.

EXCHANGES.

On London—at
6 months' sight, per rupee, 2s. 1d. 3-16ths.	For doc. bills.
6 .. .. 2s. 0d. 15-16ths to 2s. 1d.	For cred. bills.
On Calcutta at 60 days' sight, per 100....	98 to 98½
..... 30 days' sight .....	99½
..... at sight .....	99 5-16ths.

FREIGHTS.

Our quotations are, to London and Liverpool, £4. 5s.; China, per candy, Rs. 21.

IMPORTS (Bombay, April 14, 1854).—Since last report, transactions have been but limited. Grey Long Cloth.—These cloths are scarce, and from the small arrivals of late they are in steady demand, and will remain saleable for some time. Grey Cambrics.—These goods are inquired for, about 1,700 pieces 45 inch reported sold at Rs. 3½. Grey Mulls.—The demand is good, and these cloths seem scarce. Bleached Jaconets, up to Rs. 4½ are still in good demand, and wanted; beyond that there is still little inquiry. Bleached Mulls.—The ordinary qualities are still in fair demand; for the finer qualities there have latterly been more inquiry, they seem wanted. Metals.—Iron still remains steady at our former quotations. Copper has experienced a decline of 8 ans. per cwt.

CEYLON.

THE LONDON MAIL of March 8th arrived at Point de Galle April 9 (per Bengal), and the Pottinger left on the 10th with the Mails for China.

THE PEARL FISHERY.—All that we have heard since our last confirms the statement then made, as to the certainty of a pearl fishery in the bay of Condaty in 1855. There are, we believe, two rather extensive banks on which the oysters are found to be approaching the proper age of six years. After seven, it has been proved the oyster dies, opens, and is drifted away. We regret, however, for the sake of the public, as well as out of regard for our brother of the Times, that no profitable deposit of pearl oysters can be found off Mount Lavinia.—Observer, March 23.

CHINA.

THE LONDON MAIL of Jan. 24th arrived at Hong Kong March 12th (per Singapore). The subsequent Mail of Feb. 8th arrived at Hong Kong March 27 (per Ganges).

MARCH 25.—The Ceylon papers, just received, announce the arrival of the China mail to the 23rd ult. The most important item of intelligence was that of the arrival at Shanghai of the Russian steamer Vostock, with the news of the Russian ambassador having had an interview with the Japanese authorities, and obtained a promise from them, that the trade of Japan should be open to all the world within a year. The American squadron had not returned. It will be a great disappointment to our cousins, to find themselves anticipated in the honour that they had hoped would have resulted from their demonstration. The civil war in China was still going on, but nothing material had occurred. The "fierce fight" at Shanghai had terminated in the "usual futile result."

ATTACK ON AN AMERICAN PILOT BOAT.—On Monday evening, about dusk, as Mr. Ayer's pilot boat, flying the American flag, was coming up the reach, one of the tautas's vessels, the Clown, fired a shot at her. The boat, in which was Mr. Linklater and six Chinese, was soon hailed round under the Compton, and the officer on board ordered the Chinese sailors up on deck, and had them tied up to the mainmast, but allowed Mr. Linklater to go away, after having overhauled the boat. As soon as Mr. Ayer was informed of this proceeding, he laid his complaint before the U.S. consul, who referred him to Capt. Kelly, and he accordingly went on board the U. S. ship Plymouth; and Capt. Kelly, upon hearing of the assault, very promptly manned a boat, which was placed under the command of Lieut. Guest, who proceeded immediately to the Sir Herbert Compton and asked for the captain, who was not to be found. At last a Portuguese on board the Compton said he was in command; and Mr. Guest at once demanded "how he dared to make prisoners of men under the American flag?" and demanded their release. The Portuguese replied he did not do it, and that he had no authority to set them free. Whereupon Lieut. Guest ordered his men to board, which was done with the greatest alacrity; they cut the prisoners from the mainmast, where they had been tied by the hair. It was observed at this moment that some men on the poop of the vessel were levelling their muskets at the American officer and Mr. Linklater, who accompanied him. Mr. Guest very energetically levelled his revolver at the Portuguese, telling him that on the first shot being fired he would blow his brains out. The Portuguese, in great alarm, immediately ordered his men to desist,—the crew and boat were then taken off without further hindrance. There is no plea offered for this gross insult to the American flag, except that the boat had some shot on board, which it is in the habit of carrying for ballast.

Mr. Murphy, the U. S. consul, in correspondence with the tautas on this subject, has laid down the doctrine that, under no pretence whatever, shall property or persons, while under the protection of the U. S. flag, be molested by the Chinese authorities with impunity. But if any claim is supposed by them to exist against persons or property under the U. S. flag, the complaint must be made to him, the only person known in the treaty to have the power of settlement. The promptitude with which the U. S. consul and Captain Kelly attended to this complaint, and the energy with which Mr. Guest carried out his instructions, which were of a very delicate and difficult nature, are very praiseworthy, and we hope will check the insolent bearing of those in command of the ex-tautas's ships, who are frequently firing, on some frivolous pretences, upon boats passing up and down the river.—North China Herald, March 11.

BIRTH.

WATSON, wife of Dr. T. B. s. at Macao, March 16.

MARRIAGE.

ODELL, Rev. M. C. to Elizabeth, d. of J. Hingston, at Victoria, March 21.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MARCH 11. Pekin, Grainger, Calcutta.—13. Singapore, Rogers, Bombay.—13. Rose Ellis, Loony, Portsmouth.—15. Sweepstakes, Lane, San Francisco.—16. Wild Pigeon, Hanson, San Francisco; Pernia, Cook, San Francisco.—19. Coronation, Stockdale, San Francisco.—20. Vincennes, Ringgold, Sydney.—22. Levant, Cooper, Pacific Ocean.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per steamer Pekin (March 11), from CALCUTTA.—Messrs. O. Gassett, Curdrow, and B. D. Stewart.
Per Mazeppa.—Mr. De Castro.
Per steamer Singapore (March 12), from BOMBAY.—Mr. and Mrs. Mann, Lieut. Carey, Messrs. R. D. Sassoon, A. D. Sassoon, C. Bomanjee, McLane, Le Roy, Carr, Wright, and Buissonet.
Per Eamont.—Messrs. Crosby, Meadows, and Norris.
Per Island Queen.—Mr. Walsh and Mr. Sam Whiting.
Per steamer L. M. Wood.—Messrs. Lawson, Nye, Percival, Gilman, and Capt. Chape.
Per Audax.—Messrs. Marsh and Murphy.
Per steamer Jorge Juan.—Don Juan de Dias Valera and Son, Don Miguel Cezar, Don Casemiro F. Bertolucci and wife.

DEPARTURES.

MARCH 11.—Helena, Cave, New York.—12. Abbott, Ferguson, London.—15. Shanghai, Paterson, Calcutta.—30. Mischief, Thompson, San Francisco.—22. Lime, Haddon, Port Phillip.—24. Steamer Singapore, —, Galle.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Singapore (March 24), to GALLE.—For SOUTHAMPTON. Messrs. T. T. Meadows, A. Petal, Hulme Jr. and T. Findlay.—For ALEXANDRIA. Messrs. P. Polo, J. K. Guichard, Francisco Calderon, Don Juan de Dias Valera and Son, Don Miguel Cezar.—For SUZ. Mr. G. F. Noyes.—For BOMBAY. Mr. and Mrs. Spens.—For SINGAPORE, Don Casemiro F. Bertolucci and Wife, and Sr. Pedro Nolasco da Silva.

COMMERCIAL.

China, March 27, 1854.

EXCHANGES AND BULLION.

On England, Bills, 5s. 1½d.

On India Company's Accepted, Rs. 241 to 243 per 100 doll.

FREIGHTS.

To England, £6 10s. to £7. To the United States, 20 dolls.

NIZAM'S DOMINIONS.

Our Hyderabad correspondent writes as follows, the 15th March:—

"The resident saw the Nizam the other day. Authentic reports of the conference are not yet abroad. The best information, that which I select from many rumours, is that he presented his highness with an epitome of the proceedings taken in the conduct of the Arab Chaous (sous-lieutenant) Tabith or Sabith, who fired from the walls of the suburbs of Aurungabad on Major Mayne's force, when assaulting Eswantpoora; and he took the occasion to convey advice that must be considered both friendly and salutary, inasmuch as he endeavoured to impress him with a wholesome dread of the consequences to his sovereignty, that must result from licentious foreign troops being allowed to control his government, and prevail against his authority. What I do hear, however, authentically, is that the minister has expressed his satisfaction at the tone, the manner, and the good sense of Mr. Bushby's expostulations.

"To preclude mistakes, and to obviate misapprehensions in regard to what I state, it is necessary to observe that I know as well as others do, that the minister was not present at the first part of the conference between his highness and the resident. If it be said, in disqualification of my information—How then came the minister to form an opinion upon the subject of the conference?—my only answer is, that I have stated a fact.

"The Nizam is at length relieved from Sultan Galib, after a resistance of about fifteen days to the repeated mandates of his highness that he should withdraw his Arab guards from the guard-room of the palace; he has at length retired, is considered finally dismissed, and has received the greater part of his demand, though the muster of his troops, which indeed is a mere farce, has not yet been completed. He is not, that I understand, expelled the country; and a report is abroad, not to be discredited merely on the ground of its extravagance, that the opulent Buddun Khan has offered to take him, for two years certain, into his service, at the head of 600 of his discharged Arabs.—Buddun Khan can have but one object in this levying of troops; and I scarcely know whether there would be more policy in arresting his movement, or in letting him, by his overt acts, reap the full measure of his deserts.

"There is some pressure upon the Nizam's government to carry out the punishment of the Uzabec. This I conclude from the circumstance, that there is some negotiation with him on the part of the Nizam's government to get him to submit to his exile." —Englishman.

MALACCA.

Advices received from Malacca mention that the Governor of the Straits Settlement has received order from the Government of India to postpone the construction of the Screw Pile Lighthouse on the Two-and-half Fathoms Bank, in the Straits of Malacca, until the return of the Government surveyor, Mr. Thomson, from England.—Englishman.

WILD SPORTS OF THE EAST.—We have lately seen one of a party of three military gentlemen who have just returned from a trip of some six weeks to the east of the island. Their bag was filled with ninety-one elephants (three of them tuskless), a young elephant (taken alive), forty wild buffaloes, four bears, twenty-seven deers of various kinds, and other animals, making a total of 180 heads. This feat is, we believe, unparalleled in the history of Ceylon sport.—Ceylon Times. [What sort of bag must it have been to contain all the above?]

NEWS IN LESS THAN NO TIME.—A telegraphic message despatched from Benares at twenty minutes past eight last evening was received at the office in Agra at eight o'clock.—Agra Messenger. [This feat, we suppose, has never been approached except by the famed Irishman, who left St. Paul's at eight o'clock precisely, and arrived at the Horse-guards at five minutes before eight. Eight seems the fated hour.]

** Should any delay or irregularity occur in supplying this paper, a communication of the fact to the Publishers will insure a remedy.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL,

LONDON.

FRIDAY, May 19, 1854.

WHAT OF THE CHINESE SYSTEM?

PERHAPS some of our readers occasionally feel inclined to ask this question. If they study the Commons' debates, they may within the last few days have found a little satisfaction—information we mean—on the subject. The Chinese system of forcing plants for Hailebury is under the consideration of the committee whose names were given some time since, who, it should seem, find some difficulty in coming to a decision, as well they may. But a decision we are to have some time or other, and during the year 1855 we are to know something practically of the fruits of this wonderful system. Crude and sour enough they will no doubt be; but competition is the fashion, and we must submit to a temporary employment of it, though possibly temporary only. What father one degree in mental capacity above the animal that chews the thistle, will spend a small fortune in educating his son, not to bring him up to a certain test, which, if he pass, he will obtain an appointment, but to prepare him for a contest where the chances against him cannot even be calculated, where no measure of acquirement can insure success, because, however great it may be, another candidate, more showy or more impudent, may carry off the prize; where, even if merit invariably succeeded, which it will not, the probability being rather the other way, no one in any given year could have any just or reasonable ground for hope, because from year to year those who come up in competition will necessarily vary in qualification, and especially in confidence, and he who would have been the best man in one year will be passed by altogether in another, through the apparently higher claims of his rivals. Then what is to become of the rejected candidates! Their situation will be worse than that of the aspirants to any other profession. No man who reads fairly for the Church will fail of obtaining an entrance to it. No man who works hard at the preliminary studies, need be disappointed of the degree of M.D., the diploma of the Royal College of Surgeons, or that of the worshipful Company of Apothecaries. No man, whatever the depth of his ignorance, if he possess a tolerable character and a good appetite, is ever excluded from the bar. If a man be refused orders, it is always for some sufficient reason. If no respectable university or college will grant him a title to kill the Queen's subjects secundum artem, it is because he is an idler or a dunce; and even at the worst, there are universities which, without inquiry, sell diplomas at so cheap a rate, that such distinctions are not only attainable by "the meanest capacities," but can almost be commanded by the lowest purses,—vide Times, Chronicle, &c. A candidate for an Indian appointment will therefore be in a worse position than he who seeks access to any other liberal profession. Desirable as is such appointment, a youth who shall voluntarily come forward to contend for it will show that he is a youth indeed, while the seniors who shall encourage him will but furnish fresh illustrations of a truth pretty well known, that white hairs do not always bring to the head which they cover the gifts of prudence and common sense. The wildest railway speculation that ever tempted men to disappointment and ruin, is nothing to the scheme of competition for Indian appointments. To say nothing of the wearying anxiety, the crushed hopes, and the bitter regrets involved, there is a consideration which has scarcely received the attention which it deserves. Will the plan work? We do not inquire whether it will work well or ill, but will it work at all? The fourfold nomination was obliged to be abandoned;—what if the present plan should follow it to the tomb of the Capulets, or of the crotchets? Where are the candidates to come from? Not from the middle classes, for men with moderate means will, for the most part, naturally be cautious as to throwing any part of their away: not from the upper classes,—and it is not desirable that exclusively they should,—for men of rank are not always men of money, and when they are, it may be presumed they will not be disposed to throw it away: then for the humbler classes, among whom it might occasionally be thought that some precocious Jack or Bob was a marvellously clever fellow, who would carry all before him if he had but the opportunity, how is the opportunity to be attained, where money is one of the chief sinews of the educational campaign, no less than of that warfare in which part of Europe is now engaged? One thing, indeed, may pretty safely be predicted. Those who plunge their sons into this vortex of competition, will in general be unprincipled and reckless men. A broken-down gambler makes a dashing speculator, if he can raise the money to pay the deposit required; he knows that, come what may, he cannot be much worse, and so he boldly throws, although the odds against his success be “Lombard Street to a China orange.” So thoughtless men, who can by hook or by crook raise the money to pay the cost of a cram, will make an experiment upon which few beside will venture. It may therefore be fairly concluded that the future administrators of India will be inferior men to those who have hitherto carried on the machinery of government there—inferior, we mean, in respectability; and by respectability we do not mean rank or wealth, but something beyond, and far more valuable. But the year 1855 is approaching, and then we are promised such a sight as was never seen before. We are to have our pick from all the talent in the country, if it will but come to market. But what temptation is there to bring sound goods, when it is certain that a large portion will be returned on the vender's hands as unsaleable? The few candidates who, for some reason or for none, have the good fortune to be enlisted to do “the statesome service,” will have reason to exclaim, “There is nothing like luck;” while the East-India Company, which will have to bear the burden of the “hard bargains,” will find it difficult to appropriate to their melancholy case any apothegm, or to derive comfort from any “wise saws.” “The law allows it,” and therefore the remainder of Shylock's declaration, “the Court awards it,” must follow.

The march of competition in the present day is over not only all that is reasonable, but over all that is venerable. “Dead men tell no tales,” and they feel no wrongs; nor, if they felt any, could they complain. It is well that consciousness of what is passing on this earth is denied to them. The hand of spoliation is in this day raised against endowments munificently given by men long asleep in their tombs, to the cause of sound and liberal learning. A part of these benefactors of their species directed that, in the distribution of their noble gifts, certain preferences should be given, sometimes to the “founder's kin,”—and who can have a better claim?—sometimes to particular localities, as towns, parishes, counties, or dioceses. If these preferences were merely capricious, what then? A man is not obliged to bequeath money to public purposes, and if his generous spirit urge him to do so, he has an undoubted right to attach to his bequest any condition that may please him; and whatever the conditions may be, unless they are either contrary to God's law or utterly impracticable, they ought to be held sacred. All but the most brutal nations, or the most brutal spirits in nations called civilized, have respected the dead. Now here in England their lawful injunctions are apparently about to be dealt with as an old, used up, dirty, dog-eared copy-book, and this by what Lord Brougham once termed “the noblest assembly of freemen in the world.” Oxford is to be purified by the sacrifice of the deliberately expressed intentions of the men who made it what it is. There is only one way in which deeds like these can be justly characterized, and as the measure in which it is proposed to give them effect has not yet become law, we may resort to it. They are neither more nor less than acts of violence, plunder, rapine. If such may be perpetrated, what security does any man in the kingdom possess for the property which he has inherited from his ancestors? Why may not a slice of the Duke of Sutherland's estates be taken for some supposed public good, or partners be admitted into the Duke of Devonshire's domains? Why may not a successor not in the line of inheritance be named for the broad acres of the Earl of Leicester? If confiscation is to begin, who shall prescribe its limits? Such proceedings tend to shake the security of all the property in the kingdom. It is upon the respect paid to the rights of property that a large part of our national greatness is based. But if we may transfer property solemnly settled ages ago, to some unknown John Noakes or Thomas Stiles thus lightly, why may we not go one step further, and regulate the property of private families? If among them there be any sharp ones, give them “the lion's share;” as for the rest, though they may claim under wills or settlements, wills and settlements are obsolete things, or at least it is obsolete to regard their provisions in even the slightest degree. Once, indeed, they were held as something, but the “new generation” has changed all that; the documents on which you rely are but old parchment and waste paper; take them to the dealers in those articles and get what you can for them,—the property is gone, and the muniments might as well follow it. There is not much cause to apprehend that the good deeds of our ancestors should ever be repeated under any circumstances; but if imitation were probable, such a measure as the confiscation of existing endowments would be a death-blow to the hope of it. Looking at the matter in a utilitarian point of view (the lowest in which it can be looked at), we may ask who hereafter would give of his store to the encouragement of learning, with the prospect of some future Legislature seizing the property which he might have bequeathed to whomsoever he pleased, and diverting it to other objects than those which he desired to effect?

Words govern mankind for a while ; but the influence of the same words never lasts long. "Liberty, equality, and fraternity," have had their day. Competition is now the favourite, and it is doing its work pretty briskly. No wonder, seeing that it flies at high game, it should not pass over the East-India Company, an object for attack to every peddling politician, to every noble dullard, to every overgrown schoolboy who has got words and only wants a theme on which to string them as best he may, and who thinks himself a Burke while his hearers vote him a blockhead. No wonder that the competition system, which is to uproot the growth of ages, should be first tried upon a service which cannot boast such venerable antiquity, but which has produced more able men than ever were produced in the same period of years by any other that the world ever saw. The year 1855 is to be a new era, and thenceforward every India servant is to be possibly a Bacon, but at the very least a Fox, a Pitt, or a Canning. If any man's expectation falls short of this, we say that he has no faith in human perfectibility, which, seeing that it is the fashionable creed of the age, is equivalent to excommunicating him by bell, book, and candle. Dr. Slop could not have been more severe, and we cannot pretend to surpass Dr. Slop.

THE LORDS INVITED TO BECOME INDIAN SCAVENGERS.

Of all the freaks in which India Reformers ever indulged,—and they are sufficiently notorious for whimsicality,—one of the most amusing was brought to a culminating point in the House of Lords on Monday, May the 1st. The Earl of Albemarle rose, and—we understand with a perfectly grave face—presented a petition, alleged to come from certain inhabitants of Calcutta, complaining of the insufficiency of the arrangements made for lighting, draining, and cleaning that city, and praying a remedy at their lordships' hands. We are really serious. A brief report of this strange affair appears in its proper place in our journal ; and if it be deemed incredible that such an incident could be permitted to diversify the usually solemn character of the Lords' proceedings, let the doubters consult the files of the Times, Chronicle, Herald, Post, News, and Advertiser, and if unanimity of report can insure belief, belief will follow. True it is, that business in the House of Lords during the former half of every session is usually but slack ; but that this venerable branch of the Legislature should be called upon to fill up its leisure time by disposing of the filth of an Indian city, was something more startling than any former outbreak of folly from the same quarter. Perhaps an interchange of duties will next be proposed, the British Parliament undertaking to cleanse Calcutta, while the Governor-General in Council shall take in charge the sewage of London, Westminster, and the borough of Southwark. Earl Granville had "too much confidence in the sound judgment of his noble friend to believe that he seriously meant to press the prayer of the petitioners." The noble earl's good nature must have been tremendously drawn upon when he could yield such confidence. The House was equally good-natured, for the petition was not contumaciously kicked out, but was suffered quietly to descend into that limbo whence petitions, after due time for repose, emerge to fulfil the useful purposes to which old parchment may be applied. We do not know who is

Lord Albemarle's tailor ; but it is not unlikely that his lordship, if he live long enough, may be measured with a strip of that identical petition, by the production of which he astonished the noble individuals assembled within Sir Charles Barry's palace at Westminster on the first day of May, 1854. Perhaps the fact of May-day being the chimney-sweeper's holiday, led to its being selected for the presentation of a petition bearing on the occupation of their brother artists the scavengers and mud-larks.

CHINA UPON MANCHESTER.

THE China Mail of 16th March tells us, that "Dr. Bowring's appointment has been received with satisfaction by the Manchester people, and by two, at least, of the leading English journals, metropolitan and provincial,—the Times and the Manchester Guardian." Manchester, indeed, claims to be the metropolis of England, the centre of its intelligence, and the dominant power in the administration of its affairs ; but unlike Goldsmith's mendicant, it does not have its "claim allowed." Its title is questioned by persons who think with Mr. Albert Smith, that the final cause for the existence of man upon this earth is not that he may spin cotton ; but that the woods, the fields, and the waters may give occasional delight to those whose minds are so badly attuned to the harmony of manufacturing life, that they tire of the contemplation of tall smoky chimneys, diseased profligate men, women whom it is impossible for such persons to view without a shudder, and children distorted in body, still more distorted in mind, living in an atmosphere of ribaldry and blasphemy, and becoming adepts therein before they are acquainted with aught beside ; trained up "in the way in which they should not go," and prepared long before the natural development of the passions, to run a career of vice and crime, ending only with the termination of their miserable lives. Such is Manchester in its lower grades. As to the magnates who convert the bodies and souls of their wretched slaves into bags of gold and piles of bank notes, we shall leave the China Mail to deal with them, and we will show how it does deal with them. The learned Knight, Doctor, Commander-in-Chief, and Vice-Admiral made a speech in Manchester, wherein he discoursed de omnibus rebus et quibusdam aliis, and among his multifarious topics, upon the proposed decimal currency, on which, by the way, he states that his views "received a fresh impulse from his experience in China." China is clearly the country which is eventually to subdue the world ; not by its army, but by its proficiencies in the arts and sciences. Greece and Rome will be remembered no more ; China alone will be looked to as the great civilizer, and Sir John Bowring as the prime agent in carrying on its work. First comes competition for employment, sacrificing thousands in true royal style to its progress ; next the decimal currency, which is to set the world to rights by imitating the example of the village functionary who, as related by Sir Walter Scott, gave an unhappy culprit a companion in the stocks, "for the sak of uniformity." But the merits of the polyglot knight have almost caused us to forget Manchester, as well they may. To assist us in returning thereto, we must mention that the China Mail is of opinion that his (the knight's) remarks would not be thrown away upon his audience ; "for," continues our Oriental brother the Guardian, "while it deplores the ignorance about China that generally prevails, excepts Manchester, where, it tells us, the most accurate intelligence obtains." Ahem! we believe that the testimony of a man to his own merits is usually received cum grano; and the organ of Manchester, vaunting the glory of Manchester, must be subjected to the like measure of allowance. But we promised to let the editor of the China Mail deal with these people single-handed, and we will keep our word. What says he, then? Reader, open your eyes, put on your best spectacles, if you decorate your face with such appendages, keep your nerves in check, and behold!—"But for such positive assurance from a good authority, we might have been disposed to doubt the assertion, for there are instances not a few, both commercial and political, that would seem to prove Manchester to be as gullible as the rest of the country, and not always to have profited by expensive lessons." Need we add anything to the judgment of the China Mail? but can we abstain from exclaiming, "Call you this backing of your friends?" Manchester, that claims supremacy in everything, even in the misery and degraded character of its population—this great city, which puts to shame all other cities, ancient or modern, and, like the great Katterfelto, is lost in amazement, "at its own wonders wondering"—Manchester "gullible,"—so says one who does not hold a brief either for or against that den of smoke, which all the rain with which it is deluged cannot wash clean, any more than the "leaven of hypocrisy" with which its great men are impregnated, can make them good ones—Manchester is "gullible."

To the gentleman who thought it worth his while to lecture these "gullibles," we have little at present to say. Thirty or forty years ago he sought distinction by professing an acquaintance with languages of which no one ever heard, and with literature which no one dreamed to exist. After this, if we mistake not, he obtained, though we are not aware that he sought, some notoriety from the memorable "Greek cause." Now he is pursuing the same object by other means. The Chinese have enlightened him on various matters, and he kindly seeks to make his countrymen as Chinese as he can, in order that they may become as well informed as honest, and as just and as gentle as that "singular people," as they are sometimes called; that admirable people, as we suppose Sir John Bowring would call them. We cannot say that we wish him success, for we have an antipathy to all quackery, and more especially to state quackery. We admire the craft of Chinese men no more than the cramped feet of Chinese women. Sir John had better return to his "first love," and amuse himself for the future in making Hungarian ballads.

MILITARY FURLOUGH REGULATIONS.

THERE are persons who know everything by intuition; and we presume it is by some of these that a report has been spread that the orders respecting military furlough, recently passed, were about to be rescinded, at the express desire (to speak in language histrionic) of the Government of India. These enlightened ones, moreover, knew exactly who had a share in the preparation of the said orders, and exactly what that share was. We cannot presume to compete with these omniscient individuals, but we keep our eye upon whatever may be going on in the world which is likely to interest the Indian public. That public is now very large. Few are the families in the upper and middle classes who have not relatives or friends in India; and we hold it to be somewhat worse than folly to set this wide circle on the qui vive for nothing at all. There is no prospect of the new regulations being cast aside, or even subjected to substantial modifications. We do not undertake to assert that no communications on the subject have been made from the Indian to the Home Government; but, if there have been any, we feel certain that they are not of the character represented. As the one Government has never pressed for change, it would be almost idle to say that the other has not yielded to the imaginary pressure,—the ghost of a shadow which never had aught but visionary being, the nature of which, perhaps, the spirit-rappers will investigate. Communications may have taken place, but as the reporters to whom we have alluded are not hidden under the table, like the short-hand writer in the Noctes Ambrosianæ, we take the liberty of denying their pretensions to information. Whatever the real or supposed communications may have been, we feel confident that they involved no matter of principle, but related entirely to points of construction and detail, which, whatever may be the explanation, will not affect the integrity of the rules laid down. We enter into no inquiry whether those rules be good or bad: that is an open question, upon which we offer no opinion. All that we affirm is, that, whether good or bad, they are not at present about to be altered.

PENSIONARY PROVISION FOR THE UNCOVENANTED SERVICE.

ALMOST everybody in India, and many persons in this country, are aware of the conflicting views taken by two sections of the uncovenanted service of Bengal, of a proposed change in regard to pensionary provision. It will be unnecessary to advert to any of the arguments on either side. None who take an interest in the matter will need an exposition of the opinions, either of the memorialists for the proposed change, or of the counter-memorialists who deprecate it. As the pros and cons were nearly balanced, it must have been evident that there was small probability of the Court yielding its assent to the meditated alteration. The number of servants seeking it is indeed very large, but the number opposing it is little inferior. If, therefore, the Court had complied with the wishes of the memorialists in favour of the arrangement sought by them, many would have been gratified, but nearly as many would have been disappointed. It is not surprising, therefore, that the new plan should have been rejected. Whether or not it will be produced again, with such modifications as may remove the objections made to it by a large portion of the service, we of course are unable to say; but if the plan be really valuable, and capable of being relieved of its less popular characteristics, some attempt to improve it will most likely be made; and if such should be the case, it is unnecessary to point out the desirableness of adopting principles that shall give the fund that stability which should be one of the first objects sought for, and without which its existence would be a mockery. The movement, however, will not have been made in vain, whatever may be the ultimate results as to its main purpose. It has led to the concession of a boon to faithful service when extended to extraordinary length. We understand that authority has been given to the Government of India to permit retirement, after thirty-five years' service, on half the average salary of the last five years of the period, and without medical certificate. This at once affords a hope to cheer the labourer on his journey of life, a stimulus to perseverance, a consolation for the period when labour becomes sorrow; and, as the privilege is to be the reward of good service only, a distinction for him who faithfully earns it.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS, MAY 1.

DRAINAGE OF CALCUTTA.

The Earl of Albemarle rose to present a petition from the Trade Association, and other inhabitants of Calcutta, complaining that that city was inefficiently lighted, drained, and cleansed under the Local Municipal Act of 1852; and praying the House to extend to the said city the benefit of municipal institutions similar, as far as practicable, to those enjoyed by towns in the United Kingdom; and to ask the Government what steps they would take to remedy the evils complained of. The noble earl also mentioned the want of provision for the loading and unloading of the 426,000 tons of merchandize which represented the annual trade of Calcutta. There was no excuse for this maladministration, for taxes to the amount of 35,000*l.* were annually levied for municipal purposes, and the position of the town was eminently adapted for cheap and efficient drainage, while coals for a supply of gas might easily be obtained from a distance of not more than 160 miles. The noble earl said that all the remedies which had from time to time been attempted for the evils which he complained of had failed.

Earl Granville had too much confidence in the sound judgment of his noble friend to believe that he seriously meant to press the prayer of the petitioners. He thought a strong feeling was evinced during the debates upon Indian affairs last year, and the government of India must be practically carried on in India itself. It was evident the Governor-General in Council was fully competent to deal with the matter to which the petition referred. With respect to the objection that two of the places at the board appointed under the Act of 1852 were not filled by respectable Europeans, but by natives, that was the very last objection he should have expected to hear from his noble friend. He considered it most advisable that the House should not encroach upon the direct functions of the Governor-General and the Legislative Council of India.

The petition was ordered to lie on the table.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, MAY 8.

CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA.

Mr. D. Seymour asked the President of the Indian Board when the first examination for admission into the civil service of India would take place, and when Government would be able to state what would be the nature of the examinations.

Sir C. Wood said that the first admission practically under the system of open competition would take place in the summer of 1855. A committee was assisting him in preparing regulations as to the nature of the examinations; but they were not yet quite decided upon. Ample notice would be given of the nature of the examination to be undergone.

EXCHANGE.—On the 16th instant, the East-India Company issued notice that their rate of exchange at which they will receive cash for bills on Bengal and Madras, will, from the present date, and until further notice, be 1s. 11½d. the Company's rupee, and for bills on Bombay, 2s. the Company's rupee. This is a reduction of one half-penny the rupee from the late rates.

REINFORCEMENTS FOR INDIA OF H. M.'s TROOPS.—H. M.'s 27th and 35th regiments are about to proceed to India. The 27th will embark at Cork at the end of June, and the following ships have been taken up for its transport. The Charlotte, which will convey about 190, the Southadar 230, the Southampton 300, the Barham 300, the Windsor 180. The above numbers, of course, include women and children. No arrangements are yet made for the transport of the 35th, but it will proceed from London.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

APRIL 27.—Vimeira, Neatby, Sydney.—28. Joshua Fowler, Melbourne; Marathon, Wilson, Bombay; Queen, Payne, Mauritius; Pudgey Dawson, Davis, Shanghai; Camperdown, Denny, and Southampton, Roe, Bengal; William, Milton, China; Bombay, Fletcher, Cochín; Voyager, Piroet, Mauritius; Albemarle, Trivett, Ceylon; Bengal, Brass, Bengal.—29. Enterprise, Forbes, Mauritius; Calabar, Moodie, Bengal; Philo, Golightly, Mauritius; Alfred the Great, Goring, Ceylon; Land of Cakes, Watson, Bengal; Nene Valley, Baldwin, Madras; Belle Vue, Nicol, Ceylon; Rother, Newholm, Algoa Bay; Countess of Seafeld, Innes, Whampoa; Competitor, Sargeant, Mauritius; Abena, Richardson, Hong-Kong; Helen, late Heavyside, Maulmain; Rambler, Heard, Mauritius.—MAY 1. Cupid, Hellyer, Narayana, Wetherburn, and John Bright, Mill, Mauritius; Walter, Norelius, China; K. S. Forbes, Wright, Singapore; Berenice, Wilson, Bengal; Fido, Stebe, Cape; Alliance, Barrick, Ceylon; Canada, Robinson, Bengal; Indian Ocean, Pollock, Bombay; Prince George, Whelan, Maulmain; Marian, Lotby, Tranquebar; Menam, Andrews, Shanghai; Windsor, Tickell, Sydney; Lord Auckland, Thompson, Bombay; Pasha, Kay, Ceylon; Caractacus, Barber, Penang; Christina, Reid, Singapore; Jane Greene, Spence, Ceylon.—2. John Ronilly, Kendall, Mauritius; Antilla, Carr, Singapore; British Queen, Plain, Bombay; Mirzapore, Garnock, Bengal; William Fisher, Craig, Singapore; Springapatam, Gimblett, Bombay; Snow Squall, Bursley, Shanghai; Collingwood, Boyd, Mauritius.—3. Balkan, Wainwright, and Akbar, Joy, Mauritius.—4. H. M. S. Fox, Tarleton, India; Garland, Shalcrow, Bombay.—5. Despatch, Gales, Algoa Bay; Agincourt, Ilyne, Bengal; Polar Star, Walker, Port Phillip.—6. Star of the East, Robertson, Shanghai; Devonshire, Pirley, Mauritius; Marchioness of Londonderry, Williams, Shanghai; London, Marshall, Akrah.—8. Thomas Campbell, Clarke, Bombay; Rookery, Turner, Ceylon; City of Peterborough, Penn, Mauritius; Talmor, Bowie, Maulmain; North Star, Smith, Whampoa; Lady Jocelyn (steamer), Bird, Bengal and Cape; Jane, Henderson, Batavia; Monarch, Wiltshire, Bengal; Princess Royal, Mawson, Bengal.—9. Cannata, Tiltson, Bengal; Arabian, Scerrill, Bombay; Androklos, Brulin, Whampoa; Emma, Freeman, Mauritius.—10. Owen Glendower, Pare, Bombay; Wodan, Mathieson, Batavia; Joseph Fletcher, Foster, Shanghai; Ann Mitchell, Darroch, Bombay; Oriental, Stobo, Bengal; Edwin Fox, Salmon, Bengal; Punjab, Palmer, Bengal; Franklin, Abbot, Mauritius; Clyde, Merdock, Shanghai; Ann Porter, Porten, Mauritius; Rival, Tomlin, Mauritius; Harlequin, Brown, Ceylon.—11. Columbus, Smith, and Rialto, Main, Mauritius; Hotspur, Toybee, Bengal; Lord Ashley, Abbott, Java; Argama, Fitzmorris, Bombay; Armais, Locke, Whampoa.—12. Ambassador, Moore, Eliza Charles, Lewis, and Nautilus, Laws, Mauritius; Thor, Chydenius, Maulmain; Kate Kearney, Rowland, Hong-Kong; Amathu, Robinson, Bengal.—13. Minerva, Lonic, Adelaide, Tremearne, and Chiffain, Bell, Mauritius; Marco Polo, McDonald, Melbourne; Sir Bevois, Appleton, Singapore; Corsipore, Dundas, Bengal.—15. Canute, Barber, Whampoa; Borneo, Sutherland, and William McGowan, Enment, Mauritius; Harriet, McLean, Singapore.—16. Wilberforce, Todd, Mauritius.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED AT SOUTHAMPTON.

Per Lady Jocelyn (May 9).—Maj. and Mrs. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Even and 3 children, Mr. and Mrs. Abadie and 3 children, Mr. G. M. Pirtens, Mrs. Pirtens and child, Mrs. C. B. Wallis and 4 children, Mrs. Christian, Mr. H. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Babbington, Mr. G. Moncrieff, Miss Macrae, Mr. Barlow, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Beauland, Mr. Chase, Mr. Black, Capt. J. M. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford and 2 children, Mr. Benson, Mr. J. S. Rutter, Capt. S. S. Kearney, 10th Hussars; Capt. H. E. Walpole, Lieut. E. Norton, Mrs. McDonnell and 3 children, Mrs. Clarke and 7 children, Mr. Bancroft's 3 children, Col. Der-ville, Rev. E. Sargeant and child, Lieut. Mulden, Mr. Walls, Lieut. Wall, Madame Delme, Mr. G. Robinson, Mr. J. Robinson, Mr. J. May, Maj. Tylden, R. E.; Lieut. Cockburn, 10th rifles; Mr. Wray and child, Maj. Miles, Mr. C. M. Owen, Mr. Newbury, Mr. Buda, Capt. Welsh, 80th regt.; Lieut. Amiel, 80th regt.; Lieut. Christian, Mrs. Tiel and child, Maj. and Mrs. Thomas and child, Mrs. Whittall and 4 children, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Whiting and child, Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson and 4 children, Mr. and Mrs. Wingrove, Lieut. Warden, Mrs. Allen, Lieut. and Mrs. Lambert, Mrs. Threore, Mrs. Jellicoe and infant, Mrs. Harvey, Capt. J. Hickley, Lieut. Woods, Mr. Bowers, Mrs. Barker and 2 children.

PASSENGERS EXPECTED AT SOUTHAMPTON.

Per steamer Ripon, May 23.—Mr. Peld, Mr. Hulme, Mr. Findley, Hon. Mrs. Drummond and 2 children, Mrs. Mottey and 3 children, Dr. and Mrs. Chapman, Lord S. Kerr, Col. Stuart, Mr. Spence, Mr. Nasmith, Mr. Davidson, Hon. Capt. Powys, Capt. Durham, Mr. Stuart, Mr. Brodie, Capt. and Mrs. Manners and child, Lieut. Madden, Capt. West, Lieut. Boldick, Ens. Kerr, Mr. Webb, Mr. Caison, Mr. Randall, Vice Admiral Sir F. Pellew, Mr. Mughford, Lieut. Martin, Lieut. col. St. George, Lieut. Braybrooke, Lieut. Roach, Asst. surg. Pulchur, Mr. Coghill, Mr. Worms, Col. Shelly, Mr. Sims, Mr. Scott, Mr. Fulland, Mrs. Quartley, Capt. Jenkins, Mr. Cassirs, Mr. Tupper, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Lady Pirie, Mrs. West, Dr. Moore.

DEPARTURES.

From the Downs, APRIL 26.—Ballarat, Thickell, Calcutta; Maria, Day, Cape.—29. Thetis, Gregory, Calcutta.—MAY 6. Ocean Queen, Rees, Bombay.—10. Eclipse, Hughes, Mauritius; Oribe, Fowler, Cape.
From LIVERPOOL, MAY 2.—Owen Potter, Banks, Calcutta.—3. Courier, Davison, Galle; Thomas Sparks, Kelly, Bombay; Priscilla, Lindsay, Algoa Bay.—4. Red Jacket, Reed, and Miles Barton, Kelly, Melbourne.—3. San Andres, Julian, Manila.—5. Henry Ware, Dudley, Calcutta.—6. Flag of Truce, Day, Bombay.—9. George Arkle, Hooper, Bombay; Palatine, Parfitt, Bombay.—10. David Harrison, Staring, Hong-Kong.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Simla, from SOUTHAMPTON (May 6), to proceed per steamer HINDOSTAN, from SEERZ, FOR MALTA.—Asst. com. gen. Malassey, Mr. Tolper, Mr. J. Layland, Mr. W. McDowell, Mr. D. Wheeler, Mr. G. Bell, Mr. R. B. Garwood, Mr. H. Cook, Mr. P. Williams, Mr. A. Ford, Capt. and Mrs. Kilvington and child, Mr. Wilberforce, Lieut. col. Cobb, Lieut. Elliott, Surg. Stockley, Surg. Hunter, Mr. Davis, Col. Beaton, Maj. Northey, Maj. Creagh, FOR ALEXANDRIA.—Mr. Northey, FOR SEERZ.—Mr. and Mrs. Whyte and three daughters, Mr. Whyte, jun. Mr. Uttersson, Miss Goolwin, Mrs. Clarkson, Mr. L. S. Bruce, FOR ADEN.—Mrs. Clark, Miss Clark, Mr. L. G. Brown, FOR CAYLON.—Mr. Fulton, Mr. J. Shaw, FOR MADRAS.—Maj. Rowlandson, Miss Rowlandson, Mr. Rowlandson, Mr.

G. Latham, Mr. Beaumont, Mr. H. Murray, Mrs. Spence, Mr. C. Cherry. For CALCUTTA.—Mr. M. Barlow, Mr. E. C. Hennah, Mr. Watson, Mr. J. F. Curtis, Mr. H. W. Gordon, Mr. S. and Mrs. Delpratt, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell. For HONG-KONG.—Mr. E. King, Miss King, Mr. Heibling, Mr. Dundee, a Chinese lady and gentleman, Mr. W. H. Mitchell, Master Pedder, Mr. H. Schmidt, Mr. A. Bourjan.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

AUBER, the wife of Henry P. d. at North Petherton, Somerset, April 23.
CAPES, the wife of R. U. s. (since dead) at Upton-villas, Croydon, May 8.
GRESLEY, the wife of Capt. H. E. I. Co.'s service, twin daughters, at Gifford's-hall, Suffolk, May 12.
LEADER, the wife of Maj. William, Madras army, s. at Haverstock-hill, Hampstead-road, April 20.
MILLS, the wife of George, d. at 5, St. George's-terrace, Regent's-park, May 4.
SHUTE, the wife of Capt. D. quartermaster-general's department, Bengal, d. at the Parsonage, Sandgate, May 14.
SPARKS, the wife of John, of Bombay, s. at Paris, April 26.
THACKER, the wife of W. d. at 14, Endsleigh-street, May 9.
WEDDERBURN, the wife of J. K. d. at Great Cumberland-street, May 2.
WINGATE, the wife of Capt. Bombay engineers, d. at Tunbridge-wells, May 10.
YATES, the wife of Capt. G. H. S. Madras retired establishment, d. at 6, Blomfield-road, Maida-hill, May 12.

MARRIAGES.

BAYLEY, Rev. John A. to Mary A. C. d. of the late Major Champs, 43rd lt. infantry, at All Saints, Leamington, May 9.
CALEY, James A. justice of the peace in Ceylon, to Fanny, d. of the late James J. Campbell, at St. Andrew's, Clifton, April 27.
GOLDSMID, Charles, s. of M. A. of Paris, to Caroline H. Brodie, d. of the late Francis W. Russell, Bengal civil service, at Huntley-lodge, the seat of her Grace the Duchess of Gordon, May 3.
HALLS, John J. Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, to Louisa H. d. of John T. Nankivill, at St. Mary's, Truro, April 25.
KEEN, William N. S. M.D. to Jessie, M. d. of the late William, Hon. E. I. Co.'s serv. of Calcutta, at Melbourne, Dec. 8.
LANGSLOW, Lovell, s. of Capt. of the Bengal establishment, to Augusta J. d. of John C. Mason, at St. Pancras Church, April 27.
M'CLURE, William G. M.D. to Lydia Le M. d. of John G. Moyle, late president of the Bombay Medical Board, at St. Mary's, West Brompton, April 27.
MEADEN, William, to Isabella D. d. of the late Lieut. col. Gale, Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, at Christ Church, Marylebone, May 4.
REECE, Rev. W. S. s. of Maj. W. Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, to Maria L. d. of Thomas Elliman, at Tring, May 9.
STURROCK, Archibald, to Helen M. T. d. of the late Ambrose Crawley, Madras civil service, at Steeple Ashton, May 9.
TOWGOOD, Capt. 35th Bengal N.I. to Adelaide M. A. d. of the late William Stansfeld, of the Manor-house, near Wakefield, at Thornhill, April 27.
TULLOCH, Capt. H. W. s. of Col. c.b. commissary gen. Madras, to Rosa, d. of the late C. Clarkson, Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, at St. James's Church, Westbourne-terrace, May 11.
WILKIN, Graham, s. of John, of Spring-gardens, to Isabella, d. of Robert Napier, of Glasgow, at West Thandon, Dumbartonshire, April 25.
WILLIAMS, John D. 28th Bombay N.I. to Harriet H. A. d. of the late Capt. A. J. Ormsby, Madras army, at Cheltenham, April 25.
WOLFE, Henry J. Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, to Catherine, d. of the late John Guy, at Thames Ditton, May 10.

DEATHS.

ABBOTT, Joseph, of Bermondsey, and late of the Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, aged 74, April 25.
DOB, Lieut. Edward J. late of the 62nd Bengal N.I. at Glasgow, aged 35, May 7.
DOYNE, Mary, wife of Lieut. C. A. 60th Bengal N.I. at Stratton, Cirencester, May 3.
GARDNER, Miss d. of the late William F. Bengal. estab. at Mount-Stuart-road, Rothsey, May 6.
LAY, Angelina, d. of the late George T. H.M. consul for Amoy, China, at 6, Burton-crescent, aged 12, May 5.
MAITLAND, Isabel A. d. of Capt. Sir Thomas, c.n. of H.M.S. Excellent, at the Dockyard, Portsmouth, aged 10 years 8 mo. May 3.
MARJORIBANKS, Lucy, wife of Stewart, at Bushey-grove, Herts, May 12.
OGILBY, Elizabeth, Lady, widow of the late Lieut. col. Sir David, Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, at Brandenburg-lodge, Fulham-road, April 26.
PATTISON, Margaret, widow of the late James, formerly a Director of the E. I. Co. at 172, Albany-street, Regent's-park, April 25.
PEMBERTON, Anthony A. S. d. of Col. George R. Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, at 37, Fitzroy-square, aged 24 years, May 14.
SKENE, Lieut. col. William, Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, at 12, Brighton-crescent, Portobello, Edinburgh, April 6.

STALKARTT, William, at sea, on board the Hotspur, on his passage from Calcutta to England, April 21.
TERRY, Sarah S. relict of Sidney, late of Alexandria, Egypt, and Bombay, at Canterbury, aged 45, April 10.
THORNTON, Major John, late of Kensington, at Oxford-street, Southampton, aged 71, April 29.
TOWGOOD, Frederick W. s. of Capt. J. 35th Bengal L.I. at Reading, aged 11, April 3.
UDNY, T. Sophia, widow of George, Bengal civ. serv. at Bath, April 2.
VINEY, Laura, inf. d. of Thomas, late of Ceylon, at 2, Hawley-place Villas, May 8.
WALLICH, Nathaniel, M.D. F.R.S. at Upper Gower-street, aged 69, April 28.
WHEATLEY, Georgiana, widow of the late John, formerly of the Supreme Court, Calcutta, April 2.
WILLIAMS, Marianne F. W. d. of Col. late of the Bengal engr. at Ramsgate, aged 29, April 29.
WOODHOUSE, Capt. Charles R. 63rd Bengal N.I. at sea, on board the Hotspur, Feb. 12.

EAST-INDIA HOUSE,

27th April, 5th, 10th, and 17th May, 1854.

ARRIVALS REPORTED IN ENGLAND.

CIVIL.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. B. Sapte; A. Money; R. Marriott; R. Houstoun; L. S. Jackson; W. H. Tyler; J. S. Campbell; C. F. Montresor; G. Gough; J. R. Hutchinson; H. M. Chase.
Bombay Estab.—Mr. A. Gray; D. A. Blane; A. K. Forbes.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

Bengal Estab.—The Rev. W. J. Whiting.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Brev. col. R. Hawkes, 9th cav.; Capt. W. H. Tweedale, inv.; Lieut. W. M. Grierson, 70th N.I.; Brev. maj. H. Lyell, 43rd N.I.; Brev. maj. A. Huish, art.; Lieut. R. W. Pilkington, 20th N.I.; Lieut. W. Wilson, art.; Col. J. D. Syers, 59th N.I.; Maj. R. W. Fraser, retired; Capt. C. M. Gascoyne, retired; Lieut. T. B. Harrison, 10th cav.; Maj. H. M. Durand, eng.; Brig. gen. A. Roberts, c.b.; Col. J. B. Hearsey, c.b. 6th Cav.; Brev. maj. G. F. C. Fitzgerald, art.; Capt. G. E. Herbert, 9th Cav.; Capt. R. B. Macleod, 4th cav.; Capt. J. H. Fergusson, retired; Lieut. A. H. Bogle, art.; Lieut. E. Smyth, 13th N.I.; Lieut. W. K. Fooks, art.; Lieut. J. Hearsey, 38th N.I.; Ens. G. Cleghorn, 43rd N.I.; Assist. surg. F. M. Clifford; Assist. surg. G. Cole; Lieut. col. D. Downing; Lieut. J. G. Hathorn, art.; Lieut. H. B. Lock, 3rd Cav.; Lieut. H. H. Christian, 68th N.I.; Surg. E. Campbell; Assist. surg. W. C. B. Eatwell, m.d.; Brev. maj. G. P. Thomas, 3rd Eur. regt.; Maj. J. A. D. Fergusson, retired; Maj. R. H. Miles, inv.; Capt. E. M. Ryan, 20th N.I.; Capt. J. F. Wilson, 13th N.I.; Lieut. E. A. Wilde, 21st N.I.; Lieut. A. D. Warden, 2nd N.I.; Lieut. O. Greene, 36th N.I.; Lieut. A. Lambert, art.; Lieut. H. Stone, 3rd Cav.; Lieut. C. F. Mackenzie, 28th N.I.; Lieut. L. J. Trotter, 2nd Eur. regt.; Lieut. C. S. Dundas, art.
Madras Estab.—Col. E. Armstrong, 38th N.I.; Assist. surg. J. Donaldson, m.d.; Capt. W. H. Wood, 4th N.I.; Col. R. J. H. Vivian; Capt. T. Kiernan, 10th N.I.; Col. F. F. Whinyates, art.; Capt. H. R. C. King, 6th Cav.; Capt. H. E. Walpole, 16th N.I.; Capt. R. J. Kempt, 43rd N.I.; Col. A. Derville, 34th N.I.; Capt. W. M. Gunthorpe, 6th N.I.; Lieut. E. N. Norton, 18th N.I.; Lieut. W. G. Woods, 1st Fus.
Bombay Estab.—Lieut. E. W. Douglas, 17th N.I.; Capt. E. J. Bowles, 23rd N.I.; Capt. J. Worgan, art.; Capt. F. J. Green, 7th N.I.; Capt. J. L. P. Hoare, inv.; Maj. G. Wilson, retired; Lieut. W. H. Malden, art.

MARINE.

Bombay Estab.—Lieut. G. T. Robinson, Indian Navy; Mr. R. Taynton, do.; Lieut. P. W. Micheson, do.; Mr. W. A. Dyer, do.

PERMITTED TO RETURN TO THEIR DUTY.

MILITARY.

Beng. Estab.—Capt. M. Raper, 64th N.I.; Lieut. J. Fairlie, 3rd Cav.; Surg. W. Sherlock.
Madras Estab.—Lieut. T. H. E. Stone, 9th N.I.; Capt. W. J. Birdwood, eng.; Lieut. S. Tripe, 50th N.I.; Lieut. T. C. Bird, 36th N.I.; Brev. maj. W. T. Buddam, 2nd Cav.; Capt. H. W. Tulloch, 52nd N.I.
Bombay Estab.—Lieut. D. J. Macdonnell, 2nd N.I.; Assist. surg. W. C. Brown; Brev. maj. J. Ramsay, 1st Eur. regt.; Capt. J. F. Goodfellow, 20th N.I.; Lieut. R. R. W. Brett, 2nd Cav.

CIVIL.

Madras Estab.—Mr. D. Mayne.

Bombay Estab.—Mr. T. A. Compton.

GRANTED EXTENSIONS OF LEAVE.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Ens. W. O. Rannie, 32nd N.I., 3 months; Lieut. W. Dickson, art., 3 months; Lieut. W. F. Ogilvie, 69th N.I., 6 months; Maj. the Hon. H. B. Dalzell, art., 6 months.

Madras Estab.—Maj. W. Rawlins, 3rd Eur. regt., 3 months; Ens. Chas. Weston, 1st N.I., 6 months.

Bombay Estab.—Lieut. J. Clements, 3rd N.I., 6 months; Lieut. E. M. G. Cooper, 13th N.I., 6 months; Lieut. A. J. S. Hessman, 22nd N.I., 6 months; Brev. maj. G. H. C. B. ———, art., 6 months; Lieut. G. R. Douglas, art., 6 months.

APPOINTMENT.

The Rev. William Henry Cummins, of Trinity College, Dublin, appointed an Assistant Chaplain on the Bombay establishment.

PERMITTED TO RETIRE FROM THE SERVICE.

Bombay Estab.—Mr. Frank Sims.

Bengal Estab.—Surg. Charles Madden.

LIST OF RANK OF MEMBERS OF THE CIVIL SERVICE FOR BENGAL.

(In continuation of that dated 24th May, 1853.)

To rank from date of sailing.

William James Herschell, 20th Jan. 1853; Edward Grey, 15th June, 1853; Ross Lewis Mangles, 4th June, 1853; Archdale Villiers Palmer, 12th June, 1853; Atholl James Hay, 12th May, 1853; George Elliott Watson, 20th Dec. 1852; Robert James Wigram, 4th June, 1853; Horace Abel Cockerell, 12th June, 1853; John Bensley Thornhill, 20th Dec. 1852; Skipwith Henry Churchhill Tayler, 20th Jan. 1853; Henry Davis Willock, 20th Dec. 1852; William James Money, 20th Dec. 1852; William Stirling Halsey, 4th Feb. 1853; Stuart Saunders Hogg, 20th Dec. 1852; Bradford Harding, 20th Oct. 1853; Richard Henry Clifford, 20th Oct. 1853; George Welstead Colledge, 4th Sept. 1853; Andrew Chad Barnard, 20th Nov. 1853; Donald Campbell Macnabb, 20th Dec. 1853.

LIST OF RANK OF MEMBERS OF THE CIVIL SERVICE FOR MADRAS.

(In continuation of that dated 24th May, 1853.)

To rank from the date of sailing.

Frederick Beresford Molony, 20th Dec. 1853; John Dalrymple Goldingham, 4th Aug. 1853; Charles Thomas Langley, 14th Sept. 1853.

LIST OF RANK OF MEMBERS OF THE CIVIL SERVICE FOR BOMBAY.

(In continuation of that dated 24th May, 1853.)

To rank from the date of sailing.

Theodore Cracraft Hope, 8th Feb. 1853; Henry Napier Bruce Erskine, 9th June, 1853; James George White, 4th Jan. 1853; Foster Fitzgerald Arbuthnot, 4th Feb. 1853; Rodney Stuart Lyons Sabine Pasley, 20th Feb. 1853; Myers Willoughby Bar, 20th Dec. 1853; Reginald Phillips, 10th Sept. 1853.

No. 3 of 1854.

LIST OF RANK OF CADETS FOR THE BENGAL ENGINEERS, CAVALRY, AND INFANTRY.

To rank from the dates specified.

ENGINEERS.—Arthur Moffat Lang, 12th June, 1852, quitted Chatham 21st March; Edward Wood Humphry, 12th June, 1852, ditto 21st March; John Rivaz Monckton, 12th June, 1852, ditto 22nd April.

CAVALRY.—Bridges Robinson Branfill, 14th March, 1854; Geo. Ward Chicheley Plowden (abroad), 4th April, 1854; Francis Stoneham Montagu Wren, 4th April, 1854; William Herbert Solly, 17th April, 1854; James Alexander Mountford Patton, 20th April, 1854; Morison Barlow, 6th May, 1854.

INFANTRY.—Thomas Nicholls Walker, 14th March, 1854; Alfred Bird Allen, John Withers McQueen, Frederick Macdonald Hinch, and William Gordon Chalmers, 4th April, 1854; Thomas Cadell, 17th April, 1854; Henry Wilson Gordon, 6th May, 1854; Walter Harington Thomas, and Bernard Cracroft, 15th May, 1854.

Mem.—Mr. Thomas B. Boileau is to take rank next below Mr. E. T. Kemp, and Mr. Montague Charles Perreau to take rank next above Mr. R. J. Grant,—vide List Nos. 1 and 2 of 1854.—Mr. H. E. Oakeley having resigned the service, his name is to be struck out of List No. 2 of 1854.

No. 3 of 1854.

LIST OF RANK OF CADETS FOR THE MADRAS ENGINEERS, CAVALRY, AND INFANTRY.

To rank from the dates specified.

ENGINEERS.—Grenville Pulteney de Palezieux Falconnet, 12th June, 1852, quitted Chatham 21st March.

CAVALRY.—Alexander Henry Edward Campbell, 20th March, 1854; Edward Morris Cherry, 4th April, 1854; Charles Napier Cherry, 6th May, 1854.

INFANTRY.—Charles Hallyburton Grace, 14th March, 1854; Geo. Walter Horrocks Whitehead, and Arthur Charles Easton, 20th March, 1854; Henry Tristram O'Reilly, 24th March, 1854; Charles Annesley Gumm, and Alfred Augustus Davidson, 1st April, 1854.

No. 3 of 1854.

LIST OF RANK OF CADETS FOR THE BOMBAY ENGINEERS AND INFANTRY.

To rank from the dates specified.

ENGINEERS.—Henry Francis Hancock, 12th June, 1852, quitted Chatham 28th March; Julius George Thomas Griffith, 12th June, 1852, quitted Chatham 5th April.

INFANTRY.—Horace Kendall Bushe, and Julius Barras, 14th March, 1854; Atherton Allan Park, Edward Robert Anderson, and Charles Henry Harrison, 20th March, 1854; George Bartholomew Leslie, Henry William Harris, and John Hayes Lloyd, 4th April, 1854.

No. 3 of 1854.

LIST OF RANK OF ASSISTANT SURGEONS FOR BENGAL.

To rank from the dates specified.

Edward James and Frederick John Earle, 20th March, 1854; Anthony Dopping, B.A. 4th April, 1854; Theobald Ringer, M.D., 17th April, 1854; Samuel Delpratt, and Philip Warren Sutherland, 6th May, 1854.

Mem.—The name of Mr. Hutchinson was stated in List No. 1 of 1854 to be "Robert;" but it has since been ascertained to be "Robert Fame Hutchinson."

No. 3 of 1854.

LIST OF RANK OF ASSISTANT SURGEONS FOR MADRAS.

To rank from the dates specified.

Samuel Jardine Wyndowe, 24th March, 1854; James Adamson, William Robert Cornish, and Henry Giles, 1st April, 1854.

No. 3 of 1854.

LIST OF RANK OF ASSISTANT SURGEONS FOR BOMBAY.

To rank from the dates specified.

Lewis Stanhope Bruce, 6th May, 1854; Arthur Wellesley George Adey (abroad), 9th May, 1854.

CHANGES AND PROMOTIONS IN H.M.'S REGIMENTS SERVING IN INDIA.

WAR OFFICE, 12TH MAY, 1854.

24th Foot.—Ensign Francis Freeman White, to be lieutenant by purchase, vice Goodfellow, who retires. Dated 5th May, 1854.—Walter Bernardino Logan, gent., to be ensign by purchase, vice White. Dated 5th May, 1854.

43rd Foot.—Ensign Hon. Arthur Ernest Harris, from the 55th Foot, to be ensign, vice Atty, who retires. Dated 5th May, 1854.

53rd Foot.—Lieut. Patrick Flynn, from half-pay, 39th Foot, to be lieutenant, vice Peel, appointed paymaster. Dated 5th May, 1854.—Ensign Charles Francis Herbert Lloyd, to be lieutenant by purchase, vice Flynn, who retires. Dated 5th May, 1854.—Ensign John Maxwell Macneill, from the 49th Foot, to be ensign, vice Lloyd. Dated 5th May, 1854.

60th Foot.—Graham Young, gent., to be assistant-surgeon, vice Shelton, promoted in the 48th Foot. Dated 5th May, 1854.

WAR OFFICE, 12TH MAY, 1854.

10th Light Dragoons.—William Mayne, gent., to be cornet by purchase, vice Richmond, promoted. Dated 12th May, 1854.

98th Foot.—Major Edmund Haythorne, to be lieutenant-col. by purchase, vice Roberts, who retires. Dated 12th May, 1854.—Captain Francis Peyton, to be major by purchase, vice Haythorne. Dated 12th May, 1854.—Lieut. Wm. Croker, to be captain by purchase, vice Peyton. Dated 12th May, 1854.—Ensign Augustus Frederic Raper, to be lieutenant by purchase, vice Croker. Dated 12th May, 1854.

BOOKS.

Memoirs and Correspondence of Major-General Sir William Nott, G.C.B., Commander of the Army of Candahar, and Envoy at the Court of the King of Oude. Edited, at the request of Sir William Nott's Daughters, Letitia Nott and Charlotte Bower, from Documents in their exclusive possession. By J. H. STOCQUER, Esq., Author of the "Life of the Duke of Wellington," the "Hand Book of British India," &c. &c. 2 Vols. London, 1854. Hurst and Blackett.

THESE volumes, recording the more important events of Sir William's Nott's public career, and exhibiting some beautiful and affecting traits of his private life, cannot fail to be read with pride by Englishmen and with interest by our fair countrywomen. They are appropriately and gracefully inscribed "To the Survivors of the Army of Candahar," for whom they will have an especial interest. The impression of Sir William Nott's character left after perusal is highly favourable. That he was a great soldier all have long known; but how admirable a man he was none but his intimate friends and associates knew until the publication of this work. His daughters, in opening the treasured archives of affection to the public eye, have at once performed an act of piety towards the memory of their glorious father, and contributed to illustrate a most important portion of Anglo-Indian history. To say that they have chosen well in the selection of an editor we are only telling our readers what every one of them is prepared to tell us, Mr. Stocquer's long experience in Indian literature being too well known to need our testimony. On every point we do not, indeed, agree with him. His estimate both of Lord Auckland and Lord Ellenborough is far higher than that which we form of either of those noblemen. The latter of them Mr. Stocquer seems ready to bear on his shoulders, Somnauth Gates and all, through any opposition; for even the puerility just referred to is—not defended, that is impossible, but excused, although its gratification cost Sir William Nott one or two precious days on his march to Caubul, days which could ill be spared. But where work is so generally well-performed, we must not carp at trifles. All who have read Mr. Macaulay's essays (and who has not?) will remember the story of the veteran soldier who, finding himself unexpectedly in the presence of a picture of Sir Eyre Coote, postponed the business on which he was about to enter till he had made salaam to Coote Bahadur, under whom he had served in his youth. It is something, that a portrait of Sir William Nott has been placed at Addiscombe, where it will read to those enjoying the advantages of that institution a history of the past and a lesson for the future. Is it too much to hope that some may be thereby stimulated to walk in the departed general's steps, and emulate the noble deeds recorded of their predecessors from Clive and Coote to Pollock and Nott?

It is difficult to choose a passage for quotation where our space will not allow us to borrow much; but Russia being at present a popular subject, this decides us. The reader need not be reminded of the great change of circumstances since our extract was written. To make it intelligible we must, however, preface it by an extract from a letter of Sir Willoughby Cotton, to which it is an answer:—

"We have long had vague rumours of the Russians having advanced a considerable force to Khiva, and the Emperor's manifesto announced that troops were ordered to march upon that territory, but the Government information did not make them more than 5,000 men. But despatches were received yesterday, by the envoy and minister from Calcutta, which announce that the recent overland mail had brought authentic information, that the amount of the force was 16,000 infantry, a considerable artillery (20 light pieces), and 1,600 Cossack cavalry. The avowed intention is, that they are not to proceed beyond the Khiva territory, to which they have advanced to punish the Khan for entrapping and keeping in slavery a number of Russian subjects. But as the King of Bokhara has also men of that description in his dominions, I should not be surprised if they detached 5,000 men to that capital.

"Although I have not the least idea they will move on Balk, or threaten our frontier, yet it behoves us to be prepared as far as our means will admit, which can only be done by the assembling a respectable force at Caubul, to be in readiness to move a brigade on to Bamean, and thence, if necessary, to seize the passes of the Hindoo Kosh. The great mischief of having the Russians on the Oxus will be, not the apprehension that they will advance beyond it, but its being the means of exciting the bad passions of every discontented chief in Afghanistan, and calling into activity every one who is averse to the rule and dynasty of his present Majesty [Shah Shoojah]."

To this Sir William Nott thus replies:—

"With reference to the concluding part of your note, I would observe, that I have no means of getting information, but that of conversing with the people of the country, such as merchants, horse-dealers, &c., whom I occasionally fall in with in my rides; and perhaps much reliance cannot be placed on their accounts. From these I draw the following conclusions: that the Russian force marching on Khiva is much more considerable than generally supposed, upwards of 24,000 men, with 70 pieces of cannon; that Kamran's minister, Yar Mahomed, is in close correspondence with the Russians; and that, under pretence of sending his son into Persia on private business, these people tell me that I shall find that the youth has been sent to the Russian head-quarters, where missions from Persia and Bokhara had actually arrived.

"That Yar Mahomed will eventually sell his master to the highest bidder I have no doubt. I should suppose that any advance of the Russians beyond Khiva will depend entirely upon European politics; unless, indeed, they make the slave case a pretext for sending half their large force to Bokhara; at any rate, should Russia differ with England in Europe, their army at Khiva will have reached a fair starting-post to annoy us. No man can be so blind as to believe for one moment that Russia would send such an overwhelming force merely to recover some 200 slaves from the petty state of Khiva, when 4,000 or 5,000 would have easily accomplished such an object. Should the state of Europe be such as to induce the Russian army to advance, I think Herat will be the first and chief object; their game will probably be to advance two columns—the one upon Caubul, accompanied by Doet Mahomed; and the other upon Herat, accompanied by the late chiefs of Candahar. I really can see no great difficulty in a march from Khiva or Bokhara to Herat; water, certainly, would at times be rather scarce; but there is no impediment but what may be easily overcome, and in the present state of our information, they will have accomplished more than a third of their march before we can hear of their move. If they gain Herat, the safety of Afghanistan must be precarious indeed, and the moral influence would be instantly felt throughout Hindostan, Nepal, and Burnah; the whole of Asia would be in an agitated state, and the dormant enmity of every petty chief would be roused, and be brought into full activity.

"You must be a better judge than I am of the feelings of the people of Afghanistan; but I will not conceal my opinion from you, however erroneous that opinion may be. I believe they would, almost to a man, join the chief, Doet Mahomed Khan; but I am of opinion few would join the late chiefs of Candahar. Then again, it must not, it cannot, be doubted, but that the Russian Government have large reserves ready to reinforce and support their Khiva army, already so far advanced. They have followed the trade of war too long not to know the necessity of a strong base and good communications. I am, of course, in the dark regarding the political wishes, or intentions of the British Government; but I should think that if they advance any considerable force beyond Bamean, it would immediately afford a plausible excuse for the Russians, in connection with the King of Bokhara (and that these powers are in close alliance I have no doubt) to advance a column as far as Balk at least; and this is the game they wished to play, feeling their way by degrees, and intruding with the restless and marauding disposition of the people of these countries, and keeping the whole of Asia in a state of agitation until some favourable moment for striking a decisive blow at our power. And, indeed, under this view of the subject, if we had a larger force, it would be better that they should be induced to advance immediately; but our force on this side of the Indus is not sufficient, nor could you depend upon any portion of the Shah's subjects; whereas the love of change, the hope of plunder, and the deadly hatred against certain princes, would give the Russian army 50,000 horsemen to cover their advance upon the Indus."

STOCKS AND SECURITIES.

India Stock .....	233 to 237
India Bonds .....	10s. to 5s. dis.
East-India Railway, all paid .....	1½ to 2 prem.
Great Indian Peninsular Railway, all paid .....	½ to ¾ prem.

BENGAL GOVERNMENT LOANS.

	Buy. s. d.	Sell. s. d.	Actual Sales.
5 per Cent. Transfer Stock Paper, 1834-5, div. payable in London .. Book Debt of 31st Dec. 1834, 3rd Jan. and 3rd July .....	Rs.	—	2 1½
Do. 10th Aug. 1835, 13th Feb. and 13th Aug. ....
Do. 15th Jan. 1836, 18th Jan. and 18th July .....

INDIA EXCHANGES.

BILLS.	Commercial Bills, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.	E. I. Co.'s Bills, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.	Amount of E. I. Co.'s Bills, drawn fr. Apr. 24 to May 8.
			£. s. d.
On Bengal ..	1s. 11½d.	1s. 11½d.	16,672 9 9
Madras ..	1s. 11½d.	1s. 11½d.	10,525 18 3
Bombay..	1s. 11½d.	2s. 0d.	145 0 0
		Bi-Monthly ..	27,343 8 0

Annual sum required by Court of Directors in England.....	From 1st May, 1854, to 30th April, 1855, }	£3,500,000
Bank Post Bills .....	1s. 11½d.
Madras do. ....
Bombay do. ....	1s. 11½d.

EXPORT OF BULLION.

Per Steamer Simla, May 5, 1854.

	Gold.	Silver.
Malta .....	£3,000	—
Alexandria .....	6,340	—
Penang .....	—	£1,100
Singapore .....	13,877	2,200
Hong Kong .....	325	31,804
Calcutta .....	—	22,064
	£23,542	£57,168

ADVERTISEMENTS.

East-India House, 17th May, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the rate of exchange at which they will receive cash for bills on Bengal and Madras will, from the present date, and until further notice, be 1s. 11½d. the Company's rupee, and for bills on Bombay, 2s. 0d. the Company's rupee.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 10th May, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready, on or before Wednesday, the 24th May, 1854, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, to receive Tenders, sealed up, from such persons as may be willing to supply the Company with 1,500 Tons of Coal, of any of the under-mentioned sorts, to be delivered at Rangoon, in the province of Pegu, viz. —

WEST HARTLEY COAL, Screened.
 CARR'S HARTLEY COAL,
 BUDDLE'S HARTLEY COAL,
 DAVISON'S WEST HARTLEY COAL,
 HARTLEPOOL WEST HARTLEY COAL,
 RAVENSWORTH WEST HARTLEY COAL,
 JONASSOHN'S HARTLEY COAL,
 STEWART'S WALLSEND STEAM COAL,
 LAMBTON'S WALLSEND STEAM COAL, or
 GLASGOW HARD SPLINT COAL,

The Tenders are to be made according to a form which may be had upon application at the Marine Branch of the Secretary's Office, in the East-India House, with Conditions annexed; and the Tenders are to be left at the Secretary's office at any time before 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the 24th May aforesaid, after which hour no Tender will be received.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

CONVEYANCE OF TROOPS TO INDIA.

East-India House, 17th May, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready on Wednesday, the 24th instant, before 11 o'clock in the forenoon, to receive Tenders for the conveyance of TROOPS from England to the City of Calcutta, on board ships either of 400 tons register and upwards O.M., or 500 tons register and upwards N.M.

The number of Troops under orders for embarkation is 1,000 and upwards of H.M.'s service, and they must embark between the 10th and 31st July next, and the Court will not permit more than 400 to embark in one vessel.

The Tender must express the rate per head for the passage, diet, and accommodation of the Men for the whole voyage, and be made according to a form, which may be had at the Marine Branch of the Secretary's office, at this House, with terms and conditions annexed.

Two-thirds of the passage-money will be payable in India, at the exchange of 1s. 11½d. per Company's rupee.

N.B.—No Tender will be received unless made and filled in according to the form prescribed.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 17th May, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready, on or before Wednesday, the 31st instant, to receive proposals in writing, sealed up, from such persons as may be willing to supply the Company with

SOLDIERS' HELMETS,
 EPAULETTES and LACE,
 LEATHER GLOVES,
 SWORDS and SCABBARDS,—also
 PIG IRON;

And that the conditions of the said contracts (five in number) may be had on application at the Secretary's Office, where the proposals are to be left, any time before 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the said 31st day of May, 1854, after which hour no Tender will be received.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

BENGAL MILITARY FUND.

WITH reference to the INCREASED RATES of DONATION and SUBSCRIPTIONS voted by the Bengal Army, to have effect from 1st July, 1853, as announced in G.O. No. 95, of the 27th January, 1854, Members are hereby informed that the arrears due on account of the difference between the old and new rates, will have to be deducted at the India House, by instalments, during the present year, as per instructions received from the Directors of the Fund in Calcutta.

H. B. HENDERSON, Major,
Agent.Bengal Military Fund Office,
10, Old Jewry Chambers, London,
17th May, 1854.

UNIVERSAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

No. 1, King William Street, City, London.

ESTABLISHED 1834.

Empowered by Special Act of Parliament, 6 Will. IV. cap. 54.

SIR HENRY WILLOCK, K.L.S., Chairman.
JOHN STEWART, Esq., Deputy-Chairman.

The successful operations of this Society have enabled the Directors for the last twelve years to reduce the premiums on Policies entitled to participate in profits on an average more than 44 per cent., and during the last three years a reduction of 45 per cent. has been declared.

Weekly Board-day, Thursday, at 1 o'clock.
 Committees sit also every Tuesday and Saturday at 12 o'clock, when Policies requiring despatch may be effected.

Agents in India.—Messrs. Braddon and Co., Calcutta; Messrs. Bainbridge and Co., Madras; Messrs. Leckie and Co., Bombay.

MICHAEL ELIJAH IMPEY, Secretary.

GUARDIAN FIRE and LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY, No. 11, Lombard-street, London.

DIRECTORS.

CHAIRMAN—SIR WALTER R. FARQUHAR, Bart.

DEPUTY-CHAIRMAN—FRANCIS HART DYKE, Esq.

Henry Hulse Berens, Esq.	Stewart Marjoribanks, Esq.
John Dixon, Esq.	John Martin, Esq., M.P.
Sir W. M. T. Farquhar, Bart.	Rowland Mitchell, Esq.
Thomson Hankey, jun., Esq., M.P.	James Morris, Esq.
John Harvey, Esq.	Henry Notman, Esq.
John G. Hubbard, Esq.	Henry R. Reynolds, jun., Esq.
George Johnstone, Esq.	John Thornton, Esq.
John Labouchere, Esq.	James Tulloch, Esq.
John Loch, Esq.	Henry Vigne, Esq.

AUDITORS.

A. W. Roberts, Esq. Henry Sykes Thornton, Esq.
Lewis Lloyd, jun., Esq. John Henry Smith, Esq.

SECRETARY.—Geo. Keys, Esq.

ACTUARY.—Griffith Davies, Esq., F.R.S.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.—Under the provisions of an Act of Parliament, this Company now offers to future insurers FOUR-FIFTHS of the PROFITS, with QUINQUENNIAL DIVISION, or a LOW RATE of PREMIUM without participation of profits.

The next division of profits will be declared in June, 1855, when all participating policies which shall have subsisted at least one year at Christmas, 1854, will be allowed to share in the profits.

At the several past divisions of profits made by this Company, the reversionary bonuses added to the policies from one-half the profits, amounted, on an average of the different ages, to about one per cent. per annum on the sums insured, and the total bonuses added at the four triennial divisions exceeded 770,000l.

FOREIGN RISKS.—The extra premiums required for the East and West Indies, the British Colonies, and the northern parts of the United States of America, have been materially reduced.

INVALID LIVES.—Persons who are not in such sound health as would enable them to insure their lives at the tabular premiums, may have their lives insured at extra premiums.

LOANS granted on Life Policies to the extent of their values, provided such policies shall have been effected a sufficient time to have attained in each case a value not under 50l.

ASSIGNMENTS OF POLICIES.—Written notices of, received and registered.

MEDICAL FEES paid by the Company, and no charge will be made for policy stamps.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.—Insurances effected upon every description of property, at the usual rates.

FORBES'S HINDUSTANI WORKS.

- FORBES'S HINDUSTANI ENGLISH & ENGLISH-HINDUSTANI DICTIONARY. Royal 8vo. £2. 12s. 6d.
GRAMMAR. 8vo. 12s.
MANUAL. 18mo. 5s. 6d.
TOTA-KAHANI; or, Tales of a Parrot. 10s.
BAGH-O-BAHAR. Hindustani. Royal 8vo. 15s.
Ditto. English. 8vo. 10s.
ORIENTAL PENMANSHIP. 4to. 8s.

London: Wm. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

THE SIXTH EDITION, 2 vols. 4to. price £4. 6s.

HORSBURGH'S

INDIAN DIRECTORY;

OR,

Directions for Sailing to and from the East Indies, China, Australia, &c.

HORSBURGH'S CHARTS for the Navigation from England to India and China, and throughout the Eastern Seas, viz.—

- |   |  |
|---|--|
| 1. North Atlantic Ocean, 5s.  | 16. Straits of Malacca and Singapore, one sheet, 6s.                 |
| 2. South Atlantic Ocean, 5s.  | 17, 18, and 19. Straits of Malacca and Singapore, three sheets, 15s. |
| 3. Anchorage at Gough's Island, 1s.   | 20. Straits of Sunda, 5s.  |
| 4. Bird's Island and Doddington Rock, 1s.                                     | 21. Straits of Banca and Gaspar, 7s. 6d.                             |
| 5 and 6. Cape of Good Hope, S.E. Africa, and Madagascar Seas, two sheets, 8s. | 22. Carinata Passage and Borneo West Coast, 6s.                      |
| 7. Indian Ocean, 6s.  | 23. Straits of Illio, Durian, Lingin, and Singapore, 6s.             |
| 8. Arabian Sea and East Africa, 7s. 6d.                                       | 24 and 25. China Sea and Coast adjacent, two sheets, 12s.            |
| 9. Hindoostan Coasts and Islands, 6s.   | 26. Canton River and its approximate Channels, 6s.                   |
| 10. Bombay Harbour, 5s.   | 27. East Coast of China, 7s. 6d.                                     |
| 11. Goa Road and River, and Murmagoa Anchorage, 6s.                           | 28. Bashee Islands and Channels between Luzon and Formosa, 2s.       |
| 12. Maldiva Islands and Channels, 2s.   | 29, 30, and 31. Eastern Passages to China, three sheets, £1. 1s.     |
| 13. Bay of Bengal, 5s.  | 32. Passages through the Barrier Reefs, Australia East, 2s.          |
| 14. Peninsula and Islands of India, East of Bengal Bay, 7s.                   |  |
| 15. West Coast of Sumatra, 5s.  |  |

Horsburgh's East-India Pilot, £12. 15s. 6d.

Hand-book for Pilots and Coasters navigating to and from the river THAMES, through all the Channels to DUNGENESS and OXFORDNESS. By Lieut. E. BURSTAL, R.N. from the Survey of Capt. BULLOCK, R.N. Price 1s. 6d.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street; Of whom may be had,

A LIST of CHARTS for the Navigation of the Eastern Seas.

TO THE HEADS OF SCHOOLS and Others.—

HAMILTON'S MODERN INSTRUCTIONS for the PIANO-FORTE, fingered by CERNY. Fifty-fifth Edition. Sixty-two large folio pages, 1s. "It is sufficient to say that the present edition is the 46th edition to stamp it with the genuine mark of excellence. It really deserves all the popularity it enjoys."—Sunday Times. "The veriest child may learn from 'Hamilton's book.'"—Berwick Warrier. "A complete grammar for the pianoforte student."—Morning Advertiser. "This book is unapproachable."—Dublin World. "A child might become proficient by attending to its instructions."—North Wales Chronicle. Also, by the same author, his Modern Instructions for Singing, large folio, 5s.

London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street; and of all Musicians.

PIANOFORTES, Manufactured by ROBERT COCKS

and Co., London, for SALE or HIRE, prices from 22 guineas upwards, warranted to stand all climates. "These pianofortes are remarkable for the beauty and equality of their tone, and the facility of their touch, and their extremely elegant exterior."—Musical World. "It is our candid opinion that, for workmanship and quality throughout, together with the extreme reasonableness of the price, these pianofortes cannot be surpassed. We can conscientiously recommend them to public attention and patronage."—Dramatic and Musical Review. List of prices and drawings gratis and postage free.

London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington Street, Pianoforte Manufacturers and Publishers to the Queen.

TO VIOLINISTS and Others.—Gratis and Postage

Free.—An extensive LIST of VIOLINS, Tenors, Violoncellos, and Double Basses, with prices affixed to each instrument. Amateurs and Professors would do well to consult this list, which contains many instruments well worth attention, from their excellent qualities and very reasonable prices. Also, a new and varied Catalogue (gratis and postage free) of Music for the Violin, Violoncello, &c.

Address: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington Street, Music Publishers to the Queen.

The London Mail,

Published on the 8th and 24th of every month, to meet the requirements of the Commercial, Military, Civil, and Naval interests of Australia, India, and the Colonies. The general politics of the LONDON MAIL are conducted on strictly independent principles, advocating liberal views on all public questions, irrespective of party.

The Mercantile Intelligence—including Markets, Shipping, and Exchange—is fully and accurately reported.

The ADVERTISEMENT charge is 3s. 6d. for nine lines, and 6d. for every additional line.

The LONDON MAIL, price 24s. per annum (including Marseilles postage), can be regularly forwarded to friends in Australia or India, by application at the LONDON MAIL Office, No. 143, Strand, where all letters to the Editor should be addressed.

Agents, Messrs. THACKER, SPINK, and Co., Calcutta; Messrs. PHAROAH and Co., Madras; Mr. JAMES CHESSON, Bombay.

Printed and published by JOHN JAMIESON, the Proprietor, at the LONDON MAIL Office, No. 143, Strand.

THE GENUINE INDIAN CURRY AND

MULLIGATAWNY MIXTURE AND SUPERIOR CURRY POWDERS, PREPARED BY A LADY (long resident in India), who was instructed in the preparation by the late celebrated Fyzoo Kautumah, of Calcutta.

This Mixture is prepared with the same ingredients that are used in India in the preparation of Curries; is so ready and simple that a REAL INDIAN CURRY can be prepared with it in half an hour, is highly approved by those who have resided in India, who pronounce the Curries prepared with it "THE BEST THEY HAVE EATEN since they left India."

THE POWDER is very superior, and if used according to the directions accompanying it, will make a Curry surpassing, IN RICHNESS OF FLAVOUR, any Powder in use.

To be had of WM. ASHDOWN and Co., 107, Piccadilly, and (wholesale) by letter addressed to Messrs. EDWARD and Co., 24, Pelham Street, Brompton.

The Mixture, in jars, 3s. 6d. and 2s. each. The Powder, in 1lb. bottles, 3s. 6d.; ½ lb., 2s. 3d.; ¼ lb., 1s. 3d.

PAYNE and SONS' INDIAN CURRY POWDER,

UNEQUALLED for its delicious FLAVOUR and stimulating QUALITIES, in 1lb. Bottles, 3s. 6d.; ½ lb., 2s. 3d.; or 7lbs. for 21s.

CURRY and MULLIGATAWNY PASTE, 1lb. jars, 3s. 6d., ½ lbs., 2s. 3d.

CURRY SAUCE, Delhi and Oselle Chutnee, 1s. 6d. per bottle.

PICKLED MANGOES, HUMPS, TAP SAUCE, and every description of Indian Delicacies, may had, at greatly reduced prices, from

PAYNE and SONS' FOREIGN WAREHOUSE, 320, REGENT STREET, LONDON.—A List forwarded on application.

TO LATE RESIDENTS IN INDIA.—TRUE

MADRAS CURRY, and MULLIGATAWNEY PASTE and CHUTNIES.—Messrs. BARRIE and Co., Vepery, Madras, to enable their old correspondents returning from India to continue the use of the celebrated

Condiments, have made arrangements to forward regular supplies of the above, packed in glass jars for family use, at 1s. 6d. and upwards, which may be had of

CROSSE and BLACKWELL, Purveyors to Her Majesty, 21, Soho Square; FORTNUM, MASON, and Co., Piccadilly; and of the principal Sauce Vendors throughout the kingdom. Each bottle is labelled, and BARRIE and Co., Madras, stamped on the glass.

JEREMIE'S SEDATIVE SOLUTION of OPIUM

and ANTI-SPASMODIC.—This most valuable preparation stands highly recommended by the faculty both in India and England, and also in several large cities on the Continent of Europe, as a safe and efficient remedy in all cases requiring the use of Opium, but more especially in arresting the Diarrhoea and Vomiting which so generally precedes EPIDEMIC CHOLERA.

As disgraceful attempts have been made in this country and in India to impose a spurious preparation in counterfeited labels and directions, it becomes the duty of Messrs. SAVORY and MOORE to caution the public against such impositions, and to inform them that JEREMIE'S SOLUTION of OPIUM is now prepared (EXCLUSIVELY) in their laboratory in London, by desire of the representative of the late Captain Jeremie, and that every bottle will be surrounded with a Government stamp, without which none can be genuine.

London, December 1, 1853.

Agents in India—Messrs. R. SCOTT, THOMSON, & Co., Calcutta.

TO LADIES.—The high and universal celebrity which

ROWLANDS' KALYDOR continues to maintain as an active, yet mild and soothing extirpator of all impurities of the skin, is, during the period of Spring, most pleasingly evinced. This preparation, eminently balsamic, restorative, and invigorating, is equally distinguished for safety in application, as for unfailing efficacy in eradicating all redness, tan, pimples, spots, freckles, discolorations, and other cutaneous visitations. The radiant bloom it imparts to the cheek, and the softness and delicacy which it induces of the hands and arms, render it indispensable to every toilet.—Price 4s. 6d. and 6s. 6d. per bottle.

ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL.—The successful results of the last half-century have proved, beyond question, that this unique discover possesses singularly nourishing powers in the growth, restoration, and improvement of the human hair, and when every other specific has failed.—Price 3s. 6d.; 7½s. or family bottles (equal to four small), 10s. 6d.; and double hat size, 21s.

ROWLANDS' ODONTO, or Pearl Dentifrice,—a white powder. Prepared from Oriental herbs with unusual care, transmitted to this country at great expense, this unique compound will be found of inestimable value in preserving and beautifying the teeth, strengthening the gums, and in giving sweetness and perfume to the breath.—Price 2s. 9d. per box.

Sold by A. ROWLAND and SONS, 20, Hatton Garden, London, and by Chemists and Perfumers.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT and PILLS, a certain and effectual remedy for Diseases of the Skin.—Ringworm, scurvy, jaundice, scrofula, or King's evil, sore heads, and the most inveterate skin diseases to which the human race is subject, cannot be treated with a more certain, safe, and speedy remedy for their cure than Holloway's Ointment and Pills, which act so peculiarly on the constitution, and so effectually purify the blood, that those diseases are quickly eradicated from the system, and a lasting cure obtained. These sovereign remedies are equally efficacious in curing cancers, burns, scalds, glandular swellings, ulcerous wounds, rheumatism, contracted and stiff joints.

Sold by all respectable vendors of medicine, and at the Establishment of PROFESSOR HOLLOWAY, 24, Strand, London; and by all European and Native vendors of Medicine throughout the whole of the East Indies.

NOW READY,

Second Edition, Corrected to May 9th,

THE EAST-INDIA REGISTER

AND

ARMY LIST FOR 1854,

CONTAINING

Complete Lists of the Company's Servants, at Home and Abroad;
Regulations respecting the appointment of Writers, Cadets, &c.COMPILED FROM THE OFFICIAL RETURNS RECEIVED AT THE
EAST-INDIA HOUSE.

BY F. CLARK,

Of the Secretary's Office, East-India House.

12mo. sewed, 10s.; 11s. 6d. bound.

Separate Presidencies,—Bengal, 6s.; Madras, 5s.; Bombay, 5s.

London: Wm. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

Now ready, in 2 vols. 8vo., with Portrait, 28s. bound,
MEMOIRS AND CORRESPONDENCE OFGENERAL SIR W. NOTT, G.C.B., Commander of the Army of Candahar. Edited by J. H. STOCQUER, Esq., at the request of the Daughters of the late General, from Documents in their exclusive possession.HURST AND BLACKETT, Publishers, Successors to Henry Colburn, 13, Great Marlborough Street.NEW EDITION OF LIEUTENANT ARNOLD'S EAST-INDIAN NOVEL.

Just Published, in 2 vols. post 8vo., price 21s.,

OAKFIELD; or, Fellowship in the East. By W. D. ARNOLD, Lieutenant 58th Regiment Bengal Native Infantry.
The Second Edition, revised.

London: LONGMAN, BROWN, GREEN, and LONGMANS.

ADDISCOMBE, HAILEYBURY, SANDHURST,
and DIRECT APPOINTMENTS. — YOUNG GENTLEMEN
destined for such Appointments are efficiently prepared in all the requisite branches in the Establishment of W. KIESER, M.A., Grove, Blackheath.

SOUTHLANDS, BATTERSEA.

MR. JAMES SHERRAT, M.A., prepares YOUNG
GENTLEMEN for the INDIAN SERVICES, or for the QUEEN'S—Terms 120 Guineas a year. No extras.
Mr. Sherrat has made arrangements to enable him (after July next) to receive Junior Pupils; terms, 80 Guineas. He has been induced to take this step in consequence of finding so many of his Pupils badly grounded.Mr. Sherrat has two houses, Southlands and Manor House. They stand apart, each in its own grounds. Manor House is intended for the Junior Pupils, who will receive a sound GENERAL EDUCATION till about the age of fifteen, as Mr. Sherrat believes that it is not for the advantage of the Pupil to commence a SPECIAL PREPARATION earlier.The grounds and paddocks belonging to the two houses extend over fifteen or sixteen acres.TO FAMILIES RESIDING IN INDIA, AND PARENTS
GENERALLY.A LADY, the Daughter of a beneficed Clergyman (resident with her parents, in a healthy part of the county of Norfolk), is desirous of obtaining the charge of two or three young PUPILS, whose parents or guardians may require for them the advantages of a sound education, and the comforts of a substituted home. The Advertiser believes herself competent to fulfil the duties of such a charge, and could give the strictest testimonials.For terms and further particulars, apply by letter addressed to E. N. B., care of Messrs. J. Hatchard and Son, Publishers, Piccadilly, London.

TO OFFICERS ON FOREIGN SERVICE.

A CLERGYMAN, with twenty years' experience in Elementary Tuition, has VACANCIES for the Children of Officers abroad. Terms, inclusive, if desired, are moderate. The peculiar requirements of young Children are well understood by his family, and the responsibility attached to their performance as fully appreciated. Unexceptionable references to county families, and to connections with India. The situation is cited for its salubrity.
Address (p.p.) Rev. W. Woodthorpe Collett, M.A., Henly Hall, near Ipswich, Suffolk.

SURVEYING ARMY APPOINTMENTS IN INDIA.

OFFICERS at Home on Furlough, and GENTLEMEN
CADETS, desirous of qualifying themselves for the Diplomas in SURVEYING and ENGINEERING, may obtain the requisite information by applying to Mr. HENRY JAMES CASTLE, Associate of the Institute of Civil Engineers, and Lecturer in Surveying and Levelling at King's College, London, who is at all times prepared to give Private Instruction (or to form a class for practical Field-work) in the uses and application of the several instruments required for Surveying and Levelling. If desired, one or two Pupils could reside with the Lecturer.

To sail from Gravesend as usual on the 1st September.

FOR CALCUTTA, the Ship QUEEN (belonging to Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM and Sons, of Blackwall), 1,350 tons,
WILLIAM BELL (late of the Bucephalus), Commander. Will load in the East-India Docks. This Ship has excellent accommodations for Passengers, and will carry an experienced Surgeon.For Freight or Passage, apply to CAPT. W. BELL, or to McLEOD,
ALLPORT, and Co. (with Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM and SONS), 156,
Leadenhall Street.THE ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION grant
DRAFTS and negotiate or collect BILLS payable in Bombay, Calcutta,
Ceylon, Hong-Kong, Madras, Mauritius, Singapore, Melbourne, and Sydney.
They also issue, free of charge, Circular Notes and Letters of Credit for the use of Travellers on the Continent, and to India overland. They undertake the agency of parties connected with India, the purchase and sale of Indian Securities, and the effecting of Remittances between the above dependencies.
They further buy and negotiate in London paper of the Indian Government Loans.

W. W. CARGILL, Chief Manager.

Walbrook, London, March, 1854.

INDIAN APPOINTMENTS.

MESSRS. GRINDLAY and Co. beg to announce the Removal of the OUTFIT branch of their establishment from St.
Martin's Place to 63, Cornhill, and 124, Bishopsgate Street.Detailed scales of OUTFIT, and plans of all SHIPS sailing to India, with prices of their accommodation, forwarded on application.EAST-INDIA ARMY AGENCY,

63, Cornhill, and 124, Bishopsgate Street.

INDIA.—Gentlemen expecting Appointments in the East-
India Company's Cavalry, Artillery, Infantry, or Medical Service, are respectfully informed that, on application to Messrs. CHRISTIAN, they will be furnished with carefully prepared ESTIMATES, showing the whole cost of outfit and passage via the Cape or Egypt, without the necessity of employing an agent, which will be found desirable to those who study economy.
11, Wigmore Street, Cavendish Square.

ORIENTAL, AUSTRALIAN, and GENERAL STEAM AGENCY.

PARCELS, PACKAGES, and MERCHANDIZE
forwarded, and Passages engaged to all parts of the world. Baggage shipped. Insurances effected, &c.INDIA and CHINA—overland, 4th and 20th of every month.AUSTRALIA—overland, 4th May, and alternate months.Ditto—via Cape of Good Hope, 4th June, and alternate months.Prospectuses, with reduced rates, from 2s. 6d., upwards, forwarded free, on application. Overland Guides, 1s., per post, 1s. 6d.

G. W. WHEATLEY and Co. (late Waghorn), 156, Leadenhall Street.

OFFICERS' BEDSTEADS AND BEDDING.

HEAL and SON beg to call the attention of gentlemen requiring Outfits to their large Stock of Portable Bedsteads, Bedding, and Furniture, including Drawers, Washstands, Chairs, Glasses, and every requisite for home and foreign service.HEAL and SON, Bedstead and Bedding Manufacturers, 136, Tottenham Court Road.

OVERLAND OUTFITS TO INDIA.

JOHN BESEMERES and CO., Wholesale and Retail
CLOTHIERS, SHIRT MAKERS, and MANUFACTURING OUT-FITTERS, 61 to 64, HOUNSDITCH, supply these OUTFITS to CADETS and CIVILIANS at their SHIPPING PRICES, and thus effect an important saving in the outlay.LISTS MAY BE HAD of a good Outfit, classed under FOUR SCALES OF EXPENDITURE. Scale No. 1 comprises 171 articles of external and underclothing and requisites for £17.9s.; Scale No. 2, 206 articles, £25.2s.; Scale No. 3, 248 articles, £35.11s.; and Scale No. 4 gives an ample supply of superior Clothing and requisites, viz., 273 articles, for £31.10s. Overland Trunks, One guinea each. Detailed Priced Lists of Ready-made Linen, also shipping and other useful information, sent by post free of charge.Outfitting Warehouses, 61, 62, 63, and 64, HOUNSDITCH, near the East-India House.BERLIN IS JUST OPENED AT BURFORD'S*PANORAMA, LEICESTER SQUARE, taken by himself from the Cathedral, including the Palaces, Museums, and splendid range of buildings immediately in view of the spectators. CONSTANTINOPLE, with the COMBINED FLEETS, and the BERNESE ALPS, are also now on View.—
Admission, 1s. each. Open from Ten till Dusk.Communications for the Editor, and Advertisements, should be sent under cover to Messrs. Wm. H. Allen & Co., 7, Leadenhall-street.

COUNTRY AGENTS:—

Edinburgh, W. Blackwood and Sons.

Dublin, Hodges and Smith.

Brighton, C. Booty.

LONDON:—Printed by CHARLES WYMAN, of 13, Hunter Street, Brunswick
Square, in the Parish of St. George, Bloomsbury, Printer, at the Printing-Office of COX (Brothers) & WYMAN, 74 & 75, Great Queen Street,
Lincoln's-Inn Fields, in the Parish of St. Giles-in-the-Fields; and published by LANCELOT WILD, at 13, Catherine Street, Strand, in the Parish of St. Mary-le-Strand, all in the County of Middlesex.—May 19, 1854.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL,

AND REGISTER OF INTELLIGENCE

FOR
BRITISH & FOREIGN INDIA, CHINA, & ALL PARTS OF THE EAST.

PUBLISHED ON THE ARRIVAL OF EACH OVERLAND MAIL.

Vol. XII.—No. 245.] LONDON, WEDNESDAY, MAY 31, 1854.

[PRICE 1s.

CONTENTS.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.....	281	Appointments, &c.....	299
BURMAH:—		Marine Department.....	299
Rangoon .....	284	Domestic .....	299
BENGAL:—		Shipping and Commercial....	299
Opening of the Ganges Canal	284	CEYLON .....	300
Meeting on the Jumoo		CHINA .....	301
Frontier .....	288	ORIGINAL ARTICLES:—
Progress in Arracan.....	288	New Ecclesiastical Arrange-
Railway Profits in India..	289	ments .....	302
Lieut. Stewart and the Tele-		The future Commander-in-graph .....	290	Chief at Madras .....	303
Government General Orders..	292	Clothing of the Indian Army—
Appointments, &c.....	292	Off-reckonings .....	303
Her Majesty's Forces in the		Spirit-Rapping at Madras....	304
East .....	294	HOME:—
Domestic .....	294	Imperial Parliament .....	304
Shipping and Commercial....	294	Shipping .....	305
MADRAS:—		Domestic .....	305
Government General Order ..	296	Arrivals, &c. reported at the
Appointments, &c.....	296	East-India House.....	305
Domestic .....	297	Changes and Promotions in
Shipping and Commercial....	297	H.M. Regiments in India ..	305
BOMBAY:—		STOCKS AND SECURITIES, &c..	306
The Bombay, Baroda, and
Central Indian Railway ....	298

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

THE Indian papers seem half inclined to drop Burmah altogether, and as the news from that part of the eastern world is neither by quantity nor quality entitled to much notice, we are almost disposed to follow their example. The Hurkaru mentions a rumour to the effect that negotiations were renewed, and that a formal treaty with the court of Ava might still be looked for; and to secure such result, it is hinted that the Governor-General is prepared to make a little concession, in the way of restoring to the man of the golden foot a portion of the annexed territory. We hope, at any rate, that this is untrue. The country—we speak of course of the British possessions—is, we conclude, tolerably quiet. There is not the same measure of outcry about dacoity; and in addition to this negative evidence, we have positive assurance from private correspondents resident in the country, that all, in the established phrase, “is as well as can be expected.”

Sir J. Cheape has been succeeded in his command by General Steele.

Thus much for Burmah. A country is never happier than when the newspapers cannot succeed in levying any toll upon it in the way of contributions to their columns.

The intelligence from the north-west of British India is of the same unprofitable nature, so far as journalists are concerned. All quiet—nothing stirring, except picnics and parties.

Beyond the limits of the British dominions, we dare say there are no gaieties of the description just mentioned; but if the reports of the correspondent of the Delhi Gazette be deserving of credit, there is abundance of equally exciting matter, intrigue and treaty-making. The Delhi Gazette, by the way, is wroth, even to fierceness, with Sir Charles Wood for throwing cold water on its former signal-guns. The correspondent's letter, this time, is a very long one; but as news is scant and the subject at least is interesting, perhaps important, we shall print it in extenso :—

“In my former letter I informed you that the Khokandee (Kokanee) merchants, who are in secret the agents of Russia, have arrived in Cabool. Their conduct proves beyond a doubt, that though they may be in reality merchants as they profess, they are truly in the pay and service of the emperor of Russia, and deputed to Dost Mahomed Khan. He treats them with consideration, and does not allow them to associate much with his brothers. He holds frequent private meetings with them, and gives out publicly, to deceive the people of Cabool and his brothers, that the said merchants had given him aid in making his escape from his confinement in Bokhara; and that, therefore, he does not only feel bound to show them kindness, but intends to establish mercantile relations between Cabool and Kokhan through their agency. “The reason of the Ameer for concealing his real objects is thus described. In case his inclination to attach himself to Russia

ARRIVAL OF MAILS.

The Hindustan, with a mail, left Calcutta April 19th, Sand Heads on the same date, Madras April 24th, Point de Galle 28th, Aden May 8th, and arrived at Suez May 14th.

The Achur, with a mail, left Bombay April 28th, and arrived at Suez May 14th.

The Ganges, with the China mail, left Hong-Kong April 12th, Singapore 19th, Penang 21st, and arrived at Point de Galle on the 27th ult.

The mails thus brought were taken on to Alexandria; they arrived at Malta May 25th, and Marseilles May 27th (per Valetta).

The Simla, with the remaining portion, may be expected at Southampton June 11th.

DEPARTURES OF EACH MONTH—MAILS FROM LONDON TO INDIA, CHINA, ETC.

Viâ Southampton (from London), at 8 o'clock in the morning of the 4th and 20th. It is advisable to post letters in London on the previous evening; if that day be Sunday, then on the evening of the 3rd and 19th; if Monday (of course) before 8 o'clock on that morning.

Postage, letters under  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz. . . . . 1s.

“ “ “ 1 oz. . . . . 2s.

Pre-payment is optional, but out of London it is the most certain to insure early despatch; and it will be preferable to affix stamps rather than to pay in money.—Newspapers, free.

Viâ Marseilles, on the 8th and 24th; if either of these days be Sunday, then on the 9th or 25th.

Postage (must be in stamps), letters, under  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz. 1s. 10d.

“ “ “  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz. 2s. 3d.

“ “ “ Newspapers, 3d. each.

* * * The Marseilles mails of the 8th and 24th overtake the Southampton mails of the 4th and 20th, at Malta; they arrive in India together.

“Our publication commenced at 6 o'clock this morning, May 31.)

DATES OF ADVICES.

Bengal .. .. .	April 19	Burmah (Rangoon) ..	March 25
Madras .. .. .	24	Bombay .. .. .	April 28
Ceylon .. .. .	26	China (Hong-Kong) ..	12

is known to the people at Cabool, they will rebel and desert him as before, on the ground that he prefers the distant alliance of Russia to that of his neighbour, the English at Peshawur, who by the means of their secret news-writers will come to know what is going on in the court of the Ameer. It will then happen just as is said by the proverb, that 'while you are procuring the Tiryak from Erak to apply to the bite of the snake, the bitten man will die,' namely, before Russian aid can reach him from a distance, he will be overthrown by the English at Peshawur. With this fear and foresight the Ameer does everything clandestinely. But when all his plans are satisfactorily completed, he will then declare himself openly.

"Three days ago, a messenger came from Bokhara to the agents at Cabool, with despatches. The Russian general has deputed a nobleman of the Khan of Khiva to the King of Bokhara, bearing the duplicate of the treaty contracted between the said general and the Khan. A copy of the same paper has been sent to the agents at Cabool. Both states (Russia and Khiva) have sworn on their sacred books, and have solemnly pledged themselves to be friends to each other; and Russia has engaged never to interfere with the dominions and laws of Khiva till the end of this world! It is stipulated that a Russian ambassador is to reside at the court of Khiva, and ten other Russian officers are placed at the head of 10,000 horsemen employed and paid by Russia through the Khan of Khiva. The same treaty binds the 'Hoorgunj' state (Khiva), that all the Persian, Bokhara, Afghan, and Russian slaves, now to be found within the realm of Khiva, shall be set at liberty on the payment of half their price to their masters. The friends and enemies of one state are to be friends and enemies of the other. The Russians are allowed to build a cantonment, and station their force for twenty years within the Hoorgunj boundary, at the distance of one stage from the present boundary of Russia, for which the Khan of Khiva will receive a rent of 10,000 tomans. After the friendship of both parties has been tried for the space of 20 years, the Russians will retire from their cantonment. The Russian general, who is encamped with his force within two or three marches from Khiva, is, by this treaty, to retrace his steps after the Nowroz festival, and take his station on the stipulated spot. These are the articles of the treaty of Russia with Khiva, which I have read with my own eyes.

"The King of Bokhara shows great civility to the Khiva nobleman, who is accompanied by the agent of the Russian general. Nothing had transpired as to what his Majesty had done or intended to do with the said ambassadors, until the departure of the messenger to Cabool, whom the Ameer has rewarded with Rs. 200 for his journey over the snowy passes. It is believed that the King of Bokhara, who has had a favourable impression of Russia from a long period, will attach himself to that power; since he will be thus saved from the incursions of the Khiva 'Alamans' upon one side, and the encroachments of the Afghans on the other.

"Dost Mahomed Khan has also ordered that an agent on his part should go to the Russian general, in company with the 'Kookanees,' under the disguise of a merchant. They are to leave Cabool in the beginning of the next month (Rajaub, or April). The agent is requested to deliver the draft of the Ameer's treaty in person to the Russian general, and obtain all sorts of satisfactory assurances for their future fulfilment. The Dost has demanded of the government of St. Petersburg to furnish him with 5,000 Russian troops and the necessary funds to recover the Afghan territories of Peshawur and Cashmeer. When the answer to this comes from the Russian general, with a sufficient sum of money from Khiva (whence he has lately advanced, with a few officers, leaving his force behind), then the Dost will openly proclaim his alliance with Russia, and go to meet the general on the banks of the Oxus.

"The agents of the Russian general wish to return to Khiva by the Candahar road, but the Ameer, being jealous of his brothers, is throwing obstacles in their way, and wants them to go through the Dehzurzee Hazarah and Merew.

"It is also reported here that the King of Persia has sent two or three of his noblemen as ambassadors to Herat, Seestan, Candahar, and Cabool. The agents who are now with the Ameer assure him that Persia and Russia are one, and the ambassadors of the latter are undoubtedly coming by mutual consent. When those diplomatic personages appear in Candahar and Cabool, the secret of the Ameer will be disclosed.

"One of the Kokanee agents is desirous to see Peshawur, and return again to Cabool before his departure for Khiva. I have heard that the Ameer has asked Surdar Peer Mahomed Khan to escort him with a trusty servant.

"The name of the Russian general is commonly called 'Kim-khab.'

"Dost Mahomed Khan pays more attention and respect to his brother, Surdar Sooltan Mahomed Khan, in these days, and the latter has nothing to do but to marry daily and pass his time in pleasures, and erecting mirror-houses. He is in debt, and his creditors receive no justice from the Ameer.

"Dost Mahomed Khan is engaged in communications with Mahomed Shah Khan Ghilzai, and invites him to come to him; but the latter hesitates, and is satisfied with the wealth of the late Akbar Khan, which has fallen into his possession. He is in his stronghold near the valley of the 'Seehposh Kafurs.' There is no doubt that he will, some day or other, fall into the trap of the Ameer. In my next, I will write to you about the proceedings of Nazir Khairollah, whose case is already known to you."

On the above we offer neither opinion nor comment: it must speak for itself. No one can determine how much or how little of the letter is true, though we by no means cast discredit upon it. It may, for anything we know to the contrary, be all true; but whatever opinion may be formed upon this point, we should remember Tom Cringle's maxim, of never disregarding a warning, "from whatever quarter it may come," and act accordingly.

It may here be noted, that the Governor-General has, it is said, ordered the largest steamer in the Indian navy to be despatched to the Persian Gulf; and accordingly, the Feroze was about to proceed thither forthwith. The cause of this step is said to be unknown; and therefore, all that can be done is, in imitation of Lord Burleigh, to shake our heads. Warlike preparations in Scinde are spoken of; and even the possible presence of the Governor in that province, and subsequently in the Punjab, is hinted at.

A somewhat lengthy account appears in the papers of an interview between the British resident at Hyderabad and the Nizam, which appears to have eventuated in "a conclusion in which nothing is concluded"—nothing, at least, that will lead to improvement or change. What a time worn-out states in India take in coming to a final end!

Of matters more domestic the supply is not greater than of wares political. The most important event, and it is really an important one, is the opening of the Ganges Canal,—a ceremony which was performed with due regard to the occasion. A full account of it appears elsewhere.

The Ceylon journals contain, as usual, a good deal about planting; but, as far as we can perceive, little or nothing about gold: whence we infer that gold-finding is not a very remunerative occupation.

From China, we learn that the war "drags its slow length along." Of more immediate interest is the intelligence from Japan, where, if the following from the Friend of China be correct, Brother Jonathan has succeeded in establishing a footing. As this may be regarded as the opening of a new chapter in the history of the world, we make no apology for the length of our extract.

"On the 13th February, the steam frigates Susquehannah, Mississippi, and Powhatan, with the Macedonian, Vandalia, and Lexington in tow, steamed up to within twenty miles of Jeddo, bringing up in a place which, on the previous visit, was designated the 'American Anchorage.' The whole of the surrounding country, including a high volcanic peak, called Fudsi Jamma, was found covered with snow; the thermometer was down to 30 deg. and water froze on the decks.

"On the 18th February, Commodore Perry shifted his flag to the Powhatan, on board of which vessel negotiations commenced; the Vandalia proceeding to Uraga, where it was intended an interview between the respective commissioners should take place. A succession of gales prevented the vessels from proceeding further up the bay until the 24th, on which day the squadron got under weigh, and ran up off a large town called Kanagawa, from twelve to fifteen miles from Jeddo by water, nine only by land. The houses of Jeddo were plainly enough visible from the mast-heads, and boats from the squadron sounded up to within three miles of the wharfs. The Vandalia's visit to Uraga was rendered unnecessary, it being determined, in her absence, to have the council-house erected at a small fishing village called Yo-ko-ha-ma, not far from the town off which the squadron had anchored.

"On the 1st of March his Excellency Yezaimou, deputy-governor of Uraga, and some other high officers were entertained on board the Susquehannah. The bearing of these officials was said to have been frank and friendly in the extreme. As is said drunk and speeches made, interpretation being rendered by means of intermediate Dutch; and by all that could be ascertained from the temper of the guests, there was every reason to believe that the reply of the Emperor of Japan to the letter from the President of the United States, would be as favourable as might reasonably be expected. At first it was understood, that the report circulated by the Russians of the death of the Emperor, was altogether without foundation. From subsequent inquiry, however, the report was found to be true; though no attempt was made to postpone negotiations on mortuary account, as the Russians asserted would be the case; an excuse there is some reason to believe had effect, so far as they (the Russians) were concerned, the Japanese denying most positively that any treaty had been made with them. The Emperor of Japan was 83 years of age when he died. His Majesty's son has been proclaimed successor, though he is not yet crowned.

"The sloop Saratoga arrived in the Bay of Jeddo on the 4th of March, and was ordered to prepare for a trip to the Sandwich Islands, by which route, thence to Parma. His Excellency the Commodore announced his determination to forward the earliest report of the result of his negotiations. Early in March, an interpreter arrived direct from Jeddo, and on the 5th visited the flag ship. He is said to have been able to converse quite fluently in both Dutch and English, and could read and write our language with facility. He spoke freely of the Emperor his master, and of his Majesty's willingness to accord commercial advantages to foreign nations. Of coal he said there was plenty, which should be brought from the mines to a depot to be selected by the Americans. This interpreter had only recently returned from Nanga-saqui, where, he said, the Russians were point blank refused any promise of a treaty.

"On the 8th of March, at noon, under an ambassador's salute from one of the ships, Commodore Perry landed for his promised interview with the Imperial Japanese commissioners. His Excellency's barge was accompanied by boats from the various vessels of the squadron, to the number of thirty-eight, and, besides the boats' crews, four hundred seamen and marines were conveyed to the shore to form his Excellency's escort. The weather was magnificent, and the landing was effected most successfully. Two other salutes, one for the Emperor, another for the commissioners, were fired by the boat squadron after his Excellency was on shore.

"The result of this first interview may only be generalized into the report that the disposition evinced was most favourable to the American wishes. Other meetings were determined on, and a warehouse was erected for the special reception of presents for the emperor, empress, and court, which were landed on the morning of the 13th. From the size of the building prepared to receive these presents, the Japanese appeared to have expected a bulkier, if not a more valuable assortment. A plot of ground was cleared too, for laying down the miniature railroad, and a line was arranged for working the electric telegraph; of both of which, as forming part of the intended presents to the Japanese court, our readers will, no doubt, already have heard.

"March 15th, 1854. A red letter day in the annals of Japan—saw the Emperor's reply to the President's requests under perusal on board the flag ship; and on the 17th Commodore Perry again landed for his second interview with the four commissioners appointed to negotiate a commercial treaty. The names and rank of these officers are said to be as follows:—

"First Commissioner, his Highness the Prince Councillor Hayashi. Second Commissioner, Prince Ido, of Tsussima. Third Commissioner, Prince Idwa, of Mima-sa-ki. Fourth Commissioner, his Excellency Udo-na, an assistant in the Board of Revenue.

"The names of the Japanese interpreters of the respective legations are Mr. Mats-ma-ke Mich-i-ta-ro and Dr. Samuel Wells Williams.

"March 20th. The store-ship Supply arrived from Shanghai, conveying to Commodore Perry the report left by the Vostock of the successes in Japan of the Russian admiral, but the period of a year fixed by the Russians for the opening of Japan to the world was said to be a figment of Russian imagination. The Japanese would only admit that the Russians had said they would be back in a year.

"On the morning of the 24th March, Commodore Perry had his third interview with the Japanese commissioners, a few days before having despatched the Vandalia and Southampton to examine the harbour of Sho-di-ma, about seventy miles south of Jeddo, one of the places indicated by the Japanese as fitting for a factory.

"Were we to give in this journal, as certain facts, the whole of what we have heard as having been effected by Commodore Perry in his negotiations, it would speak ill for American diplomacy in having allowed so much to transpire. Without infringing any reasonable requirement, however, we are permitted to say that the following detail is not far from a correct summary of the principal advantages.

"Two ports are given to trade—Matsmai, in Yezo, and Sho-di-ma, before mentioned;—and in addition to these places with trading residents, another location is promised contiguous to the coal country. At first the Japanese commissioners spoke of one year for the coal station, and five for the trading places, as periods within which they promised the warm endeavour of their government to prepare the people for the new regulations. The laws of the empire, they said, were very strict against trading of any kind, excepting at Nanga-saqui with the Dutch. To these lengthy periods, however, his Excellency Commodore Perry temperately, though firmly, objected—insisting on the coal depot at once, and trading ports within a year.

"As regards the terms of treaty, the basis of that with China is said to form the leading feature. This, we think, is to be regretted. Ports in Japan, as well as in China, should be as free as the harbour of Hong Kong, where duty on our island's chief production, granite, is collected by the Government from the stone-quarry farmer. Commodore Perry, it is said, offered to embody a clause in the treaty for participation by all the world in the advantages he desired; but to this proposition the Japanese commissioners demurred; expressing, however, a willingness to make separate treaties on similar terms with any other nations who might seek them in a peaceful manner. Directly the treaty is concluded, Capt. Adams, in the Saratoga, will leave with despatches; but as it is said Commodore Perry intends to remain on the Japanese coast for at least two or three months, we presume his Excellency is prudently determined upon doing what is to be done in a quiet, steady manner, and without any unnecessary haste.

"The miniature railway, and five miles of magnetic telegraph, created great astonishment. Arranged with Japanese characters, there was much amusement among the natives at the extremes of the line at the rapidity and ease with which a conversation could be carried on, additional wires being ordered to be prepared immediately, so that they might carry the communication right up to the capital. The railway was taken round a circus of some fifty yards in diameter—or nearly a tenth of a mile in length. The locomotive, with its tender and car, was made to travel at the rate of forty miles an hour. Of course the action of these machines was only intended as a small exhibition of western science. The curiosity of the Japanese appears to have been highly excited by the beautiful symmetry of the Macedonian, and artisans were engaged in measuring her, as they said, for the purpose of building her counterpart.

"One of the marines of the Mississippi dying while the squadron was lying in the Bay of Jeddo, an occasion was given to apply for ground for a cemetery. Sufficient space for ten interments being allotted, the marine was buried with all the honours of war. In conclusion, we have only to say that the Susquehanna reports her crew, and those of the rest of the squadron, as in excellent health and fine spirits. She was eight days on the run from Jeddo to this port."

If Japan should be opened to general commerce, one more wonder will be added to those of our time.

CASUALTIES BY DEATH IN THE ARMIES OF INDIA, REPORTED SINCE OUR LAST PUBLICATION.

BENGAL.—Brig. Gen. T. Palmer, 72nd N.I., commanding Cawnpore Div. at Mussoorie, April 15.

MADRAS.—Maj. H. M. Dobbie, 30th N.I. at Shooaygeen, March 24; Capt. A. Geils, 1st Eur. Fus. at Tonghoo, March 4.

HOW TO TREAT INDIAN SUPERSTITIONS. —When first we gained a footing in this country [India] our tenure was so uncertain, and depended so much upon the good-will of the natives, that we were obliged to conciliate them in every possible way, and avoid offending, in the slightest degree, against the established notions and customs of the land. Thus we have, almost without knowing it, given the sanction of authority to these prejudiced ideas; at all events, it has been our aim to teach natives that we respect their feelings, their religion, their bigotry, their customs, and their habits, and, as a natural consequence, they adhere to them with ten-fold obstinacy. We do not mean to say that any man is right in wantonly insulting another on the score of his religious belief, or purposely hurting his feelings by doing outrage to habits and ideas which have been handed down to him from his ancestors: but there is a middle course; we might, without insulting or hurting the feelings of the people by whom we are surrounded, show that we looked upon their habits and prejudices with the contempt they deserve. We need not go out of the way to attack their system, neither is there any necessity why we should make a point of patronizing it, and showing our pretended (for, after all, it must be false) respect for it. Every act, either of the Government or of private individuals in India, should imply this much:—"We do violence to none, therefore we leave you the unfettered and unrestrained practice of your religion and of your customs; but we know the falsity of one, and the absurdity of the other, and advise you to discard both." In all our dealings with natives, we should force this much upon their minds; this much and no more.—Lahore Chronicle.

[We think our friend in the Punjab has here hit the happy medium between persecution and encouragement.]

BURMAH.

RANGOON.

A Rangoon letter informs us of a great paucity of labourers in that town; as an example of which it is stated that the utmost difficulty was experienced in procuring men to coal one of the Government steamers, the master attendant having to pay so much as one rupee and four annas per day per man. This scarcity of labourers is ascribed to an extensive emigration of Burmese from Rangoon, owing, it is said, to great popular dissatisfaction having been felt in regard to the levying of the capitation-tax. The impost appears to have been realized for the past year without much difficulty or demur on the part of the people; but when this success of the tax-gatherer led to an attempt to get in the tax for the previous year, the popular feeling seems to have been roused in opposition to the measure, and as the only mode of evading payment, hundreds emigrated from Rangoon to find refuge from the power of the revenue authorities in the territory of the Golden Foot.

We are further told by one informant, that the desertion of the Burmese is in some degree compensated for by the influx of labourers from Madras and the coast, besides the comparatively small number that may have found their way hence to Rangoon. —Hurkaru, April 18.

INTENDED ATTACK ON MOUNG GYAN GEE. — The deputy commissioner will proceed this evening to the Lyne and Tharawaddie districts, escorted by eighty men of H.M.'s 84th, and two full companies of the 46th B.N.I. to attack MounG Gyan Gee, who, with 400 cavalry, nine elephants, and a large body of followers, has taken Paunglang and driven out the inhabitants. —Rangoon Chron. March 25.

The following are extracts from Pegu letters:—

"The dacoit chief MounG Gye (a long name generally shortened to Gounggee) is still at large, but is supposed to be on his last legs. In his affair with Captain Phillott's company in the beginning of March, he admits having had two chiefs and fifteen men killed, besides several wounded. Captain Phillott is now in search of Gounggee in the interior of the Tharawaddie district with 400 men of different corps and two howitzers. On nearing a village in a plain, they saw the backs of Gounggee's men leaving it; breastworks had been prepared on the bank of a nallah for a stand, but on the approach of our troops, the enemy thought better of it and made off. Captain Phayre, with 200 of the 47th N.I., was marching from Promé to join Captain Phillott's party; and from the south three companies with Captain Sparks had left Rangoon to cover the Lyne district. The energetic Major Fytche is appointed to officiate as deputy commissioner of the Sarawah province, in room of Captain Smith; and he is the very man to settle matters speedily. See how quickly he put down the late attempt at revolt in the Bassein district."

MILITARY ON-DITS. — Thegal Mew. — We (Hurkaru) have received from a correspondent in Pegu the following letter, dated Thegal Mew, 9th March, 1854:—

"Capt. Hilton's party, accompanied by Mr. White, the deputy commissioner, marched into cantonments this morning; but Capt. Phayre's is not expected till to-morrow. The grenadier company of the 65th Bengal infantry, under the command of Ensign Chambers, has been left to garrison Mawdon, a large stockade some forty-seven miles due west from this, and situated close under the Arracan range of hills. Major Allan is expected at Meeaday on the 10th instant, but does not start for Tonghoo before the 13th or 14th instant. A boat just in from Promé, and at that station rumour runs that Welshman obtains his brevet lieutenant-colonelcy from the 9th of December, 1853, but that the name of our gallant major is not mentioned. Why Gerrard should be overlooked, I know not. He succeeded to the command of the corps vice Tudor, absent on sick leave, and accompanied Brigadier-General Steel with the Martaban column to Tonghoo, and was highly complimented by the general and Brigadier Poole, at the time of his departure from Tonghoo. We also hear that Capt. Christie and Welsh, of H.M.'s 80th foot, are to obtain their brevets for leading their respective companies against the empty and undefended pagoda at the taking of Promé. If such statement be correct, it would be but right and just that Captains Dennies and Cunliffe, of the 1st European Bengal Fusiliers, obtain in like manner some mark of distinction for leading their respective companies, which formed the storming party against the stockade at Pegu, on the 21st of November, 1852, when defended by some six or seven thousand Burmese. At the time, the gallant General Godwin did not fail to thank these gentlemen for the capture they had made, adding that they had now taken the key of the enemy's position; and surely you will agree with me, that these officers are equally entitled to reward with their brethren of the Royal army. The enemy is among us; 'not the Burmese,' but cholera. We have lost some of the finest men in the station within the last two days; and the news from Meeaday is very sad, —one man a day taken off by this dreadful disease in the detachment of the 1st Bengal Fusiliers, and the sepoys of the 65th Bengal Infantry are also suffering."

Akyab, April 3. — The barracks at Akyab are completed. Three companies of the 68th N.I. have already reached the place, and the others are soon to follow. Thus the regiment will be properly accommodated before the setting in of the rains; and it is to be hoped that there will be less sickness among the men than there was at Kyook Phyoo, the climate of which evidently did not agree with the native troops stationed there.

BENGAL.

OPENING OF THE GANGES CANAL.

The Ganges Canal is at length "a great fact." All doubt in the public mind, all misgivings (if any such existed) on the part of the officials, every feeling has given way to one of universal satisfaction and of hope.

Long before sunrise on the 8th inst., the roads at Roorkee were covered with lines of intending spectators, nor was it possible altogether to avoid a sense of the touch that makes us all akin, in the thought that high and low, European and Asiatic, Christian and heathen, were for once animated by the same idea, interested all in one object. The Christian part of the community, in accordance with a printed programme, which had been circulated the day before, repaired to an inclosure set apart for the purpose, and there, under a shumeeana, the inauguration service was performed (according to a form expressly prepared by the bishop) by the Rev. Messrs. Hamilton, D'Aquilar, and Maddock. A large and attentive congregation of ladies and gentlemen assisted, among whom not the least impressed appeared to be the youthful ruler of Gwalior. At the conclusion of this part of the ceremony the party proceeded, headed by the Lieutenant-Governor, to ascend the massive staircase in the piers of the aqueduct. Here amid the stirring strains of a military band, and the still more impressive silence of the myriad spectators, Mr. Colvin stepped forward, and in a very simple and natural way, undid the fastenings and depressed the lever of the nearest gate. Slowly the broad majestic flood, that had been chafing all night—and not wholly without success—at the slender barrier, made its way in a glorious rush through the opening. At this moment the Lieutenant-Governor, taking off his hat, took the lead in a hearty English cheer: long and wide the sound spread from those few but energetic pairs of Saxon lungs; and when it seemed stilled at last, it was only to be renewed with greater force than ever. "One cheer more," cried Mr. Colvin, "for Colonel Cautley." Again, and warmer still, arose the cheery old homage to him whom all could not but feel to be the hero of the day.

Hardly were these demonstrations at an end, when the excitement began spreading to the calmer and less energetic crowds that lined the banks. As far as eye could range, swelled the murmur of the people, the frenzy gradually rising till massy crowds flung bodily into the flood, and ere long the broad channels were full of delighted swimmers, many of whom eagerly drank in draughts of the then too turbid waters of the Ganges. The feelings of those who had borne the labour and responsibility of this work might well be envied, for some of India's wisest and bravest public men were present to witness their triumph. We observed among others, Sindia, Sir Henry Lawrence, Sir R. Hamilton, Bart., General Anson, Major Curzon, Captain Curzon, Messrs. C. C. Jackson, S. Fraser, W. Money, A. A. Roberts, M. P. Edgeworth from Mooltan, A. Ross, Major P. Cautley, and Captain V. Eyr.

A day so auspiciously began was appropriately ended by a dinner. The dinner was laid out in a tastefully arranged marquee, brilliantly lighted by numerous chandeliers, and admirably ventilated by the removal of the canasta. At the transverse table at the upper end, were seated the Honourable the Lieutenant Governor, supported on his right by Colonel Cautley, Sir R. Hamilton, General Anson, Sir H. Lawrence, Mr. Hamborough (a traveller from London), together with Messrs. Jackson, Fraser, Baird Smith, &c. About one hundred guests sat down to a superb dinner, to which may be accorded that rare praise, rarest of all in a public dinner (even when not in camp) given in this country, that everything was hot except the wine and beer, which seemed taken out of the freshest ice, though none, we were informed, was there.

After grace had been said, Mr. Colvil rose and proposed, "The Queen, God bless her, in her home, her empire, and her arms."

"The toast I have now to propose to you is, 'The Governor-General of India,' and it is one which as richly merits, as I know that it will receive, your heartiest reception, not more on account of his high dignity or eminent fame, as the supreme ruler of India, than of the constant interest with which he has always promoted the progress of the great undertaking, the inauguration of which we are now assembled to celebrate.

"I might speak of other and memorable topics,—of frontiers enlarged and secured,—of hostile populations tranquillized,—of finances prospering nearly beyond example,—of triumphs, of peace, not less signal than those of policy or war,—of the network of railways to be cast over the length and breadth of India,—of the rapid introduction of the Electric Telegraph, of the marvels of which we are, I trust, to-day to have an example,—of the shortly coming boon, so precious to every community, of a low and uniform postage,—of a new impulse given to the all-important department of public works,—of plans of popular education, framed on the widest basis, and full of the best promise for the future;—but not less than any of these is to be regarded the earnest encouragement, the liberal and confiding support, which Lord Dalhousie has at all times given to those who have been engaged in directing and executing the vast, the truly imperial work, the opening of which I had for a long while hoped that he might have been able to grace by his own presence. When Lord Dalhousie arrived in India, all the plans had been arranged for the vigorous prosecution of the canal works; but of the million and near £400,000 which have up to this date been expended on them, all but £170,000 have been granted under his auspices. No crisis of war has been allowed to obstruct the prompt supply. By Lord Dalhousie the revised and enlarged estimate, amounting to about £1,560,000, on which the canal, with its branches, as now to be completed, was recommended to the home authorities, with the expression of his full confidence and satisfaction. All aid has been freely granted; officers have been supplied, every wish of the Director, Col. Cautley, has been readily responded to, and, what is worth far more than any formal act, there has been that genuine sympathy, that deep appreciation of the value and character of the noble enterprise, which has assured and animated those on whom have rested its responsibility and toil. Col. Cautley will be a willing witness of the degree in which he stands, in all points, indebted to the Governor-General. For myself, I very greatly regret that Lord Dalhousie is not here to render a worthier tribute than any that can proceed from me, of the admiration and applause that are due to the mighty works which we have seen so far advanced to their perfection; and I am sure that he will regard the construction of this unequalled canal as one of the chief glories of his successful and brilliant administration."

This toast was acknowledged with enthusiastic cheers throughout the address, and drank with every honour. Mr. Colvin then rose, and spoke as follows:—

"I now have, gentlemen, to propose to you the main toast of the evening,—'Lieutenant-Colonel Cautley and the Officers of the Ganges Canal,' and in doing so, I may, very unaffectedly, say that I am oppressed by the magnitude of my subject. Were I to attempt to enter into details of the varied and difficult, and vast constructions which have been created by the skill and energy of Colonel Cautley and the assistants acting under him, my powers of explanation and fitting appreciation would, I feel, fail me. I shall decline a task to which I am unequal, but the results are before us in the 252 miles of finished canal, which excite the astonishment of all who have had the opportunity of inspecting them, especially in this, their upper portion, where the most formidable natural obstacles had to be overcome. One remark I may boldly make, that here at least we have an answer, which no detractor can gainsay, to the old reproach, that the British have left no permanent mark upon the soil of India to attest the power, the wealth, and the munificence of their nation.

"To Colonel Cautley, gentlemen, belongs the rare felicity of having been concerned alike in the first mere general conception, and in the ultimate triumphant accomplishment, of a project of such stupendous extent and magnitude. The merit of the survey, the design, and of the manifold minor expedients, are fairly his. It is interesting to be enabled to compare the early rudiments or sketch, of any great work, with its eventual perfected result. Fortunately I have the means of making that comparison in regard to the Ganges Canal, for I hold in my hand the portion of a private note, sent by Colonel Cautley in May, 1838, with a public letter to Mr. Thomason, then secretary to the Government of the N. W. P. under the administration of the Governor-General. I shall read the words:—'You will see' (Colonel Cautley wrote) 'that I have put forward the Ganges project, for reasons given in my letters. The point is decidedly of interest, and if it should turn out that a manageable line could be found between Hurdwar and the high land by taking a westerly detour, you you would have the whole of the high lands of the Doab districts under canal irrigation.' Contrast, gentlemen, the tone of supposition and hesitation in which this was written only sixteen years ago, with the success which has now been achieved, and consider what Colonel Cautley's feelings must have been if he had in remembrance such expressions, when the bars fell this morning, and he saw the water in full flow over his noble aqueduct.

"I would say a word before sitting down of those connected with the administration of the Government, by whom the success of the great scheme has been principally aided. It was first laid before, and received the warmest support of, my honoured friend and patron, the Earl of Auckland. It was urgently recommended by Mr. Campbell Robertson, then lieutenant-governor of the N. W. provinces; and nowhere should the credit due for it be spoken of without a full share being given to Mr. Robertson's exertions in its behalf. In Mr. Thomason, as in my friend, Sir Robert Hamilton, who is now present with us, it had firm advocates. A day of difficulty and danger came, on which I would not now dwell. The effective prosecution of the works dates from May, 1847, when the Governor-General of that period, Lord Hardinge, visited Roorkee and the Canal line, and, having formed a just and decidedly a favourable opinion in respect to the project, gave a prompt authority for its being carried out, on a scale commensurate with its importance and needs. This sanction obtained from the Supreme Government, Mr. Thomason, who, as Lieut. Governor, had the local control, exhausted all the means at his command in furtherance of the undertaking. It was the constant object of his thoughts and solicitude. Valuable suggestions were made by him in regard to the direction of the branch lines. On every subject relating to it, he was in the closest communication with Colonel Cautley. It is a touching thought, the one melancholy shade upon this day's gratulations, that to Mr. Thomason's deep-felt interest in the canal, to his strong desire to be present at the ceremonial of its opening, it is probably owing that that honoured and lamented man postponed the seeking for the repose in our own land, which his health urgently required. He had hoped to live to see this day, but God had not so willed it. (Here Mr. Colvin became for some seconds almost inaudible.)

"I have detained you longer than I had intended, but I have been anxious to omit no name which merited a special mention in connection with the great topic of this evening. The retrospect has carried me through a course of bygone years, and the marshalling of these claims, and the associations which they recall to me, make me feel this to be a serious, and even a solemn occasion.

"And now, gentlemen, it remains only that we should unite in conveying to Lieut.-col. Cautley our heartiest good wishes. He is retiring from the scene of his labour and of his glory. May he live to spend many years in England, with health re-established, in continued happiness, and with augmented honours."

[The hon. gentleman resumed his seat amidst the most hearty and warmly-protracted cheering it has ever been our lot to hear.]

Colonel Cautley then rose, and with visible feeling spoke as follows:—"As the chief of the Ganges Canal department I have to express to you, Sir, my warmest acknowledgments for proposing the health of myself and the officers of the Ganges Canal, and to the company for the manner in which they have received your toast. I feel most gratefully the terms in which the lieutenant-governor has been pleased to allude to the successful operations of this day. I attribute this success to two causes, first, the constant encouragement given us by the supreme and local governments; and second, to the zeal, energy, and willing aid given to me by every officer on the canal, but especially by the executive engineer of the north division and his deputies. Our greatest difficulties and heaviest works have been situated in that division.

"You have just heard the progress of our works eloquently described, and among the names that have been mentioned there are two requiring special notice from me. The first is, that of Lord Dalhousie, and in reference to him I have to mention, that almost immediately after his Lordship's arrival in India, he wrote to me, desiring that on all matters connected with the interests of the Ganges Canal, I would correspond with him direct. I have ever since continued to do so, and have received at his hands an amount of assistance and encouragement in every form to which I am unable to do justice. I was at the same time in the most constant and the closest communication with Mr. Thomason, of whom I may say that he was not only the friend of the canal, but for very many years my own personal friend also. When cordially supported by two such men my success is not remarkable, and the aid they gave me was never limited to official acts, but was perhaps more effectual in the form of kindly encouragement and the warmest support in their private correspondence. Among the acts for which I am indebted to them is the appointment of Captain Baird Smith, the distinguished author of "Italian Irrigation," whose name is familiar to this company as my successor in the direction of these works. I am also grateful to Lord Dalhousie for the appointment of Lieutenant Edward Fraser, to succeed Captain Goodwyn, who is leaving the works, I am sorry to say, at the same time as myself. I have, however, no anxiety for the future, as with Captain Baird Smith in my place and Lieutenant Fraser in place of Captain Goodwyn's, we feel that we are leaving the destinies of the canal in hands which will probably be better than our own. (Symptoms of the dissent of the audience were here apparent.)

"In referring to the second source of our success, I must most particularly express my sense of the valuable services of Capt. Goodwyn, the executive engineer of the North division, of those of Mr. Kay, the officer in charge of the head works and the Ranipoor superpassage; of Mr. Login, who has constructed the Puttri superpassage and the Dhunowri Dam; of Mr. Parker, who has constructed the earthen aqueduct; and of Lieutenant Price, who had charge of the aqueduct proper. In the lower divisions I have been equally efficiently supported by Mr. Frederic Read, Mr. Philip Volk, Lieuts. Whiting and Hodgson, and in all my survey work Mr. Dodsworth has been one of my greatest aids. It is equally a duty and a pleasure to me to mention the names of those gentlemen who have worked so cordially and efficiently with me for so many years past.

"There is also a gentleman on my right to whom I must express my warm acknowledgments for assistance given at a very critical time. I refer to Sir Robert Hamilton, who was our energetic supporter at a period when the want of such a friend would have placed us in great difficulties.

"I must, in conclusion, draw your attention to the interesting fact, that my first letter on the subject of the Ganges Canal was addressed to Mr. Colvin, private secretary to Lord Auckland—my last words, publicly spoken on the same subject, are addressed to Mr. Colvin in his place as lieutenant-governor of these provinces.

"Gentlemen, I have not another word to say."

This speech was received with enthusiastic applause. It was impossible to behold without strong feelings of interest this distinguished veteran of science standing thus modestly on the scene of his glories, and hurrying with the simplicity of a child from any egotistical references that the occasion might seem to force on him, to the generous, and, therefore, to him, welcome office of praise and thanks to others. He seemed to have reached the two-fold, but not always united, pinnacles of moral and intellectual distinction; and it may safely be predicted that he leaves a name behind him which India will not soon let die. As of Mr. Thomson, so of Colonel Cautley. Roorkee will be able to say, in the language of Christopher Wren's noble epitaph—Si monumentum requiris, circumspice.

It was at first intended that the ceremony of opening the canal should take place at Dhunowrie regulating bridge, a distance of six miles from the canal head-quarters, and such was intimated to the different officers at Roorkee. The arrangements were, that the heads of all canal departments should proceed to Dhunowrie, where the lieutenant-governor would open the gates, and then proceed in two railway carriages, gaily cushioned, and made comfortable, along the bank of the canal in progress with the water. But this arrangement, we suppose, was early found not only to be inconvenient, but impracticable. An alteration was therefore at once made, and the aqueduct at Roorkee was fixed upon as the spot where the opening was to take place.

On Sunday last the water, which had previously been let into the canal head, was a considerable distance on the other side of Dhunowrie. On Tuesday it had passed that station, and on Thursday it had reached Mahewur. On Friday it passed on, and by noon was at the aqueduct—having taken three hours in its progress from Mahewur, or at the rate of about a mile and a quarter an hour. We suspect this would have been anything but agreeable to his honour the lieutenant-governor, supposing he had to come up by rail in company with the water.

On the evening of Friday the water had risen to three feet at the gates, and it was deemed advisable to allow a portion of it to escape through the mill sluices to prevent the gates being overtopped.

From the moment of the arrival of the water, crowds had assembled to pay their respects to holy Gunga, and many natives took the opportunity of bathing in waters which to some must have been particularly refreshing. So great was the excitement among all classes, that the natives lay all night in heaps on the canal banks and in the dry parts of the bed of the Solani river, that they might be early enough the following morn. At dawn, the whole vast multitude collected at Roorkee was in motion, streams of people poured down to the place of ceremony,—the bridge was severely tested by crowds of living beings, who were packed upon it,—and every mode of conveyance was put in requisition to carry both aristocrat and plebeian to the scene.

On our arrival at the Roorkee bridge, we were surprised at seeing a large quantity of water already in the canal. This, it appears, was caused by the water having overtopped the regulating gates during the night. This was a great pity, as the appearance of the water rushing in on the opening of the gates would have been much more pleasing. By the exertions of the executive engineer, Captain Goodwyn, the water was prevented making further entrance; and before the ceremony took place, the "inner" water had increased more than 9 inches, while the "outer" water had diminished fully 18 inches.

The following is the programme of the day's ceremonies:—

PROGRAMME FOR THE OPENING OF THE GANGES CANAL ON THE 8TH APRIL, 1854.

1. The religious service will take place at a quarter past six precisely, within the railed enclosure immediately under the north wing of the aqueduct over the Solani river, on its east face.

2. Arrangements will be made for confining the admission to the space running from the north side of the model room, immediately under the earthen mound and aqueduct on their east side, as far as, and including the railed enclosure above mentioned, to those who, as being of Christian birth and connection, will wish to take part in the religious ceremony, together with his Highness the Maharajah of Gwalior, and such other native chiefs and gentlemen as may be specially invited.*

3. After the conclusion of the religious ceremony, the ladies present, with the hon. the Lieutenant Governor, his Highness the Maharajah of Gwalior, Major-general the Hon. G. Anson, with the officers of their staffs, Sir Robert Hamilton, baronet, Sir Henry Lawrence, K. C. B., Lieut.-colonel Cautley and officers of the canal department, and such other officers and visitors as the space will admit, to the number of 150, will proceed by the staircase under the northern wing of the aqueduct to the space at the top, where the ceremony of opening the canal gate will be gone through. A guard under an officer will be placed at the entrance to the staircase, in order to check admissions beyond the regulated number.

4. Other parties, who have been present within the railed enclosure set apart for the religious service, will find a portion of the earthen embankment, south of the pukka aqueduct, set aside for their accommodation, and access will also be open to them along the top of the earthen embankment north of where the band will be stationed.

5. The ceremony will close by the firing of a royal salute after the admission of the water on the pukka aqueduct.

Shortly after five o'clock the troops appeared in view, first the cavalry, which took up positions in various parts on both sides of the Solani. The guns followed, and were stationed to the east of the Shamecanah, where the religious service was to be performed. The 46th N.I. marched to the aqueduct, on both sides of which they were drawn up in single file by companies.

The following was the arrangement of the canal workmen, previously ordered to prevent confusion and trouble during the ceremony. The revetment ghat steps of the aqueduct were reserved for their sole use. Each officer on the works marshalled his men at five o'clock under their respective mistresses and tindals, and squad after squad were made to sit down regularly in the places assigned to them. A space of two feet was allowed to each man, and when once seated, the men were not allowed to rise again till the ceremony was concluded. All the workmen employed on the Mahewur, Dhunowrie, and other works, north of the aqueduct, as well as those who constructed the aqueduct, ranged themselves on the east and west sides of the canal, north of the aqueduct, extending upwards of 3,500 feet, while the workmen employed in the Roorkee workshops, the brickfields, &c. were ranged on the revetment steps on both sides of the canal south of the aqueduct, to the extent of 1,000 feet. Beyond the limits assigned to the canal establishment, numerous spectators of all classes posted themselves on the revetment steps, thus extending the line and mass of human beings crowded together on the banks to several thousand feet, both north and south of the aqueduct.

Some time before the appointed time, European visitors began to assemble within the railed enclosure immediately under the north wing of the aqueduct over the Solani river, on its east face. Arrangements had previously been made for confining the admission to those who, as being of Christian birth and connection, wished to take part in the religious ceremony, together with His Highness the Maharaja of Gwalior, and such other native chiefs and gentlemen as might be specially invited.

* Why not say at once,—"No niggers admitted?"—P. D.

The Maharajah made his appearance somewhat before six o'clock, mounted on an elephant, richly caparisoned, and attended by a small retinue on elephants and horses. The artillery belled forth a boisterous welcome of seventeen guns, making strange confusion among the horses and elephants, which were drawn up around in numbers. The Rajah was led into the canopy by Sir R. Hamilton. At this time there could not have been less than three or four hundred Europeans present within the enclosure and on the aqueduct.

At a quarter past six precisely, the Lieut.-Governor's carriage was seen approaching, and on its drawing near, the guns again saluted, and the principal military and civil officers moved forward to receive His Honour at the entrance of the enclosure. Immediately after his arrival the religious services commenced.

The Rev. Mr. Hamilton, chaplain of Cawnpore, commenced the service by reading the following verses solemnly and distinctly:—

"The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof; the world and they that dwell therein."—Psalm xxiv. 1, 2.

"The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for it, and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose."—Isaiah, xxxv. 1.

"When the poor and needy seek water and there is none, and their tongue faileth for thirst, I the Lord will hear them; I the God of Jacob will ~~not~~ forsake them. I will open rivers in high places, and fountains in the midst of the valley; I will make the wilderness a pool of water and the dry land springs of water."—Isaiah, xlii. 17, 18.

"Except the Lord build the house, their labour is but lost that build it."—Psalm cxvii. 1.

"Let Thy work appear unto Thy servants, and Thy glory unto their children! And let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us; and establish Thou the work of our hand upon us; yea the work of our hands establish Thou it."—Psalm xc. 16, 17.

The Rev. Mr. D'Aguiar, chaplain of Laudour and Roorkee, then read the following prayer, which had been prepared by the Lord Bishop of Calcutta:—

"O Almighty and ever blessed Lord God, we, thine unworthy servants, acknowledge that without thy merciful help, no works of man can prosper.

"We implore thee to bless, of thy great goodness, the benevolent undertaking which has thus far been successfully conducted; and which is now to be opened for the general benefit of our fellow creatures.

"Grant, O Heavenly Father, that it may accomplish, in Thy good providence, all the benevolent ends for which it was designed!

"May it avert the dangers of famine!—may its waters carry refreshment and life wherever they flow—may 'the parched land become,' as it were, 'a pool, and the thirsty land springs of water'—may it be the means of enriching the barren and dry soils with fruitfulness—may it promote the personal and family comfort of the needy and distressed. And thus may it advance the happiness and elevate the social positions of the teeming populations of this part of India!

"We humbly thank thee, O Lord, for having put it into the heart of thy servants, the authorities at home and in this country, to devise and execute this most humane and arduous project.

"May thy blessing rest on them, and on all who may have to aid in the regulation and conservation of this great undertaking.

"We pray thee also, O Lord, so to dispose the hearts of all around us, that they may see that the renown and dominion in these eastern regions to which thou hast exalted our nation, are employed for the welfare of the people committed to their charge, and for the diffusion of the highest temporal and spiritual blessings. And thus may these benevolent acts subserve the counsels of thy will for the making known thy saving and eternal truth in Christ Jesus throughout the immense populations of British India.

"And grant, O Lord, we pray thee, that none of us who profess and call ourselves Christians may diminish the good effects of this work of beneficence, or obstruct the progress of the Gospel, by our inconsistent and unholy lives, or our neglect of thy revelation of mercy in thy blessed Son our Lord.

"These and all other blessings we humbly implore, in the name and through the alone name and mediator of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, to whom, with thee and the Holy Ghost, three persons and one God, we ascribe all honour and glory, might, majesty, and dominion, for ever and ever. Amen."

The Rev. Mr. Maddock, of Mussoorie, closed the service with the Lord's Prayer and the benediction.

After the conclusion of the religious ceremony the ladies present with the Lieutenant Governor, the Maharajah of Gwalior, Major-general the Hon. G. Anson, with the officers of their staffs, Sir Henry Lawrence, Sir R. Hamilton, Colonel Steele, Lieutenant-colonel Cautley, and officers of the Canal Department, Colonel Boileau, Mr. H. S. Reid, and several other visitors, proceeded by the staircase under the northern wing of the aqueduct to a space at the top portioned out for the ceremony. Other parties took up their position on portions of the eastern embankment, south of the aqueduct, and also north of where the band was stationed.

All preparations being ready, his Honour the Lieut. Governor stepped forward and unloosed one of the levers which kept the canal gates closed, Captain Goodwyn performing the same office to the other lever. This was the signal for all the eight gates being simultaneously thrown open, and the waters of the Ganges rushed through into that which is to be its future channel. The band struck up the National Anthem, the artillery saluted royally, the soldiery on the aqueduct fired salvos by companies, and the natives lining both banks shouting "Gunga Mbye ke Jey." The whole formed a scene that would have done a painter's heart good. Mr. Mackenzie from Agra came with his daguerreotype, but unfortunately too late for the best portion of the spectacle.

Thus ended one of the most imposing ceremonies that has perhaps fallen to the lot of any of those present to witness.

But not the least entertaining part of the day's proceedings was still in store. Two grand dinner-parties were given in the evening, the one ~~at the House of the~~ Lieutenant Governor to Colonel Cautley and a large party of guests; the other by Colonel Cautley to the overseers and other subordinates connected with the canal department. Importance was given to the former dinner by the speeches which followed it—reports of which are given elsewhere. The minor entertainment was in some respects a failure. It was hoped that here, too, there would be speeches suited to the occasion, and our reporter had duly provided himself with paper and pencil. But with the exception of a few words from the chairman, in proposing the health of Colonel Cautley, there was no eloquence to add a zest to the good cheer. Mr. Scanlan, indeed, in proposing the health of Captain Goodwyn, briefly eulogized that most meritorious officer, and Mr. Cribble did ample honour to the guests of the evening. But the attraction of the fireworks soon drew away most of the company, including our reporter.

EXHIBITION OF FIREWORKS.

This was something superior to what we are accustomed to see in the Upper Provinces; and if taste in design and goodness of quality are taken into consideration without reference to the number of fireworks, ~~and the extent of ground occupied by them~~, we who have seen some of the finest exhibitions in Calcutta and elsewhere, hesitate not in declaring that the display at Roorkee on the night of the 8th, was greatly superior to any we have witnessed. The Chromastropes were particularly fine. Wheels ran within wheels, some round centres, others crossed and recrossed each other, some revolved in opposite directions, and others again had a zigzag motion, giving a very diversified and beautiful appearance. There were, in addition to these Chinese representatives, whirligigs and elephants, and horses, houses, trees, avenues, &c. &c.; the images of men and women in the whirligigs and other revolving fireworks, being provided with blue lights in their hands, which igniting simultaneously with the quick-match, added to the general effect by the dissimilarity of their fire from that of the remainder of the fireworks of which they constituted a part.

The crowd was as usual immense. On the explosion of one of the miniature forts, the spectators on the eastern bank of the canal, secured from danger in their high position, were highly amused at the confusion caused among their friends below, by the running away of some of the elephants, who took fright at the noise and rattle of the falling towers, and, in spite of the blows which their mahouts dealt them, turned and fairly bolted, threatening to crush everything in their way. Fortunately the occasion of their terror was but of short duration, or the loss of some lives may have been apprehended.

The aqueduct, the model room, the bridge, the workshop, the clock tower, the revetment steps, down to the water's edge, on both sides, were illuminated, and the effect of the lamps on the water was very pleasing. Some of the lamps were after a time set afloat, and as they passed down the stream, they not only added variety to the scene, but they showed also the rate at which the water was flowing. This we measured, and found to be about two miles an hour.

Much praise is due to Lieut. Price, to whose hands the entire management of the fireworks had been entrusted, for the excellent manner in which he performed his task on this ever-memorable 8th of April, 1854.

DISTRIBUTION OF SWEATMEATS.

On the evening of the 8th we were witness to a novel scene. The bed of the canal was filled with men, women, and children (beldars and other work people) to the number of some thousands; these were seated in rows, four and five deep in squads, the aqueduct people here, the brick-kiln there, the rail-waggon propellers yonder, and so on. To these were distributed printed tickets for sweatmeats (one seer to workmen generally, with the exception of bheestees, beldars, and coolies, who received half a seer only). No less than 5,000 tickets of the first class, and 30,000 of the second class were thus distributed: the metaics to be given after the tumasha was over in commemoration of the event. The avidity with which these poor creatures received the "tokens" was astonishing; and, when dismissed with their precious bits of paper, they cheered Gunga Mbye Ke Jey with great spirit, little imagining how soon their present small earnings on the canal would be lessened by the admission of water, and the consequent partial cessation of work. The sweatmeats were stored in depôts on the aqueduct, and after the opening, were distributed to all who held tickets given out on the 6th. The amount expended on this account we believe was not less than Rs. 5,000.

NATIVE PREJUDICE.

It was very currently reported about Roorkee and its neighbourhood that religious fanatics were stirring up the people about Hurdwar, and the country generally, to resist the admission of the Ganges water into the canal, and some suspicions were entertained that an uproar might occur among the people, whence the presence of troops might be rendered necessary. Whether these reports had any foundation or not we will not say; but so far from any ill feeling being manifested by the natives generally against the admission of the water, we may mention, that at Dhunowrie six faqueers from Hurdwar assisted in opening the gates, and were the first to jump into the water and pay it devotion. The shouts of the natives besides gave a sign most positive that they were not opposed to the entrance of the water.

DISTRIBUTION OF PAMPHLETS.

Previous to the ceremony, pamphlets had been printed in three languages, English, Hindi, and Oordoo, giving a short description of the canal, its object, and the motives of the Government in its excavation. These were distributed gratuitously through the heads of departments. The English pamphlet was republished in in our last issue. Some thousands of the pamphlet in these three languages were printed, and widely distributed.

After the proceedings the Rev. R. M. Lamb, missionary C. M. S., with the catechist Paul, addressed full 1,000 of the natives at the mechanical chamber, in front of the canal, for upwards of an hour. They listened with the deepest attention, and appeared much interested in the Gospel message, especially when they were directed to put their trust no longer on the Ganges, but in Him who would give them the water of life, even in Jesus Christ, the Son of God, the Saviour of sinners.

WANT OF WATER.

We believe in consequence of the bund across the Ganges at Hurdwar, there is already felt a want of water for irrigation in those parts where the Ganges was wont to flow; a complaint has been made on this head, but where the benefit of thousands is concerned, the diminution of the profits of a few is not likely to be noticed by the authorities.—Delhi Gazette, April 20.

MEETING ON THE JUMOO FRONTIER.

A very interesting, and, as we believe, a very important meeting has lately taken place on the Jumoo frontier, between the British civil authorities and the Prince Runh Bheer Sing, son and heir-apparent of Maharajah Goolab Sing. The origin and object of this gathering may be given in a few words, but it is not easy to calculate the future effect upon India of this and similar monster meetings now so frequent in the Punjab.

Ever since the publication of the Governor-General's celebrated letter of September last, in which his lordship proclaimed so heartily his determination not only to join, but to lead the crusade against child-murder, and against marriage profusion, which leads directly to child-murder, there has been a sympathetic movement felt in the neighbouring kingdom of Kashmeer, as well as amongst many of the smaller half independent Hill States.

We will not stop to inquire what Goolab Sing's motives may be in turning philanthropist in his old age. We cannot tell whether it is the desire to please the Governor-General, to increase the number of his subjects, or really to atone for a life not spent in the cloister. All we know is, that the old king has set to work just as earnestly, and apparently as heartily, as any of our reformers on this side of the border, to save at once the pockets and lives of his subjects.

Early last month, the prince and heir-apparent hearing that the commissioner of Lahore was coming to Secalkote, sent a deputation to invite that gentleman to join with him in calling an assembly on the borders of his territory to discuss the question of marriage expenditure. The meeting came off on the 16th and 17th of last month. Thousands from the Secalkote District, as well as from the Jumoo territory, came. The native papers teem with accounts of the splendour of the durbar, the crowds that attended, and the "ronuk" or splendour which surrounded the whole affair. We can afford but a passing glance at the good-looking prince, his brilliant court, and the imposing cortège of some thirty or forty British officers, civil and military, grave and gay.

The din of cannon and the discord of "God save the Queen" by the prince's band being over, and all duly ranged or seated, the commissioner addressed the assembled thousands. He alluded first to the interests which the Governor-General and the Maharajah, as well as the prince, had taken in the objects of the present meeting. Then the Governor-General's letters and orders, which preceded and followed the Umritsur grand meeting, were read and explained to the people, who listened with intelligence, and assented especially to that sentence in his lordship's second letter, which describes the result of the meeting at Umritsur as "the commencement of a new social era among the people of the countries beyond the Jumna."

Next, an account of the Mainpooree meetings was given, as well as those at Julundhar, Hooshearpoor, Umritsur, and Goojranwalla, and the people were called upon to agree to similar conditions, which they did by acclamation.

The affair ended by a distribution of books, describing the Umritsur gathering, and other publications of the same sort. An important proclamation by the judicial commissioner for putting down the nuisance of mobbing, and extortion at weddings, was given to the men of our districts, and similar notifications were made by the prince to his own people. In conclusion, the prince very gracefully gave up at once, and for ever, a tax of rupees, one hundred, at each wedding hitherto levied upon British subjects who came across the border to marry. At night, there were fireworks and feasts for people of all ranks.

We had in this and in similar meetings the extension over a vast and interesting tract of country of the greatest social reform that India has ever yet seen. It is easy to denounce murder or crime, and to punish it when detected with the strong arm of the law. But it requires a delicate hand to lead the people in the path of self-reform. In this great work, which began in the North-West Provinces, the Panjab is fast out-stripping every competitor. From the Jelum to the Jumna, wherever the people have been called together by the friendly voice of the district chief, to consider the folly of their ways, they have not only responded cheerfully to the call, but have acted faithfully in accordance with the promises and engagements thus newly taken upon them. A few days ago, Rajah Deena Nath, in this city of Lahore, spent Rs. 2,000 only on a wedding, which, under the old squandering system, would have cost him twenty times as much. He has given the saving made to the young couple, who thus begin the world with money in hand, instead of a burden of debt upon their shoulders. In all our large towns a similar reform is not merely in progress but has actually taken place. Extravagant weddings are fast going out of fashion. Natives of rank and importance are setting the example of order and economy on these festive occasions, and are leaving pompous, noisy and expensive ceremonies to the parvenu tribe of contractors and settlers. This may truly be called a step in the right direction. We shall keep the subject closely in view; but, in the meantime, desire heartily to congratulate the authorities in the Punjab, on the spirit with which the people at large have backed their wise and benevolent designs.—Lahore Chronicle, April 1.

PROGRESS IN ARRACAN.

There are a class of men, not unfrequently encountered, whose main object appears to be to present themselves in the worst possible character before the world. They are perpetually remarking on their own weaknesses, and concealing the qualities which reduce those foibles to insignificance. If by nature full of kindness, they crust it over with cynicism; if keenly observant, they assume a look of vacancy; and if full of liberality, they pretend to extreme niggardliness in trifles. What these men are in society, the East-India Company is among sovereigns. Its good deeds are always concealed, its foibles and weaknesses always patent to the world. It pays its servants as executive officers never yet were paid, and it objects to publish a list of salaries. Yet it allows India to ring with accounts of its meanness in the matter of the half batta. It reduces the land-tax in a province as large as Scotland, and is silent on an act of liberality which diminishes its revenue by lakhs. It refuses to bridge the Soane, unless some trampy toll can be securely levied, and that act of meanness is announced to the world in all the pomp of official documents. It raises a province from a desert into a granary, and allows the world to gather the fact from our analysis of the shipping returns; it suffers a blundering judge to remain upon the bench, and its negligence is paraded in half the popular journals of Europe. The peculiarity is especially observable in the non-regulation provinces. In these territories, where alone its system is uncramped by English formulas, there has been continuous progress, yet they are scarcely heard of, except when some rajah buys a Parliamentary agent, or when some dismissed speculator writes acrid letters to a Calcutta newspaper. We have recently illustrated this tendency from the history of Cachar. We will now illustrate it from that of Arracan. The tale is perhaps even more instructive, though from the absence of strong contrasts it is less striking to the imagination. Unlike the Cacharrees, the people of Arracan have never been compelled to emigrate, because a tribe of savages considered human heads an acceptable offering to the Deity. Cachar has been changed from a battle field into a well-governed and progressive province. Arracan has only been changed from a swampy plain into a granary, and the latter transformation offers little of incident. Yet the narrative of the quiet improvement of a country, and of a slow but constant rise in the scale of comfort, cannot, or should not, be without its attraction for Englishmen.

The narrow slip of coast between the sea and the Aeng range, which we call Arracan, covers an area of about 16,250 square miles. It is generally fertile, and the climate, though deadly to Europeans, is favourable to most varieties of tropical cultivation. The deep lagoons which intersect it in every direction afford ready means of communication, and the splendid harbour of Akyab, one of the safest in the world, offers an easy outlet for its produce. Up to the conclusion of the Burmese war, it appears, from the scanty notices we can collect, to have been governed rather better than most of the Burmese provinces. It was not harassed by the presence of the king, and the plunder of the officials was restrained by the sullen temper of the people. They were always oppressed by an unequal and arbitrary taxation, always harassed by the multitude of social laws—in which the Burmese imitate the Chinese,—and occasionally subjected to the cruelty of the most cruel court in Asia. On the whole, however, there is no evidence of any misery or degradation beyond the usual lot of Orientals. The land was fertile, the people tolerably industrious, and when the British, after annexing the country, organized the administration, it was found that the population numbered about 195,000, and the revenue about four lakhs. From that time for twenty years, the development of the province has known no check. The first care of the conquerors, as usual, was to decide upon the principles of the settlement, the basis of all Indian prosperity. The Arracanese, like the English, have a fondness for individual possession. They had also from time immemorial been accustomed to yearly settlements. It was evident, therefore, that neither the village or the zemindaree system would apply, and the ryotwaree was introduced. It succeeded, and its success is the best, and the least noticed argument for those who uphold that peculiar tenure. The assessment was fixed at a fair though somewhat heavy rate; and as time progressed, adjusted to the description of the soil. The settlement of waste lands was encouraged by rent-free terms, intending in many instances over a generation or thirty-two years. The highest class were employed as Kyoaks or native Tehsildars, and as an Arracanese does not bear oppression like a Madrassee, the evil of native agency was almost prevented. Several taxes, and in particular one on bachelors, a favourite idea of the Burmese, were abolished; and though the capitation tax was retained, it was rendered more equal. A system of justice was introduced, sufficiently rough perhaps, but so speedy that an arrear of more than weeks has not yet been heard of; and though the police was, and continues to be wretchedly inefficient, an Arracanese is not a Bengalee, and can guard his own head with his own hand. The native laws of marriage, divorce, and inheritance were left untouched, and trade was stimulated by the removal of all possible restrictions. Partly, too, from accident, and partly from neglect, the hand of Government has never been heavy in Arracan. It has let things alone, and there are still districts in which a white face has never been seen. The effect of this regular government speedily became manifest. Year by year the extent of waste land taken into cultivation, increased. In the Akyab district alone, upwards of 30,000 acres were taken up between 1841 and 1852. The revenue, which, in 1830, was barely four lacs, increased to more than double that amount.

We need not remind our readers that with the ryotwaree system, the revenue can increase only from an increase of cultivation, or an improvement in the quality of the land. The population swelled pari passu, and though the increase is to be attributed in no small degree to emigration, yet that is in itself an evidence of the attractiveness of the country. In 1852, the case stood thus. The province which in 1825 was almost an encumbrance, had become a rich possession. The revenue was—

	Akyab.	Ramree.	Sandoway.	Aeng.
Land...	Rs. 4,04,759	Rs. 76,466	Rs. 39,227	Rs. 17,878
Capitation	1,63,902	56,242	27,926	22,265
Abkaree..	24,900	2,610	15,686	3,455
Sayer....	41,882	5,499	1,835	2,321
Schools..	41
Post....	3,877
Miscellaneous	5,071
	6,44,452	1,40,807	84,674	45,919
Grand Total,	Rs. 9,15,862

While the expenditure amounted only to Rs. 6,83,575. There was a surplus of 30,000. The revenue had doubled. The population had increased one-half.

	1835-36.	1851-52.	Difference.
Akyab .....	1,08,489	194,167	85,678
Ramree .....	69,297	76,448	7,151
Sandoway ....	22,976	42,708	19,732
Aeng .....	10,776	29,016	18,240
	2,11,538	3,42,339	1,30,801

The trade in produce had been developed till Arracan was competing with Bengal in the rice market of the continent, and the exports which in 1830 occupied a few coasting vessels, in 1852 required 90,000 tons of shipping. In 1853 the country was unequal to the demand on its resources, and we believe that this year every grain of rice is already contracted for. Akyab alone has a trade of thirty-five lacs a year, the imports being seventeen lacs, chiefly in specie, exchanged for produce, and observant officers have remarked a strong tendency to accumulation in the precious metals. All this prosperity has developed the original character of the people. Each man, owning his own ground, secure of a market for his crop, and possessed of a balance in the shape of his wife's jewellery, is as sulkily independent as an English peasant when impertinently addressed. Indeed, the Arracanese are remarkable for an amount of boorish indifference, which is almost insolence. They care nothing about authorities, and, though paying their revenue regularly, will submit to no oppression. Their habitual name for Europeans is "pha-loung" tadpoles, and they laugh at the more servile Bengalees. The same wealth and independence keep them tolerably free from crime. Almost the only crimes known are culpable homicide, the result of ungovernable temper, and petty thefts; but how much of this immunity is attributable to the inefficiency of the police, remains to be seen. That body is, or was, inadequate in number, Akyab itself with its great shipping trade and its population of 115,000 having only ten constables for its protection. The defect has, we believe, in part been remedied, but the police establishments still require a sterner organization. An increase in the number of European officers is also said to be required, but with these exceptions, Arracan appears to possess all necessary machinery. For the rest, the province, with its increasing revenue and growing population, with its rice-fields spreading every year, and its trade rising daily in importance, may teach one more lesson to those who will not comprehend "how annexation pays."—Friend of India.

RAILWAY PROFITS IN INDIA.

The Bombay Gazette has published a schedule of the receipts upon the Bombay Railway for the seven weeks ending March 12th. It shows an average amounting to Rs. 2,480 a week, contributed by no less than 8,470 passengers, of whom two per cent. occupied first-class seats. The statement is satisfactory; but we have one before us, which is more valuable still. It is the account of the receipts and expenditure for the last six months of the past year, and is the first statement we have seen without blanks or omissions. Extending as it does over so long a period, it may, we submit, fairly be accepted as a representation of the profits likely to be derived from the passenger traffic. During that half-year the receipts were—

Passengers .. ..	Rs. 57,625	4	7
Parcels .. ..	1,156	6	5
Horses, carriages, and dogs ..	36	8	0
Hire of engines .. ..	210	0	0
Special engines and carriage of materials	506	2	2
	59,534	5	2

The number of passengers of all grades is stated at 22,486½, but we conceive there is some clerical error in the account. The total expenses on the other hand were—

Locomotive charges .. ..	Rs. 14,571 7 7
Coaching charges .. ..	6,509 14 9
General charges .. ..	6,725 7 10
	<hr/>
	27,806 14 2

We gave the details of these charges in a previous article. The general result shows that when calculated over a long space of time, the expenses still amount to only 46 per cent. of the receipts, and the surplus is equal to within a fraction of four per cent. per annum on the total outlay. We have stated this fact, and the hopes to which it may reasonably give birth, too often to justify a repetition. It is only necessary to prove that the result we deduced from imperfect and partial accounts, is supported by more extended calculations. The first railway made in India, without a terminus, and without reaching any important centre of trade, still returns four per cent. from passengers alone.—Friend of India.

LIEUT. P. STEWART AND THE TELEGRAPH.

There is one officer who has been concerned in the successful introduction of the Electric Telegraph, who has never received his due meed of approbation from the public. To Mr. Stewart, while acting as superintendent of the experimental line, is due the credit of making all those arrangements which are so essential to success, yet are so seldom appreciated. Partly from the absence of any tangible result, and partly perhaps from the impression that so very young an officer could lend no serious aid to the work in hand, his services have been overlooked by all except his superiors. Yet his task was by no means light. The line was to be extended at once to Lahore, a distance of 1280 miles; Dr. O'Shaughnessy had expressed a wish that depots should be established at seven different places, and Government and the public were alike known to be feverishly impatient for success. Meanwhile, each successive ship discharged in Calcutta a portion of the materials required. Forty artificers arrived. Then came tons of wire, and miles of wire insulated with gutta percha, besides the machines for straightening the lines. Thousands, or we may say hundreds of thousands, of posts were to be fixed at equidistant places all along this immense line, part of which runs through a tract where bamboos are only known by name, and where timber is an almost unattainable luxury. Then all these posts were to be grooved.

They were to be set up "properly," a phrase which will be readily comprehended by those who know what it is to instruct native artificers to act according to rule on a work of which they do not know the object or the reason. Lastly, all this was to be effected in a country where there is but one road and no railways,—where delay is a habit, and unconscious disobedience perpetual,—and by an officer with no authority over any one except his signallers,—and so young, that his appointment was received with a feeling of surprise. Let our readers remember how impossible a large combined operation is in this country, how frequently the most explicit instructions are misunderstood, and how great a danger existed of wires, men, and machinery all turning up anywhere except in juxta-position, and they will appreciate the nature of the task. Mr. Stewart's energy, perseverance, and good temper accomplished this most annoying duty. By dint of endless correspondence, which included the Military Board and the executive engineers, all was placed in train. The artificers were despatched by steamer to the depots, and reached them. The wire was carried by steamer and bullock-carts to thirty-two different places, between Calcutta and Benares alone, all at unequal distances, and all, therefore, requiring their special length of coil. The straightening machines did not arrive in time, and they were made at the Kidderpore iron-yard, under Mr. Stewart's immediate superintendence. Throughout the line there was not, we believe, a blunder, or a single day's delay, and when Dr. O'Shaughnessy arrived, he found himself able to drive on the work as rapidly as if he himself had been upon the spot. We think it just that, in meting out their praise for this great undertaking, the public should not forget the officer who so successfully performed a task, none the less irksome that it was from its nature unattended by publicity or credit.

It may not be unnecessary to state that we are not indebted for any of our facts to Mr. Stewart.—Friend of India.

THE LONDON MAIL of March 8th arrived at Calcutta April 16 (per Bengal).

THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.—Mr. Arthur Malet, from Bombay, and Mr. Daniel Elliott, from Madras, were expected at Calcutta about the end of April, to take their seats in the legislative council of India.

SIR SCUDAMORE W. STEEL, K.C.B., has been appointed to the command of the forces in Burmah, and is to proceed thither forthwith.

MR. QUILLET has resigned his place in the direction of the I. G. S. N. Company.

KISHNAGHUR.—The following is from our Kishnaghur correspondent:—"As two dāk runners were passing about midnight along the road near Mira, within the jurisdiction of Thannah Bailey, they were intercepted by a gang of dacoits numbering five or six men, one of the runners was killed, and the other fearing the same fate, ran away, leaving behind him the dāk wallets, which the dacoits carried away. The darogah has proceeded to the spot to hold a local investigation; but as yet no trace of the ruffians has been discovered. Nobin Chunder Sircar and three others, who falsely represented themselves to have been deputed by the deputy collector to collect rents, were tried by the sessions judge the other day, and found guilty, upon the evidence of Baboo Wooma Chura Bhattacharjee, deputy collector, and his amlak. Nobin Chunder was sentenced to imprisonment for five years, and the pseudo peons to three years each. The scholarship examination of the students of the Kishnaghur College ended on the 25th of last month. A number of them passed successfully, but as yet I have not been able to ascertain their names."—Bengal Hurkaru, April 5.

MYMENSING.—The following is from a Mymensing letter dated 30th ultimo:—"The Garrows, or the mountain tribes, continue to commit depredations on the British territories. Not a month passes but we hear of some one being murdered by these wild men. They generally carry off the heads of their victims, for the purpose of performing the funeral ceremonies of some deceased relative."

FINE UPON MESSRS. WATTENBACH, HEILGERS, AND CO.—We understand that Government has decided upon imposing a fine of 10,000 rupees upon Messrs. Wattenbach, Heilgers, and Co. in respect of the short payments of duty on shipments of indigo made by that firm. The decision proceeds upon the principle that whether actually innocent or guilty, the principals must be held answerable for the acts of their servant, when apparently the only parties to benefit thereby. We imagine that the course taken will meet with general approval, as the punishment is sufficiently severe to afford a striking example, while at the same time some consideration is shown for parties who, though legally, may possibly not be morally guilty of fraud. Our readers will recollect that the entire value of the indigo rendered liable to confiscation exceeded 85,000 rupees.—Bengal Hurkaru, April 11.

BENARES.—The following is from a correspondent at Benares, under date of 3rd April:—"The hot weather is setting in fast, and the station is getting dull. The new Post-office is advancing towards completion; the site that has been selected is really a good one, convenient for all parties. The Government bullock-train has commenced its operations anew, at the same time having to contend with a rival train established by Mr. Thomas Palmer, junior, of this station. An item which I perused in your paper regarding the establishment of a central jail at Benares, has been corroborated by your contemporary at this station, who has made 'inquiries in the proper quarter.' The editor of the Benares Recorder is said to have tendered his resignation; some say that the ex-editor comes back again, others are of opinion, that a gentleman is coming up from your city. The Indian Standard, who pretends to be the real friend of the Uncovenanted, has displayed his ignorance sufficiently, for the public to draw the inference as to what he is capable of. He now wishes to deprive poor orphans of their rights. I allude to an article that appeared in his columns anent the Military Orphan Society. The editor proposes that illegitimate children of officers be sent to the Lower Orphan School, forgetting, I dare say, that children born in wedlock are sent to England for their education. An officer who has all his lifetime subscribed to the Orphan Institution, expects after his demise, that his children will be provided for in a respectable manner, not in the way that the sapient editor of the Delhi luminary proposes. If such would be the case, it should be left optional for officers to subscribe to the Orphan Fund. The education which the children at the Lower Orphan School receive, is merely sufficient to send them out as drummers and fifers; and would the editor of the Indian Standard wish the children of officers to be on the same footing? A friend of mine sent me a copy of the paper, requesting me to be a joint subscriber with him. 'The principles that the editor advocates are a sufficient guarantee,' my friend adds; to which I answered, 'I have seen enough in the paper you have sent me, so pray excuse me.'"—Hurkaru, April 8.

THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF THE PUNJAB having left Bunoo on the 26th March, proceeds by Esakhel to Maree, opposite Kalabagh, on the left bank of the Indus. Thence Mr. Lawrence again leaves his camp to visit Kohat, where he will most likely conclude his important and lengthened inspection of the Trans-Indus frontier.

PRESIDENCY COLLEGE.—The Hurkaru of April 5 gives many of the details of the scheme of the new Presidency College, drawn up, it is said, by Mr. J. P. Grant and Dr. Mouat.

THE COSSIPORE ROAD.—The Judges of the Supreme Court have now given a verdict in favour of the East-India Company v. Rajah Seebkistno, so that the public will have their drive along the whole river bank from Calcutta to Cossipore.

DR. FALCONER is about to return to England, and Dr. Thompson, it is said, is to succeed him in his appointment. Dr. Falconer has some scientific undertaking to complete under the orders of the Court at home.

JOTEE PERSAUD.—The dispute between Jotee Persaud and his nephew is not to be brought into court. The lalla has given his nephew ten lacs of rupees, and the whole matter is amicably adjusted. It is said that the lalla has substantiated a new claim on the Government for four lacs and a half, which will help to pay his nephew.

THE REV. MR. MORGAN, of the Parental Academy, has been invited to Madras, to help in modelling an academy like his own at Madras, to be supported by the same Doveton funds.

PASSENGERS HOME.—The agent of the P. and O. Company will not now book an Anglo-Indian's passage further than Alexandria, not being sure that the company's vessels in the Mediterranean may not have been taken up by the British government.

MR. T. BRUCE has retired from the civil service from the 20th April.

OPIMUM.—The fourth opium sale of the year took place April 10th, at the Exchange Rooms. The following are the results:—

	Chests.	Highest.	Lowest.	Average.	Proceeds.
Behar..	2,855	775	770	773-6-94	22,08,125
Benares	1,170	805	795	799-7-94	9,35,400

The above, as compared with the March sale, exhibits a falling off in prices for Behar of upwards of Rs. 36, and for Benares, of upwards of Rs. 38. The decrease as compared with the February sale is Rs. 20 and 10 per chest for the Behar and Benares drug respectively.

CAUSEWAY ACROSS THE SOANA.—The Calcutta journals publish an official correspondence upon the construction of a hard causeway across the sandy bed of the Soana. It appears, that in 1850 the Government sanctioned, and Captain Knyvett constructed an experimental causeway 150 yards long. It succeeded, and it was estimated that a similar causeway across the entire bed would cost Rs. 1,45,600. This sum the Court of Directors refused to sanction, unless there "was a prospect of some considerable return." It now appears, that the construction of a mile and a half of causeway will be sufficient, and the expense will be only Rs. 90,000. The returns from a moderate toll are expected to reach Rs. 20,000 a year, and as this is equal to something like twenty-one per cent. on the outlay, the considerable return is already secured. The Governor-General, therefore, sanctions the undertaking without further references to Europe.

CAOUTCHOUC.—A correspondent of the Englishman states that the owners of a caoutchouc farm in Assam have a thousand mounds of the article ready for shipping to Calcutta.

DEATH OF BRIGADIER-GENERAL PALMER.—It is with unfeigned regret we have to announce the demise of Brigadier-General T. Palmer, which took place at Mussoorie on the 15th instant. The following extract of a letter from a correspondent on the spot will give full particulars of the sad event:—"The General arrived here on the 12th, much exhausted from the trip up the hill, and he sunk from sheer exhaustion at 1 P.M. on the 15th, yesterday. He was sitting in an arm-chair an hour before his death, talking occasionally, though very indistinctly. He was quite himself up to the time I mention, and apparently died as quietly and calmly as possible; no pain did he suffer, nor did he or those around him think his end was so near. His remains are to be buried at five o'clock. Peace be with him. He was sixty-seven years of age last January." General Palmer had many friends in this station, as well as in other parts of India, all of whom will deplore the loss of a kind-hearted, generous friend.—Delhi Gazette, April 19.

MESSRS. CRISP AND CO. have been refused compensation for their losses in Rangoon, because they sold gunpowder and muskets to the Burmese. They have written to the Englishman formally denying the accusation. The commodore's mission, they thought, was a mission of peace. The story that the commodore threatened to hang May Flower Crisp on the yardarm, is therefore, of course, incorrect.—Friend of India.

NEW ROAD—CALCUTTA TO DACCA.—Estimates have been called for exhibiting the cost of constructing a metalled road, similar to the Grand Trunk Road, from Calcutta, through Jessore to Dacca, to join the road under construction from the latter station, via Chittagong, to Akyab.

MR. LEDLIE, Curator of Government books at Agra, has issued a notice, requesting gentlemen, who write to him for books, will sign their names legibly. The request will be echoed by every journalist in India and in England. There are a whole class who appear to take especial pains to make their signatures as unintelligible as possible. Their letters are well written; date, residence, and address are all clear, but the name is frequently a scrawl, which no one save the compositors can read, and they learn it as a new character.

ARMY HEAD-QUARTERS.—The Englishman understands that Simla is no longer to be the head-quarters of the army. The Commander-in-Chief for the future is to reside either at the presidency, or at one of the great military stations on the frontier. The latter, we suspect, is the more accurate version of the order. The Commander-in-Chief will be useless in Calcutta, and when the telegraph is completed, it will matter little at what distance from the presidency it may please him to reside. Lord Fitzclarence resides chiefly at a military station, and is not, we think, likely to fix himself as an ornament in the council chamber.

ACCIDENT TO MRS. WEBB.—We regret to perceive in the Hurkaru, that a serious accident has occurred to the family of Dr. Webb of Calcutta. Mrs. Webb and four children were returning from the evening drive, when the reins broke, the carriage was upset, and Mrs. Webb, with the infant in her arms, was thrown out. The child, strange to say, was unhurt, but Mrs. Webb was seriously injured.

IRON.—A letter from Bunnego mentions that Captain Hollings, deputy commissioner of Shapore, has discovered a large lode of iron ore in his district, yielding, it is said, to the magnet, 79 per cent. of pure metal. Our informant does not state whether the neighbourhood supplies fuel for the eduction of the ore in large quantities.—Delhi Gazette, April 5.—The Hurkaru publishes the following note from a correspondent:—"It may interest you to hear that Captain Saxton, the surveying officer in the Tributary Mehals, has discovered a bed of iron ore of great extent, with a coal-field in close proximity to it on the banks of the Brahminee river, which enters the sea at Point Palmyras, and is said to be navigable during a considerable portion of the year." This is, we think, the tenth locality in which the existence of iron has been pointed out since the commencement of the discussion.

TREATMENT OF CHOLERA.—Dr. Thomas O'Brien writes to the Calcutta Morning Chronicle, to express his belief in the efficacy of oxygen gas in cases of cholera. It can be administered by "shaking powdered chlorate of potash on a heated surface, and making the patient inhale the fumes." He does not assert that the gas exercises any curative effect per se, but it keeps the patient alive till another treatment has had time to operate. Any very powerful stimulant appears to be beneficial in this disease. The object is to give nature time to recover, and strong spirits will frequently revive a native, when medicine has failed. The European, accustomed to rich meat and wine, appears to require something even stronger. The effect of oxygen as a stimulant will be appreciated by any one who has ever witnessed an exhibition of "laughing gas."

A PIC-NIC TO THE KHYBER.—An Englishman never changes his amusements. He must have cricket in Cuba, and he risks a massacre to obtain a race-ground at Shanghai. A correspondent of the Englishman tells us, that on the 29th March, a party went for a pic-nic to Jumrool, just at the entrance of the Khyber. They had only a few horsemen as an escort, but the natives, who collected to the number of about 500, were friendly and civil. A pic-nic to the Khyber! It may yet be a favourite place for excursion trains from Calcutta.

MILITARY ON DITS.—Captain James, it is said, has accepted the appointment of private secretary to the future Governor of Bengal.—Major Vetch, the deputy commissioner of Assam, has arrived at the presidency on his way to England, under the new furlough rules. Captain Butler is acting pro tempore, but it is supposed Captain Dalton will be appointed should Major Vetch vacate his appointment.—The Hurkaru informs us that Brigadier J. S. Hodgson, commanding the Punjab irregulars, and major of the 12th N.I., has resigned his appointment with the intention of retiring from the service. It is also said that Captain Fagan, of the 8th light cavalry, whose restoration to the service after he was cashiered, gave such offence, talks of resigning.—It is said that H.M.'s 10th, now at Lahore, will relieve the 1st Europeans in Pegu, at the commencement of the next cold season.

THE ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.—The great public disappointment that was experienced when, on the arrival of the Oriental and Pekin, no heads of intelligence were forwarded by the electric telegraph cannot yet have been forgotten. The Governor-General, sympathizing with popular feeling, caused a strict and searching inquiry to be made as to the cause of the disappointment in both cases, with a view to ascertain, if possible, where the blame, if any, should attach. This inquiry has, we understand, only lately been concluded; and although the "cause" has been traced, yet the blame cannot be fixed upon more responsible shoulders than those of the universal scapegoat, Nobody. But we are happy to be able to add, that measures are to be adopted by which, on the recurrence of like disappointment, the responsibility of Nobody will be ignored, and the Government will expect Somebody to explain "the reason why." In fact, the master attendant has been requested to issue a G.O. to the pilot service, to the effect that every pilot in charge of a mail steamer will be held responsible to Government for the non-delivery of the heads of intelligence to the electric telegraph people. On entering the river, he is to stop at the first telegraph-station, for the purpose of communicating the news; and this rule is to be imperative in all cases and under all circumstances, excepting where the safety of the vessel would be compromised. In the event of his being unable to communicate with the telegraph office at one station, he is to stop without fail in passing the next station on the line; and should the state of the weather or other causes render such communication impracticable both at Sangor and Kedgerie, then he is to take advantage of Diamond Harbour in passing the station there. Nor is the pilot to exercise an irresponsible discretion either, whether to stop or not, just as the whim may seize him; but in every instance when he does not stop, he is to make a full and circumstantial report of the cause, the sufficiency or insufficiency of which will be determined by the marine authorities. With a rule so stringent, we believe the public may feel assured that they are not again likely to be subjected to the surprise which was occasioned by the default on the part of Oriental and Pekin.—Hurkaru, April 14.

RUNGPORE.—An extraordinary phenomenon, which occurred in Rungpore on the 10th, is thus described by a correspondent of the Englishman:—"Since I last wrote to you, Rungpore has been visited with a disaster, so frightful and destructive in many parts, that I am unable to describe its horrors to you. On the 10th, about four in the afternoon, a tornado rose in the neighbourhood of Gopalpoor, where the Koori zemindars reside; it came in a line from W.S.W. to E.N.E., with tremendous speed, and, for a distance of nearly 30 miles, swept over the country in a straight line of about 600 yards in breadth. The destruction of human beings, cattle, houses, trees, and bamboos, is beyond my power of description. There are two villages in Pyrabund, and one village in the Bamandungah estate. I have just heard, which have been totally depopulated. Fifty-three persons—men, women, and children—have been killed in one village, in Pyrabund, and not a vestige is to be seen of their houses, their cattle lying dead in the fields. I went with Mr. Dampier yesterday to Dum-Dumma Ghat; and, in a small space, we counted 23 dead human bodies, besides cattle, goats, sheep, and dogs. Large tokens of bamboos rooted up, broken and shattered into rags, and the people gored and spitted through and through, like meat for roasting. I fear I have yet to hear of more destruction in two villages of Bamandungah towards Pannallah Ghat. The magistrate has issued orders to the thannah for reports of the destruction done, with the view to forward them to Government. An elephant belonging to the Futtehpore zemindars was carried away, and found buried under a heap of bamboo tokens. A village near Douty was also destroyed and depopulated. Several boats at the ghat were taken up and thrown on the bank, broken to pieces. On either side of the tornado, no damage was done, and but little rain fell. People who witnessed the tornado at a distance, describe, that it went with awful speed,—they saw both people and cattle taken up in the air and disappear, and the same with houses, stacks of straw, trees, branches, &c."

—The Governor of Bengal has sanctioned the formation of a subdivision of the north-east part of the Rungpore district, with the head-quarters at Sookanee, and has appointed deputy magistrate Baboo Lokenath Turrufdar to the charge thereof, with the full powers of a magistrate. We understand that certain villages of Rungpore and of Dinagopore are to be placed under this subdivision. This is a move in the right direction; but we wish the deputy magistrate had been placed at Titilya, which is the centre of a circle equidistant from Rungpore, Dinagopore, Purneah, and Darjeeling, about 80 miles each. There has heretofore been a denial of justice at Titilya on account of the distance of that place from the four adjoining zillah stations. Perhaps hereafter this may be done, and a few villages of the Purneah district, immediately bordering on Titilya, and also the turai of Darjeeling, may be added to the deputy's jurisdiction, which would fill up his duties and be an accommodation to the public.—Hurkaru.

THE THOMASON TESTIMONIAL.—The Agra Messenger has obtained the following information regarding the Thomason Testimonial:—"The committee of the Thomason testimonial met at the secretary's house on the morning of the 29th ultimo, when the list of subscriptions was examined. The amount subscribed was found to be Rs. 33,000, exclusive of the sums subscribed in the Punjab, of which no account had been rendered, and the committee have been given to understand that the Punjab committee intend to reserve their own funds for expenditure in those provinces. After reading letters from various subscribers, it was resolved that the amount should be appropriated in the following manner: 'To obtain from England a portrait of the late Mr. Thomason, to be placed in the Metcalfe testimonial, Rs. 3,500. For five silver medals at fifty rupees each, for colleges at Delhie, Bareilly, Agra Missionary, Lawrence Asylum, and Benares, Rs. 6,250. Two gold medals at 100 rupees each, for Roorkee and Agra Government Colleges, Rs. 3,750. A scholarship at Agra Missionary College, Rs. 3,600; and a scholarship at Delhie Missionary College, Rs. 1,800, amount of funds specially subscribed. A scholarship for college at Ajmeer, Rs. 2,400. A ditto for medical students at Thomason's hospital, Agra, Rs. 7,200. A marble mural tablet for New Church at Agra, Rs. 1,000. A bust of Mr. Thomason for Agra College, Rs. 2,500.'"

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS.

BRIGADIER CHEAPE'S FAREWELL ORDER.

"The brigadier-general being about to proceed to the presidency, all reports are to be made through the usual channel for the information of Brigadier Williams, next senior officer, till further orders. In quitting the Pegu division, the brigadier-general desires to thank the officers and men who have been under his command, for the aid and support they have on all occasions so willingly rendered him; by their zeal and activity, valour, and exertions, the service and duties have been at all times satisfactorily performed, and he desires, in taking leave of the men, to express the admiration with which he has viewed their soldierly spirit exhibited during the service in this country, often under many vicissitudes and privations. In the field, he has witnessed the gallantry of the artillery always effective; and he has seen the 67th N.I. in action with the enemy, and the 4th Sikh regiment, and the Dorundah irregular cavalry; these regiments will return to Hindoostan and to the Panjab, with well-earned reputation, and with the merit of having done good service to the state, and well supported the honour of the British arms in this country.

"The brigadier-general trusts to be pardoned for particularising the above corps, which have been employed with him personally. The whole of the troops here, during the war, have been on many occasions tried, and never found wanting; and although we are now at peace, he desires to record the high satisfaction it has given him to bring to the notice of Government the great gallantry displayed on recent occasions by different detachments of regiments now serving in Pegu against marauders and dacoits, who are still in arms.

"The brigadier-general has much satisfaction in recording his sense of the good conduct of the force, and will ever feel an interest respecting each regiment and individual that has been under his command. To the staff-officers of his division, Captains Lindsay and Hamilton, adjutant-general department; Major Allan, Captains Durrock and Thomson, quartermaster-general's department; Major Budd, Captains Simpson, Newlyn, Howell, Brander, and Baugh, commissariat department; Lieut.-col. C. Fraser, C.S., chief engineer, and the engineer department generally; Dr. Forsyth, and the medical department generally; and to Captains Ferris, Gaynor, and Gilfillan, pay department, he desires to convey his acknowledgments, and to record his sense of the able manner in which the duties of their several departments have been conducted, and to thank them for the obliging and zealous manner in which they have acted in performance of their duties."

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ANNAND, A. S. to offic. as coll. of Burdwan, dur. abs. of J. J. Ward, or till further orders, April 4.
BEDWELL, A. C. to be comm. of revenue and circuit for Nuddea div.
BRUCE, T. perm. to res. the Comp.'s serv. fr. April 20.
BUCKLE, W. B. to be mem. of the ferry fund committee at Houghly.
CAMPBELL, J. G. to be comptroller of govt. salt chokeys.

CARMICHAEL, C. P. to offic. as register to sudder dewanny and nizamat adawlut N.W. prov. dur. abs. of Watson.
 CHRISTIAN, G. J. to offic. as sec. to central committee of exam. dur. abs. of Watson, April 6.
 CRASER, E. C. to be mag. Backergunge, to cont. to offic. as joint mag. and dep. coll. of Maldah, April 7.
 ELLIOT, A. J. to be registrar of deeds in district of 24 pergunnahs.
 GRANT, C. Asst. to the supt. Dehra Doon, vested with the powers of a sudder ameen and moonsiff in that dist. March 31.
 HAMILTON, Sir R. N. C. bart. to be adjt. to the gov. gen. for Central India.
 HARRISON, E. F. to be member of the ferry fund com.
 LIMOND, C. to be an asst. to the mag. and coll. of Patna, and to have ch. of the sub. div. of Bach, vested with the powers of a joint mag. and dep. coll. in Patna and Monghyr, April 7.
 LYONS, J. P. sudder ameen of Goorgaon, to offic. as principal sudder ameen of Nursingpore.
 MARTIN, J. C. to offic. as sub-assist. to commis. of Assam.
 PATERSON, W. S. to be joint mag. and dep. coll. of Goruckpore, fr. date of R. Marriott's embark. for Eur. March 30.
 REILY, J. H. to be mem. of the ferry fund committee.
 RICHARDS, C. J. H. to offic. as joint mag. and dep. coll. of Goorgaon, March 31.
 RICKETTS, M. to offic. as mag. and coll. of Shajehanpore dur. abs. of J. R. Baines.
 STUDDERT, W. to be a mem. of the ferry fund com. at Baraset.
 WARD, J. R. to be a joint mag. and dep. coll. of the second grade.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BARNES, J. R. 7 mo. on m.c.
 BAYLEY, E. C. to Europe on furl. March 31.
 BECKETT, W. O. A. 1 mo.
 BELL, W. judge of Rungpore, 3 mo. on m.c.
 BOLDERO, E. J. 8 mo. fr. April 1, to hills north of Deyrah, on m.c.
 JENKINS, C. 1 mo.
 LANCE, C. E. 1 mo.
 MORRISON, D. B. fr. April 10 to April 1, to hills north of Deyrah.
 NÆSMYTH, J. 1 year to Europe.
 RAIKES, A. C. 7 mo. on m.c.
 TREGGAR, V. 20 days.
 WARD, J. J. 18 mo. on m.c.
 WATSON, W. C. 1 mo. fr. April 10.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

GAWEN, Rev. J. to be chaplain of Chinsurah.
 GLADWIN, Rev. C. H. B. placed at disp. of Govt. of India, Apr. 12.
 HAMILTON, Rev. C. D. chaplain of Cawnpore, 1 mo.
 PRATT, the Ven. J. H. archdeacon of Calcutta, 18 mo. on m.c.
 SLOGGETT, Rev. C. chaplain of Simla, leave canc.
 WALLIS, Rev. A. W. placed at disp. of Govt. of India, April 12.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BIRCH, Lieut. col. R. J. H. jud. adv. gen. of the army, to offic. as sec. to Govt. of India in mil. dept.
 COOKWORTHY, 1st Lieut. C. art. fr. 1st co. 9th to 2nd co. 4th batt.
 ECKFORD, Col. J. 56th N.I. ret. to du. April 2.
 ELLIOTT, Lieut. A. P. C. 5th L.C. to be capt. fr. April 1, in suc. to Smith, inv.
 ERSKINE, Capt. W. C. to be agent to the lieut. gov. in the Saugor and Nerbudda territories, March 31.
 FRASER, Ens. W. M. 44th N.I. to be lieut. fr. March 30, in suc. to Williams, ret.
 FREETH, Maj. W. inv. estab. is invested with the powers of a mag. March 29.
 GREEN, Lieut. J. vet. est. dept. assist. commr. ordnance commr. dept. to be assist. commr. in suc. to McDowell.
 GRIFFIN, Ens. R. D. 64th N.I. to be lieut. fr. Feb. 1.
 HAILES, Lieut. H. W. 44th N.I. ret. to du. April 2.
 HALL, Capt. A. 5th L.C. to be maj. fr. April 1, in suc. to Smith, inv.
 HAMILTON, Lieut. J. H. vet. est. asst. commr. to be dep. commr. ordnance comm. dept. in suc. to McDowell, April 12.
 HORSBURGH, Capt. T. S. 32nd N.I. ret. to duty, April 2.
 HUNGERFORD, Capt. T. J. W. art. fr. 2nd comp. 8th to 3rd comp. 5th batt. and to com. No. 20 horse field battery, under orders to be housed in Pegu, and to proc. to Dum Dum forthwith.
 IRWIN, Lieut. W. B. 10th N.I. to be asst. resident at Nepal, and com. of residency escort. To contin. with his regt. while on for. serv.
 JENKINS, Lieut. C. V. 47th N.I. to do duty 4th regt. Seikh local inf. v. Johnson.
 KEIGHTLY, Lieut. C. H. 44th N.I. to be capt. fr. March 30, in suc. to William, retired.
 KNYVETT, Maj. A. to be lieut.-col. of inf. fr. Feb. 1, in suc. to Lieut. gen. P. Byres, dec.
 KNYVETT, Capt. F. 64th N.I. to be maj. fr. Feb. 1.
 MAISTER, 1st Lieut. gen. horse art. to offic. as commandt. of No. 4 or garrison art. and comm. of ord. during abs. on leave of Lieut. Mackinnon.

MORTON, Ens. B. W. D. 30th N.I. to be adjt. Assam, L.I. batt.
 OLPHERTS, Brev. maj. H. A. art. fr. 2nd comp. 4th to 2nd comp. 8th batt. and to com. No. 2 light field battery.
 PHILLIPOTS, Capt. J. T. 66th or Goorka regt. returned to duty.
 RATTRAY, Lieut. T. 64th N.I. to be capt. of a comp. fr. Feb. 1.
 RICHARDS, Cornet W. J. T. 5th L.C. to be lieut. fr. April 1, in suc. to Smith, inv.
 SMITH, Lieut. col. L. H. 5th L.C. having been declared incapable of performing the active duties of his profession, is, at his own request, transferred to the invalid estab. fr. April 1.
 SYERS, Lieut. col. J. D. to be lieut. col. of inf. fr. Feb. 1, in suc. to Lieut. gen. P. Byres, dec.
 THOMSON, Lieut. E. 67th N.I. placed at disposal of for. dept. to be an asst. commr. in the Punjab, April 7.
 TRAVERS, Capt. J. 2nd in com. Bhopal cont. ret'd. to duty, and resumed his appt. March 19.
 WHEATLEY, Maj. A. to be lieut. col. fr. April 1, in suc. to Lieut. col. L. H. Smith, inv.
 WYLD, Capt. W. 4th L.C. to offic. as cantonment jt. mag. of Sealkote, dur. abs. of Chambers.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT DATES SPECIFIED.

ARTILLERY.

CURRIE, R. April 10.

SCONCE, J. April 2.

INFANTRY.

CHESTER, H. D. E. W. Apr. 2. ROBERTSON, R. S. March 28.
 COPLAND, A. April 10. SCONCE, H. April 2.
 ECKFORD, A. H. April 2. STUART, H. B. March 28.
 GRAHAM, G. F. April 10. THAIN, A. S. April 2.
 HENNESSY, G. R. WARD, E. April 2.
 NOBLE, H. N. April 10.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ASHBURNER, Lieut. B. art. to Oct. 15, to Kurrachee, Cashmere, and Simla.
 BARTON, Ens. N. 52nd N.I. fr. April 20 to Oct. 15, to Nynce Tal, hills north of Deyrah, and Simla, old regulations.
 BEAN, Lieut. C. C. 25th N.I. 2 mo. fr. March 17, to Calcutta, prep. to app. for furl. to Eur. on m.c. under old reg.
 BONAMY, Lieut. G. C. 32nd N.I. fr. Feb. 15 to April 19, to pres. on m.c. prep. to apply for furl. to Eur. old reg.
 BRADFORD, Lieut. H. R. 36th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 1, to Mussorie and the hills north of Deyrah, old reg.
 BURT, Brev. maj. H. W. 46th N.I. 3 mo. fr. March 8, to pres. on m.c. prep. to apply for leave to sea, 2 year. to lapse on m.c. under old reg.
 CAMPBELL, Lieut. H. L. 52nd N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15 to Cashmere, Simla, Nynce Tal, and hills north of Deyrah, old reg.
 CHAMBERS, Capt. J. 21st N.I. fr. May 2 to 31.
 CHEAPE, Brig. gen. Sir J. K.C.B. 6 mo. to Ceylon.
 COMBS, Lieut. J. R. R. 42nd L.I. 3 mo. fr. April 15, to pres. prep. to app. for furl. to Europe, old reg.
 COOKSON, Capt. G. R. jt. mag. of Meerut, 10 days.
 COX, 1st Lieut. W. F. art. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Cashmere and Meerut, old reg.
 CRAWFORD, Lieut. A. 9th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Cashmere, old reg.
 DAVIDSON, Lieut. A. G. to May 15, in ext.
 EAGER, Lieut. F. J. 25th N.I. 3 mo. fr. April 15, to pres. prep. to app. for furl. to Europe.
 FAGAN, Capt. G. H. leave canc. fr. Feb. 20.
 FULTON, 1st Lieut. J. art. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Simla and hills N. of Deyrah.
 GORDON, Lieut. F. D. supt. of Chundeyree, 20 days.
 HAMPTON, Capt. W. P. 31st N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15.
 HAYES, Capt. F. asst. to res. at Lucknow, 1 mo.
 HENDERSON, Capt. B. fr. April 15 to Dec. 15, with perm. to visit Cashmere and Murree.
 HODGSON, Brev. lieut. col. J. S. 12th N.I. fr. March 1 to Nov. 1, to Simla.
 HORNE, Brig. R. commandt. at Benares, 8 mo. to Mussoorie and the hills N. of Deyrah, on m.c.
 HUMPHRYS, Ens. M. A. 20th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Cashmere.
 LAING, Lieut. F. E. 17th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Almorah, under old regulations.
 LAMB, Lieut. J. 29th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Cashmere, under old regulations.
 LANDERS, Lieut. col. J. E. 9th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Simla, under old regulations.
 LARPERT, Ens. L. H. P. De H. 21st N.I. fr. April 25 to Oct. 15, to Cashmere.
 LISTER, Lieut. col. F. G. 53rd N.I. furl. to Europe, on m.c. under new regulations.
 LOWTHER, Lieut. W. H. 52nd N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Almorah.
 MACQUEEN, Lieut. A. 42nd L.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Almorah and hills n. of Deyrah, under old regulations.
 MILLS, Capt. H. 2nd N.I. 6 mo. from April 15, to Simla, under old regulations.

MURRAY, 1st Lieut. R. 3rd co. 7th batt. art. 6 mo. from April 15, to the hills N. of Deyrah, old regulations.
 OAKES, Ens. R. E. 52nd N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Almorah and hills N. of Deyrah, old regulations.
 PALMER, Brig. gen. T. com. the Cawnpore div. fr. April 1 to Nov. 30, to the hills N. of Deyrah, on m.c.
 PARISH, 1st Lieut. W. H. art. fr. March 15 to Nov. 20, to Murree, on m.c.
 PARLBY, Ens. B. S. B. 7th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to pres. old regulations.
 POGSON, Brev. capt. W. Q. 43rd L.I. fr. April 20 to Oct. 15, to Meerut and the hills N. of Deyrah, old regulations.
 POGSON, Ens. E. R. 55th N.I. fr. March 11 to June 11, to Bombay, prep. to apply. for furlough to Europe on m.c. new regulations.
 PRICHARD, Lieut. J. P. 15th N.I. fr. April 1 to Nov. 15, to Cashmere, on m.c. under old regulations.
 PROUT, Capt. W. R. 56th N.I. fr. Feb. 25 to Nov. 25, to Simla and hills N. of Deyrah.
 RAWSTORNE, Lieut. E. C. 9th N.I. 7 mo. fr. April 15, to Cashmere, under old regulations.
 SHAKESPEAR, Capt. J. T. asst. to the commr. of Ajmere, fr. March 23 to April 15, in ext.
 SIDDONS, Capt. G. R. brig. major at Agra, 6 mo. fr. April 15, to the hills N. of Deyrah.
 SITWELL, Ens. F. H. M. 31st N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Mussoorie and hills N. of Deyrah, under old regulations.
 THOMSON, Lieut. F. R. 29th N.I. fr. April 15, to Kangra, old regulations.
 TRAVERS, Lieut. E. J. fr. April 15 to Dec. 15, with perm. to visit Cashmere and Murree.
 VINCENT, Lieut. W. 49th N.I. 6 mo. fr. March 20, to Cawnpore, old regulations.
 WARD, Lieut. J. 1st N.I. 6 mo. fr. May 1, to Cashmere and pres. prep. to app. for furl. to Europe.
 WINTLE, Lieut. E. H. C. 61st N.I. fr. March 1 to Nov. 15, to Bareilly on m. c. old regulations.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

DEMPSTER, Surg. T. E. 1st brig. art. to ass. med. ch. of regt. head qrs. staff, and band.
 HARPER, Surg. G. 36th N.I. to relieve Surg. Elderton fr. civ. duties at Meerut.
 KNIGHT, Assist. surg. R.C. M.D. services pl. at disp. of gov. N.W. pro.
 LOCH, Surg. W. J. 27th N.I. to 'rec. med. ch. of 20th N.I. fr. Surg. Phillipson, proc. on leave.
 LYELL, Asst. surg. R. M.D. to be post. mr. of Ghazepore, April 5.
 THORP, Assist. surg. E. C. services pl. at disposal of gov. of Bengal.
 THRING, Asst. surg. R. S. O. M.D. to be civ. asst. surg. at Meerut.
 WARNEFORD, Asst. surg. C. F. M.D. to med. ch. of Ramgurbh batt. v. Brougham.
 WILSON, Asst. surg. J. app. to the med. ch. of Hoshungabad, dur. abs. of Surg. J. Middlemas, 17th Madras N.I. on m.c.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT DATES SPECIFIED.
 CURRIE, G. V. April 10. | ELLIOT, J. April 2.
 FARNCOMBE, J. B. April 2. | MACLEAN, L. H. J. April 10.
 O'DONEL, F. H. M.D. April 10.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BRUCE, Surg. H. A. M.D. fr. March 1 to Oct. 15, to hills north of Deyrah.
 CROZIER, Surg. A. W. 18 mo. to Europe on furl. on m.c. under new regulations.
 DODD, Surg. J. 2 years to England on m.c.
 KEAN, Surg. A. M.D. 6 mo. to the Mauritius on m.c.

HER MAJESTY'S FORCES IN THE EAST.

STAFF.

Maj. G. Talbot, 43rd L.I. to be mil. sec.; Lieut. R. C. Glover, 43rd L.I. to be a.-d.-c. and Lieut. T. L. Mayne, 14th lt. drag. to act as Persian interp. to Maj. gen. Sewell; Lieut. the Hon. L. W. C. A. F. Cary, 27th ft. to be a.-d.-c. to c.-in-c. of Bombay; Maj. gen. M. Fane, admitted on the gen. staff, Bengal pres. fr. April 3.

INFANTRY.

87th. Capt. A. H. Cobbe, Capt. W. F. Ring, and Lieut. J. Hallows, to be assts. in the civ. eng. dep. in the Punjab.—32nd. Lieut. R. T. Colls to be asst. in civ. eng. dep. in the Punjab.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BATEMAN, wife of Wm. s. at Intally, April 8.
 BEANLAND, wife of J. G. s. at Khoosyngunge, April 5.
 INGLIS, Mrs. Henry, s. at Alipore, April 13.
 LUCAS, the lady of C. J. T. d. at Calcutta, April 5.
 LYALL, wife of J. s. at Darjeeling, April 7.
 MARTIN, wife of J. s. at Ishapore, April 6.

MORNAY, wife of H. s. Calcutta, April 15.
 ROSE, wife of C. d. at Berhampore, April 2.
 SARKIES, the lady of C. J. s. at Calcutta, April 8.
 SHILLINGFORD, wife of C. A. d. at Purneah, April 9.
 SHOWERS, the lady of Lieut. col. St. G. D. 72nd N.I. s. (twins), at Barrackpore, March 31.
 STEWART, wife of Wm. McAdam, d. at Calcutta, April 7.
 TEIL, wife of Thomas, d. at Kidderpore, April 15.
 THADDEUS, the lady of M. d. at Calcutta, April 6.
 THOMAS, wife of G. s. at Calcutta, April 17.
 WRIGHT, Mrs. W. d. at Calcutta, April 10.

MARRIAGES.

DANVERS, E. to Miss Sophia C. Harris, at Calcutta, April 17.
 INMAN, H. L. to Sophia C. d. of Col. E. Pettingal, at Nowgong, April 3.
 MAYHEW, Maj. 1st asst. adj. gen. of the army, to Maria E. d. of G. G. Macpherson, at Calcutta, April 3.
 WESTON, Capt. H. B. naval store-keeper, to Julia, d. of the late S. Robinson, at Calcutta, April 4.

DEATHS.

BARFOOT, W. H. J. at Calcutta, aged 24, April 12.
 BAYARD, J. at Calcutta, aged 37, April 3.
 BULLER, Arthur E. s. of E. P. c.s. at Futehgur, aged 3, April 9.
 CAMPBELL, S. J. D. at Calcutta, aged 41, April 13.
 CURRIE, Amy Louisa, inf. d. of Lieut. M. E. at Umbala, April 7.
 ERSKINE, Arthur C. D. inf. s. of Capt. W. C. at Jubulpore, April 6.
 FAGAN, D. G. inf. s. of James, at Calcutta, April 13.
 FITZPATRICK, D. C. H. inf. s. of D. at Monghyr, March 19.
 GONSALVES, M. at Calcutta, aged 44, April 7.
 GRAHAM, Robt. B. G. s. of the late Dr. W. at Bhaugulpore, April 8.
 PALMER, Brig. gen. T. 72nd N.I. commanding Cawnpore div. at Mussoorie, April 15.
 THOMAS, J. W. at Calcutta, aged 41, April 8.
 VICTOR, Maria, inf. d. of Thomas, at Calcutta, aged 10, April 11.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

APRIL 5. Emma Colvin, Nicolson, Melbourne; Mary Anne, Nacoda, Bombay and Alleppee.—8. Monarch, Shepherd, Coringa.—7. Spy, Shepherd, Rangoon; Neptune, Lakeman, Maulmain; Athelstan, Hickman, Adelaide; Eliza Penelope, Ramage, Maulmain; Kleber, Crowell, Melbourne; Clarissa, Lyster, Singapore, and Vizagapatam; Loodianah, McDonald, Liverpool.—8. Krishna, Ward, Rangoon; Octavia, Murdoch, Shields and Cape of Good Hope.—9. Steamer Zenobia, Rennie, Rangoon.—10. H. C. steamer Fire Queen, Burbank, Maulmain and Rangoon; Shoe Gong, Mendham, Rangoon; steamer Mauritius, Seales, Plymouth and Madras; Sea Horse, Heron, Liverpool; Victoria, Smith, Bombay and Alleppee; City of Glasgow, Muir, Glasgow; Cornubia, Ellison, Sydney.—11. Southern Cross, Paine, San Francisco and Singapore; Hamoody, Pursin, Singapore.—12. Stornoway, Hart, Liverpool; Linnet, Hart, Rangoon.—13. Berenice, Berthon, Rangoon; Josephus, Paine, Liverpool; Aga Bahkur, Barnett, Rangoon; Martaban, Roddock, Liverpool.—14. Skylark, Henry, San Francisco and Singapore.—15. Steamer Bengal, Bowen, Suva and Madras.—16. Steamer Sesostri, Neblett, Rangoon; H. C. T. Lahore, Tesseymann, Rangoon; Atist Rohoman, Sawyer, Mauritius; Kotka, Bergstrom, Hartlepool; Laure Estelle, Bastard, Bordeaux; Matinal, Bow, Point de Galle; John Hepburne, Galatin.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Monarch (April 6), from COBINGA.—Mrs. E. Shepperd and 3 children.
 Per Clarissa (April 7).—Mrs. Bell.
 Per Kleber.—Mrs. Crowell.
 Per Athelstan (April 7), from ADELAIDE.—Messrs. Harriott and King, Dr. Mahony, Mrs. and two Misses Hickman.
 Per Neptune.—Mr. and Mrs. Rogers and 5 children.
 Per Eliza Penelope (April 7), from MOULMAIN.—Capt. Good, of the 67th regt. B.N.I.
 Per Octavia.—Mrs. Murdoch and daughter.
 Per H. C. S. Zenobia (April 9), from RANGOON.—Brig. gen. Sir John Chespe, K.C.B.; Capt. Brown, a.-d.-c.; and Capt. Voyle, dep. com. ord.
 Per Shoe Gong (April 10), from RANGOON.—Mrs. Mendham; Maj. Beecher, of the 8th irr. cav.; Lieut. Harris, of the 67th B.N.I.; Ens. Judge, ditto; Ens. Melvil, ditto; Mrs. Lewis and child.
 Per Cornubia (April 10), from SYDNEY.—Mr. and Mrs. Keogh and 4 children.
 Per Fire Queen (April 10), from MAULMAIN.—Mr. Paterson, Lieut. Shaden, Mr. Law, Capt. Hamilton, of the steamer Indus; Dr. Alloway, Messrs. Wells, Blacker, Kelly, and Stephens; Mr. and Mrs. Capon and 3 children, Mrs. and Miss Thompson, Lieut. Faithful, Baboo Tarabullab Chatterjee.
 Per Mauritius (April 10), from PLYMOUTH.—For CALCUTTA.—Rev. W. Gleeson, Mrs. Col. O'Donel, Miss and Master C. O'Donel, Dr. O'Donel, Hon. E.I.Co.'s serv.; Miss Cash, Mrs. Whitcomb and infant, Mr. Hildebrand, Lieut. F. Ellis, H.M.'s 8th Lane.; Messrs. H. Noble, Graham, Copeland, McLean, and Currie, Hon. E.I.Co.'s serv. and Mr. R. Currie, Bengal art. From MAURITIUS.—Mrs. Bell and 2 children and Mr. J. Gilmer. From CAPE.—Mr. Donald. From MADRAS.—Mr. W. P. Dickson, 6th M.N.I.
 Per steamer Berenice (April 13), from RANGOON.—Lieut. Jackson, 67th B.N.I.; Messrs. Cross and McArthur.
 Per Aga Backer.—Lieut. Maizey.
 Per Josephus.—Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty and 2 children.
 Per Linnet.—Mr. Boudville and Mr. Harrington.
 Per Bengal (April 17), from SUVA.—Mr. J. Houston. From MALTA.—Mr. Grant. From SOUTHAMPTON.—Messrs. Grant, Chalmers, Drummond, Raynsford, Tims, Mr. and Mrs. Can, Mr. Scott, Miss Fife, Messrs. Mackay, Daanvers, Rome, Hewett, and Nicholson, Dr. Williams, and Dr. J. Light. From MARSHALLS.—Dr. A. Squire, Mr. Mullock, Mr. Rollins, Mr. Newson, and Miss Wight. From SUEZ to CALCUTTA.—Mrs. McDonald.

Per SESOSTRIS (April 18, from Rangoon).—Brev. Lieut. col. Cotton, Capt. Hicks, Capt. Thompson, A. S. B. Mr. Jones, Mr. Smith.
Per LAHORE (April 18, from Rangoon).—S. J. Bushby, Esq. Ensign; J. P. Bowling, asst. surg.

DEPARTURES.

APRIL 5.—Myram Dyaram, Brady, Mauritius; Juliana, —, —, —. 8. Steamer Bombay, Treagar, Madras, Ceylon, Aden, and Suez.—7. Sir Robert Seppings, Clark, Mauritius; steamer Tensasserim, —, —, —. 10. Ayshire, Miller, Maulmain and Rangoon; Delhi, Martin, London.—11. Porres, Johnson, Sydney.—12. Thane, Wales, Rangoon.—13. Soobrow, Nacoda, Mauritius; James Alexander, Redley, Liverpool; Camillus, Jellico, Mauritius.—15. John Hepburne, Galastam, Rangoon; Evadne, Smith, London.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Hindoetan (April 19), for MADRAS.—Capt. Crawford, Mr. Burge, Mr. Molony, and Mr. Playfair. For GALLI.—Gen. Sir J. Cheape and Lieut. Cochrane. For BOMBAY.—Mr. Alexander and Lieut. E. Thompson. For ALEXANDRIA.—Dr. Sprenger, Mrs. Sprenger, and 2 children; Mr. Anderson, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Wood, Miss Madge, Master Madge, Mr. Rennie, Mr. Robertson, Mr. Gilmer, and Mr. Donald. For MALTA.—Mr. J. D. Campbell, Mrs. S. Campbell and 2 children.—For MARSHALLS.—Mr. Bailey, Mrs. Bailey, and 2 children. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Rajah Duleep Singh and party, Mr. and Mrs. Dickens and 2 children, Col. Mathie, Col. Lister, Master Lionel Inglis, Dr. Mount, Mrs. Mount, Mrs. Wethered, Mr. F. Bruce, Maj. Hamilton Vetch, Dr. Phillipson, Dr. Crozier, Mr. Bommwetsch, Mr. Paterson, Capt. Horn, the Hon. Mr. H. Elliot, Mr. Gale, Capt. Payne, Mr. Peacock, and Dr. and Mrs. Logan.

COMMERCIAL.

Calcutta, April 18, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.		Sell.	Buy.
Transfer Stock Paper 5 per cent.	prem.	6 0 to	6 2
New Co.'s 5 do.	.. ..	Per. to 4 as.	prem.
Third Sica 4 do.	.. ..	dis.	1 12 .. 2 0
New Co.'s 4 do.	.. ..	0 2 ..	dis. 0 4

BANK SHARES.

Bengal Bank (Co.'s Rs. 4,000)	..	2600 to 2650
Agra Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	700 to 710
N.W. Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	300 to 305

BANK OF BENGAL.

Discount on Government acceptances (3 months)	..	7 per cent.
Do. on private bills and notes	do. ..	5 per cent.
Interest on deposit of Co.'s paper..	..	6 per cent.
Do. on open cash credit accounts	..	6 per cent.
On deposit of Metals, &c.	..	7 per cent.

PRICES OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Sycee Silver .....	Co.'s Rs. 104 4 to 104 18	} per sa. wt.
China Gold Bars .....	15 4 .. 16 1
Gold Dust .....	13 0 .. 13 8
Spanish Dollars .....	223 0 .. 225 0	} per 100.
Mexican ditto .....	222 0 .. 223 0
Sovereigns .....	10 0 .. 10 1	} each.
Madras Gold Mohurs .....	16 0 .. 16 4
Old Gold Mohurs .....	20 9 .. 20 10

EXCHANGES.

Six months' sight Bills are 2s. 0½d. to 2s. 1d. Treasury Bills, at 30 days' sight, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d. Navy Bills, at 3 days' sight, and Bank of England Post Bills at sight, 1s. 11d. to 1s. 11½d.

FREIGHTS.

To London, 7l.; to Liverpool, nominal.

IMPORTS (Calcutta, April 18th, 1854).—In the Import Market we cannot notice much change, while some descriptions of British Cotton Piece Goods appear to attract the notice of Native dealers, others at the same time are equally neglected. A good business has been done in Grey Shirtings and Grey Jaconets, but White Shirtings seem to be taken very sparingly. Dealers have not yet made up their minds to submit to the terms demanded by holders of metals; the business done in Copper, Spelter, and Iron has consequently been limited.

MADRAS.

THE HON. DANIEL ELIOTT has been appointed to the Legislative Council of India. His former experience in legislation, added to his long practical acquaintance with the condition and wants of India, induce us to congratulate the public upon his selection to fill an office on which the welfare of our Indian empire so largely depends.—Athenaeum.

MILITARY ON-DUTY.—The Head Quarters of the 35th Regiment having arrived at the Presidency from Rangoon, and Lieut.-Col. W. G. White, of that corps, being senior officer, has been appointed to command the troops in garrison.

DEATH OF MR. J. B. JAUNCEY.—We have to record the death of Mr. J. B. Jauncey, for many years a well-known solicitor of Madras. He left Madras for the Hills in a very enfeebled state of health, and died in the transit-carriage, on the stage this side of Colar. When the carriage-door was opened, his body was discovered already cold. He was buried at Bangalore; a coroner's inquest having pronounced a verdict of "Died from natural causes." "The occurrence," observes the Athenaeum, "of two deaths of enfeebled gentlemen within so short a period on the Western Road, gives us an uneasy painful feeling as to the dangers of a journey between this place and the Hills for an invalid. The fatigues of the journey, even to the strong, are far more serious in a transit carriage than in a palanquin: and yet the former has so nearly driven the latter off the road, that it becomes a matter of some difficulty to lay a dawk. The completion of the railroad will afford the only complete relief; but in the interior we would suggest that the superintendent of the roads might contrive to distribute his metal somewhat more equally along the road; portions occurring where the traveller has to suffer positive torture for upwards of a mile at a stretch over newly-laid stones; and we would also recommend Messrs. Doutre and Burgall, or whichever of them wished to carry most passengers, not to be quite so chary of the quantity of iron they put into their springs. They are miserably short, and a foot additional length to each spring would give the traveller considerable relief over the bad parts of the road. They ought to have one or two carriages for invalids, on C springs, and fitted with more regard to comfort, so that invalids forced to undertake the journey, might do so with less peril to their lives."

THE BACHELORS' BALL.—A deputation from the bachelors of Madras waited on Sir Henry Pottinger in April, for the purpose of asking him to honour them with his attendance at a ball which they proposed to give in his honour before leaving Madras. Another deputation from the society of Madras subsequently requested the honour of his company at a dinner which they proposed to give him in the Banqueting Room. The state of Sir Henry Pottinger's health was such (says the Athenaeum) that he was compelled to decline both invitations.

BANGALORE.—A traveller en route from Bellary to Kurnool gives us a few items of news. The heat, of course, is excessive. Great scarcity exists along the road, and cholera prevailing. It now assumes a much less virulent form than it did a short time ago. The following lines from a letter regarding the state of the roads deserve attention:—"What is the use of the road (a new one, between Bellary and Kurnool) as no bridges are to be built! This violent effort to show an important public work is a humbug, for what is the object of the road if it is not passable either in the monsoon, or the fine weather to use it. I say the fine weather also, because the banks of the nullahs are in some instances so steep that bullocks cannot drag carts up their banks. The Government should build a Bungalow or two on this road." Truly, our correspondent gives a dreadful account of the new road. After what he says, we know not what is the use of it, except to show on paper, and in that case, bridges are superfluous.—Herald, April 14. We regret to state that cholera, small pox, and measles still prevail in the barracks, and chiefly the first-named disease. A number of deaths have occurred within the last week. The Mussulmen inhabitants have suffered more severely than their neighbours, and in the neighbourhood of the mutton market the disease has appeared with most virulence.—Herald, April 11.—We do not remember having ever felt the heat more severely in Bangalore than for some days back; at the same time, the nights are by no means oppressive. Yesterday the thermometer rose to 90° in the shade, and if there is any difference, it is warmer to-day. At the time of going to press we have symptoms of approaching rain.—Ibid.

OOTACAMUND.—The unusually long spell of dry weather on the Neilgherries broke up on the evening of the 30th ultimo, when the inhabitants of Ootacamund experienced a refreshing fall of rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning. Since then it has rained frequently and heavily. The hotels, both at Ootacamund and Coonoor, are full, an empty house is a sight rarely met with, and the visitors are inclined to be very gay—or were, previous to the sad occurrence noted above, which has, as a matter of course, cast a gloom over society. The tradesmen shopkeepers, &c. are busy, and apparently doing well. A large shop has just been built by Mrs. A. T. Lowry, who, says our informant intends coming out extensively in such articles as please the ladies' fancy. She will probably do well if she can effect cash sales. The absurd and unbusiness-like credit-giving system, against which we have frequently raised our voice, prevails to a ridiculous extent on the Hills, considering that the purchasers are generally birds of passage. A number of the tradesmen and other settled inhabitants of Ootacamund have obtained building sites in the new cantonment of Jackatella, and we shall soon hear of houses being built and shops opened. The climate is said to be more agreeable than that of Ootacamund. The bishop has proceeded on a tour of visitation to some of the Malabar stations, accompanied by the Rev. Mr. Griffiths. A Mrs. McAlpine has opened a school for a limited number of officers' children. We presume that by "officers' children" are meant the children of any parents able and willing to pay; and it is rare indeed that any schoolmaster or mistress of respectable acquirements can find in India a sufficient number of such to remunerate them for the labour of teaching. The station schools are flourishing under the Rev. Mr. Knox. One Signor Recanatì is about to enliven the inhabitants by "great exhibitions" of various kinds, first at Jackatella, and then at Ootacamund.—Ibid.

THE COMET.—A comet has been visible for about the last ten days. On the 4th April, it was about 15 deg. below, or W. S. W. from, the Pleiades, and set about half-past seven. It has since been advancing pretty rapidly nearly in the direction of Orion's belt. Its places, as observed here, were—

	H. M.	R. A.	Dec. N.
On 5th	7 20	2 42 39	15° 32'
10th	6 42	3 34 6	10 32
14th	6 53	4 4 50	6 49
On 18th it will be about	4 29 0	3 49

That is, it will be about 12½ deg. S. from Aldebaran, nearly at the same altitude. It was at first easily recognised by the naked eye, and now that the moon is away, it is again visible, though not so conspicuous; but a small telescope shows it up well. The tail appears to have varied from 60 min. to 1 deg. in length; but its extremity is so ill-defined, that its length cannot be determined exactly.—Correspondent of the Madras Athenaeum.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS.

THE GREAT EXHIBITION OF 1884.

Public Department, Fort St. George, April 14, 1884.

To A. Robertson, Esq., Walter Elliot, Esq., and Zemindar of Vizianagaram.

Gentlemen,—

1. I am directed to inform you that the Right Hon. the Gov. in Council has been pleased to appoint you to be members of a local committee for the district of Vizianagaram, for the purpose of aiding the Central Committee at the Presidency constituted for the collection of works of art and industry for transmission to the Great Exhibition to be held in Paris in 1885.

2. You are requested, in furtherance of this object, to co-operate with the Central Committee with whom you will communicate, and you have authority to associate with yourselves any residents of the zillah whom you may consider likely to promote the wishes of the Honourable Court, as expressed in their despatch to the Government of India, of which two copies are herewith forwarded for your information.

I have, &c.,

H. C. MONTGOMERY, Chief Secretary.

And also to the following gentlemen:—

F. B. Elton, Esq., and F. H. Crozier, Esq., Nellore.

J. D. Bourdillon, Esq., and A. S. Mathison, Esq., North Arcot.

E. Maltby, Esq., and S. N. Ward, Esq., South Arcot.

W. Elliott, Esq., and M. Murray, Esq., Cuddapah.

C. Pelly, Esq., and E. Story, Esq., Bellary.

H. A. Brett, Esq., and T. W. Goodwyn, Esq., Salem.

F. N. Maltby, Esq., and F. Anderson, Esq., Canara.

H. T. Conolly, Esq., and G. A. Harris, Esq., Malabar.

E. B. Thomas, Esq., and T. B. Roupell, Esq., Coimbatore.

H. Forbes, Esq., and J. Silver, Esq., Tanjore.

J. Bird, Esq., and T. P. Harris, Esq., Trichinopoly.

R. D. Parker, Esq., and C. R. Baynes, Esq., Madurai.

C. J. Bird, Esq., and C. H. Woodgate, Esq., Tinnevely.

T. D. Lushington, Esq., and J. J. Cotton, Esq., Masalipatam.

J. Rohde, Esq., and A. Purvis, Esq., Guntoor.

E. B. Glass, Esq., and W. Knox, Esq., Ganjam.

T. Prendergast, Esq., and T. A. Anstruther, Esq., Rajahmundry.

CIVIL

APPOINTMENTS.

BLANE, T. L. ret. fr. the serv. fr. May 1.

FERRÉ, H. civ. and sess. jud. of Tellicherry, del. ov. ch. of court.

GORDON, J. R. to be a marriage registrar of the dist. of Guntoor, to be head assist. to coll. and mag. of Guntoor.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.
TOD, G. B. 6 mo. to Neilgherries, on m.c.

ECCELESIASTICAL.

KILVERT, Rev. E. 1 mo. fr. April 28.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BARROW, Lieut. F. O. 5th N.I. to be probationary sub-assist. commy. gen. April 18.

BRADISH, Lieut. J. 15th N.I. exam. in Hindustani at Bellary, qual. as adjt. April 12.

CAMERON, Lieut. J. M. 24th N.I. to be mem. of loc. com. of pub. inst. at Saugor.

CAMPBELL, Lieut. D. J. P. 7th N.I. qual. in surv.

CAMPBELL, Ens. W. H. posted to 45th N.I. as 3rd ens. to do duty with 50th N.I. till further orders, April 15; to rank fr. Jan. 20.

CLARKE, Ens. H. M. S. fr. 44th, posted to 15th N.I. as 4th ens. to cont. to do duty with 44th N.I. till July 1, when he will join under orders of officer commg. Mysore div. April 15, to rank fr. Feb. 4.

CAMP, Lieut. C. W. art. to be executive eng. Saugor, April 7.

FRASER, unposted Cornet H. fr. 1st to 3rd L.C. as 2nd cornet, to cont. to do duty with 1st L.C. till Sept. 1, when he will proceed to join his corps under orders of officer commg. Mysore div.

FRASER, Corn. H. art. to rank fr. Feb. 4.

FRESHFIELD, Capt. J. S. to be a lay trustee of Trinity Church, Bangalore.

GRY, Lieut. W. A. 48th N.I. qualified in civil engineering.

GOLDINGHAM, Ens. J. A. 27th N.I. d. d. 50th N.I. is removed at his own request to 3rd L.I. to rank next below Hicks, to cont. to d. d. 50th N.I. till further orders.

GREY, Lieut. W. F. art. to rank fr. Dec. 9, 1853.

HARGOOD, Ens. W. fr. 3rd batt. art. posted to 1st Madras fus. as 8th 2nd lieut. to join, under orders of adjt. gen. April 15, to rank fr. Feb. 4.

HEATHORN, Capt. J. L. 3rd L.I. is re-appointed asst. to superint. of roads, April 12.

HEWERTSON, Ens. G. S. B. fr. 46th N.I. posted to 43rd N.I. as 4th ens. April 15, to cont. to d. d. 46th N.I. till further orders, to rank fr. Feb. 20.

HICKS, Ens. F. G. (not arrived) posted to 3rd L.I. as 4th ens. April 15; to rank fr. Feb. 1.

HILL, Ens. H. S. fr. 44th N.I. posted to 48th N.I. as 4th ens. to cont. to do duty 44th N.I. till Sept. 1, when he will proceed to join under orders of officer commg. Mysore div. April 15; to rank fr. Feb. 1.

JENNINGS, Ens. C. J. 4th N.I. do duty 15th, is removed at his own request to 15th N.I. to rank next below Clark, April 15.

KEATING, Capt. J. 3rd L.I. returned to duty.

LAUGHTON, Ens. D. W. posted to 46th N.I. as 3rd ens. to do duty with 50th N.I. till further orders, April 15; to rank fr. Jan. 14.

LAWFORD, Brev. major E. engs. to be supt. eng. of Saugor div.

MAGRATH, Lieut. B. H. W. 21st N.I. to be probationary sub-assist. commy. gen.

MCMAHON, Lieut. C. A. 39th N.I. qualified in surveying.

MCNEILL, Lieut. J. art. to rank from Dec. 9, 1853.

ONSLOW, Brev. maj. W. C. 44th N.I. perm. to retire fr. the service of the Company on pension of lieut. col. fr. May 1, 1854.

PALMER, Ens. W. C. 4th N.I. qual. in surveying.

PAUL, Dr. J. L. to be civ. asst. surg. and postur. at Maulmein.

FLOWERN, Ens. C. H. (not arrived), posted to 19th N.I. as 4th ens. April 15; rank fr. Feb. 14.

RAWLINS, Lieut. H. W. 30th N.I. with sappers and miners, to be a 2nd asst. civ. eng.

REID, Ens. J. B. posted to 5th N.I. as 4th ens. April 15; to rank fr. Feb. 14.

RICHARDSON, Ens. J. A. fr. 31st L.I. posted to 1st Madras fus. as 7th 2nd lieut. to cont. to d. d. with 31st L.I. till further orders, April 15; to rank fr. Jan. 20.

RUM, Lieut. C. J. 1st N.V. batt. to act as sec. to the clothing board, April 18.

SARGENT, Brig. H. to be a lay trustee of Trinity Church, Bangalore.

STEEL, Brig. gen. Sir S. W. K.C.B. to com. of Pegu div. in suc. to Brig. gen. Cheape, April 11.

STREET, Ens. C. W. 2nd Eur. L.I. d. d. 38th N.I. is removed at his own request to 46th N.I. to rank next below Laughton, but to cont. to d. d. with 38th N.I. till June 30, when he will proceed to join under order fr. officer comm. N. div. April 15.

TAYLOR, Lieut. J. C. art. to rank fr. Dec. 9, 1853.

TIREMAN, Lieut. G. J. S. 4th N.I. to be probationary sub-assist. commy. gen. April 18.

TYLER, Ens. T. P. F. fr. 2nd batt. art. posted to 2nd N.I. as 4th ens. to cont. to d. d. 2nd batt. art. till further orders, to rank fr. Feb. 20.

WALPOLE, Ens. H. posted to 2nd Eur. L.I. as 7th ens. to d. d. 2nd batt. art. till further orders, April 15, to rank fr. March 4.

WATTS, Capt. W. H. 5th N.I. to act as executive officer under orders of the Board of Revenue in dept. of public works, April 7.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE, ARRIVED AT THE DATE SPECIFIED.

ARTILLERY.
 GREY, W. F. April 12 | McNEILL, J. April 12
 TAYLOR, J. C. April 12.

INFANTRY.
 ARNOT, D. April 12. | HAY, W. April 5.
 LAUGHTON, D. W. April 5. | REID, J. B. April 5.
 WALPOLE, H. April 12. | WELDON, T. April 12.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ARCHER, Brev. maj. D. 3rd Eur. regt. 6 weeks, fr. April 8, to remain at Vizagapatam, on m.c.
 BROWN, Brig. J. 1 mo. to Neilgherries.
 CASE, Capt. C. H. 1st N.I. from April 10 to July 9, to Bombay, to apply for furl. to Europe.
 CHAMBERS, Ens. E. H. R. 30th N.I. to Europe, on m.c.
 COX, Ens. A. T. 35th N.I. 3 mo. to Madras, on m.c.
 DREVER, Lieut. W. S. 31st L.I. leave canc.
 FLETCHER, Lieut. H. C. 8th N.I. leave canc.
 FOORD, Lieut. col. H. S. art. 2 mo. fr. April 1, to remain at Madras and St. Thomas's Mount.
 GORDON, Brev. maj. N. J. 31st L.I. fr. April 5 to May 1, to Bangalore and Neilgherries, on m.c.
 HALPIN, Maj. G. 25th N.I. leave canc.
 HITCHINS, Brig. B. R. to presidency, prep. to apply for leave to Europe on m.c.
 LIARDET, Maj. C. F. 14th N.I. fr. March 28 to June 30, to Bangalore, on m.c.
 MANN, Maj. J. Eur. vets. fr. March 25 to Sept. 1, to Madras, Bangalore, and Neilgherries.
 MAY, Capt. J. 1st N.V. batt. to Dec. 31, to Neilgherries, on m.c.
 MCCASKILL, Capt. J. C. 51st N.I. 4 mo. fr. April 1, within limits of centre div.
 NICHOLAS, Lieut. J. 44th N.I. 3 mo. fr. April 25, to Madras.
 NICHOLLS, Capt. H. J. 25th N.I. to Europe, on m.c. new regulations.
 PRESCOTT, Lieut. J. C. P. 10th N.I. leave canc.
 PUCKLE, Ens. H. G. 28th N.I. 9 mo. fr. April 1, to Neilgherries, on m.c.
 REYNOLDS, Ens. J. L. 36th N.I. to Eur. on m.c.
 RYVES, Lieut. H. E. 19th N.I. to July 21, to Madras and Bangalore, on m.c.
 SEWELL, Maj. gen. W. H. C.B. leave canc.
 WILSON, Lieut. C. W. 41st N.I. fr. April 8 to June 30, to the Chickulduh hills, on m.c.
 YALDWYN, Brig. J. 30 days, fr. April 15.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ALLEN, Assist. surg. P. fr. do. duty 2nd batt. art. to do duty head quarters and rt. wing H.M.'s 43rd regt. April 13.
 CHOLMELEY, Asst. surg. H. M.D. 1st fus. fr. do. duty under surg. Mysore div. to proc. to join his corps in Pegu.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE—ARRIVED AT THE DATE SPECIFIED.

UMPHREY, A. M.D. April 7.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

ANDERSON, wife of F. c.s. s. at Mangalore, April 8.
 CLARKE, wife of R. G. c.s. s. at Bellary, April 9.
 FAREWELL, wife of Lieut. W. 3rd Eur. regt. s. at Bezourah, April 12.
 HOYLE, wife of Asst. apoth. J. d. at Negapatam, April 12.
 MARSHALL, the lady of Capt. G. S. 18th N.I. s. at Coonoor, April 15.
 SNOW, wife of Capt. W. S. 20th N.I. s. at Cannanore, March 27.
 WEST, wife of P. H. s. at Tellicherry, April 4.

MARRIAGES.

PARKE, W. to Eliza, d. of E. Smalley, at Madras, April 5.
 SCOTT, A. J. to Emma, d. of Col. F. Blundell, at Madras, April 18.

DEATHS.

DE WELLS, W. s. of J. at Calicut, aged 3, April 2.
 DOBBIE, Maj. H. M. 30th N.I. at Shooayghen, March 24.
 GANDARN, wife of C. W. A. at Egmore, aged 41, April 11.
 GEILS, Capt. A. Alex. 1st Eur. fus. at Tonghoo, March 4.
 GURCHARD, F. C. wife of Charles, at Madras, April 18.
 JEREMIAH, J. C. at Madras, April 10.
 JONES, R. S. s. of Lieut. A. C. art. at Secunderabad, April 14.
 HARDING, H. E. inf. s. of the Rev. J. at Ootacamund, April 7.
 HOLLOWAY, Ellen, d. of W. c.s. at Masulipatam, April 11.
 SAGE, Arthur E. A. s. of Lieut. A. 52nd N.I. at Cumburn, April 11.
 WILSON, H. B. s. of J. A. at Madras, aged 5, April 14.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

APRIL 12. Ralf Thompson, Atkinson, Launceston; steamer Bengal, Bower, Suez.—13. Senegal, Reed, London; Aigle, Bandar, Pondicherry.

—14. Samuel McNeill, Mauritius.—18. Steamer Hugh Lindsay, Crowther, Rangoon.—19. Harsinger, Tannen, Ganjam.—20. Carnatic, Stuart, New Zealand; Anne Laing, Wright, Port Louis.—21. Steamer Calcutta, Goodall, Calcutta.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Harsinger (April 19).—Miss E. J. Alves.
 Per Carnatic (April 20), from New Zealand.—Dr. and Mrs. Johnstone, and Capt. Chestney.

DEPARTURES.

APRIL 12. Steamer Bengal, Bower, Calcutta.—14. Hannah, Heritage, Penang and Singapore.—16. Duchess of Sutherland, Williams, Bassein; Lord George Bentinck, Edwell, London; Emerald Isle, Pellot, Mauritius.—19. Piscataqua, Wendell, Calcutta.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Bengal (April 12), to CALCUTTA.—Mr. A. Meneand, Lieut. C. M. Mure, R. W. Norfor, Esq.; C. M. Bushby, Esq.; Asst. surg. G. Barnard.

Per steamer Hindostan (April 24), to SUEZ. To SOUTHAMPTON.—W. A. D. Inglis, Mrs. Inglis and 2 children, His Excell. Lieut. gen. the Right Hon. Sir H. Pottinger, G.C.B.; R. Woosnam, Esq.; F. A. Groves, Esq.; Capt. P. A. S. Powys, Mrs. Powys and child, Mrs. Wedderburn and infant, Mrs. Bury and 2 children, Lieut. C. W. Hinman, Capt. A. H. Irby, J. Patten, Esq. and child of Capt. Halliday. For MARSEILLES.—Col. J. Campbell, C.B. For ALEXANDRIA.—T. L. Blane, Esq. To BOMBAY.—Capt. J. D. Mein, Mrs. Mein and 4 children, Lieut. Walker. For MADRAS.—Mrs. A. Montelari and infant, Mr. J. Vanderspar and Mr. E. Vanderspar.

COMMERCIAL.

Madras, April 24, 1854.

RATES OF INTEREST—ON LOANS.

On deposit of Government Paper ..... 5 per ct.
 On existing cash credit accounts on do. .... 5 do.

RATES OF ADVANCE.

On Government 5 per cent. Stock Receipts ..... 100 per ct.
 On 5 per cent. Promissory Notes ..... 98 "
 On 4 per cent. do. Sincra and Co.'s ..... 88 "
 On Tanjore do. .... 88 "

Discount.

On Government Acceptances ..... 3 per ct.
 On Private Bills, at or within 30 days ..... 5 "
 Ditto above 30 days ..... 6 "
 Investments ..... Rs. 38,90,577 5 11
 Circulation and Deposits ..... 46,57,527 4 10
 Specie in the Bank ..... 37,20,618 11 0

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

5 per cent. loan of 1825-26 ..... 1829-30
 4 per cent. .. 1832-33 1 to 1 1/2 prem.
 1835-36 Par. to 1 1/2 prem.
 1843 1 to 1 1/2 prem.
 5 per cent. transferable } 5 to 6
 book debt }
 Tanjore Bonds ..... Par. to 1 1/2 prem.
 Bank of Madras Shares ..... 13 to 15 prem.

PRICE OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Sovereigns ..... Rs. 10-3-16ths to 10-4 each
 Bank of England Notes ..... 10-2 each
 Spanish Dollars ..... 220 per 100

EXCHANGES.

Bills on England, according to sight, 1s. 11d. to 1s. 11 1/2 d.
 H.M. Treasury Bills, 1s. 11 1/2 d. to 1s. 11 1/2 d.
 Bank of England Post Bills, 1s. 11 1/2 d. to 1s. 11 1/2 d.
 Mauritius Government Bills, 1s. 11 1/2 d. to 1s. 11 1/2 d.
 Ceylon do. 1s. 11 1/2 d. to 1s. 11 1/2 d.
 Court of Directors' Bill on the Government of Bengal, 60 days' sight, none.

Calcutta.—Buy, 1/4 per cent. discet.

Bombay.—Buy, 1/4 per cent. discet.

„ Sell, par.

FREIGHTS.

Quotations to London and Liverpool are 4l. to 4l. 5s. per ton of 20 cwt.

BOMBAY.

THE BOMBAY, BARODA, AND CENTRAL INDIAN RAILWAY.

Our contemporary, the Gazette, informs us that the survey of the Bombay, Baroda, and Central India Railway is now complete, and that Colonel Kennedy, the engineer-in-chief, is about to return home. We trust that the result of the survey, which has been so rapidly accomplished, will soon be laid before the public. There is a question connected with this line which we think demands public discussion. It was, we understand, originally contemplated that the railway should pass through Salsette, and join the Great Indian Peninsula, somewhere about the Sion Causeway; but we are now given to understand that the Salsette portion will not be carried out, but a junction made at Cullian, a measure which seems to give the inhabitants of Bombay an unjust predominance over those of Salsette and Bassein; and equally short-sighted and unjust as, however, they may seem, the disadvantages must be reciprocal. We think this alteration is to be deprecated. Without a doubt, the original intention was by far the best. The island of Salsette is one of very considerable fertility and importance, and is likely to become even more so, under the influence of railway communication. If the line be given up, the whole of the western portion will be left unprovided for. It is exceedingly populous, and would, most undoubtedly, yield a very large amount of traffic to the company. Not only so, but they would likewise command the passenger and goods traffic of the large and fertile zillah of Bassein. Few people have any idea of the value and importance of the salt and salt-fish trade between these places and Bombay and the Concan, which is now carried on by means of carts and boats, all of which will, as a matter of course, fall to the railway; and of the enormous impetus to traffic, which increased facilities of communication will, as a matter of course, afford. Again, this line will open up a number of beautiful and healthy localities for European and native residence, which will not fail in course of time, provided proper facilities are offered, to attract many families who value health, from the crowded and filthy island of Bombay, with its high and heavy rents and its miserable water supply.

Public attention is beginning to be attracted to this very important subject, and in the course of a few years we shall expect to find few or no European residents in Bombay, and not even respectable natives, except those whose business or occupations render it imperatively necessary for them not to leave the island. Mr. Robert Wigram Crawford, our late townsman, in his speech at the last general meeting of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway in London, alluded to the necessity of Salsette branches, in the following words, as reported in the London Mail of the 24th January last:—"He believed, however, from his intimate knowledge of the requirements of Bombay, and the necessity which existed for making the small branches in the island of Salsette, that a very considerable capital would be required under the new guarantee;—he believed that they would spend the additional million in Bombay." The great advantages which result from free communication were never better exemplified than in the instance of this said island of Salsette. Our late excellent and far-sighted Governor Duncan was the first to appreciate the necessity, and built the causeway known as the Duncan Causeway, or more commonly, though improperly, as the Sion, joining the islands of Salsette and Bombay, a work which was afterwards enlarged by the Honourable Mountstuart Elphinstone to double its original width, and a parapet wall added. Under this statesman's excellent government also, a direct road was made from Bandora to Gorebunder. Under the government of Sir R. Grant, the Chimboor causeway was next built, connecting the eastern portion of the island with the remainder, together with a splendid road to Trombay, and a bund, which enables goods to be landed at all states of the tide; and last, though not least, the whole was made perfect and complete by the munificence of Mr Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy and his worthy lady, who erected the magnificent causeway which connects Mahim and Bandora, known by the name of the "Lady Jamsetjee's Causeway." The result of these noble works has been a great mutual benefit to the two islands. Bombay receives an immense supply of vegetables from Salsette and Bassein; there is also a valuable traffic in salt, grain, fruit, grass, mortar, bricks, salt, large quantities of earthenware, and other productions, which are thus cheapened considerably to the Bombay people, whilst employing an enormous amount of labour in Salsette. Had not these works existed, Salsette would have been a mere jungle with tigers for its inhabitants, and Bombay would have wanted many of the necessities and luxuries it supplies. We may add another argument to what we have urged as to the expediency of a western railway in Salsette, which is, that this line would be much nearer than the junction at Cullian, no mean consideration when the probable amount of traffic is taken into account, and more especially the enormous amount of passenger traffic, which must result from various causes, and especially from the required inter-communication between the districts under the control of Tanna for legal and judicial purposes, involving enforced attendance on the Tanna courts. So that we feel convinced that even if the viaduct which will be required to cross the narrow arm of the sea that divides Salsette and Bassein, should prove a little costly, still, any reasonable increase in the outlay would be amply repaid. We have reason to believe, however, that in case the Baroda Company should not deem it expedient to meet the wants of Salsette and the Concan on the Bassein side, it is by no means improbable that a local company may be formed for the purpose. To this we are convinced the leading proprietors of estates would liberally subscribe, and actuated by the same noble spirit that influenced them in the case of the Great Indian Peninsula, would give the ground required gratuitously. We are quite satisfied that the subject will receive full consideration on the part of those concerned; and it will no doubt be better that such a railway should form part of a connected scheme, and not be merely local. At the same time the want is a crying one, and one also that must ere long be supplied, be the source what it may. It will be a general benefit to the public, and no small profit to the projectors themselves. We have been given to understand, that the present project contemplates the commencement of the line from Broach to Surat, leaving the Bombay end in abeyance. We decidedly object to this, not as a commencement, but as an experiment, as we are convinced that the returns of a thorough land traffic to Bombay would be very great. The objections that natives have to travel by sea, would, itself, add to the amount of passenger traffic, that would ensure a respectable dividend; and when we come to count up what we may call incidental traffic, we are fully convinced that the returns of the Bombay and Salsette ends are by means to be despaired.—Bombay Times, April 21.

THE LONDON MAIL of March 24th arrived at Bombay April 24 (per Semiramis).

DAILY PARADE.—Lord FitzClarence has issued a general order, defending his demand of a daily parade from the officers and men of the army of that presidency. He says, it is necessary to make the two classes acquainted with each other:—"His lordship's experience of this part of India, satisfies him that (the Mediterranean excepted) the climate is as good, indeed better, than at most of the stations in other parts of the world where British troops are located, and therefore there is nothing on that score to prevent the regiments of the Bombay army being constantly maintained in that perfect state of field discipline which the state has a right to expect." However, he does not wish that a daily parade should be understood to imply a daily drill, and he allows the men one holiday in each week.

WHO IS TO PAY?—The Bombay Telegraph and Courier tells an amusing story of the manner in which business is occasionally conducted in India. A new range of barracks was built at a cost of 40,000*l.*, and the engineer to whom the work had been confided received the official thanks of the Court of Directors. Soon after a storm occurred, and seven pounds' worth of glass windows were broken in those barracks. Who was to pay for the breakage? The storm of course, but storms are not responsible officers of Government. The question was solemnly debated by a committee of officers, referred to the military board, referred again to Government, referred a third time to England, and referred a fourth time back again. At last it was settled. The storm could not be punished, but the engineer could. He was to pay. He had left the country, and when he returned he, for the first time, remonstrated. Government is always just, his remonstrance was read by the military board, referred to council, referred back to the board, and finally accepted. The engineer was not to pay. Yet even in India time is money.

DISMISSAL OF COL. GIDLEY.—We regret to say that Col. Gidley, of the Bombay army, has been dismissed the service by sentence of a court-martial. The line-step thus caused falls to the 24th N.I., and promotes Major A. Shephard, of the season of 1823, to the rank of Lieut.-Col., Capt. W. G. Duncan to Major, Lieut. G. R. Scatterd to Captain, and Ensign K. Neave to Lieutenant. From the facts which transpired on Col. Gidley's court-martial, the Commander-in-Chief has deemed it his duty to direct that Lieuts. Laurie, Comyn, and Fraser, and Ensigns Loft and Hammond, of the 15th N.I., be brought to trial, and for this purpose a general court-martial has commenced its proceedings.

MR. A. MALET, chief secretary to the Government of Bombay, has been nominated the legislative member of the council of India for the western presidency.

CASTE.—The Dyanodaya of Bombay states that Raghoba Bapajee, the agent to the Rajah of Sattara, who recently returned from England, has been finally excluded from caste. Those of his own party who received him, have themselves been expelled, and compelled to perform penance to secure re-admission.

ACCESS TO GOVERNMENT DOCUMENTS.—The Bombay Telegraph understands that arrangements are about to be entered into by Government, by which the editors of the three daily newspapers in Bombay may have access to all such documents in the Secretariat as may be published without impropriety.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BATTYE, Capt. M. 27th N.I. to be assist. to resident at Baroda, March 8.
BROWN, Lieut. col. W. J. to be col. by brev. from Feb. 1, to stand above Lieut. col. Syers, Bengal inf.
GLASS, Capt. J. M. brig. maj. to act as ag. for gun-carr. v. Grant.
GRANT, Capt. C. F. 3rd N.I. to be superint. of pol. at Ahmedabad, v. Agar.
GRANT, Maj. J. ag. for gun-carr. to proc. to Aden on special du.
LANDON, Brev. maj. 3rd Eur. regt. to do du. with recruits for art. and 3rd Eur. regt. proc. to Deccan.
MALCOLMSON, Lieut. J. H. P. h. att. to do du. with recruits for art. and 3rd Eur. regt. proc. to Deccan.
MILES, Lieut. J. 3rd Eur. regt. to do du. with recruits for art. and 3rd Eur. regt. proc. to Deccan.
OUTRAM, Lieut. col. J. to be col. by brev. from Feb. 1, to stand above Lieut. col. Syers, Bengal inf.; rec. ch. of off. of resident at Baroda from Mr. G. B. Seaton Karr, March 20.
PARK, Cadet A. A. att. to 3rd Eur. regt. and to join.
REID, Lieut. col. A. T. to be col. by brev. fr. Feb. 1, to stand above Lieut. col. Syers, Bengal inf.
BLACK, Lieut. col. com. M. to be col. by brev. fr. Feb. 1, to stand above Lieut. col. Syers, Bengal inf.
WOODBURN, Lieut. col. A. to be col. by brev. fr. Feb. 1, to stand above Lieut. col. Syers, Bengal inf.
WYLLIE, Lieut. col. W. to be col. by brev. fr. Feb. 1, to stand above Lieut. col. Syers, Bengal inf.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ANDERSON, Lieut. C. J. 3rd Eur. regt. to May 25.
BRUCE, Capt. C. J. art. 6 mo. to Eur.
HARRISON, Cadet C. H. May 31, to Mahabaleshwar.
WESTROPP, Lieut. G. R. C. 21st N.I. May 15 to Sept. 15, to Poona.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BARNETT, Assist. surg. detached to Poona for gen. du.
HEWLETT, T. G. att. to 1st Eur. regt. to proc. in med. ch. of recruits for art. and 3rd Eur. regt. ord. to Deccan.
LAMB, Vet. surg. 3rd L.C. to rec. vet. charge of horses No. 4 light field batt.
MCKENZIE, Assist. surg. G. J. to med. ch. of 4th N.I. (rifle corps) dur. abs. of Surg. Ritchie.
RITCHIE, Surg. to be med. storekeeper 4th N.I.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BEYTS, N. C. to be discharged to the Hastings as supernumerary.
BROWNLOW, Volunt. E. M. to join the Hastings, April 24.
CRAWFORD, Asst. surg. of the Feroze, perm. to reside on shore.
CRUTTENDEN, Lieut. 6 mo. to Kurrachee, on m.c.
ELLIS, Mids. of the Acbar, transf. to the Hastings.
GLEN, Asst. surg. of the Tigris, discharged to sick quarters.
HARRIS, Mids. of the Acbar, to be discharged to the Hastings as supernumerary.
LAWSON, Mids. W. W. ret. to duty, to join the Hastings, April 24.
M'ALISTER, Asst. surg. J. attach. to the Acbar, perm. to reside on shore, April 24.
PARKER, Mids. fr. the Acbar to the Hastings, April 22.
PREVOR, Lieut. fr. the Semiramis, to com. the Tigris, April 24.
BRICE, Act. mast. of the Feroze, to act as 2nd assist. to master attend. April 25.
TURNER, Mate J. A. super. attached to the Hastings, perm. to reside on shore fr. April 17.
TWYNAM, Lieut. fr. the Tigris to the Hastings, April 24.
WILLIAMS, Asst. surg. trans. to the Tigris.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BAINES, wife of Asst. surg. R. d. still-born, at Poorundhur, April 13.

DAVIDSON, wife of D. s. at Bombay, April 23.

KEMBALL, wife of Lieut. V. S. art. s. at Belgaum, April.

WRIGHT, wife of Surg. Alex. art. d. at Bombay, April 15.

WILLIS, wife of R. s. at Bombay, April 14.

DEATH.

JOHNSTONE, J. at Broach, aged 23, April 13.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

APRIL 13. Tornado, Tanton, Greenock; Maple Leaf, Porter, Aden; Maria Grey, Dixon, Calcutta; Typhoon, Bell, London.—14. H. C. Planet, Tribe, Kurrachee.—15. Indians, Machan, London; Richard Cobden, Stuart, Liverpool; steamer Acbar, Balfour, Persian Gulf, Buara; Vasco de Gama, Lucas, Liverpool; William Gibson, Miller, Liverpool.—16. Clangregor, Camochan, Liverpool.—17. Queen Mab, Glendinning, Liverpool; Kusrovia, Short, Siam, Singapore, and Cochin; William and Jane, Hunter, Port Phillip.—18. Anna Dorothea, Darby, Liverpool; steamer Bombay, Beyts, Kurrachee.—19. Falkland, Hewitt, Rutchagerry.—20. Steamer Singapore, Rogers, Hong-Kong, Singapore, Penang, and Galle.—21. Constant, Angeban, Calicut.—23. Marion, Bisset, London; steamer Victoria, Menesse, Kurrachee.—24. Columbus, Hilton, Greenock; steamer Semiramis, —, Suez.—25. John Gardner, Pemberton, Boston.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Tornado (April 13), from GREENOCK.—Mr. James McIver, Miss O. McIver, G. Frost, Mrs. Frost, and 3 children.
 Per Planet (April 14), from KURRACHEE.—Lieut. col. Stewart, H.M.'s 14th Lt. Drsg.
 Per Richard Cobden (April 18), from LIVERPOOL.—Mr. William Green and Mr. K. E. Bayliffe.
 Per Acbar (April 15), from PERSIAN GULF, &c.—Mr. C. Hadder.
 Per Kusrovia, from SIAM.—A. Viegas, Esq.
 Per William and Jane, from PORT PHILLIP.—Mrs. Hunter and family.
 Per Anna Dorothea (April 18), from LIVERPOOL.—Wm. Rotheran, Esq.
 Per Bombay (April 18), from KURRACHEE.—Brig. W. Cavaye, Col. O. Van Cortlandt, Lieut. col. Vicars, H.M.'s 61st reg.; Ens. Pogson, Maj. and Mrs. Marsden, Capt. Harris, Capt. L. S. Hough.
 Per Singapore (April 19), from HONG-KONG, &c.—Mr. and Mrs. Spens, with a child; Lieut. Godfrey, R.N.; Mrs. Fernandez and child, Messrs. J. Kenny and J. Houston.
 Per Constant, from CALCUTTA.—Mr. and Mrs. Phillips and family.
 Per Mountstuart Elphinstone, from SURAT.—Col. and Mrs. Kennedy; Mrs. Shepherd; Capt. and Miss Godfrey; Capt. Pogson; H. H. Hebbert, Esq.; Lieut. R. Pope; Lieut. Mills.
 Per Marion, April 20, from LONDON.—Maj. Heath, 5th regt. B.L.I.; Lieut. P. Hodgson, 22nd regt. B.N.I.; Asst. surg. F. L. Fitzgerald, H.M.'s 88th regt.; Mrs. Fitzgerald and children.
 Per Victoria, from KURRACHEE.—Brig. Woodburn, R.C.B.; Capt. Ball, H.M.'s 10th regt.; A. Armstrong, Esq.; Lieut. F. G. Mainwaring, Capt. Cowper, 1st Fus.; and Mrs. Kerr.
 Per Columbus, from GREENOCK.—Mrs. Hilton and child.
 Per John Gardner, April 25, from BOSTON.—Mr. Richardson.
 Per Semiramis (April 24), from SUZ.—Mrs. Edward Dyer; Miss Gayer; Miss Barrington; D. Anna M. de Campaz; Mr. Bettington, m.c.s.; Capt. Rigby, Bombay army; Capt. Duncan, Bombay army; Rev. R. E. Tyrwhitt, Bombay estab.; Messrs. Parke, Harrison, and Anderson, Cadets; Rev. J. Sheldon; Messrs. McHaffie, Vivian, and Malcolmson; D. Edwardo F. de F. Almeida.

DEPARTURES.

APRIL 13. Gossypium, Sanderson, Liverpool; Arrarat, Cochrane, Calcutta.—13. Lord Hungerford, Brown, London.—14. Steamer Victoria, Menesse, Kurrachee; steamer Queen, Young, Aden.—15. Warren White, White, Aden; William Penn, Molood, Liverpool; steamer Sir J. R. Carnac, Cochin; Prince of Wales, Puddicombe, China.—16. Steamer Douro, Heddeshedt, Galle, Penang, Singapore, and Hong Kong.—19. Salem, Gibson, Liverpool.—21. Gipsy Queen, Barras, London.—24. Steamer Bombay, Beyts, Kurrachee.—25. Chrysolite, Enright, Canton; Ascendant, Spencer, London; steamer Acbar, —, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Victoria (April 14), to KURRACHEE.—Capt. and Mrs. Philpotts, Mrs. Thorold, Mr. E. Robertson, Lieut. Mignan, Mrs. Cruttenden, Ena. Bruce Gardyne; S. Bell, Esq.
 Per Sir J. R. Carnac (April 15), to COCHIN.—Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mr. and Miss McIver, Miss Wray, Lieut. Puckle; Capt. Pisanto.
 Per Douro (April 18), to POINT DE GALLE.—Mrs. Fogarty, 2 children; Capt. Corfield, Major Aston, Lieut. W. A. Hobart; J. B. Ireland, Esq.; Lieut. Robertson, 28th regt.; and Mr. Claxton. To SOUTHAMPTON.—Capt. George Moir. To CALCUTTA.—Mr. Angier, Mr. D. Smith, Mr. Barnes; Shapoorjee N. Pochajee, Esq.; and Pallonjee Framjee Mehta. To HONG-KONG.—Mahomed Coir, Ruttonjee Dhunjeebhoi.
 Per Bombay (April 21), to KURRACHEE.—Col. and Mrs. Creagh, Mr. J. W. Stack, Mrs. Berthon, Lieut. Eales, Ens. Seacombe, Miss Barrington, Lieut. Cruttenden, Mr. Mainwaring, Miss Gayer, Capt. Hough, Ens. Ashe, Mrs. Grounds, Mrs. Foreman, Mrs. Beyts, Mrs. MacKenzie, and Ens. Gillespie.
 Per Mountstuart Elphinstone, to SURAT.—Mr. Harrison, C.S.
 Per steamer Acbar (April 14).—Col. and Mrs. Stack, 2 children of Capt. M. Spottiswoode, Col. W. Cavaye, Mrs. M. Larken and 2 children, Capt. Pogson and 2 children of Capt. J. T. Barr, Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. G. Coles and 3 children, Capt. R. J. Stanley, Dr. and Mrs. Scott and 2 children, Mrs. H. L. Anderson, Mrs. Shortrede and child, Miss Erskine, Brig. and Mrs. H. G. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. B. Tucker, Capt. and Mrs. E. E. Wray and 3 children, Capt. and Mrs. Agar, Miss Godfrey and child of Capt. Godfrey, Lieut. col. J. P. Kennedy, Mrs. J. P. Kennedy, Miss Henderson and child, Mrs. Leeson, Mrs. Marsden, Lieut. P. B. Lucas, Lieut. C. Barlow, Lieut. Buchanan, Lieut. W. E. McPherson, Capt. A. Harris, Gen. C. Van Cortlandt, Lieut. col. W. H. Vicars, O. D. Hoddee, Esq.; Ens. J. W. Bryant, Lieut. Fox, A. A. Jacob, Esq.; Ens. R. J. Wallace, Lieut. F. J. Hutchinson, Lieut. M. V. Bull and child, John Edwards, Esq. and Ens. E. B. Pogson.

COMMERCIAL.

Bombay, April 28, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

5 per cent. transfer loan ..	{ Rs. 111 for Nos. regist.
	{ for trans. p. 100 Sa.
5 Do. do. 1841-42 ..	Rs. 99½ Co.'s
4 Do. do. 1832-33 ..	Rs. 105½ p. 100 Sa.
4 Do. do. 1835-36 ..	Rs. 99½ p. 100 Co.
4 Do. do. 1842-43 ..	Rs. 99½ do.

PRICES OF BULLION.

Sovereigns, each .....	Rs. 10-1½ 16th. noml.
Bank of England Notes, per £.....	10½ noml.
Spanish Dollars, per 100 .....	234
German Crowns ..	218
Sycee Silver, per 100 tolas .....	104½
Gold Leaf, per tola, range of quality .....	16 5-16ths
Gold Ingots, according to touch, per tola ....	15½

BANK SHARES.

Bombay Bank.....	Rs. 1,000 each	1,000 pd. up	33 p. ct. pm. sales
Oriental Bank.....	250 each	250 do.	85 sales.
Commercial Bank ..	1,000 each	500 do.	27
Agra Bank .....	500 each	500 do.	45 noml.
Bank of Madras ....	1,000 each	1,000 do.	13 p. ct. pm.
Apollo Press Com....	12,500 each	12,000 do.	19,000
Colaba Press Com....	7,000 each	7,000 do.	5,750
Bombay S. N. Com. ..	510 each	400 do.	58 p. ct. dis.
Gr. Ind. P. R. Com.	12 Rs. prem.	each share.	—Sales.

EXCHANGES.

On London—at
6 months' sight, per rupee, 2s. 1½d.	For doc. bills.
6 .. .. 2s. 1-16th to 2s. 1½d.	For cred. bills.
On Calcutta at 60 days' sight, per 100....	98
..... 30 days' sight .....	98½
..... at sight .....	99

FREIGHTS.

Our quotations are, to London and Liverpool, 4l. to 4l. 8s.;
China, per candy, Rs. 17 to 17½.

CEYLON.

THE LONDON MAIL of March 24th arrived at Point de Galle April 25, en route to Madras and Calcutta (per Bentinck). The Doura took on the English mail to China, on the same day.

BIRTHS.

CHARSLEY, wife of W. P. d. at Kandy, March 30.
VICTORIA, Mrs. N. N. R. d. at Tirtocoreen, March 22.
WAIT, Mrs. G. d. at Hoolakanda, March 23.

DEATHS.

DRIENBERG, wife of J. W. at Ramapoora, March 28.
SCHOKMAN, A. F. inf. s. of J. W. at Colombo, April 1.
VANDERSTRAATEN, S. C. c.s. at Galle, aged 49, April 8.

SCINDE.

THE PRODUCTS OF SCINDE.

There is no gainsaying the fact that, from its geographical position, this country is admirably adapted for commerce, and its advantages are many; its resources, however, still require development, and its products still demand a necessary competition to bring it on a level with our older possessions. Fourteen years have now elapsed since we have had anything to do with the country, one way or another, and while improvement has been gradual throughout that period, the last three exhibit more immediate changes, attended with more satisfactory results. In a recent number of this paper we alluded to the manufacture of saltpetre, and the satisfactory results which had attended it, credit for all of which speculation, is due to the very enterprising firm of Messrs. W. S. Smith & Co. Those who first landed on these sandy shores can best bear testimony to the happy results which have followed the labours of a civilized government; blessings for which the poor Scindian is not unthankful; he feels that he is secure and happy, and finds peace and comfort in a home to which he formerly looked with very different feelings. Enterprise is now all that is wanting; let there be demands for the indigenous products of the province—let encouragement be held out by commercial communities, and we feel most sanguine that in a few short years, and under its present able administration, Scinde must equal any other part of the Indian empire.

Here have we now first in order, the completion of our roads—the opening of steam communication—the projected establishment of our railway—our regular and direct shipping trade with Great Britain, and last, though not least, our annual fairs, which must succeed, though many think not, and then Scinde, unhappy Scinde, which has been eyed with so much jealousy by its neighbouring presidency of Bombay, will, we feel assured, be raised to the standard of any commercial port in India.

We now proceed to remark on the indigenous products of the country, and first in order and importance is Rice. This is extensively grown, particularly in the Larkhana and southern districts of the Hyderabad and Kurrachee collectorates. Though not of a superior quality, any quantity almost might be produced. It requires comparatively but little manual labour, and we think we may reckon with certainty, that the day is not far distant when the province will produce this article of consumption equal to that of any other country; all that is required is, fostering care, and we believe arrangements are already being made for the introduction of different and superior kinds of rice, with a view to test the capabilities of the soil.

Thill or Jingly seed is produced in tolerable good quantities, and is all disposed of in the province for local purposes; very little, if any, we believe, having yet been exported. The greatest quantities are produced in the Hyderabad collectorate, but the soil of the Kurrachee collectorate is equally adapted for it. Owing, however, to local consumption in the latter division of the province, the same quantity has not been produced. In Shikarpoor, the culture has greatly fallen off of late years, in consequence of there being little or no demand. This product may be cultured in almost any quantity throughout the length and breadth of the country; but the growth must be encouraged, and demand made for it; this done, the exportation of the seed must extensively follow, and exceed the most reasonable expectations. The oil extracted from this seed is plentiful and cheap, and is used very considerably by the poorer classes, who cannot afford the purchase of ghee for their consumption.

LINSEED.—The growth of this product previous to last year seems to have been very little attended to, when experiments, which were carried out in various parts of the country, resulted most satisfactorily. There is but little doubt that this article will in a few years prove a valuable and profitable item of exportation, if speculating people will only enter the market. Were but one-half of the beer and brandy sellers now in the country to turn their attention to local produce, instead of in a manner murdering their customers, in less than half a dozen years we should have a different tale to tell than we have at present, and the parties so embarking their capital would find the returns more satisfactory than they possibly can in the present wholesale speculation in poison. Hitherto, linseed has not, as far as we can ascertain, been cultured for export; like the thill, only a sufficiency for the wants of the inhabitants has been produced; we believe the seed can be delivered at the river bank at 1 rupee or 1½ rupees per Indian maund of 80 lbs.

We hear of it being intended to make further experiments this seasons on a far more extensive scale: the results which have attended the former hold out bright hopes for the future, and the cultivators are sanguine of its becoming a valuable and very plentiful commodity.

Sursee, jambha, and mustard, are produced throughout the province, but none has been exported—the oil is generally all consumed in the country.—Scindian, March 29.

EUROPEAN COUNTENANCE OF NATIVE IMMORALITY AT BURDWAN.—The Maharajah has been very busy in celebrating the Hooly festival. A number of dancing girls were indentured for from Calcutta, and dancing and singing were kept up for one entire week. A number of European visitors honoured the ceremony with their presence, and they were feted with all sorts of oriental delicacies and European wines and liquors. In the merriment which was kept up, an European servant of the Maharajah ill-treated one of the dancing girls, and the matter having been reported to his highness, the Maharajah expressed great displeasure. An apology was offered and accepted, and the matter hushed up. We are sorry to learn that so influential a man as the Maharajah encourages the degrading obscenity of this disgusting festival, and still more to hear Europeans have countenanced it.—Benyal Hurkaru.

CHINA.

THE LONDON MAIL of February 8th arrived at Hong-Kong March 27 (per Ganges).

SHIPPING IN HONGKONG:—(March).

British .. .. .	Tons	5,021
American .. .. .	"	1,965
French .. .. .	"	400
Portuguese .. .. .	"	987
Dutch .. .. .	"	490
Bremen .. .. .	"	800
Hamburg .. .. .	"	140
Peruvian .. .. .	"	650
Chinese (Square rigged) .. .. .	"	470

Total Tons 10,923

Total quantity of mercantile shipping in China, exclusive of those in Macao, river steamers, lying up vessels and coasters, say 22,000 tons, against 25,000 tons of last report.

BIRTH.

WALKER, Mrs. R. S. d. at Victoria, April 1.

MARRIAGE.

RUTTER, H. to Carlotta Calvani, at Victoria, April 6.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MARCH 28. Surprise, Berton, San Francisco.—31. Beatriz, Vershoor, Hartlepool.—APRIL 1. Catharina, Calendar, Hartlepool.—2. Topaze, Levington, Newcastle; Scotland, Davie, London.—4. Oud Nederland, Piper, Hartlepool.—6. Formosa, Treyear, Calcutta.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per steamer Ganges.—Mr. Wiggins.
Per Salamanca.—Mrs. Kirby and child.
Per Topaz (April 2) from Newcastle.—Mr. Shield.
Per Scotland.—Mr. and Mrs. Plack and child.
Per steamer Formosa.—Mr. Renlock.
Per Mermaid.—Mrs. Betelheim and children.

DEPARTURES.

MARCH 28. Spartan, Hoote, Singapore.—APRIL 2. Epsom, Buckland, Jamaica.—3. Hero, Finlay, Australia; Sophia, Fraser, Griffin, Singapore; Pekin, Grainger, Calcutta.—5. Sophia, Luz, San Francisco.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Jorge Juan.—Senor and Senora Diaz and Mr. Thorne.
Per steamer L. M. Wood.—Mr. and Mrs. Hancock, Messrs. Bestos, Hogg, J. C. Man, L. Hitchcock, Crossley, Broughard, Wiggins, Buissonet, Gilman, T. O. Perceval, R. S. Sturgis, Cowasjee, B. Setna, W. Maitland, and 5 Chinese.
Per Hero (April 8), to AUSTRALIA.—Mr. J. W. Smith.
Per steamer Ganges (April 12), to GALLI.—For SOUTHAMPTON.—Major Jervois, K.H.; the Hon. J. W. Hulme and Mrs. Hulme, Capt. P. Maclean, R.A.; Capt. H. Heyman, R.A., Mrs. Heyman, and Mr. Macfarlane. For SUVA.—J. T. White, Esq. For SINGAPORE.—Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Demee.

COMMERCIAL.

China, April 12, 1854.

EXCHANGES AND BULLION.

On England, Bills, 5s. 2d.; but little doing.
On India Company's Accepted, Rs. 24s.
Syce, 2½ to 3 per cent. prem.
Gold, 21 to 15 doll. per tael.
Carolus Dollars, 17 per cent. prem.

FREIGHTS.

To London, £7. 10s. To the United States, 18 dolls. To California and Australia, 30 to 35 dolls. per 40 feet; much wanted.

EVIDENCE OF RELATIONSHIP.—Chess has been said to be a miniature war. A memoir of the Earl of Dundonald, once the dashing Lord Cochrane, contains the following passage:—"The official assignee of the Insolvent Court here [Mr. J. Cochrane] is, we believe, related to the gallant admiral [Lord Dundonald], and shows in his style of chess-play not a little of the originality and dash which distinguished his relative in more serious matters."

RENOVATION OF THE GOTHIC SCREEN NEAR THE KOOTUB MINAR.—We learn from the Delhi Gazette that "the measures for the renovation of the magnificent Gothic screen near the Kootub Minar are now making rapid progress. The arches are in such a very frail condition that they must be supplied with a new centering of solid masonry before it will be safe to meddle with them at all. This part of the work is now well advanced. The restoration of the carvings will probably be the work of years. The small but unique mosque situated at the very foot of the Kootub is also to be put in repair. As one of the few specimens of pure Saracenic architecture now existing in India, this mosque is especially worthy of preservation. One must visit the Alhambra to see such ornamentation as may be observed on the north and west fronts of this building. The exertions of Government to save the ancient monuments of the country are not to end here. District officers throughout the north-west have been directed each to report on the measures necessary for the preservation of all such monuments of note as may exist in his jurisdiction. This is, we believe, in pursuance of the good example set by the Government of the Punjab; but whatever its origin, the resolution has not been taken too soon. A few years more, for instance, and the arches at the Kootub would have been a shapeless heap of ruins." It was, our lot some time ago to visit the celebrated city of Delhi, and to view the ruins that now testify to its former grandeur; and we were particularly struck with the beauty of the Kootub Minar. It was originally erected by a Fathan sovereign named Dhumsooddeen Altumsh, between the years 1214 and 1228, and according to the inscriptions on it, it has been repaired by Feroz-shah in 1368, by Sultan Sekunder Lodee in 1503, and by the British Government. The whole height of the Kootub is about 242 feet, its diameter at the base is 40 feet, and it is ornamented with religious inscriptions, &c. &c. The Minar is supposed to have been constructed from the materials of an ancient Hindoo temple, and the remains of the old mosque to which it is said to have belonged are remarkable for the elegance with which the Mahomedan decorations are executed. We are glad to find that Government intend repairing this mosque and the Kootub. We fully agree with our contemporary when he styles it one of the few specimens of pure Saracenic architecture now existing in India. It were a shame and a disgrace to us, if we should let moulder into ruins architectural triumphs which semi-barbarous kings have preserved, and which are hallowed by that historic dream of past greatness which, under any circumstances, will keep their memory eternal."—Bombay Times.

HOW SHAKESPEARE IS "DONE" BY YOUNG BENGAL.—We have now theatricals, both black and white, in Calcutta. In the former, a company of natives are "doing" poor Shakespeare's "chef d'œuvre" in some place, which I think they call the Oriental Theatre; and I am told that their performances are highly amusing and laughable, especially the tragedies. I have not been to see them yet, but must go if I get a fit of ennui or the spleen. They played "The Merchant of Venice" a few nights ago, and a friend of mine, who was there, was nearly killed with laughing. The performers were all lacquered, or enamelled, or some such thing, with a kind of white stuff, to make them look like Venetians of course; but what with the heat of the house and the vehemence of acting, after a little time the japanning began to chip off, and the Moorish blood to show between the still-adhering patches of Italian skin. You may imagine the effect of these piebald hybrids of the Mediterranean, and the amusement and laughter of the audience.—Correspondent of the Delhi Gazette.

The following, from another paper, is an appropriate pendant to the above:—"We have received numerous critiques upon the late performance of the 'Merchant of Venice,' all written in that peculiar bombastic style in which Young Bengal so generally indulges, but so completely un-English in idiom, so grammatically incorrect, that it was utterly impossible to correct them so as to render them fit for publication; and yet there was not probably among the writers one who does not consider himself capable of taking his seat at an office desk, where his business would be to write not merely intelligible, but correct English."—Bengal Hurkaru.

INDIAN COLLEGES.—Lord Dalhousie may be right when he says that the so-called colleges in this country are in reality no better than "a superior sort of dame's schools." Half, at least, of the public is perhaps inclined to be of the same opinion.—Delhi Gazette.

NATIVE EXAGGERATION.—Every thing above the size of a house-cat is an "asil-bang," or royal Bengal tiger, to a native.—Bengal Hurkaru.

\* Should any delay or irregularity occur in supplying this paper, a communication of the fact to the Publishers will insure a remedy.*

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL,

LONDON,

WEDNESDAY, May 31, 1854.

NEW ECCLESIASTICAL ARRANGEMENTS.

By all who take an interest in the subject, it is known that the Bishop of Calcutta has long been anxious to obtain some addition to the ecclesiastical establishment of his extensive diocese, — a diocese stretching over an immense tract of country, formerly divided into several rich, populous, powerful, and extensive kingdoms, though now for the most part under the direct government of the East-India Company, and the whole acknowledging its supremacy. Only twenty years have elapsed since the whole of British India was within the diocese of Calcutta. The records of ecclesiastical history, we presume, scarcely furnish a parallel for such a diocese; and its reduction, by the separation from it of the present sees of Madras and Bombay, was one step towards rendering the ecclesiastical edifice of India really efficient. It has been proposed more recently to create a new diocese, extending over the whole of the North-west Provinces, and of course embracing our late acquisitions in that quarter. This would be a step farther, and a very proper one; for the diocese of Calcutta is still enormously large. In dealing with such a diocese there is no danger at present of cutting it up into ridiculously small episcopates, in imitation of plans which have been propounded for other countries, our own among the number, where one projector has seriously suggested that the metropolis alone should have seven bishops (in remembrance, perhaps, of the seven committed to the Tower), and we are not sure but that other projectors have named even a larger number. Very sincere and very zealous episcopals believe that we may have too much bishop as too much of anything else; and if the number of bishops is to be thus extravagantly increased, we might as well come to Presbyterianism at once, and invest with episcopal functions and the episcopal character every parochial incumbent and every clergyman to whom any particular charge is committed. Moreover, if it be desirable to secure respect for the members of the highest order in the church, it may be regarded as certain that making bishops "as plenty as blackberries" is not the way to effect that object. In India, however, the danger lies in the opposite direction. Those, indeed, acknowledging episcopal authority are few; but they are widely spread; and distance as well as numbers ought to be regarded in the assignment of episcopal duties. It ought, actually, to be more regarded; for numbers, if collected in a small space, scarcely make any addition to the proper duties of a bishop, inasmuch as every portion of the population has, or should have, its minister of the second order recognised in the English church; and the chief duty of a bishop is to oversee the clergy,—to take care that the word is duly taught, the sacraments duly administered, and all other clerical offices duly performed. Still the diocese of Calcutta, especially with the addition of the Punjab and Pegu, is too large, and, if practicable, it ought to be divided. Financial considerations will probably, for a season at least, prevent such division, and the increased and increasing facilities of communication will do something, though not much, to abate the evils arising from the prodigious extent of the diocese. The remedy for these evils is easy; but the log of expense prevents its being adopted; and we must leave it to occupy a place with those many other good things which might be done if they cost nothing.

It was not, however, to the inconvenient extent of the diocese of Calcutta that we intended to direct attention when we commenced this article, but to the want of chaplains, and to the means recently adopted for mitigating the pressure of this want. Over every part of the vast empire of India are scattered numbers of British-born subjects, many of them debarred altogether of access to those assemblages wherein their fellow-countrymen and fellow-Christians at home join in social worship, and listen to such exposition of the word of the Almighty ruler as it may be within the measure of the preacher to dispense. Some, not quite so destitute, have the opportunity of hearing "the words of eternal life" perhaps once a month, or it may be only at intervals of still greater length. It is a painful thing, and it is a dangerous thing, that Christian men engaged in the service of their country far away from the hallowing associations of the land of their birth, often in a climate uncongenial to their constitutions, and Christian women, their wives and daughters, should thus be placed. True it is, that the sacred Scriptures are before them, and these they may "read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest." True it is that they may pray in private, and to him who dwelleth "not in temples made with hands," but who "inhabiteh eternity," and dwelleth "with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit," their prayer will be as acceptable as if raised from the most gorgeous buildings specially devoted to his name. But from the earliest days of the Christian church its members have been accustomed to meet weekly for public worship somewhat more solemn in its attendant circumstances than that of the closet, as well as for public instruction, which, if flowing from learned and discreet lips, will assist the researches of him who seeks Christian truth at its fountain—the revealed and recorded word,—will enlighten the ignorant, perhaps awaken the thoughtless, recall the wanderer, and which, at least, with the aid of the Liturgy, will keep in the memory that which, without such periodical refreshing, might be in great danger of silently dropping out of it,—the recollection of God, and of man's responsibility to him. But on the benefits of public worship it were needless to dwell. All but the very reckless will acknowledge them, and all but such must deplore their being entirely withheld from a portion of Englishmen in India, and but scantily enjoyed by another and a very large portion. We are not to suppose that these things are contemplated by the rulers of India with satisfaction. They are under the influence of circumstances which need not be enumerated. Proof has lately been afforded that this view is correct.

It is with great pleasure that we have the opportunity of stating that a step towards remedying the existing disproportion of chaplains to the wants of the European population of British India has been decided upon. For the present the new arrangements extend only to Bengal, with the exception of one of them, to be hereafter noticed.

Heretofore, within the Bengal territory, the number of chaplains has been 63. Of these, 21, including the two with special advantages, called seniors, were full chaplains, the remaining 42 assistant chaplains. The number is in future to be 68, thus classed: 2 senior chaplains, 22 other full chaplains, and 44 assistant chaplains. The arrangement involves the necessity of promoting three assistant chaplains to be full chaplains, and increases the list of assistant chaplains by adding five to their number. This addition would obviously have been inadequate to the demands of the Bengal dominions, even as they stood a few years since. Now that two kingdoms of large extent have been added to them, the addition appears almost ludicrously small. But it is, we trust, but the beginning of an endeavour to do that which shall meet all reasonable claims. We believe that the home authorities are prepared to take a liberal view of the matter; and those who think what has been done too little, as all who think at all upon the matter must conclude, may, we trust, rely with confidence upon further steps being taken in the same direction. The ecclesiastical establishment was enlarged in 1834. It was not until 1849, thirteen years afterwards, that any further increase was accorded. Five years only have elapsed since, and another movement has been made. We trust that a still shorter period will intervene between the extension of this year and a further one, and that Madras and Bombay will then participate in its advantages. Bengal first, we should undoubtedly say, looking to its extension eastward and north-westward; but let the other presidencies receive consideration as soon as possible.

There is one other arrangement to be noticed; and in the operation of this all the presidencies are included. It will certainly not be an agreeable one to chaplains hereafter appointed. At present, fifteen years' service and residence, or eighteen years' service including three years of furlough, constitute a qualification for a retiring pension. Chaplains already appointed under that rule will still be entitled to its benefits, but all subsequently appointed will be required to complete seventeen years' service and residence, or twenty years' service including three years of furlough. In regard to this change, something may be said on both sides. Chaplains usually proceed to India at a later age than civil, military, or medical servants. The regulation that requires candidates for assistant chaplaincies to have been two years in orders secures their being at least twenty-five years of age; and mostly they are much more. On the other hand, on their return from India they may obtain preferment or employment in this country, and many do. This, indeed, is not an advantage exclusively enjoyed by the clerical profession. A surgeon may enter into practice at home; but rarely without capital, which, in the ordinary exercise of his profession, he has few opportunities of accumulating. A soldier finds nothing here in the way of his profession, and without extraordinary good luck, capital is as scarce an article with him as with the surgeon. The churchman has, however, one more plea; and in an enumeration, however imperfect, of pros and cons, he is entitled to put it in. His education has been far more expensive than that of the soldier, the surgeon, or even of the civilian; and this certainly affords a claim for consideration. Such are the chief features of the case, and upon the result of a review of them must depend the answer to the question,—Is the extension of the required period of service reasonable or otherwise?

THE FUTURE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF AT MADRAS.

To all our military readers, and not only to them, but to all who, from a knowledge of its merits, have learned to honour the Indian army as we do, this topic will suggest an interesting inquiry. Within the last few days, Sir James Hogg, in the House of Commons, asked the President of the Indian Board whether the new Commander-in-Chief was to be a Queen's, or a Company's officer, evidently, though indirectly, suggesting that Company's officers had claims to at least an occasional admission to that place which is the highest and most influential to which military ambition can aspire. The answer of the President afforded no clue to the intentions of Government, and it was, perhaps, not very probable that it would; but it is satisfactory to find that the subject attracts notice, and the notice, moreover, of one who, from his official position, and from his minute knowledge of Indian affairs, is entitled to be heard with the deepest attention; and who, moreover, is deservedly ranked among the long-tried friends of the Company's services generally. We shall not extend our remarks, but shall wait in the confident hope that, as the attention of her Majesty's advisers has now been pointedly called to it, the just claims of our countrymen of the army of India will be conceded. Among them are officers inferior to none which the world can produce. On the soil which they have won, they surely have a right to distinction; and it is not to India alone that their arduous duties have been restricted—China, and the islands of the Indian Ocean, bear testimony to their prowess; and to sentence them, systematically, to exclusion from offices which would yield them honour, indeed,—but on which they would, in turn, confer honour,—is an injustice which, we trust, is no longer to continue.

CLOTHING OF THE INDIAN ARMY.— OFF-RECKONINGS.

In January next great changes will take place in regard to these matters. The supervision of the clothing of the army is no longer to be exercised by a board; but individual responsibility is to be substituted. The superintendent of army clothing and the clothing agents are to be paid by fixed salaries. The system of off-reckonings is to cease, and colonels of regiments are to be remunerated for the loss by a sum equal to the average of off-reckoning shares for the last twenty-one years of which the accounts have been made up. It is thought that the new system will promote the comfort and efficiency of the soldier by relieving him from being subjected to any pinching and cramping, of which complaints have been made, as also of the want of fit. In some cases the clothing has been prepared without the superintending care of a master tailor. This is to be remedied, and it is said that if such rare specimens of manual dexterity as competent carvers of cloth and designers of habiliments therefrom be scarce in India, the want will be supplied from England—from the establishment of St. Yule, we presume; but it is gratifying to learn that while the soldier is to be neatly fitted, he is not to be deprived of the use of his arms, we mean those which nature has given him. Unnecessary changes of uniform are discouraged; but if there be any suggested which are not unnecessary, but are conducive to the health and benefit of the soldier, and consequently to the advantage of those whom he serves, we hope that they will find favour. A soldier is not for show, but for service. The new system is to be extended to all the presidencies.

SPIRIT-RAPPING AT MADRAS.

THE Madras Examiner publishes several letters said to have been addressed by a spirit to his living children. One of these letters runs as follows:—

"MY DEAR CHILDREN,—Will you have the pleasure of giving me a tumbler of brandy?"

"Yours affectionately,

"My dear children,

"E— D—."

This may remind the reader of an article in an early number of Fraser's Magazine, wherein a large assembly is supposed to be collected for the purpose of electing an editor of the new work. Mr. Coleridge harangues the meeting more suo, and occasionally becoming exhausted, expresses a wish for a glass of brandy-and-water, which is forthwith presented to him by an invisible hand. At Madras the case is reversed, the applicant for the brandy being invisible, while those who are to supply it are in the ordinary state of mortality. What will the brother noodles or brother impostors of the Rappists, the Teetotallers, say when they find the spiritual longing for the spirituous? But another specimen of this "spiritual correspondence" (not Swedenborg's) shows that those who "have shuffled off this mortal coil"—such of them, at least, as indulge in rapping within that portion of the territories of our liege lady the Queen administered by the Honourable East-India Company, or, for on so delicate a subject "we must speak by the card," some of them—retain their regard for the solid comforts of life as well as for its fluid exhilarants. The following letter illustrates this point:—

"MY DEAR CHILDREN,—Go and order your breakfast, because I too will come and keep company with you.

"My dear children,

"E— D—."

Having mentioned Swedenborg, a word respecting his adventures in the spiritual world may not be altogether out of place. He relates that one evening, after a fatiguing day, he arrived late at an hotel where he was sojourning, and proceeding to attack his dinner somewhat voraciously, he received from a spirit the friendly admonition, "Do not eat so much." The Abbé Barruel, somewhat uncharitably, suggests that the spirit was beside the mark, or that the Baron misunderstood him, and that the warning should have been, "Do not drink so much." As the alleged fact happened, or was supposed to have happened, at a not very late period of the last century, the correct reading of this spiritual intimation cannot be established with certainty. But in recording the spiritual communications of our own days, severe accuracy should be attended to, that no carping abbé may hereafter impugn the revelations received and accepted by persons who, like Mr. Robert Owen and his followers, profess neither to know nor care whether or not there be a God, but who are quite sure of the reality and significance of spiritual rapping. The Mormonists come not within the same category as those of whom we have been speaking: their correction is not work for the pen, but for penal labour and the whipping-post.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS, MAY 19.

GREAT INDIA PENINSULA RAILWAY COMPANY BILL.

This Bill was read a third time, and passed.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, MAY 18.

THE BURMESE WAR.

In answer to a question from Mr. Esmonde,

Sir C. Wood announced that it was intended to issue a medal to the troops engaged in the Burmese war, and that the medal would probably be ready in two or three months.

Mr. Otway asked the right hon. gentleman whether he really believed the Burmese war was at an end? (A laugh.)

Sir C. Wood said that he had received a communication from the Governor-General stating that nothing could exceed the pacific character of the reports from Burmah; that the King of Ava was so satisfied (a laugh) that peace would be preserved, that he had not only withdrawn all his troops from the frontier, but had arranged to supply our troops with all the wheat grown in his country. (Much laughter.)

MAY 23.

INDIAN REVENUES.

On the motion of Sir C. Wood, an account was ordered exhibiting the gross and net revenues of India, distinguishing the several presidencies, &c., for the year ending the 30th day of April, 1852; showing also the charges of collection and other payments out of those revenues, the rates per cent. for which the gross receipts had been collected, and the public expenditure under its several heads of account, both in India and in England, the amount of the Indian debt, and of the home bond debt, with the interest payable thereon, and the cash balances in the Indian and home treasuries, on the 30th day of April, 1852.

MAY 26.

THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF AT MADRAS.

Sir J. W. Hogg asked the President of the India Board whether it was the intention of her Majesty's Ministers to advise her Majesty to select an officer from the army of the East-India Company to fill the post of commander-in-chief at Madras, vacant by the death of General Staveley.

Sir C. Wood said the question had not yet come under the consideration of Government.

INDIA BONDS.—The Court of Directors have raised the rate of interest on India Bonds from 3l. 5s. per cent., at which they have stood from the 26th October last, to 4l. per cent. The alteration commenced from the 24th inst.

THE EGYPTIAN RAILROAD is in good working order, and answers exceedingly well. The trains do not run on it at present at any stated periods. It is chiefly used when European or Indian passengers arrive in Egypt. English engine-drivers are employed on it. The speed is above twenty miles an hour. The railway the whole distance between Alexandria and Cairo will soon be open. It passes through a level and most fertile country. The Arabs do not know what to make of it. They were dancing before it some time since, and having no conception of its speed, they did not get out of the way in time, and an Arab woman was killed.

ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION.—The annual general meeting of proprietors of this corporation was held at the offices, Walbrook, on the 25th ultimo. The chairman (Mr. H. G. Gordon) having made a few observations congratulating the proprietors on the flourishing state of their affairs, which he said had never been so prosperous as at the present time, the managing director (Mr. Cargill) read the report. It stated that a dividend for the half-year, at the rate of seven per cent., was paid on the 21st April, to which the directors were now able to add a bonus of two per cent., making a total dividend for the year 1853, with bonus, at the rate of fifteen per cent. The capital paid up on the 31st Dec., 1852, was 818,956l., which, after additions by the allotment of new shares, &c., amounted on the 31st Dec., 1853, to 942,450l. The reserved surplus fund amounted to 188,400l. The accounts showed a net profit for the year amounting to 135,268l. A vote of thanks to the chairman closed the proceedings.

A MEETING OF THE ORIENTAL GAS COMPANY took place on the 29th instant, when the report detailing the progress of the operations was adopted. It appears that, of the capital of 50,000l., 32,000l. has been subscribed in this country, leaving 18,000l. to be contributed in India. A contract has been secured for the public lighting of Calcutta, in accordance with the privileges and terms recommended by Lord Dalhousie; meanwhile, great economy is exercised, and the deposits are placed out at 4½ per cent. interest. Additional capital may hereafter be required to extend operations, if the authorities at Madras and Bombay find it desirable; but the existing contract will, it is alleged, yield a profitable return upon the amount invested. Native coal has been found available for the manufacture, from experiments conducted here.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MAY 17. British Tar, Freeman, Hong-Kong.—19. Renshaw, Edwards, Mauritius; Darcy, Brown, Maulmain.—22. Equity, Nason, Manila.—23. Jane Ewing, Dallas, Manila; Britannia, Dwyer, Maulmain; Leichardt, Oakley, Akyab.—24. Tamerlane, Caldwell, Whampoa; Rydal, Robbins, and Princeza, Johnson, Mauritius; Flying Dutchman, Hubbard, Whampoa; Confucius, Penrice, Shanghai; Roman Emperor, Scott, Bengal.—25. Ocean Gem, Lambton, Cape; Brothers, Wilson, Algoa Bay; Goloonda, Miller, and Patriot Queen, Bell, Bengal; Collingwood, Tanner, Rangoon; Ariel, Collic, Algoa Bay; Oceanica, Barkley, Mauritius; Emelyn, Toogood, Ceylon; Constance, Milward, Akyab; Gladiator, Erickson, Maulmain; Irmaum of Muskat, Meldrum, Maulmain; Araby Maid, Riddock, Mauritius.—26. Clara, Peachey, and John Patchett, Stapleton, Ceylon; Masador, Hicks, Gazelle, Lukey, Eliza, Adamson, and Schah Jehan, Jobus, Mauritius; Grace, Longstaff, Manila Hills; Royalist, Bates, China and Cape; John Buchanan, Livingstone, Whampoa; Digby, Hilton, Bombay; Orkney Lass, Martin, Whampoa; Assaye, McKenzie, Bombay; Devonshire, Dixon, Madras and Pondicherry; Zetus, Malcolm, Bengal; Despatch, David, Ceylon; Enterprise, Thompson, Hong-Kong; Ann Holzhberg, Harries, and Mooltan, Chivas, Bengal; Kohinoor, Reid, Cochín; Aberfoyle, Nourse, and New Margaret, Bovey, Bengal; Annie Fisher, Edwards, Ceylon; Hus Meander, Talbot, Cape; Meg of Meldon, Stone, Ceylon; Lord Hardinge, Beeby, Ceylon.—27. Hastings, Robson, Foochowfoo; Briton, Angel, Tranquebar; British Merchant, Wil Kinson, Mauritius; William Simpson, Stanley, Batavia; Victory, Webster, Bengal; Indiana (steamer), Lambert, Bengal and Cape; Candahar, Bogle, Batavia and Mauritius; Monsoon, Turnbull, and Centaur, Goss, Mauritius; Thebes, Gardner, Penang; Wanderer, White, and Tinte, Rodgers, Bombay; Auxiliar, Dawson, Akyab.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Colombo, from SOUTHAMPTON (May 20), to proceed per steamer Bengal, from Suez.—For MALTA.—Miss Beaulere, Capt. Small, Asst. surg. Woods, Mr. Ford, Dr. Tuffnell, Dr. Mackenzie, Mrs. S. Ensor, Mr. F. Martin, Mr. J. A. Kitt, Mr. H. Tandy, Mr. C. Barrett, Mr. D. A. C. G. Umache, Mr. Sutherland, Mr. J. Murray, Mr. Colquhoun, Mr. Le Martre, Mr. Barker, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Wilkinson, Mr. G. Crichton. For ADE.—Mr. Lefevre, Mr. Ward, Dr. Trump. For CEYLON.—Mr. R. Baring, Mr. T. Reid, Miss Shepton, Capt. Vanderspar. For MADRAS.—Mr. Paton, Miss Brewster, Mr. J. F. Durant, Mr. Stuart. For CALCUTTA.—M. de Souza, Mrs. Ouseley, Mr. R. Hamilton, Dr. and Mrs. Oman and infant, Sir A. Luke, Mr. Howard, Mr. H. D. Jones, Dr. T. Anderson, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Claxton, Mr. Eteson. For SINGAPORE.—Dr. Heyming, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey, Mr. H. Van Hercken. For HONG-KONG.—Mr. Varco, Mr. G. Fisher, Mr. Underwood, Mr. Kinnear, Capt. T. Wilson, Com. F. H. Herting, Mr. A. Stuart.

PASSENGERS EXPECTED AT SOUTHAMPTON.

Per steamer Simla, JUNE 11.—Rajah Dunlap Singh, Dr. and Mrs. Logan and infant, Col. Mathie, Col. Lister, Dr. and Mrs. Mouat, Mrs. Wetherell, Mr. Bruce, Maj. Vetch, Dr. Phillipson, Dr. Crozier, Mr. Bornevetch, Mr. Paterson, Capt. Horne, Mr. Gale, Master Inglis, Capt. Payne, Mr. Peacock, Mr. and Mrs. Dickens and 2 children, Mr. Werles, Mr. Boileau, Mr. W. A. D. Inglis, Mrs. Inglis, and 2 children; Lieut. gen. Hon. Sir H. Pottinger, R. Woosnans, Esq. F. A. Groves, Esq. Capt. P. A. S. Powys, Mrs. Powys, and child; Mrs. Wedderburn and infant, Mrs. Bury and 2 children, Lieut. Hinzman, Capt. A. H. Irby, J. Pallen, Esq. and Capt. Halliday's child.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

COMPTON, the wife of Abingdon, Bombay Civil Service, d. at 10, Titchfield-terrace, Regent's-park, May 26.
GRIMES, the wife of Capt. H. S. Bengal Army, d. at Hammer-smith, May 28.
INNES, the wife of P. R. 1st European Bengal Fusiliers, s. at Turnours Hall, Chigwell, Essex, May 27.
LAING, the lady of W. C. late surgeon Bengal army, d. at Baring-place, Exeter, May 23.
LAWFORD, the wife of Rev. Charles, d. (stillborn) at Winterborne Stoke vicarage, Wilts, May 26.
MACADAM, the wife of Major, Hon. E. I. Co's service, s. at Arndean, Perthshire, May 23.
MANSEL, the lady of C. G. Bengal civil service, d. at Calverley-park, Tunbridge-wells, May 23.
MC EWEN, the widow of Robert, late of Singapore, d. at 57, South Castle-street, Edinburgh, May 18.

OLIPHANT, Mrs. F. W. d. at 6, Harrington-square, May 22.

WRIGHT, the wife of the Rev. Harry, d. at Hatherley-lawn, Cheltenham, May 20.

MARRIAGES.

BARNARD, Rev. Thomas M. R. to Charlotte, d. of the late Sir C. Carrington, formerly chief justice of Ceylon, at Walcot church, Bath, May 24.

GOODRIDGE, Frank W. to Leonora E. d. of the late George Hutchings, Bengal army, at Christ Church, St. Pancras, May 23.

HEARSAY, Col. J. B. c.b. Bengal cavalry, to Emma, d. of the late T. Rumball, at Chertsey, Surrey, May 25.

HUTCHINSON, Charles W. Bengal engineers, to Elizabeth M. d. of the late Lieut. col. G. Hutchinson, Bengal engineers, at St. Mary's, Cheltenham, May 18.

PENGELLEY, Lieut. Walter M. Indian navy, to Arabella S. d. of the Rev. W. B. Lewis, at Smyrna, May 2.

WATSON, Capt. Frederick L. Bengal establishment, to Anna, d. of the late Robert Lucas, at the British embassy, Paris, May 18.

DEATHS.

CANNAN, Thomas H. retired surg. Madras medical establishment, in London, aged 47, May 21.

CLEMENT, Capt. H. late of the Hon. E. I. Co.'s maritime service, at Hammersmith, aged 63, May 17.

REED, Thomas J. late 1st officer of the ship Minden, East India-man, at the Grove, Teignmouth, May 13.

SKINNER, Samuel, formerly of the Hon. E. I. Co.'s civil service, in Porchester-place, Hyde-park, aged 80, May 27.

SHROUD, Benjamin, R. of Calcutta, drowned in the Rhine, near Caub, on his passage to England on board the Mannheim steamer, aged 38, May 13.

TUPPER, Rev. William, G. M.A. s. of the late Martin, on board the Ripon, on the passage home from Alexandria, aged 30, May 15.

WATKINS, Wilmer S. s. of the late Francis W. Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, at 5, Connaught-square, Hyde-park, May 16.

EAST-INDIA HOUSE,

24th May, 1854.

ARRIVALS REPORTED IN ENGLAND.

CIVIL.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. John Muir, retired.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Lieut. H. P. Babbage, 55th N.I.; Lieut. J. C. Horne, 7th N.I.; Surg. J. Inglis, M.D.; Capt. C. C. J. Scott, invalids.

PERMITTED TO RETURN TO THEIR DUTY.

MILITARY.

Madras Estab.—Capt. A. J. de H. Harris, 1st fusiliers; Lieut. J. J. Eagar, 52d N.I.

GRANTED EXTENSIONS OF LEAVE.

MILITARY.

Madras Estab.—Lieut. Weir Johnston, 31st N.I., 6 months; Lieut. J. U. Donaldson, 46th N.I., 6 months.

Bombay Estab.—Maj. Thomas Foulerton, 1st N.I., 6 months.

CHANGES AND PROMOTIONS

IN H.M.'S REGIMENTS SERVING IN INDIA.

WAR OFFICE, 19TH MAY, 1854.

8th Foot.—Ens. William R. Ximenes, to be lieutenant without purchase, v. Bagenall deceased. Dated May 25, 1853.

78th Foot.—Capt. John Henderson, from half-pay Ceylon Rifle regt., to be capt., v. Brev. lieut. col. W. M. G. McMurdo, who retires on half pay. Dated May 19, 1854.

98th Foot.—Edwyn Frederick Temple, gent., to be ensign by purchase, v. Raper, promoted. Dated May 19, 1854.

WAR OFFICE, 26TH MAY, 1854.

53rd Foot.—Ens. Charles Alexander Humfrey to be lieutenant by purchase, v. Lloyd, whose promotion by purchase on the 5th May, 1854, has been cancelled. Dated May 26, 1854.

STOCKS AND SECURITIES.

India Stock .....	233 to 236
India Bonds .....	3s. pm. to 1s. dis.
East-India Railway, all paid .....	1½ to 2 prem.
Great Indian Peninsular Railway, all paid.....	¼ to ½ prem.

BENGAL GOVERNMENT LOANS.

	Buy. s. d.	Sell. s. d.	Actual Sales.
5 per Cent. Transfer Stock Paper, 1834-5, div. payable in London..
Book Debt of 31st Dec. 1834, 3rd Jan. and 3rd July.....
Do. 10th Aug. 1835, 13th Feb. and 13th Aug. ....	Ss. Rs. —	—	2 1½
Do. 15th Jan. 1836, 18th Jan. and 18th July .....

INDIA EXCHANGES.

BILLS.	Commercial Bills, at 60 days' sight, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.	E. I. Co.'s Bills, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.	Amount of E. I. Co.'s Bills, drawn fr. May 8 to May 23.
On Bengal ..	1s. 11½d.	1s. 11½d.	74,692 5 6
Madras ..	1s. 11½d.	1s. 11½d.	17,539 14 10
Bombay..	1s. 11½d.	2s. 0d.	—
	Bi-Monthly ..		92,232 0 4

Annual sum required by Court of Directors in England.....	From 1st May, 1854, to 30th April, 1855, }	£3,500,000
Bank Post Bills .....	1s. 11½d. to 1d.
Madras do. ....
Bombay do. ....	1s. 11½d.

EXPORT OF BULLION.

Per Steamer Colombo, May 18, 1854.

	Gold.	Silver.
Malta .....	£600	—
Alexandria .....	13,520	—
Penang .....	—	£1,000
Singapore .....	4,196	4,100
Hong Kong .....	—	51,859
Canton .....	—	47,356
	£18,316	£104,315

A TALE OF A FIDDLE.—The Small Cause Court at Calcutta has lately been occupied with an action of trover for the value of a fiddle "mortgaged,"—that is the word used—by the plaintiff to the defendant, and sold by the latter, on the default of the former to redeem it. The proceeding appears to have been postponed from time to time, and various nice and knotty points of law were raised. The Bench doubted whether a mortgage of a fiddle had a right to sell, which point was settled by a quotation produced from Theobald's Reports. Then it was contended that the notice of sale was insufficient, and moreover, that the sale should have been "by public outcry." Then came the question of the value of the "mortgaged" chattel, which the plaintiff fixed at Rs. 25, the price he had paid for it; but which appraisement was disputed by the defendant, who alleged that the fiddle was "a common French fiddle," which could never compass a polka or a waltz, and that similar fiddles were disposed of at auctions for two or three rupees each. Finally, the affair was settled by something like a compromise, a verdict passing for the plaintiff, but for Rs. 20 only; why this sum was fixed upon as the exact measure of the plaintiff's wrong is not very clear. Every one has heard of the maguificent Spaniard who cracked the egg-shell with a noise as if heaven and earth were coming together.

A NOVELTY FOR EPICURES.—A firm who advertise in the Madras Athenæum announce that they have received a supply of an article of food of which we should think they enjoy a monopoly, viz., "Fresh Red Herrings." What can they be like?

ADVERTISEMENTS.

East-India House, 27th April, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That a Quarterly General Court of the said Company will be held at their House, in Leadenhall Street, on Wednesday, the 21st June next, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 27th April, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Transfer Books of the said Company's Stock will be shut on Thursday, the 8th June, at 3 o'clock, and opened again on Thursday, the 13th July, and

That the Warrants for the Dividends on the said Stock, payable on the 6th July, 1854, under the 11th sec. of the Act 3 & 4 Will. 4, cap. 85, will be ready to be delivered on that day.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 17th May, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the rate of exchange at which they will receive cash for bills on Bengal and Madras will, from the present date, and until further notice, be 1s. 11½d. the Company's rupee, and for bills on Bombay, 2s. 0d. the Company's rupee.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 24th May, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the rate of interest payable upon the Company's bonds not notified for discharge, will be raised from £3. 5s. per cent. per annum to £4 per cent. per annum, from and after this day.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 24th May, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready, on or before Wednesday, the 7th June next, to receive proposals in writing, sealed up, from such persons as may be willing to supply the Company with

WORSTED and COTTON LACE;

And that the conditions of the said contract may be had on application at the Secretary's office, where the proposals are to be left, any time before 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the said 7th day of June, 1854, after which hour no Tender will be received.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 30th May, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready, on or before Wednesday, the 14th June next, to receive proposals in writing, sealed up, from such persons as may be willing to supply the Company with

SOLDIERS' CAPS;—also SASHES and GIRDLES;

And that the conditions of the said contracts (two in number) may be had on application at the Secretary's Office, where the proposals are to be left, any time before 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the said 14th day of June, 1854, after which hour no Tender will be received.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 30th May, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That they have received from their Government at Bombay the under-mentioned Schedules, viz. :—

1. Schedule of all Sums of Money, Bonds, and other Securities received by the Administrator-General on account of each Estate remaining under his charge, together with the payments made thereout, and the balances. Prepared up to the 31st December 1853, under Section XI. of Act VII. of 1849, extended to Bombay by Act II. of 1850.

2. Schedule of all Administrations whereof the final balances have been paid to the persons entitled to the same, specifying the amount of such balances, and the persons to whom paid. Prepared from the 1st July to the 31st December, 1853, under Section XI. of Act VII. of 1849, extended to Bombay by Act II. of 1850.

And that the said Schedules are open, at the Secretary's Office in this House, to the inspection of the public,

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

NOW READY,

Second Edition, Corrected to May 9th,

THE]
EAST-INDIA REGISTER

AND

ARMY LIST FOR 1854,

CONTAINING

Complete Lists of the Company's Servants, at Home and Abroad;
Regulations respecting the appointment of Writers, Cadets, &c.

COMPILED FROM THE OFFICIAL RETURNS RECEIVED AT THE
EAST-INDIA HOUSE.

BY F. CLARK,

Of the Secretary's Office, East-India House.

12mo. sewed, 10s.; 11s. 6d. bound.

Separate Presidencies,—Bengal, 6s.; Madras, 5s.; Bombay, 5s.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Lendenhall Street.

FAMILY ENDOWMENT, LIFE ASSURANCE AND ANNUITY BLACKFRIARS.

(No. 12, CHATHAM PLACE, BLACKFRIARS, LONDON.)

CAPITAL, £500,000.

Empowered by Act of Parliament, 19th May, 1836.

DIRECTORS.

William Butterworth Bayley, Esq., Chairman.

John Fuller, Esq., Deputy Chairman.

Lewis Burroughs, Esq.

R. Bruce Chichester, Esq.

Major H. B. Henderson.

C. H. Latouche, Esq.

Edward Lee, Esq.

Lieut.-Col. J. W. Ouseley.

Major Turner.

Joshua Walker, Esq.

Secretary—Mr. John Casenove.

INDIAN BRANCH.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT AT CALCUTTA.

C. Binny Skinner, Esq.

James Stuart, Esq.

T. C. Morton, Esq.

Richard Stuart Palmer, Esq.

Joseph S. Judge, Esq.

Medical Officer—Richard O'Shaughnessy, Esq.

Bankers—Bank of Bengal.

Solicitors—Messrs. Sandes & Watts.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT AT MADRAS.

Richard Barnes Bell, Esq.

J. Biddgood Jauncey, Esq.

Capt. Francis Henry Scott.

Agents—Messrs. Binny and Co.

AGENTS AT BOMBAY.

Messrs. R. Strong and Co.

RATES OF PREMIUM FOR ASSURING 1,000 RUPEES.

CIVIL.

Age next birthday.	One Year.	Three Years.	Five Years.	Seven Years.	Life with participation	Without participation.
30	28	30	30	30	38	34
40	30	31	32	33	49	45
50	38	40	41	44	63	59

MILITARY.

30	33	33	33	34	44	41
40	38	39	40	41	53	49
50	48	49	50	51	66	61

To the policy holders on the profit scale, who have paid five years' premium, a bonus of twenty per cent. has been annually allowed for the last three years.

The Society grants an immediate reduction to the English rates to parties proceeding to Europe for a permanency, and a reduction after one year to those who come for a short period only.

The civil rate only charged on the lives of parties in the military service, holding civil offices, as long as they continue in such office.

Deferred Annuities and Endowments payable at any given period are also granted.

Tables and full information may be had at the Office in Chatham Place; or on application to the Secretaries at Calcutta, Messrs. GORDON, STUART, and Co.; or to the Agents at the other Indian Presidencies.

UNIVERSAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

No. 1, KING WILLIAM STREET, CITY, LONDON.

Established 1834.

Empowered by Special Act of Parliament, 6 Will. 4, cap. 54.

DIRECTORS.

SIR HENRY WILLOCK, K.L.S., Chairman.

JOHN STEWART, Esq., Deputy Chairman.

John Bagshaw, Esq., M.P.

Augustus Bosanquet, Esq.

Charles Dashwood Bruce, Esq.

Ellis Watkin Cunliffe, Esq.

William Kilburn, Esq.

Francis Macnaghten, Esq.

Charles Otway Mayne, Esq.

Major John Arthur Moore.

William Rothery, Esq.

Robert Saunders, Esq.

Capt. Samuel Thornton, R.N.

Brodie McGhie Wilcox, Esq., M.P.

The marked success which has attended the operations of this Society justifies the Directors in calling the attention of the public to the superior advantages held out to all classes desirous of affecting Assurances upon their lives.

The subjoined scale of rates is framed with the greatest care, and will be found to be as MODERATE AS IS CONSISTENT WITH PERFECT SECURITY.

Annual Premium required for the Assurance of £100 on a single Life, with participation in Profits:—

20	£1	18	8	35	£2	14	11	50	£4	5	6
25	2	3	3	40	3	3	0	55	5	5	10
30	2	8	10	46	3	12	2	60	6	13	2

Tables for Policies to be effected in India have been especially prepared from the records of the East-India Company, on the experience of mortality in that country.

During the last thirteen years, the reduction of Premium on Policies entitled to participate in Profits has averaged more than 44 per cent., and in the last four years it has been declared at 45 per cent.

An annual division is made of one-fifth of the ascertained profits of the five preceding years; the other four-fifths being set apart to enter into the average of succeeding years.

Of the sum annually divisible, 75 per cent. is apportioned to Policy-holders who have paid six annual Premiums, either in a Reduction of subsequent Premiums, or as a Bonus added to the Policy. The remainder is apportioned to the Shareholders.

Assets of the Society, upwards of £600,000.—Amount of Policies in force, £2,000,000.—Annual income arising from Premiums, exclusively of interest on the invested capital, exceeds £120,000.

Weekly Board-day, Thursday, at 1 o'clock.

Committees sit every Tuesday and Saturday, at 12 o'clock, when Policies requiring despatch may be effected.

AGENTS IN INDIA:—

Messrs Braddon & Co., Calcutta. | Messrs. Bainbridge & Co., Madras.

Messrs. Leckie & Co., Bombay.

MICHAEL ELIJAH IMPEY, Secretary.

THE ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION grant

DRAFTS and negotiate or collect BILLS payable in Bombay, Calcutta, Ceylon, Hong-Kong, Madras, Mauritius, Singapore, Melbourne, and Sydney. They also issue, free of charge, Circular Notes and Letters of Credit for the use of Travellers on the Continent, and to India overland. They undertake the agency of parties connected with India, the purchase and sale of Indian Securities, and the effecting of Remittances between the above dependencies. They further buy and negotiate in London paper of the Indian Government Loans.

W. W. CARGILL, Chief Manager.

Walbrook, London, March, 1854.

In 8vo. cloth lettered, price 12s.

THE MILITARY ENCYCLOPÆDIA;

A TECHNICAL, BIOGRAPHICAL, AND HISTORICAL DICTIONARY,

REFERRING EXCLUSIVELY TO THE MILITARY SCIENCES,
THE MEMOIRS OF DISTINGUISHED SOLDIERS, AND
NARRATIVES OF REMARKABLE BATTLES.

By J. H. STOCQUELER, Esq.

"This useful publication is a technical, biographical, and historical dictionary, devoted exclusively to the military sciences, the memoirs of distinguished soldiers, and the narratives of remarkable battles. The author, who is not unknown in the literary world, has produced a work very much needed at the present moment, and which it is, therefore, probable will obtain a very wide circulation. It comprehends the essence of many excellent books, and, whilst it discards much of what is old, it embodies in its pages all that is new upon the subject treated. To military men, this work will be indispensable; by the ordinary reader, it will be found an important aid to his historical and general studies. Under these circumstances, it can be cordially recommended to the attention of both classes of the community."—Observer, Feb. 19, 1853.

"This is a useful and intelligent book. In a small compass, it contains a large mass of facts and dates, and the results of copious professional learning. The combination of the biography and history of the profession, with an explanation of the technical terms of the profession, is a useful and fortunate device. It increases the interest and it enlarges the application of the volume. The articles are written with spirit and precision—the arrangement and typographical appearance of the volume are good—and the number of topics embraced and terms explained is very considerable. Mr. Stocqueler readily admits that he is largely indebted to preceding writers and compilers; at the same time, it is due to himself to say, that he has executed his task so well and carefully, as to render his book almost an original work."—Athenæum, March 26, 1853.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Lendenhall Street.

STANDARD ORIENTAL WORKS,

EDITED OR COMPILED BY

DUNCAN FORBES, LL.D.

Dictionary, Hindustani-English and English-Hindustani. By DUNCAN FORBES, LL.D. Royal 8vo. cloth, 2s. 12s. 6d.

"Dr. Forbes, by his Grammars and other works on the Hindustani and Persian Languages, has, heretofore, conferred an invaluable boon on all the students of Oriental literature: but this Dictionary crowns the series of his magnum opus, for a great work we have no hesitation in pronouncing it, whether we regard its vast utility to the learner, or consider the immense amount of labour and practical skill brought to bear upon it by the author."—Calcutta Review, No. 19.

Hindustani Grammar, Reading Lessons, and Vocabulary; in the Oriental and Roman Characters, forming an Introduction to the Bagh-o-Bahar. By DUNCAN FORBES, LL.D. 8vo. 12s.

Hindustani Manual;

Being a short Grammar, Dialogues, Vocabulary, &c., in the Roman Character. By DUNCAN FORBES. 18mo. bound, 5s. 6d.

Bagh-o-Bahar, in Hindustani.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 15s.

Bagh-o-Bahar, in English.

By DUNCAN FORBES. 8vo. 10s.

*.* The Bagh-o-Bahar is the text-book in which Cadets and Assistant-Surgeons are examined in India.

Tota Kuhani, in Hindustani.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 10s.

Oriental Penmanship;

A Guide to the Study of Oriental Manuscripts. By DUNCAN FORBES. 4to. 6s.

Hindustani Reader.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Persian Grammar, Reading Lessons, and Vocabulary. By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 12s. 6d.

LONDON: WM. H. ALLEN AND CO., 7, LEADENHALL STREET.

Just published, in two vols. post 8vo., 18s.

A VOLUNTEER'S SCRAMBLE,

By LIEUT. HUGO JAMES, Bengal Army.

"There is variety in the volumes; rough adventure in the earlier journeys through Scinde and the Punjab; camp life at the siege of Mooltan; interviews with half-independent native princes, when the traveller was himself an independent man."—Spectator.

"A perusal will certainly delight and instruct the reader."—Morning Advertiser.

JUST RECEIVED FROM INDIA.

In 8vo., price 5s.

HINTS on EXAMINATION in the VERNACULAR LANGUAGES of WESTERN INDIA. By A. ST. JOHN RICHARDSON

*.* Oriental Students will derive the greatest assistance from this able and concise view of the principles, peculiarities, and construction of the Arabic, Persian, Hindosthani, Scindee, Marathe, Guwarthee, and Canaree Languages.

In 8vo., price 10s., with Map.

REPORT on the PUNJAB; its Physical, Domestic, Political, and Military Characteristics.

"We have perused with extreme satisfaction . . . a publication of remarkable interest, just issued by the Authority of the Indian Government."—Times, 19th May.

In 8vo., price 21s.

SCOTT and CO'S BENGAL DIRECTORY; a Register, with Almanac and Appendix for 1854.

LONDON: W. THACKER and Co., 87, Newgate Street.

Now ready, in 8vo., price 16s.

MEMOIRS and CORRESPONDENCE of HENRY ST. GEORGE TUCKER

Late Accountant-General of Bengal, and Chairman of the East-India Company.

By JOHN WILLIAM KAYE,

Author of "The War in Afghanistan."

*.* Also, "Memorials of Indian Government," a selection from Mr. Tucker's papers, edited by J. W. KAYE.

"Mr. Tucker's life and character deserved to be recorded, and a fitting biographer has been found. The work is handled with great power and brilliancy, and will be found not merely a valuable study to the Anglo-Indian, but an attractive and popular book in the hands of all the higher classes of intellectual readers in this country."—Britannia.

RICHARD BENTLEY, New Burlington Street.

COLONEL FRED. MARKHAM.

Now ready, in 8vo., with numerous illustrations, 21s.

SHOOTING SCENES in the HIMALAYAS, CHINESE TARTARY, LADAC, THIBET, &c. &c.

By COLONEL FRED. MARKHAM, 32nd Regt.

"These adventures are rapid, readable, varied, interesting, and never tedious."—Spectator.

"For all the great game of the Himalayas, Colonel Markham has an eye, and what he has seen and done among them he relates here in a book splendidly got up and illustrated with the greatest liberality."—Examiner.

RICHARD BENTLEY, Publisher in Ordinary to her Majesty.

Now ready, a Second and Revised Edition, in 8vo., price 21s., of

THE ADMINISTRATION of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY.

A HISTORY OF INDIAN PROGRESS.

By JOHN WILLIAM KAYE,

Author of "The History of the War in Afghanistan."

"The history of the war in Afghanistan must be considered as conferring on Mr. Kaye a position in the first rank of living authorities on Indian topics. He has written nothing which he will ever have occasion to retract. This work has the flowing style, the aptitude for narrative, and the tinge of enthusiasm for the subject, which marked the history of the Afghan war."—Athenaeum.

RICHARD BENTLEY, Publisher in Ordinary to her Majesty.

Now ready, in 2 vols. 8vo., price 36s.

THE HISTORY of the WAR in AFFGHANISTAN.

By JOHN WILLIAM KAYE.

"We may say of a period of history unsurpassed in variety of action and inconstancy of fortune, that the language in which it is here related enhances the natural interest of the tale."—Times.

RICHARD BENTLEY, Publisher in Ordinary to her Majesty.

Now ready, in 2 vols. 8vo., with Portrait, 28s. bound.

MEMOIRS and CORRESPONDENCE OF GENERAL SIR W. NOTT, G.C.B., COMMANDER OF THE ARMY OF CANDAHAR.

"One of the most valuable and interesting books that can ever claim a permanent place in a British library."—Standard.

"These highly-interesting volumes give a valuable contribution to the history of India, and an admirable portraiture of a most distinguished officer."—John Bull.

HURST AND BLACKETT, Publishers, Successors to Henry Colburn, 13, Great Marlborough Street.

Just published, in 8vo., price 14s. cloth.

THE RIFLE and the HOUND in CEYLON. By S. W. BAKER, Esq. With numerous illustrations printed in Colours, and Engravings on Wood.

"A more readable, entertaining work we never met with. In addition to a long string of sporting exploits and hair-breadth escapes, it contains much valuable information, not only for sportsmen intending to visit Ceylon, but for all who delight in the chase of heavy game in all countries."—Bell's Life in London.

LONDON: LONGMAN, BROWN, GREEN, and LONGMANS.

NEW EDITION OF LIEUTENANT ARNOLD'S EAST-INDIAN NOVEL.

Just Published, in 2 vols. post 8vo., price 21s.

OAKFIELD; or, Fellowship in the East. By W. D. ARNOLD, Lieutenant 58th Regiment Bengal Native Infantry. The Second Edition, revised.

LONDON: LONGMAN, BROWN, GREEN, and LONGMANS.

CRABB'S ENGLISH SYNONYMES.

ENGLISH SYNONYMES EXPLAINED; in Alphabetical Order: with copious illustrations and Examples, drawn from the best Writers. To which is added, an Index to the Words. By GEORGE CRABB, A.M. 9th Edition, greatly improved. 8vo., 15s. cloth.

LONDON: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and Co.

In post 8vo., price 7s.,

PUBLIC WORKS IN INDIA,

WITH

SUGGESTIONS FOR THEIR EXTENSION AND IMPROVEMENTS,

By Lieut.-Col. A. T. COTTON,
CHIEF ENGINEER, MADRAS.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street;
and all Booksellers.

ENGRAVING BY ORDER OF THE HON. EAST-INDIA COMPANY.

AN ATLAS OF INDIA.

On a scale of four miles to an inch. From Trigonometrical Surveys made for the purpose, being intended to form a complete Map of the whole of India, on an uniform plan, the Sheets being issued separately as they are completed, at 4s. each.

The following Forty-three Sheets are also completed:—

- |                                      |                                   |
|--------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 26. Junjura, Ratnagharah, Vindhyach  | 68. Furruckabad, Etawah.          |
| 27 and 41. Goa, Dharwar, Belgaum.    | 69. North Bundelcund.             |
| 40. Sattara, Bejapoor, Meerut.       | 70. South Bundelcund.             |
| 42. North Canara, Mysore, &c.        | 71. Nagpore.                      |
| 43. South Canara, Korga, &c.         | 72. Hyderabad.                    |
| 44. Part of Malabar.                 | 73. Buntar, Kurnool, &c.          |
| 47. Himalaya Mountains.              | 74. Cuddapah, Nellore, &c.        |
| 48. Dehra Doon, Sirhind, and Upper   | 75. Madras, Arcot, &c.            |
| Doonab.                              | 76. Salem, Trichinopoly.          |
| 49. Delhi, Meerut, &c.               | 80. Rangoon, Tanjore.             |
| 50. Agra, Bhurtpoor, Jeypoor.        | 81. Tuticorin.                    |
| 56. Nandair, Kowlas, Beder.          | 82. Rewar, part of Miraspore.     |
| 58. Part of the Ceded Districts, and | 83. Rajahmundry, Elloor, Coringa. |
| Nizam's Dominions.                   | 93. Masulipatam, Mouths of the    |
| 59. Part of the Ceded Districts, and | Kistna.                           |
| Mysore Dominions.                    | 107. Ganjam, Goomsur.             |
| 60. Mysore Dominions.                | 108. Ganjam, Part of Vizagapatam. |
| 61. Coimbatore, Neilgherry Hills,    | 109. Part of Vizagapatam.         |
| Malabar.                             | 124. Lower Assam.                 |
| 62. Travancore, Cochin, Dindigul.    | 125. Sylhet.                      |
| 63. Tinnevely and Travancore.        | 129. Upper Assam.                 |
| 65. Himalaya Mountains.              | 130. Upper Assam.                 |
| 66. Gurbul, Kumaon.                  | 131. Muzimpoor.                   |
| 67. Moradabad, Bareilly.             | 138. North-East Part of Assam.    |

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

THE SIXTH EDITION, 2 vols. 4to. price £4. 6s.

HORSBURGH'S INDIAN DIRECTORY;

Directions for Sailing to and from the East Indies,
China, Australia, &c.

HORSBURGH'S CHARTS for the Navigation from England to India and China, and throughout the Eastern Seas, viz.—

- |                                     |  |
|-------------------------------------|--|
| 1. North Atlantic Ocean, 5s.        | 16. Straits of Malacca and Singapore,  |
| 2. South Atlantic Ocean, 5s.        | one sheet, 5s.                         |
| 3. Anchorage at Gough's Island, 1s. | 17, 18, and 19. Straits of Malacca and |
| 4. Bird's Islands and Duddington    | Singapore, three sheets, 15s.          |
| Rock, 1s.                           | 20. Straits of Sunda, 5s.              |
| 5 and 6. Cape of Good Hope, S.E.    | 21. Straits of Banca and Gaspar,       |
| Africa, and Madagascar Seas,        | 7s. 6d.                                |
| two sheets, 8s.                     | 22. Carimata Passage and Borneo        |
| 7. Indian Ocean, 6s.                | West Coast, 6s.                        |
| 8. Arabian Sea and East Africa,     | 23. Straits of Rhio, Durian, Lingin,   |
| 7s. 6d.                             | and Singapore, 6s.                     |
| 9. Hindoostan Coasts and Islands,   | 24 and 25. China Sea and Coast ad-     |
| 6s.                                 | jaacent, two sheets, 12s.              |
| 10. Bombay Harbour, 5s.             | 26. Canton River and its approxi-      |
| 11. Goa Road and River, and Mur-    | mate Channels, 6s.                     |
| magoa Anchorage, 6s.                | 27. East Coast of China, 7s. 6d.       |
| 12. Maldiva Islands and Channels,   | 28. Bashee Islands and Channels be-    |
| 2s.                                 | tween Luzon and Formosa, 2s.           |
| 13. Bay of Bengal, 5s.              | 29, 30, and 31. Eastern Passage to     |
| 14. Peninsula and Islands of India, | China, three sheets, £1. 1s.           |
| East of Bengal Bay, 7s.             | 32. Passage through the Barrier        |
| 15. West Coast of Sumatra, 5s.      | Reef, Australia East, 2s.              |

Horsburgh's East-India Pilot, £12. 15s. 6d.

Hand-book for Pilots and Coasters navigating to and from the river THAMES, through all the Channels to TUNGENESS and ORFORDNESS. By Lieut. E. BURSTAL, R.N., from the Survey of Capt. BULLOCK, R.N. Price 1s. 6d.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street;
Of whom may be had,

A LIST of CHARTS for the Navigation of the Eastern Seas.

STANDARD WORKS

ON

INDIA, &c.

Thornton's History of India. 6 vols. 8vo.
£2. 8s.

Ritchie's British World in the East. 2 vols.
8vo. 24s.

Hamilton's East-India Gazetteer. 2 vols.
8vo. 32s.

Thornton's Gazetteer of the Punjab, &c.
3 vols. 8vo. 32s.

Stocqueler's Hand-Book of India. Post 8vo.
14s.

Barber's Overland Guide-Book. Post 8vo.
5s.

Prinsep's (H. T.) Bactrian Coins. 8vo. 15s.

Tod's Travels in Western India. Plates.
Royal 4to. £3. 13s. 6d.

De Butts's Rambles in Ceylon. Post 8vo.
10s.

Wellesley's (Marquess) Despatches,—India
5 vols. 8vo. £4. 10s.

Thornton's East-Indian Calculator. 8vo. 21s.

Roberts's (Emma) Scenes and Characteristics
of Hindoostan. 2 vols. post 8vo. 18s.

Bellew's Memoirs of a Griffin. 2 vols. post
8vo. 21s.

Thornton's (Thos.) History of the Punjab,
and of the Rise, Progress, and present Condition of the Sect and Nation of the Sikhs. 2 vols. post 8vo. £1. 1s.

Wilson's (Prof. H. H.) Rig-Veda Sanhita; a
Collection of Ancient Hindu Hymns, constituting the first Ashtaka, or Book of the Rig-Veda; the oldest authority for the Religious and Social Institutions of the Hindus. Translated from the original Sanscrit. Vol. 1,
8vo. 10s.

LONDON: WM. H. ALLEN AND CO.,
7, LEADENHALL STREET.

SANSKRIT WORKS,

PUBLISHED OR IMPORTED BY

WM. H. ALLEN AND CO.,

7, LEADENHALL STREET.

Dictionary, English and Sanscrit, by
MONIER WILLIAMS, M.A., 4to. £2. 15s.

Dictionary, Sanscrit and English, de- signed for the use of private Students, and of Indian Colleges and Schools. By the late Rev. W. YATES, D.D. 8vo. half-bound, £2. 5s.

Grammar of the Sanscrit Language, on a Plan similar to that most commonly adopted in the learned Languages of the West. By the Rev. W. YATES. 2nd Edition.
8vo. 18s.

Elementary Grammar of the Sanscrit
Language, partly in the Roman Character, arranged according to a new Theory, in reference especially to the Classical Languages, with Short Extracts in easy Prose. To which is added, a Selection from the Institutes of Manu, with copious references to the Grammar, and an English Translation. By MONIER WILLIAMS, M.A. Royal 8vo. cloth, 14s.

English and Sanscrit Vocabulary. By
E. A. PRINSEP, Esq. Royal 8vo. cloth, 10s.

The Rig-Veda Samhita; the Sacred
Hymns of the Brahmins; together with the Commentary of Sayanacharya.
Edited by Dr. MAX MÜLLER. Published under the Patronage of the Hon. East-India Company. Vol. 1, 4to. price £2. 10s. cloth.

Mahabarata (Selections from); to which is added, a Vocabulary. Edited by Professor F. JOHNSON.
Royal 8vo. cloth, 9s.

Hitopadesa; the Sanscrit Text, with a Grammatical Analysis, alphabetically arranged, by Professor F.
JOHNSON. 4to. £1. 11s. 6d.

Hitopadesa, in the Original Sanscrit, with Bengali and English Translations. 8vo. 18s.

Megha Duta; or, Cloud Messenger.
A Poem in the Sanscrit Language, by Kalidasa. Translated into English Verse, with Notes and Illustrations, by Professor H. W. WILSON.
2nd Edition. Imperial 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Daya Bhaga; or Law of Inheritance.
By Jimutavahana. With a Commentary, by Krishna Terkalankara.
8vo. 8s.

Mitakshara; a Compendium of Hindu
Law. By Vijnaneswara. Founded on the Texts of Yajñavalkya.—The Vyavahara Section, or Jurisprudence. 8vo. 9s. 6d.

Daya Krama Sangraha; a Compen- dium of the Order of Inheritance. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

Vyavahara Tatwa; a Treatise on Judi- cial Proceedings. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

Daya Tatwa; a Treatise on the Law of Inheritance. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

Grammar of the Sungskrit Language; composed from the Works of the most esteemed Grammarians. To which are added, Examples for the exercise of the Student, and a complete list of the Dhatoos, or Roots. Royal 4to. £4. 4s.

Ramayana (the); a Poem, by Valmeeki, in the Original Sungskrit. With an English Prose Translation, and Notes, by W. CAREY and J. MARSHMAN. Vols. 1 and 2, 4to.
£10. 10s.

LONDON: WM. H. ALLEN &amp; CO., 7, LEADENHALL STREET.

ALLEN'S MAPS OF INDIA, &c.*DRAWN BY JOHN WALKER,Geographer to the East-India Company.A New Map of India;

Showing the British Territories subdivided into Collectories, and the Position and Boundary of each Native State; chiefly compiled from Trigonometrical Surveys executed by Order of the Honourable Court of Directors of the East-India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 6 in. high; 5 ft. 8 in. wide. £2; or on cloth, in a case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or with rollers, and varnished, £3. 3s.

*•• The object kept in view in compiling this Map, has been to render it available to the greatest possible extent for popular use. For this purpose the names of all Stations—Civil and Military—are inserted, as well as those of all Towns and places of note, likely to be looked for. To make clear the subdivisions of the whole of the country, both British and native, the limits of the various Districts and Collectories, with their names, are distinctly indicated. The Railways are laid down, and the trunk roads conspicuously coloured. The newly-acquired district in Burmah is included. To avoid, however, the confusion consequent upon over-crowding, and make the Map clear and easy for Reference, the names of many small villages, and places of no present importance, have been omitted, and thus a very wide measure of comprehensiveness has been attained, while needless diffuseness has been shunned.

A General Map of India;

Compiled chiefly from Surveys executed by order of the Hon. East-India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 3 in. wide; 5 ft. 4 in. high. £2; or on cloth, in a case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or with rollers, and varnished,
£3. 3s.

Map of India;

From the most recent authorities. On two sheets—Size, 2 ft. 10 in. wide;
3 ft. 3 in. high. 10s.; or on cloth, in a case, £1. 1s.

Map of the Routes in India;

With Tables of Distances between the principal Towns and Military Stations. On one sheet—Size, 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or on cloth, in a case, 12s.

In this Map are given the whole of the Military and Civil Stations, together with the principal Towns, the villages being omitted so as to make the stations more prominent. The colouring defines the boundaries of the three Presidencies.

A Map of the Western Provinces of Hin- doostan;

The Punjab, Cabool, Sindh, Bhawalpore, &c.; including all the States between Candahar and Allahabad. On four sheets—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 4 ft. 2 in. high. 20s.; or on cloth, in a case, £2. 10s.

Map of India and China, Burmah, Siam,
the Malay Peninsula, and the Empire of Anam. On two sheets—Size,

4 ft. 3 in. wide; 3 ft. 4 in. high. 16s.; or on cloth, in a case, £1. 6s.

Map showing the Steam Communication and Overland Routes

Between England, India, China, and Australia. Size, 4 ft. 3 in. wide;
2 ft. 4 in. high; on cloth, in a case, 14s., or with rollers, and varnished,
18s.

Map of Arabia;

Compiled from all the most recent authorities, by order of the Court of Directors of the East-India Company.—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 3 ft. 3 in. high; on cloth, in a case, £1. 6s.

Map of the Punjab and Sikh Territory.

On one sheet, 5s.; or on cloth, in a case, 6s.

Map of Affghanistan and the adjacent Countries;

On one sheet—Size, 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or on cloth, in a case, 12s.

Map of China,

From the most authentic sources of information. One large sheet—Size,
2 ft. 7 in. wide; 2 ft. 2 in. high. 8s.; or on cloth, in a case, 11s.

Map of the Burman Empire,

Showing the annexed district of Pegu. One sheet, 3s. 6d.; or on cloth, in a case, 5s.

LONDON: WM. H. ALLEN &amp; CO., 7, Leadenhall Street.

CHARTS OF THE EASTERN SEAS.

MESSRS. WM. H. ALLEN AND CO.

Have recently published the following

CHARTS.

Coast of Pegu and Gulf of Martaban, 3s.
Moulmein River, and the Eastern Coast of the Gulf of Martaban, from Amherst Point to the Entrance of the Sitang River, 2s.
North and South Sands in the Straits of Malacca, two sheets, 4s.
Coringah Bay, 1s. 6d.
Coromandel Coast, from Lat. 13° to 18° 50' North, including Coringah Bay and Santapilly Shoal, three sheets, 7s.
West Coast of Ceylon, four sheets, 6s.
Ramesaram and Manaar, including Adam's Bridge, between the Continent of India and the Island of Ceylon, 3s.
Palk Strait and Gulf of Manaar, two sheets, with Directions, 6s.
Vizadrog, or Geriah Harbour, 1s. 6d.
Calicut Roads, and the Entrance to Bepoor River, 1s. 6d.
Dewghur Harbour, 2s.

Bay and Entrance to Rajapoor River up to Jeytapoor, with the Reef off Ambol Ghurr Point, 2s.
Anchorage, Ruina Geriah, 1s. 6d.
Bombay Bank of Soundings, 3s.
Arabian Sea, showing the Winds and Currents during the South-west Monsoon, with the probably best Track for Steamers from Bombay to Aden in that season. Compiled from upwards of one hundred Logs of the vessels of the Indian Navy, with Directions, 3s.
Coast of Sindh and Cutch, from the Kaha River to Mandavee, two sheets, 6s.
Tidal Channels of the Indus, from Minora Point to the Kedewarry Mouth, with Directions, 3s.
Entrance to the Red Sea, 3s.
South-east Coast of Arabia, on Mercator's Projection, 3s.
Islands Westward of Socotra, 3s.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street;

Of whom may be had, a complete List of

Charts for the Navigation of the Eastern Seas.

TREATISE

ON

FORTIFICATION AND ARTILLERY.

By MAJOR HECTOR STRAITH,

LATE PROFESSOR OF FORTIFICATION AT ADDISCOMBE.

SIXTH EDITION.—In 2 vols. 8vo. and 4to. Plates, price £2. 2s.

INTRODUCTORY ESSAY

TO THE

STUDY OF FORTIFICATION,

FOR

YOUNG OFFICERS OF THE ARMY.

By MAJOR STRAITH.

SECOND EDITION.—In 8vo. and 4to. Plates, price 13s.

Candidates for admission to Her Majesty's Army, and Direct Cadets for the East-India Company's Service, will find this a valuable book.

LONDON:—WILLIAM H. ALLEN & CO.,
7, LEADENHALL STREET.TO FAMILIES RESIDING IN INDIA, AND PARENTS
GENERALLY.

A LADY, the Daughter of a beneficed Clergyman (resident with her parents, in a healthy part of the county of Norfolk), is desirous of obtaining the charge of two or three young PUPILS, whose parents or guardians may require for them the advantages of a sound education, and the comforts of a substituted home. The Advertiser believes herself competent to fulfil the duties of such a charge, and could give the strictest testimonials.

For terms and further particulars, apply by letter addressed to E. N. B., care of Messrs. J. Hatchard and Son, Publishers, Piccadilly, London.

SOUTHLANDS, BATTERSEA.

MR. JAMES SHERRAT, M.A., prepares YOUNG GENTLEMEN for the INDIAN SERVICES, or for the QUEEN'S.—Terms 120 Guinea a year. No extras.

Mr. Sherrat has made arrangements to enable him (after July next) to receive Junior Pupils; terms, 80 Guinea. He has been induced to take this step in consequence of finding so many of his Pupils badly grounded.

Mr. Sherrat has two houses, Southlands and Manor House. They stand apart, each in its own grounds. Manor House is intended for the Junior Pupils, who will receive a sound GENERAL EDUCATION till about the age of fifteen, as Mr. Sherrat believes that it is not for the advantage of the Pupil to commence a SPECIAL PREPARATION earlier.

The grounds and paddocks belonging to the two houses extend over fifteen or sixteen acres.

OFFICERS' EQUIPAGE for the WAR, as used by F. C. Cheny, Esq. (Principal Veterinary Surgeon to the Army), during the Peninsular War, and for which he obtained her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent. The peculiar advantage of this equipage is, that it can all be packed on the back of a horse or a mule. It consists of Two Trunks, Bedstead, Table, Chair, and does not exceed 98 lbs. in weight. An Illustrated Catalogue of every description of Officers' Portable Furniture sent free by post, on application to HEAL and SONS, 196, Tottenham Court Road.

OUTFITS TO INDIA.

JOHN BESEMERES and CO., Manufacturing Outfitters, Clothiers, and Ready-made Linen Warehousemen, 61 to 64, HOUNDSDITCH, SUPPLY CADETS and PASSENGERS at MANUFACTURERS' PRICES, thus effecting an important saving in the outlay. Gentlemen's Long Cloth Shirts, with linen fronts, 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d. The Indusium, an easy-fitting shaped shirt, 5s.; White jean or drill Trousers, 5s. 6d., 6s. 6d., 8s. 6d.; Long cloth Drawers, 1s. 6d., 2s.; Merino Underwaists, 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d.; Cotton Socks, 6s., 7s., 9s. per doz.; Lawn Pocket-handkerchiefs, 6s., 8s., 10s. per doz. Bullock-trunks, one guinea each. Outfitting lists, estimates, and shipping information forwarded by post; also detailed Lists of Ready-made Linen, priced and described.

Outfitting Warehouses, 61, 62, 63, and 64, HOUNDSDITCH, London.

THE GENUINE INDIAN CURRY AND MULLIGATAWNY MIXTURE AND CURRY POWDER, PREPARED BY A LADY (long resident in India), who was instructed in the preparation by the late celebrated Fyzoo Kamsamah, of Calcutta.

THIS MIXTURE is highly approved by those who have resided in India, who pronounce the Curries prepared with it "THE BEST THEY HAVE EATEN since they left India."

THE POWDER is very superior, and if used as directed, will make a Curry surpassing, in RICHNESS OF FLAVOUR, any Powder in use.

To be had at WM. ASHDOWN and Co.'s, 167, Piccadilly, London; the King's Head Hotel, Gloucester; 15, Hobson Street, Cambridge; and (wholesale) by letter addressed to Messrs. EDWARD and Co., 24, Feham Street, Brompton.

The Mixture, in jars, 3s. 6d. and 2s. each. The Powder, in 1 lb. bottles, 3s. 6d.; ½ lb., 2s. 3d.; ¼ lb., 1s. 3d.

TO LATE RESIDENTS IN INDIA.—TRUE

MADRAS CURRY, and MULLIGATAWNEY PASTE and CHUTNIES—Messrs. BARRIE and Co., Vepery, Madras, to enable their old correspondents returning from India to continue the use of the celebrated Commodities, have made arrangements to forward regular supplies of the above, packed in glass jars for family use, at 1s. 9d. and upwards, which may be had of CROSSE and BLACKWELL, Purveyors to Her Majesty, 21, Soho Square; FORTNUM, MASON, and Co., Piccadilly; and of the principal Sauce Vendors throughout the kingdom. Each bottle is labelled, and BARRIE and Co., Madras, stamped on the glass.

PAYNE and SONS' INDIAN CURRY POWDER,

UNEQUALLED for its delicious FLAVOUR and stimulating QUALITIES, in 1 lb. Bottles, 3s. 6d.; ½ lb., 2s. 3d.; or 7 lbs. for 21s.

CURRY and MULLIGATAWNEY PASTE, 1 lb. jars, 3s. 6d.; ½ lb., 2s. 3d.

CURRY SAUCE, Delhi and Oselle Chutnee, 1s. 6d. per bottle.

Pickled MANGOES, HUMPS, TAP SAUCE, and every description of Indian Delicacies, may had, at greatly reduced prices, from

PAYNE and SONS' FOREIGN WAREHOUSE, 328, REGENT STREET, LONDON.—A List forwarded on application.

TO LADIES.—The high and universal celebrity which

ROWLAND'S KALYDOR continues to maintain as an active, yet mild and soothing extirpator of all impurities of the Skin, is, during the period of Spring, most pleasingly evinced. This preparation, eminently balsamic, restorative, and invigorating, is equally distinguished for safety in application, as for unfailing efficacy in eradicating all redness, tan, pimples, spots, freckles, discolorations, and other cutaneous visitations. The radiant bloom it imparts to the cheek, and the softness and delicacy which it induces of the hands and arms, render it indispensable to every toilet.—Price 4s. 6d. and 8s. 6d. per bottle.

ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL.—The successful results of the last half-century have proved, beyond question, that this unique discovery possesses singularly nourishing powers in the growth, restoration, and improvement of the human hair, and when every other specific has failed.—Price 3s. 6d.; 7s.; or family bottles (equal to four small), 10s. 6d.; and double that size, 21s.

ROWLAND'S ODONTO, or Pearl Dentifrice,—a white powder. Prepared from Oriental herbs with unusual care, transmitted to this country at great expense, this unique compound will be found of inestimable value in preserving and beautifying the teeth, strengthening the gums, and in giving sweetness and perfume to the breath.—Price 2s. 9d. per box.

Sold by A. ROWLAND and SONS, 20, Hatton Garden, London, and by Chemists and Perfumers.

JEREMIE'S SEDATIVE SOLUTION OF OPIUM

AND ANTI-SPASMODIC.—Thirty years have elapsed since Captain Jeremie, the Inventor of this most valuable preparation of Opium, first offered it to the public, since which period most of the respectable Members of the Profession in India, England, and on the continent of Europe, have prescribed it and recommended it as the safest and most efficient remedy in all cases requiring the use of Opium. The universal praise which this medicine has obtained in England in arresting the Diarrhoea and Vomiting, the premonitory symptoms of Cholera, and the great and increasing demand for it from all parts of the continent of Europe, is the greatest proof of its efficacy and good effects.

Prepared only by SAVORY and MOORE, Chemists, 143, New Bond Street, London.

N.B.—None can be genuine unless surrounded with a Government stamp. Agents for India—Messrs. R. SCOTT, THOMSON, and Co., Calcutta.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT and PILLS,

a certain and effectual remedy for Diseases of the Skin.—Ringworm, scurvy, jaundice, scrofula, or King's evil, sore heads, and the most inveterate skin diseases to which the human race is subject, cannot be treated with a more certain, safe, and speedy remedy for their cure than Holloway's Ointment and Pills, which act so peculiarly on the constitution, and so effectually purify the blood, that those diseases are quickly eradicated from the system, and a lasting cure obtained. These sovereign remedies are equally efficacious in curing cancers, burns, scalds, glandular swellings, ulcerous wounds, rheumatism, contracted and stiff joints.

Sold by all respectable vendors of medicine, and at the Establishment of PROFESSOR HOLLOWAY, 244, Strand, London; and by all European and Native vendors of Medicine throughout the whole of the East Indies.

ADDISCOMBE, HAILEYBURY, SANDHURST,
and DIRECT APPOINTMENTS. — YOUNG GENTLEMEN
destined for such Appointments are efficiently prepared in all the requisite branches in the Establishment of W. KIESER, M.A., Grove, Blackheath.

HANWELL COLLEGE and PREPARATORY SCHOOL.

The Fees commence on entrance.

"Hanwell College, conducted by Dr. Emerton, is fully sustaining the high character it has acquired. We find that former Pupils of Hanwell College have been either high wranglers or first-class men of our Universities during the present year; and this is the twentieth instance of success at Sandhurst or Addiscombe we have had to record within a short period."—United Service Gazette.

Prospectuses may be had on application to the Rev. Dr. EMERTON, Hanwell College, Middlesex.

ADDISCOMBE or DIRECT APPOINTMENTS.—A
Retired Officer of the Indian Army, now a Member of the University of Cambridge, proposes, during the MIDSUMMER VACATION (18th June to 1st August), to read in EDINBURGH with Two or Three Gentlemen, either now at Addiscombe, or preparing for Examination or Appointment.
Apply by letter to W. D. M., care of Messrs. Grindlay and Co., 63, Cornhill, London; or Messrs. Edmonstone and Douglas, 87, Princes Street, Edinburgh.

HAILEYBURY AND THE CIVIL SERVICE IN INDIA.

A MEMBER OF THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD, and BODEN SANSKRIT SCHOLAR, will be happy to read with One or Two Pupils from Haileybury, in Sanscrit or Bengali, during the Long Vacation. He will also be happy to read with One or Two Young Men who contemplate going to Haileybury, or eventually to India. Terms as usual.
Apply, with name, to G. A. H., 87, Newgate Street.

SURVEYING ARMY APPOINTMENTS IN INDIA.

OFFICERS at Home on Furlough, and GENTLEMEN
CADETS, desirous of qualifying themselves for the Diplomas in SURVEYING and ENGINEERING, may obtain the requisite information by applying to Mr. HENRY JAMES CASTLE, Associate of the Institute of Civil Engineers, and Lecturer in Surveying and Levelling at King's College, London, who is at all times prepared to give Private Instruction (or to form a class for practical Field-work) in the uses and application of the several Instruments required for Surveying and Levelling. If desired, one or two Pupils could reside with the Lecturer.

ORIENTAL LANGUAGES, &c.

THE REV. G. SMALL (who resided for ten years in India), GIVES INSTRUCTIONS, either privately or in Classes, in Sanscrit, Hindustani, Persian, and Bengalee, as also in the Greek and Latin Classics. He receives Two Young Gentlemen as Pupil Boarders during the Vacations at Haileybury and Addiscombe. Classes at 33, Moorgate Street, City, three days a week. Terms moderate.
Address, Rev. G. S., as above, or at his residence, No. 56, Tamworth Road, Croydon.

TO PARENTS GOING ABROAD, AND OTHERS. HOME EDUCATION.

A LADY, the wife of an Evangelical Clergyman, Incumbent of a church near London, wishes to receive into her family TWO LITTLE GIRLS, to educate with her own daughters. She has the aid of an experienced Governess, and can offer superior educational advantages, careful religious training, and a cheerful home. Terms 80 guineas. References exchanged.

Direct, J. F., Rickerby's Printing-office, 73, Cannon Street, London Bridge.

PASSENGERS TO INDIA, AUSTRALIA, and NEW ZEALAND.—GRINDLAY and Co. negotiate Passages by first-class Sailing-vessels and Steamers to the above places.

All information given to parties about to emigrate, with Plans of the Ships, Rates of Passage-money, &c., free of all expense.

Apply to GRINDLAY and Co., 63, Cornhill; 124, Bishopsgate Street; and 8, St. Martin's Place, Charing-Cross.

INDIAN APPOINTMENTS.

MESSRS. GRINDLAY and Co. beg to announce the Removal of the OUTFIT branch of their establishment from St. Martin's Place to 63, Cornhill, and 124, Bishopsgate Street.

Detailed scales of OUTFIT, and plans of all SHIPS sailing to India, with prices of their accommodation, forwarded on application.

EAST-INDIA ARMY AGENCY,

63, Cornhill, and 124, Bishopsgate Street.

EAST-INDIA GENERAL AGENCY.

C. R. THOMPSON AND CO.,
52, OLD BROAD STREET, LONDON,
And 10, ORIENTAL PLACE, SOUTHAMPTON.

The increasing support which this Agency continues to receive, enables us confidently to invite your attention to our method of conducting every branch of our business as East-India Agents and Wine Merchants, having greatly facilitated the means of carrying on the same by the establishment of an Office at Southampton for the convenience of Passengers passing to and from the East. Our prompt and careful attention is given to

THE SUPERINTENDENCE of Outfits—securing Passages by all routes, and the Shipping and Insuring of Baggage.

THE EXECUTION of every description of Orders on the most favourable terms. Wines and Spirits have our best attention, having always a large stock on hand expressly for our Indian Customers.

THE RECEIPT of the Wives and Children of Officers residing in India, and the receipt of remittances and payments of bills on their account.

THE RECEIPT also of Pay, Pensions, Annuities, Dividends, and the execution of all other Monetary and Banking transactions.

PARCELS received on the 2nd and 15th of each month, and forwarded Overland to all parts of India, &c. Baggage and Parcels also shipped to India, Australia, and other parts of the world, as occasion may require.

OVERLAND ROUTE.—STEAM to INDIA, CHINA, and AUSTRALIA, via Egypt.—THE PENINSULAR and ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY BOOK PASSENGERS and receive goods and parcels for the MEDITERRANEAN, India, and China, by their Mail Packets, leaving Southampton on the 4th and 20th of every month, and for Australia by the 4th of July, and 4th of every alternate month thereafter.

For further particulars, apply at the Company's offices, 122, Leadenhall Street, London; and Oriental Place, Southampton.

ORIENTAL, AUSTRALIAN, and GENERAL STEAM AGENCY.

PARCELS, PACKAGES, and MERCHANDIZE
forwarded, and Passages engaged to all parts of the world. Baggage shipped. Insurances effected, &c.

INDIA and CHINA—overland, 4th and 20th of every month.

AUSTRALIA—overland, 4th May, and alternate months.

Ditto—via Cape of Good Hope, 4th June, and alternate months.

Prospectuses, with reduced rates, from 2s. 6d., upwards, forwarded free, on application. Overland Guides, 1s., per post, 1s. 6d.

G. W. WHEATLEY and Co. (late Waghorn), 156, Leadenhall Street.

1854.

THE following SPLENDID SHIPS, belonging to Messrs. GREEN, of Blackwall, built expressly for the INDIA TRADE, will be despatched punctually from GRAVESEND at the under-mentioned dates:—

Name.	Tons.	Commander.	Destination.	To sail.
Wellesley .....	1100	A. Parish .....	Calcutta direct .....	31 May.
Nile .....	1250	E. P. Nisbet .....	Madras & Calcutta .....	10 June.
Barham .....	1300	L. W. Vail .....	Ditto .....	20 —
Windoor .....	800	G. Tickell .....	Calcutta direct .....	28 —
Agincourt .....	1050	C. Hyne .....	Cape & Calcutta .....	15 July
Monarch .....	1400	C. Wiltshire .....	Calcutta direct .....	31 —
Vernon .....	1000	H. H. Consett .....	Cape and Calcutta .....	5 Aug.
Prince of Wales .....	1350	W. F. Hopkins .....	Calcutta direct .....	20 —
Alfred .....	1400	W. H. Pope .....	Ditto .....	26 Sept.
Trafalgar .....	1250	J. H. Taylor .....	Madras direct .....	10 —
Earl of Hardwicke .....	1000	H. J. Gimblett .....	Mauritius & Bombay .....	1 Oct.
Seringapatam .....	1000	W. H. Pare .....	Bombay direct .....	20 —
Owen Glendower .....	1200	A. Consett .....	Ditto .....	10 Sept.

For Plans and Terms of Passage, apply to Messrs. GRINDLAY and Co. 63, Cornhill, or 9, St. Martin's Place, Charing Cross; or to

F. GREEN & Co., 64, Cornhill.

To sail from Gravesend 18th June.

Under engagement to the Honourable East-India Company.

FOR CALCUTTA direct (with leave to call at Cork to embark Troops only), the fine fast-sailing, frigate-built Ship SOUTHAMPTON (belonging to Messrs. WIGRAM, of Blackwall), 1,050 tons, ROBERT ROE, Commander. Lying in the East-India Docks. This Ship has excellent accommodations for Passengers, and will carry an experienced Surgeon.

For Freight or Passage, apply to CAPT. R. ROE, or to McLEOD, ALLPORT, and Co. (with Messrs. M. and H. L. WIGRAM), 156, Leadenhall Street.

To sail from Gravesend on the 19th July.

Under Engagement to the Honourable East-India Company.

FOR CALCUTTA direct, the splendid Ship DEVONSHIRE (belonging to Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM and Sons, of Blackwall), 900 tons, — Commander. Lying in the East-India Docks. This Ship has excellent accommodations for Passengers, and will carry an experienced Surgeon.

For Freight or Passage, apply to McLEOD, ALLPORT, and Co. (with Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM and Sons), 156, Leadenhall Street.

To sail from Gravesend as usual on the 1st September.

FOR CALCUTTA, the Ship QUEEN (belonging to Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM and Sons, of Blackwall), 1,300 tons, WILLIAM BELL (late of the Bucephalus), Commander. Will load in the East-India Docks. This Ship has excellent accommodations for Passengers, and will carry an experienced Surgeon.

For Freight or Passage, apply to CAPT. W. BELL, or to McLEOD, ALLPORT, and Co. (with Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM and Sons), 156, Leadenhall Street.

Communications for the Editor, and Advertisements, should be sent under cover to Messrs. Wm. H. Allen & Co., 7, Leadenhall street.

COUNTRY AGENTS:—

Edinburgh, W. Blackwood and Sons.
Dublin, Hodges and Smith.
Brighton, C. Booty.

LONDON:—Printed by CHARLES WYMAN, of 13, Hunter Street, Brunswick Square, in the Parish of St. George, Bloomsbury, Printer, at the Printing-Office of COX (Brothers) & WYMAN, 74 & 75, Great Queen Street, Lincoln's-Inn Fields, in the Parish of St. Giles-in-the-Fields; and Published by LAWSON & WILD, at 13, Catherine Street, Strand, in the Parish of St. Mary-le-Strand, all in the County of Middlesex.—May 31, 1854.

With the khan of that state, with a view to a further combination of all the Central Asian states, whose rulers may be supposed hostile to British interests.

"The reader (if he happens to be an intelligent man, or a candid brother editor, and not a stupid and envious compiler of newspaper paragraphs) will see that the discrepancies between these two vehicles of information are quite insignificant. But it will, as we are led to hope, shortly be in our power to settle the question at once, by publishing authentic copies of the correspondence which has recently passed to and fro between Dost Mahomed and his would-be allies."

"Here follow the letters in question:—

"Nasir-oodeen Shah, king of Persia, is heartily united with the emperor of Russia, and is in reality in possession of Heerat.

"The Russian troops have come towards Khiva by the road, which they have been trying to make for many years past, and built several forts within the boundary of Khiva, the khan of which place has, for fear of being besieged and ruined, made an alliance with the Czar. The Persian detachments which are in the vicinity of Merin have, by the influence of Russia, moved in the direction of the Khiva territory, and other troops are ordered from Mushiid to take their place.

"The report is also circulated here, that the king of Bokhara has allied himself with Russia, and that the latter government had written and requested the Ameer Dost Mahomed Khan to attach himself to the Czar through the agency of the Bokhara monarch. The Ameer has sent an answer that he will have nothing to do with H. M. of Bokhara, who is his adversary, but he will not refuse the mediation of Persia, with whom the Affghans have some sort of intercourse and friendship.

"Nazir Khair-oollah Khan has proceeded to Peshawur, apparently to recover his money from Hasun Surdah, but he has in secret induced the Ameer to make him bearer of a friendly letter to the British Government, and has undertaken that he will establish amicable intercourse between the Affghan and the British states. He has got papers in his hands from the English officers who were formerly at Bokhara (Stoddart and Connolly of course), and writes back to Cabul of his satisfactory interview with the Commissioner, who took him to Kohat and introduced him there to the Chief Commissioner of the Moolk-i-Punjab. His credentials have been sent down to the 'Lat Sahib,' and he waits for their reply at Peshawur, or, what is most likely, he will go to Lahore in person."

"We now append the latest letter received from our ordinary Cabul correspondent:—

"Cabool, 29th March, 1851.

"The snow which has not only closed the passes, but buried many houses and families, is now melting away, and you will hear from me more frequently in future. There is a report from Heerat, as I have stated before, that forty Russians, having been associated with forty Persian officers, have gone to different places in Central Asia, and two had reached that city. They have engaged to strengthen and occupy Heerat for a certain period of time, and the son of the late Vazeer Yar Mahomed Khan has agreed to leave it and remain in Neeshapore, a district in Persian Khorasan, but he has not yet started. I have also heard that the same Russian and Persian agents will come on to Candahar and Cabool. I hope, however, to lay before you, in a very short time, authentic news from Heerat brought by my own messengers, whom I have dispatched with the Kokanee, or Khokundel merchants. These secret agents of Russia have started off for Hoorgun at last by the Dehazurjee road, according to the wishes of the Ameer. Dost Mahomed Khan seems just at present inclined for an alliance with the British Government, while Sooltan Mahomed Khan leans towards Persia. There is also a report that the Russians have built and garrisoned a fort on the shores of the sea (whether Caspian or Aral is not stated), five marches from Oorgunge, no water intervening. Jafur Khan, on the part of Dost Mahomed Khan, and Meer Dad Khan from Sooltan Mahomed Khan, who had gone as agents to Persia, have not yet returned. Nawab Jubber Khan, of whom I wrote to you in my former letters, is really dead. Nazir Khairoullah, who left this place some time ago, informs us of his safe arrival at Peshawur, and mentions to the Ameer his satisfactory interview with 'Aiwt Sahub' (Major Edwardes, of course), Bahadur Commissioner. He has also spoken to that officer about his own pecuniary affairs, and in reply, as he writes to Cabool, has been told that the Chief Commissioner, who will shortly be at Rawul Pindiee, will take his case into consideration, as that gentleman is Mookhtar Surkar, or Plenipotentiary. Several letters, which Dost Mahomed Khan had received from Heerat, &c., have been sent to the Nazir to show to the Commissioner Sahub. They are, of course, suited to his own purposes, and therefore sent to Peshawur. You are aware, perhaps, of the character and wealth of Nazir Khairoullah, now deputed by Dost Mahomed Khan to Peshawur. This man was originally Nazir or steward of Ameer Oolmoolk, the late uncle of the Dost. He was prosperous and wealthy; and, before or after the death of his master, he went to Bokhara, whence his trade spread as far as the rich markets of Russia. The Ameer, like a true Affghan chief, coveted his riches and married his daughter, who remained in Cabool, while the other members of the Ameer's family were removed during the British occupation of Cabul. When the Dost surrendered his sword to the late Sir W. Macnaghten, after the battle of Purwandurah, this lady, daughter of the Nazir, was honourably brought forward by Lady Macnaghten and united with her exiled and long-lost husband, the Ameer of Cabul. Such is the account of the Nazir's relationship with the Dost. Now of Nazir Khairoullah's mission to Peshawur. This individual did great service to the unfortunate Colonels Stoddart and Connolly at Bokhara, and at his own personal risk became the medium of the correspondence with those officers carried on with the late Sir W. Macnaghten and Sir Alexander Burnes. The brutal and savage King of Bokhara finding out that Nazir Khairoullah was secretly attached to the British, plundered him of his open and known property to a considerable amount, and compelled him to throw himself again on his covetous son-in-law, the Affghan chief at Cabul, saving his head at the sacrifice of his wealth. His agent, Ahmud Khan, in Berunj Faresh or Mundeewal, by fabricating newsletters, like the late Meer Hassan of Cabul and Taifoor Shah of Peshawur, gained the favour of Sir W. Macnaghten and Sir A. Burnes, and through their influence got possession of the rich estates of the Nazir, to the amount of several lakhs. This man had lent more than one lakh of rupees of the Nazir's money to feed the English wounded soldiers and prisoners under Captain John Connolly, when the British force abandoned the cantonment and were massacred on the road to Jellalabad. This Ahmud Khan took away all the moveable property and precious stones of the Nazir from Cabul, and went with General Pollock's force to India. There he was paid in full all the money he had lent to feed the British soldiers, and thus fraudulently making himself master of his chief's money, went to Cashmere, and refused to return to Cabul. Thus all the wealth of the Nazir is now in the hands of the family of the treacherous Ahmud. The Nazir, since his arrival in Cabul, has been inducing, by money and promises of future presents, several chiefs, such as the late Nawab Jubber Khan, Gholam Mahomed Khan Mookhtar, and others, to use their influence with the Ameer, and instigate the latter to open communications for contracting an alliance of peace with the British Government. The Ameer was also told by the Nazir that his intercourse with the British would facilitate the way for recovering his money from his agent, which sum will always be at the disposal of the Ameer. These proposals had been long under the consideration of the Ameer, till the news arrived from Persia and Bokhara, that the Roosee and Roomee (Russians and Turks) were fighting, and that the English would also join the latter. Again the friends of the Nazir stirred up the matter, and the cunning Ameer found a favourable opportunity offered to him to open negotiations with the British through the agency of the Nazir. It is his custom to play a double game, but he will always try to get the effectual support of the Russian and Persian governments, unless the British give him at least the Peshawur territory, of which he always talks. So the Nazir has done good service to the British at Bokhara, and having induced the Ameer of Cabul to enter into his views, has now come as agent to negotiate a treaty of alliance at Peshawur. Messengers have arrived in Cabul with a report that the Russians and Hoorgunjees (or people of Khiva) have become one, and will be joined by the king of Bokhara. The letter which the Dost has received from Persia has been sent to Peshawur through Nazir Khairoullah, in which the king, it is said, has told him either to stand by him or by the English. One of the sons of the Candahar chiefs has gone by express to the king of Persia. The Ameer has also heard with jealousy that his Candahar brothers are secretly corresponding with the Sahub commissioner of Scinde through the Kohat chief."

Thus far we have performed our duty as faithful purveyors of intelligence, or what looks like it, for our much-respected patrons; and we hope we have offered no wrong to the source from which we have drawn so largely. We do not know whether our friend of the Delhi Gazette will accord us the reputation due to "an intelligent man," but we trust he will at least regard us as worthy to be enrolled among the class, "candid brother editors" (the plural is ours, and is adopted for obvious reasons), and that he will not consign us to the dark den allotted to the "stupid and envious compilers of newspaper paragraphs." Compile we do, and very largely; but let him not deem us "stupid and envious." We modestly disclaim those epithets, but we shall not presume to assert our freedom from stupidity by aspiring to determine how much or how little of the above is true. Doctors differ, and so do the gentlemen of the pen and the press. Within the last day or two, we have been told that the late Persian ambassador at St. Petersburg was retreating to Teheran with as much precipitation as if a troop of Cossacks, to say nothing worse, were behind him; that the rupture between Persia and Russia was complete, and that numbers of Russian subjects resident in Persia had found that the climate disagreed with them, and that the air of their native country was essential to their health. We should be sorry to be compelled to decide peremptorily upon such matters. It is notorious that newswriters are not to be trusted, and that Eastern newswriters are beyond all measure the most faithless of a faithless class. They must do something for their pay, and when little news is to be collected, being men like John Gilpin's friend, of "ready wit," they enlarge the stock by manufacturing for the occasion. Some years ago there is said to have been a considerable trade carried on in this way, even in England, and that an editor, receiving an intimation that a few lines were wanting to complete a column, directed his sub to announce that the Emperor of Austria was seriously ill. "But we said that last week," replied the deputy. "Did we?" responded the chief; "then say he is better this week." Whether any of the rumours about Russia, and Persia, and Cabul, and Khiva, and we know not how many places beside, belong to this species of intelligence, we say not. The art of collecting and transmitting correct intelligence seems, indeed, to be lost. From the comparatively proximate regions of the Black Sea and the Baltic, with railways thundering and electric telegraphs flashing, we are able to get nothing but the most vague and unsatisfactory substitutes for real intelligence. The march of improvement does not extend to this matter, for during the French revolutionary war, with conveyances and means of communication of the most ordinary kind, we were much better off. To dismiss this subject—kings and statesmen are rarely to be trusted, but Eastern kings and Eastern statesmen are never to be trusted, nor in any degree to be depended upon. Any of the reports, therefore, which are raised, may be true, but from mere appearance of probability it would be unsafe to conclude that any of them are true. An Eastern chief is always guided by his interest, and by his interest or apparent interest for the moment. He will for a bribe pledge himself to a certain course to-day, and for another bribe engage to pursue another to-morrow. The only way for prudent men to deal with them is to watch them closely, to distrust them entirely, and to keep their guns shotted. Few who have departed from these rules have not found reason to regret it.

Calcutta contributes scarcely anything domestic to enrich our columns. The report of a Russian squadron being a short distance from Singapore seems to have created some sensation in the capital of British India, which the press was trying to allay.

At Madras, the arrival of Lord Harris, the new governor, is the event; but, of course, at so early a period, the mere notice of that event is nearly all that is given relating to his lordship.

Bombay is not more liberal than the other presidency towns. There, too, the Russian fleet seems to have excited some alarm. However this may be, the fortifications are immediately to be strengthened. One of the papers (the Courier) suggests the keeping a few steamers cruising outside. The Brahmins are predicting all sorts of prosperity during Lord Elphinstone's rule. These gentry know what they are about: Lord Elphinstone is popular. The cholera is fearfully prevalent among the poorer classes in Bombay, and its prevalence is attributed to the bad water which they drink. Major Duncan

Malcolm (late political agent at Gwalior), who had been appointed resident at Baroda, was expected there about the 9th of May, and the arrival of Colonel Outram at the presidency, to proceed to Aden by the first steamer, was anticipated.

The most interesting news from Ceylon seems to be, that an unusual number of great men have lately touched at Galle, on their way to or from their respective spheres of duty. Governor Higginson from Mauritius, Lord Harris for Madras and Sir Henry Pottinger from that Presidency, the Hon. Mr. Elliott from Calcutta, Admiral Pellew from his command in the China Seas, and Sir James Stirling proceeding to replace him, Sir John Bowring on his way to Hong Kong, and Sir George Bonham on his way back, on which route were also the Commander of the Forces at Hong Kong, and the Chief Justice at that place; and to close the list, the Maharajah Duleep Sing on his way to England.

In China the intestine war still rages, and an unfortunate difference between the foreign community at Shanghai on the one hand, and the Imperial forces on the other, has led to an attack by the British and American men-of-war upon Imperialist encampments. Neither the merits nor the results of the affair are particularly clear, but it is to be lamented that there has been loss of life, and it is said on both sides.

CASUALTIES BY DEATH IN THE ARMIES OF INDIA, REPORTED SINCE OUR LAST PUBLICATION.

H.M.'s Troops.—Surg. M. J. M. Ross, H.M.'s 10th Light Dragoons, at Kirkee, May 4.

MADRAS.—Capt. A. Ward, 1st Eur. Fus. at Madras, Apr. 24; Ens. J. Innes, 46th N.I., on the road between Cuddapah and Nellore, Apr. 6.

BOMBAY.—Capt. H. Fenning, 21st N.I. at Dharwar; Ens. Lamb, 23rd N.I. at Mulligaum, May 1.

A CONSIDERATE ELEPHANT.—A poor bullock-driver, who had accompanied his companions to Morebhunge, fell ill on the road when returning. The fever under which he laboured prostrated him very speedily; his companions, therefore, put him on one of the bullocks, but the poor fellow slipped off unperceived by any one until many miles this side the Sooburnorekha. It was then late at night and quite unsafe to return in search of the unfortunate man, who was therefore left to the care of Dr. Fate. Two wild elephants came to the spot where the man lay insensible, but did not molest him further than that one of them turned him over once or twice, and then left him to his repose. Next morning he was taken to the hovel of a Sawotal, who had anxiously watched him during the night, and by great care on the part of his simple but hospitable host, gradually recovered and came back to the station a few days ago to tell his tale.—Bengal Hurkaru.

INTELLECTUAL AMUSEMENT AT MADRAS.—Last evening the Chinese girl Hamoi exhibited her extraordinary and difficult feat of ascending a tight rope 150 feet from the ground. Previous to the young girl taking her place, a sailor mounted on the top of the shears to see that all was correct; she then made her appearance, shortly after six, and in about seven or eight minutes had completed her ascent; she turned, and after making her salaams to the spectators, came back to her starting point about forty feet in height. The feat was performed with great steadiness, notwithstanding a strong southerly wind was blowing, and was much applauded by a large attendance.—Madras Athenaeum.

[A gentleman in London made a point of attending every one of Van Amburgh's exhibitions at Drury Lane Theatre, and was sure of being present on the night when one of the subjects should make a supper of his master. As the population sufficiently curious in such matters to see this young lady break her neck?]

BURMAH.

MEEADAY.

The following most interesting letter, dated Meeaday, the 24th of March, is from our correspondent:—

"It is reported that a lady visiting Meeaday exclaimed, 'What a lovely spot! so like Scotland, but much prettier.' 'What an ugly place Scotland must be!' was the exclamation of the garrison on hearing this. Not, sir, that I would have you imagine that the view from Meeaday itself is actually ugly, but what I do and will assert is this, that were it ten times more lovely than it really is, and it is not without its beauties, it would be impossible for us to enjoy it. Paradise itself would be scarcely inhabitable with the thermometer at this season at 103°, and still less is a place in which the glare, the dust, the heat, and the wretched accommodation combine to shut us out from all enjoyment, physical and mental. The soil is sandy, the air dry and hot, even the nights are sultry, and to add to our sorrows, the departure of the steamers from Rangoon is so arranged that our Calcutta letters seldom reach us till a month or six weeks after date. We had been taught to believe with the poet that and we did believe it, until we found that on the very day the Calcutta steamer reached Rangoon with the English Mail, the river steamer left Rangoon without the English Mail, thus keeping us out of news for a fortnight. The authorities have been busily employed here in marking out the boundary, and fixing small posts on the frontier; for the former purpose Major Allan left this stockade early this month with a party of Sappers and Miners under Lieut. Varguier, and a company of the 65th under Lieut. Montgomery. They are still on the frontier, and will not probably return before the end of next month. The other party under Capt. Weston of Lucknow celebrity, left this for a place called 'Monk Teu,' supposed to be a 'flourishing township' on the frontier. To the disappointment of the commissioner, who accompanied the party, the sole inhabitant of this 'flourishing township' was a leper, too enfeebled or too sick of sinking life to fly. The company, however, was ordered to remain, and there it is likely to remain till further orders. There is not the slightest chance of hostilities. The king of Ava is most peaceably inclined towards us. It is true that Mong Boo (alias 'the fighting lad') is on the frontier with 4,000 men, but he has the strictest orders not to cross the border. Were he to do so, the miseries of this garrison would be at once forgotten in the desire to send him back again, but no such luck, we fear, is in store for us. From what we can judge there is a considerable quantity of river traffic here, but the country around is utterly uncultivated, the villages few and thinly populated; altogether a most desolate air pervades the whole country. Cholera has lately been prevailing to a considerable extent, both at this place and at Thayet-Myoo. Several of the men of the Fusiliers have fallen victims to this scourge.

'A fellow-feeling makes us wondrous kind;'

This result is not to be attributed to any known cause. The rations are good, I may say first-rate, and in general sickness has prevailed to a very trifling extent. Cholera, however, has never been certainly traced to any specific cause, and the rule holds good in this instance. You will be surprised to learn that barracks have not even been commenced upon in this stockade; the men, therefore, live in Phougee houses, the officers in huts which they have erected as a temporary arrangement, and which, they have the satisfaction of knowing, will be pulled down so soon as the order arrives for the barracks to be commenced upon,—hence comfort is unknown in Meaday. A report is rife throughout the division that the whole of Pegu is to be garrisoned by Madras troops, in consequence of the superabundance of troops in that presidency, and the chances of a row with Persia. It seems strange indeed that a province in the heart of the Bengal territory, as Saugor and Bundelkhund, should be made over to Madras, whilst Bengal troops are required to garrison distant posts like those in Pegu. I need not say that such an arrangement would be most agreeable to the Bengalees on the Irrawady.—Hurkaru.

CAPT. GRANT.—We hear from good authority that Capt. Grant, Assistant Commissioner of Pegu, has been appointed Deputy Commissioner of Henzaidah, and Lieut. White, Assistant Commissioner at Promé, has been struck off the commission.—Chronicle, April 8.

CAMP "OKAN."—The subjoined has been kindly handed to us:—

Camp "Okan," 3rd April, 5 P.M.

"I have come so far without being able to give you a line to say: we are all jolly. No signs of Moung-Goung-Gyee yet. He has bolted to the Promé hills, and it is expected we will follow him; at present our route is to Henzaidah. To-morrow we march to Toungzai, 12 miles off. We are all as merry as crickets, although it is grilling hot in tents. Yesterday we had a shower of rain. Mr. George McCrea is assisting Captain Maxwell, Engineers, in surveying the road. There seems no chance of anything in the fighting line till we reach the stronghold; the old fellow is encamped between two hills, and unapproachable even on horseback. We are promised a warm reception, and I am sure we shall have it. Small pox is raging in the villages about. We have sent two prisoners in for conspiring to shoot Capt. Sparks. Our rice, cigars, grog, and even grub, are all out. We have, owing to the rascally Dhobies, to wear a shirt two and three days, and then wash it ourselves."—Ibid.

RANGOON.—By the Tenasserim we have received the Maulmein Advertiser to the 17th, and the Rangoon Chronicle to the 19th instant; from the latter we give the following extract:—

"We fear that our Calcutta contemporaries will have to chew the cud of bitter disappointment by reading the annexed short extract of a letter, dated Meaday, 12th April, 1854.

"My dear ———, I have just time to give you a line as the Lord William Bentinck is getting up steam. Meaday has nearly been burnt to the ground. Our sentries, if they have not already been, they are to be doubled, as we expect an attack to-day. So much for Lord Dalhousie's 'mild and beneficent rule.'

And we say, "so much for calling us alarmists."

We must confess that we shall not attach much credit to the implication that this fire is the work on an enemy, until we have more information upon the point.

A PETTY SKIRMISH.—We have just heard of an occurrence, which, only for its fatal result, we should be inclined to characterise as a pretty little farce. It seems that two parties, one under Lieut. Dangerfield, deputy commissioner of Henzaidah, and the other under Mr. Theodore, who commands a gun boat, went out to reconnoitre in the district of Sanyuay. Each of these parties falling in with the other, took it for a band of Dacoits and opened fire. We regret to say that Mr. Theodore's party killed two men of the other.—Rangoon Chronicle, April 12.

THE 8TH IRREGULAR CAVALRY.—The head quarters and wing of the 8th Irregular Cavalry under the command of Lieut. McKenzie commenced their march on Sunday last to Promé! They will not proceed by the usual route, but will take the road to Tong-zai, where they are to be joined by a company of the 9th M.N.I. The object of the march at so advanced a state of the season, we hear, is to intimidate the inhabitants of the country through which they will have to pass, and there appears to be a chance of their coming across the dacoit chief Moung Goung Ghee; in the event of which, we have but little doubts they will maintain the name which they have deservedly earned for themselves in the Sutledge campaign, by putting an effectual end to this marauding. From the inquiries we have made we fear that this party will have to encounter many difficulties, as the country between Tong-zai and Pong-dai has never yet been traversed by any European, and it is by many doubted whether there will be a sufficient supply of water.—Rangoon Chronicle, April 19.

FIRE.—About 5 P.M. yesterday a fire broke out in some buildings at the Bengal Commissariat, which has been occupied as stables, but through the exertions of those on the spot, it was speedily got under without doing material damage.—Ibid.

LOW RATE OF POSTAGE.—The Englishman states that the Governor-General has ordered the uniform low rate of postage to be introduced into Pegu. His Lordship has also sanctioned the creation of nine post-offices in the province,—at Rangoon, Pegu, Bassein, Sarawak, Promé, Meaday, Tounghoo, Sitang, and Martaban. There is also, we believe, to be an inspector, with authority over all these offices, an arrangement which might be imitated elsewhere with advantage.

THE "ATALANTA."—The H. C. transport Atalanta, W. Gibson, commander, arrived, and anchored off the commissariat wharf, Maulmein, April 4, bringing the head-quarters detachment of the 36th regiment M.N.I., under Lieut.-Colonel Musgrove, consisting of four officers and 300 rank and file, from Munsoor-cottah, which place she left on the 23rd ult.

THE 5TH REGIMENT M.N.I.—The head-quarters detachment of the 5th regiment M.N.I. arrived at Maulmein by land from Tounghoo, under the command of Lieut.-Colonel M. Poole, on Sunday morning last, and embarked for the coast on the H. C. transport Atalanta the evening before last.—Maulmein Advertiser, April 12.

LIGHTHOUSES IN THE STRAITS.—The Calcutta Gazette of Wednesday, April 19, contains an act, modifying the arrangements for defraying the costs of the lighthouses in the Straits. For the future, every vessel which arrives at any Indian port after passing the lighthouses, will pay one anna per ton; if it has passed only a few of them, the demand will be half an anna.

BENGAL.

DR. MOUAT.

India is not the land of listless dilettanteism. As a rule, there is perhaps more real hard work done by successful men in this country than even in England. Not to mention the heads of departments, an active magistrate or a popular barrister, an attorney in full practice, or a merchant who really trades, seldom finds the hours hang heavy on his hands. If, however, there should remain any of the class who talk of five hours' labour in office or cutcherry as a grievous burden, and who hold that India and exertion are incompatible terms, they may learn somewhat from a short sketch of the career of Dr. Mouat. He quitted India by the Hindustan, and we may now quote him as an illustration of what may be effected even in Calcutta, by an officer with a real appetite for work. During a career of fourteen years in India, his unconquerable activity and zeal had become prominently conspicuous. Appointments flowed in upon him, until at last English journalists who knew nothing of the facts, and personal enemies who chose to misrepresent them, quoted him as the great pluralist of Calcutta. The Examiner and Mr. Knighton, the Press and Mr. Capper, all pointed to Dr. Mouat as the grossest instance of the favouritism of the Government of Bengal. The charge was not without foundation. Dr. Mouat was undoubtedly a pluralist, and perhaps was a favourite of the authorities. But the pluralism was of work, and not of emoluments, and the favouritism was the feeling with which all governments regard a servant who is ready for any work, and who is certain to perform it well. Either by accident or design, every heavy appointment in Calcutta to which very little pay was attached, but the duties of which required ability, was bestowed on Dr. Mouat. He was professor of medicine in the medical college, and in this capacity was compelled to prepare, deliver, and illustrate one hundred lectures every session. He had also to examine the native classes, to watch the studies of the pupils, to examine their progress, and sometimes to turn pedagogue as well as lecturer.

He was first physician to the hospital, with the exclusive care of three wards, with 100 patients to visit daily, students to instruct, post mortem examinations to complete, scientific investigations to direct, and all that infinite mass of writing which the Indian system demands even from surgeons, to keep within bounds. Thirdly, he was secretary to the medical college, with its two hundred pupils, and its vast establishment. He had to keep up its internal discipline, to regulate the system pursued, to manage all its correspondence, and to do, in short, what in every other college is considered sufficient occupation for a principal. Fourthly, he was treasurer to the same institution, an office of much responsibility and some labour. All this was nothing. As if four medical appointments were not sufficient, he was also secretary to the council of education, an office the duties of which can only be comprehended by those who have at some time or other been connected with the department. The office is somewhat peculiar. The council is filled generally with able men, and in India able men are always fluent writers. This fluency is peculiarly marked when they begin writing on education. It is frequently a party question. It is always one in which first principles are involved, and on which able men are tempted to expound extemporaneous theories. Its proceedings are therefore voluminous. Its annual reports weigh more than those of any other department. Its returns usually involve the minute statistics in which Col. Sykes delights, and which the public cannot be induced to regard with interest. All these it was Dr. Mouat's province, to use a French phrase, to redact, to reduce into some order and compass. The mere task of becoming acquainted with them is not light. Englishmen are accustomed to say, that Bradshaw's Railway Guide is the most distracting of publications, but they speak in happy ignorance of Indian Educational returns.

Then there were the correspondence, the accounts, the journeys to examine little boys in great colleges, and though last, not least, the control of the department. The ancient proverb about "vatum irritabile genus," is a mere truism when applied to Indian schoolmasters. It is not pleasant to know that three-fourths of your subordinates must necessarily regard you as a personal enemy, yet but for Dr. Mouat's personal kindness this would frequently have been the case. As it was, Mr. Knighton's envenomed falsehoods are no bad specimen of the abuse he had occasionally to encounter. Lastly, he was Government Book Agent, an office of infinite detail, and rather less interesting than that of a lighthouse keeper.

Nor was this all. Whenever anything of a public character was to be done in Calcutta, some of the work was sure to fall on Dr. Mouat. If a Wellington testimonial was officially sanctioned, he must enjoy the felicity of dunning all his friends. Was a debating society required, he became president, watched the debates of young Bengal, and listened to discourses, which, however excellent, were like sermons sometimes prosy. And all this work official and voluntary, for education or educated natives, for the Duke of Wellington or the poorest patient in his hospital, was thoroughly accomplished. Even those who objected to the multiplication of offices, did so on the ground, that the scheme would succeed for the present, but must be rearranged for the next incumbent. And for all these appointments, for work now considered enough for three men, Dr. Mouat received Rs. 50 more than the salary now paid for one of them.

He never obtained an allowance equal to the salary of a collector, to the emoluments of a residency surgeon, or to those which accompany a fifth-rate Calcutta practice. He was allowed as—

Secretary to the Council of Education .. ..	Rs. 200
Government Book Agent .. ..	200
Professor of Medicine .. ..	400
Consolidated allowance for everything else, military pay inclusive .. ..	400

Rs. 1,200

He carries away with him, however, what may ultimately lead to fortune; a degree of general regard and personal esteem which, on his return to Calcutta, will place him in the first rank of medical practitioners.—Friend of India, April 20.

THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.

The Gazette of the 26th April announced the long-expected separation of the Department of Public Works from the Military Board. Like the Commissariat, the Department P. W. starts without the encumbrance of arrears, and the Military Board are charged with the winding up of the old accounts. The new scheme provides for two distinct branches, namely, the Executive and that of Accounts, which latter is to be established on a principle somewhat similar to the Commissariat, and has been adopted in consequence of the very excellent working of the new Audit Office. The new plan is very comprehensive, providing for every contingency, and fixing a very liberal scale of allowances to both covenanted and uncovenanted officers. There is, however, one paragraph which ought to have been somewhat differently worded. Para. 13, as it stands, will lead people to suppose that such a thing as a correct estimate is not to be expected, and that Government is quite prepared that the actual expenditure will be in excess, for the rule provides, that "Chief engineers will audit all bills, the amounts of which do not exceed by more than five per cent. those of the sanctioned estimates." It would appear from this that five per cent. excess of outlay over estimate is considered something exceedingly reasonable.

We observe that the province of Pegu, with Chittagong, and the coast district of Arracan and Tenasserim, is eventually to form a separate division, and that until the arrangements are carried out more fully, the superintending engineer in Pegu will be under the direct orders of the Government of India through the Commissioner.

The Military Board having thus suffered another amputation, they have now only charge of the ordnance and stud departments, the gunpowder works and the guncarrriage agencies. With reference to the studs, we have reason to believe that the Board will ere long be relieved from their control, and indeed the sooner it is done the better for the interests of the state. The Military Board has been proved to be utterly incapable of exercising any useful control whatever, and whatever business was taken in hand by that body, was sure to be mismanaged and to fall into arrears. This, however, has ceased to be a matter of surprise, since it became known that instead of doing the work like men of business the members were continually squabbling with each other, and that it became quite a matter of principle for one systematically to oppose whatever might be proposed by another of the members.

In fact, in the latter time these disputes became such a nuisance that hardly any letter of importance could be sent to government without recording the dissensions that existed in the board, and government, with a view to save their secretaries the trouble of wasting time upon the perusal of the personalities which one member heaped upon the other, ordered that the board should confine itself to stating that such and such a measure was recommended by a majority, for unanimity was never expected, for there was sure to be at least one dissentient voice. Such a state of things was a positive disgrace to a board, which ought to have commanded respect; but for this the board seemed to care little, for the numerous rebukes that have been heaped upon it by government were silently pocketed. Whatever the new arrangements may be, we hope that the board will soon be numbered amongst the things that were. We repeat again, that the sooner it is done away with the better for the state, for the losses sustained through the incompetency of the board must be counted by crores of rupees.—Hurkaru.

THE RUSSIAN SQUADRON IN THE STRAITS OF MALACCA.

A report has been brought from the Straits by the Pekin that the Russian fleet was off Singapore, and a facetious gentleman adds that it is 'on its way to Calcutta.' A contemporary tells us that the Czar's squadron in the Eastern seas "consists of four or five ships,—the largest a sixty-gun frigate, the smallest an eighteen gun corvette." "The squadron," he thinks, "should be looked after, if there be any means of doing so without danger."

We certainly agree with our contemporary that the Russian ships should be looked after, but we do not consider that any thought should be had regarding the danger. Risk must attend such an operation, which we feel pretty well sure will be undertaken if the Muscovite vessels be really moving in this direction; but we doubt if they would sail towards India, or even towards Europe, with a view of escaping into the Baltic. If safety be their object, they would better secure it by turning their prows towards the north-east, and seeking shelter in some part of the Czar's Asiatic or American possessions; probably Okotsk, from which place, we believe, the squadron alluded to has come.

As for the "means of chastising, dispersing, or capturing these ships," should the squadron keep the sea and wage war against our mercantile shipping and commerce, we cannot admit that the English Admiral does not possess them, and it strikes us that he is preparing for the trial by ordering the Winchester down from China to Singapore, where he has already the Rapid and Rattler sloops,—the latter a screw steamer. The Spartan and the Lily are also expected, and with these five vessels under his command we do not think that a British admiral will be deterred by any considerations of danger from looking after the Russian squadron. Our allies, the French, have several vessels in the China seas, and the East India Company can furnish both steamers and sloops, if not of any great power, still in some number. The whereabouts of this Russian squadron should certainly be ascertained at once, and its motions narrowly watched.

As some of our mercantile friends may still be anxious upon this subject, we give a list of what we believe to be British ships of war in the Eastern seas:—

	Guns.
Winchester (frigate)	50
Spartan .. .. .	26
Rattler (screw) .. .. .	6
Rapid .. .. .	8
Lily .. .. .	12
Alligator .. .. .	26
Bittern .. .. .	12
Cleopatra .. .. .	26
Comus .. .. .	14
Contest .. .. .	12
Grecian .. .. .	12
Royalist .. .. .	6
Salamanca (steam sloop) .. .. .	6
Styx (steam sloop) .. .. .	6
Serpent .. .. .	12

The above shows a force of fifteen vessels mounting 244 guns. We have omitted the Fox frigate and Hermes steamer, being under the impression that they have been relieved. Besides these, there are some half dozen vessels on the Australian station, and others at the Cape. The East-India Company has about twenty armed steamers and a dozen sailing vessels, which, though all small, might still do some good service. Under these circumstances, discretion would be the best part of valour with the Russians, and we shall be surprised to hear that they have not made themselves scarce.

The rumoured advent of the Russian squadron off Singapore appears to have caused some sensation here, for we learn that a petition to government in behalf of the mercantile community is contemplated, praying that armed steamers should be adequately equipped and despatched for the protection, specially of vessels employed in the trade with China. There are, already, as we remarked the other day, several war vessels of the royal navy on the Indian station, and these would doubtless be sufficient for curbing the appetite of the Russian squadron for "prizes." Nevertheless for the sake of public confidence it would perhaps be advisable to detach one or more of our war steamers, either from Bombay or this presidency to patrol the watery highways of the Bay of Bengal, and give timely information of any clandestine movements of the Russian vessels, so that we may be prepared to take advantage of news of the declaration of war, which will doubtless arrive in Calcutta before it reaches the Russian Commodore.—Hurkaru.

THE THOMASON TESTIMONIAL.

We asked last week what had been done in the matter of the subscriptions for the public testimonial to the late Lieutenant-Governor. The inquiry is answered in the following memorandum, with which we have since been favoured:—

"The committee of the Thomason testimonial met at the secretary's house on the morning on the 29th ult., when the list of subscriptions was examined.

"The amount subscribed was found to be Rs. 33,000, exclusive of the sums subscribed in the Punjab, of which no account had been rendered, and the committee have been given to understand that the Punjab committee intend to reserve their own funds for expenditure in those provinces.

"After reading letters from various subscribers:—It was resolved that the amount should be appropriated in the following manner:—

"To obtain from England a portrait of the late Mr. Thomason, to be placed in the Metcalfe testimonial, Rs. 3,500.

"For five silver medals at Rs. 50 each, for colleges at Delhi, Bareilly, Agra Missionary, Lawrence Asylum, and Benares, Rs. 6,250.

"Two gold medals at 100 each, for Roorkee and Agra Government Colleges, Rs. 3,750.

"A scholarship at Agra Missionary College, Rs. 3,600; and a scholarship at Delhi Missionary College; Rs. 1,800 amount of funds specially subscribed.

"A scholarship for college at Ajmeer, Rs. 2,400.

"A ditto for medical students at Thomason's Hospital, Agra, Rs. 7,200.

"A marble Murat table for New Church at Agra, Rs. 1,000.

"A bust of Mr. Thomason for Agra College, Rs. 2,500."—Agra Messenger, April 15.

THE LONDON MAIL of March 24 arrived at Madras April 28, en route Calcutta, per Bentinck.—The LONDON MAIL of May 9 left Suez May 25 for Ceylon, Madras, and Calcutta.—The Bombay, with LONDON MAIL of April 24, left Aden May 17 for Ceylon, Madras, and Calcutta.

DISCOVERY OF GREEN INDIGO.—A notice of the discovery of the green indigo, as it is called, has been published. The discovery is stated to have been made by Mr. Delanougere, of the Metropolitan College; but until we hear something more about it, we abstain from any comment. We mention the subject merely because we are informed that another gentleman has discovered a true vegetable green, manufactured by himself, of indigenous plants, and that he is now preparing specimens which he proposes to offer to Government for the purpose of being forwarded to the French Exhibition of 1855. Samples of it have already been tried by one of the Calcutta chemists, and it is said that the dye withstood the effects of very powerful tests, and the colour may, therefore, be considered a fixed one.—Hurkaru, April 25.

LIEUTENANT LOWE.—Lieutenant Lowe, of the 11th regiment N.I., a probationer in the Commissariat Department, has been ordered down from Agra for the purpose of studying practically the new system of accounts in the office of the auditor of commissariat accounts. The travelling expenses of Lieutenant Lowe to and from Calcutta will be defrayed by Government. This is the right way to render the rising generation of the commissariat good accountants, and the greatest gainer by the measure will be the State itself.—Bengal Hurkaru, April 24.

COLONEL BYGRAVE.—Lieutenant-Colonel Bygrave, Extraordinary Member of the Military Board, who has been engaged for the last four years in adjusting the field accounts of the Commissariat, has submitted to Government a medical certificate, which renders it absolutely necessary that he should proceed to Europe in the course of next month. Not having seen the certificate in question, and, moreover, not pretending to any medical knowledge, we are unable to pronounce any opinion as to the absolute necessity or otherwise of the gallant Colonel proceeding for a change of air to England, but we know, that even if he had to remain in India, no insurance office would be deterred from granting a policy on his life on most reasonable terms. We mention this circumstance without intending the least reflection upon Colonel Bygrave, whom we consider one of the most deserving officers in the Bengal army. Our object is only to point out the absurdity of the regulations which, regardless of the length of time an officer may have served in the army, and of the services he may have rendered to the State, prevent him from visiting his native country without personal sacrifice, unless he submits to the force of producing a medical certificate which represents a man in a half dying state at the very period he is perhaps only suffering from debility or general weak health. The only excuse for such an anomaly, which we can possibly think of, must be based upon Scripture, which says—"In the midst of life we are in death."—Hurkaru, April 27th.

REAR-ADMIRAL SIR JAMES STIRLING has arrived at Singapore. He succeeds Sir Fleetwood Pellew, recalled.

MR. CECIL BEADON, Secretary to the Government of Bengal, proceeds to England on board the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamer Bengal on her next trip, and will probably be absent from India for some six or seven months.

BABOO PROSONOCOMAR TAGORE.—A rumour is afloat in the native quarters that Baboo Prosonocomar Tagore has been offered the appointment of sadder judge on a salary of Rs. 1,500 a month.

MOOLTAN, 13TH APRIL.—The weather here is delightful. Thermometer in-doors, without punkah, 80 degrees. Races and archery meetings are the order of the day for next week. A grand wedding is to come off in a few days,—the gallant Commandant of the 6th Irregular Cavalry to the lovely, &c., &c., &c., daughter of our worthy Deputy Commissioner.

RIVER STEAMERS.—The Delhi Gazette notices, that the I. G. S. N. Company have abandoned Allahabad as the terminus for their operations. The increasing shallowness of the river compels them to select a station further to the south.

DR. O'SHAUGHNESSY is compelled by over exertion and stretch of mind to quit his electric undertakings, and seek for health in the hills.

DR. MOUAT.—The members of the Bethune Society met on Saturday night, to present Dr. Mouat, the founder of the institution, with a testimonial and address. The testimonial was a silver inkstand, and the address alluded in feeling terms to the aid he had rendered the society, and the advantage it had derived from his energy, perseverance, and tact. Dr. Mouat in reply, stated his motives in the formation of the society, and predicted that it would yet become an instrument of extended influence, would yet "knit in closer, and more friendly union, the sons of the soil with the strangers from the far west."

BANK OF BENGAL.—The election of Mr. Maples, a civilian attached to the General Treasury, as Secretary to the Bank of Bengal in succession to Mr. Grey, who has been appointed Secretary to the Governor of Bengal, has led to some discussion. The Governor-General objected to it on the general principle, that the post in question ought not to be held by a civilian, and, moreover, for the especial reason, that Mr. Maples could not be spared at present at the Treasury. The Bank directors having, however, represented the inconvenience to which the Bank would be placed if their choice was interfered with, his Lordship gave way to their request, and allowed Mr. Maples to accept of the office for which he has been selected.

THE COMMISSARIAT DEPARTMENT.—The Commissary-General, whilst indefatigable in his exertions to instil efficiency and economy into every branch of the department over which he presides, is at the same time determined that the Commissariat shall no longer be blamed for the omissions and Commissions of others. It is undeniable that in the issue of rations as much depends upon the receiver as on the supplier, and that unless the former takes the trouble of seeing that he actually gets what he is entitled to, all the vigilance on the part of the Executive Commissariat officer will not prevent abuse. To attain, therefore, the co-operation of those most interested in the supply, the Governor-General, on raising the general standard of rations, passed an order for the due supervision on the part of commanding officers of all rations supplied by the Commissariat, and, as the most effectual means of securing really good and wholesome provisions, it was intimated that any fines levied upon contractors for supplies rejected by a committee, would be paid over to the commanding officer on behalf of the men of his regiment. A subsequent order further requested that on each occasion it should be stated at whose request such committee was convened. It appears, however, that these orders issued by the Governor-General at the suggestion of Major Ramsay, and subsequently republished in the General Orders by the Commander-in-Chief, were but partially attended to; for we observe in the last orders by the C. C. that his Excellency, in consequence of a complaint preferred by the Commissary-General, again calls upon commanding officers strictly to conform to the above orders. This is taking the proper course; for surely since Government has voluntarily raised the standard of rations, and shown its readiness to pay liberal prices for good and wholesome articles, it would be too bad to see the attainment of that end defeated, and blame cast upon the Commissariat, merely because those whose special duty it is to supervise the quality of the rations issued do not take the trouble of seeing the orders of Government properly attended to. To us it appears a very material point that it should be shown at whose request committees of the kind referred to are convened, because it will afford a criterion as to which party watches more zealously the quality of the provisions,—the officer supervising the receipts, or the executive by whose orders they are issued. If the soldiers henceforth get any inferior article of rations, it will be no longer the fault of the Commissariat.

—Hurkaru.

MR. LIEUT.-COL. CAUTLEY.—The sheriff has been requested to convene a public meeting for the purpose of marking a sense of duty towards Lieut.-col. Cautley for his eminent services in connection with the Ganges Canal. The sheriff has, in compliance with the requisition, called upon the inhabitants of Calcutta to meet at the Town Hall, on the 29th April.

MR. HORDAY has been employed to survey the whole of the province of Martaban, for the purpose of preparing a map.

DACOITS.—The Citizen reports that Mr. Samuells, late magistrate of the 24 Pergunnahs, placed a police station within the compound of a native Baboo. The excuse was that the Baboo protected dacoits. The Government of Bengal rescinded the order, and the Citizen approves of the rebuke. In this, as in a recent case, the real question at issue is lost sight of. If the country is to be cleared of dacoits, those who harbour them must be punished severely. At present they invariably escape upon appeal.

BRIGADIER WILLIAMS.—We observe, it is stated that Brigadier Williams is to command in Northern and Western Pegu, though Sir S. Steele will obtain the command of the entire division. Brigadier Williams has passed the greater portion of his official career in Burmah, is thoroughly acquainted with the language, and we believe, raised and organized the first Pegu levy.

POSTAL REPORT.—The Lieut.-Governor of the N.W. Provinces has published the final report of Mr. Riddell, now director-general of the Indian Post-office. Mr. Riddell was post-master general of Agra for nine years. In that time, the revenue increased from Rs. 5,56,000 to Rs. 8,36,000. The number of post-offices, which in 1845 was 138, was 247 in 1853. The number of miles of mail-road was more than doubled. It is now 13,884. The number of miles on which the post is carried in carts has been increased more than five fold. It is now 2,500. Passengers are allowed to travel by banghy vans, the Government bullock trains have been organized, district dawks have been made available to the public, and travellers' bungalows have been rendered comfortable as circumstances will permit. Mr. Riddell has deserved well of the state.

AGRA.—The following is from our Agra correspondent, dated April 21:—"The weather is not quite so seasonable as it ought to be at this time of the year, hence a little sickness is prevalent in the city—ophthalmia, small-pox, fever, &c., but no fatal cases. It has been cloudy, and we had a little drizzle on Thursday, but the sky is clear again. You may have heard from some of the Agra papers about a row in the civil lines. It arose from the following circumstances and between the following parties: William Christian Watson, Esq. the Register of the Sudder Dewanny Adawlut, and the celebrated character who has only just now had a tussle with Mr. Newton, whose case the Englishman has espoused, for a report having been circulated by one Mr. R. Smith—once an assistant in the same office, but now resigned—to the effect that some private examination-papers were in the hands of the public, was ordered not to enter the precincts of the Court, for the reason that Mr. S. refused giving up the name of the party who was in possession of the questions, except upon conditions. The order was to the Nazim, kutcherry men must see do. The word kutcherry was not sufficiently explicit. Mr. W. meant to say dustur, i.e. not to allow him to come to the office, the writing department. The very day the order was issued, Mr. S. was informed of it by some friend, on which he wrote a protest, asking Mr. W.'s authority to stop him from attending the Court. He wrote a private letter at the same time to a friend in the Sudder Dewanny Adawlut, stating that if Mr. W. did not mind, that he would show him the weight of his arms by leaving some indelible marks on him at any cost. Mr. S. like the Irishman, became the bearer of both his own letters, and when he came to the Court, he took from his pocket the private note instead of the protest, and presented it to Mr. W., who did not wait to see the address, but opened and read the letter, which he at once presented to the judges of the Court, who, I am told, requested Mr. S. to withdraw the expressions contained in his note; but he doggedly refused doing so, labouring under the impression that it was the protest. The judges, therefore, told Mr. W. to go to the magistrate at once for redress. On Mr. W. driving off, Mr. S. drew from his pocket the other note, and to his astonishment and utter confusion found that it was not the protest, but the private letter that he had handed to Mr. W. Mr. S. then proceeded to the house of his brother. He had been there but a few hours, when the kotwal, with a number of burkundazes, surrounded the house, and requested him to come out to meet a summons from the magistrate. Mr. S. declined, and his brother gave security for his appearance at the Fouzdarry on the day appointed. The case has since come on. We thought there would be a great bobbery, but it was very coolly wound up. Mr. S. was only bound down in two snreties of Rs. 200 each to keep the peace. Mr. Smith has, I hear, gone to join the Central Star.—Hurkaru, April 27.

BARRACKPORE.—The following is from our Barrackpore correspondent:—"Another detachment of the 67th left yesterday. I fancy the head-quarters will be detained sometime longer as there are no government steamers available. Did I tell you that two large boats laden with clothing and arms belonging to the regiment, were lost in the bore? They were warned to keep out in the middle of the stream, but would not do so, and the consequence was that the first boat was lifted completely on the top of the other, and both went down. I believe some of the arms and clothing were saved, but the greater portion was lost. Lieut. Glubb, 37th N.I., and Lieut. Rutherford, 33rd, have volunteered their services for Burmah to escort the remaining squadrons of the 8th irregulars. Lieut.-Col. Wheler is at present in command of the station. I believe Brigadier Warren expects to be re-posted, but I think he labours under a delusion. His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief could not rescind his order, considering the circumstances under which it was issued. I say circumstances, as transferring a brigadier from one station to another, without any cause being assigned in the order, I mean such as ('at his own request') leads to the inference that there is something which it is not expedient to disclose. However, we shall see. The barometer has fallen again to 29.600. I dare say we shall have another storm; it looks cloudy to the southward. However pleasant the weather may be, I fear that it is not healthy. I hear that there is a good deal of cholera about. Ensign Sharpe, of the 72nd, had a severe fall from his horse, and being rather of the 'heavy dragoon order' has suffered much from his close acquaintance with 'mother earth.' Major Boscowen, of the 54th, retires in June next. I have more to communicate, but will defer it for a few days."—Hurkaru, April 24.

MOORSHEDEABAD.—ALLOW me to state that myself and the dependents of the Nizamut are very grateful to you for having, through the medium of your paper, brought to the notice of the Governor-General, some of the wicked acts of the mercenary eunuchs. A few days ago they were discharged and sent away from Moorshehabad, but the two favourites of the Nawab Nazim, Ahsan Ally and Nasir Ally, who have secured the greater part of the money saved during the Nawab's minority by the carefulness of the late General Rasper, Governor-General's agent, and Tiery Saheb, one of the heads of the Nizamut service, threatened before they left Moorshehabad to spend every pice they have got, and fight out their rights in England. The two Feringhees, who took a very conspicuous part in protecting the eunuchs during their trial, have also been sent away, the former discharged from Mezkanah, and the latter order not to set his foot in the killah. Now about the new Dewan—the Nawab is disappointed in his expectations. He thought by appointing him he would try to screen the guilt of the eunuchs, and report of them favourably to government, and place them in their former position; but he being a man of good principles, tried his best to put down all mal-practices. A short time back he curtailed the expenses of the Tumboakkannah, an enormous allowance of Rs. 16 per day for the Nawab's paun and soopars, which has caused the displeasure of his Highness, and the reinstatement of the Naib Dewan, through whom the eunuchs got the Nawab's orders to the Dewan. This, of course, has made his situation very disagreeable, and no doubt he would have resigned his appointment had it not been for the removal of the eunuchs. I shall write to you again, and give you further information with regard to other matters."—Englishman, April 19.

SUMBHULPORE.—A private letter from Sumbhulpore mentions that there are as many as 1,500 men employed in the forests of that district cutting teak timber for the use of the railroad. Thus, one of the resources of India is being developed by the construction of the rail, another is likely to be so to a larger extent than at present, by the working of the coal-fields in the Damun-i-keh, in the Bhagulpore district, and we trust that the day is not far distant when the requirements of the rail in the shape of iron will be supplied from Indian mines.

JESSORE, April 15.—"Did you hear of the fearful circumstance which took place here on the evening of the 12th instant? We had a smart breeze about 8 p.m. at this factory, with six-tenths of rain; but it was quite different at a village half a mile distant from this. It is a small village in the middle of the Bhael, and right opposite my house; I can see the ruins from my verandah. A fearful blast of wind came roaring through the village, and carried away, in an instant, six houses, fourteen men, women, and children, and forty head of cattle. Next morning the dead bodies were found a long way off, some with arms and legs broken, and one man was carried away and dashed into the ground to the depth of two feet. Neither man nor beast survived the shock. Not only houses were carried away, but also the ground on which they stood was taken away. The fish were blown out of the water, and fell dead in the paddy fields; and all the grass and paddy which came in its way were torn out of the ground. The police people are holding an inquest on the dead; and every ryot in the place is nearly frightened out of his wits. We had a bit of a storm yesterday evening, and could hear the ryots shouting and calling on heaven to protect them. I don't think that the space over which the hurricane passed could have been wider than twenty or thirty yards; and it must have expended its strength before reaching the other villages."—Englishman, April 21.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ALEXANDER, R. to be civ. and sess. judge of Allypore.
BAX, J. H. to offic. as jt. mag. and dep. coll. of Axsinghur till further orders, subject to the result of the recent exam. of assists. April 13.
BROADHURST, W. H. to be register of deeds in district of Furrupore.
BROWN, T. S. perm. to resign fr. end of April.
EGERTON, P. H. to be a mem. of the local com. of pub. inst. at Delhi, April 19.
FAGAN, G. S. to be sen. pol. mag. of Calcutta fr. May 1.
GUBBINS, C. to be mag. and coll. of Muttra.
HUDSON, C. H. to offic. as 2nd class prin. asst. to com. of Assam, and to civ. ch. of Cossiah and Jynteah hills fr. date of Rec. ch. of pol. agent's office.
LEAN, J. to be civ. and sess. judge of Mirzapore.
LOW, H. M. to be inspector of post-offices in Pegu.
MACWHIRTER, J. P. to be mag. and coll. of Panceput fr. date of Prowett's resign.
MARTIN, J. N. to be commis. for improvement of town of Gowhatty.
MONEY, W. E. to be comm. of customs N.W. Provinces.
MORGAN, R. B. to be a mem. of the local com. of pub. inst. at Delhi, April 19.
SAUNDERS, R. F. to be an asst. com. in Punjab, posted to Simla, for 6 mo.
SMITH, M. to be civ. and sess. judge of Futtahpore, to continue to offic. as judge of Sudder Dewanny and Nizamut Adawlat.
THOMPSON, H. S. to be add. princ. sud. ameen of 34-Pargunnahs, but to act as princ. sud. ameen of Nuddes.
WINGFIELD, C. J. to be mag. and coll. of Bijnote.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BRADON, C. to England.
BROWN, S. S. to May 1. prep. to resigning.
BULLER, F. P. 1 mo.
CHAPMAN, G. C. S. 1 mo.
CLEVEY, T. G. 1 mo.
DAVIES, R. H. 4 mo.
EDMONDSTONE, G. F. 1 mo.
FORBES, W. A. 6 weeks.
GOULDSBURY, F. 1 mo.
KNOTT, J. 1 month.
MORRISSON, D. B. fr. April 10, 1854, to April 1, 1855, to hills N. of Deyrah.
MUSPRATT, H. 1 mo.
THORNHILL, M. B. 1 mo. fr. Apr. 1.
WOODCOCK, E. E. 1 mo.
WYLLY, E. M. 1 mo.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

GLADWIN, Rev. C. H. B. pl. at disp. of govr. of Prince of Wales Island for emp. at Singapore, v. Quartley.
MALTRY, Rev. R. B. asst. chaplain, to be chaplain fr. Apr. 3.
QUARTLEY, Rev. C. J. asst. chaplain, fr. Apr. 3, to be chaplain of Barrackpore.
SHARPE, Rev. J. F. asst. chaplain, to be chaplain fr. Apr. 3.
SLOGGETT, Rev. C. leave cancelled.
WALLIS, Rev. A. W. to be chaplain at Prome.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ABBOTT, Maj. J. art. posted to 8th batt.
ADAMS, Capt. R. R. 12th N.I. to act as adj. to left wing dur. its abs. fr. head qrs.
ANDERSON, Lieut. col. W. C. B. art. posted to 6th batt.
BARSTOW, Lieut. col. J. A. fr. 57th to 58th N.I.
BARTLEMAN, Ens. J. having passed exam. on Dec. 20, to stand next below Ens. D. Macdonald, with rank fr. Oct. 20, 1853.
BATCHELOR, Lieut. C. 3rd Punjab cav. to offic. as comdt.
BATTINE, Ens. G. 14th N.I. to act as int. and qr. mr. 5th L.C. as a special and temp. arrangement, April 13.
BAZZLEY, Maj. F. R. art. posted to 7th batt.
BECHER, 1st Lieut. D. W. 2nd Eur. Bengal fus. to act as adj. 8th irr. cav. April 20.
BENNETT, 2nd Lieut. W. H. 2nd Eur. Bengal fus. to do duty with a detach. of his corps proceeding to the pres. in view to embarking for Burmah to join the reg. April 21.
BOILEAU, Lieut. col. J. T. to be chief eng. N.W. prov.
BRADFORD, Lieut. E. 23rd N.I. to be capt. fr. April 1, in suc. to Shaw, retired.

- BROOKE, Col. G. c.b. art. fr. 9th batt. to 1st brig.
 BROWNLOW, 2nd Lieut. H. R. art. fr. 1st comp. 2nd batt. to 1st troop 3rd brig.
 BROWNLOW, 2nd Lieut. E. P. engra. to proc. to Meerut, and join head qrs. of sappers and miners; to be an asst. exec. eng. in the 6th div. grand trunk road, April 19; passed exam. in Hindustani.
 CADELL, Lieut. R. to act as adj. to Kelat-i-Ghilzie regt. v. Campbell.
 CAMPBELL, Brev. lieut. col. G. art. fr. 8th to 6th batt.
 CAULFIELD, 1st Lieut. H. 1st Eur. fus. to rank fr. Oct. 1, 1853.
 CAUTLEY, Lieut. col. P. T. art. fr. 6th to 1st batt.
 CHESTER, Ens. C. W. R. to act as adjt. 19th N.I. dur. abs. of Manning.
 CHESTER, Ens. H. D. E. W. inf. to rank fr. Feb. 20.
 COMBE, Brev. maj. H. T. 1st Eur. Bengal fus. perm. to ret. fr. serv. of E.I. Co. on pens. of a maj. fr. May 10, proc. to Van Diemen's Land.
 CONRAN, Capt. H. M. art. fr. 6th co. 7th, to 3rd co. 8th batt.
 COPLAND, Ens. A. inf. to rank fr. Jan. 14, 1854.
 CORBETT, Lieut. A. F. 43rd N.I. to be interp. and qr. mr. v. Pogson.
 COVENTRY, Col. C. 70th N.I. perm. to reside at Barrackpore, and draw his pay &c. fr. pres. pay mr.
 DANIEL, Lieut. C. A. 8th L.C. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Simla, old reg.
 DANVERS, Ens. R. W. inf. to rank fr. March 4, 1854.
 DAY, Lieut. col. E. F. art. posted to 1st brigade.
 DICKEY, Maj. E. J. to be lieut. col. fr. April 15, 1854, in succ. to Palmer, dec.
 DICKINS, 2nd Lieut. T. E. art. to act as adj. to Mooltan div. v. Newall.
 ECKFORD, Ens. A. H. inf. to rank fr. Feb. 20, 1854.
 ELD, Brev. maj. L. P. D. 9th N.I. to com. of new fort at Bazeed Khail.
 FAGAN, Ens. H. inf. to rank fr. Feb. 14, 1854.
 FANSHAW, Capt. R. W. H. transfer. fr. 1st Eur. Bengal fus. to invalids, to have effect fr. Oct. 1, 1854.
 FARQUHARSON, Ens. C. M. to do duty with 46th N.I. at Dinapore; to rank fr. Jan. 4, 1854.
 FISHER, Capt. G. A. 1st N.I. to com. of fort of Abazaie.
 FLETCHER, Lieut. C. W. 48th N.I. to proc. to Rangoon in ch. of 4th and 5th troops, 8th irr. cav.
 FORSTER, Capt. W. R. 2nd in com. Shekawattee bat. to act as commdt.
 FORSTER, Lieut. T. E. to act as 2nd in comd. Shekawattee batt. in addit. to his other duties.
 FRASER, 1st Lieut. A. art. fr. 2nd comp. 8th, to 2nd comp. 6th batt.
 FRASER, Capt. 2nd in com. to offic. as adjt. 4th Punjab cav.
 FRASER, Lieut. E. engra. services pl. at disp. of Gov. N. W. P. for emp. under superint. of canals, April 21.
 FULTON, Lieut. J. art. placed at disp. of foreign dept. for emp. on Haree Doab canal.
 GALLOWAY, Lieut. G. A. 3rd L.C. passed colloq. exam.
 GAMBIE, Ens. C. H. F. inf. to rank fr. Jan. 4, 1854.
 GARSTIN, Col. E. offic. chief eng. and ex-officio mem. of mil. board, to continue to perform duties of a mem. of mil. board.
 GENESTE, 2nd Lieut. M. G. engra. passed colloq. exam.
 GILLESPIE, 1st Lieut. A. 3rd, to assume command of 4th co. art. as a temp. arrangement, in addition to his other duties.
 GOODWYN, Lieut. col. H. to be chief eng. lower provinces.
 GORDON, Capt. G. 1st Seikh local inf. to relieve Capt. Fisher fr. com. of fort at Shubkuddur.
 GORDON, Ens. F. I. C. 6th N.I. passed colloq. exam.
 GOTT, Capt. W. C. 56th N.I. to receive ch. of the div. pay office, and conduct duties of the same on responsibility of Maj. Burt, dep. pay mr. Sirhind div. April 21.
 GOUGH, Corn. H. H. having passed exam. to stand next below Corn. B. Cuppage, with rank fr. Sept. 4, 1853.
 GREME, Lieut. C. H. E. 5th N.I. has furnished the certificate of qualification as a surveyor, April 28.
 GRAHAM, Ens. J. 14th N.I. to assume ch. of the commissariat duties at Wuzerabad, as a special and temp. arrangement, in room of Bt. maj. Williamson, Apr. 13.
 GRAHAM, Ens. G. F. inf. to rank fr. Jan. 14, 1854.
 GRANT, Ens. R. J. inf. to rank fr. Feb. 4, 1854; to do duty with 50th N.I. at Benares.
 GRANT, Lieut. J. A. 8th N.I. to ch. of post guns at Shahjehanpore.
 GRAY, 1st Lieut. W. J. art. fr. 4th comp. 7th, to 6th comp. 8th batt.
 HAMILTON, Lieut. T. C. to ch. of post guns at Tahpoon.
 HAY, Lieut. G. J. D. to offic. as 2nd in com. 18th irr. cav. v. Phillips.
 HENDERSON, Ens. D. inf. to rank fr. Jan. 4, 1854.
 HENNESSY, Ens. G. R. to do duty with 33rd N.I. at Barrackpore.
 HEWETT, Ens. J. M. B. inf. to rank fr. March 4, 1854.
 HOME, Brig. R. trans. fr. com. of station of Benares to com. of station of Barrackpore.
 HUTHWAITE, Col. E. c.b. art. posted to 2nd brig.
 INNES, Capt. P. 14th N.I. to be maj. fr. April 15, 1854, in suc. to Palmer, dec.
 JACOB, Ens. H. J. C. inf. to rank fr. Feb. 14, 1854.
 JOHNSON, 1st Lieut. E. B. art. fr. 2nd comp. 9th batt. to 2nd troop 1st brig.
 KNYVETT, Lieut. col. A. new promotion (on staff emp.), posted to 74th N.I.
 LAWRENCE, Brig. H. posted to Lahore, in suc. to Tennant.
 LAWRENCE, Lieut. col. H. fr. 58th to 57th N.I.; to be col. fr. April 15, 1854, in suc. to Palmer, dec.
 LEES, Lieut. W. N. rec. ch. of office of Persian translator to Govt. of India, fr. Dr. A. Sprenger, April 18.
 LLOYD, Col. G. W. A. c.b. 28th N.I. to temp. com. of Cawnpore div. with rank of brig.
 LOCKWOOD, Corn. J. C. cav. to rank fr. Jan. 20, 1854.
 MACFARLANE, 2nd Lieut. C. 1st Eur. fus. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 MACKENZIE, Lieut. and adjt. A. M. to act as 2nd in commd. 8th irr. cav. April 20.
 MALLOCH, Capt. Z. M. art. fr. 3rd comp. 5th to 1st comp. 9th batt.
 MAYNARD, 2nd Lieut. C. W. art. fr. 2nd comp. 1st, to 4th comp. 7th batt.
 McDUGALL, Ens. C. A. 9th N.I. to be adjt. v. Campbell, proc. on leave.
 McDOWELL, Lieut. G. vet. est. perm. to reside at Peshawur, and draw his pay, &c. fr. Rawul Pindie circle of payment.
 METCALFE, Ens. H. D. inf. to rank fr. Jan. 4, 1854.
 MONEY, 1st Lieut. J. art. fr. 1st comp. 4th, to 6th comp. 7th batt.
 MYLNE, 1st Lieut. W. A. art. dep. comm. of ordnance, posted to the arsenal of Fort William.
 NAPIER, Brev. lieut. col. R. to be chief eng. in the Punjab.
 NICHOLL, 2nd Lieut. T. art. fr. 2nd troop, 1st brig. to 4th comp. 3rd batt. to be adjt. to Mooltan div.
 NORMAN, Ens. F. B. 14th N.I. to be lieut. fr. Apr. 15, in suc. to Palmer, dec.
 NOWELL, Ens. R. N. 32nd N.I. to act. as adj. v. Bonamy, proc. on leave.
 OAKLEY, Ens. H. E. inf. to rank fr. Feb. 20, 1854.
 O'DOWDA, Ens. R. C. 72nd N.I. to proc. to Rangoon with Lieut. Fletcher, in ch. of 4th and 5th troops, 8th irr. cav.
 PEARSON, Capt. H. E. 18th N.I. fr. Apr. 30 to Oct. 15, to hills north of Deyrah, on m. c.
 PERREAU, Ens. M. C. to do duty with 37th N.I. at Barrackpore.
 PIERRY, Capt. H. J. 49th N.I. to act as interp. and qr. mr. dur. abs. of Vincent.
 POLLOCK, Col. Sir G. c.b. art. fr. 1st brig. to 9th batt.
 POWELL, Lieut. T. E. 43rd N.I. to be adjt. v. Pogson, from Apr. 20.
 PRENDERGAST, Corn. M. M. cav. to rank fr. Jan. 4, 1854; to do duty with 1st L. C. at Cawnpore.
 PRIESTLEY, Lieut. A. G. offic. qr. mr. gen. to act as adjt. to 1. wing 41st N.I. at Mynpoorie, Apr. 21; to receive ch. of the station staff office fr. Lieut. Burrows, 54th N.I.
 PRIOR, Brev. maj. C. 64th N.I. posted to Lahore div.
 READE, Ens. F. fr. 34th to 57th N.I. at Lahore, as 3rd ens.
 REMINGTON, Ens. A. G. fr. 4th to 12th N.I. as 4th ens.
 RICHARDS, Cornet W. J. S. 5th L.C. passed colloq. exam.
 RICHARDSON, Capt. J. F. irr. cav. to offic. as commdt. 8th irr. cav. Apr. 20.
 ROSS, Ens. S. inf. to rank fr. Jan. 20, 1854.
 ROWCROFT, Lieut. G. C. 41st N.I. to be qr. mr. Kelat i Ghilzie regt. v. Campbell.
 RYVES, Capt. W. H. com. 18th irr. cav. to ch. of adjt.'s office.
 SALUSBURY, Capt. F. O. 1st Eur. fus. to rank fr. Oct. 1, 1853; to act as detach. staff to Bengal troops, and gar. st. to Bengal and Madras troops at Rangoon.
 SCONCE, Ens. H. inf. to rank fr. Feb. 20, 1854.
 SCOTT, Lieut. P. G. 12th N.I. to be interp. and qr. mr. v. Adams, prom.
 SEWELL, Ens. R. M. 71st N.I. passed colloq. exam.
 SHAW, Capt. R. 23rd N.I. perm. to retire from the service of the Company on pension of his rank, fr. April 1, 1854, for the purpose of settling in one of the Australian colonies.
 SHEPHERD, Lieut. J. T. 7th L.C. passed colloq. exam.
 SHERER, Lieut. col. G. M. (on furl.) fr. 71st N.I. to 2nd Eur. Bengal fus. April 19.
 SHERER, Lieut. J. F. Sylhet lt. inf. to rec. ch. of adj. office fr. Lieut. Raban.
 SIDEBOTTOM, Lieut. to offic. as 2nd in command 4th Punjab cav.
 SIMPSON, Ens. G. B. C. 23rd N.I. to be lieut. fr. April 1, in suc. to Shaw, retired.
 SMITH, Lieut. col. L. H. 5th L.C. trans. to inv. est. fr. April 1.
 SMITH, Lieut. F. H. 2nd in com. 16th irr. cav. to perform duties of adj. v. Urmston.
 SMITH, Ens. M. G. 59th N.I. to act as adj. v. Presgrave.
 STALLARD, 1st Lieut. S. art. to ass. ch. of 4th comp. 4th batt.
 STAPLES, Lieut. T. 58th N.I. to act as adj. to right wing dur. its separation fr. head qrs.
 STEEL, Lieut. col. J. c.b. in civil employ, fr. 2nd Bengal fus. to 71st N.I. April 19.
 STORY, Lieut. col. P. F. c.b. to be brevet col. fr. Feb. 1.
 STUART, Ens. H. B. inf. to rank fr. Jan. 20, 1854; to do duty with 33rd N.I. at Barrackpore.
 SWINLEY, Maj. G. H. art. fr. 7th batt. to 1st brig.

SYERS, Col. J. D. new promotion (on furl.), posted to 33rd N.I. April 20.
 THAIN, Ens. A. S. inf. to rank fr. Feb. 20.
 THOMPSON, Lieut. E. 1st N.I. to rejoin his reg.
 TOONE, Capt. J. H. L. M. 2nd L.C. perm. to ret. fr. the serv. of E.I.C. on pens. of his rank, fr. May 2.
 TRAIL, 2nd Lieut. G. B. art. fr. 1st to 4th comp. 5th batt.
 TUCKER, 2nd Lieut. W. R. engs. passed colloq. exam.
 TULLOCH, Ens. F. D. 48th N.I. passed colloq. exam.
 TULLOH, Ens. M. H. 16th N.I. to act as adjt. dur. abs. of Dansey.
 TWEMLOW, Col. G. art. posted to 8th batt.
 VOYLE, Capt. G. E. art. posted to 4th comp. 2nd batt.
 WADDY, Capt. W. P. art. posted to 3rd comp. 3rd batt.
 WARD, Ens. E. inf. to rank fr. Feb. 20.
 WARREN, Brig. G. trans. fr. com. of station of Barrackpore to com. of station of Benares.
 WELSH, 2nd Lieut. D. J. art. fr. 5th comp. 8th to 4th comp. 5th batt.
 WHISH, Lieut. E. S. 10th N.I. passed colloq. exam. April 19.
 WINNIETT, Ens. A. W. 68th N.I. passed colloq. exam.
 WOOD, Lieut. A. 14th N.I. to be capt. fr. April 15, 1854, in suc. to Palmer, dec.
 WROUGHTON, Lieut. H. R. 40th N.I. to act as adjt. to wing of corps at Rangoon.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT DATES SPECIFIED.
 ARTILLERY.

FRANKS, R. R. April 17. MALLOCK, H. A. April 17.
 RAYNSFORD, E. C. W. April 17.

INFANTRY.

CHALMERS, W. A. April 17. DRUMMOND, W. L. P. April 17.
 DANVERS, R. W. April 17. GRANT, A. P. April 17.
 HEWETT, J. N. April 17.

BRIGADE OF ABSENCE.

ABERCROMBIE, Brev. maj. J. art. 8 mos. fr. March 15, to hills north of Deyrah, on m.c. old reg.
 ALEXANDER, 1st Lieut. D. C. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Simla, Meerut, and hills north of Deyrah, old reg.
 ALEXANDER, Lieut. R. 7th L.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Simla and hills north of Deyrah, old reg.
 ANDERSON, Ens. T. C. 12th N.I. fr. Feb. 28 to Nov. 15, in ext. to Landour and Deyrah, on m.c. old rules.
 BACON, Lieut. F. R. 22nd N.I. fr. April 12 to Oct. 15, to Cashmere and Simla, old rules.
 BAINBRIDGE, Ens. E. T. 64th N.I. fr. April 15 to Oct. 15, to Cashmere, old rules.
 BAKER, Ens. T. N. 31st N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Indore.
 BARBER, Lieut. R. T. H. 63rd N.I. fr. Jan. 4 to Jan. 30, to Meerut.
 BARBER, Lieut. J. H. 12th N.I. fr. May 1 to Oct. 15, to Bhagulpore, old rules.
 BAX, Lieut. G. L. 48th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Mirzapore.
 BEAN, Lieut. C. C. 25th N.I. 18 mo. to Europe, on furl. on m.c. new reg.
 BOULTON, Lieut. A. J. 7th L.C. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Simla.
 BROWN, 2nd Lieut. W. art. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Cashmere.
 BURT, Brev. maj. H. W. 46th N.I. 3 mo. fr. March 8, to pres. on m.c. old reg. prep. to app. for leave to sea.
 BYGRAVE, Lieut. col. B. 3rd Eur. regt. 3 yrs. furl. to Europe, old reg.
 CAUTLEY, Brev. maj. G. 8th L.C. 5 mo. fr. May 15, to Simla, old reg.
 CLOGSTOUN, Lieut. E. L. 34th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Nynee Tal and Almorah, old reg.
 CONNOLLY, Lieut. C. vet. est. 6 mo. fr. April 1, to Simla.
 CRAIGIE, Ens. F. J. 21st N.I. fr. April 25 to Oct. 15, to Cashmere, old reg.
 DAVIDSON, Lieut. A. G. to May 15, in ext.
 DENNISS, 1st Lieut. A. D. art. 3 mo. fr. March 3, to pres. old reg.
 DENNIS, Capt. J. B. 2nd in com. Kotah contingent, 3 mo. fr. April 30, to Nynee Tal.
 DOWNING, Lieut. col. D. 27th N.I. 3 mo. fr. March 4, to pres. prep. to app. for furl. to Europe, on m.c.
 DYKE, Capt. A. H. 25th N.I. 2 yrs. furl. to Europe, new reg.
 EDMONSTONE, Capt. T. N. 4th L.C. fr. April 15 to Oct. 14, to Cashmere and Murree, old rules.
 FARQUHARSON, unposted Ens. C. M. fr. April 10 to Oct. 10, to Bhagulpore.
 FISHER, Ens. H. T. N. 30th N.I. 6 mo. from April 15, to Almorah and hills north of Deyrah, old reg.
 GAITSKELL, Brev. maj. F. art. 5 mo. fr. May 15, to Cashmere, old reg.
 GARDNER, Lieut. H. F. exec. offr. 2nd div. Lahore and Peshawar road, 1 mo.
 GLANVILLE, 2nd Lieut. G. J. 2nd Bengal fus. 3 mo. to presidency, on m.c.
 GORDON, Lieut. G. H. 39th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Cashmere, old reg.
 GORDON, Lieut. F. D. leave cancelled.
 GORDON, Ens. A. 49th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Simla, old reg.

HAMILTON, Lieut. J. C. 8th N.I. fr. May 1 to Oct. 15, to Lahore and Simla.
 HANMER, Lieut. F. H. 34th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Nynee Tal and Almorah, old reg.
 HASSELL, Capt. C. 48th N.I. fr. April 25 to Oct. 15, to Nursingpore, old reg.
 HIND, Lieut. J. 26th L.I. leave canc.
 HOLROYD, Ens. W. R. M. fr. April 5 to July 16, in ext. to remain at Calcutta.
 JAMES, Capt. H. C. 32nd N.I. 5 mo. fr. Dec. 1, to Calcutta.
 LAMBERT, Lieut. F. W. 56th N.I. 5 mo. fr. May 15, to Nynee Tal and hills north of Deyrah, old reg.
 LANDERS, Lieut. col. J. E. 9th N.I. fr. April 1 to Nov. 15, to Simla, on m.c. old reg.
 MELVILLE, Brig. gen. H. V. R.C.B. comm. Sirhind div. to Nov. 1, to remain at Jullundur, and visit Simla.
 MIDDLETON, Ens. C. F. 40th N.I. fr. March 27, in ext. to remain at Dinapore.
 MOIR, Capt. G. art. 2 mo. fr. March 15, in ext. to remain at Angur, and visit Bombay.
 O'BRYEN, Lieut. J. J. 16th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Simla, old reg.
 PARBY, Ens. B. T. R. 7th N.I. leave canc.
 PEARSE, Capt. J. L. 5th N.I. ret. to duty March 31.
 PIERSON, Ens. W. S. 54th N.I. to March 10, in ext. to enable him to rejoin.
 PLATT, Lieut. col. J. 23rd N.I. fr. Apr. 1 to June 20, to Terai, old reg.
 POGSON, Ens. G. R. 55th N.I. 18 mo. to Europe on furl. on m.c. new reg.
 RANKEN, Capt. G. 69th N.I. fr. May 1 to July 30, to pres. old reg. prep. to app. for perm. to ret.
 RATTRAY, Capt. J. 2nd N.I. fr. Apr. 25 to July 25, to presidency, prep. to apply for furl. to Europe, old reg.
 ROBINSON, Lieut. J. I. 8th L.C. 6 mo. fr. Apr. 15, to Cashmere, old reg.
 ROWSTONE, Lieut. E. C. 9th N.I. fr. March 21 to Apr. 15, to Murree, old reg.
 SANDERS, Lieut. col. T. inv. est. 5 mo. fr. Apr. 15, to hills N. of Deyrah, on m.c.
 SEWELL, Capt. A. H. C. 47th N.I. 2 mo. fr. March 15, to rem. at pres.
 SHAW, Capt. R. 23rd N.I. 2 mo. fr. Feb. 20, to pres. on m.c. old reg.
 SIMPSON, Ens. G. B. 23rd N.I. fr. May 1 to Oct. 15, to Simla, old reg.
 TEMPLE, Lieut. H. J. 6th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Calcutta and Berhampore, old reg.
 TEMPLE, Ens. A. B. 49th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Simla, old reg.
 THOMPSON, Lieut. H. L. 68th N.I. 2 yrs. furl. to Europe, on m.c. old reg.
 TURNBULL, 1st Lieut. F. H. art. 6 mo. fr. April 1, to Mussoorie and hills north of Deyrah, old reg.
 TURNBULL, Lieut. and Brev. capt. A. D. engs. supt. of canals W. of Jumna, 6 mo. to enable him to adjust his accounts, prep. to apply for furl. to Europe.
 TURNER, Capt. F. art. 6 mo. fr. April 5, to Simla and hills north of Deyrah, on m.c. old reg.
 TURNER, Capt. A. 1st N.I. fr. March 1 to Nov. 20, to Murree, on m.c. old reg.
 TWYCCROSS, Lieut. W. S. 73rd N.I. fr. May 1 to Oct. 15, to Nynee Tal and hills north of Deyrah, old reg.
 VETCH, Brev. maj. H. 54th N.I. 6 mo. to Europe on furl. new reg.
 WALCOTT, Ens. E. Y. 57th N.I. fr. May 1 to Oct. 15, to Landour and presidency.
 WILLIAMS, Lieut. L. H. 6th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 1, to Ghazepore.
 WILLIAMSON, Brig. C. D. c.b. 1 year fr. April 1, to Cashmere, Mussoorie, and pres. on m.c. old reg. prep. to app. for leave to sea.
 WODEHOUSE, Ens. F. A. 22nd N.I. fr. Feb. 10 to April 1, in ext.; to remain at pres. prep. to app. for perm. to retire.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ADLEY, Assist. surg. W. H. to join and resume med. ch. of 20th N.I.
 ANDERSON, Surg. F. M.D. 13th N.I. to offic. as supt. surg. Dinapore div. until arrival of Supt. surg. Tohe.
 ATKINSON, Assist. surg. R. J. to perform duties of gar. surg. at Chunar, dur. abs. of Tweddell on leave.
 ATKINSON, Surg. A. R. M.D. to proc. to Bazeed Khail, and relieve Assist. surg. Adley.
 BEATSON, Assist. surg. W. B. to make over ch. of civ. stat. of Rangoon to Assist. surg. J. B. Scriven.
 BOUSFIELD, Assist. surg. T. G. posted to 1st Oude local inf. v. Nasmith, prom.
 BOYCOTT, Assist. surg. T. to offic. as assay master of the Calcutta mint dur. abs. of Dr. Dodd, April 12.
 BROUGHAM, Surg. J. P. M.D. posted to 67th N.I. pres. to Benares.

BOCKLE, Assist. surg. H. B. 15th N.I. to aff. med. aid to 10th L.C. and 1st irr. cav. dur. abs. of Crawford.
BUTT, Assist. surg. W. B. 1st Eur. Bengal fus. to proc. to Meeay-day, and assume med. ch. of the detach. of the corps there.
CANNON, Asst. surg. H. M. to aff. med. aid to 3rd comp. sappers and miners, fr. April 1.
CHALDECOTT, Asst. surg. F. J. M.D. to do du. with art. div. to proceed and join the Lahore circle of med. superintendence.
COLE, Asst. surg. J. J. to asst. med. ch. 9th N.I.
CROZIER, Surg. A. W. fr. 67th to 50th N.I. at Benares.
CUNNINGHAM, Asst. surg. J. M. M.D. fr. 39th to 57th N.I. at Lahore, April 21.
CURRIE, Asst. surg. G. V. to rank fr. Jan. 14, 1854.
DE RENZY, Asst. surg. A. G. C. Pegu lt. inf. to med. ch. of head qrs. staff, Pegu div.
DICKINSON, Asst. surg. J. E. rec. med. ch. of jail and civ. estab. at Rangoon on Feb. 21.
DUCA, Asst. surg. T. to rank fr. Jan. 4, 1854.
DUTHOIT, Asst. surg. T. J. to take ch. of med. stores fr. W. B. Beaton, and perf. mil. du. of that officer.
ELLIOT, Asst. surg. J. to rank fr. Feb. 14, 1854.
EWART, Asst. surg. J. M.D. to do duty with 40th N.I.
FARNCOMBE, Asst. surg. T. B. to rank fr. Feb. 20, 1854.
GIBSON, Surg. A. 65th N.I. to aff. med. aid to detach. of 1st Eur. fus. at Meeaday, held by Asst. surg. Stewart.
GRAHAM, Asst. surg. H. W. to rank fr. Feb. 14, 1854.
GREENHOW, Asst. surg. H. M. to rank fr. Jan. 20, 1854.
GUISE, Surg. J. A. 2nd gren. N.I. to make over ch. of jail and civ. estab. at Etawah to Surg. Macdonald, April 21.
HARE, Surg. E. to med. ch. of commissariat and public estab. at Thymetew.
HICKMAN, Vet. surg. T. to proc. to Umballah and join 3rd brig. h. art.
JOHNSON, Asst. surg. C. 3rd N.I. to aff. med. aid to 5th comp. 7th batt. art. and 18th irr. cav. v. Nisbett.
KENSKY, Surg. R. B. 44th N.I. to aff. med. aid to 13th N.I.
KNIGHT, Asst. surg. R. C. M.D. to relieve Asst. surg. Atkinson fr. med. ch. of detach. of 4th batt. of art. in progress to Lahore fr. Peshawar.
LAMB, Asst. surg. M. B. to rank fr. Feb. 14, 1854.
LAURENCE, Asst. surg. J. J. T. to rank fr. Jan. 20, 1854.
MAINA, Asst. surg. T. 62nd N.I. to med. duties of staff at Meerat, dur. abs. of Hunter.
MACKINNON, Surg. C. art. to med. ch. of estab. attached to the expense mag. percussion-cap manufactory, detach. of N.I. on duty, and the non-commissioned staff at Dum-Dum, with effect fr. Feb. 15.
MACLEAN, Asst. surg. L. H. J. to rank fr. Jan. 14, 1854.
MORGAN, Asst. surg. R. B. to rank fr. Feb. 4, 1854.
MORTON, Asst. surg. G. E. M.D. to aff. med. aid to 4th tr. 2nd brig. h. art. Apr. 20.
NAISMITH, Surg. G. M.D. posted to 61st N.I. at Lucknow.
O'BRIEN, Asst. surg. P. passed colloq. exam.
O'DONEL, Asst. surg. F. H. to rank fr. Jan. 14, 1854.
PATON, Surg. G. M.D. 26th N.I. services pl. at disp. of Lieut. gov. in view of his being appt. to office as post mr. gen. N.W.P.
PHILLIPS, Vet. surg. J. perm. to res. app. in stud. dept. pl. at disp. of C-in-C.
RAY, Asst. surg. G. H. M.D. to aff. med. aid to left wing, 12th N.I.
SCRIVEN, Asst. surg. J. B. civ. surg. at Rangoon, to assu. med. ch. of detail hosp. on dep. of E. Hare with 1st Eur. reg.
SIMPSON, Asst. surg. B. passed colloq. exam.; to relieve Asst. surg. Thring fr. med. ch. of 10th irr. cav.
TAYLOR, Asst. surg. E. to afford med. aid to 50th N.I.
THORP, Asst. surg. E. C. M.D. to be civ. asst. surg. of Purneah.
TIERNY, Asst. surg. J. F. to proc. and join the Lahore circle of medical superintendence, April 19.
WEBB, Asst. surg. C. K. fr. 57th N.I. to 5th troop 1st brig. h. art. at Rawul Pindee.
WELLS, Surg. W. W. posted to 48th N.I.
WHITE, Asst. surg. J. M.D. fr. 13th to 10th irr. cav. v. Thring.
WILSON, Surg. T. W. M.D. services pl. temp. at disp. of gov. of Bengal.
WILSON, Dr. T. W. to office as civ. surg. of Moorsheadabad dur. abs. of Dr. A. Kean.
WOOD, Surg. J. 56th, to aff. med. aid to a detach. of 28th N.I. at Umballah, April 20.
WRENCH, Asst. surg. T. G. to aff. med. aid to civil station and jail of Hurreepore (Hazarah), with effect fr. Jan. 17.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT DATES SPECIFIED.
 BARNARD, G. April 17. | GRANT, N. J. April 26.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

CLARK, Surg. H. fr. April 20 to Oct. 15, to Cashmere, old reg.
DODS, Surg. J. assay master of the Calcutta mint, 2 yrs. to England on m.c. making over ch. of his office to Assist. surg. T. Boycott.
JEFFERY, Vet. surg. T. W. 9th L.C. 2 mo. fr. Feb. 17, to pres.
KEAN, Surg. A. M.D. 6 mo. to Mauritius on m.c.
MADDEN, Surg. C. 24th N.I. fr. Jan. 24, to pres. prep. to app. for furl. to Europe on m.c. old reg.

HER MAJESTY'S FORCES IN THE EAST.

STAFF.

Major C. R. Young, Royal art. to be mil. sec. and off. as private sec. and Capt. J. W. Hay, 70th lt. to be a.-d.-c. to gov. of Madras.

CAVALRY.

9th Lancers. Capt. J. R. H. Rose, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Simla; Brev. major R. A. Yule, April 15 to Oct. 14, to Simla; Lieut. H. A. Sarel, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Simla; Capt. H. L. Payne, to May 15, in ex. on m.c.; Capt. W. Drysdale, 6 mo. to Simla; Capt. A. E. Steele, 6 mo. to Cashmere, Simla, and hills n. of Deyrah; Lieut. J. G. Willis, 6 mo. to Cashmere and hills n. of Deyrah. 10th Hussars. Lieut. Wirgman, April 15 to May 31, to Mahabeshwur; Lieut. Rosser, to act as riding mast. dur. abs. of Wirgman.—14th Lt. Drag. Major J. H. Goddard and Capt. A. Scudamore, April 15 to Oct. 14, to Simla.

INFANTRY.

8th. Lieut. col. H. W. Hartley, May 1 to Oct. 15, to Simla; Major E. H. Greuthed, to April 30; Lieut. R. W. Woods, to May 24, to Calcutta; Lieut. R. B. Stowards, April 1 to Sept. 30, to Mussoorie; Capt. C. S. Hext passed as surveyor.—10th. Lieut. G. C. Bartholomew, 6 mo. to Murree and Cashmere; Ens. F. B. Sandwith, 6 mo. to Cashmere and Ladak; Ens. F. Beatty, 6 mo. to Cashmere and hills n. of Deyrah; Major W. Penwick, April 18 to Oct. 17, to Murree and Cashmere; Lieut. J. M. Smyth, April 15 to Oct. 14, to Murree, Cashmere, and hills n. of Deyrah; Lieut. S. H. M. Eaton, 6 mo. fr. April 10, to Simla, on m.c.—22nd. Lieuts. H. A. M. Deane, W. Couch, and A. L. Monck, 6 mo. to Murree and Cashmere; Lieut. W. Cairncross, April 1 to Sept. 30, to Murree and Cashmere; Assistant surgeon A. L. Adams, to August 31, to Murree and Cashmere; Lieutenant C. M. G. Quantrell, from 98th, to Simla, who exchanges; Col. Boileau, May 1 to Nov. 15, to Simla; Capt. N. N. Nuggur, on m.c.; Lieut. W. Dobyns, to July 20.—21st. Lieut. col. A. G. Blackford, Apr. 1 to Oct. 31, to Lahore; Lieut. col. A. G. Skurray, 6 mo. to Cashmere and hills n. of Deyrah; Capt. R. A. Croker, Lieuts. H. J. Hinde, W. P. Hill, S. C. Head, and P. F. White, Apr. 20 to Oct. 15, to Cashmere and hills n. of Deyrah; Lieut. R. G. A. de Montmorency, May 1 to Oct. 15, to Cashmere and hills n. of Deyrah; Ens. T. Madden, Apr. 15 to Oct. 14, to Cashmere and hills n. of Deyrah; Maj. B. Woodhouse, 6 mo. to Cashmere and Simla; Asst. surg. A. W. Thompson, Apr. 1 to Nov. 15, to Cashmere and Murree, on m.c.; Lieut. col. Ellice, April 1 to Oct. 31, to Mussoorie, on m.c.; Lieut. J. T. Tovey, pl. at disp. of Govt. for dep. for empl. and civ. eng. in the Punjab.—29th. Lieut. J. T. James, to Nov. 30, in ext. to rem. at Almorah and Nainee Tal, on m.c.—32nd. Capt. C. Clappcott, 6 mo. to hills n. of Simla.—43rd. Lieut. A. G. E. Morley, 2 yrs. to England.—52nd. Capt. G. P. Heathcote, 6 mo. to Cashmere; Lieut. C. D. Coote, 6 mo. to Cashmere; Lieut. C. H. Crosse, 5 mo. to Cashmere; Lieut. F. A. Champion, 6 mo. to Cashmere; Lieut. F. Eteson, 5 mo. to Cashmere; Lieut. T. R. Gibbons, 5 mo. to Cashmere and hills n. of Deyrah; Lieut. T. H. Smith, 1 mo. to Calcutta and 2 yrs. to England.—60th. Lieut. col. Spence, 3 mo. to Calcutta and to England, to join 2nd batt.; Major H. Bingham, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Simla and hills n. of Deyrah; Major the Hon. H. L. Powys, to Jan. 28, 1855; Lieut. F. Dawson, 6 mo. to Chumha; Lieut. F. Dawson, passed as surveyor; Lieut. J. P. Battersby, passed as surveyor; Asst. surg. W. J. Macfarlane, 6 mo. to Cashmere.—61st. Capt. R. C. Dudgeon, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Murree and Cashmere; Capt. D. R. Crossdale, 5 mo. to Murree and Cashmere; Lieut. H. Brackenbury, April 15 to Oct. 14, to Murree and Cashmere; Lieut. G. A. Bace, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Murree, Cashmere, and Kote Kangra; Lieut. T. E. Gordon, 6 mo. to Cashmere; Asst. surg. R. McNab, 3 mo. to Cashmere; Lieut. col. Jones, leave canc. fr. March 31; Lieut. T. M. Moore, 6 mo. to Simla and Subathoo; Lieut. T. Gabbett, to Oct. 15, to Murree and Cashmere; Lieut. Payn, 6 mo. to Cashmere; Lieut. R. R. Daly, 6 mo. to Murree and Cashmere; Ens. R. Hutton, 6 mo. to Murree and Cashmere; Ens. W. C. Garde, 6 mo. to Murree and Cashmere.—70th. Major G. Durnford, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Cashmere, Simla, and hills n. of Deyrah; Capt. G. Ryan and A. J. O. Rutherford, and Lieut. W. F. T. Marshall, 6 mo. to Cashmere and hills n. of Deyrah; Lieut. R. Whigham and Ens. J. W. Madden, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Cashmere and hills n. of Deyrah; Lieut. W. W. Lynch, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Nainee Tal and hills n. of Deyrah. 70th. Lieut. col. T. Chute, May 10 to Oct. 31, to Mussoorie, Simla, and hills north of Deyrah; Lieut. C. A. P. James, to May 31, in ext.; Ens. E. C. H. Tovey, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Murree and Sealcode.—74th. Lieut. R. H. D. Lowe, May 5 to Nov. 4, to rem. in England.—75th. Capt. A. T. Hotham, to July 15; Lieut. W. J. J. Smith, R. P. O'Shea, and J. R. Turnbull, 6 mo. to Cashmere; Lieut. col. R. D. Hallifax, May 5 to Oct. 31, to Murree.—78th. Lieut. W. B. C. A. Parker, to June 29, 1855, in ext. to rem. in England.—81st. Lieut. col. J. H. Stewart, Major H. E. Sorrell, Capt. F. E. Sorrell, S. J. Skerry, S. W. B. Browne, and Lieuts. W. E. Todd, G. Betts, C. Hunter, and H. A. Chichester, 6 mo. to Mussoorie and hills north of Deyrah.—84th. Ens. H. Currie, to be lieut. fr. April 6, v. MacMahon, ret.—87th. Lieut. W. B. Graham, E. H. J. Meredyth, and A. Butler, 6 mo. to Cashmere; Lieut. R. Carter, to April 30, on m.c.—96th. Capt. E. Croker, 6 mo. to Cashmere; Ens. G. J. Thompson, June 1, on m.o.—98th. Capt. F. H. Crawford, 6 mo. to Madras; Capt. E. J. Ellerman, 1 year to N. S. Wales; Capt. H. W. Goodwyn, 6 mo. to Kussowlie; Lieut. R. C. Sladen, fr. 22nd, v. Quanttrille, who exc.; Ens. G. F. Webster, 6 mo. to Nainee Tal and hills n. of Deyrah; Ens. C. Mills, to Sept. 27, to Darjeeling.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BOILEAU, wife of L. s. at Calcutta, April 21.
CLARKE, wife of R. G. c.s. s. at Bellary, April 9.
COOPER, wife of A. H. s. at Calcutta, April 13.
CRIPPS, wife of Capt. 26th L.I. s. at Peshawur, April 26.
CROZIER, wife of Asst. surg. W. d. at Jubulpore, April 22.
DOLBY, wife of W. s. at Calcutta, April 15.
HALLIDAY, wife of the Hon. F. J. d. at Allipore, April 26.
HAMILTON, wife of Lieut. J. J. 2nd N.I. d. at Chickulda, April 14.
HUTCHINSON, Mrs. L. W. d. still-born, at Berhampore, April 20.
LANE, wife of Lieut. H. 5th L.C. d. at Ferozepore, April 10.
LYALL, wife of James, s. at Darjeeling, April 7.
MIDDLETON, wife of John, d. at Calcutta, April 24.
MUSPRATT, wife of H. c.s. s. at Fort William, April 21.
NEUBOLT, wife of Capt. G. d. at Calcutta, April 26.
NORMAN, wife of Lieut. H. W. twins, at Peshawur, Apr. 26.
ROTTON, wife of the Rev. J. E. W. M.A. d. at Meerut, Apr. 24.
SHOULDHAM, Mrs. W. J. s. at Calcutta, Apr. 17.
SUTHERLAND, the lady of J. M. s. at Chupra, Apr. 16.
TEIL, wife of T. d. at Kidderpore, Apr. 15.
VANSPALL, Mrs. W. P. s. at Calcutta, Apr. 24.
WILLES, wife of Lieut. J. T. 69th N.I. d. at Ferozepore, Apr. 20.
WITHECOMBE, wife of Dr. d. at Darjeeling, Apr. 17.
YERBURY, wife of J. B. s. at Meean Meer, Apr. 26.

MARRIAGES.

ALLEN, Ens. F. 42nd L.I. to Eliza Louisa, d. of the late Maj. K. Campbell, 45th N.I. at Benares, April 29.
CLARKE, Lieut. D. S. 73rd N.I. to Catherine E. P. d. of the late J. H. Swinhoe, at Seetapore, April 18.
CURTIS, Lieut. J. C. 6th Irr. Cav. to Harriet, d. of Maj. G. W. Hamilton, at Mooltan, April 25.
GILBERT, Lieut. E. O. K. 27th N.I. to Lydia, d. of the late G. Cash, at Fort William, April 24.
MOORE, D. L. to Miss Chardon, at Zilla Gya, April 20.
NUTTALL, Lieut. J. M. 6th N.I. to Emma, d. of the late Maj. J. Scote, 55th N.I. at Jamalpoor, April 19.
SANDEMAN, D. to Theophila, d. of the late J. T. Twisden, at Calcutta, April 20.
STRANGWAYS, Capt. G. 71st N.I. to Hamilton D. d. of A. Tovey, at Noorpore, April 21.
WALKER, F. A. to Miss A. J. Berrill, at Serampore, April 18.

DEATHS.

ACKLAND, Emma S. wife of H. at Colpitty, Aged 18.
BECHER, W. A. inf. s. of Capt. at Simla, April 11.
CASTELLO, Miss Mary J. at Calcutta, April 13.
CROSSMAN, wife of Capt. F. 45th N.I. at Almorah, April 28.
DENHAM, Catherine, widow of the late Capt. J. J. at Calcutta, aged 60, April 16.
MANUAL, Mrs. T. at Dacca, aged 58, April 19.
McIVER, Alex. J. s. of Kenneth, at Agra, April 26.
ROSEBOOM, Alfred, inf. s. of the late Mr. at Calcutta, April 1.
ROSEBOOM, Rachel, d. of G. H. at Calcutta, aged 11, April 20.
SHOULDHAM, wife of W. J. at Calcutta, April 23.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

APRIL 19. Ocean Eagle, Boston; John Mathie, Ball, Liverpool; Cohota, Gerry, Sydney; Louis Cezard, Chatham, Cardiff.—20. Augustic, Perasso, Mauritius; Lotus, Leckie, San Francisco and Singapore.—21. Thomas Brocklebank, Rorison, Liverpool; Hamilla Mitchell, Bradley, New Plymouth; Gem of the Ocean, Crosby, Melbourne; Norden, Safstrom, London.—23. Perseverance, Madlock, Akrah.—24. Ocean Pearl, Sears, San Francisco and Singapore; Robert Morrison, Cumming, London; Frederick, McNalty, Liverpool and Sydney.—25. Catherine Apear, Fowler, Mauritius; Monsoon, McKenzie, London; Naid, Pechi, Maulmein.—26. Steamer Tenasserim, Fryer, Maulmein and Rangoon; Fatta Salam, Jones, Penang; Tubal Cain, Boyd, Port Phillip; Piscataqua, Wendell, Boston and Madras.—28. Frank Johnson, Lothrop, Melbourne; Ville de Dunkerque, Versaille, Hartlepool; Anne Laing, Wright, Mauritius.—29. Enens, Wright, Mauritius; Rokeby, Patterson, London and Cape of Good Hope; Medica, Delanare, Marselles and Pondicherry; Malay, Hutchinson, Hobart Town.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Cohota (April 18), from SYDNEY.—Mr. Rimbhall.
Per Gem of the Ocean (April 21), from MELBOURNE.—Mr. Stevens.
Per Lahore.—S. J. Bushby, Esq. ensign, and J. P. Bowling, asst.-surg.
Per Lyman.—Mr. and Mrs. Crawley, and Rev. and Mrs. Douglas.
Per steamer from HONG-KONG to CALCUTTA.—Mr. R. Stewart, and Mr. J. Otes.
From SINGAPORE to CALCUTTA.—Messrs. F. Fox, T. Marshall, and Mr. Jun, and Mrs. Hunt.
From PENANG to CALCUTTA.—Capt. Stace, Mr. Duncanson, and Mr. Hoggan.
Per Perseverance (April 23), from AKYAB.—Mrs. Lockwood and Mr. Richards.

Per Robert Morrison (April 24), from LONDON.—Mrs. Murray, Capt. Faddy, Asst. surg. Grant, Ens. Hudson, T. Murray, Esq. C. Money, D. McDougall, and 213 men.
Per Monsoon.—Mr. Battye, Mrs. Chamberlain and daughter.
Per Naid.—Mr. Booth.
Per Frederick.—Mrs. McNalty and child.
Per steamer Tenasserim (April 26), from MAULMEIN.—Lieut. col. Turton, Maj. Gerrard, Capt. Shakespeare, Raikes, Baugh, Borthwick, and Ferris; Lieut. Simmons, Jeffries, and Hunter; Ens. O'Dowda, Dr. Murchison, Surg. Oswald, Messrs. Mongomerie, Rymer, Gibson, Howe, Slater, Mendes, and Wright, Conductor James, wife, and 4 children, and Conductor Ross.
Per Fatta Salam.—Mr. and Mrs. Minog and 2 children, and Mrs. Jones.
Per Piscatagua.—Mrs. Mock, Rev. Brooks, Capt. Ryves, of the Madras army, Mrs. Ryves and 4 children, Lieut. Broughton of the 33rd M.N.I. and Mrs. Broughton.
Per Tubal Cain (April 26), from PORT PHILIP.—Mr. Bayley, clerk.
Per Frank Johnston.—Mr. Crosby.
Per Medica.—Mr. Stefane.

DEPARTURES.

APRIL 17. Steamer Calcutta, Goodall, Madras, Ceylon, Mauritius, Cape, and London.—18. Arachne, King, Liverpool; Meloe, Durante, Bourbon; Triumph, Jackson, Mauritius; Lady Franklin, Smith, Boston; England, Garnett, London; Belle Creole, Delanere, Havre; Edward Marquard, Durnford, Penang and Singapore; Fatta Salam, Furness, Mauritius; Cambridge, Wilson, Liverpool.—20. Steamer Fire Queen, Burbank, Rangoon and Maulmein; steamer Hindostan, Tronson, Madras, Ceylon, Aden, and Suez.—22. Steamer Zenobia, Rennie, Rangoon; Shoe Gong, Menilham, Rangoon; Valparaiso, Rennell, China; Clairvoyant, Sergeant, Mauritius; Negrais, Kidd, Maulmein; Hannah Salkeld, Cordiner, Liverpool; Paragon, Murch, Maulmein; steamer Pau Shun, Bart, Singapore and China.—23. Steamer Shanghai, Munro, Penang, Singapore, and Penang.—26. Henry IV, Maublanc, Mauritius and Bourbon; Aga Bahkur, Barnett, Rangoon; Armorique, —, for —; Alex. John Kerr, Dickson, Madras; steamer Berenice, Berthon, Rangoon.—29. Steamer Bengal, —, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Shanghai (April 23), for PENANG.—Hon. Mr. E. A. Blundell. For SINGAPORE.—Rev. C. Gladwin, Lieut. gen. Jochnus, Mr. Aitkin, Mr. P. Mackinnon. For HONG-KONG.—Capt. Toogood and Dr. Huffleagle.
Per steamer Bengal (April 29), for MADRAS.—Lieut. Jeffries, Asst. surg. Oswald and servant, Brevet capt. Shakspear. For BOMBAY.—Lieut. Brooman, Mr. F. Pestonjee, Mrs. Pestonjee, Mr. D. F. Cama. For ALEXANDRIA.—Lieut. col. Handscomb, Dr. Boll, Mr. Beadon, c.s.; Mr. Otis, Capt. Halkett, Capt. F. M. Fiscoimia, Lady Buller. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Capt. Dyke, Mr. and Mrs. Lattey, Mr. Prowett, Mrs. Douglas, 3 children, and infant; Lieut. col. Bygrave, Mr. Bailey, Mr. Deans Campbell, Maj. J. Ramsay, Mr. Brown, c.s.; Mrs. Bryce, Miss Thomas, Mrs. Church and 2 children, Mr. and Mrs. Kelsall, 2 children, and infant.

COMMERCIAL.

Calcutta, April 29, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.		Sell.	Buy.
Transfer Stock Paper 5 per cent.	.. prem.	6 0	to 6 2
New Co.'s 5 do.	.. ..	Par.
Third Sica 4 do.	.. ..	dis. 0 6	.. 0 8
New Co.'s 4 do.	.. ..	Par. to 2 as. prem.

BANK SHARES.

Bengal Bank (Co.'s Rs. 4,000)	.. ..	2600 to 2650
Agra Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	.. ..	790 to 710
N.W. Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	.. ..	300 to 305

BANK OF BENGAL.

Discount on Government acceptances (3 months)	..	7 per cent.
Do. on private bills and notes	do. ..	5 per cent.
Interest on deposit of Co.'s paper.	.. ..	6 per cent.
Do. on open cash credit accounts	.. ..	6 per cent.
On deposit of Metals, &c.	.. ..	7 per cent.

PRICES OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Sycee Silver	..... Co.'s Rs. 104 4	to 104 12	} per sa. wt.
China Gold Bars	..... 15 12	.. 16 8
Gold Dust	..... 13 0	.. 13 8
Spanish Dollars	..... 225 12	.. 226 12	} per 100.
Mexican ditto	..... 223 12	.. 224 4
Sovereigns	..... 10 0	.. 10 1	} each.
Madras Gold Mohurs	..... 16 0	.. 16 4
Old Gold Mohurs	..... 20 6	.. 20 8

EXCHANGES.

Six months' sight Bills are 2s. 0½d. to 2s. 1d. Treasury Bills, at 30 days' sight, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d. Navy Bills, at 3 days' sight, and Bank of England Post Bills at sight, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d.

FREIGHTS.

To London, 7l. to 7l. 5s.; to Liverpool, nominal.

IMPORTS (Calcutta, April 29).—In Cotton Piece Goods, Grey Shirtings maintain their position, and the lower descriptions have further advanced 1 to 2 annas per piece. Grey Madapolams are a shade lower, owing to increased imports, and from the same cause Jaconets have also given way 1 to 4 annas per piece. Afanle Twist has also, for the same reason, declined in value 2 annas per

No. 20;  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 1 pie on Nos. 50, 60, 90, and 100; 2 to 3 pies on 70 and 80; low and medium 40s. are down a shade. Turkey Red Yarns are firm; Orange is unchanged, and both shades of Green are dull. Holders of Copper are still asking higher rates than dealers are willing to give. The same may be said of Iron. Spelter has advanced to Ct. Rs. 13 per md. Lead is without report of sale. Tin Plates are in fair demand at 14 to 14-8 per box.

MADRAS.

THE "LAW OF THE SUSPECT" IN MALABAR."

The Calcutta Gazette of the 12th April, contains a draft Act, which will, we suspect, create no little attention in England. The Government of India has for once thrown overboard its English theories, has acknowledged that there are crimes which can be crushed only by exceptional legislation, and has stretched the whole of its despotic authority for the protection of the orderly and respectable. It is about to pass a Coercion Bill for Malabar. That district has, for the last ten years, been the scene of outrages, for which we can find no parallel in Europe. Their origin, though sufficiently simple, is peculiar to the East. A Mussulman clan, whom we call Moplahs, embraced the faith which in Europe is known as that of the Wahabees, and in Bengal is professed by the Ferazees of Dacca, Baraset, and Furreedpore. Rejecting all modern innovations, they are Mussulmans par excellence—

"Men of the saintly murderous brood
To carnage and the Koran given,
Who think through unbelievers' blood
Lies the directest path to heaven."

This faith, however, has not as yet hurried them, as it hurried the Wahabees, into an insurrection en masse against an infidel Government. They have attempted nothing so dignified or so hopeless. Their fanaticism, genuine as it is, is mixed up with a lust for plunder, and with petty enmities, which reduce them from the rank of zealots into that of bloodthirsty dacoits. Their usual method of expressing their religious convictions has been to collect in small parties, mark down some wealthy and obnoxious Hindoo, murder him, retreat to a temple, or a hill, and there calmly await death in battle with the infidel. So frequent have these outrages become, that a "Moplah outbreak" is nearly as common an incident in a Madras journal, as the assassination of a good landlord in a Tipperary paper. Hitherto the Government has done nothing to remedy this state of affairs. The ordinary laws were powerless, for ordinary laws are based on the supposition that death has terrors, and the theory is erroneous when applied to Moplahs. The Government, mindful of the "tenderness of our institutions" refrained from extraordinary laws, and when any great outrage attracted its notice, ordered out Highlanders to cut down the criminals. It is true, the mass of the population did not appreciate the "tenderness" which left them at the mercy of fanatics, but neither do Bengalees appreciate the "equitable principles of British jurisprudence," under which dacoits flourish. At last, the authorities either of Madras or India, broke through these red tape bonds. They reflected that, after all, the greatest happiness of the greatest number may sometimes require severity. These Moplahs, like Malays when running a muck, are not entitled to be considered men at all. They are simply wild beasts, to be shot down as we shoot down tigers, not because we hate tigers, or because they are not perfectly justified in their acts, but because they are dangerous to the lives of rational beings.

The legislature has accordingly published a project of law, one of the most energetic and clear spoken which the world has seen, since the committee of public safety was sent to the guillotine. It is not that the council have overstepped the bounds of English law, so much as that they have adopted in one draft almost all its most stringent provisions. By the first clause, any person engaged in these outrages is subject, besides the ordinary penalties, to the loss of his entire property. This is in fact the existing law of England with respect to felons. By the second, the magistrate is relieved from all appeal or responsibility, except to the executive, and is invested with power to imprison or banish without trial any person "against whom there shall be a strong suspicion of a design to commit any such outrage." In other words, he is invested with the power which belongs to the English Secretary of State, when the Habeas Corpus Act is suspended. By the fifth, he is empowered to place a fine of unlimited amount upon any community who "had reason to suspect the commission of such an outrage, and took no proper measures to prevent it, or to divulge the grounds of suspicion to the police authorities, or made no efforts to suppress it when it was within their power so to do."

The magistrate of Malabar is in fact invested with authority to "watch over the safety of the republic," and to stop outrages in Malabar, without reference to formalas, regulations, or circular orders. The Government, unable to make its laws applicable to men who are without all law, recurs to the true principle of Oriental authority, absolute power exercised under a strict responsibility. The draft is followed by another, rendering the possession of a lethal weapon, without license, punishable by a fine.

We need scarcely observe that we thoroughly approve of the general spirit of this Act. The Government of India is constantly required to face crimes which have no parallel in Europe, and against which European laws are simply powerless. A man who thinks he wins heaven by murder is not to be stopped from murdering by an Old Bailey process. A criminal who rejoices to die, cares little for the gallows. Such men must either be shot down like tigers or snakes, or threatened with some punishment which they do fear, and the Government has at length accepted the second and more humane alternative. Worked by an able and active magistrate, this Act will probably keep Malabar at peace, and a million of quiet cultivators will be benefited by the severity exercised towards a tithe of their number. But we would ask, if the Government can thus step across the legal boundary to suppress crime in Malabar, why does it permit it to exist in Bengal? A moplah is only a little braver than a dacoit; he is not one whit more noxious or more cruel. The Hindoo landlord of Malabar is not in much more danger than the Hindoo grain-dealer of Krishnaghur. The moplah kills the one, the dacoit tortures the other, and both require exceptional laws for their protection. Armed with such an Act as this, Mr. Wauchope would have extirpated dacoity in three months. He would have arrested all the dacoits at once, kept them in prison, fined a dozen Zemindars for fostering them, without an appeal to Sir R. Barlow, and dacoity would have disappeared. Yet he was refused permission to dispense even with the intermediate judge, who stood between himself and the appellate court.

There is but one clause of this Act to which we take exception. "Whenever any person shall be killed in the act of committing any such offence as aforesaid, or shall die of wounds received in the act of committing any such offence as aforesaid, it shall be competent to the Court which would have had cognizance of the offence, if the offender could have been brought to trial, to proceed on the application of the magistrate, and to hold an inquest into the circumstances of the death of the offender; and on proof of his having been killed as aforesaid, or of his having died of wounds received as aforesaid, to adjudge that the whole of his property shall be forfeited to Government."

It is true that, according to English law, a man killed in arms against his sovereign is a felon, and his property is forfeited to the state, but the principle is none the less radically unjust. The offender has received capital punishment, and that ought to be sufficient. The confiscation does not effect himself, and it is scarcely just that third parties should be punished for an offence in which they are not accessories, and for which the principal has already made the heaviest expiation.—Friend of India.

DEPARTURE OF SIR HENRY POTTINGER.—A large number of the European, East-Indian, and native population assembled on the Esplanade, on the 24th April, to witness the departure of his Excellency Sir Henry Pottinger, at whose desire all parade was dispensed with. A salute of nineteen guns from the battery announced that the late Governor had embarked on board the Peninsula and Oriental Company's steamer Hindustan.

BRIG. GEN. SIR S. W. STEEL.—A salute of eleven guns was fired from the saluting battery on the occasion of the arrival, on the 24th April, of Brigadier-General Sir S. W. Steel, K.C.B., commanding the Pegu division.

MEDICAL COLLEGE.—The annual assembly of the classes of this institution for the distribution of prizes, &c. took place at the College, on May 2, in the presence of the Right Hon. the Governor (Lord Harris) and a large number of visitors. The secretary (Dr. Evans) read the annual report, which showed that the present number of students in college is 132. Out of this number twelve medical apprentices (Europeans and Eurasians), and fourteen native medical pupils, received their certificates of qualification as assistant apothecaries and second dressers respectively, and one passed second dresser received the college diploma as native surgeon. Lord Harris presented the prizes to the several students who had distinguished themselves.

VIZAGAPATAM, APRIL 20.—The head-quarters of the 7th N.I. embarked yesterday evening on board the Defiance for Maulmein direct. The left wing of the 1st N.I., under Major Gottreux, which arrived in the above ship last week, proceeds to Vizianagram on the morning of the 21st. It is reported that Brigadier-General Sandys will soon vacate his present command and go home. Who his successor will be, it is not certain, but Col. Dowker White is surmised.

THE NEW GOVERNOR.—The Madras Crescent republishes an address, presented by the Legislative Council of Trinidad to Lord Harris, the new Governor of Madras. His Lordship appears to have been most popular, and the Council express their gratitude to him for his exertions, and more especially in the cause of physical improvement. In reply, Lord Harris, after thanking the Council, and expressing a fervent hope for the future prosperity of the island, said that the basis of his administration had been, "that every opportunity should be given to every man to have the freest scope for his energies." A "career for talent" was Napoleon's maxim. The Council say, that Lord Harris has accepted the offer "of the highest Government but one under the British Crown." The highest is the Irish viceroyalty, and the sentence appears to confirm a strong rumour, that he has been promised the reversion of the Governor-Generalship.

CHOLERA.—The Bangalore Herald mentions that the cholera has broken out at Hoonsoor, in Mysore, with a severity unparalleled even in India. Three hundred and seventy-five people perished in twelve days. The disease appears to have declined almost as rapidly as it rose. The Commander-in-Chief of the Madras presidency publishes a general order highly commending the conduct of Capt. Farran, in command of the 25th M.N.I. The regiment was on its way from Kurnool to the presidency, when the cholera broke out in camp. Capt. Farran halted the regiment, ordered all the carts with it, and everything in them, to be washed in a great tank, and pitched the "family encampment" over as wide a space as possible. In three days the disease, which had appeared in a severe form, had entirely ceased. Another evil, it is said, was the excessive heat of the hospital-tents. This was removed by the use of European tents.

THE FORTIFICATIONS.—The Madras United Service Gazette states, that the fortifications of Fort St. George are about to be repaired. Those on the sea-face are tumbling to pieces, and in so bad a condition, that it is doubtful whether they will stand the shock of their own guns.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS.

NEW ARTILLERY BATTERIES.

Head Quarters, Ootacamund, April 25, 1854.—With reference to G. O. C. C. 7th December, 1853, the newly-organized horse-batteries are to be numbered three and four, and companies of artillery are attached to them, as follows:—

A Company, 4th battalion, at Rangoon, to No. 3 horse battery.—Captain G. P. Eaton to command.

D Company, 3rd battalion, at Tonghoo, to No. 4 horse battery.—Captain R. Kinkead to command.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BAYLEY, W. H. to office as mem. of Board of Revenue, April 28.
COCHRANE, W. E. to be dep. coll. of sea customs at Madras.
COPESTON, F. sub-judge of zillah of Mangalore, del. over ch. of court to F. Anderson.

COTTON, J. J. to be civ. and sess. judge of zillah of Masulipatam.
DOWDESWELL, W. to be civ. and sess. judge of zillah of Chingleput.

ELLIS, G. H. to act as coll. and mag. of Chingleput, May 2.
IRVINE, P. to be sub-judge of zillah of Rajahmundry.

LASCELLES, F. jud. of zil. Honore, resu. ch. of court, April 17.

MUNCHIN, J. I. to act as sub-judge of zillah of Cuddapah dur. abs. of Hathaway, on leave; assu. ch. of court fr. W. Elliot.

SERLE, W. to be a gov. of the Madras University and High School, April 21.

SHURRICK, C. J. to cont. to act as civ. and sess. judge of zillah of Chingleput dur. abs. of Dowdeswell.

TIM, J. D. to be Telooogo translator to Govt. May 1.

WEDDERBURN, J. A. to be head asst. to coll. and mag. of Chingleput, fr. date of G. F. Fullerton's emb. for Europe.

WILLIAMSON, R. H. to be postmr. gen. May 1.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE—ARRIVED AT DATE SPECIFIED.
MOLONY, F. B. April 23.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

AMES, C. F. 6 mo. to Neilgherries, on m.c.
ANDERSON, F. 1 mo. to Agoomby.
FULLERTON, G. F. 3 yrs. furl. to England, on m.c.
HATHAWAY, A. 3 mo. fr. April 18, to Neilgherry hills.
INGLIS, W. A. D. 3 yrs. to England.
MASTER, J. H. 1 mo.
WOODGATE, C. H. 1 mo.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

STREET, Rev. J. C. A.B. 1 mo. leave, prep. to apply for furl. to Europe.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS.

ARNOT, Ens. D. 34th L.I. to do du. with 49th N.I. till July next, and then to join his corps.

BABINGTON, Capt. J. fr. 5th batt. art. to 4th do.

BAIRD, Lieut. J. S. late prom. to 2nd batt. art.

BARNET, Ens. H. C. B. 44th N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 1, in succ. to Onslow, retired.

BISSET, Capt. W. 15th N.I. to supt. road works in Bellary district.

BROUGHTON, Ens. A. F. D. 33rd N.I. rem. fr. doing duty 50th N.I. to proc. to join his own corps, via Calcutta.

BURGE, Ens. R. S. 3rd Eur. regt. to join and do du. with Eur. inf. depot at the Mount.

CAMPBELL, Lieut. J. R. 3rd lt. inf. returned to duty.

CARTER, Lieut. G. M. to be capt. 1st fus. fr. April 24, v. Ward, dec.

CHAMIER, Lieut. S. H. E. doing du. with 2nd batt. art. to 1st do.

COTTON, Capt. R. 37th N.I. grens. to be maj. fr. April 13, v. Mercer, retired.

DUNCAN, Ens. H. T. 46th N.I. to be qr. mr. and int.

EATON, Capt. G. P. 1st batt. art. to 4th ditto; to com. a comp. 4th batt. art. at Rangoon, attached to No. 3 h. batt.

FOORD, Brig. H. T. com. art. in Pegu div. placed at disp. of C.-in-C. April 21.

GRANTHAM, Lieut. col. G. to be brev. col. fr. April 15, 1854.

GROOM, 2nd Lieut. W. T. 1st Eur. fus. to be 1st lieut. fr. March 4, v. Geils, dec.

GUNNING, Ens. C. G. 37th N.I. grens. to be lieut. fr. April 13, v. Mercer, ret.

HADFIELD, Lieut. col. A. J. to be a lay trustee of the chaplaincy of Ootacamund, v. Hodges, res.

HAGGARD, Lieut. G. doing duty 2nd batt. art. to 1st do.

HAMILTON, Capt. R. 1st N.I. placed at disp. of govt. of India for emp. under foreign dept.

HARE, Lieut. E. M. 28th N.I. placed at disp. of govt. of India for emp. under foreign dept.

HEARN, Lieut. C. T. 26th N.I. to be qr. mr. and int.

HENCHY, Lieut. R. C. fr. 4th batt. art. to 3rd do.

HEWETSON, Ens. G. S. B. 43rd N.I. with 46th, rem. to 34th L.I. to rank next below Ens. D. Arnot, to do du. with 46th N.I.

ISACHE, Cornet M. H. G. 8th L.C. to be lieut. fr. March 30, v. Russell, res.

JOHNSON, Ens. W. R. 39th N.I. to supt. road works in Bellary district.

JONES, Lieut. W. J. 4th N.I. to supt. road works in Bellary district.

JONES, Lieut. A. C. 4th batt. art. to 5th do.

KERRICK, Ens. L. A. 32nd N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.

KINKEAD, Capt. R. to com. D comp. 3rd batt. art. at Tonghoo, attached to No. 4 horse battery.

LANCASTER, Capt. C. fr. 4th batt. art. to 3rd do.

LAWDER, Lieut. E. J. asst. qr. mr. gen. of the army, to remain on du. at Mangalore until arr. of head qrs. at that station.

LOYD, Lieut. M. B. S. fr. 4th batt. art. to 2nd do.

LODGE, Lieut. W. R. 38th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.

MAIN, Capt. J. D. horse art. to proc. to join his troop, via Bombay.

MAUDE, Ens. C. H. 14th N.I. to be a.d.c. to Brig. gen. Steel, com. Pegu div.

MAYNE, Capt. R. Eur. vets. to be in ch. of native pensioners, &c. at Chittoor, dur. abs. of Capt. May.

MAYNE, Lieut. J. C. 2nd L.C. to act as qr. mr. and interp. to 3rd L.C.

McMAHON, 2nd Lieut. C. J. art. passed exam. in Hindustani.

McNEALE, Lieut. A. 37th grens. N.I. to be capt. fr. April 13, v. Mercer, retired.

MARSHALL, Lieut. J. G. doing duty with 2nd batt. art. to 2nd do
MERCER, Major W. H. 37th N.I. grens. perm. to retire fr. the service, on pension, fr. April 13.

METCALF, Ens. D. 10th N.I. fr. doing du. with 2nd batt. art. to join his corps.

NICOLAY, Maj. F. L. comm. Neilgherries, to be a lay trustee of the chaplaincy of Ootacamund, v. Babington, May 2.

OWEN, Capt. W. G. 11th N.I. to ch. of Golcondah Sibbandy corps dur. abs. of Haiy on leave.

PALMER, Capt. J. E. 4th N.I. to supt. road works in Bellary dist.

PAXTON, Brev. capt. P. 44th N.I. to be capt. fr. May 1, v. Onslow, ret.

PHILLIPS, Lieut. C. H. 2nd batt. art. to 4th do.

PLACE, Brev. capt. A. F. 24th L.I. to be capt. fr. Apr. 21, v. Shaw, ret.

PLOWDEN, Ens. C. R. 19th N.I. to do duty with 49th N.I. to join.

PRESCOTT, Lieut. col. W. to be brev. col. fr. Apr. 15, 1854.

PRICE, Ens. E. T. W. 30th N.I. to be lieut. fr. March 24, v. Dobbie, dec.

RAIKES, 1st Lieut. T. 1st Eur. fus. to be capt. fr. March 4, v. Geils, dec.

REID, Ens. J. B. 5th N.I. 6 mo. to Trevandrum.

ROLSTON, Capt. W. T. R. to be a lay trustee of the chaplaincy of Cannanore, May 2.

RUDD, Lieut. C. J. 1st N.V. batt. app. to act as sec. to clothing-board, to have effect fr. May 1.

SALMON, Capt. G. F. 30th N.I. to be maj. fr. March 24, v. Dobbie, dec.
SELBY, Capt. G. art. late prom. posted to 5th batt.
SHAW, Maj. P. 34th L.I. perm. to retire on pension, fr. April 20.
SHERMAN, Ens. J. F. T. 31st L.I. doing du. with 37th Gren. rem. to ditto, to rank next below Ens. C. D. J. Lee.
SINCLAIR, Lieut. J. 39th N.I. placed at disp. of Govt. of India for emp. under foreign dept.
SINGLETON, Capt. G. 34th L.I. to be maj. fr. April 21, v. Shaw, retired.
SMITH, Lieut. F. N. 30th N.I. to be capt. fr. March 24, v. Dobbie, dec.
STAFFORD, Ens. P. P. T. 34th N.I. to be lieut. fr. April 21, v. Shaw, ret.
TYTLER, Ens. T. P. F. 2nd N.I. do. du. 2nd batt. art. rem. to 17th N.I. to rank next below Ens. F. Obbard, relieved fr. do. du. with 2nd batt. art. to join his corps.
WATSON, Lieut. C. E. doing du. with 2nd batt. art. to 2nd ditto.
WILLIAMS, 2nd Lieut. J. M. 1st fus. to be 1st lieut. fr. April 24, v. Ward, dec.
WORSTER, Capt. W. K. ass. ch. of H. Co.'s observatory fr. Capt. W. S. Jacob, April 25.
YATES, Brev. maj. C. 46th N.I. to exec. ch. of construction of new barracks at Palamcottah.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE—ARRIVED AT THE DATE SPECIFIED.

ARTILLERY.
FINLAY, H. M. April 28.
CAVALRY.
CAMPBELL, A. H. E. April 28.
INFANTRY.
EASTON, A. C. April 28.
FLOWDEN, C. H. April 28.
WHITEHEAD, G. W. H. April 28.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BABINGTON, Lieut. col. D. 17th N.I. to Europe, on m.c.
BENSON, Capt. R. 11th N.I. 2 mo. fr. April 22, to Madras and eastern coast, on m.c.
BORTHWICK, Capt. W. 9th N.I. to Europe, on furl. on m.c. old reg.
BROCH, Lieutenant J. T. 17th N.I. fr. Feb. 28, to Europe, on m.c.
CHURCH, Ens. T. R. 12th N.I. fr. April 28 to Sept. 28, to Singapore.
COOTE, Lieut. C. G. H. 52nd N.I. 4 mo. fr. April 22, to Madras, on m.c. prep. to app. for leave to Europe.
GORDON, Brev. maj. N. J. 31st L.I. to Europe on m.c. to embark for the pres.
HALL, Capt. G. T. 41st N.I. 3 mo. in ext.
HART, Lieut. W. H. S. 40th N.I. 2 mo. fr. Feb. 20, to Jaipur, on m.c.
HUMFRAYS, 2nd Lieut. S. J. engs. to Europe, on m.c.
LAVIE, Brev. maj. F. art. supt. of gunpowder manufactory, to Europe, on furl. and to resign his appt. fr. date of embarkation.
MOLLET, Ens. E. A. 42nd N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 1.
NICOLLS, Capt. W. T. 24th N.I. to Europe, on m.c.
NOTT, Maj. G. 19th N.I. 4 mo. to Madras and Bangalore.
OGILVIE, Ens. D. S. 20th N.I. 1 mo. fr. May 1, to Madras, prep. to apply for leave to Europe.
PAILE, Lieut. S. W. 49th N.I. to Europe, on m.c. to embark fr. pres.
SMITH, Ens. C. G. 8th N.I. fr. Jan. 27, to Cozaco and to Europe, on m.c.
SEEVANA, Lieut. A. 18th N.I. to Europe, on m.c.
TAYLOR, Lieut. S. 3rd Eur. regt. to Europe, on m.c. to embark fr. Bombay.
TAYLOR, Ens. C. C. 1st N.I. 8 mo. fr. April 20, in ext. to Bangalore and Neilgherries, on m.c.
TAYLOR, Capt. C. E. 35th N.I. leave canc.
WALLACE, Lieut. J. D. C. 20th N.I. April 18 to May 31, to Mercara.
WHISTLER, Brev. maj. J. 6th L.C. fr. April 5 to Sept. 19, to Bellary, Bangalore, and Madras.
WHITE, Lieut. C. M. 45th N.I. fr. May 1 to July 31, to Rajahmundry.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

DAY, Asst. surg. F. fr. doing du. surg. surg.'s dept. Mysore div. to do du. under superint. surg. S. div. but will do du. at present with 74th Highlanders, at Jackatalla.
FORD, Surg. C. G. fr. late prom. to do du. 23rd L.I. to join.
HENDE, Asst. surg. W. H. M.D. 10th N.I. services pl. at disp. of gov. of India, foreign dept. fr. March 25.
MCDONALD, Asst. surg. J. to do duty under the surg. of 2nd batt. art. at St. Thomas's Mount.
UMPHREY, Asst. surg. A. M.D. to do du. under surg. of 2nd batt. art. at St. Thomas's Mount.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE—ARRIVED AT THE DATES SPECIFIED.

MCDONALD, J. April 28.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

DAY, Asst. surg. leave cancelled.
MONTGOMERY, Asst. surg. H. B. med. dept. Pegu, 3 mo. prep. to Europe.
PATERSON, Surg. C. 3rd L.C. M.D. to Europe, on m.c.
SCOTT, Asst. surg. A. J. M.D. 1 mo. fr. April 18.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BEAHAN, wife of M. d. at Sedashigur, April 13.
CODD, wife of Lieut. P. L. 49th N.I. d. at Madras, April 25.
COX, wife of Surg. S. L. h. art. s. at Bangalore, April 6.
DAILY, wife of A. P. d. at Secunderabad, April 20.
FERGUSON, the lady of Capt. 3rd Madras Eur. regt. s. Bellary, April 17.
GERRARD, wife of Alex. d. at Madras, April 30.
GORDON, wife of Capt. R. 32nd N.I. s. at Kampter, May 3.
HAIG, the lady of Lieut. F. J. engs. d. at Gunnaram, April 17.
HARE, wife of Lieut. E. M. 28th N.I. d. at Hurryhur, April 18.
LAWRANCE, wife of R. T. s. at Madras, April 29.
MARSHALL, wife of J. s. at Madras, April 25.
MASKELL, wife of John, d. at Vepery, April 20.
MASON, wife of F. s. at Madma, April 13.
NELSON, wife of H. s. at Madras, April 30.
PATERSON, Mr. J. C. d. at Black Town, April 22.
RICH, wife of Lieut. W. C. 46th N.I. d. at Secunderabad, April 8.
SMITH, wife of C. d. at St. Thomas Mount, April 2.
VAN INGEN, wife of J. A. s. at Hussan, April 23.

MARRIAGES.

SPRATT, T. to Miss Jane Hobbs, at Tinnevely, April 20.
TIMMINS, C. T. to Miss Lama B. Salter, at Madras, April 9.
WOODFALL, Maj. 47th N.I. to Amy, d. of C. Hale, at Coovongor, April 18.

DEATHS.

BABINGTON, inf. d. of Asst. surg. W. R. at Coconada, April 22.
BAXTER, J. at Madras, April 24.
BUTLIN, W. s. of the late W. at Trevandrum, aged 1, April 21.
DE MONTE, wife of John, at Black Town, April 19.
HAIG, inf. d. of Lieut. J. T. engs. at Gunnaram, April 17.
HARDING, H. E. inf. s. of the Rev. John, at Ootacamund, April 7.
HUMFRAYS, Louisa, widow of the late Dr. S. at Tranqubar, aged 44, April 28.
INNES, Ens. J. 46th N.I. on the road between Cuddapah and Nellore, April 5.
JEREMIAH, J. C. at Madras, April 10.
SAGE, Arthur E. inf. s. of Lieut. A. 52nd N.I. at Cumbun, April 11.
STEVENS, Margaret Susan, wife of Arthur, at Madras, April 29.
WARD, Capt. A. 1st Eus. fus. at Madras, April 24.
WELLS, W. T. inf. s. of W. at Trevandrum, April 14.
WILSON, George E. A. s. of J. A. at Egmore, aged 3, April 22.
WILSON, J. A. at Egmore, aged 5, April 14.
WINCHESTER, Harry, s. of W. at Chintadreepe, aged 2, April 25.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

APRIL 22.—Diana, Grant, Bassein, Negrals Island.—24. Perseverant, Musabo, Bourbon.—25. Sir George Seymour, Naylor, Mauritius; Nonpareil, Tulloch, Mauritius; Lady Nugent, Bannerman, Port Adelaide; Hampshire, Reynell, Rangoon; Sultana, Tapper, Adelaide; Charles Dumerque, White, Bassein.—26. Amella, Maiden, Vizagapatam.—27. Jona Middleton, Moulmein.—28. Steam ship Bentinck, Bouchier, Suez, Aden, and Galle; screw steamer Argo, Hyde, Southampton, Plymouth, Vincent, Ascension, Cape of Good Hope, Mauritius, and Galle.—May 5. Chapman, Charles, Hobart Town; steamer Bengal, Calcutta.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per George Seymour (April 25), from MAURITIUS.—Dr. Holmes, and Mr. J. Ellis.
 Per Charles Dumerque (April 25), from BASSEIN.—R. Greenlaw, Esq.
 Per Jona (April 27), from MOULMEIN.—Mrs. Middleton and Master Jefferson.
 Per steam ship Bentinck (April 29), from SUZ, ADEN, and GALLE. From SUZ to MADRAS.—Lord Harris, Hon. A. Harris, and Capt. Dick. From ALEXANDRIA to MADRAS.—Mr. Arbuthnot. From MARSEILLES to MADRAS.—Mr. Murray, 12th Lancers, and Mrs. Murray. From SOUTHAMPTON to MADRAS.—Mr. Easton, Lord Harris, Lieut. Coape, 12th Lancers, Mr. A. H. E. Campbell, Mr. Whitehead, Mrs. Spurgin and infant. From ADEN to MADRAS.—Archbishop Charbonnear and Rev. Clemot. From GALLE to MADRAS.—Lieut. Cox and Capt. Cook. From MARSEILLES to CALCUTTA.—Mrs. Emmer and Mrs. Doyle. From SOUTHAMPTON to CALCUTTA.—Mr. T. Suter, Ensign Taylor, Messrs. Aikin, Earle, James, Crepin, H. B. Moody, and Muller, Mr. Horner, Lieut. Moller, Messrs. Davies, J. Shelden, S. Briggs, T. Frear, J. Sharpe, and J. Whipple. From BOMBAY to CALCUTTA.—Messrs. Plowden, Angier, and Smith, Shapoorjee Norjee, Pellonjee Framjee, Messrs. Barnes and Canton.
 Per screw steamer Argo (April 28), from SOUTHAMPTON, PLYMOUTH, ST. VINCENT, ASCENSION, CAPE OF GOOD HOPE, MAURITIUS, and GALLE. For MADRAS.—Mr. W. J. Finlay, Mr. C. H. Plowden, Dr. Foaker, Dr. McDonald, and Miss Corbett. For CALCUTTA.—Mr. W. E. Cox, Ensign Fox, Mr. H. J. Jacob, Lieut. and Mrs. Buggles, Rev. Geo. Predham, Dr. Lamb, Mr. J. S. Walter, Miss Rickets, Dr. and Mrs. Graham, Miss Stewart, Capt. Anderson, Mrs. Anderson, and infant, Lieut. Welford, Mr. W. B. Clemenson, Mr. H. Fagan, Capt. and Mrs. Annesley, and Lieut. Triton.

BOMBAY.

AN EXPEDITION TO THE SOMALI COUNTRY.

By the Overland Mail which leaves to-morrow, we understand that an application goes home to the Court of Directors, from the local government, to be allowed to send an expedition into the Somali country, on the coast of Africa, opposite Aden, of which Lieut. Burton, of the 18th regt. N.I., so distinguished as a Persian, Arabic, Punjabee, Scindee, Hindoostanee; Maharratee, and Guzarattee scholar (not to speak of his attainments in European languages, nor of his books on Scinde, "Gon and the Blue Mountains," &c.) is to be the leader.

In 1849, Sir Charles Malcolm obtained permission from the Court, usually most liberal in such matters, to allow a "fit and proper person" to volunteer for travel in the Somali country. The thing was offered to Dr. Carter, but he had other projects, and gradually it fell into oblivion.

Now, however, the Royal Geographic Society is beginning to be urgent about the discovery. Discovery is owned to be a duty. The Duke of Newcastle grants 3,500*l.* for an expedition into Central Australia. The Somali country is of consequence to us. Captain Haines urgently advised its being explored; and Lieut. Cruttenden has long intended visiting it. Formerly its exports, passing through Aden, made that place the wealthy city it was; and now we have no other means of enriching the great "Coal hole of the East," as some one has most irreverently called Aden, and preventing its being a permanent burden to us, than by restoring to it its former character and usefulness in this respect. The reason why the Somali country, which abounds in so many valuable articles, cannot export them, at present, and without extraneous assistance, is the state of party feeling. The Clans, originally Arabs, are always at feud; yet they desire the presence of Europeans, and it is believed that an agent settled at Berbera could induce them to turn their attention to commerce permanently. Some chief has invited Lieut. Cruttenden to their country. There is little to fear from violence, and less from climate, as the lands "above the Ghauts," 2,000 feet high, are uncommonly salubrious.

Mr. Burton has recently returned from a furlough to Europe, having on his way out overland, gone round to Mecca, in the garb of an Afghan pilgrim, and having successfully performed the Mussulman rite and ceremony of the Haj. No European now alive has ever done this, and it is doubtful if any one ever survived it with the safety that this gentleman has. An account of his travels will, we trust, soon appear.

When living as a native at Cairo, Mr. Barton, we have heard, made friends with one Hajee Khalif, who brought with him gold collected from the mountains, and specimens of "waxy quartz," which left no doubt about diggings. The gums are notoriously valuable, and science earnestly desires a description of the tree which produces them. The horses of the "Angoden" country cost $2. there, and would here be worth ten times the money—this is of consequence at a time when the court is getting very tired of its studs, and we are wholly dependent upon Bassorah Arabs for a supply. The coffee of Harrir is said to be more valuable than that of Mocha; it is undoubtedly abundant, and capable of any extension of cultivation. Ivory abounds in the mountains, where the people having no guns can scarcely master the elephants. Grain on the banks of the "Hains River," sells at 1000 lbs. for a dollar, and if this trade alone were opened, it would be of vital importance to Aden.

[[Lieut. Burton, we are told, has proposed that his expedition should consist, besides himself, of Dr. Stocks, the botanist, and Lieut. Herne, of the Fusiliers (a surveyor and good mecanicien). A Madras officer of artillery has also volunteered for the journey; and we should say the sooner it is begun the better. Mr. Burton has asked, and we believe obtained, permission to go to Aden before the rains, so as to be prepared to start at once after the monsoon. If any of our readers can afford information about the journey, it will, we are sure, be most thankfully received; and for our part, we can only bid God speed to so promising and beneficent an enterprise. It is impossible to doubt that the Court of Directors will give to it a ready and hearty support.—Bombay Gazette, May 9.

THE LONDON MAIL of April 8 arrived at Bombay May 8, per Victoria.

DEPARTURE OF THE STEAMERS.—The Right Hon. the Governor in Council is pleased to notify that the monthly mails to Suex, and mid-monthly mails to Aden, are intended to be despatched on the undermentioned dates, viz.:—On the 28th April to Suex; on the 10th May to Aden; on the 23rd May to Suex; on the 20th June to Suex; on the 20th July to Suex; on the 30th August to Suex; on the 11th September to Aden.

DEPARTURES.

APRIL 27. Mary Ann, Roallans, Mauritius; Nonpareil, Tulloch, Coringa.—28. Steamer Bentinek, Bouchier, Calcutta.—29. Benares, Dorill, Bimlipatam; Coldstream, Adam, Mauritius; Perseverant, Massobo, Calingsapatam; screw str. Argo, Hyde, Calcutta.—MAY 4. Diana, Fleteber, Mauritius; Emulous, Trixiers, Chittagong; Carmatic, Stuart, London.—6. Steamer Bengal, —, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Bentinck (April 28), to CALCUTTA.—Ens. T. P. F. Tytler, L. Karrich, Esq. and Mrs. R. A. Sunkey.
Per screw str. Argo (April 29), to CALCUTTA.—Miss Turlton, Ms. Crump.
Per Carnatic (May 5), to LONDON.—Mrs. Fowle and 2 children.
Per steamer Bengal (May 6), to SEIZ. TO SOUTHAMPTON.—Maj. W. C. Onslow, Mrs. Onslow, Mrs. Anson and child, Lieut. A. G. E. Morley, Capt. W. H. Gordon, Capt. H. S. B. Burney, Maj. C. C. Young, Mrs. Young and 3 children, and Maj. J. B. Levis. TO MANCHESTER.—Mrs. E. F. Elliott and 2 children. TO ALEXANDRIA.—Capt. W. H. Kirby, Ens. J. Murray, Lieut. G. W. Drought, TO BOMBAY.—Lieut. R. W. Dun, Mrs. General Stacey.

COMMERCIAL.

Madras, May 5, 1854.

BANK OF MADRAS,
of Interest—on Loans.

On deposit of Government Paper .....	5 per ct.
On existing cash credit accounts on do. ....	5 do.

RATES OF ADVANCE.

On Government 5 per cent. Stock Receipts	100 per ct.
On 5 per cent. Promissory Notes	98 "
On 4 per cent. do. Messrs. Sica and Co's	88 "
On Tanjore do.	88 "

Discount.

On Government Acceptances .....	3 per ct.
On Private Bills, at or within 30 days .....	5 "
Ditto above 30 days .....	6 "
Investments .....	R. 39,95,196 9 8
Circulation and Deposits .....	46,36,180 1 4
Specie in the Bank .....	33,73,587 15 2

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

5 per cent. loan of 1825-26	1829-30
	1841	$\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ prem.
4 per cent. ..	1832-33	1 to 12 dis.
	1835-36	Par. to $\frac{1}{2}$ dis.
	1843	$\frac{1}{2}$ dis. to $\frac{1}{2}$ prem.
5 per cent. transferable book debt		5 to 6 prem.
Tanjore Bonds	Par.
Bank of Madras Shares	13 to 13	prem.

PRICE OF BULLION, &c.

Sovereigns.....	Rs. 10-3-6ths to 10-4 each
Bank of England Notes.....	10-2 each
Spanish Dollars .....	220 per 100

EXCHANGES.

Bills on England, according to sight,	1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d.
H.M. Treasury Bills,	1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d.
Bank of England Post Bills,	1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d.
Mauritius Government Bills,	1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d.
Ceylon do.	1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d.
Court of Directors' Bill on the Government of Bengal, 60 days' sight, none.
Calcutta.—Buy, ¼ per cent. discet.
„ Sell, par.
Bombay.—Buy, ¼ per cent. discet.
„ Sell, par.

FREIGHTS.

Quotations to London and Liverpool are 4l. to 4l. 5s. per ton of 20 cwt.

THE RAILWAY.—The extension of our railway to Callin was opened to the public on the 2nd of May, the directors having entertained their friends the day previous at the official opening, of which an account will be found in another column.

LIEUTENANT THOMAS DEGENNES FRASER, of the 15th regiment N.I., has been brought to trial before the general court-martial of which Lieutenant Colonel Parby was president; for having acted, as a Court of Inquiry, held at Bhooj, that Lieutenant Loft and Ensign Hammond, both of the 15th N.I., were "perfectly sober!"—at a nauch given by the officers of the regiment on the occasion of colours being presented to the 15th.—he, Lieutenant Fraser, well knowing that Lieutenant Loft and Ensign Hammond were "drunk." The above being "unbecoming the character of an officer and a gentleman," and "to the prejudice of good order and military discipline." The prisoner pleaded guilty.—Telegraph and Courier.

SMALL CAUSE COURT.—The Bombay Gazette publishes an official statement showing the amount of receipts and disbursements in the Small Cause Court of that Presidency in 1852-53. The receipts were Rs. 81,842, and the disbursements Rs. 78,786, leaving a small profit on the operations of the year. During the past year, it is said, the receipts have been less, and the disbursements greater.

COURT-MARTIAL ON LIEUT.-COL. GIDLEY.—Lieut.-Col. Gidley, of the 22nd Bombay N.I., has been brought to trial on the following charges, viz.:—First charge.—For gross dereliction of duty when commanding officer of the 15th regt. N.I., in having, at Bhooj, in the province of Cutch, between the 1st of January and the 1st of September, 1853, countenanced intemperance and unbecoming conduct among the officers of the regiment under his command, by permitting, unchecked and unpunished, the following instances of drunkenness and impropriety, degrading to gentlemen and ruinous to discipline: 1st. In the instance of the late Surgeon Elliott, who was drunk and indecent in his language at a dinner-party given by the political agent in Cutch, in July, the prisoner being present.—Guilty. 2nd. In the instance of Lieut. Conyn, of the 15th regt. N.I., who was drunk when going to the durbar of his Highness the Rao of Cutch.—Guilty. 3rd. In the instance of Ensign Loft, of the 15th N.I., who was drunk at a dinner-party given by the political agent in Cutch, the prisoner being present.—Guilty. 4th. In the instance of the late Surgeon Elliot and Ensign Loft and Hammond, of the 15th N.I., who were drunk at a nauch, the prisoner being present.—Guilty. 5th. In the instance of the late Surgeon Elliot, who arrived drunk at Ensign Cole's bungalow, when required to afford medical aid to that officer, Surgeon Elliot having come from the prisoner's house on that occasion.—Not guilty. 6th. In the instance of Lieut. Laurie, of the 15th N.I., who was drunk in the billiard-room of the regt., the prisoner being present.—Guilty. 7th. In the instance of Ensign Loft, of the 15th N.I., who was drunk at the prisoner's quarters, Ensign Loft being at the time on duty as officer of the day.—Guilty. Second Charge. For gross dereliction of duty when commanding officer of the 15th N.I., and conduct highly disgraceful and unbecoming the character of an officer and a gentleman, in not interfering to prevent the following scenes of indecency which were enacted in his presence. 1st. In the instance of disgusting language used towards the late Surgeon Elliot, in the billiard-room of the 15th N.I., on or about the month of April, on which occasion Ensign Loft, of the 15th N.I., laid hold of Surgeon Elliot in an indecent manner.—Not Guilty. 2nd. In the instance of the late Surgeon Elliot, whose person was indecently exposed in the billiard-room, by certain officers of the regiment.—Guilty. Colonel Gidley was sentenced to be dismissed the service, and Lord A. Fitzclarence further directed that Lieutenants Laurie, Conyn, and Fraser, and Ensigns Loft and Hammond, should be brought before a court-martial.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ANDERSON, H. L. to be sec. to govt. in political and secret depts. and to act as sec. to govt. in judicial dept. April 22.
BEALASIS, A. F. rec. ch. of office of comm. in Scinde, fr. H. B. Ellis.
CAMERON, C. H. to be act. asst. jud. and sess. jud. of Konkan.
COLES, G. perm. to resign fr. April 1.
DUFF, A. G. 3rd asst. to coll. and mag. of Sholapore, pl. in ch. of Talookas of Mohal and Marha of that collectorate.
ERSKINE, C. J. to be civ. auditor fr. date of G. Cole's res.; perm. to res. app. of sec. to govt. in gen. and judicial depts. April 22; assu. ch. of duties as civ. auditor, May 1.
GOLDSMID, H. E. to be offic. chief sec. to govt. v. Malet.
HADOW, J. W. acting coll. of Ahmedabad, perm. to remain in districts of his collectorate.

HARRISON, W. H. Jud. of Surat, del. over ch. of Adawlut at that station to Macfar, April 19.
HAVELOCK, W. H. 1st asst. to coll. and mag. of Belgaum, rec. ch. of current revenue duties of collectorate.
HOBART, Hon. G. A. to be act. asst. judge and sess. judge of Ahmednuggur.
KARR, G. B. T. act. coll. of Tanna, ass. ch. of duties; to proc. into districts of his collectorate on duty.
LAW, J. S. perm. to resign the comp.'s service from Aug. 13, next; del. over ch. of Dharwar collectorate to J. H. Polly, Apr. 12.
LINDSAY, H. 3rd asst. to coll. and mag. of Ahmedabad, qual. for public business.
LOWDEN, W. to sup. asst. to supt. Poona and Tanna revenue survey and assessment.
NEWTON, H. act. judge of Sholapore, resu. appt. of asst. judge of Poona, and asst. to ag. for Sirdars in Deccan.
RICHARDSON, A. S. J. to be judge and sess. judge of
ROBERTSON, J. W. assu. ch. of duties as dept. comm. of customs, salt, and opium.
ROBERTSON, A. D. rest. ch. of duties as dept. comm. of customs, salt, and opium.
SPOONER, R. to be coll. and mag. of Rutnagherry.
SUART, E. M. ass. ch. of app. as act. judge and sess. judge of Candeish.
TRAYERS, A. C. acting sub coll. and mag. of Colaba ass. ch.
TUCKER, H. P. S. G. app. as act. judge and sess. judge of Ahmedabad can. in conseq. of J. C. Hebbert resu. du. to resu. app. of gen. ass. judge and sess. judge of Konkan for detach. station of Rutnagherry.
TYLER, C. G. F. to offic. as sec. to govt. in gen. dept.
WATKINS, E. C. prin. sudder ameen of Ahmedabad, res. ch. of du.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ARRUTHNOT, F. F. to Bombay.
ERSKINE, J. M. leave cancelled.
HEBBERT, H. 4 mo.
HOBART, Hon. G. A. 4 mo. on m.c.
HUGHES, A. W. 5 days in ext.
SPENCE, A. G. from April 4th to May 23.
TUCKER, L. H. B. 2 mo. in ext.
WHITE, R. 1 mo.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

COOK, Rev. G. to be sen. minister of St. Andrew's Church, in succ. to the Rev. Dr. Stevenson, who has resigned the service.
REYNOLDS, Rev. F. C. P. chaplain of Kerhee, to April 18 in ext.
STEVENSON, Rev. Dr. perm. to retire fr. April 28.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BARNEWELL, Lieut. C. H. 2nd L.C. to be capt. fr. July 3, 1852, in succ. to Kenyon, ret. May 5.
BOURDILLON, Capt. O. 25th N.I. to join.
BOYD, Ens. J. M. posted to 21st N.I. Feb. 20; to do duty with 4th N.I. till Jan. 1 next.
BROWNE, Brev. col. W. J. 29th N.I. brig. com. in Upper Scinde, res. his com.
BURD, Ens. R. 10th N.I. to be lieut. fr. April 16, in succ. to Aston, ret.
CAMPBELL, Ens. R. L. posted to 7th N.I. to do duty with 4th N.I. till Jan. 1 next.
COTGRAVE, Ens. C. W. posted to 3rd Eur. regt. March 5.
CRISPIN, Ens. G. B. 4th N.I. rep. fit for duty, to join his corps.
DAVIS, Ens. A. P. 3rd Eur. regt. to do duty with the drill detach. at Poona.
DELAMAIN, Lieut. col. C. H. 1st L.C. ret. fr. H. Co.'s service on pens. of rank fr. April 24.
DE LANCEY, Ens. C. J. posted to 27th N.I. Jan. 4.
DOWN, Lieut. col. J. S. 27th N.I. to com. of fortress of Assurgur, v. Delamain, res.
DUNCAN, Capt. W. G. 24th N.I. to be maj. fr. April 18, in succ. to Shepherd, prom.
DURAND, Ens. A. posted to 10th N.I. Feb. 20.
FENNING, Capt. acting supt. of police in Dharwar zillah, to be an assist. mag. in Dharwar zillah, vested with powers of mag. April 28.
FORBES, Ens. J. F. posted to 25th N.I. Jan. 4.
GOODFELLOW, Lieut. W. W. sup. and min. qual. in vernacular lang. April 24.
GORDON, Lieut. J. 1st N.I. to join.
GRANT, Capt. C. F. 3rd N.I. to be an assist. mag. in Ahmedabad, zillah, with powers of mag. April 20; to be supt. of police at Ahmedabad, v. Capt. Agar.
GREEN, Capt. E. A. 21st N.I. to be brig. maj. on estab. v. Young-husband; app. a brig. maj. posted to Rajpootana fd. force.
GROUBE, Capt. F. J. 13th N.I. to proc. in ch. of details of 86th foot and 6th and 8th N.I. to Kurrachee, on board the Bombay steamer.
HALLETT, Lieut. col. J. D. c.b. to rec. temp. com. of a 2nd class brigade, attach. to Kandeish, April 27.

HALLETT, Lieut. col. J. D. c.b. 3rd N.I. to com. a 2nd class brigade, dur. abs. of Wyllie, on leave.

HEATHORN, Lieut. T. B. art. qual. as interp. in Hindustani lang.

HENRY, Lieut. J. W. 3rd Eur. regt. to be an asst. mag. in Ahmedabad zillah, vested with powers of mag. April 28.

HOGG, Ens. A. G. F. posted to 5th N.L.I. Jan. 4.

JARDINE, Lieut. to act as qr. mr. to 5th N.L.I. dur. Lieut. Boodle's abs.

JEROME, Lieut. J. to be an asst. to supt. rev. survey and assessment, Guzerat, fr. April 1.

KEMBALL, Capt. J. acting supt. of police, Poona, assu. ch. of duties, April 15; to be an asst. mag. in Poona zillah, vested with powers of mag. April 28.

KENNEDY, Cornet R. C. 2nd L.C. to be lieut. fr. July 3, 1852, in suc. to Kenyon, ret. May 5.

LAMBERT, Lieut. W. R. dep. coll. and mag. rec. ch. of office of coll. and mag. of Hyderabad fr. A. F. Beilasis.

LAING, Capt. J. 27th N.I. rep. fit for du. to join his corps.

LE GEYT, Cornet W. E. posted to 2nd L.C. to rank fr. Oct. 4, 1853.

LODWICK, Cap. H. 10th N.I. ret'd. to du. April 8.

LUIS, Ens. J. posted to 3rd Eur. regt. March 4.

LUMSDEN, Ens. W. posted to 22nd N.I. Feb. 4.

MACLEOD, Ens. C. D. posted to 27th N.I. Jan. 4, 1854.

MACNAGHTEN, Cornet A. W. attached to horse brig. art. to join.

MAUDE, Lieut. C. O. to be actg. supt. of police at Kana dur. abs. of Capt. Jupp; to be assist. mag. in Kana Zillah, vested with powers of mag. April 28.

MCGILLIVRAY, Ens. S. F. posted to 26th N.I. Feb. 4.

MOYLE, Lieut. J. G. 10th N.I. to be capt. fr. April 16, in succ. to Aston, retired.

NEAVE, Ens. K. 24th N.I. to be Lieut. fr. April 18, in succ. to Scatcherd, prom.; to be qu. mr. and interp. v. McPherson, to Europe.

RIVAZ, Lieut. F. C. 1st Eur. reg. fus. qual. in vernacular lang. Apl. 8.

SCATCHARD, Lieut. G. R. 24th N.I. to be capt. fr. April 18, in suc. to Duncan, prom.

SHAW, Cornet G. M. to do duty with horse brigade art. at Poona, to join.

SHEPHERD, Maj. A. to be lieut. col. of inf. fr. Apl. 18,—V. Gidley dism. the serv.

ST. GEORGE, Lieut. G. 25th N.I. to conduct du. of commissariat ag. and superint. of bazars at Ahmedabad dur. abs. of Lieut. Pope.

STEVENSON, Ens. A. J. W. posted to 18 N.I. Jan. 9.

STRONG, Ens. T. E. posted to 3rd N.I. Jan. 4.

STRUTT, Asst. Ens. J. R. 3rd. N.I. qual. in vernacular lang. April 8.

TROVTS, Lieut. N. B. 21st N.I. services pl. at disp. of gov. of India.

TREMENEERE, Capt. C. W. Eng. Executive Eng. Hyderabad, pl. at disp. of chief eng. for emp. on special duty.

TURNBULL, Ens. C. J. posted to 23rd N.I. Jan. 20.

WALLACE, Lieut. R. 5th N.I. to be sup. asst. to sup. rev. survey and assessment southern Mahratté country, Apl. 27.

WILKINSON, 2nd Lieut. H. E. 1st Eur. fus. attach. to the right wing, Colaba, Apr. 27.

WINFIELD, Capt. J. P. 2nd Eur. R. L. I. ret. to duty, Apr. 8.

WOODWARD, 2nd Lieut. W. W. art. posted to 1st batt. to join 3rd comp. with No. 1 light field battery, attached at Belgauin.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE, ARRIVED AT THE DATE SPECIFIED.

ARTILLERY.

BERTHON, T. P. Apr. 8.
HARCOURT, P. H. Apr. 8.
TASKER, J. Apr. 8.

CAVALRY.

MACNAGHTEN, A. W. Apr. 8.
SHAW, G. M. Apr. 8.

INFANTRY.

LOUIS, J. Apr. 8.
ROBERTSON, E. L. Apr. 8.
WARDEN, G. L. Apr. 8.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ANDERSON, Lieut. J. A. 19th N.I. 6 mo. to Eur. old reg.

BAINBRIDGE, Lieut. R. 1 mo. fr. April 20.

BOURDILLON, Capt. O. 25th N.I. 1 mo. on m.c.

BOYD, Lieut. M. 11th N.I. 1 mo. on m.c.

BELL, Ens. T. 14th N.I. 1 mo. fr. April 13, to Bombay, on m.c.

BILLAMORE, Lieut. G. R. 2nd Eur. L.I. 1 mo. on m.c.

BROWNE, Brev. col. W. J. 29th N.I. to Eur. on furl. old reg.

CHITTY, Lieut. W. T. act. asst. auditor gen. 1 mo. fr. May 12, to the Deccan.

COWPAR, Lieut. R. dept. coll. in Upper Scinde, 1 mo. to pres. on m.c.; 6 mo. to Eur. on m.c. new reg.

DICKINSON, Lieut. W. R. engs. 3 yrs. to Eur. on furl. old reg.

DODS, Lieut. P. 1 mo. fr. April 15, to Bombay, on m.c.

GEACH, Capt. 13th N.I. to June 1, in ext.

GORDON, Lieut. J. 1st N.I. 1 mo. on m.c.

HORT, Lieut. marine batt. to June 1, in ext.

JACKSON, Lieut. col. J. c.b. 26th N.I. to Europe, new reg.

JACOB, Lieut. col. Le G. 8th N.I. in ext. for 18 mo. old reg. permitted to proceed to any of the colonies of N. S. Wales or New Zealand.

JONES, Ens. 16th N.I. to June 1, in ext.

KEMBALL, Lieut. F. I. 1 mo. to Belgauin.

LOCH, Capt. W. paymaster S. div. of the army, fr. May 4 to June 4, within the limits of the div. 2nd Lieut. Halberton, art. performing his duties during his absence, and on his responsibility.

LUMSDEN, Ens. W. fr. April 23 to 30, in ext. to remain at Poona.

MACKINTOSH, Ens. J. E. A. 3rd Eur. reg. 1 mo. m.c.

MAINWARING, Lieut. W. G. 1st Belooch. bat. 1 mo. m.c.; 18 mo. to Europe, new reg.

MCGILLIVRAY, Lieut. J. 3rd Eur. reg. 1 mo. m.c.

MILLS, Ens. W. T. 25th N.I. 1 mo. m.c.

POGSON, Capt. J. 17th N.I. fr. April 6 to 30, to Bombay, on m.c.; 3 years to Europe, on furl. on m.c. old reg.

POPE, Lieut. R. S. commiss. agt. at Ahmedabad, to May 25.

SMITH, Lieut. J. D. 6th N.I. 1 mo. m.c.

TRYDELL, Brig. B. command. Poona brigade, April 22 to June 6, to Mahableshwur.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ARBuckle, Surg. has been relieved of duties of surg. to the jail and house of correction, April 29.

BALLINGALL, Asst. surg. to be prof. of anatomy and physiology in Grant med. coll. April 29.

CAMPBELL, Asst. surg. to be prof. of med. jurisprudence in Grant med. coll. April 29.

CARTER, Asst. surg. to be ex officio officiating prof. of ophthalmic surgery, Grant med. coll. April 29.

COLES, Asst. surg. to be prof. of midwifery in Grant med. coll. fr. Dec. 26, 1853; fr. which date also Dr. Coles to be regarded as offic. prof. of med. jurisprudence.

GOULD, Asst. surg. J. H. B.A., M.D. to rank fr. Jan. 20.

HAINES, Asst. surg. to be prof. of materia medica and pharmacy in Grant med. coll. April 29.

HEWLETT, Asst. surg. T. G. to rank fr. Jan. 20.

KAYE, Asst. surg. J. serv. pl. at disp. of C.-in-C. of Indian navy.

LUMSDAINE, Asst. surg. rec. ch. of civ. med. duties at Dhoolia fr. Asst. surg. Pelly, April 7.

MACKENZIE, Asst. surg. J. M. serv. pl. at disp. of C.-in-C. of Indian navy.

MACKENZIE, Asst. surg. J. G. ret. to duty, April 8.

MACKENZIE, Surg. 25th N.I. to aff. med. aid to head qrs. 3rd batt. art.

MACKENZIE, Asst. surg. J. M. M.D. to return to duty April 27.

PEELE, Asst. surg. J. D. perm. to resign the appt. of prof. of midwifery in the Grant med. coll. fr. Dec. 20, 1853.

PEET, Asst. surg. res. ch. of duties as prof. of anatomy and surgery in the Grant med. coll.

PELLY, Asst. surg. del. over ch. of civ. med. duties at Dhoolia to Asst. surg. Lumsdaine, April 7.

THORP, Asst. surg. R. C. M.D. to rank fr. Jan. 4.

TRESTRAIL, Asst. surg. assu. ch. of duties of civ. surg. at Nassick.

WARD, Asst. surg. A. V. qual. in vernacular lang. April 8.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BABBINGTON, Surg. W. F. staff surg. Poona, 1 mo. on m.c.

DAVEY, Asst. surg. W. 17th N.I. 1 mo. on m.c.

JOHNSTONE, Asst. surg. T. B. vaccinator, Concan, 18 mo. to Eur. on m.c.

MALISTER, Asst. surg. J. 6 mo. to Europe, on furl. on m.c. new reg.

MOREHEAD, Surg. C. 1 yr. to Europe, on m.c. new reg.

SCOTT, Supt. surg. 6 mo. to Europe, on furl. new reg.

STRAKER, C. D. c.b. inspector-gen. of hosp. 1 yr. to Neilgherries, on m.c. old reg.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ANDERSON, Lieut. J. P. 3 yrs. furl. to Eur. on m.c.

BARTON, Mid. from the Hastings to the Tigris, April 20.

BENNETT, Purs. R. fr. the Hastings to the Ajdaha.

BROOMAN, Lieut. C. E. of the Zenobia, perm. to reside on shore, April 18.

BROWN, act. 1st cl. 2nd master, of the Ajdaha, to be act. mast. fr. March 1.

BROWNLOW, Volunt. E. M. arr. April 24.

BROWNLOW, Volunt. H. W. arr. April 24.

BURNES, Mids. of the Palinurus, disch. to sick quarters, on May 5.

CAREW, Mids. G. O.B. to be mate, April 12.

CLARK, Mids. fr. the Tigris to the Hastings, April 20.

CLERK, Mids. A. fr. the Hastings to the Semiramis, May 1.

DAKERS, Lieut. fr. the Tigris to the Hastings, April 20.
 DAKERS, Lieut. fr. the Hastings to the Feroze, April 27.
 DAWSON, Mids. fr. the Hastings to the Semiramis, May 5.
 DICKSON, Lieut. fr. the Hastings to the Tigris, Apr. 20.
 DICKINSON, Mids. fr. the Hastings to the Tigris, Apr. 20.
 DOUGLAS, Mate, fr. the Hastings to the Auckland, Apr. 27.
 DUNSTAN, Act. Mast. attach to the Hastings, perm. to resign, Apr. 20.

DYER, Mate, 1 yr. on furl. to Europe, on m. c.
 FAWCETT, Mids. fr. the Tigris to the Auckland, Apr. 20.
 FOX, Assist. surg. 1 mo. fr. Apr. 17, to the Deccan.
 HANDLEY, Mids. from the Semiramis to the Hastings, May 1.
 HAYMAN, Lieut. to be registrar of seamen for I. N. Apr. 20.
 JOHNSTONE, clerk in ch. of the Clive, to be act. purser fr. Jan. 24.

JONES, Volant. M. H. adm. to the serv. arr. Apr. 15.
 KAYE, Assist. surg. J. to join the Acbar, Apr. 28.
 LE MESURIER, Mids. fr. the Acbar to the Tigris, Apr. 20.
 LOWE, Capt. W. 3 yrs. furl. to Europe on m. c.
 MACKENZIE, Assist. surg. J. M. to join the Falkland, May 1.
 MACKENZIE, Assist. surg. M. M. fr. the Falkland to the Feroze.
 NUNNERLY, Act. 1st class 2nd mast. W. J. of the Berenice, to be act. mast. fr. Jan. 25.

PEARCE, Clerk G. fr. the Falkland to the Tigris, April 20.
 PEEVOR, Lieut. of the Semiramis, disch. to sick quarters, April 25.
 PHILBRICK, Mids. T. M. of the Auckland, prem. to reside on shore, to the Semiramis, May 1.

PRYCE, J. C. to be 2nd assist. to mast. attend. v. Daniell, dec. May 4.
 ROGERS, Assist. surg. fr. the Palinurus to the Semiramis, v. Ward, who exch. May 5.

ROOME, Assist. surg. H. to May 1, in ex. to rem. at Mahableshwur.

STEPHENS, Com. J. 3 yrs. furl. to Europe.

TAYLOR, Mids. S. to be mate, April 12.

TROLLOPE, Mate, fr. the Falkland to the Feroze, May 5.

TURNER, Mids. J. A. 1 yr. on furl. to Europe, on m. c.

TWYNAM, Lieut. fr. the Falkland, to com. the Tigris, April 20.

WALTER, Act. mast. from the Hastings to the Acbar, April 27.

WARD, Asst. surg. fr. the Semiramis to the Palinurus, v. Rogers, who exch. May 5.

WILLIAMS, Mids. R. fr. the Tigris to the Auckland, April 20.

WILLIAMS, Purs. H. 1 mo. fr. April 20, to Mahabaleshwur, on m. c.

WOODHOUSE, act. 1st class 2nd Mast. R. W. 6 mo.

WORSLEY, Lieut. reported fit for duty, to join, May 9.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BLANE, Mrs. G. d. at Mahabaleshwur, April 27.

DAVIES, wife of D. W. s. at Bombay, April 14.

HAMILTON, wife of Lieut. J. J. 2nd N.I. d. at Chickulda, April 14.

HENDERSON, wife of Lieut. J. R. art. d. at Nuseerabad, April 18.

JEFFERSON, wife of J. s. at Malabar, April 29.

ROSSER, the lady of Lieut. Lt. drag. s. at Kirkee, April 25.

THOMPSON, wife of G. W. s. at Mazagon, April 20.

MARRIAGES.

EYRE, Capt. T. 3rd L.C. to Annie, d. of the Rev. A. B. Eyre, at Byculia, April 12.

GLASS, A. J. to Miss Maria E. Wright, at Bombay, April 27.

GOLDIE, Lieut. R. 27th N.I. to Louisa H. d. of C. Milford, at Bombay, April 29.

JOPP, Lieut. W. 27th N.I. to Susannah, d. of the late Lieut. J. Randall, at Poona, April 22.

LEE, G. to Miss Anne Lewis, at Bombay, April 24.

DEATHS.

COTTELL, Henry O'Brien, s. of Lieut. 26th N.I. at Point de Galle, April 13.

DOWNES, J. K. at Bombay, April 27.

FANNING, Frederick, s. of Capt. 9th N.I. at Bombay, April 27.

FENNING, Capt. H. 21st N.I. at Dharwar.

HOUGH, inf. d. of Capt. N. at Colaba, May 1.

LAMB, Ens. A. James, 22nd N.I. at Malligam, April 18.

PHILLIPSON, Arthur, at Goa, April 28.

ROSS, Surg. M. J. M. H.M.'s 10th lt. drag. at Kirkee, May 4.

YONGE, G. Annie C. wife of Ens. E. L. 16th N.I. at Khurdee, April 25.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

APRIL 28. Martin Frederick, Peters, Liverpool; Louise, Sunbord, Cardiff.—MAY 1. Palinurus, Selby, Cherepanpaun Reef.—2. Euterpe, Marton, Aden.—3. Steamer Ganges, Baker, Hong-Kong, Singapore, Penang, and Galle.—4. Steamer Bombay, Beyts, Kurrachee.—7. Steamer Victoria, Adams, Sues and Aden.—9. Steamer Mountstuart Elphinstone, M'Donald, Surat; steamer Sir J. E. Carnac, Taylor, Surat.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Carnac, from COCHIN.—Mr. Rogers. From CANNANORE.—Lieut. Turner, 25th regt. From VINGORLA.—Capt. and Mrs. Cumberlege.

Per Ganges (May 3), from Hong-Kong, &c.—Mr. Alexander, Lieut. E. Thompson, Capt. and Mrs. Mein and 4 children, Lieut. Walker, Capt. Eden, Lieut. and Mrs. S. Cousins.

Per Bombay (May 4), from KURRACHEE.—Mrs. Foreman, Mrs. Beyts, Capt. and Mrs. Whittle and child, A. Young, Esq.; Dr. Beatty, Mr. Mainwaring, Lieut. Kenys, 14th regt. N.I.; Lieut. Ellis, 53rd regt.

Per Victoria (May 6), from SURAT.—Capt. R. Shaw, Capt. J. Taylor, 2nd L.C.; Lieut. and Mrs. Bacon, 25th regt. N.I.; Mr. Nowrojee Burjorjee and family.—7. Sir William Yardley, Mr. Richardson, Miss Duncan, Mr. Ormston, Rev. Mr. Glasgow, Mr. Leighton, Mr. Warden, Mr. Leslie, Mr. Harris, Mr. Lloyd, Mr. Cozens.

Per steamer Phlox, from SURAT.—Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Clay, W. A. Ritchie.

Per G. R. Clerk, from SURAT.—Mr. Robertson.

Per Mountstuart Elphinstone (May 9), from SURAT.—Brig. W. Brown, C.B.; J. La Touche, Esq.

Per Sir J. E. Carnac, from SURAT.—Rev. J. S. Taylor.

DEPARTURES.

APRIL 27. Rocher de St. Malo, Gagnoux, Marseilles; Ascendant, Spencer, London.—29. Recruit, Morrison, Liverpool; Le Constant, Angebean, Marseilles; Shah Allum, Adley, Calcutta.—MAY 1. Steamer Malta, Purchase, Point de Galle, Penang, Singapore, and Hong-Kong; Sagof, Lugrin, Calcutta.—3. Coconada, Geave, Mauritius; John Adam, Moore, Canton.—4. Earl of Clare, Wilson, Canton; steamer Dwarka, Woolley, Aden.—5. Moidinbur, Nacoda, Colombo.—6. Steamer Norne, Curling, Singapore; Queen Margaret, Spence, Canton; Culloden, McLean, Liverpool; Nottingham, Robinson, Liverpool; Eliza Pirrie, Pearson, Liverpool; steamer Bombay, Kurrachee.—9. Charles Grant, Alcock, China.—10. Steamer Semiramis, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Angelina, to Marseilles.—Mr. Le Compte.

Per Polunaise, to WHARF.—Lieut. Ed. Battersby, 2nd L.C.

Per Recruit (April 29), to LIVERPOOL.—Mrs. Holder and 2 children.

Per Malta (May 1), to GALLE, &c.—Dr. and Mrs. Bremner and family, and W. Wallace, Esq. For ALEXANDRIA.—Mr. and Mrs. Russell, 2 infants. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Mr. J. S. W. Wotton and Capt. Bruce.

For GALLE.—Mr. Dunstan and Mr. Rousseau. For CALCUTTA.—Mr. L. O. de Souza, Veerbhoy Beebe.

Per Sagof, to COAST and CALCUTTA.—Capt. Leeson.

Per Bombay (May 6), to KURRACHEE.—Ens. Gillespie, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, Dr. Beatty, Mr. F. J. Scott, Rev. Mr. Sheldon.

Per steamer Semiramis (May 10), to SUEZ.—T. Lancaster, Esq.; Lieut. W. Croker, 78th Highlanders; Dr. J. Hall, Lieut. Robert Cowper, Capt. and Mrs. H. A. Cumberlege, Lieut. W. G. Mainwaring, Capt. W. Lowe, John Mabson, Esq.

COMMERCIAL.

Bombay, May 10, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

5 per cent. transfer loan	Rs. 111 for Nos. regist.
	for trans. p. 100 Sa.
5 Do.	do. 1841-42 .. Rs. 99½ Co.'s
4 Do.	do. 1832-33 .. Rs. 104½ p. 100 Sa.
4 Do.	do. 1835-36 .. Rs. 99½ p. 100 Co.
4 Do.	do. 1842-43 .. Rs. 99½ do.

PRICES OF BULLION.

Sovereigns, each	Rs. 10½ noml.
Bank of England Notes, per £	10½ noml.
Spanish Dollars, per 100	240
German Crowns	222
Sycee Silver, per 100 tolas	104½ to 104½
Gold Leaf, per tola, range of quality	16 5-16ths
Gold Ingots, according to touch, per tola	15½

BANK SHARES.

Bombay Bank	Rs. 1,000 each	1,000 pd. up	33 p. ct. pm. sales
Oriental Bank	250 each	250 do.	80 sales.
Commercial Bank	1,000 each	500 do.	24
Agra Bank	500 each	500 do.	45 noml.
Bank of Madras	1,000 each	1,000 do.	10 p. ct. pm.
Apollo Press Com.	12,500 each	12,000 do.	20,000
Colaba Press Com.	7,000 each	7,000 do.	5,500
Bombay S. N. Com.	510 each	400 do.	58 p. ct. dis.
Gr. Ind. P. R. Com.	15 Rs. prem.	each share.	—Sales.

EXCHANGES.

On London—at
6 months' sight, per rupee, 2s. 1-13 16ths.	to 2s. 1¼d. For doc. bills.
6 .. .. 2s. 1d. to 2s. 1-1 16th.	For cred. bills.
On Calcutta at 60 days' sight, per 100....	97½
..... 30 days' sight .....	98½
..... at sight .....	99½
On China at 60 days' sight .....	Rs. 234

FREIGHTS.

Our quotations are, to London and Liverpool, 4l. to 4l. 5s.; China, per candy, Rs. 16½ to 17.

CEYLON.

THE LONDON MAIL of April 8 arrived at Point de Galle May 8, per Oriental. The Malla proceeded with the English Mail to Calcutta.—Ceylon news is to the 22nd instant. The Examiner announces a reduction made in the Ceylon rifle regiment from the 1st of the month, of a lieutenant-colonel, four captains, four first and four second lieutenants, and the difficulty of obtaining recruits to make up the full complement of the companies left.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTH.

MARSHALL, wife of J. W. s. at Colombo, March 29.

DEATHS.

CRISPEYN, J. at Trincomalee, aged 68, April 24.
PIERES, Walter V. s. of T. A. at Kandy, April 30.

CHINA.

THE LONDON MAIL of February 24 arrived at Hong Kong April 12, per Cadiz.

THE NEW GOVERNOR.—The P. & O. S. N. Co.'s steam ship Cadiz, Capt. Roberts, arrived on Wednesday evening, bringing on our new governor, Sir John Bowring, and family. Admiral Stirling also came on in the Cadiz as far as Singapore, to which place H. M. S. S. Rattler proceeded for his Excellency yesterday morning.—Friend of India, April 15.

BURNING OF THE SHIP "MARY SHEPHERD."—By the Spanish bark Sta. Lucia, which arrived from Manila on Wednesday, we received information of the burning at sea of the British ship Mary Shepherd. The steamer Tartar has brought on as passengers Captain Rapson and fifteen of the crew of this ill-fated vessel. The Mary Shepherd, of 625 tons, left the Downs on the 29th October, bound to Shanghai, with a cargo of steam coals, consigned to Messrs. Dent, Beale, & Co. On the 1st of November, in the channel, it came on to blow furiously—the following day increasing to a perfect hurricane. The vessel in the early part of the gale was discovered to be making much water forward, which was only checked on lightening her of some thirty tons of the cargo. After the gale had ceased, nothing particular occurred until the 10th ultimo, when, in latitude 5.57 deg. N., longitude 134 deg. E., steam was observed issuing from the hatchways, with a strong smell of gas. By pouring water down for a whole week this was somewhat abated. On the 18th of March it came on to blow hard, increasing to a heavy gale, with high seas, one of which, breaking on board, took the long boat out of the chocks and stove in the deck. Captain Rapson then deemed it prudent to bear up for Manila, and on the 20th succeeded in making the island of Catandues. After the gale, emanations of gas continued to increase. On breaking down the main hatchway, some of the beams were found to have been burnt right through. At daylight of the 21st, so unbearable was the smoke, that the ship was hoisted to, and the long-boat hoisted out, provisioned, and dropped astern, all ready for the too evident result. At noon of that day the island of St. Bernardino bore N. E., distant seven miles. The quarter boats were then lowered and provisioned, and all hands left the ship excepting Capt. Rapson and his officers, who remained until the spar deck was actually in flames. They then shoved off, Capt. Rapson, with five hands, and two French priests, passengers, in the gig—chief mate and seven hands in the cutter, second mate and ten men in the long boat. Ten minutes afterwards the sails and masts were all in flames, and in ten minutes more the vessel could not be seen for smoke issuing from the hull. The island of Capul at this juncture bore S.W., distant 12 miles. The gig and cutter's crews, after pulling twenty hours, landed on the south point of Luzon, where the unfortunates rested for twenty-four hours. Nothing being seen of the long boat, they then proceeded on to a place called Pareña, where they arrived on the 23rd, and sold the boats for Dolls. 100, with which sum they paid passages in a schooner to Manila, where they arrived safe on the 29th ult. On the 4th instant, the second mate and long boat's crew came in there too, having sold their boat at a place called Putaco for Dolls. 35. Capt. Rapson speaks in high terms of the kindness accorded to him and his crew by Capt. Caldbeck and the officers of the Tartar.—F. of C. April 15.

LOSS OF THE "DUMFRIES," FROM SHANGHAI.—We have again to report the loss of a British ship, and, what is of more interest to British tea-dealers, the destruction of upwards of 500,000 pounds of "the herb that cheers but not inebriates." The ship to which we refer is the Dumfries, 468 tons, Morris master, despatched from Shanghai, by Messrs. Shaw, Bland, and Co., on the 3rd instant, bound to Liverpool. The Dumfries, after leaving Shanghai, appears to have made a fair run up to Monday, the 10th inst., at noon, of which day the latitude by observation of the sun was found to be 26 deg. 34 min. N., long. 121 deg. 56 min.; wind about E.N.E., moderate. From that period the weather was generally thick and hazy, with rain; sun obscured throughout; wind strong at N.E. At noon of Tuesday, the 11th, the latitude by account was 24 deg. 56 min. N. long. 120 deg. 7 min. E.; course steered S.W. till eight p.m. when, supposing the Northern Pescadores bore about S.E. by E. distant 25 miles—the breeze having increased to a strong gale with heavy sea, hauled up to S.W. by W. so intending to run till midnight. At about 8.45 p.m. land was discerned on the port bow, and the helm being ported brought the ship's head N.W. by N.—Breakers were then seen on the lee beam and right ahead. Tried to say, but sea being heavy missed stays, and almost immediately struck on a reef, over which, striking heavily, the Dumfries passed into deep water, with loss of rudder. On sounding the well six feet of water was discovered, and ten minutes afterwards as much as twelve feet. Finding the ship sinking fast, with great difficulty cleared away the launch, into which all hands proceeded, and succeeded in getting clear of the ship.—Friend of China, April 15.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS.

COLLISION BETWEEN THE IMPERIALISTS AND THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN NAVAL FORCES.

British Consulate, Shanghai, April 5, 1854.—A continued succession of outrages on the part of the imperial levies occupying the camps in the close vicinity of the foreign settlement, has long been a source of extreme anxiety to all who felt in any degree responsible for the security of life and property in the location. Unfortunately the much-tried forbearance of individuals, and the reluctance of the civil and military authorities of the three treaty powers to involve their respective countries in acts of hostility towards either of the belligerents in the civil war, have equally failed to avert the dangers which menaced the foreign community. An open rupture with the imperialist soldiers has at length taken place, and the Chinese authorities have long declared their inability to exercise any efficient control over them. From that quarter, therefore, little assistance is to be looked for in the endeavour to apply a remedy to a state of things altogether unprecedented.

On the 3rd instant, it appears that between the hours of three and five o'clock p.m. several of the Chinese soldiers proceeded into a building in progress of erection by a British merchant, for the purpose of robbery; and proceeded to plunder the materials. When desired to desist by the proprietor who had been called to the spot, they turned upon him, and another party in his company, with drawn swords; and were not beaten off until two pistol shots fired in self-defence had taken effect. Within the next two hours no less than three several parties were attacked by armed men in different directions, and one British subject was severely wounded. Upon a small guard being turned out for the protection of those so unexpectedly put in peril of their lives, it was fired into by a considerable body of the soldiery whom they found within our limits.

The appeal thus made to force, left no alternative but to call upon the senior naval officer to take such measures as he deemed requisite for the protection of life and the security of the settlement; and the result has been the destruction, by the combined naval forces of the United States and Great Britain, of all the encampments in the close vicinity of the race-course and main road within the limits.

The annexed correspondence with the consular representatives of foreign powers at Shanghai will afford some further information on the present critical state of affairs, and H.B.M.'s Consul has only to add at present, that while he trusts British subjects feel confident every effort will be made in concert with the senior naval officer to afford the most efficient protection in their power, and timely warning of any danger they cannot wholly avert—it is doubly incumbent upon his countrymen to be prudent in avoiding all fresh cause of complication in the existing differences with the Chinese soldiery and their authorities. In the event of any hostile operations by the naval forces taking place, however, British subjects, not enrolled in the volunteer corps, are especially enjoined, if they persist in risking themselves by proceeding to the spot with arms, to fall in with the rear of the regular armed force, and take the orders of the commanding officer, remembering that this is by military law the absolute condition of all mingling with organized troops on active service, and one very essential to the safety of both the amateurs and the regular force.

H.M.'s Consul has reason to hope, however, that no further hostilities will take place. He is in communication with Keih, the judge and chief provisional authority on the spot, and he trusts the result of the late events will be greater security to the whole foreign Community than they have enjoyed for many months.

RUTHERFORD ALCOCK,
H. B. M.'s Consul.

To the British Community, Shanghai.

British Consulate, Shanghai, 5th April, 1854.—Gentlemen,—It is no doubt already known to you that yesterday afternoon, men from the Imperial camp penetrated into the settlement in various directions, attacking indiscriminately the foreigners whom they met. As these outrages, however, and the threatened danger to the whole foreign community have necessitated energetic measures on the part of the senior naval officer of H. M.'s ships here, in conjunction with the commander of the U.S. sloop Plymouth, and we are for the time being in a state of open hostility with the Imperial levies, who appear to be little, if at all, under the control of their officers, it seems desirable that the consular representatives of foreign powers at this port should be in communication, with a view to their acting in concert throughout the present crisis in defence of a common interest, I therefore take the earliest opportunity afforded me of addressing you on the subject.

You may possibly be aware that on a small guard hastening towards the riding course, on the alarm being given, they found it in possession of Imperialist soldiers from the adjoining camps, who appear to have been firing indiscriminately upon passers-by; and the guard as it approached was received at once by a discharge of musketry. Nor was it until the arrival of strong reinforcements promptly landed from the ships of war that they seemed disposed to renounce their efforts to penetrate in a body into the settlement.

I consider the fact of their original advance towards the settlement, and continued effort to effect their purpose after they were driven back, connected with the previous attacks made upon several parties all in quick succession,—to be conclusive evidence that nothing but the presence of a very considerable armed force from the British and American men-of-war, and the determined measure which followed, of taking and destroying one of the camps from whence the aggressors had sallied, prevented the immediate invasion of the settlement with the most mischievous intent. And keeping in view that in the preliminary attack upon isolated individuals there had been bloodshed,—two Chinese soldiers having been wounded, and one British civilian very severely, in several places; that the camps resting upon the edge of the racecourse, where large numbers of the lawless rabble beleaguering the city under the imperial authority, are permanently located, have been a constant, and latterly an increasing and serious, source of danger to the occupants of the foreign settlement,—it became obvious that without their removal from the immediate proximity there could no longer be any security. In this view I had the satisfaction to find the consuls of France and the United States, with whom I had some brief communication, entirely concurred, as did the officers in command of the British and American squadrons on the station; and I accordingly sent to the chief Chinese authority here, Keih, provisional judge and special commissioner, requesting him to give immediate orders for their removal; and as I conceived there was danger of further bloodshed in every hour's delay, a fixed period was named, after which if the operation had not commenced, other measures, it was intimated, would be taken to attain this end, as a duty imposed upon foreigners in self-defence; and in the meantime he was further informed the British senior naval officer would take and hold possession of the Imperial fleet as a security against any further acts of aggression on the part of the soldiery. To save time, this requisition for the immediate removal of the camps adjoining the race-course was sent in a brief private, or rather a semi-official note, while the longer official communication, recapitulating the whole of the circumstances, could only be despatched at a late hour to-day. Copies of both these, Nos. 1 to 4, and a letter from Woo Taontae, received on the evening of the 3rd, admitting the criminal conduct of the soldiery, I beg to forward for your information, together with the provisional judge's negative reply to the first. After the receipt of this answer, having informed the senior naval officer, Captain O'Callaghan, that I had no longer any reason to expect steps would be taken for the peaceable removal of the camps, that officer, in concert with Captain Kelly, commanding the U.S. sloop Plymouth, and the corps of Shanghai Volunteers, moved on to occupy them.

In this service several casualties unfortunately occurred; the more deeply to be deplored since, even after the lawless violence of the undisciplined levies had placed the settlement and all life and property within it in peril, it was in the power of the Chinese authorities, I conceive, to have applied an easy remedy by ordering the troops peaceably to remove the encampments, and take up another position at a safer distance; yet one equally serviceable as regarded the prosecution of the siege. The only consolation is to be found in the conviction, which the resistance made by the Chinese soldiers, and the refusal of their officers to give any order to avoid bloodshed, materially tend to confirm, that after the events of yesterday there was no safety for the settlement if these encampments were allowed to remain; and that however deplorable the sacrifices which their compulsory removal has entailed, they are small, compared to those which awaited the whole community, had any hesitation been shown in proving our determination to put a stop to unprovoked aggression of so dangerous a character.

We can only hope that this may be the last effort the armed force will be called upon by a stern necessity to make for the protection of the community; but if it should unfortunately prove otherwise, I am satisfied that under existing circumstances in China, there is ~~not~~ to be risked and lost by a firm and unhesitating resistance, whether the attacking party be insurgents or imperialists, than must inevitably be incurred by any more temporizing or timid policy; and it will afford me great satisfaction if in this view I am borne out by the concurrent opinions of my colleagues.—I have the honor to be, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant.

RUTHERFORD ALCOCK,
H. B. M.'s Consul.

T. C. BEALE, Esq.—H. M. F. M.'s Consul and Vice Consul for the Netherlands.

WM. HOGG, Esq.—Hamburg Consol.

EDW. CUNNINGHAM, Esq.—Consul for Sweden and Norway.

R. C. MURPHY, Esq.—Consul U. S. A.

B. EDEN, Esq.—H. I. M.'s Consul ad interim.

D. O. KING, Esq.—H. P. M.'s Vice Consul.

LIST OF KILLED AND WOUNDED IN ATTACK OF 4TH OF APRIL.

H. M. steamer Encounter.

Lieut. N. Dew, slightly.

M. Chapman, naval cadet, ditto.

Ship's carpenter, killed.

H. M. brig Grecian.

H. Lindsay, midshipman, a severe contusion.

Capt. Foretop, very severely.

John Budge, ditto.

Henry Wilcox, quarter-master, do.

Henry Nicoll, do.

In. Little, Asst. surgeon, slightly.

U. S. sloop Plymouth.

Geo. M'Corkle, killed, four wounded, most of them severely.

Shanghai Volunteers.

Mr. J. E. Brine, mortal, brain protruding.

Mr. Gray, shot in both legs, thigh amputated.

Capt. Pearson, American merchant ship Rose Standish, very severely wounded.

Total, 2 killed, 16 wounded.

Guns found mounted in camps—2 twelve, 4 six, and 4 eight pounders, and a number of wall pieces.

Force engaged, about 300.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

APRIL 13. Clarita, Gonzales, Manila.—15. Tartar, Calabreck, Southampton; Maggie, Drewett, Launceston; Tinto, Jones, London.—18. Hurkaru, Crome, Melbourne.—20. Nova Zembla, Jansen, Hartlepool.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Cadiz.—Sir John Bowring, Lady Bowring, two Misses Bowring, Mr. Bowring, Mr. Lane, Mr. O. P. Roberts, and Dr. and Mr. Winchester.

Per Eamont.—Mr. Browning.

Per Clarita.—Mr. James McCormick.

Per Tartar (Apr. 15), from SOUTHAMPTON.—Capt. Rapson.

Per steamer L. M. Wood.—Messrs. Maitland, Sturges, Bowman, S.

Maitland, Endicott, Odell, and Deacon.

Per Hurkaru (April 18), from MELBOURNE.—Mrs. Crowe and children.

Per steamer Jorge Juan.—Messrs. Green, Tilson, Hoven, Montford, Abraham, Coste, and Bavando.

DEPARTURES.

APRIL 12. Ningpo, Billings, Port Phillip.—14. Rattler, Mellersh, Singapore; Aristides, Barclay, Australia.—15. Formosa, Trenger, Calcutta.—17. Rose Kilis, Loney, London.—19. Canton, Coldbeck, Calcutta.—20. Ocean Pride, Sullivan, Melbourne.—22. Cadiz, —, Point de Galle.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Formosa.—Sir J. G. Bonham, Bart.

Per Susquehanna.—H. E. Mr. M'Lane, U.S. Commissioner.

Per Cadiz, for SOUTHAMPTON.—Messrs. Edward Coates, M'Farlane, Tilson, Mrs. Sullivan and child. For ALEXANDRIA.—Messrs. Maitland, E. Coste, G. Barnett, M. Baranda.

COMMERCIAL.

China, April 22, 1854.

EXCHANGES AND BULLION.

On England, Bills, 5s. 3d.; but little doing.

On India Company's Accepted, Rs. 247 to 248.

Syce, 2½ to 3 per cent. prem.

Gold, 21 to 10 doll. per tael.

Carolus Dollars, 17 per cent. prem.

FREIGHTS.

To London, £7. 10s. To the United States, 18 dolls.

SCINDE.

KURRACHEE AND ITS TRADE.

Mr. Frere's fair at Kurrachee will succeed. The second season has expired, and the result is such as to justify the highest expectations for the future. The residents of Kurrachee, it is true, are disappointed, but the feeling proceeds rather from overstrained anticipation than from any reasonable source. They expected too much. Forgetful alike of the circumstances of Scinde, and the peculiar character of Asiatics, they hoped to see a vast concourse of traders all arriving at once, all dealing in the open air, and in short, fulfilling the popular idea of a great and wealthy fair. They were disappointed; Asiatic merchants, who are always unpunctual, were not likely to adhere to the fixed period when they could arrive at their destination only after a march of more than 500 miles. The woolstaplers of Khorasan, the horse-dealers of Persia, and the fruit-sellers of Afghanistan, had all their own time for starting, which had been their time for centuries, and which was not to be abandoned without grave and sufficient cause. The arrivals, therefore, instead of being confined to sixty days, were extended over a period of nearly five months, and all the picturesqueness of the affair was at once destroyed. Moreover, the arrivals were all from one side. The dignified Bombay merchants refused, or declined to take any notice of the assemblage, and the piece-goods, for which the traders of Central Asia were anxiously expectant, were not forthcoming. Nevertheless, the fair was not a failure. The proclamation has made its way throughout the North-Western Provinces, and merchants who attended from Delhi acknowledged that it had been their principal inducement. Horse-dealers for the first time came in from Bunshur on the Persian Gulf, and they also acknowledged that it was the fair which had tempted them to a novel venture. The same effect was produced in Khandahar, and Afghanistan, or rather would have been, but for a rumour which was assiduously disseminated by the rulers of those countries. The fair, said they, was a trick. The proclamation had been issued to cover an assemblage of troops to invade their territories. The treachery suspected was so thoroughly in consonance with oriental notions of honour and good faith, that the assertion was very generally believed. Nevertheless, great numbers of merchants took advantage of the opportunity. They hoped to obtain piece goods equal to those of Russia without going to Bombay. This last journey they detest. The trip by steamer sucks away their profits, and like Asiatics in general, and men of the interior in particular, they detest the sea. The voyage takes fourteen per cent. from their profits, and it makes them wretchedly sick, and to avoid these two evils, they would put up with many serious inconveniences. Influenced by these motives, they brought somewhat large supplies of goods. The import of wool from Khorasan was more than double that of the preceding season, and that of oil, though of much less importance, increased nine fold. The total import to the fair only was

	1852-53	1853-54
Wool .. ..	Rs. 5,12,995	Rs. 7,67,426
Miscellaneous .. ..	1,34,134	1,56,945
	6,47,429	9,21,371

The articles comprised under the head miscellaneous, include asafoetida, raisins, carpets, beads, caps, almonds, silver-thread, socks, tobacco, fruits, rings, and horses from Khorasan; honey, wax, seeds, date-leaves, oil, oil-cakes, gums, mats, cotton seeds, skins, bags, and an intoxicating preparation of hemp from other parts of Central Asia.

How much of this increase is attributable to the fair, and how much to other circumstances, it is impossible to decide, but the merchants themselves express but one opinion. They declare, that the fair must succeed if English piece goods can be obtained at Kurrachee. Their excessive reluctance to proceed beyond that point has also another cause. They are limited as to time, and roads there are none. It is true Mr. Frere has begun to construct commercial roads in Scinde, but he has no power to coerce the half savage chiefs beyond the borders, whose territories are traversed by the merchants, who would not know a good road if they saw one, and who do not want inlets into their territories, over which enemies may march. Their imperfect ideas of political economy, moreover, disturb trade. The merchants of Khorasan have to cross seven distinct countries, and of course pay seven distinct and separate transit duties. On each camel load they pay—

	Per cent. on value.	Actual amount.
Kandahar, .. ..	50.	Rs. 30 0
Jungee Killoor .. ..	.83	0 8
Khelat .. ..	9.17	5 8
Soorah .. ..	.21	0 2
Kossdhar .. ..	.83	0 8
Seeman .. ..	.83	0 8
Marree .. ..	.83	0 8
Killeajah .. ..	.83	0 8
Shah Bilawal .. ..	3.75	2 0
	67.27	40 6

That trade survives at all under such circumstances is a fact far more surprising than its recent and rapid increase. Nevertheless, the merchants make money. They have a boundless population behind them, with a craving for Manchester goods, and they say themselves, that if they could obtain them at Kurrachee, there would be scarcely a limit to the purchases.

Mr. Frere, we believe, contemplates still further improvements in his system. Goods are to be admitted in bond, the duty levied after they are sold, and the unsold portion permitted to return across the frontier untaxed. A brick serai is to be erected at Kurrachee for the Afghans, and various other arrangements introduced in accordance with the plan of the large continental fairs. The great fair of Novogorod, the largest in the world, would probably be the best exemplar. The sine qua non, however, without which roads and serais, harbour improvements and official notices, will alike be unsuccessful, is the import of European goods direct from England. This object, we believe, may be accomplished. Manchester, already alive to the importance of Kurrachee, will receive a still greater stimulus from the most recent statistics. They will remove at once that great bugbear, a dread of the absence of customers. Kurrachee is not only the entrepot of Scinde and the Panjab, but the place nearest of access for Mekran, the Persian Gulf, and parts of the Arabian sea. Omitting, however, the Panjab, and the countries beyond, omitting all considerations of the increased demand created by the accessibility of Kurrachee as compared with Bombay, the actual present demand would not be less than Rupees.

Cutch .. ..	3,50,000
Mekran .. ..	5,00,000
The Gulfs .. ..	5,00,000
Scinde .. ..	12,00,000
	25,00,000

These estimates are not guesses. They are based on minute inquiry from the merchants of the districts named, and will be confirmed by all who remark the geographical position of Kurrachee. They are, in fact, purposely understated, as will be evident when it is remembered that these markets already absorb European goods via Bombay to the extent—

	Rupees.
Cutch and Kattiwar of .. ..	25,00,000
Mekran .. ..	1,10,000
The Gulfs .. ..	70,43,000
Scinde .. ..	48,51,000
Total .. ..	1,45,04,000

The produce of the country will pay for these imports. The resources of Scinde, though not yet "developed," are increasing, and already the country can furnish on demand wool to the value of thirteen lacs, seeds to the extent of two lacs and a half, indigo some two lacs, saltpetre, hides, and tallow, and in all these articles, the two last perhaps excepted, it is demand only that is required to develop a production without limit. Surely this is enough to encourage the enterprise of at least a single English firm, and nothing further is required. With the direct communication once established, the prosperity of Kurrachee is sufficiently secure. Even under its present disadvantages, with its caravans taxed all the imposts almost equal the prime cost, without English capital, without markets, and with either indifference or opposition from Bombay, its trade grows at the rate of fifteen per cent. a year.—Friend of India.

JAPAN.

THE AMERICANS IN JAPAN.

It is three years since we wrote, "among the signs of the times, we think we can discern in the future a probability of the opening of the great empires, China and Japan, to Anglo-Saxon energy and Anglo-Saxon commerce." The first half of the prediction remains to be accomplished. The second has been fulfilled. The Americans have obtained their treaty, and the last stronghold of exclusivism has been broken down. Commodore Perry, it will be remembered, promised the Japanese to return in six months for the answer of the emperor to his demand for a commercial treaty. The time granted was considerable, and no effort was spared to employ the delay thus obtained to divert the Americans from their purpose. A host of rumours were disseminated, every one of which, we believe, if the subject were worthy of the effort, might be traced to the Dutch Government of Java. That Government is the only one in Asia which could suffer from American success.

It is also the only one whose conduct has proved, that it is capable of such consummate selfishness. Be that as it may, the king of the Netherlands talked nonsense about offers of mediation. Dutch journals teemed with accounts of the preparations in Japan. The emperor was determined to maintain his hereditary policy, and to resist by force. The harbours were strongly fortified. Batteries mounted with countless cannon, protected all the coasts. A million of men were under arms. The warlike mountaineers of the interior had been enlisted, and the approach of the Susquehanna would be announced from point to point by flaming beacons. The device failed. Americans are not easily frightened, and the next attempt was to enlist their sympathies. The secular emperor was dead. Japanese etiquette requires a twelvemonth's mourning, and it was declared that during that period they would enter into no negotiations. This also proved abortive. As a last resort, advantage was taken of the presence of a Russian squadron.

It was asserted that "Russian diplomacy" had triumphed, that the Americans were foiled, and that a special treaty had been concluded with the only power which has interests hostile to those of Japan. Undeterred by all these rumours, Commodore Perry kept his word. He had quitted Jeddo at the end of July. He re-appeared on the 13th February, and found that the policy of exclusion had been abandoned, that the million of men existed only in Dutch imaginations, that the Russian demand had met with a curt refusal, and that the guns were wooden "quakers." He was most cordially received. The Americans with their vessels at anchor nine miles from Jeddo, and their boats sounding within three miles of the wharves, continued for three weeks in frank and friendly intercourse with the Japanese. The time was occupied in a manner cautiously characteristic of both races. The Japan commissioners, among whom were three members of the Aristocratic Council of Seven, which really governs the islands, received and paid ceremonial visits, wandered over the ships, and permitted artisans to measure the Macedonian.

The Americans took possession of a plot of ground, put up their miniature railroad, and arranged the electric telegraph, the wires of which are to be immediately extended to the capital. At length, on the 15th of March, the reply of the emperor was received, and after a few more interviews, the basis of a commercial treaty was laid down. The precise terms of this agreement have not yet transpired, but sufficient is known to acquaint Europe with the result. Any two ports may be selected by the Americans for an open trade, the Japanese only suggesting Matsmai and Sho-di-ma. The former is the most southerly point of the island of Jesso, and commands the straits of the same name. A coaling station is also to be selected, and American vessels supplied with coals from the mines in the interior. Even at the last moment, the Japanese hesitated. They desired a delay of a year before the coal depôt should be conceded, and of five years before the trade should be commenced.

The Commodore remained firm. The coal depôt must be opened at once, and the trade in 1855, and the representatives of the most exclusive court in Asia, yielded to the demands of their formidable friend. The remainder of the stipulations, whatever they may be, are of comparatively trivial importance. Commodore Perry has obtained the two objects which were of national interest. The coaling station, necessary to the free communication between San Francisco and Shanghai, is secured. The trade of a country rich with every natural advantage, and with the industry of thirty millions of peaceful Japanese, is thrown open to the world. The present treaty, it is true, concerns the Americans alone, but the Japanese have expressed their willingness to enter into similar engagements with any other power.

There are many points of view from which these facts may well be regarded as of almost absorbing interest. We select but two. The first is general to the world, the second peculiar to ourselves, as the most successful of commercial nations. There now remains upon earth no nation which is absolutely cut off from communion with the fresh energy of Europe. There are, it is true, many which no European footstep has ever yet approached. The interior of China, and the countries of Central Africa, parts of Australia, and whole islands in the Eastern Archipelago, still offer food for speculation, and a field for the Geographical Society. There are islands still inaccessible, from the ferocity of the barbarians whom we suffer to misuse them. There are territories where the features of nature are upon so vast a scale, that the Leichardts and Vogels turn aside to investigations productive of more immediate result. The Papuans still own New Guinea, as a panther owns its den, and the Gualche is still the only being acquainted with the valleys of the Amazon and the Parana. Partial exclusiveness is also in places sedulously maintained. The Dutch detest interlopers in their settlements in the Archipelago, but their detestation is shown only by monopolies, passports, and an occasional act of judicial oppression. The Chinese Government excludes strangers from the interior, but Fortune, Huc, and Gabet penetrated the barrier, and the Manchoo dynasty is itself upon the point of exclusion. The Russian court needs no spies upon the Obi, but its own agents are Europeans, and grapes are eaten, and polkas danced, in the house of the governor of Tobolsk. There is in fact no nation remaining with whom segregation from Europe is a cardinal rule of policy, no one which by law prohibits external commerce, or which regards a liberal curiosity as a state offence. That single fact would of itself justify the world's interest in this expedition, and the length of our remarks.

Nevertheless it is of little importance when compared to the next. The expedition will have borne good fruit, if it teaches Englishmen to understand the unswerving pertinacity with which Americans pursue a great design. It is five years since this project first assumed a tangible shape. It is four since it became a confirmed idea of the American people. It has been exposed to all kinds of interruptions, the death of the president who sanctioned it, and the recall of the officer appointed to command. It was at first too weak. When it was strengthened, sailors were not to be tempted from the search for Californian gold. When sailors were obtained, the Nova Scotians and Lord Malmesbury fancied they had a right to a monopoly of cod. Yet the Government and the people never abandoned for an hour the original design. They fought on against social difficulties, party feuds, and political obstacles, with that dogged perseverance of which John Bull is too apt to fancy he possesses a monopoly. The spirit of the nation animated its agents. Without bluster or bravado, Commodore Perry held quietly on to his first expressed design.

Etiquette is omnipotent in Japan. He broke it. Subterfuge is the weapon of all Oriental courts, that of Jeddo included. Subterfuge was lost on a man who had only one purpose, and an iron determination to carry it into effect. Three separate rumours were circulated and believed, either of which would, if true, have defeated the object of the expedition. They were contemptuously disregarded. Commodore Perry took up his anchorage where he pleased, delivered his message in his own way, granted as long an interval as he thought fit, sailed back when the time was expired, overruled delay, the last refuge of conscious weakness, and finally dictated his own terms. Throughout he has acted with a judgment, energy, and tenacity—our readers will pardon the barbarism—which should strengthen, if it cannot increase his reputation among his countrymen. The perseverance displayed by his government and himself in a portion of their plan, will be displayed in carrying out the remainder. To open a communication with Japan, was one of the political necessities of the United States. It was part of the great American project for turning the commerce of Asia from London to New York. Merchants who are determined to regard only the business of the day have ridiculed the scheme, because of the delays which have intervened between the idea and its completion. Similar delays did not prevent Commodore Perry from dictating a treaty in the harbour of Jeddo. With the Pacific railway a matter of contracts, with California becoming a maritime power, with a coaling depot in Japan, and with a general war to distract Europe, that plan is hastening to completion. In less than five years Shanghai will be thirty days distant from New York. For the fifth time, we warn the merchants of London, that that result will inflict a greater blow on the commercial prosperity of England than the loss of a dozen colonies.—Friend of India.

CONSTABLES' STAVES AND GENTLEMEN'S WIVES.—As statistics seem to be a popular study just at present, we have undertaken the trouble to read upon the subject, and have set our reporter to work to gather figures and facts where he can. People seem fond of treating the Company's Mofussil Courts by the rule of measurement; it is but fair to apply a similar gauge to the Queen's Courts. Now the other day a Lieut. Temple, of the 60th Rifles, was fined by the magistrate Rs. 15 (1*l.* 10*s.*) for making away with a native constable's staff,—another lieutenant having been fined, a short time previous, Rs. 6,000 (600*l.*) for taking away an English gentleman's wife. It follows, therefore, that 400 wooden staves are equal in value to one wife—under the rule of the Supreme Court. This is a curious statistical fact, which we recommend bachelors and benedicts, maids and wives, one and all, to make a note of.—Bombay Telegraph.

SALUTES AT UNSEASONABLE HOURS.—Yesterday, shortly before noon, there was a mighty booming of big guns, and from the number fired we apprehended it must have been a double salute, from the steam-frigate Zenobia and the ramparts of Fort William, to announce Sir John Cheape's quitting the vessel and landing at the ghaut. We do not recognize any actual necessity for firing salutes at all on a Sunday, and we certainly think it is far from decorous to fire them during the hours of divine service, as the natural consequence must be to interrupt the devotions of all people in church, and lead the thoughts of many to speculations as to what the salute can be fired for.—Bengal Hurkaru.

* * * Should any delay or irregularity occur in supplying this paper, a communication of the fact to the Publishers will insure a remedy.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL,

LONDON.

WEDNESDAY, June 14, 1854.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE PUNJAB.

ON the administration of the Punjab during the first two years after its annexation, years recognised in modern Indian chronology as 1849-50 and 1850-51, a very interesting report has been issued,—so interesting, indeed, that we should feel it to be unjust to our readers to withhold from them all knowledge of its contents.

It is necessary to premise that the territory treated of in the body of the Report does not embrace the whole of the Punjab in the sense in which geographers usually understand the word, nor the whole of the British acquisitions in that quarter; but only that part of the country which is known to Indian functionaries as the "Punjab proper," and which comprehends four only of the five doabs; it being the portion of the Seikh kingdom annexed in March, 1849, that previously acquired being excluded. Thus, by an arrangement which the fastidious may perhaps be inclined to consider as partaking of a somewhat Hibernian character, the latter conquest takes precedence of the earlier: this, however, is of little moment, and need not interrupt our pen for any long space of time.

The country thus more recently wrested from barbarism, and by the conquerors denominated the "Punjab proper," is certainly of sufficient extent and importance to warrant the privilege of a separate report being conceded to it. The attempt to illustrate the shape of a country by reference to any mathematical figure is seldom very happy; but the "Punjab proper" suggests some notion of a triangle, the apex pointing southward. Its greatest length, from south to north, is 344 miles; its greatest breadth, from west to east, 293. This, of course, varies considerably, as will be seen that it necessarily must from the figure to which it bears some resemblance; but the superficial area is said to be about 54,000 square miles. Within this space may be found almost every conceivable variety of circumstances which can affect the physical aspect of a country. Some tracts would lead a casual observer of that part of the territory to conclude that he had lighted on the garden of India; but a very short journey would bring him to scenes of sterility and barrenness from which he would be but too glad to escape. From the mountains descend rivulets which within a limited space spread fertility and abundance, while on either side of the great rivers from which the country derives its name rich harvests, two in the year, reward the labours of the husbandman and delight the eye of the traveller with the sight of thriving villages and happy people. No such prospects await the adventurous traveller who threads the mazes of the interior of the doabs. The country is for the most part waste, while the people are in the Report, somewhat delicately, stated to be semi-barbarous: perhaps the qualifying prefix might be safely omitted. Yet there is evidence to show that the present state of these parts of the country did not always prevail. The remains of ruined cities, villages, temples, tanks, wells, and watercourses attest the existence, in some former period, of a very different measure of cultivation and a very different condition of society; and even now these wastes are not unproductive of the means of supplying some of the wants of the more civilized parts of the country. They afford firewood to the towns, cities, and British cantonments; for the horse they produce abundance of grass; and minister to the service of man by rearing and sustaining numerous herds and flocks of the most useful animals,—neat cattle, buffaloes, sheep, goats, and camels. It would thus seem that no part of the territory is absolutely unprofitable. The want of a good supply of timber is, however, deeply felt. But the operations of agriculture are said to be well conducted; manure is used, and rotation of crops practised; irrigation is also resorted to. Wheat and maize are raised of good quality, and in quantities sufficient not only to supply the home demand, but to leave some surplus for foreign markets. Sugar-cane is universally grown, indigo in certain districts; and both are exported. The indigenous manufactures are chiefly silk and wool; skilful workmen in the handicraft arts which give form and value to wood and iron are also found, and articles of all the above-named materials are exported in a greater or less degree. British cotton and piece-goods, it scarcely need be said, constitute an important branch of the imports of the Punjab; the shawls and woollens of Cashmere and the dried fruits and furs of Afghanistan also deserve mention; but far more deserving of notice is the extraordinary race of merchants by whom the operations of trade are carried on. These men, whose habits were, however, previously well known, traverse a large part of Asia, exchanging the productions of Tartary, Cabul, and Thibet for the commodities of Europe, at the quays of Calcutta. They travel in large companies, and are armed to the teeth, both which conditions are absolutely necessary to the successful exercise of their vocation; for they pass defiles tenanted by the most ferocious tribes, with whom they constantly wage fierce and bloody conflict. What could be said of these merchants by persons in the habit of uttering gentle platitudes on "the peaceful operations of commerce" it is not easy to conjecture, any more than how a Manchester or Birmingham Quaker would enjoy this sort of trading.

When the Punjab proper had been conquered by the power of the British arms, the process of formal annexation was an easy one. A few strokes of the pen and the business was done. But the actual annexation—the substitution of law and order in place of anarchy and misrule, the reduction of immense masses of violent men to peace and obedience, was a very different operation. Under Runjeet Singh they had been somewhat held in check; but the only object of the old tyrant was that which is alone pursued by most Eastern princes, the collection of taxes. The years of disorder which succeeded his death had made matters far worse for those who were subsequently to undertake the administration of affairs, and the Board appointed to this arduous duty, as well as the executive staff under it, found, as indeed must have been anticipated, that the labours before them were Herculean. They were not, however, men to shrink from their work, or to pass over it perfunctorily. Their principle of action was this,—such and such things are to be done, and they must be done.

The first thing to be taken in hand was to effect a clearance, as far as might be, of all that was likely to impede the projected measures of amelioration. A proclamation for disarming the Sikh soldiery was promulgated very generally, and a muster for this purpose took place. Here the greater part were paid off and disbanded. Such was the awe imposed by the British name, that this operation was effected almost without a murmur. The discharged men were, however, consoled with gratuities or pensions; and it is honourable to our national character that the like liberality was extended to the infirm and superannuated. Some of the men who appeared most eligible were taken into the British service. The great preliminary measure having been effected, there was time to pursue the course of establishing and improving, which the Commissioners had before them. The defence of the frontier was still however to be provided for, and arrangements, the details of which would not be of much general interest, were forthwith made for the purpose. It may suffice to mention that the orders of Government were directed to—I. The formation of posts along the entire frontier line.—II. The construction or repair of frontier forts.—III. The armament and garrison of such places of defence.—IV. The construction of roads.—V. The aggregate amount of troops requisite for the secure defence of the whole frontier. VI. The establishment of cantonments for the troops,—and that these orders were carried out.

We have hitherto done little more than touch the border of this valuable report, but we shall return to it hereafter.

AUGMENTATION OF ENGINEER CORPS IN INDIA.

THIS subject, there is reason to believe, has been discussed between the Indian and the Home Governments for some time past. It has, indeed, long been obvious that important changes were in contemplation. Supernumeraries, in extraordinary numbers, have been sent out; and this circumstance, together with the absolute necessity for an increase of engineer officers to supply the wants of the public service in the department of public works, clearly portended what is now understood to have come to pass. A battalion is to be added to the corps of engineers at each of the presidencies forthwith, the old battalions are each to be strengthened by the addition of one captain and one subaltern, and it is, we believe, intended that an increased number of cadets, as compared with former years, shall henceforth be assigned to this branch of the service. These arrangements will, we are sure, give universal satisfaction. At a time when the whole world is up and stirring, it will not do for England alone to be asleep; and we may rejoice on the decision which has taken place to reinforce and maintain in increased strength, at all the presidencies, so valuable a corps as the engineers. It is sufficient to announce the fact, with the gratifying accompaniment, that what is to be done will be done efficiently and at once. This is as it should be.

SIR JAMES COSMO MELVILL, K.C.B.

ON Monday last the Queen held an investiture of the most honourable Order of the Bath, at Buckingham Palace. Among those formally invested by her Majesty with the ensigns of the Order was the Secretary to the East-India Company, Sir James Cosmo Melvill, whose selection for this distinguished mark of royal favour we some months ago announced to our readers.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

Cheltenham, 9th June, 1854.

SIR,—With reference to the protest on the part of certain of the subscribers to, and annuitants upon, the Bengal Military Fund against the recent proceedings of the Board of Management in Calcutta, as published in your paper of 11th January last, may I request the favour of your giving insertion to the accompanying reply of the Hon. Court of Directors to that document.

The annuitants and subscribers who were parties to the protest, whilst they will deeply regret the decision the Court has come to respecting the increase of our contributions, and the mode of paying our annuitants residing in Europe, will not fail to observe that as the proposition suggested to the Court "of their assuming the sole and exclusive charge of the Institution" is not particularly adverted to in their reply, we may be permitted to hope that the deference which they have thought it right to pay to the opinions of the majority of the subscribers, who appear to have voted on the recent occasion, will, at no distant period, be extended to the almost unanimous manifestation of our wishes in favour of a measure upon which the future welfare and stability of the institution so evidently depend.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. SWINNEY.

East-India House, 6th June, 1854.

SIR,—I have laid before the Court of Directors of the East-India Company your letter dated the 14th April, inclosing a protest signed by a number of ladies who are annuitants of the Bengal Military Fund, and by several officers, members of that institution, against the measures which have recently been adopted by the Board of Management, particularly the reduction in the widows' pensions, and suggesting to the Court the advisability of their assuming the "sole and exclusive charge of the Institution."

In reply, I am commanded to state, that whilst the Court refrain from entering into a discussion of the several points indicated in your letter regarding the state and management of the Fund, they consider it proper to acquaint you, for the information of the parties to the protest, that they must decline to interfere with the measures which have been recently agreed to by a very large majority of subscribers who voted on the occasion for increasing the contributions to the Fund, and for paying the pensions of the widows residing in Europe, at the rate of exchange at which the remittances are made.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your most obedient humble servant,

To Lieut.-Gen. Swinney.

JAMES C. MELVILL.

EAST-INDIA COMPANY'S MILITARY SEMINARY, ADDISCOMBE.

A public examination of the gentlemen cadets educated at the East-India Company's Military Seminary took place, on the 8th instant, in the presence of the Chairman (Major Oliphant), the Deputy-Chairman (Elliot Maconaghten, Esq.), and several members of the Court of Directors. The following visitors were also present:—Prince Gholam Mahomed, Prince Feroze Shah (son and grandson of Tipoo Sultan); Lieutenant-Generals Sir J. Thackwell, G.C.B., Hunter, C.B., Boyd; Major-General Lewis, C.B., R.E. (Royal Military Academy); Colonels Jones, R.E., Hay, Leslie, C.B., Monteith Douglas, C.B., Hardinge, K.H., Whinnyates, C.B., K.H., Hearsey, C.B., Roberts, C.B., Downing, Whinnyates (Madras Artillery), Armstrong, Bonner, J. Alexander C.B. (Bengal Artillery), C. S. Reid; J. D. Tyers, Goodfellow; Majors Durand (Madras Engineers), A. Whish (Madras Artillery); Brigade-Major Bingham; Captains A. M'Kerlie, R.E., St. George Ord, R.E., F. Somerset, R.E., E. Wilnot, R.A., T. P. Waterman, Macdougall, Wingate (Engineers), Rivers (ditto), North (ditto), Lynch (Indian Navy), Smythe (Madras Engineers); Lieutenants J. H. Balmain, R. MacLagan (Bengal Engineers); Revs. E. Austin, Goode, G. Coles; Professors Narrien, F.R.S. (Royal Military College), S. H. Christie, F.R.S. (Royal Military Academy); Messrs. Dent, G. M. Raynsford, Binney Key, H. Wood, P. Melvill, Prideaux, Thomas Key, A. B. Warden, George Hankey, R. A. Heath, Aitken, Eade, Campbell, Thomason, R. J. Bagshaw, H. S. Montagu.

The number of cadets brought forward consisted of thirty-seven. Four were selected for the Engineers, viz.—

William Jeffreys
Clement Metcalfe Browne

Charles Thomas Haig
John Hills

Twenty-three for the Artillery, viz.—

David Ward
W. Fred. Fulford
C. Brodie Forman Penny
Harry N. D. Prendergast
John Hebblethwaite Moore
Billington Baines Boyd
Rawson Aislable
Charles Gilbert Robinson

George Grant Gordon
Charles George Reid
Penton Thompson
William Thomas Somerville
Robert Hawkins Pitt
Somerset Edward Townsend
William Home Brydon
John Hayes

Henry Charles Baskerville Tanner Frederick Edward Hadow
Charles Somner Sedley Taylor William Henry McCausland
Arthur Carey Francis Henry Thompson
Horace Seymour Kerr Pechell

And ten for the Infantry, viz.—

Bradenell Rogers Charles Matthew Griffith
George Anthony Aufrère Baker Francis William James Sewell
John Peter Harris William George Prole
William John Bell William Lumley Louis
Arthur Edmund Oakes Charles Douglas

After the reports had been read by Mr. T. R. Clarke, of the India House, the following prizes were distributed:—

First Class.

W. Jeffreys ..... { 1st Mathematics,
Military Surveying,
2d Good Conduct.
The Pollock Medal.

This young gentleman was unfortunately prevented by indisposition from attending to receive his prizes.

E. M. Browne ..... 2nd Hindustani.
C. T. Haig ..... 2nd Mathematics.
J. Hills ..... 1st Good Conduct.
D. Ward ..... French.

J. H. Moore ..... { 1st Fortification,
2nd Military Drawing,
1st Civil Drawing.
R. Aislabie ..... { 2nd Hindustani,
2nd Fortification,
H. C. B. Tanner ..... { 1st Military Drawing,
Latin.
H. Pechell ..... Latin.
W. T. Somerville ..... 2nd Civil Drawing.

The Chairman, on presenting Mr. Hills with the "sword," the long-established prize for good conduct, said: "In the name of the Court of Directors of the East-India Company, I present you with this sword. It is a reward conferred upon you for your honourable and distinguished conduct here. I hope it will ever remind you—and be you assured of the fact—that as in youth, so in riper years, good conduct will ever lead to distinction and eminence in the service."

Second Class.

Æ. R. R. Macdonell ..... { Mathematics,
Hindustani,
3rd Good Conduct,
E. Jones ..... { Fortification,
Military Surveying,
Drawing.
M. E. Eden ..... Civil Drawing.
H. J. G. Gordon ..... French.
H. R. Meiklejohn ..... Latin,
Geology.
W. J. D. Cairnes ..... 4th Good Conduct.

Third Class.

J. Bonus ..... { Fortification,
Military Drawing,
Civil Drawing,
Military Surveying.
C. A. Goodfellow ..... Hindustani.
G. Swinton ..... Mathematics.
H. Burra ..... Latin.
E. Gambier ..... French.

After the prizes were distributed the Chairman addressed the students. He said: "Although on several previous occasions we have had a greater number of cadets selected for the corps of engineers, yet the reports which have come from the Public Examiner, as well as that made by the Lieutenant-Governor of the College, are so satisfactory, that upon the whole I have great pleasure, in the name of the Directors of the East-India Company, in tendering to you my best thanks for your conduct during this term. Your laudable exertions to take advantage of the different studies pursued here are highly satisfactory to us. To those gentlemen who have been selected for the corps of engineers I would say, you are but at the beginning of your work. In fact, you have everything to learn, because as yet the foundation only is laid. But to all of you who may be qualified to serve I am happy to say there is no doubt your services will be required in India, and there is no doubt you will pass, if you be qualified, within the prescribed time. It is a service deserving of every exertion to obtain. I may add, that in India there is great room for engineers of talent, because now that peace has happily commenced, there has also commenced the greatest amount of public works which were ever before undertaken in that country. Therefore talented engineers are sure to find plenty of employment, and I hope that those gentlemen who go to Chatham to complete their studies will do their utmost to qualify themselves, not only in military but in civil engineering, which are there taught under Colonel Jones. I can speak from experience, for having been myself a cadet in this institution, I found that the knowledge which I acquired here and at Chatham served me in good stead through the whole of my career. (Applause.) We have lately heard by the Government mail of a remarkable work of engineering which has just been completed in India—the Ganges Canal, upwards of 900 miles in length, for the purposes of irrigation. I hope it will be the means of averting those famines which have hitherto frequently visited those parts of the country. The canal is a noble engineering work, and I hope all the cadets appointed to the artillery, who now hear me, will remember that this great work has been planned and carried out by an officer of the Bengal Artillery. (Applause.) I mention this to show that, though your lot has been cast in the military line, yet that will not debar you from more purely scientific works, if you are duly qualified. (Applause.) There is also the electric telegraph, which has been erected in an incredibly short space of time, between Calcutta and Agra, and in a few months more it will reach to Peshawar, to Bombay, and to Madras, thus securing instantaneous communication between all the presidencies of India. I may also mention another thing, to show that now, when competition is the order of the day, you must exert your talents to the very uttermost; for the Engineers' College, which was established by the late lamented and highly distinguished Mr. Thomason, and which is called by his name, is now attended both by natives and Europeans, who have evinced a talent and industry and an application which it will require all your exertions to keep up with. (Applause.) I beg you never to forget what an extraordinary thing it is that a handful of Europeans should govern such a vast territory as India. I refer to this because I think the reflection will lead you to see how incumbent it is upon each individual among you to uphold the character of England among the natives, who, though inferior to us in physical strength, are yet keen observers of character. The character of a great soldier they respect and love; and you may rely upon this, that your own happiness, the welfare of your men, everything that makes an officer respected, will depend upon the manner in which you conduct yourself to those under you. You must study their language,—without that you will be useless. You will find everything in that country different from this,—you will find yourself entirely abroad on your arrival. Therefore, without their language, you will not make yourself understood. I must warn you against allowing your faculties to go to sleep. Idleness is in all countries to be avoided,—in India it is peculiarly so, because it alone is the cause of almost every other disorder. Be careful, therefore, to employ your time—have something to occupy your attention—for in nine cases out of ten, the man who puts his shoulder to the wheel, and determines to be something, is sure to succeed. (Applause.) I remember perfectly well of what use the corporals were in this institution. I hope the Lieutenant-Governor still finds their assistance of great utility to him in maintaining discipline. It ought to be, and I hope it is, the pride of the corporals to receive the congratulations of the Lieutenant-Governor—and if so, of the Court of Directors also—for their assistance in this arduous task, because, without discipline you will never succeed, for he who cannot obey will never command." The gallant officer concluded by returning his thanks to the Public Examiner, the Lieutenant-Governor, the Officers and Professors of the College, and expressed a hope that when they next met the report would be as satisfactory. (Applause.)

Fortification Department.—After the mathematical examination had finished in the hall, Cadets Moore, Tanner, Haig, and Baker, were called upon to construct a two-gun battery (scale one inch to a foot) in a shallow box six feet square, two-thirds filled with moistened sand, gabions and fascines to the scale lying ready for use; while Cadet Browne was desired to explain the principles on which Vauban's first system is constructed; Hadow, the various methods of retrenching bastions; and Taylor, the method of tracing countermine. The other cadets were called upon to answer various questions put by the public examiner, by which time the battery was completed, and remarkably well executed.

After dinner, the usual voltaic explosion of 20 lbs. of powder in the Coldstream was exhibited, but the water was too low for the customary bridge-practice. The sand-modelling hall was the next object of attraction. A front of Carnot's system was explained by Cadet Penny (scale one-eighth of an inch to a foot); a front of the Prussian system (same scale) was explained by Cadet Ward. Jebb's double sap (scale one inch to a foot) was explained by Cadet Pendergast; a sunken four-gun battery (same scale), by Cadet Hills. A very fine model of Mullygaum, a native Indian fort of great strength (scale a quarter of an inch to a foot), with the attack carried on against it in 1818, was explained by Cadets Gordon and Fulford. The interesting native Indian fort of Nowa (scale half-inch to a foot), which was successfully attacked in 1819 by the Chairman, then a young engineer officer, was explained by Cadet Pitt, who took occasion to advert to that circumstance, and reminded the company that the officer of engineers who conducted the siege now filled the important office of Chairman of the East-India Company, being the first instance of an Addiscombe student attaining this distinguished position. The allusion was warmly cheered by the company. There was also a design for a sea-coast battery exhibited. The execution of these various models was admirable. The drawings in this department were of the usual style.

MILITARY DRAWINGS,

Executed by the Gentlemen Cadets of the First Class.

Mr. Tanner (1st prize)	Aden.
Moore (2nd prize)	Aden.
Somerville	Hong-Kong.
Hoves	Munsooree Range, Aden.
Jeffreys	Munsooree Range, Aden.
Penny	Munsooree Range, Aden.
Gordon	Munsooree Range, Aden.
Ward	Hong-Kong.
Fulford	Hong-Kong.
Browne	Hong-Kong.
Brydon	Tarragona.
Bell	Tarragona.
Reid	Mequinenza.
F. Thompson	Field of Wavre.
Hills	Salsette.
Rogers	Hill-fort of Wassota.

Second Class.

Mr. E. Jones (prize)	Drawings from the model of Eden
Eden	St. Helena.

Third Class.

Mr. Bonus (prize)	Essays of hill-ground in Mathew
Mathew	shading and contouring.

And several very promising elementary subjects in the junior term.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS, JUNE 2.

MADRAS RAILWAY COMPANY BILL.

GREAT INDIA PENINSULA RAILWAY COMPANY BILL.

The royal assent was given, by commission, to these Bills.

JUNE 12.

ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE AT SINGAPORE.

The Earl of Albemarle presented a petition from Singapore, praying that a resident judge be appointed for that settlement, and that some other changes in the administration of justice might be made.

Earl Granville said the subject was under consideration.

Ordered to lie on the table.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, JUNE 2.

SALT MONOPOLY IN INDIA.

Sir J. Pakington asked the President of the India Board whether any correspondence had taken place relative to the salt monopoly since that monopoly was condemned by a vote of the House of Commons; and whether the salt duties had been, or were likely soon to be, reduced.

Sir C. Wood said that at the close of the last session of Parliament a despatch was addressed to the Government of India desiring that they would immediately cause inquiries to be made as to whether it would be possible to collect the salt duties as excise, instead of as at present. An intelligent officer had accordingly been despatched to Bombay for that purpose, and, having completed his inquiries in that quarter, had proceeded to Madras; but, of course, until the inquiries there were also completed, he should be unable to state the result.

INDIAN BUDGET.

Mr. Bright asked when the right hon. gentleman would make his annual financial statement relative to India.

Sir C. Wood had already mentioned that he intended to make that statement as soon as certain rather voluminous accounts, which were now printing, were placed in the hands of members. He should also, before making that statement, wish to know the result of the operations connected with the reduction of the 4 per cent. and 5 per cent. stocks, which could not have taken place before the last day of April.

JUNE 12.

AFFAIRS AT SHANGHAI.

Mr. Hume asked the President of the India Board whether any information had been received from Shanghai of an attack by the English and American forces on the Imperialists, on the 4th April last.

Sir C. Wood had received no information on the subject, which belonged to the Foreign-office, and was therefore unable to answer the question.

INDIAN BUDGET.

Mr. Hume inquired whether there were any further papers on the revenues of India to be laid before the House previously to the statement of the Indian Budget, and whether the time could be named for the production of the Budget?

Sir C. Wood said he was unable to fix a day, as Government were awaiting the result of certain financial operations in India. If the information came in the shape of a dispatch, he might be able to lay it on the table previously to the statement.

PENINSULAR AND ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

On Monday last, the half-yearly meeting of this company took place at their office, in Leadenhall-street; Mr. J. C. Ewart in the chair.

After a few introductory sentences from the Chairman, the Secretary read the report, which adverted to the rise made in the rates of passage in February last, to the steps taken for increasing the capital of the company, and to an unsuccessful application to Government for relief in regard to the difficulties which they found in carrying out the Polat Contract, reported at the last annual meeting. On the breaking out of war the application was renewed, and the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty had expressed their willingness to institute inquiry, which would shortly be commenced. In regard to the subject of dividend, with reference to the enormously high price of fuel during the last six months, to the fact that new ships had been kept back by the strikes of workmen and other circumstances, to the postal contract having been carried on at an expense which exceeded the payments made on account of it, and to the claim for indemnification being undecided, the Directors recommended that a declaration of dividend be postponed until the next annual general meeting.

The chairman moved that the report be adopted.

Mr. W. Gould, M.P. seconded the motion. After a conversation in which several proprietors took part, the motion was carried.

A letter from Mr. Wilcox, announcing his intention to resign his office as a Managing Director on the 30th September next, without claiming any consideration for the abandonment of the rights secured to him for life by the deed of settlement, was then read.

A letter from Mr. Anderson was also read, surrendering his commission on the gross receipts, and reserving only the five per cent. on the net profits.

A motion of thanks to the Managing Directors was suggested, but not put to the meeting.

MR. JOHN THORNTON.—It was with much regret that we observed recorded, the death of Mr. John Thornton, the superintendent, at this port, of the Screw Steam Shipping Company. The unfortunate gentleman died very suddenly, and his loss, we have no doubt, will be greatly felt by the Company, whose affairs in this country he has reduced, by his indefatigable exertions, from a state of confusion to one of systematic order and regularity. It was only the other day that we received a letter from him, in which he stated that, after meeting with many difficulties and no inconsiderable degree of opposition, he had at last succeeded in putting matters upon such a footing, that he felt confident the interests of the Company which he served would, for the future, steadily go on and prosper. We much regret that he has not been spared to realize his well-founded expectations.—Calcutta Morning Chronicle.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MAY 27. Bothnia, Stridley, and Lancaster, Jones, Bengal; Lady Stanley, Hall, Ceylon.—20. S. R. Rajaswarre, Smith, Chippicollum; Emperor, Adamson, Algoa Bay; Treasure, Timcke, Mauritius; Eleanor, Starks, Bombay; Aura, Mattison, Maulmain; Orator, James, Madras; Pilgrim, Marman, and Malcolm, Sim, Mauritius; Garland, Halcrow, Bombay; Derwent, Jardine, Java; Marchioness of Douro, Woodnorth, Singapore.—31. Beuchleugh, Thomson, and Isle of France, Neill, Mauritius; Token, Ollard, Bombay.—JUNE 1. Bangalore, Turner, Java; Ingleborough, Rea, Bombay.—2. H. M. Steamer, Hermes, Fishbourne, Hong Kong; Mary Ridley, Bengal (at Havre).—12. Woolloomooloo, Stuart, Sydney; Hebe, Doran, Maulmain; Margaret, Spratley, Madras.—13. Neleus, Barnett, Melbourne.

PASSENGERS EXPECTED AT SOUTHAMPTON.

Per steamer Colombo (June 18).—Capt. Dyke, Mr. and Mrs. Lattey, Mr. Prowett, Mrs. Douglas and 4 children, Lieut. col. Bygrave, Mr. Barley, Mr. Campbell, Maj. Ramsey, Mr. Brown, Mrs. Boyce, Miss Thomas, Mrs. Church and 3 children, Mr. and Mrs. Kelsall and 3 children, Capt. Hagart, Mr. Hume, Miss Hume and 2 children, Lieut. Simmons, Mr. Fox, Mr. Marshall, Maj. and Mrs. Onslow, Mrs. Anson and child, Lieut. A. G. B. Morley, Capt. W. H. Gordon, Capt. H. S. S. Barney, Maj. C. C. Young, Mrs. Young and 3 children, Maj. T. Lance.

DEPARTURES.

From the DOWNS, MAY 31.—Nina, Hammond, Ceylon and Cannanore; Gevalia, Liberg, Calcutta.—30. Melbourne, Gibson, Shanghai.—31. Mary Sparks, Fisher, Hong-Kong; Jenny Lind, Montgomerie, and Shepherdess, Scorgie, Alga Bay. JUNE 5.—Wellesley Paish, Calcutta; Resolute, McKenzie, Hong-Kong; Patriarch, Thompson, Bombay; Egbert, Allsopp, Alga Bay.—Admiral Napier, Beaglehole, Madras and Calcutta; Souabhar, Umpeville, and Charlotte, Albeck, Calcutta.—7. Sarah Lucy, Day, Hong-Kong.—10. Forfarshire, Darby, Bombay.

From SOUTHAMPTON, JUNE 4.—Lady Jocelyn (steamer), Bird, Melbourne and Sydney.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

ABBOTT, the lady of Keith E. H. M. T. Consul, s. at Teheran, Persia, April 20.

BELLASIS, the wife of Lieut. col. 3rd Bombay Eur. regt. d. at Windermere, May 28.

CURRIE, the lady of Sir F. Bart. s. at Worcester-park, Surrey, May 31.

DAVIES, the lady of Lieut. H. N. 25th Bengal N.I. s. at 8, Warwick villas, Harrow-road, June 5.

INNES, the wife of T. G. R. of Netherdale, d. at 35, Moray-place, Edinburgh, June 4.

THEIL, the wife of Lieut. col. H. M. T. minister in Persia, d. in Lowndes-street, June 7.

MARRIAGES.

ANDREW, H. to Amelia, d. of the late Capt. Rulter, Hon. E.I. Co.'s Service, at the church of the Holy Trinity, Minorities, June 3.

CUST, Rev. Arthur P. s. of the late Hon. William, to Emma M. d. of the late Earl of Darnley, at St. George's, Hanover-square, June 6.

DALMAHOY, James, late of the Hon. E.I. Co.'s Service, to Ellen B. d. of the late Alexander Ainslie, at 48, Moray-place, Edinburgh, June 6.

FOORD, Edward A. Madras engineers, s. Lieut. Col. Madras artillery, to Rachel T. d. of John Mullins, at St. Marks, Kensington, May 30.

METCALF, William, 35th Bengal light infantry, to Elizabeth, d. of the late Francis Stringer, at St. Pancras Church, May 30.

PARROTT, Edward, to Elizabeth E. d. of the late G. Godwin, of Calcutta, at St. George's Church, Bloomsbury, June 8.

PRIDEAUX, William R. to Emma A. d. of the late Major General Sir James Sutherland, K.L.S. Bombay Establishment, at St. Mary's, Bryanston-square, June 8.

SPILLMAN, George, to Louisa, d. of the late Thomas W. Marriott, Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, at Croydon, June 7.

STOPFORD, George M. lieut. royal engineers, s. of Admiral Hon. Montagu, to Caroline M. d. of Lieut. gen. Sir John F. Burgoyne, G.C.B. at St. James's, Westbourne-terrace, June 1.

THRESHIE, David S. to Eliza B. d. of the late Charles Ray Martin, Bengal civil service, at St. Saviour's church, Jersey, June 6.

WARHURTON, Augustus F. H. M. 15th regt. s. of Archdeacon, to Mary Anne Campbell, d. of the late Lieut. col. Hailes, K.H. and granddaughter of Sir Robert Campbell, bart. at St. James's Church, Piccadilly, June 1.

WYNN, William N. to Caroline M. A. d. of the late Lieut. T. Pennington, R.N. and granddaughter of the late Col. George Pennington, Hon. E. I. Co.'s service, at Lewisham church, June 1.

DEATHS.

CARR, Capt. William, late commander of the Oriental, at 17, Guildford-road, Greenwich, aged 43, May 22.

FARRANT, Georgina, infant d. of Lieut. col. K.L.S. late H.M.'s Chargé d'Affairs in Persia, at 42, Marine-parade, Dover, May 28.

FORLONG, Laura J. wife of Gordon, at 31, Upper Leeson-street, Dublin.

GARFORD, Mira, wife of Francis, jun. at Bath, aged 27, June 8.

GILL, John, retired surgeon Hon. E.I. Co.'s service, at Nottingham, aged 48, May 31.

GRAHAM, Charlotte C. widow of the late T. H. Bombay medical establishment, at Ventnor, Isle of Wight, aged 41, June 3.

LAURENCE, John Rogers, captain in the Hon. E.I. Co.'s naval service, at East Harptree, Somersetshire, aged 84, June 6.

MACDOUGALL, Charles W. s. of Rev. Thomas, at Sarawak, Borneo, at Ipawich, aged 91, June 7.

MAITLAND, General Sir Peregrine, G.C.B. at 7, Eaton-place West, aged 77, May 30.

SANDERSON, Frederick U. midshipman of the steamer Indiana, on the passage from Calcutta, aged 20, Apr. 7.

TAYLOR, Jane, wife of Vincentio C. late capt. 3rd Madras light inf. at Chanters House, Pilton, aged 31, June 8.

WEMYSS, Fanny, d. of Maj. W. B. 9th Bengal cavalry, at Tunbridge-wells, aged 15, May 30.

WILKS, Joseph Barber, late of the Treasury, East-India House, at Sydenham-hill, aged 64, May 31.

EAST-INDIA HOUSE,

30th May and 7th June, 1854.

ARRIVALS REPORTED IN ENGLAND.

CIVIL.

Bengal Estab.—Messrs. J. Nasmyth and G. H. Smith.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Lieut. R. Young, engineers; Ens. W. Playfair, 4th N.I.; Major W. C. Hicks, 3rd N.I.; Lieut. col. H. Dick, 10th N.I.; Col. J. Stuart, 34th N.I.; Major G. Biddulph, 45th N.I.; Ens. F. A. Lawford, 50th N.I.; Major H. Vetch, 54th N.I.; Lieut. J. M. Sutton, 56th N.I.; Capt. C. M. Gascoyne, invalid; Lieut. W. Sheffield, unattached; Surgs. J. Davidson, H. Chapman, and R. Phillippson.

Madras Estab.—Brig. gen. J. P. James, Lieut. C. Cameron, artillery; Lieut. G. H. M. Aynsley, 6th cavalry; Capt. N. H. West, 1st Eur. reg.; Lieut. C. H. Beddek, 2nd Eur. reg.; Capt. B. Hodson, 7th N.I.; Lieut. H. J. Harness, 10th N.I.; Capt. G. Sturrock, 11th N.I.; Surgs. W. Beauchamp and G. Morrogh, M.D.

Bombay Estab.—Lieut. T. B. Heathorn, artillery; Col. H. G. Roberts; Lieut. R. Litchfield, 21st N.I.; Assist. surg. J. Mc Alister.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

Bengal Estab.—The Rev. W. Sturrock.

MARINE.

Bombay Estab.—Lieut. S. B. Hellard, Indian Navy.

PERMITTED TO RETURN TO THEIR DUTY.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Major A. G. F. J. Younghusband, 35th N.I.; Capt. J. L. Sherwill, 39th N.I.; Assist. surg. A. Christian, M.D.

Madras Estab.—Brev. capt. W. Coleridge, 20th N.I.

Bombay Estab.—Lieut. E. Maude, 4th N.I.; Capt. E. Thompson, 8th N.I.; Capt. R. L. Taylor, 18th N.I.

GRANTED EXTENSIONS OF LEAVE.

CIVIL.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. H. Balfour, 6 months.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Capt. N. A. Staples, artillery, 3 months; Capt. R. Larkins, 49th N.I., 3 months; Capt. Strachey, and Assist. surg. C. N. Sissmore, 6 months.

Madras Estab.—Brev. col. F. Straton, 1st cavalry, 2 months; Capt. L. Macqueen, 3rd cavalry, 6 months; Lieut. A. P. Woodbridge, 40th N.I., and Lieut. col. W. E. A. Elliott, 49th N.I., 4 months.

Bombay Estab.—Lieut. D. G. Anderson, artillery, and Lieut. John Fife, 23rd N.I., 6 months; Assist. surg. Robert Dent, 2 months.

MARINE.

Bombay Estab.—Mr. T. R. Hunter, Indian Navy, till end of November next; Mr. C. H. Farrer, Indian Navy, till end of October.

RESIGNATION OF THE SERVICE ACCEPTED.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Lieut. E. I. D'Oyley T. Money, 25th N.I.

PERMITTED TO RETIRE FROM THE SERVICE.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

Bengal Estab.—The Rev. H. R. Shepherd.

MILITARY.

Madras Estab.—Lieut. W. Lloyd, 11th N.I.; Surg. R. H. Manley, invalids.

APPOINTMENT.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. John Barnett, admitted a volunteer for the pilot service.

CHANGES AND PROMOTIONS IN H.M.'S REGIMENTS SERVING IN INDIA.

WAR OFFICE, 6TH JUNE, 1854.

101A Foot.—John Tulloch, gent., to be assist. surg. v. Webb, promoted on the staff.

43rd Foot.—Lieut. Lumley Graham to be capt. by purchase, v. Weyland, who retires.—Ens. Henry Basil Honson to be lieut. by purchase, v. Graham.—Herbert Johnes Berners, gent., to be ens. by purchase, v. Honson.

84th Foot.—Ens. Henry Currie to be lieut. by purchase, v. Page, who retires.—Thomas Scovell Bigge, gent., to be ensign by purchase, v. Currie.

WAR OFFICE, 9TH JUNE, 1854.

84th Foot.—Ens. Robert Torrens Pratt to be lieut. by purchase, v. MacMahon, who retires.—Alfred Gibaut, gent., to be ens. by purchase, v. Pratt.

87th Foot.—Capt. John Theophilus Ussher, from the 91st Foot, to be capt., v. McClintock, who exchanges.

STOCKS AND SECURITIES.

India Stock .....	233 to 236
India Bonds .....	3s. pm. to 1s. dis.
East-India Railway, all paid .....	1½ to 2½ prem.
Great Indian Peninsular Railway, all paid .....	½ to ¾ prem.

BENGAL GOVERNMENT LOANS.

	Buy. s. d.	Sell. s. d.	Actual Sales.
5 per Cent. Transfer Stock Paper, 1834-5, div. payable in London ..
Book Debt of 31st Dec. 1834, 3rd Jan. and 3rd July .....
Do. 10th Aug. 1835, 13th Feb. and 13th Aug. ....
Do. 15th Jan. 1836, 18th Jan. and 18th July .....
	Ss. Rs.	—	2 1½

INDIA EXCHANGES.

BILLS.	Commercial Bills, at 60 days' sight, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.	E. I. Co.'s Bills, at 60 days' sight, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.	Amount of E. I. Co.'s Bills, drawn fr. May 24 to May 8.
			£. s. d.
On Bengal ..	1s. 11½d.	1s. 11½d.	161,942 17 8
Madras ..	1s. 11½d.	1s. 11½d.	10,092 1 8
Bombay ..	1s. 11½d.	2s. 0d.	1,199 1 2
Bi-Monthly ..			173,234 0 6

Annual sum required by Court of Directors in } From 1st May, 1854, England .....

Bank Post Bills .....

Madras do. ....

Bombay do. ....

EXPORT OF BULLION.

Per Steamer Candia, June 4, 1854.

	Gold.	Silver.
Alexandria .....	£11,075	—
Malta .....	48,500	—
Hong Kong .....	—	72,914
Canton .....	—	97,396
Shanghai .....	—	2,802
	£59,575	£173,112

ADVERTISEMENTS.

East-India House, 27th April, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That a Quarterly General Court of the said Company will be held at their House, in Leadenhall Street, on Wednesday, the 21st June next, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 27th April, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Transfer Books of the said Company's Stock will be shut on Thursday, the 8th June, at 3 o'clock, and opened again on Thursday, the 13th July, and

That the Warrants for the Dividends on the said Stock, payable on the 6th July, 1854, under the 11th sec. of the Act 3 & 4 Will. 4, cap. 85, will be ready to be delivered on that day.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 17th May, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the rate of exchange at which they will receive cash for bills on Bengal and Madras will, from the present date, and until further notice, be 1s. 11½d. the Company's rupee, and for bills on Bombay, 2s. 0d. the Company's rupee.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 24th May, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the rate of interest payable upon the Company's bonds not notified for discharge, will be raised from £3. 5s. per cent. per annum to £4 per cent. per annum, from and after this day.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 7th June, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready, on or before Wednesday, the 21st instant, to receive proposals in writing, sealed up, from such persons as may be willing to supply the Company with

REGIMENTAL BUTTONS;—also STATIONERY;

And that the conditions of the said contracts (two in number) may be had on application at the Secretary's Office, where the proposals are to be left, any time before 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the said 21st day of June, 1854, after which hour no Tender will be received.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

UNIVERSAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY, No. 1, King William Street, City, London.

ESTABLISHED 1834.

Empowered by Special Act of Parliament, 6 Will. IV. cap. 54.

SIR HENRY WILLOCK, K.L.S., Chairman.
JOHN STEWART, Esq., Deputy-Chairman.

Its successful operations of this Society have enabled the Directors for the last thirteen years to reduce the premiums on Policies entitled to participate in profits on an average more than 44 per cent., and during the last four years a reduction of 45 per cent. has been declared.

Weekly Board-day, Thursday, at 1 o'clock.
Committees sit also every Tuesday and Saturday at 12 o'clock, when Policies requiring despatch may be effected.

Agents in India.—Messrs. Bradon and Co., Calcutta; Messrs. Bainbridge and Co., Madras; Messrs. Leckie and Co., Bombay.

MICHAEL ELIJAH IMPEY, Secretary.

CHARTS OF THE EASTERN SEAS.

MESSRS. WM. H. ALLEN AND Co.

Have recently published the following

CHARTS.

Coast of Pegu and Gulf of Martaban, 3s.
Moulmein River, and the Eastern Coast of the Gulf of Martaban, from Amherst Point to the Entrance of the Sitang River, 2s.
North and South Sands in the Straits of Malacca, two sheets, 4s.
Coringah Bay, 1s. 6d.
Coromandel Coast, from Lat. 13° to 18° 50' North, including Coringah Bay and Santapilly Shoal, three sheets, 7s.
West Coast of Ceylon, four sheets, 6s.
Ramesaram and Manaar, including Adam's Bridge, between the Continent of India and the Island of Ceylon, 3s.
Palk Strait and Gulf of Manaar, two sheets, with Directions, 6s.
Vizadrog, or Geriah Harbour, 1s. 6d.
Calicut Roads, and the Entrance to Beypoor River, 1s. 6d.
Dewghur Harbour, 2s.
Bay and Entrance to Rajapoor River up to Jeytapoor, with the Reef off Ambol Ghurr Point, 2s.
Anchorage, Rutna Geriah, 1s. 6d.
Bombay Bank of Soundings, 3s.
Arabian Sea, showing the Winds and Currents during the South-west Monsoon, with the probably best Track for Steamers from Bombay to Aden in that season. Compiled from upwards of one hundred Logs of the vessels of the Indian Navy, with Directions, 3s.
Coast of Sindh and Cutch, from the Kaha River to Mandave, two sheets, 6s.
Tidal Channels of the Indus, from Minora Point to the Kedewarry Mouth, with Directions, 3s.
Entrance to the Red Sea, 3s.
South-east Coast of Arabia, on Mercator's Projection, 3s.
Islands Westward of Socotra, 3s.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street;

Of whom may be had, a complete List of

Charts for the Navigation of the Eastern Seas.

FORBES'S HINDUSTANI WORKS.

- FORBES'S HINDUSTANI-ENGLISH & ENGLISH-HINDUSTANI DICTIONARY. Royal 8vo. £2. 12s. 6d.
GRAMMAR. 8vo. 12s.
MANUAL. 18mo. 5s. 6d.
TOTA-KAHANI; or, Tales of a Parrot. 10s.
BAGH-O-BAHAR. Hindustani. Royal 8vo. 15s.
 Ditto. English. 8vo. 10s.
ORIENTAL PENMANSHIP. 4to. 8s.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

ENGRAVING BY ORDER OF THE HON. EAST-INDIA COMPANY.

AN ATLAS OF INDIA.

On a scale of four miles to an inch. From Trigonometrical Surveys made for the purpose, being intended to form a complete Map of the whole of India, on an uniform plan, the Sheets being issued separately as they are completed, at 4s. each.

The following Forty-three Sheets are also completed:—

- |   |  |
|---|--|
| 26. Junjeera, Rutnagheriah, Visadroog.                  | 68. Furruckabad, Etawah.               |
| 27 and 41. Goa, Dharwar, Belgaum.                       | 69. North Bundelcund.                  |
| 40. Sattara, Bejapoor, Meerut.                          | 70. South Bundelcund.                  |
| 42. North Canara, Mysore, &c.                           | 72. Nagpoor.                           |
| 43. South Canara, Koorg, &c.                            | 75. Hydrabad.                          |
| 44. Part of Malabar.                                    | 76. Guntoor, Kurnool, &c.              |
| 47. Himalaya Mountains.                                 | 77. Cuddapah, Nellore, &c.             |
| 48. Dehra Doon, Sirhind, and Upper Doon.                | 78. Madras, Arcot, &c.                 |
| 49. Delhi, Meerut, &c.                                  | 79. Salem, Trichinopoly.               |
| 50. Agra, Bhurtpoor, Jeypoor, &c.                       | 80. Rannad, Tanjore.                   |
| 56. Nandair, Kowlas, Beder.                             | 81. Tuticoria.                         |
| 58. Part of the Ceded Districts, and Nizam's Dominions. | 89. Rewar, part of Mirzapore.          |
| 59. Part of the Ceded Districts, and Mysore Dominions.  | 94. Rajahmundry, Elloor, Coringa.      |
| 60. Mysore Dominions.                                   | 95. Masulipatam, Mouths of the Kistna. |
| 61. Coimbatore, Neigherry Hills, Malabar.               | 107. Ganjam, Goomsur.                  |
| 62. Travancore, Cochín, Dindigul.                       | 108. Ganjam, Part of Vizagapatam.      |
| 63. Tinnevely and Travancore.                           | 109. Part of Vizagapatam.              |
| 65. Himalaya Mountains.                                 | 124. Lower Assam.                      |
| 66. Gurhwal, Kumaon.                                    | 125. Sylhet.                           |
| 67. Moradabad, Bareilly.                                | 129. Upper Assam.                      |
|   | 130. Upper Assam.                      |
|   | 131. Munnipoor.                        |
|   | 138. North-East Part of Assam.         |

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

THE SIXTH EDITION, 2 vols. 4to. price £4. 6s.

HORSBURGH'S INDIAN DIRECTORY;

OR,

Directions for Sailing to and from the East Indies, China, Australia, &c.

HORSBURGH'S CHARTS for the Navigation from England to India and China, and throughout the Eastern Seas, viz.—

- |   |  |
|---|--|
| 1. North Atlantic Ocean, 5s.  | 16. Straits of Malacca and Singapore, one sheet, 6s.                 |
| 2. South Atlantic Ocean, 5s.  | 17, 18, and 19. Straits of Malacca and Singapore, three sheets, 15s. |
| 3. Anchorage at Gough's Island, 1s.   | 20. Straits of Sunda, 5s.  |
| 4. Bird's Islands and Doddington Rock, 1s.                                    | 21. Straits of Banca and Gaspar, 7s. 6d.                             |
| 5 and 6. Cape of Good Hope, S.E. Africa, and Madagascar Seas, two sheets, 8s. | 22. Carimata Passage and Borneo West Coast, 6s.                      |
| 7. Indian Ocean, 6s.  | 23. Straits of Rhio, Durian, Lingin, and Singapore, 6s.              |
| 8. Arabian Sea and East Africa, 7s. 6d.                                       | 24 and 25. China Sea and Coast adjacent, two sheets, 12s.            |
| 9. Hindoostan Coasts and Islands, 6s.   | 26. Canton River and its approximate Channels, 6s.                   |
| 10. Bombay Harbour, 6s.   | 27. East Coast of China, 7s. 6d.                                     |
| 11. Goa Road and River, and Murmagoa Anchorage, 6s.                           | 28. Bashee Islands and Channels between Luzon and Formosa, 2s.       |
| 12. Maldiva Islands and Channels, 2s.   | 29, 30, and 31. Eastern Passages to China, three sheets, £1. 1s.     |
| 13. Bay of Bengal, 5s.  | 32. Passages through the Barrier Reefs, Australia East, 2s.          |
| 14. Peninsula and Islands of India, East of Bengal Bay, 7s.                   |  |
| 15. West Coast of Sumatra, 5s.  |  |

Horsburgh's East-India Pilot, £12. 15s. 6d.

Hand-book for Pilots and Coasters navigating to and from the river THAMES, through all the Channels to DUNGENESS and ORFORDNESS. By Lieut. E. BURSTAL, R.N., from the Survey of Capt. BULLOCK, R.N. Price 1s. 6d.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street;
 Of whom may be had,

A LIST of CHARTS for the Navigation of the Eastern Seas.

ALLEN'S MAPS OF INDIA, &c.

DRAWN BY JOHN WALKER,

Geographer to the East-India Company.

A New Map of India;

Showing the British Territories subdivided into Collectorates, and the Position and Boundary of each Native State; chiefly compiled from Trigonometrical Surveys executed by Order of the Honourable Court of Directors of the East-India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 6 in. high; 5 ft. 8 in. wide. £2; or on cloth, in a case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or with rollers, and varnished, £3. 3s.

* * The object kept in view in compiling this Map, has been to render it available to the greatest possible extent for popular use. For this purpose the names of all Stations—Civil and Military—are inserted, as well as those of all Towns and places of note, likely to be looked for. To make clear the subdivisions of the whole of the country, both British and native, the limits of the various Districts and Collectorates, with their names, are distinctly indicated. The Railways are laid down, and the trunk roads conspicuously coloured. The newly-acquired district in Burmah is included. To avoid, however, the confusion consequent upon over-crowding, and make the Map clear and easy for Reference, the names of many small villages, and places of no present importance, have been omitted, and thus a very wide measure of comprehensiveness has been attained, while needless diffusiveness has been shunned.

A General Map of India;

Compiled chiefly from Surveys executed by order of the Hon. East-India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 3 in. wide; 5 ft. 4 in. high. £2; or on cloth, in a case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or with rollers, and varnished, £3. 3s.

Map of India;

From the most recent authorities. On two sheets—Size, 2 ft. 10 in. wide; 3 ft. 3 in. high. 16s.; or on cloth, in a case, £1. 1s.

Map of the Routes in India;

With Tables of Distances between the principal Towns and Military Stations. On one sheet—Size, 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or on cloth, in a case, 12s.

In this Map are given the whole of the Military and Civil Stations, together with the principal Towns, the villages being omitted so as to make the stations more prominent. The colouring defines the boundaries of the three Presidencies.

A Map of the Western Provinces of Hindoostan;

The Punjab, Cabool, Sinde, Bhawalpore, &c.; including all the States between Candahar and Allahabad. On four sheets—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 4 ft. 2 in. high. 30s.; or on cloth, in a case, £2; or on rollers, and varnished, £2. 10s.

Map of India and China, Burmah, Siam,

the Malay Peninsula, and the Empire of Anam. On two sheets—Size, 4 ft. 3 in. wide; 3 ft. 4 in. high. 16s.; or on cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

Map showing the Steam Communication and Overland Routes

Between England, India, China, and Australia. Size, 4 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 4 in. high; on cloth, in a case, 14s.; or with rollers, and varnished, 18s.

Map of Arabia;

Compiled from all the most recent authorities, by order of the Court of Directors of the East-India Company.—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 3 ft. 3 in. high; on cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

Map of the Punjab and Sikh Territory.

On one sheet, 5s.; or on cloth, in a case, 6s.

Map of Affghanistan and the adjacent Countries;

On one sheet—Size, 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or on cloth, in a case, 12s.

Map of China,

From the most authentic sources of information. One large sheet—Size, 2 ft. 7 in. wide; 2 ft. 2 in. high. 8s.; or on cloth, in a case, 11s.

Map of the Burman Empire,

Showing the annexed district of Pegu. One sheet, 3s. 6d.; or on cloth, in a case, 5s.

London: WM. H. ALLEN & Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

TREATISE ON FORTIFICATION AND ARTILLERY.

By MAJOR HECTOR STRAITH,

LATE PROFESSOR OF FORTIFICATION AT ADDISCOMBE.

SIXTH EDITION.—In 2 vols. 8vo. and 4to. Plates, price £2. 2s.

INTRODUCTORY ESSAY

TO THE

STUDY OF FORTIFICATION,

FOR

YOUNG OFFICERS OF THE ARMY.

By MAJOR STRAITH.

SECOND EDITION.—In 8vo. and 4to. Plates, price 13s.

Candidates for admission to Her Majesty's Army, and Direct Cadets for the East-India Company's Service, will find this a valuable book.

LONDON:—WILLIAM H. ALLEN & CO.,
7, LEADENHALL STREET.

Will shortly be published,

THE LIVES OF OUR INDIAN K.C.B.'s,
being a complete Biographical and Historical Account of the most distinguished officers of the Indian Army, compiled from authentic sources, forming a work indispensable for the illustration of the history of British India.

Shortly will be published, in 3 vols.,

TRUTH AND FICTION; or the K.C.B. and his Sisters.—We portray from life, courts, camps, counting and school-houses, shops and printing-offices, mansions and garrets, the abodes of luxury and penury, the gay capitals of Europe and Asia, the lonely lodging and the attendant crowded bungalow, the ostentatious funeral and the nameless tomb, alike furnishing subjects for our pen.

"Where does truth usurp the place of fiction?"
"Alas! alas! can such things be?"

MUSIC FOR THE TIMES.—ROBERT COCKS

and CO.'S PUBLICATIONS.—Marx's School of Composition, Vol. I, 21s.; Marx's Universal School of Music, 15s.; Gottfried Weber's Theory of Music, 31s. 6d.; Albrechtsberger's Theoretical Works, 42s.; Cherubini's Theoretical Works, 31s. 6d.; Czerny's School of Composition, £4. 14s. 6d.; Kalkbrenner's Harmony for the Pianist, 12s.; Mozart's Practical Thorough Bass, 5s.; Boyce's Cathedral Music (by Warren), £6. 6s.; Czerny's Pianoforte School, £6. 6s.; Supplement, 15s.; Haydn's twelve Grand Symphonies (by Czerny), £3. 6s.; Haydn's eighty-three Quartetts, £6. 6s.; Handel's Messiah, by Bishop, folio, 15s.; ditto, 8vo., 6s. 6d.; Haydn's Creation, by Bishop, folio, 15s.; ditto, 8vo., 4s. 6d.; Handel's Israel in Egypt, by Bishop, folio, 15s.; ditto, 8vo.; Mendel's Samson, by Dr. Clarke, 8vo., 6s. 6d.; ditto, folio, by Bishop, 15s.; Horsley's Vocal Harmony, 6 vols., £5. 8s.; Beethoven's seventeen Quartetts, £6. 6s.; also, his four Trios and four Quintetts, all by Rousset, £3. 2s.; Beethoven's nine Symphonies (for piano), £3. 3s.; Mozart's ten Quartetts, 4 vols., 42s.; Mozart's six Quintetts, 4 vols., 42s.; Pleyel's twelve Quartetts, dedicated to the King of Prussia, 4 books, each 7s. 6d.; Corelli's forty-eight Trios, 24s.; Kent's Anthems and Services, 2 vols., each 21s.; Bach's forty-eight Preludes and forty-eight Fugues, fingered by Czerny, 31s. 6d.; Mendelssohn's six Grand Sonatas, 31s. 6d.; Reicha's Course of Musical Composition, Vol. I, 42s.; Best's Pedal Exercises, 12s.

London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street, Publishers to the Queen; and of all Musicians.

"LONGFELLOW, THE POET.—There is a sweet song by this admired writer just now much inquired after. It is called EXCELSIOR. This really sublime effusion of the poet is charmingly wedded to music by Miss M. LINDSAY. It is particularly a song for the refined evening circle, and is adorned with a capital illustration. It is among the recent publications of the Messieurs Robert Cocks and Co., her Majesty's Music Publishers, of New Burlington Street."—See the Observer, May 28, 1854.

FLOWERS ARE FRESH; a new Glee for Four Voices. Music by WILLIAM HORSLEY, M.B., Oxon. Forming Nos. 69 and 70 of Robert Cocks and Co.'s Handbook of Glees, edited by JOSEPH WARREN, of which 88 numbers (price twopence each) have already appeared.

London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington Street, Publishers to the Queen.

OFFICERS' EQUIPAGE for the WAR, as used during the Peninsular Campaign by F. C. Cheny, Esq., Principal Veterinary Surgeon to the Army, and for which he obtained her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent. The peculiar advantage of this equipage is, that it can be packed on the back of a horse or a mule. It consists of Two Trunks, Bedstead, a Chair, Table, and does not exceed 98 lbs. in weight. An Illustrated Catalogue of every description of Officers' Portable Furniture sent free by post, on application to HEAL and SONS, 196, Tottenham Court Road.

LADIES' OUTFITS TO INDIA.

JOHN BESEMERES AND CO., Manufacturers of LADIES' READY-MADE LINEN, Under-clothing, Baby-linen, and every article required for a family proceeding to India, are now compiling Outfits at their Manufacturing Prices, thus effecting an important saving in the outlay. Wedding Outfits on the same terms.

Ladies' Long Cloth Chemises, 1s. 6d., 2s., 2s. 6d.; Filled Night Dresses, 2s. 6d., 3s., 3s. 6d.; Long Cloth Drawers, 1s. 6d., 1s. 9d., 2s.; Petticoats, 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d.; Dressing-gowns, 7s. 6d., 8s. 6d., 10s. each. A detailed Priced List of every article may be ordered by post. The Outfit Department is entirely superintended by young women of competent skill, aided by dressmakers of taste and experience.

All the Under-clothing is made up by selected classes of carefully-trained private hands, needlewomen, who receive constant employment throughout the year, at a liberal and fixed rate of wages. This system, ORIGINATED BY THIS THE OLDEST ESTABLISHMENT OF THE KIND IN LONDON, has effectually redeemed the character of Ready-made Linen for strength and neatness, while its admitted usefulness and economy for garments for family and general home use, have placed it among the successful manufactures of the day.

To the Merchant exporting to Australia and other settlements, these goods, from the high character they bear, are very attractive, and rank among the safest shipments to those parts.

Ready-made Linen Warehouses, 61, 62, 63, and 64, HOUNDSDITCH, London.

PAYNE and SONS' INDIAN CURRY POWDER,

UNEQUALLED for its delicious FLAVOUR and stimulating QUALITIES, in 1lb. Bottles, 3s. 6d.; ½ lb., 2s. 3d.; or 7 lbs. for 21s.

CURRY and MULLIGATAWNY PASTE, 1lb. jars, 3s. 6d., ½ lbs., 2s. 3d.

CURRY SAUCE, Delhi and Osele Chutnee, 1s. 6d. per bottle.

Pickled MANGOES, HUMPS, TAP SAUCE, and every description of Indian Delicacies, may had, at greatly reduced prices, from

PAYNE and SONS' FOREIGN WAREHOUSE, 323, REGENT STREET, LONDON.—A List forwarded on application.

TO LATE RESIDENTS IN INDIA.—TRUE

MADRAS CURRY, and MULLIGATAWNEY PASTE and CHUTNIES.—Messrs. BARRIE and Co., Vepery, Madras, to enable their old correspondents returning from India to continue the use of the celebrated Condiments, have made arrangements to forward regular supplies of the above, packed in glass jars for family use, at 1s. 9d. and upwards, which may be had of CROSSLE and BLACKWELL, Purveyors to Her Majesty, 21, Soho Square; FORTNUM, MASON, and Co., Piccadilly; and of the principal Sauce Vendors throughout the kingdom. Each bottle is labelled, and BARRIE and Co., Madras, stamped on the glass.

THE GENUINE INDIAN CURRY AND

MULLIGATAWNY MIXTURE and CURRY POWDER, PREPARED BY A LADY (long resident in India), who was instructed in the preparation by the late celebrated Fyzoo Kamsamah, of Calcutta.

THIS MIXTURE is highly approved by those who have resided in India, who pronounce the Curries prepared with it "THE BEST THEY HAVE EATEN since they left India."

THE POWDER is very superior, and if used as directed, will make a Curry surpassing in RICHNESS OF FLAVOUR, any Powder in use.

To be had at Wm. AERDOWN and Co.'s, 167, Piccadilly, London; the King's Head Hotel, Gloucester; 15, Hobson Street, Cambridge; and (wholesale) by letter addressed to Messrs. EDWARD and Co., 24, Pelham Street, Brompton.

The Mixture, in jars, 3s. 6d. and 2s. each. The Powder, in 1lb. bottles, 3s. 6d.; ½ lb., 2s. 3d.; ¼ lb., 1s. 3d.

TO THE LADIES.—The powerful influence of the sun

on the skin and complexion at this period of the year, calls for increased attention in preserving their delicacy and beauty. The most pleasing and effectual specific for this desirable object is ROWLAND'S KALYDOR, so deservedly established in royal and public favour and estimation. Its application neutralizes the effects of atmosphere, and induces that healthy action of the minute secretory vessels of the skin, by which its delicacy and beauty are so essentially promoted. Freckles, tan, spots, pimples, and discolorations, are eradicated by the application of the KALYDOR, and give place to a healthy clearness and transparency of complexion. Ladies travelling, or taking out-door exercise, will find it to diffuse a grateful and refreshing feeling. In cases of sunburn, stings of insects, or incidental inflammation, its virtues have long and extensively been acknowledged. Price 4s. 6d. and 8s. 6d. per bottle.

The heat of summer also frequently communicates a dryness to the hair, and a tendency to fall off, which may be completely obviated by the use of ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL, a delightfully fragrant and transparent preparation, and as an invigorator and purifier beyond all precedent.—Price 3s. 6d. and 7s.; or family bottles (equal to four small), at 10s. 6d.; and double that size, 21s.

Nor at this season can we be too careful to preserve the teeth from the deleterious effects of vegetable acids (the immediate cause of tooth-ache), by a systematic employment, night and morning, of ROWLAND'S ODONTO, or Pearl Dentifrice, a white powder, compounded of the rarest and most fragrant exotics. It bestows on the teeth a pearl-like whiteness, frees them from tartar, and imparts to the gums a healthy firmness, and to the breath a grateful sweetness and purity.—Price 2s. 9d. per box.

Beware of SPURIOUS IMITATIONS.—The only genuine of each bears the name of "ROWLANDS," preceding that of the article on the wrapper or label. Sold by A. ROWLAND & SONS, 20, Hatton Garden, London, and by Chemists and Perfumers.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS EFFECTED ANOTHER CURE

OF THE DIGESTIVE ORGANS.—Mr. Andrew Dawson, of Melbourne, was a constant sufferer from indigestion; no matter what he ate, the difficulty of digesting it was always the same, for which he consulted many of the medical profession, and tried remedy after remedy without attaining any benefit whatever. Being nearly dispirited with continual suffering, he was advised to try HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. He did so, and adhered to the diet recommended with the directions; thus he has so strengthened the tone of his stomach, and increased his appetite, that he can now indulge in any kind of animal or other food without the least inconvenience.

Sold by all respectable vendors of medicine, and at the Establishment of PROFESSOR HOLLOWAY, 241, Strand, London; and by all European and Native vendors of Medicine throughout the whole of the East Indies.

Second Edition, Corrected to May 9th,

THE EAST-INDIA REGISTER

AND

ARMY LIST FOR 1854,

CONTAINING

Complete Lists of the Company's Servants, at Home and Abroad;
Regulations respecting the appointment of Writers, Cadets, &c.

COMPILED FROM THE OFFICIAL RETURNS RECEIVED AT THE
EAST-INDIA HOUSE.

BY F. CLARK,

Of the Secretary's Office, East-India House.

12mo. sewed, 10s.; 11s. 6d. bound.
Separate Presidencies,—Bengal, 6s.; Madras, 5s.; Bombay, 5s.

London: Wm. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

ADDISCOMBE, HAILEYBURY, SANDHURST,
and DIRECT APPOINTMENTS.—YOUNG GENTLEMEN
destined for such Appointments are efficiently prepared in all the requisite branches in the Establishment of W. KIESER, M.A., Grove, Blackheath.

ORIENTAL LANGUAGES, &c.

THE REV. G. SMALL (who resided for ten years in India), GIVES INSTRUCTIONS, either privately or in Classes, in Sanskrit, Hindustani, Persian, and Bengali, as also in the Greek and Latin Classics. He receives Two Young Gentlemen as Pupil Boarders during the Vacations at Haileybury and Addiscombe. Classes at 33, Moorgate Street,
City, three days a week. Terms moderate.

Address, Rev. G. S., as above, or at his residence, No. 56, Tamworth Road, Croydon.

TO OFFICERS ON FOREIGN SERVICE.

A CLERGYMAN, with twenty years' experience in Elementary Tuition, has VACANCIES for the Children of Officers abroad. Terms, inclusive, if desired, are moderate. The peculiar requirements of young Children are well understood by his family, and the responsibility attached to their performance as fully appreciated. Unexceptionable references to county families, and to connections with India. The situation is cited for its salubrity.

Address (p.p.) Rev. Woodthorpe Collett, M.A., Henly Hall, near Ipswich, Suffolk.

SOUTHLANDS, BATTERSEA.

MR. JAMES SHERRAT, M.A., prepares YOUNG
GENTLEMEN for the INDIAN SERVICES, or for the QUEEN'S.
—Terms 120 Guineas a year. No extras.

Mr. Sherrat has made arrangements to enable him (after July next) to receive Junior Pupils; terms, 80 Guineas. He has been induced to take this step in consequence of finding so many of his Pupils badly grounded.

Mr. Sherrat has two houses, Southlands and Manor House. They stand apart, each in its own grounds. Manor House is intended for the Junior Pupils, who will receive a sound GENERAL EDUCATION till about the age of fifteen, as Mr. Sherrat believes that it is not for the advantage of the Pupil to commence a SPECIAL PREPARATION earlier.

The grounds and paddocks belonging to the two houses extend over fifteen or sixteen acres.

HANWELL COLLEGE and PREPARATORY SCHOOL.

The Fees commence on entrance.

"Hanwell College, conducted by Dr. Emerton, is fully sustaining the high character it has acquired. We find that former Pupils of Hanwell College have been either high wranglers or first-class men of our Universities during the present year; and this is the twentieth instance of success at Sandhurst or Addiscombe we have had to record within a short period."—United Service Gazette.

Prospectuses may be had on application to the Rev. Dr. EMERTON, Hanwell College, Middlesex.

SURVEYING ARMY APPOINTMENTS IN INDIA.

OFFICERS at Home on Furlough, and GENTLEMEN
CADETS, desirous of qualifying themselves for the Diplomas in SURVEYING and ENGINEERING, may obtain the requisite information
by applying to Mr. HENRY JAMES CASTLE, Associate of the Institute of Civil Engineers, and Lecturer in Surveying and Levelling at King's College, London, who is at all times prepared to give Private Instruction (or to form a class for practical Field-work) in the uses and application of the several Instruments required for Surveying and Levelling. If desired, one or two Pupils could reside with the Lecturer.

THE ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION grant
DRAFTS and negotiate or collect BILLS payable in Bombay, Calcutta,
Ceylon, Hong-Kong, Madras, Mauritius, Singapore, Melbourne, and Sydney.
They also issue, free of charge, Circular Notes and Letters of Credit for the use of Travellers on the Continent, and to India overland. They undertake the agency of parties connected with India, the purchase and sale of Indian
Securities, and the effecting of Remittances between the above dependencies.
They further buy and negotiate in London paper of the Indian Government Loans.

W. W. CARGILL, Chief Manager.

Walbrook, London, March, 1854.

MERCANTILE BANK of INDIA, LONDON, and CHINA.

HEAD-OFFICE, BOMBAY.

THE LONDON BRANCH of this Bank is now open for the transaction of every description of Banking and Exchange business connected with India, Ceylon, and China.

ALEXANDER ANDERSON, Manager.

9, Broad Street Buildings, London,
1st June, 1854.

1854.

THE following SPLENDID SHIPS, belonging to Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM and SONS, of Blackwall, built and fitted expressly for the India and Australian Trades, will be appointed to leave GRAVESEND at convenient intervals.

Ship's Name.	Tons.	Captain.	Destination.	To sail.
Royal Albert .....	700	R. M. Norris .....	Madras direct .....	Sailed.
Southampton .....	1050	R. Roe .....	Calcutta direct.....	30 June.
Devonshire .....	900	J. G. L. Steere .....	Ditto .....	19 July.
Queen .....	1350	W. Bell .....	Ditto .....	1 Sept.
Kent .....	1000	G. Coleman .....	Port Philip .....	25 July.
Maidstone .....	1000	W. Escott .....	} As may be required
Sussex .....	1000	A. Scanlan .....
True Briton .....	800	H. W. Norris .....
Essex .....	850	J. B. Martin .....
Minerva .....	900	R. K. Johnston .....
Hampshire .....	700	E. Reynell .....
Slains Castle .....	600	W. Andrews .....
Cornwall .....	600	W. Dawson .....

For Freight or Passage, apply to McLEOD, ALLPORT, & Co., with Messrs.
MONEY WIGRAM & SONS, 156, Leadenhall Street.

INDIAN APPOINTMENTS.

MESSRS. GRINDLAY and Co. beg to announce the Removal of the OUTFIT branch of their establishment from St.
Martin's Place to 63, Cornhill, and 134, Bishopsgate Street.

Detailed scales of OUTFIT, and plans of all SHIPS sailing to India, with prices of their accommodation, forwarded on application.

EAST-INDIA ARMY AGENCY,
63, Cornhill, and 134, Bishopsgate Street.

INDIA.—Gentlemen expecting Appointments in the East-
India Company's Cavalry, Artillery, Infantry, or Medical Service, are respectfully informed that, on application to Messrs. CHRISTIAN, they will be furnished with carefully prepared ESTIMATES, showing the whole cost of outfit and passage via the Cape or Egypt, without the necessity of employing an agent, which will be found desirable to those who study economy.
11, Wigmore Street, Cavendish Square.

ORIENTAL, AUSTRALIAN, and GENERAL STEAM AGENCY.

PARCELS, PACKAGES, and MERCHANDIZE
forwarded, and Passages engaged to all parts of the world. Baggage shipped. Insurances effected, &c.

INDIA and CHINA—overland, 4th and 90th of every month.

AUSTRALIA—overland, 4th May, and alternate months.

Ditto—via Cape of Good Hope, 4th June, and alternate months.

Prospectuses, with reduced rates, from 2s. 6d., upwards, forwarded free, on application. Overland Guides, 1s., per post, 1s. 6d.

G. W. WHEATLEY and Co. (late Waghorn), 156, Leadenhall Street.

Communications for the Editor, and Advertisements, should be sent under cover to Messrs. Wm. H. Allen & Co., 7, Leadenhall-street.

COUNTRY AGENTS:—

Edinburgh, W. Blackwood and Sons.
Dublin, Hodges and Smith.
Brighton, C. Boory.

LONDON:—Printed by CHARLES WYMAN, of 13, Hunter Street, Brunswick
Square, in the Parish of St. George, Bloomsbury, Printer, at the Printing-Office of COX (Brothers) & WYMAN, 74 & 75, Great Queen Street,
Lincoln's Inn Fields, in the Parish of St. Giles-in-the-Fields; and published by LANCLOUT WILD, at 13, Catherine Street, Strand, in the Parish of St. Mary-le-Strand, all in the County of Middlesex.—June 14, 1854.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL,

AND REGISTER OF INTELLIGENCE

FOR
BRITISH & FOREIGN INDIA, CHINA, & ALL PARTS OF THE EAST.

PUBLISHED ON THE ARRIVAL OF EACH OVERLAND MAIL.

Vol. XII.—No. 247.] LONDON, THURSDAY, JUNE 29, 1854.

[PRICE 1s.

CONTENTS.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW...	343	CEYLON .....	358
BURMAH:—		CHINA .....	358
Rangoon .....	346	JAPAN .....	359
Moulmein .....	347	ORIGINAL ARTICLES:—
BENGAL:—		Administration of the Punjab	360
Government General Orders ..	349	Her Majesty's Troops in India
Appointments, &c. ....	349	—Changes .....	361
Her Majesty's Forces in the		The Brevet .....	362
East .....	352	HOME:—
Domestic .....	352	Official Despatches—Conflict at
Shipping and Commercial .....	352	Shanghai .....	362
MADRAS:—		Debate at the East-India
Government General Order ..	354	House .....	363
Appointments, &c. ....	354	Imperial Parliament .....	367
Domestic .....	355	East-India College, Haileybury	368
Shipping and Commercial .....	355	Brevet .....	370
BOMBAY:—		Shipping .....	371
The late Lieut. Chapman ....	356	Domestic .....	371
Appointments, &c. ....	356	Arrivals, &c. reported at the
Marine Department .....	357	East-India House .....	372
Domestic .....	357	Changes and Promotions in
Shipping and Commercial .....	358	H.M. Regiments in India ..	373
		STOCKS AND SECURITIES, &c. .	373

ARRIVAL OF MAILS.

The Bentlinck, with a mail, left Calcutta May 16th, Madras 21st, Point de Galle 26th, Aden June 8th, and arrived at Suez June 16.

The Victoria, with a mail, left Bombay May 23rd, and arrived at Suez June 12th.

The Pottinger, with the China mail, left Hong-Kong May 6th, Singapore 15th, Penang 18th, and arrived at Point de Galle 26th ult.

The mails thus brought were taken on to Alexandria; they arrived at Malta June 22nd (per Candia), and Marseilles (per Valetta), June 25th.

The Candia, with the remaining portion, may be expected at Southampton July 2nd.

DEPARTURES OF EACH MONTH—MAILS FROM LONDON TO INDIA, CHINA, ETC.

Via Southampton (from London), at 8 o'clock in the morning of the 4th and 20th. It is advisable to post letters in London on the previous evening; if that day be Sunday, then on the evening of the 3rd and 19th; if Monday (of course) before 8 o'clock on that morning.

Postage, letters under  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz. . . . . 1s.
" " 1 oz. . . . . 2s.

Pre-payment is optional, but out of London it is the most certain to insure early despatch; and it will be preferable to affix stamps rather than to pay in money.—Newspapers, free.

Via Marseilles, on the 8th and 24th; if either of these days be Sunday, then on the 9th or 25th.

Postage (must be in stamps), letters, under  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz. 1s. 10d.
" "  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz. 2s. 3d.
" " Newspapers, 3d. each."

* * The Marseilles mails of the 8th and 24th overtake the Southampton mails of the 4th and 20th, at Malta; they arrive in India together.

(Our publication commenced at 6 o'clock this morning, June 29.)

DATES OF ADVICES.

Bengal .. .. .	May 16	Burmah (Rangoon) ..	May 3
Madras .. .. .	21	Bombay .. .. .	23
Ceylon .. .. .	26	China (Hong-Kong) ..	6

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

BURMAH, the British part of it at least, is quiet. But it has been visited by a fearful storm, which extended to Moulmein, and has done much damage. The Pluto steamer from Moulmein to Bassein, with about three hundred troops, was in great danger, and sustained much damage; but having thrown overboard everything portable, weathered the gale, and put back. She was reported to be lost, but arrived in safety at Moulmein. Great anxiety was felt respecting a fleet of thirty or forty boats proceeding with troops from Moulmein to Tonghoo, which were caught by the storm in the mouth of the Sitang river, and it is almost certain that some were lost. It is reported that an officer who had the good fortune of being on board one which got to Tonghoo in safety, saw several other boats go down. A party had reached Pegu, after much suffering; they of course could not know the fate of the whole of the boats; but their testimony was such as to warrant a belief of the worst. Some fragments of dress which had belonged to British soldiers had been brought in, and a Burmese reported that he had seen the bodies of two Europeans and several Indians floating in the river. Due allowance must be made for native exaggeration; but still there is justifiable cause for great apprehension. Measures had been taken both at Pegu and Sitang, to make effective search for any survivors of the calamity. Not a word is mentioned of the reported conflagration at Meaday.

The Delhi communications as to Russia and Caubul are this time remarkably tame and pointless. The latest of them is a letter of something more than a column, of which the following morsel is the only portion worth extracting, if indeed it be worth the process:—

"I have no news from the Bokhara side, excepting that many Russians having embarked on board of ships (whence not mentioned), have landed and occupied the banks of the 'Talab' (perhaps the Sea of Aral) which is, I hear, five long stages from Hoorgunj, and one of that party was expected at Khiva by his comrade, with some fresh overtures for the 'Khan-i-Huzrut.' There has been a fall of the heaviest snow this cold season at Mushed and Heerat, which, as the report says, has prevented the Russian and Persian agents from quitting the latter place for Candahar. The roads are now free of snow, and there will be more frequent communications between this and Heerat as well as Bokhara."

At Calcutta the chief local event is the inauguration of Mr. Halliday as Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. The arrangement which led to this ceremony is admitted, we believe, on all hands to be an admirable one, and there cannot be a doubt of its working well. The proceeding next in point of importance was the meeting which took place to consider the best means of recognizing the services of Colonel Cautley, in connection with the Ganges Canal. It is true that its practical results were not of much consequence, but the bestowing of honour where it is justly due always affords pleasure to a well-constituted mind, and it is a deed which may stimulate others to follow the example set by the recipient of the honour, and lead them to emulate his merits. The resolutions presented nothing very distinctive. The first expressed admiration of Colonel Cautley's services; the purport of the second was to request the Colonel to sit for his bust, to be placed in the Town Hall, Calcutta; the third announced the opening of a subscription, and the appointment of a committee; and the fourth provided that if any surplus should remain after the expense of the bust should be defrayed, it should be devoted to a piece of plate for Colonel Cautley. This last resolution was moved by a native, but the attendance of natives was very scanty. A work which will confer unexampled blessings on their country was not worth an hour of that attention which some of them would readily devote to a brawling demagogue—a fresh instance of their apathy, want of judgment, and want of public spirit. Colonel Cautley, who retires from the service, was to leave by the departing mail. Unusual honours were to be paid him. He was to proceed in the state yacht, duly accompanied, and to receive a salute of thirteen guns as the yacht passed Fort William. The Governor-General has issued a most complimentary general order on the occasion of Colonel Cautley's retirement.

"The most important news we have to mention in connection with Bengal," says the Bombay Times, "is the COMPLETION OF THE ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH BETWEEN BOMBAY AND CALCUTTA." This is indeed important. But the wire is but single, and not yet insulated. It affords matter for regret that Bombay should be far from healthy. The heat is said to be terrific; and this, with a scarcity of water, has occasioned great mortality. For the gratification of those who take an interest in Bombay localities, it may be worth mentioning that a new public drive is about to be made.

As Paul Pry "happened to know" so many things, the China Mail "happens to possess" an outline of the arrangements proposed by the Japanese to the representative of the United States; and this treasure it presents to its readers with a most edifying air of mystery. It will be found under the head Japan.

CASUALTIES BY DEATH IN THE ARMIES OF INDIA, REPORTED SINCE OUR LAST PUBLICATION.

H.M.'s TROOPS.—Major Henry Lloyd, H.M.'s 83rd, at Cambay, May 6.

BENGAL.—Lieut. C. C. Bean, 25th N.I. at Calcutta, May 2; Col. C. Coventry, 70th N.I. at Barrackpore, May 7; Lieut. A. G. Sim, 7th N.I. at Berhampore; Lieut. A. Tollemache, art. at Umballah, April 28; Capt. C. C. Scott, 32nd N.I. at Bordeaux, May 19.

MADRAS.—Lieut. W. T. Byam, 7th L.C. at Saugor, May 6.

BOMBAY.—Lieut. W. M. S. Bolton, 2nd N.I. near Mahableshwar, May 6; Capt. R. H. Wardell, 5th L.I. at Dharwar; Surg. W. P. Gillanders, 1st N.I. at Baroda, May 4; Surg. W. J. Babington, at Bombay, May 10.

BURMAH.

RANGOON.

The following extract from a letter, dated Rangoon, 1st May, has been kindly sent to the Hurkaru for publication:—

"We have had a great storm here. On the 21st, 22nd, and 23rd April, there was almost incessant rain,—on the latter day blowing almost a hurricane. The horse-artillery stables and a number of trees were blown down—the leaves of choppers inverted, houses leaking, &c. The detachment of the 8th irregular cavalry, after getting on very well for four or five marches from this, were overtaken by the rain, and have had to return, the country being two feet under water. They report that on every rising ground there were swarms of snakes and scorpions; the sewers naturally went to these dry spots also, and it is wonderful that none were bitten. The losses by water are serious, it is feared; two or three small craft have been lost entirely, and two ships laden from this have been dismasted, and returned,—the wrecks towed up by the Bentinck river-steamer. Fears are entertained for a fleet of upwards of thirty boats on the Sitang river, with the head-quarters of 36th M.N.I., and a third of a European company of artillery. On the 26th, a havildar and six gun lascars reached the fort of Pegu in an exhausted state, saying they had been wrecked, and had lost everything except their swords. On 28th, a subadar and eleven men of 36th M.N.I. also got to Pegu, after wandering about for several days in the jungles without food. The subadar has one of the regimental colours with him. They say they cannot tell what became of all the others, as the waves were so high they could not see the other boats; that they had all separated in the gale.

"Tonghoo, which was stated to be the stronghold and great granary of Gounghee, and to capture which the late combined movement was made, turned out to be a place with only four or five dirty huts!

"General Steel has not arrived from Madras yet."

THE CYCLONE.—The cyclone which visited Rangoon with such extraordinary fury on the 23rd ult. has been productive not only of great loss of property, but unhappily, it is to be feared that the lives of many of our brave soldiery have been sacrificed to its destructive wrath.

On Saturday last despatches were received by the deputy-commissioner from Pegu, reporting that a fleet of 40 boats, conveying the B. company 2nd battalion of the Madras artillery, and a large portion of the 36th regt. M.N.I. from Maulmain to Toungoo, had been caught by the hurricane in the mouth of the Sitang river, and that out of the 40 boats, 31 were entirely missing.

One subadar, one naique, and eight privates of the 36th regt. have arrived in an exhausted state at Pegu, but bearing with them their arms and the colours of the regiment; one havildar, six gun lascars, and one native, followers of the artillery, have also arrived at Pegu.

A Burman has come in with two shell jackets and other articles of dress marked 36 M.N.I., and reports that he saw the bodies of two Europeans and six or seven Indians floating in the Sitang.

Parties have been sent out from Pegu in all directions to search for any of the survivors, and three boats have been despatched from this by the deputy-commissioner, to coast along the right bank of the mouth of Sitang, and inquire at every village for intelligence. Similar steps have been taken by the assistant-commissioner at Sitang; and it is hoped that some of the missing officers and men may yet be discovered. Some portion, also it is most probable, have made their way to Sitang.

"The Hugh Lindsay arrived on the 27th April from Madras, with two companies of the 25th Madras N.I., and left the next morning for Maulmain, whence she takes part of the 5th Madras N.I. to Munsoorcottah. She does not return to Rangoon. The C. troop of Madras horse artillery, and the 35th Madras N.I. are patiently biding their time here. It is about two months since they arrived from Prome, being sent down, it is to be remembered, before the 40th and 67th Bombay N.I., in a violent hurry, to admit of their being speedily transported to Madras, while Bengal steamers and transports that had come down for the two Bengal regiments mentioned returned empty. It will be well on in June, probably, before the Madras relief is completed. Orders have come down for the removal of the naval dockyard, with its patent slips, workshops, &c., to the Dalla side of the river.

"The troops continue to be generally healthy all over the province. An officer recently arrived from Shway-geen says, that of the detachment there, consisting of 160 men of H.M.'s 29th foot, never more than five men have been in hospital, and that when he left, there was not a single man sick. The active deputy-commissioner of that district has collected already nearly two lacs of revenue. The whole road between Shway-geen and Tonghoo is now studded with large thriving villages. It seems likely that the Martaban province will beat the Pegu districts, if this state of things continues. General Steel has not yet arrived. There has been no hot weather to speak of. This season is very different to last year. The last batch of the 8th irregulars, with Captain Richardson, arrived yesterday (April 29), in the Berenice and Aga Bukher. They are to be sent up by steamers and flats to Prome and Meeaday, marching being now out of the question. Lieutenant Mackenzie's detachment, that marched ten days ago, very nearly had to return to Rangoon; but it seems that the rain ceasing, Lieut. Mackenzie had proceeded."

"May 3.—Since writing a few hours ago, the Fire Queen from Maulmain has come in, bringing a few particulars of the accident on the Sitang river. Lieut.-Col. Johnstone, who was proceeding to join his regiment at Tonghoo, being in a good boat, weathered the bore and the wind, and got safe into Sitang, where, however, he was robbed of all he possessed by the Burmese. He saw, it is said, ten boats with men in them go down: what has become of the other twenty-five boats is not known. The Pluto was the steamer seen in distress. She was on her way to Bassein from Maulmain, and was caught in the storm; she had to throw every single thing overboard,—guns, cargo, the soldiers' accoutrements and arms, and to put back into Maulmain. The Fire Queen, on leaving the mouth of the Maulmain river, picked up a man in a boat, who said his ship was in distress, fourteen miles off. The Fire Queen proceeded to the spot, and found the ship, and put a pilot on board her."

MAULMAIN.

HURRICANE.—On Sunday, the 23rd instant, Maulmain was visited by a most terrific storm. It commenced at about 2 p.m. in the direction of S.E., and gradually veering round, terminated in the quarter whence it took its rise, after a duration of about nine hours; but it blew with redoubled fury a little before its cessation. The river was in a state of dreadful commotion all the time, and the most serious apprehensions were entertained for the safety of the numerous vessels in it, which are said to have laboured very heavily at their moorings; but we are glad in being able to report that, up to this time, we have not received accounts of any serious disasters. Scores of old and stout trees were torn up by the roots, and hundreds were demurred of their branches and dense foliage; houses were rendered leaky and roofless, and even the tiles of the roofs of houses were blown away like chaff, and many persons who flattered themselves that their houses were perfectly staunch and impervious to the severity of the monsoon, were most disagreeably undeceived when they found themselves drenched to the skin without even a few yards of dry shoes to stretch their carcasses on; in fact, we believe that few, if any, houses in the whole country have escaped without being damaged more or less, and many were brought down to the ground altogether by the force of the wind. The great rise of water in the river floated away several boats and scores of logs of valuable timber; in fine, it is hardly possible to describe the disastrous effects of the visitation, or to estimate the immense losses of life and property caused thereby.

"Since writing the foregoing, we hear the schooner Amherstia grounded near Beelogyoon Island, and that the crew, with Mr. Penha, senior pilot, in charge of the vessel, were obliged to abandon her in consequence of her disabled condition, and swim ashore. The whole party, we are glad to say, arrived here in safety yesterday, after travelling for nearly two days in a famishing state.

"The buoy vessel, with Capt. Tapley on board, is said to have put to sea during the prevalence of the storm. We hope to give further particulars in our next."—Advertiser, April 26.

"We beg to lay before our readers the following account of the late storm, and its disastrous effects at Amherst, communicated by a gentleman at that place:—

"We had on Sunday last, from mid-day to midnight, the hardest blow that any one here has ever known, during which much damage has been done on sea and land. Capt. Tapley, in the buoy boat, and Mr. Penha, in the Amherstia, were out in all of it. The buoy boat lived through it, and that is all,—her masts and rigging, and bulwarks, are all gone; three times she was completely swamped. On Monday morning, Capt. Tapley succeeded in getting on board a ship in the offing, having fasted from Saturday night till that time. This morning it is confidently said that the Amherstia is in sight of the point of Beloo Island."—Ibid. April 28.

The following extracts from the log-book of the steamer Pluto have been kindly placed at our disposal for publication.

"Extract from the log of the H.C.'s steamer Pluto, from Maulmain to Bassein, with a detachment of the 30th N.I.

"Saturday, 22nd April, 1854, p.m. Light breezes and cloudy with a S.W. swell, ship rolling heavily. 3 p.m. sighted the land from the mast-head about Barague Point, bearing W.S.W. distant about 20 miles. 4 p.m. bar. 30, ther. 84½, symp. 30.10, experienced a strong northerly current, moderate and cloudy weather, increasing swell from the S.W., pumped ship dry, set fore and aft sail. Sunset—gloomy threatening appearance, ship labouring heavily, prepared for bad weather, hoisted boats close up, preventive lashings on anchors and shrouds on funnel. 8 p.m.—Increasing breezes, dark gloomy weather with passing showers of rain accompanied with lightning, battened down hatches, bar. 29.90—ther. 84, symp. 30, 8.30. p.m.—Ship took a heavy lurch and started the deck baggage,—restowed it. 9 p.m. bar. 29.80, ther. 84, symp. 29.90, there being every appearance of a gale in the gulf to the S.W. of the vessel, altered course to S.E. with the view of clearing its track, in all sail, ship making little or no way, pitching heavily, gig swamped and washed away at stern davits, carrying away the port davit and bulwark. 10 p.m.—Rigged spare pumps, pumped ship dry—increasing breeze from the S.E. Midnight—blowing a gale from the S.E. with passing light rain and sheet lightning, bar. 29.90, ther. 83, symp. 29.70, A. 29.60, ship labouring heavily, shipping heavy seas forward.

"A.M. heavy S.E. gale. Engineers reported that as the vessel had decreased the number of revolutions, the bilge-pumps could not keep the engine-room free, shifted one of the spare hand-pumps from the fore-hold into the engine-room, and set a party of artillerymen, under Lieut. Georges, pumping engine-room and forepeak. 4 a.m. bar. 29.40, ther. 84½, symp. 29.60. 4.30, sea increased, mountainous and confused, horizon at times no where visible from the height of the waves, ship labouring heavily. 5, the ship unmanageable, and taking in a large quantity of water in every direction, and in danger of foundering; threw overboard, with the assistance of Major Wheeler, Lieut. Georges, and artillerymen, the deck baggage, comprising sepoy's arms and accoutrements, officers baggage, &c. 6-30, ship much relieved, and much more buoyant, shipping less water, pumps going all the time. 7, experienced a lull of 15 minutes, rescued everything for a shift of wind, masts, funnel, &c.; bar. 29.9, ther. 84.50, S. 29.20, A. 29.10; observed the barometer rise, and fall one inch, much sheet lightning, saw sea-birds about the ship and the water effervescing alongside, served out an allowance of grog to artillerymen. 7.15, wind shifted to the N.W., and blowing with indescribable force a hurricane. Jolly-boat and first cutter blown away with quarter-davits and part of bulwarks, starboard paddle-box boat capsized inboard, and jammed against the bridge awning stanchions and paddle-wheel, and stopping the engines occasionally; lashed the helm alee, as the man at the wheel could not stand the violence of wind and spray.

"All hands under the lee of the weather bulwarks. 2nd cutter turned over and jammed against the davits, fore-yard carried away in the slings, found it impossible to move along the decks without crawling on all-fours. Barometer oscillating very much, and finally settled at 28.40; obliged to desert the pumps in consequence of the fearful violence of the wind; ship buried in the sea on her port broadside; foremast invisible from the funnel, in consequence of the spray caused by the wind cutting off the tops of the waves; all who were exposed felt it exceedingly cold during the height of the hurricane, and experienced a most painful sensation about the face, particularly the eyes; found it impracticable to throw the guns overboard, which would have relieved the ship greatly. Ten, occasionally moderating, the sea one mass of foam, wind and spray beating down the sea. Eleven, barometer rising, wind abating and shifting to the westward; manned the pumps again, found the water in engine-room entering the ash-pit; sounded, and found 2 feet 9 inches, sea rising, and ship labouring heavily. Noon, barometer 29.9, ther. 84.89, S. 29.40, weather moderating fast, cleared the decks of all broken spars, &c.; sea increasing, found the port after-sponson and starboard fore-sponson much damaged, caboose capsized and broken, ensign staff carried away, awning stanchions rent, main gaff carried away, &c. &c."

"p.m. Wind and sea moderating. Barometer rising. 29.30, righted starboard paddle box boat, found port side of the boat destroyed by the paddle wheel. Bar. 29.40, symp. 30.0, ther. 83.3, Mr. Malcolm, 1st engr., reported a hole 15 inches by 1 inch in the port bunker, also three ½ rivet holes letting in a large quantity of water. 3.30, set staysail and bore up, having ascertained from Major Wheeler, commanding troops on board, that he could not relieve the garrison at Bassein in the present non-effective state of the detachment on board, without arms and clothes. 4, set fore trysail, bar. 29.80, ther. 83, symp. 30.20, moderate breezes and cloudy. Sunset, ditto weather. 7, in all sail. 8, moderate and cloudy, pumping occasionally during the watch, bar. 29.90, ther. 82½, symp. 30.20. 10, passing showers. Midnight, light breezes and fine. Bar. 30.0, ther. 82, symp. 30.20.

"A.M., moderate and fine. 1-20, observed a vessel standing to the westward. 4, cloudy weather, bar. 30.0, ther. 82½, symp. 30.22.

"Daylight, fine, people employed generally. 8, set fore and aft sails; observed a great quantity of commissariat provisions damaged with salt water during the hurricane.

"Noon, fine, Lat. observed 15° 12' N. Long. 96° 52' E. showing a set of sixty miles to the southward during the hurricane.

"S. G. BOON, Commander."

BENGAL.

THE LONDON MAIL of March 24th arrived at Calcutta May 2nd (per Bentlack). The subsequent mail of April 8th arrived on May 14th (per Oriental). The mail of May 24th left Suez for Ceylon, Madras, and Calcutta, on June 6th (per Bengal).

NATIVE LANGUAGES.—The Court of Directors has, on the recommendation of the Supreme Government, relaxed the rule regarding officers being compelled to pass in Hindustani before they can hold staff appointments, in favour of such officers as may be nominated to situations in the province of Pegu, where no Hindustani is spoken. They are, however, to pass an examination in Burmese within one year from the time they receive the appointments.

ADDRESS TO MR. HUME.—On Saturday afternoon, April 29, the principal assistants of the senior magistrate's office, accompanied by Mr. Burroughs, the interpreter of vernacular languages, waited upon Mr. Hume at Spence's. Mr. Burroughs, after a few preliminary remarks, explained to Mr. Hume the object of his coming with the assistants, and begged permission to read an address. The address being read and delivered, Mr. Hume, after a pause, made a very eloquent and feeling reply.

SIR R. HAMILTON.—Consequent on the increased work of agent to the Governor-General for Central India, Sir Robert Hamilton, the Governor-general of India in Council, has augmented his salary from Co.'s Rs. 40,000 to 48,000 per annum.

NEW POST-OFFICE RULES.—The Englishman notices, that on the promulgation of the new post-office rules, all the postmaster-ships will be bestowed on natives. They will be only deputy-postmasters, and we suspect this will be found the weakest point in the new system. Seven inspectors are, however, to be appointed, on salaries of Rs. 300 a month each, and these officers will probably be filled exclusively by Europeans.

MESSRS. WHITE, LICHFORD, AND SMITH, LATE OF THE 48TH N.I.—The Calcutta Morning Chronicle reports that Messrs. White, Lichford, and Smith, who were dismissed from the 48th N.I. some three years since, are now captains of cavalry in the Turkish army. It will be remembered they were all implicated in the duel in which Ensign Huxham was a principal.

H.M.'S FORCES IN INDIA.—The electric telegraph announces that Colonel Markham is appointed adjutant-general, and Lieut.-Col. H. Havelock quarter-master general of H.M.'s forces in India, Lieut.-Col. Lugard succeeding the latter officer as deputy adjutant-general at Bombay.

THE COLLECTORATE OF HOOGHLY.—Government having sanctioned the erection of a new building for the collectorate of Hooghly, Mr. Voss, the architect, has already proceeded thither with a view to superintend personally its construction. Considering that it will take eighteen months to finish it, we suppose the building will be large enough to accommodate the whole of the public offices at Hooghly.—Bengal Hurkaru, May 12.

THE ORIENTAL LIFE AND MEDICAL INVALID ASSURANCE COMPANIES.—The Englishman mentions that the project for uniting the Oriental Life Insurance Company and the Medical Invalid Society has proved successful. The policies of the two offices, on the 1st January, amounted to Rs. 80,33,350. Since that period the offices have granted policies for Rs. 13,12,000 more; and it is expected that, by the 30th of June, the total amount will have reached a million sterling. The danger of the Oriental office, it is said, arose from the "mania for dividends" which had seized the shareholders.

OPIMUM.—The following is the result of the opium sale, held May 8:—

Behar	....	Chests 2855	Average 795-7	Proceeds 22,71,075
Benares	..	1170	830	9,71,125

This exhibits an increase of Rs. 22 for the Patna, and Rs. 30 for the Benares drug. It is remarkable as an evidence how little the sales are affected by the ordinary laws of trade. The latest advices from Shanghai threaten disturbances, dangerous even to European traders, yet the price rises.

MR. G. S. FAGAN, of the Calcutta bar, has been appointed senior magistrate of Calcutta from this day, in succession to Mr. Hume, who has been compelled to resign the appointment, the state of his health rendering it necessary for him to return to England.

DR. GRANT, surgeon to the Governor-General, is now suffering from very severe illness, and will be obliged to go to Europe with as little delay as possible.

EXAMINATION OF MEDICAL OFFICERS IN THE VERNACULAR.—An order has been issued by the Governor of Bengal, directing that all medical officers, covenanted and uncovenanted, hereafter appointed to civil duties in the lower provinces, shall within twelve months of their appointment pass an examination in the vernacular of the district.

REDUCTIONS.—The salary of the office of secretary to the Government of India in the foreign department has been reduced from Co.'s Rs. 52,200 to 50,000 per annum; the same to take effect from the date of assumption of Mr. G. F. Edmonstone, the recently appointed Secretary. The financial secretaryship will also undergo the same fate as soon as Mr. C. Allen, the present incumbent, ceases to be connected with it.

CHANGES IN FIRMS.—Yesterday (May 1) being the first day of the commercial year, the advertising columns of the Englishman announced many new mercantile arrangements, amongst others, the admission as partners of Messrs. J. S. Barstow and J. Dacosta in the firm of Ashburner and Co.; of Mr. G. Brown in that of Jardine, Skinner, and Co.; and the retirement of Mr. J. Forlong from the house of Tulloh, Seal, and Co.

ARMY OF OBSERVATION.—The Englishman says that it is whispered about town that, among the other exigencies of war, an army of observation is to be formed on the north-west frontier, and conjectures that the intended journey of the Governor-General has reference to such an arrangement.

THE BANK OF BENGAL lowered its rates one per cent. all round on the 5th of May.

is to consist of a private secretary and two aides-de-camp, one of whom is, however, to be also the secretary, as is the case in the North-Western Provinces. All the territories hitherto under the control of the governor of Bengal are to be placed under the authority of the Lieut.-Governor, with the exception of the Tenasserim provinces, the government of which, together with that of Pegu, will continue to be administered by the Governor-General (foreign department); his Lordship also retains the governorship of Fort William.—Hurkaru.

THE BONDED WAREHOUSE.—The report of the directors of the Bonded Warehouse Association for the past half-year showed a surplus profit of Rs. 14,000. A dividend of eight rupees per share for the last half-year is declared.

NEW LIEUT.-GOVERNORSHIP OF BENGAL.—The following are some of the arrangements for the new lieut.-governorship of Bengal. In addition to his salary of a lakh of rupees per annum, and an official residence, the Lieut.-Governor is to be provided with a fitting establishment of attendants, the cost of which is fixed at Rs. 600 per mensem. The secretary and two under-secretaries to the Government of Bengal are to draw respectively Rs. 36,000 and Rs. 15,000 each per annum. The personal staff

LOSS OF THE "ELIZA."—We have received from Capt. Smith, of the Powerful steamer, the following particulars of the loss of the ship Eliza, from this port bound to Melbourne:—The Eliza left with steam on Friday, and after getting across the James and Marys, the steamer had to return to town. The pilot worked the ship down to the Rangafulla Channel, and anchored for the night. There were on board, including cabin passengers, altogether about forty souls. On Saturday at high water, the ship weighed to work down on the ebb tide, and when some distance below Mud Point took the ground, and remained on shore till the flood was in at 10 p.m. After floating, they found the ship had three feet water in the hold, and the leak rapidly increasing; it was determined to beach her on Mud Point, and with this view sail was made on the ship, and she took the ground in the mouth of Channel Creek, about a quarter of a mile to the northward of Mud Point trees, and settled down fast. The boats had been previously got out, and the lady and two children put into the long-boat, but when the ship rolled over, the mainyard went through the boat's side and disabled her; the captain and chief officer, and one other man, had gone on shore in a small cutter, to obtain assistance by native boats to land the crew and passengers, but all their efforts were unavailing, and the whole of the passengers, pilot, and crew, including a lady and three young children, were in the rigging the whole night, and underwent great sufferings. At daylight this morning the captain returned with the small boat, and landed the whole on Mud Point Island, and as we were passing up, I observed them, sent my boats, and brought them, I am happy to say, safely to Calcutta. They have all lost everything they had on board, and they came on board with barely any covering. This is not the first time the natives have refused to render assistance in such cases; and although there were several tow boats in the creeks they all refused to go off to the ship.—Englishman, May 2. [Mr. Saunders, the pilot, is to be brought to trial before a Marine court.]

INSTRUCTION IN HINDUSTANI.—An ex-cadet, of Addiscombe, complains that the system of instruction in Hindustani pursued at that institution is a bad one; for that, though he had studied the language for two years there, he found, on his arrival in India, that he could neither understand a word that was said to him by the natives, nor make himself understood by them.

MILITARY ON DUTY.—Lieut.-Col. Fraser, of the engineers, is going either to the Cape or England; Major Abercrombie will act during his absence as superintending engineer of the Bengal circle, and Captain Fagan take Major Abercrombie's place as officiating garrison engineer and civil architect.—2nd Lieut. Albert Tollemache, of the artillery, died at Umballa on the 28th ultimo.—Major Neville Chamberlain is to succeed Brigadier Hodgson in the command of the Punjab Irregular force, and Major McPherson gets the secretaryship to the Punjab Board of Administration.—The Delhi Gazette speaks of Lieut.-Col. Day, of the artillery, as about to retire.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS.

OFFICERS PUBLISHING THEIR OPINIONS ON PROFESSIONAL GRIEVANCES.

Fort William, April 28, 1854.—The Hon. the Court of Directors having, in their military letter to the Governor-General of India in Council, No. 2, dated 8th Feb. 1854, called the attention of the Supreme Government to a letter addressed to the editor of The Times, Bombay newspaper, signed "John Jacob, Scinde Horse," in which the writer denounces as having ruined the efficiency of the native army, the regimental system established in the year 1796, the Articles of War framed under the authority of the Legislature, and the general system of discipline established by the orders of Government; and having intimated that, in their opinion, it is of great importance that an order should be issued to the army of the three presidencies, forbidding in the strongest terms all publications of the description now referred to, whether anonymous or otherwise; the Governor-General of India in Council is pleased to promulgate for general information the observations of the Hon. Court upon this subject.

"Any officer in the service is at liberty, and indeed in many cases is bound in duty, to communicate confidentially to the Com.-in-Chief of the army to which he belongs, the opinions he may entertain on points affecting the discipline or efficiency of the troops; but he is not at liberty to denounce publicly the system established by the Legislature and by the Government he serves. Such conduct is entirely subversive of discipline, is calculated to excite discontent and insubordination in the army, and we cannot express in too strong terms our disapprobation of the course which appears to have been taken on the present occasion."

In pursuance of the instructions of the Hon. Court, the Governor-General in Council hereby positively prohibits, under the penalty of the most marked displeasure of Government, the practice of officers publishing their individual opinions on professional grievances or censures, whether anonymously or with their names attached thereto, on the organization and efficiency of the army; on its regulations or discipline; or on the conduct of individuals composing it.

This order is applicable alike to the three presidencies.

RETIREMENT OF LIEUT.-COL. P. T. CAUTLEY.

Fort William, Home Department, May 11th, 1854.—Lieut.-Colonel P. T. Cautley, director of the Ganges canal, has, in general orders dated this day, been permitted to retire from the service of the East-India Company.

In the practice of the Government of India, rules and precedents forbid that any special regard should be paid to officers retiring from the scene of their public service.

But rules may rightly be broken through, and precedents must stand aside, when they prevent a fitting expression of the gratitude and approbation which are due from the Government he serves to an officer of rare distinction, whose labours for the public good have brought lasting honour to the British name.

Resigning the direction of the Ganges canal, Lieut.-Colonel Cautley retires from the service of the Honourable East-India Company in the full triumph of his accomplished work.

Constructed over more than 500 miles within a period of eight years, broken by wars and encumbered with difficulties, the Ganges canal already stands unequalled among works of its class and character throughout the world.

It is to Lieut.-Colonel Cautley that the British Government mainly owes the accomplishment of this gigantic enterprise. His genius conceived the design, and his skill and energy and perseverance have chiefly contributed to its rapid and successful execution.

For this great and memorable service, the Governor-General in Council desires to offer to Lieut.-Col. Cautley the assurance of his highest and most grateful approbation.

That Lieut.-Col. Cautley may quit the shores of India with every mark of public distinction, the Governor-General in Council requests that he will embark on board the Governor-General's yacht from Chandpal Ghat, on Monday the 15th inst., at 6 A.M.; and directs that on his way to the packet, he shall receive, as he passes, a special salute of thirteen guns from the ramparts of Fort William.

The Governor-General in Council is very sensible that these are but poor honours to render for such deeds. But while his Lordship in Council regrets that the Government of India has neither honours nor decorations in its gift, he feels assured that Lieut.-Col. Cautley will ever find the richest reward of his public services in the consciousness he needs must enjoy that his name will be famous through future years in the land which his skill will have fertilised and enriched.

EXAMINATION OF MEDICAL OFFICERS IN NATIVE LANGUAGES.

Notification.—The 27th April, 1854.—The most noble the Governor of Bengal has been pleased to resolve that all medical officers, covenanted and uncovenanted, hereafter appointed to civil duties in the lower provinces, shall within twelve months after their appointment, be required to pass an examination in the vernacular language of the district, such as shall test their ability to converse with the people and to be understood by them.

The standard of examination will be the same as that prescribed for military and medical officers, under the orders of the government of India in the military department, dated the 1st March, 1844.

NEW FURLOUGH RULES.

Head Quarters, Simla, April 29, 1854.—With reference to general orders of 23rd February last, his Ex. the Com.-in-Chief is pleased, under instructions from Government, to notify that, pending an elucidation by the Hon. the Court of Directors of the new furlough rules, officers who apply for leave to visit Calcutta or Bombay preparatory to preferring an application for furlough to Europe on private affairs or medical certificate, are permitted to defer declaring whether they wish to avail themselves of the regulations promulgated in the order* noted in the margin, or to abide by the old rules until they shall ultimately submit their application for furlough, on the understanding that the preparatory leave will be granted under the old rules.

2. In all other cases the course directed in para. 12 of the Hon. Court's despatch, published in the government general order above cited, is invariably to be pursued.

THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR OF BENGAL.

Fort William, Home Department, May 1, 1854.—The Hon. Frederick James Halliday has this day taken the prescribed oaths, and assumed charge of the lieutenant-governorship of the Bengal division of the presidency of Fort William, under the usual salute, in virtue of his appointment thereto by the orders of the most Noble the Governor-General in Council, dated the 28th ultimo.

THE COUNCIL OF INDIA.

Fort William, Home Department, May 1, 1854.—A vacancy having occurred in the Council of India by the resignation of the Hon. Frederick James Halliday of his seat in council, John Peter Grant, Esq., has this day, by virtue of his appointment by the Hon. the Court of Directors, taken the oaths and his seat as third ordinary member of council, under the usual salute from the ramparts of Fort William.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ALLEN, C. to offic. as sec. to gov. of India, home dept. until further orders, May 1.
ANNAND, A. S. to offic. as mag. coll. and salt. ag. of Pooree, and asst. to supt. of tribut. Mehals.
BENNETT, J. R. B. to be post-mr. gen.
BEST, J. R. to offic. as mag. and coll. of Ghazee-pore, dur. abs. of Thornhill.
BLACKALL, A. K. extra asst. in the Punjab, to ch. of treasury, at Huzara.
BRANDRETH, J. E. L. to be dept. commis. 2nd class, in the Punjab, April 28.
BREKERTON, H. to be dep. commis. 2nd class, in the Punjab.
CARNAC, W. J. R. to be dep. commis. 1st class, in the Punjab.
COLVIN, B. W. to offic. as jun. asst. comm. of Kumaon, dur. abs. of Hay.
COOPER, B. H. to conduct duties of mag. of Pooree, and asst. to supt. of tribut. Mehals, till rel. by Mr. Annand.
COUPER, G. to be under-sec. to gov. of India, foreign dept. but to continue to act in home dept. May 1.
DENISON, C. B. to be dep. commis. 3rd class, in the Punjab.

* G. G. O. No 110, of Feb. 1, 1854.

DRUMMOND, Hon. E. to offic. as accountant to govt. of Bengal, to be a memb. of the mint committee, also act as accountant in mil. dep. and dept. acct. gen. to govt. of India, dur. abs. of Walker.

DUNBAR, J. to be a memb. of the board of revenue, but to cont. to offic. as a judge of the sudder court, dur. abs. of G. A. C. Plowden, till further orders, April 29.

EDGEWORTH, M. P. commis. of the Mooltan div. to be commis. and superint. of the trans-Sutlej states, May 1.

EDMONSTONE, G. F. to be sec. to govt. of India, foreign dept. May 1; rec. ch. of office of sec. to govt. of India, in foreign dept. May 1.

GRANT, D. to offic. as jt. mag. and dep. coll. of Ghazepore.

GREENWAY, W. A. paymr. at Agra, on special duty at Lahore, services pl. temp. at disp. of govt. of India, for service in Pegu.

GREY, W. to be sec. to govt. of Bengal, May 1.

HARRISON, E. F. to be 3rd asst. to acct. gen. to govt. of India, and the acct. of govt. of Bengal.

HOBHOUSE, C. P. to be 2nd asst. to acct. gen. to govt. of India, and the acct. to govt. of Bengal; to be auditor of the accounts of the administrator gen. in Bengal for 1854-5.

KAVANAGH, T. H. extra asst. at Mooltan, to ch. of civil treasury at that station, May 9.

LANCE, G. E. to be dep. commissr. 3rd class, in the Punjab, April 28.

LEE, H. J. to be auditor of the accounts of the administrator-gen. in Bengal, for 1854-5.

LUSHINGTON, C. H. to offic. as secy. to govt. of India, financial dept. until further orders; to offic. also as president of the mint committee, May 1.

MACLEOD, D. F. commis. and superint. of trans-Sutlej states; to be financial commis. of the Punjab, May 1.

MADOCKS, R. H. to be dep. commis. 3rd class, in the Punjab, April 28.

MANGLES, R. L. qual. for pub. service, attached to Bengal div. presidency of Fort William, May 8.

M'DONELL, W. F. to be in ch. of the sub. div. of the Sewan, dur. abs. of J. F. Lynch, or till further orders, April 28.

M'LEOD, D. F. commis. of trans-Sutlej states, made over ch. of duties to Major S. Abbott, and assu. ch. of financial comm. office.

MELVILL, P. S. to be dept. commis. 3rd class in the Punjab.

FLOWDEN, G. A. C. to be a judge of the court of Sudder Dewanny and Nizamut Adawlut, with powers of a special commis. April 29.

RICKETTS, G. H. M. to be asst. commis. 1st class in the Punjab.

SAUNDERS, R. T. qual. for pub. serv. attached to N. W. provinces and the Punjab, April 29.

SHORE, R. N. to be a memb. of the local commis. of pub. inst. at Beerbhoom, April 29.

SMSON, D. to be dep. commis. 3rd class in the Punjab, April 28.

SMITH, G. H. perm. to resign the Company's service fr. May 1.

TEMPLE, R. to be dep. commis. 2nd class in the Punjab, April 28.

WEDDERBURN, J. to be dep. commis. 2nd class in the Punjab.

YOUNG, J. H. to offic. as coll. of Burdwan.

YOUNG, W. G. to be under sec. to Gov. of India, home dept. but to cont. to act in his present office under govt. of Bengal until further orders, May 1; to be under-sec. in finance dept. and sec. to mint com. of Calcutta, May 1.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BLUNT, W. 1 mo.

CARNEY, P. 3 mo.

HAMPTON, R. 10 days.

HAY, W. J. 8 mo. fr. April 15, on m. c.

JENKINS, A. asst. commis. in the Punjab, 1 mo. to enable him to join his appt.

LYNCH, J. F. dep. mag. of Sewan, 6 mo. on m. c.

MANGLES, R. L. 3 mo. on m. c.

OUSELEY, J. D. asst. to mag. and coll. of Moorshedabad, 1 mo.

THORNHILL, R. B. 1 mo.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ANDERSON, Capt. G. G. 15th N.I. ret. to duty, May 6.

ANDERSON, Capt. J. engs. to be a supt. eng. in dept. of public works, posted to 1st circle Punjab, May 3.

ATKINSON, Capt. F. D. 1st asst. sec. to Govt. of India, military dept. to act as dep. sec. May 2.

BAGSHAW, Capt. S. R. 7th N.I. to be maj. fr. May 7, in suc. to Coventry, dec.

BALDWIN, 1st Lieut. C. engs. to act as station staff offr. at Promé.

BANKS, Maj. J. S. dep. sec. to Govt. of India, military dept. to act as military sec. to the Gov. Gen. May 2, until further orders.

BARWELL, Lieut. E. W. 13th N.I. to be adj. Hurrianah lt. inf. batt. v. Hilliard.

BAX, Lieut. G. J. 48th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.

BEECHER, Capt. J. R. to be dep. commr. 1st class in the Punjab.

BOILEAU, Lieut.-col. A. H. E. engs. to be a supt. eng. in dept. of public works, posted to 2nd circle N.W. provinces, May 3.

BOISRAGON, Lieut. T. W. R. to offic. as 2nd in com. Kemsoon batt. in add. to his adjcy.

BRANDER, Lieut. M. J. 10th N.I. having passed exam. to be a sub. asst. com. gen. in Pegu fr. Nov. 30.

BRISTOW, Capt. J. W. to be asst. commis. 2nd class in the Punjab, April 28.

CAMPBELL, Maj. R. 43rd N.I. resu. com. of Hurrianah light inf. batt.

CAMPBELL, Ens. W. C. D. 8th N.I. passed colloq. exam.

CAUTLEY, Lieut.-col. P. T. art. director of Ganges canal, ret. fr. serv. of E.I.C. on pens. of a col. May 11.

CHESTER, Ens. H. D. E. W. to do du. 19th N.I. at Lucknow, April 26.

CHRISTIE, Brev. lieut.-col. J. 3rd L.C. resu. com. of 9th irr. cav. fr. May 1.

CLARKE, Maj. J. to be dept. commis. 2nd class in the Punjab.

CLAY, Lieut. E. B. to act as adjt. fr. May 11 to a wing of the 22nd of Goorka regt. proceeding to Attock on treasure escort duty.

CLOSTOUN, Lieut. E. L. 34th N.I. to be adj. of 4th Punjab cav.

CRACROFT, Lieut. J. to be asst. commis. 1st class in the Punjab.

CRIPPS, Capt. J. M. to be asst. commis. 1st class in the Punjab.

DANVERS, Ens. R. W. to do duty with 48th N.I. at Barrackpore.

ECKFORD, Lieut. J. J. 6th N.I. to temp. ch. of Dacca div. of public works, May 4.

EDWARDS, Capt. G. R. asst. gen. supt. rec. ch. of office of gen. supt. of operations for suppression of Thuggee and Dacoitee, fr. Capt. Sleeman.

ELIOTT, Capt. W. R. to be asst. commis. 1st class in the Punjab.

FARQUHARSON, Capt. L. J. 6th L.C. to continue to offic. as adjt.

FENWICK, Lieut. A. B. adjt. 9th irr. cav. to be 2nd in com. v. Tytler, prom.

FERRIS, Capt. A. S. 12th N.I. to be 2nd asst. mil. and gen.

FRASER, Lieut.-col. H. C.B. engs. to be a supt. eng. in dept. of public works; posted to 2nd circle, lower provinces, May 3.

FULTON, Lieut. J. art. services pl. at disposal of civ. engs. in the Punjab, for empl. on the Baree Doab canal, Apr. 28.

GERRARD, Maj. J. G. supervisor of the Hissar stud, but now in Burmah, serv. repl. at disp. of govt.

GOTT, Capt. W. C. 56th N.I. to offic. as dep. paymr. Sirhind circ. dur. abs. of Brev. maj. Burt.

GORDON, Lieut. R. K. 2nd in com. 2nd hill regt. Sikh local inf. to offic. also as adj. on dep. of Ferris.

GRANT, Capt. C. D. asst. commis. in Pegu, ass. ch. of the dist. of Sarawah, April 19.

GRANT, Ens. A. P. to do duty with 33rd N.I. at Barrackpore.

HAMILTON, Lieut. J. vet. estab. and asst. com. of ord. to hold ch. of Allahabad Magazine, dur. abs. of Capt. Channer.

HAMILTON, Sir R. Bart. agent to gov. gen. for central India, ass. ch. of his office, April 17.

HAMILTON, G. W. dep. commis. of Mooltan, to be commis. of the Mooltan div. April 28.

HANDSCOMB, Lieut. col. J. H. on furl. transf. fr. 40th to 72nd N.I. fr. June 15.

HILLIARD, Lieut. T. H. adj. Hurrianah lt. inf. batt. to be 2nd in com. v. Stafford.

HARRIS, Lieut. R. R. 67th N.I. act. temp. as interp. and qr. mr. to corps, v. D'Oyley.

HARRISON, Cornet, J. H. to be lieut. fr. May 2, in succ. to Toone, retired.

HAWES, Lieut. H. J. to be asst. commis. 2nd class in the Punjab.

HICKS, Lieut.-col. G. C.B. 21st N.I. to be col. of inf.

INGRAM, 2nd Lieut. J. S. 1st Eur. fus. to be 1st lieut. fr. May 10, in succ. to Palmer, prom.

IRWIN, Surg. H. 59th N.I. to med. ch. of garrison hospital and 2nd comp. 1st batt. art. at Umritsir, dur. abs. of Brown.

JAMES, Capt. H. R. to be dept. commis. 1st class in the Punjab.

JAMES, Capt. H. C. 32nd N.I. to be private sec. and a.-d.-c. to the lieut. gov. of Bengal, May 1.

KEYES, Lieut. C. P. 2nd in com. 1st Punjab inf. to offic. as adj. dur. abs. of Lieut. E. J. Travers.

LARKINS, Capt. W. to be dep. commis. 2nd class in the Punjab.

LAUGHTON, Capt. J. engs. to be a supt. eng. in dept. of public works posted to 2nd circle Punjab.

LEIGH, Lieut. R. T. 7th N.I. qual. as interp. to be capt. of a comp. fr. May 7, in suc. to Bagshawe, prom.

MALCOLM, Maj. D. A. to be resident at Baroda, May 5.

MAXWELL, 1st Lieut. H. 1st Eur. Beng. fus. has furnished the certificate of qualification as a surveyor.

MILLIGAN, Lieut. art. has attained the standard of proficiency prescribed by orders of the Govt. of Bengal, of March 9, 1852, in Oordoo and Hindee.

MINCHIN, Brev. maj. F. S. 67th N.I. perm. to retire from the serv. of the comp. on pens. of a major, fr. date of departure of the mid-monthly mail of May, 1854.

MOLLER, Lieut. H. 11th N.I. returned to duty.

NICHOLETTES, Capt. C. H. to act as int. an qr. mr. to 1st L.C. till further orders.

OLDFIELD, Ens. H. T. 9th N.I. to act as adj. to left wing proc. to Attock.

OMMANNEY, Capt. E. L. engs. to be a supt. eng. in dept. of public works, posted to 1st circle, lower provinces.

PALMER, Lieut. C. O. B. 1st Eur. fus. to be capt. of a comp. from May 10, in suc. to Combe, ret.

PARLBY, Ens. B. S. B. 7th N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 7, in suc. to Leigh, prom.

PASLEY, Ens. G. J. 7th N.I. to be lieut. fr. April 26, v. Sin, dec.

PEARSE, Lieut. G. C. to be asst. commis. 1st class, in the Punjab.

PETER, Lieut. C. W. 42nd L.I. to act as adj. dur. abs. of Macqueen.
 PETRIE, Lieut. M. 4th Punjab inf. 2nd in com. to offic. as adj. dur. abs. of Lieut. J. A. Steel.
 POLLOCK, Lieut. F. R. to be dep. commiss. 3rd class, in the Punjab, Apr. 28.
 POWELL, Ens. J. W. B. 69th N.I. passed colloq. exam.
 PROBYN, Lieut. D. M. 2nd Punjab irr. cav. act. adj. to offic. as 2nd in com. dur. abs. of Lieut. Nicholson.
 RAGGLES, Lieut. J. 41st N.I. ret. to duty, May 6.
 REID, Lieut. B. T. to be asst. commiss. 1st class, in the Punjab.
 RICE, Maj. J. G. A. 2nd asst. to act as 1st asst. secy. to govt. of India, military dept. May 2.
 RUSK, Lieut. A. L. to be asst. commiss. 1st class in the Punjab.
 RYDER, Lieut. S. C. D. 14th N.I. to be interp. and qu. mr. v. Lieut. H. Smith, on furl.
 SAGE, Lieut. col. W. engs. 14th N.I. to be a supt. eng. dept. of public works, posted to 2nd circle N.W. provinces, May 3.
 SCORCE, Ens. H. to do duty 50th N.I. at Benares.
 SMITH, Capt. A. S. 3rd Punjab irr. inf. 2nd in com. to act as com. dur. abs. of Capt. Henderson.
 SMITH, Capt. R. B. engs. to offic. as director of Ganges Canal, and supt. of canals N. W. provinces, dur. abs. of Lieut. col. P. T. Cautley.
 STAFFORD, Capt. W. J. F. Hurreeah lt. inf. batt. to be com. v. Campbell, res.
 TAYLOR, Ens. A. 25th N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 2.
 TAYLOR, Lieut. T. 14th N.I. to act as adjt. dur. abs. of Armstrong on m.c.
 TEMPLER, Maj. H. 7th N.I. to be lieut. col. of inf.
 THAIN, Ens. A. S. to do du. 50th N.I. at Benares.
 TREMENER, Lieut. col. G. B. eng. to be a supt. eng. in dept. of public works; posted to 3rd circle, Pegu, May 2.
 TYTLER, Capt. J. M. B. 2nd in com. 9th irr. cav. to be com. v. Brev. Lieut.-col. J. Christie, res.
 WADDY, Capt. W. P. to remain in ch. of 6th co. 8th batt. art. and No. 15 lt. field bat. att. dur. abs. of Sismore.
 WARD, Ens. E. to do du. 50th N.I. at Benares.
 WARNER, Lieut. E. C. 2nd L.C. to be capt. of a troop fr. May 2, in succ. to Toone, ret.
 WHEATLEY, Lieut. col. A. new prom. on leave, posted to 5th L.C.
 WHITELOCK, Capt. G. F. 13th N.I. to act as interp. and qu. mr. pro tem. there being no qual. subaltern available for the situation, dur. abs. of Aitkin.
 WILFORD, 1st Lieut. C. E. 1st Eur. Ben. fus. ret. to duty May 6.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT DATES SPECIFIED.

COX, W. E. May 6.
 FAGAN, H. May 6.

INFANTRY.

JACOB, H. J. C. May 6.
 WALTERS, J. S. May 6.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ANDERSON, Lieut. A. J. 38th L.I. to Oct. 15, Nynce Tal.
 ANDERSON, Lieut. col. W. C. B. 6 mo. to remain at the presidency prep. to appl. for perm. to proc. to sea, old rules.
 ARMSTRONG, Ens. F. M. 27th N.I. fr. April 25 to Oct. 15, to Umballah and hills north of Deyrah, old reg.
 BAINBRIDGE, Ens. E. T. 64th N.I. leave cancelled.
 BASILICO, Lieut. A. 11th N.I. 5 mo. fr. May 15, to Meerut, Nynce Tal, and Almorah, old reg.
 BECHER, Brev. maj. C. G. 8th irreg. cav. fr. April 3 to Oct. 15, to Mussoorie, on m.c. old rules.
 BENNETT, Ens. J. S. 1st N.I. fr. April 15 to Nov. 1, to Murree and adjacent hills, on m.c. old rules.
 BRADFORD, Lieut. col. J. F. 1st L.C. to Nov. 20, hills N. of Deyrah, on m.c.
 BRODIE, Lieut. C. G. 25th N.I. to July 8, prep. to Europe, on m.c.
 BROWN, 1st Lieut. G. R. art. fr. April 15 to Oct. 15, to Cashmere, old rules.
 CAMPBELL, Maj. R. fr. May 1 to Oct. 15, to Delhi and Mussoorie, old rules.
 CHITTY, Brev. maj. R. 40th N.I. to June 30, prep. to retiring.
 COOMBS, Lieut. R. R. 42nd N.I. 3 yrs. to Europe, on furl. old rules.
 CONOLLY, Lieut. W. P. 46th N.I. 2 yrs. to Europe, on m.c.
 DENNIS, Lieut. col. G. G. inv. estab. to June 5, in ext.
 DOUGLAS, Lieut. col. C. 56th N.I. to Nov. 1, to Simla, on m.c.
 FOWLE, Lieut. C. B. 22nd N.I. fr. March 1 to April 1, in ext. prep. to submit an application for furl. to Europe.
 GOAD, Capt. C. E. 67th N.I. 3 mo. fr. Feb. 12, to Moultmein, on m.c. old reg.
 GORDON, Capt. W. 49th N.I. leave canc.
 GORDON, Capt. J. 3rd L.C. fr. May 2 to Oct. 15, to Mussoorie.
 GWATKIN, Brig. E. com. at Delhi, fr. May 1 to Nov. 25, to Mussoorie, on m.c. old reg.
 HAGART, Capt. C. 52nd N.I. 2 yrs. to Europe, on furl. new reg.
 HARDINGE, Lieut. G. N. fr. April 8 to Nov. 15, to remain at Simla, on m.c.
 HILLERSON, Capt. W. R. 53rd N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to remain at Mussoorie, old reg.
 JAMES, Capt. M. 28th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 11, to Landour and hills north of Deyrah, old reg.

JERDAN, Lieut. J. 43rd N.I. fr. April 20 to Nov. 30, to Simla, on m.c. old rules.
 MACKINTYRE, Ens. D. 66th or Goorka regt. leave canc.
 MILL, Capt. J. art. fr. April 15 to Nov. 30, to Mussoorie on m.c. old rules.
 NEED, Capt. C. 5th irr. cav. to Oct. 15, to Cashmere.
 NICHOLSON, Lieut. C. J. 2nd in com. 2nd regt. Punjab irr. cav. fr. May 1 to Oct. 31, to Cashmere.
 PRATT, Lieut. D. 22nd N.I. 2 mo. fr. March 25, to Bombay, on m.c. new reg.
 PUGHE, Capt. J. R. 47th N.I. 4 mo. fr. May 20, to pres. and Dacca, old reg.
 ROBERTSON, Capt. R. supt. of Bhuttceana, 1 mo.
 SALKELD, Capt. J. C. 5th N.I. fr. May 1 to Oct. 15, to Simla and Mussoorie, old reg.
 SHAW, Lieut. C. 57th N.I. to Oct. 15.
 SHAW, Ens. W. F. 43rd L.I. fr. May 1 to Oct. 15, to Landour, on m.c.
 SLEEMAN, Capt. J. 73rd N.I. 6 mo. to Europe, on furl. new reg.
 STAPLETON, Cornet, R. T. P. 1st L.C. fr. April 15 to Oct. 15, to hills north of Deyrah, on m.c. old rules.
 STEEL, Lieut. J. A. 4th Punjab inf. fr. May 1 to Oct. 31, to Mussoorie and hills north of Deyrah.
 STRANGWAYS, Capt. G. 71st N.I. 5 mo. to Simla.
 TALBOT, Maj. H. C. inv. estab. leave cancelled.
 TAYLOR, Lieut. A. F. art. 3 yrs. to Eur. on m.c.
 THOMPSON, Lieut. E. fr. April 15 to Oct. 15, to Cashmere, old rules.
 TROTTER, Capt. R. A. 43rd L.I. fr. April 17 to Nov. 30, to hills N. of Deyrah, on m.c. old rules.
 TUCKER, Brev. maj. T. T. 8th L.C. fr. April 24 to Nov. 15, to Nynce Tal, on m.c.
 VANREKEN, Ens. J. A. 54th N.I. fr. May 1 to Oct. 15, to Nynce Tal and hills N. of Deyrah, old reg.
 WILLIAMS, 1st Lieut. R. B. art. fr. April 15 to Oct. 15, to Cashmere, old rules.
 WYLD, Capt. W. 4th L.C. to Oct. 15, to Cashmere, on m.c.
 YOUNG, Capt. H. E. 64th N.I. to Oct. 15, Rawul Pindee and Murree Hills.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ANDERSON, Surg. F. M. D. 13th N.I. to aff. med. aid to detach. of 40th N.I. arrived at Dinapore.
 BEATSON, Dr. W. B. to be civ. asst. surg. of Chittagong, Apr. 25.
 BOUSFIELD, Asst. surg. S. G. to proc. to Seetapore, and relieve Surg. Naismith fr. med. ch. of 1st Oude local inf.
 BOYCOTT, Asst. surg. T. to be assay mr. Calcutta mint, in suc. to Dodd, May 4.
 BOYES, Asst. surg. W. R. M.D. 5th irr. cav. to aff. med. aid to art. div. v. Clark.
 BUCKLE, Asst. surg. H. B. to med. ch. of 3rd Sikh local inf. v. Farquhar.
 BUTT, Asst. surg. W. B. 1st Eur. Beng. fus. to assume med. ch. of detach. consisting of 1st Eur. Ben. fus. 65th N.I. Ramghur irreg. cav.
 COLVIN, B. W. to be asst. in the Rohilkund div. but to cont. to offic. as jun. asst. to commiss. of Kumaon, April 29.
 CRAWFORD, Asst. surg. J. D. A.B. and M.D. 1st irr. cav. rejoined fr. special detached duty, to resume med. ch. of 10th L.C. in add. to his other duties, May 6.
 CREWE, Asst. surg. A. G. do. duty in gen. hosp. to proc. and join art. at Dum Dum.
 CURRIE, Asst. surg. G. V. to do duty in Meerut circle.
 DALZEL, Asst. surg. W. F. B. M.D. to proceed to Kote Murdan, in Eusufzaie, and relieve Asst. surg. Tucker fr. med. ch. of guide corps, May 6.
 DAVIES, Dr. J. at present in med. ch. of Sandoway, to the separate med. ch. of the jail and civ. estabs. of Basein.
 DE RENZY, Asst. surg. A. C. C. passed exam. of Burmese.
 ELLIOT, Asst. surg. J. M.D. to duty in Pegu circle.
 FARNCOMBE, Asst. surg. T. B. to do duty with art. at Dum-Dum.
 FRANCIS, Asst. surg. C. R. M.B. is reappointed to temp. performance of special duty in Kumaon and Gurhwal, April 29.
 GRAHAM, Asst. surg. W. to offic. as dep. assay master of mint.
 HOYE, Vet. surg. J. R. 1st brig. h. art. to aff. prof. aid to horses of 3rd regt. lt. cav. v. Parry.
 KNIGHT, Asst. surg. R. C. M.D. to be civ. asst. surg. of Bijnore.
 LAWRENCE, Asst. surg. J. J. T. to do duty with 3rd brig. h. art.
 LVELL, Asst. surg. R. M.D. to be 1st asst. and opium exam. at Benares; to aff. med. aid to a detach. of 42nd N.I. on duty at Ghazeeapore.
 MACANSH, Surg. J. 17th, to aff. med. aid to 26th N.I.
 MACLEAN, Asst. surg. L. H. J. to do duty in Meerut circle.
 MANN, Surg. G. S. 28th N.I. to med. ch. of civil station and jail at Umballah, April 25.
 MCRAE, Surg. J. 8th L.C. to med. ch. 57th N.I. v. Webb.
 MOORHEAD, Asst. surg. E. M.D. to ass. med. ch. of troops at Subathoo.
 MOSGROVE, Asst. surg. F. J. M. dep. med. storekeeper, to be postmr. of Neemuch, April 25.
 NAISMITH, Surg. J. M.D. 61st N.I. to continue in med. ch. of 1st Oude local inf.

PASKE, Assist. surg. T. C. to receive med. ch. of sappers and miners at Promé, and to afford med. aid to the detach. of 47th N.I. on departure of Asst. surg. Currie.

PICHTALL, Asst. surg. J. to proc. to Loodianah, and relieve Asst. surg. Corbyn fr. med. ch. of troops and civ. estab.

RUSSELL, Surg. T. 34th, to aff. med. aid to 61st N.I.

SPRY, Asst. surg. W. H. to proceed to Delhi, and aff. med. aid to the garrison.

TIERNY, Asst. surg. J. F. to do duty with 81st foot at Meerut.

TOWNSEND, Asst. surg. S. C. to offic. as asst. gen. surg. at Delhi, v. Paton.

TOWNSEND, Asst. surg. S. C. 26th N.I. to aff. med. aid to 6th co. 8th batt. art. and No. 15 light fd. batt. att.

TUCKER, Asst. surg. St. G. W. to rejoin 14th irr. cav. May 6.

TUSON, Asst. surg. J. E. to proc. to Kohat and ass. med. ch. of 4th Punjab cav. May 11; to med. ch. of 1st Punjab cav. dur. abs. of Ross.

WATSON, Asst. surg. J. C. 4th Punjab cav. to med. ch. of corps, and to join.

WHITE, Asst. surg. W. to med. ch. of detail hospital depôt, Bengal troops and comm. followers, May 5.

WILSON, Surg. T. W. M.D. to offic. as civ. surg. of Moorshedabad dur. abs. of Kean.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT THE DATES SPECIFIED.

EARLE, F. J. May 2.
GRAHAM, H. W. May 6.
JAMES, E. May 2.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BROWN, Asst. surg. J. B. T. from April 20 to Nov. 20, to Simla, on m.c. old reg.

LEE, Asst. surg. T. M. 18 mo.

MURCHISON, Asst. surg. C. M.D. 1 yr. to Europe, on furl. old reg.

HER MAJESTY'S FORCES IN THE EAST.

STAFF.

Capt. Stapylton, 98th, to act as asst. adj. gen. of H.M.'s Forces in India.

CAVALRY.

9th Lanc. Lieut. H. Scott, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Simla, Mussoorie, and hills n. of Deyrah.—14th Lt. Drags. Lieut. col. E. Stewart, to May 1, to Bombay, and 1 yr. to England; Capt. R. B. Pretjohn, 6 mo. to Nynee Tal, Mussoorie, and hills n. of Deyrah; Lieut. W. D'U. Blyth, May 1 to Oct. 15, to hills n. of Deyrah.

INFANTRY.

10th. Capt. J. V. H. Montague, April 20 to Oct. 19, to Simla and hills n. of Deyrah, on m.c.; Capt. S. B. Lamb, 6 mo. to Murree and Cashmere; Lieut. Robertson, to May 15, in ext.; Asst. surg. Rennie, April 29 to Oct. 19, to Simla and hills n. of Deyrah.—24th. Pay mr. G. A. Ferrier, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Murree, on m.c.; Asst. surg. J. L. Houlaway, May 1 to Oct. 18, to Cashmere and hills n. of Deyrah, on m.c.—32nd. Lieut. B. Van Straubenzee, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Cashmere and hills n. of Deyrah; Lieut. W. Power, 6 mo. to Simla and hills n. of Deyrah; Lieut. H. King, 6 mo. to Simla and hills n. of Deyrah; Lieut. P. Primrose, 6 mo. to hills n. of Simla, Ens. C. M. Foster, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Cashmere and hills n. of Deyrah.—52nd. Lieut. col. R. G. Hughes, May 5 to Nov. 1, to Simla, on m.c.; Ens. Lord W. C. M. D. Scott, May 1 to June 30, to Simla.—53rd. Capt. Colman, to act as interp.—61st. Capt. W. E. D. Deacon, to June 1, in ext.; Lieut. J. Crawford, to June 10, on m.c.; Lieut. Gabbett, leave canc.—70th. Capt. A. H. C. Snow, to Aug. 31; Capt. A. G. Shawe, to July 25, to Bombay, and 2 yrs. to England, on m.c.; Lieut. W. T. M'Gregor, 7 mo. to Landour, and hills n. of Deyrah; Ens. Tovey, leave alt. to Simla, and hills n. of Deyrah.—75th. Major E. Hickey, April 9 to Nov. 30, in ext.; Lieut. H. Cowell and Ens. E. V. Briscoe, to Oct. 31, to Cashmere; Asst. surg. A. F. Turner, to July 14.—78th. Surg. Webster, to perf. du. of dep. inspect. gen. of hospitals in Bombay; Lieut. T. Anderson, resigned appt. of asst. to superintend rev. surveyor and assessment S. Mahratta country.—81st. Capt. R. B. Chichester, and Lieut. F. S. De Vere Lane, 6 mo. to Mussoorie, and hills n. of Deyrah.—86th. Lieut. col. A. S. H. Aplin, to be brev. col.—87th. Surg. R. G. D. Banon, fr. 96th v. Swift, who exch.; Lieut. O. Fitzgerald, to Oct. 16, to Kurrachee; 2nd Lieut. W. C. Mackinnon, to act as interp. to 32nd.—96th. Lieut. P. Hunter and P. S. Alcock, to Oct. 15, to Darjeeling; Surg. B. Swift, fr. 87th, v. Banon, who exchanges.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

ABERCROMBIE, the lady of Robt. C.S. d. at Beerboon, May 9.

ANAKIEL, wife of C. G. s. at Calcutta, May 14.

BERRESFORD, Mrs. d. at Delhi, May 10.

BRIANT, wife of F. C. d. at Cawnpore, April 19.

BURN, wife of Maj. H. P. s. at Fort William, May 1.

CLARK, Mrs. H. W. s. at Dacca, April 21.

DAVIDSON, the lady of C. T. C.S. s. still-born, at Dacca, May 6.

DE URILLA, wife of J. s. at Calcutta, April 29.

FLATMAN, wife of J. d. at Umballa, May 5.

FRANCIS, wife of W. d. at Calcutta, May 11.

GERRARD, wife of A. d. at Calcutta, April 30.

GIBBON, wife of James, s. at Garden Reach, April 29.

HINE, Mrs. W. d. at Allyghur, May 11.

HOFLAND, wife of G. s. at Vizagapatam, April 24.

JONES, wife of T. s. at Calcutta, May 10.

KEIGHLEY, wife of Capt. C. H. 44th N.I. s. at Dacca, May 6.

LEE, Mrs. D. H. d. still-born, at Calcutta, May 4.

MOFFAT, wife of Capt. A. K. 58th N.I. (still-born child), May 5.

NEMBARD, the lady of Maj. S. J. 56th N.I. d. at Umballah, May 10.

O'BRIEN, Mrs. E. s. at Calcutta, May 8.

QUIN, wife of P. E. H.M.'s 98th, s. at Darjeeling, April 23.

ROCHE, wife of J. W. d. at Lahore, May 11.

ROGERS, Mrs. J. K. s. at Calcutta, May 3.

RYLEY, wife of J. C. d. at Delhi, May 11.

SINCLAIR, Mrs. W. G. s. still-born, at Calcutta, May 12.

SISSMORE, the lady of Capt. E. 69th N.I. s. at Hosheypore, May 1.

SLADEN, the lady of R. C. H.M.'s 98th, d. at Fort William, May 12.

STEVENSON, wife of R. B. d. at Calcutta, April 30.

VANDERBECK, Mrs. J. s. at Calcutta, May 11.

VAUGHAN, Mrs. C. T. d. at Calcutta, May 4.

MARRIAGES.

ELLIOT, H. A. to Mary E. d. of the late D. Deremao, at Serdannah, April 21.

HAIDEN, J. V. to Miss Amelia Thornton, at Calcutta, May 3.

HAMER, J. F. to Miss Annie Murphey, at Calcutta, May 12.

HOFSTADT, J. H. to Miss Alice Cripps, at Calcutta, April 25.

MURRAY, Lieut. J. I. 71st N.I. to Wilhelmina S. d. of Maj. D. A. Malcolm, at Gwalior, April 29.

OUSSELY, Lieut. R. 48th N.I. to Elizabeth A. d. of Maj. H. Palmer, at Barrackpore, May 9.

PEDDIE, D. K. to Miss Rachel Carter, at Calcutta, May 1.

SCHORN, E. S. to Jessie C. d. of the late T. Shermas, at Calcutta, April 29.

STUART, T. to Miss Jane A. Lefevre, at Calcutta, May 1.

URQUHART, Lieut. T. D. art. to Charlotte, d. of Lieut. col. Goldie, at Calcutta, May 11.

DEATHS.

BRAN, Lieut. C. 25th N.I. at Calcutta, May 2.

CAMPBELL, C. at Calcutta, aged 52, May 8.

COTTON, Marianne, wife of Col. S. H.M.'s 22nd, at Murree, May 3.

COVENTRY, Col. C. 70th N.I. at Barrackpore, May 7.

GILCHRIST, Letitia, wife of James, at Calcutta, aged 35, May 4.

HAIR, Elizabeth, wife of W. F. at Calcutta, aged 28.

JELLYCOE, Capt. G. at Calcutta, aged 57, May 2.

MACKLIN, E. Ann, inf. d. of J. E. at Futtighur, May 5.

OSBORNE, Miss Louisa H. at sea, on board the steamer Sir F. Currie, aged 26, May 2.

ROGERS, D. at Meerut, aged 28, April 28.

ROBINSON, Julia R. d. of John, at Calcutta, May 10.

SCHAPPY, J. at Calcutta, aged 28, May 6.

SIM, Lieut. H. G. 7th N.I. at Berhampore.

STORM, W. at Chandernagore, April 29.

TOLLEMACHE, Lieut. A. art. at Umballa, April 28.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

APRIL 30. Screw steamer Chusan, Down, Sydney.—MAY 1. Maria Somes, Davis, Port Phillip; Winterturk, Kerating, Melbourne.—2. Steamer Bentinck, Bouchard, Suez; Rensai, Seaman, Boston and Melbourne.—3. Steamship Formosa, Tregear, Hong-Kong, Singapore, and Penang; Arratoon, Apcer, Conner, China and Singapore; Ararat, Cochran, Bombay; Kedgeree, Labister, Liverpool.—5. Mail steamer Argo, Hyde, Plymouth, St. Vincent, Ascension, Cape of Good Hope, and Mauritius, Galle and Madras.—8. Steamer Zenobia, Bennie, Rangoon.—10. Steamer Canton, Caldbeck, Hong-Kong, Singapore, and Penang.—11. Steamer Fire Queen, Burbank, Maulmein and Rangoon; Wadjatool Rachman, Pago, Bombay.—13. Veauue, Moreau, Nantes, Swansea, Ceylon, Point de Galle, and Pondicherry; Scindian, Cammell, London.—14. Steamer Berenice, Berthon, Rangoon and Basscin; Crosswell, Barnett, London and Trincomalie.—15. Steamer Oriental, Henry, Suez and Madras; Fatty Sultan, Fox, Bombay; Rolling Wave, Davis, Liverpool.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Chusan (April 30), from SYDNEY.—Miss Chapman.

Per Maria Somes (May 1), from PORT PHILLIP.—R. P. Longmore, Esq.

Per Formosa (May 3), from HONG-KONG.—Mr. Lemond, Capt. Hilton, and Mr. Francis.

Per Zenobia.—Capt. Darroch, H.M.'s 51st regt. and Lieut. Hickey, 1st B. F.

Per Canton.—Mr. Cloughton.

Per steamer Fire Queen (May 1), from RANGOON.—Capt. and Mrs. Hopkinson and child, Mrs. Barrett and 2 children, Rev. Bennett, Lieuts. Burrow and Fletcher, Messrs. Bazzulki, Dearman, Wendelstadt, Mathews, Jones, and Brown; Mrs. Cohen, Mrs. Isaac.

Per Wadjatool Rachman.—Mr. Rowe, master mariner.

Per Scindian (May 13), from LONDON.—Mr. and Miss Arthur, Mr. Odell, Mr. Kemp, Mr. Troup, Mr. Frith, and Dr. Kearney.

Per steamer Berenice (May 14), from RANGOON.—Capt. and Mrs. Hamilton, 1st M.N.I.; Mrs. Rumlen, Mr. and Mrs. Mead, Lieut. Turton, of the 76th B.N.I.

Per steamer Bentinck (May 2), from SUZ.—From SOUTHAMPTON.—Mr. J. Suter, Ensign Taylor, Mr. Alkin, Mr. Barle, Mr. James, Mr. Crepin,

Mr. H. B. Moody, Mr. Muller, P. and O. Co.'s service; Mr. Hosner, Lieut. Moller, Mrs. Davies, J. Shelden, S. Briggs, T. Frear, J. Sharpe, and J. Whipple, 2nd class. From MARSHALLE.—Mrs. Emmer and Mrs. Dalye. From BOMBAY to CALCUTTA.—Mr. Augier, Mr. Smith, Shapoorjee Naroojee, Pellorjee Franjee, Mr. Barnes, and Mr. Clouston. From MADRAS.—Mrs. R. A. Shanley and 2 infants, Ensign T. P. Tytler, and Mr. L. Kerrieh.

Per steamer Argo (May 5), from SOUTHAMPTON.—Messrs. J. S. Walters, W. E. Cox, H. J. Jacob, and H. Fagan, cadets; Ensign J. J. P. Fox, 61st regt.; Lieut. Ruggles, 41st B.N.I.; Mrs. Ruggles, Rev. George Prisham, Dr. Lamb, Miss Ricketts, Dr. Graham, Mrs. Graham, Miss Stewart, Capt. Anderson, 15th B.N.I.; Mrs. Anderson and infant, Lieut. Wriford, 1st Ben. Fus.; Mrs. Wriford, and W. K. Clementson. From CAPE of Good Hope.—Capt. and Mrs. Annesley. From MAURITIUS.—Lieut. Tritton. From MADRAS.—Miss Turton and George Crump.

Per steamer Oriental (May 15), from SUEZ.—From SOUTHAMPTON.—Lieut. Haldane, Messrs. Mene, Chalmers, Birch, Dopping, Allen, Davidson, McQueen, Nichol, Reynoldson, Polwart, Wheeler, and Judge; and Mrs. Beatson. From MALTA.—Mr. Bockling. From GALLE.—Mr. Dunston and Mr. Williams. From MADRAS.—Sir H. W. Seal, K.C.B.; Hon. B. Elliott, Rev. E. Morgan, and Mrs. Rousseau and son.

DEPARTURES.

APRIL 20.—Regina, Thornton, London; Anna, Barbel, Havre. MAY 1. Adelaide, Pavey, London; Clarissa, Johnston, Penang and Malacca; Arabella, Cobbs, Boston.—2. Recorder, Sharp, Liverpool; Prince Albert, Powell, Mauritius; steamer Bengal, Bowen, Madras, Ceylon, and Suez.—3. Hindoo, Miller, Singapore and China; Victoria, Smith, Singapore.—7. John Hepburne, Galatsun, Rangoon; Anne Longton, Copland, Liverpool; Eliza Penelope, Ramage, Rangoon; steamer Sesostris, Neblett, Arracan, Maulmein, and Rangoon; Hope, ———.—9. Monarch, Sheppard, Singapore.—12. City of Glasgow, Muir, London; Kleber, Crowell, Boston.—15. Steamer Bentinck, Madras and Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Bentinck (May 15), for MADRAS.—Mr. Ewing and Capt. Darrook. For ALEXANDRIA.—Mr. Schoeller. For MARSHALLE.—Mr. Pont and 3 children, Mr. Bataille and infant, and Mr. Morinet. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Major Minchin, Capt. Sleeman, Mr. E. D. Shaw and European servant, Capt. J. Smith, Col. P. T. Cautley, and Dr. Lee.

COMMERCIAL.

Calcutta, May 15, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.		Sell.	Buy.
Transfer Stock Paper 5 per cent.	prem.	6 0 to	6 2
New Co.'s 5 do.	.. ..	0 8 ..	0 12
Third Sica 4 do.	.. ..	0 6 ..	0 8
New Co.'s 4 do.	.. ..	Par. to 4 as.	prem.

BANK SHARES.

Bengal Bank (Co.'s Rs. 4,000)	..	2600 to 2650
Agra Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	700 to 710
N.W. Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	300 to 305

BANK OF BENGAL.

Discount on Government acceptances (3 months)	..	6 per cent.
Do. on private bills and notes	do. ..	4 per cent.
Interest on deposit of Co.'s paper..	.. ..	5 per cent.
Do. on open cash credit accounts	.. ..	5 per cent.
On deposit of Metals, &c.	.. ..	7 per cent.

PRICES OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Sycee Silver	..... Co.'s Rs. 104 4 to 104 12	} per sa. wt.
China Gold Bars	..... 15 12 .. 16 8
Gold Dust	..... 13 0 .. 13 8
Spanish Dollars	..... 225 12 .. 226 12	} per 100.
Mexican ditto	..... 223 12 .. 224 4
Sovereigns	..... 10 0 .. 10 1	} each.
Madras Gold Mohurs	..... 16 0 .. 16 4
Old Gold Mohurs	..... 20 6 .. 20 8

EXCHANGES.

Six months' sight Bills are 2s. 0½d. Treasury Bills, at 30 days' sight, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¼d. Navy Bills, at 3 days' sight, and Bank of England Post Bills at sight, 1s. 11d. to 1s. 11¼d.

FREIGHTS.

To London, 7l. to 7l. 5s.; to Liverpool, nominal.

IMPORTS (Calcutta, May 16, 1854).—The import market has shown some signs of animation. British Cotton Goods have been in better inquiry amongst the native dealers, and large transactions in Grey Goods, especially Shirtings, have taken place at slightly higher prices. Twill has given way a little, say 1 to 2 pices, according to number.

MADRAS.

PROGRESS OF THE ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH IN INDIA.—The Bangalore Herald thus writes: "We learn that the electric telegraph between this place and Madras is rapidly advancing toward completion; the pillars are up, and the supply of wire has for some time been ready, at different points along the road. Last week the wire was begun to be put up from this terminus, and we believe the whole line is to be opened shortly."

EMBARKATION OF BRIGADIER STEEL.—A salute of eleven guns was fired on the 11th ultimo, on the occasion of the embarkation of Brigadier General Sir S. W. Steel, K.C.B., commanding the Pegu division, on board the steamer Oriental.

A SALUTE of fifteen guns was also fired on the occasion of the embarkation for Calcutta of the Hon. Daniel Elliott, Esq., member of Council, on board the steamer Oriental.

DEATH OF A WEALTHY NATIVE.—Intelligence has reached Madras of the death of Bunsedar, a wealthy soucar. He was taken ill a short distance from Trichinopoly, and died a few hours after reaching that station. He died worth thirty lacs of rupees.

THE WEATHER.—For several mornings past the sky at daybreak has betokened the near approach of rain; heavy banks of clouds rising up from the south, while the horizon seaward presents those peculiar ragged and columnar clouds which are ordinarily the forerunners of a heavy downpour; but as the day advances, all the vapoury masses appear gradually to dissipate into thin air, and leave not a rack behind, to checker the bright blue in which the sun glows like a disc of red-hot metal; and long ere midday all the hopes which man and animals, and thirsty plants, had formed of refreshing showers, are ended in disappointment.

A NEW ACADEMY.—A meeting of the East-Indian community was held in May, at the Polytechnic Institution, for the purpose of carrying into effect the intentions of the late Captain Doveton, of the Nizam's service, in respect to the establishment of an educational institution for the resident Christian community of Madras, similar in principle and constitution to the Parental Academy at Calcutta, by means of his legacy to them of two lacs of rupees. A plan of the constitution of the new college was determined on at this meeting.

EXPORTATION OF INDIAN DOMESTIC SERVANTS.—A despatch has been received from the Court of Directors, authorizing this government to advance one half of the estimated expenses for sending out two hundred emigrants (being young persons) of both sexes to Australia, who may be willing to enter into engagements as household servants. The remaining moiety, it will be remembered, is to be paid by the Colonial Government, and the reimbursement of the whole advance will be made by the emigrants, out of the wages of the first two years of their employment. This will form a highly valuable opening for the poorer class of East Indians, who may have some acquaintance with the duties required, and are industriously disposed. The duty of selection and arrangement is left with the Emigration Society, who will at once stir actively in the matter; the government, of course, being informed of, and retaining a control over, the whole.—Spectator.

LITHOGRAPHIC STONES can be procured in Southern India, equal to the best of those now imported from Germany, and at one-fifteenth of the price. Thirty years ago, Col. Gerard used these stones at Madras, and the experiment was subsequently repeated by Col. Jervis at Bombay. No further steps, however, were taken to improve a trade which might have become important.

DISCOVERY OF TREASURE.—A rancee in one of the districts recently ceded by the Nizam has discovered a treasure amounting to sixty lacs of rupees. The Madras United Service Gazette confirms the report, and adds that by Regulation XI. of 1832, fifty-nine lacs will belong to Government. Only one lac is reserved to the finder.

MILITARY ON-DITS.—The right wing of H.M.'s 94th regt. arrived at the presidency, May 10, from Poonamallee, and encamped on the Lighthouse Esplanade until its embarkation for England. The regiment embarked for England on board the ship Hampshire on the morning of the 15th May.—We (Athenæum) record the demise of Lieut. Willoughby Temple Byam, of the 7th L.C. on the 6th May, at Saugor. This casualty promotes Cornet William Tompson to a lieutenancy.—A court-martial on Lieut. W. H. Dowbiggin, of the 6th L.C. has ended in his acquittal of the most serious part of the charge brought against him.

LORD HARRIS'S FIRST LEVEE.—His Excellency the Governor held his first levee in the early part of May. The scene (writes the Athenæum) was much the same as that which we have witnessed on former occasions of a similar ceremony; all the gentry of the presidency having the honour of making their bow to the new Governor. We observed, however, that under the head of "Native Gentlemen," many persons were presented who we conceive had no right to be present. Owing to the illness of Dr. Balfour, some very questionable Mussulmen, who, we will warrant, never had the entrée of the nabob's durbar, were presented to his Excellency, and had the impertinence to walk past in their slippers, a piece of insolence, which we are very certain they never would have dreamed of perpetrating before the nabob, even if the attendants would for a moment have permitted it. Among the Hindus, too, we recognised sundry who scarcely fill our idea of the "gentry;" as might be ascertained upon the most superficial inquiry. In fact everybody who chose to present himself seems to have been at once admitted without hesitation; an act of carelessness on the part of those who had the arrangement of the ceremony, somewhat reprehensible; the more so, as the natives set great store by the exaltation which they conceive themselves lifted to by an introduction to so dignified a personage as the Governor. His Excellency wore the blue and silver uniform of the Colonial Governors; and we believe the general impression he produced was one of great prepossession in his favour. The Governor, accompanied by the town-major, inspected the arsenal, the church, the water-works, and Queen's barracks in the fort, on May 10.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS.

INCREASE OF ARTILLERY.

Fort St. George, May 12, 1854.—The following extracts from a letter from the Hon. Court of Directors in the military department, dated 5th April, 1854, are published for the information of the army.

Letter dated 9th January, 1854, No. 9.

"Forward correspondence relative to the insufficiency of officers in the Madras artillery, and recommend that seven additional captains, as proposed by the Commander-in-Chief, may be authorized."

"21. The evidence given in this correspondence is conclusive of the necessity for giving to the artillery of your presidency the same proportionate number of captains per battalion as has been authorized for the Bengal artillery."

"22. We accordingly sanction the addition of seven captains to your artillery, as recommended by your government, from the date of your receipt of this despatch."

The above addition to the artillery will have effect from the 11th of May, 1854, being the date of receipt of the Hon. Court's despatch.

MEDICAL ESTABLISHMENT.

Fort St. George, May 16.—The following extract from a letter from the Hon. Court of Directors in the military department, dated 5th April, 1854, No. 25, is published for the information of the army.

Letter dated 15th Dec. 1853, No. 163.

—"(2.) Advert to No. 150 of 1853, and point out that, consequent on the formation of the 3rd Madras European regiment, a further demand has been made upon the medical establishment."

"3. In consequence of the formation of the 3rd Madras European regiment, we approve of the promotion of senior assistant surgeon in the army to be surgeon in addition to the establishment."

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ANDERSON, F. civ. and sess. jud. of Mangalore, del. ov. ch. of court to Mr. Copleston, May 6.
COPELSTON, F. sub judge of the zillah of Mangalore, res. ch. of court, May 6.
FORBES, Z. to act as head asst. to coll. and mag. of Nellore, dur. abs. of Minchin, May 5.
MALTRY, E. to be 3rd memb. of board of rev.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

COCHRANE, J. H. 1 mo. to rein. at pres. prep. to app. for leave to sea on m.c. and to England on m.c.
FRERE, H. 10 days.
JUNES, L. C. 1 mo. to Tranquebar and Eastern coast.
MCKENNIE, J. F. 18 mo. Neilgherries, m.c.

ECCLIESIASTICAL.

DEALTRY, Rev. T. 2 yrs to Eur. on m.c.
MURPHY, Rev. R. to be an asst. chaplain fr. April 12, to be jt. chaplain of Secundrabad.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ANDERSON, Brev. capt. H. J. 34th L.I. to be capt. fr. May 4, v. Singleton, ret.
ANSTRUTHER, Maj. P. art. to be supt. of gunpowder manufactory.
ARCHER, Brev. maj. D. 3rd Eur. regt. to do duty with European infantry depot, and eventually to take ch. of recruits for that regt.
BAIRD, Lieut. J. S. art. to take rank fr. March 14, v. Lancaster, dec.
BARWISE, Lieut. W. 45th N.I. qual. in surveying.
BERDMORE, Brev. capt. H. T. M. art. to be capt.
BERESFORD, Lieut. G. de la P. 16th M.N.I. att. to 4th N.I. (rifle corps, at Poona).
BIDEN, 2nd Lieut. H. art. placed at disp. of supreme govt. for emp. in foreign dept.
BIDEN, 2nd Lieut. H. art. to be 1st lieut. fr. May 11.
BRADISH, Lieut. J. 15th N.I. to be adjt. May 9.
BUDD, Lieut. col. R. 39th N.I. to be col. by brev. fr. May 7, and to stand above Col. G. Hicks.

CAMERON, Lieut. C. art. to be 1st lieut. fr. April 1, v. Ward, ret.
CAMPELL, Lieut. T. H. art. to be capt. fr. May 11.
CAMPELL, Corn. A. H. E. rec. arr. to do duty with 1st L.C. to join.
CAMPELL, Ens. J. A. 52nd N.I. res. app. of temp. exec. off. in 2nd div. in dept. of public works.
CAULFIELD, Lieut. J. art. to be capt. fr. May 11.
CHERRY, Corn. E. M. to do duty with 1st L.C. to join.
COBBE, Lieut. F. art. to be exec. eng. Mhow, May 19.
COORE, Capt. W. J. 8th N.I. is relieved fr. du. of mem. of com. for the exam. of army clothing at the Presidency.
DANGERFIELD, Lieut. G. assist. comm. of Bassein, rec. ch. of office.
EASTON, Ens. A. C. rec. arr. to do du. with 12th N.I. and to join.
EDWARDS, Capt. G. R. 2nd L.C. Asst. gen. supt. rec. ch. of offic. of gen. supt. of operations for suppression of thuggee and dacoitee fr. Capt. Heeman.
GABBETT, Brev. Maj. W. M. art. to offic. as supt. of gunpowder manufactory fr. date of Maj. Lavie's emb. for Europe.
GOAD, Lieut. J. W. art. to be capt. fr. May 11.
GRANTHAM, Brig. G. to com. Masulipatam, fr. date of Hitchen's emb. for Europe.
HALY, Capt. G. T. 41st N.I. to be commdt. of the Malabar police corps, May 19.
HARE, Lieut. G. M. 28th N.I. to be adj. of 75th regt. inf. Hyderabad contingent.
HILL, Ens. H. D. 34th L.I. to be lieut. fr. May 4, v. Singleton.
LITTLE, Lieut. R. R. art. to be capt. fr. May 11.
retired.
MACINTYRE, Lieut. A. W. art. to be capt. fr. May 11.
MACKENZIE, Brev. Maj. S. F. 2nd L.C. permitted to retire from the service of the company on pension of a major, fr. May 23.
NEILL, Brev. Lieut. Col. J. G. S. 1st. fus. qual. in surveying.
NICHOLAS, Lieut. J. 44th N.I. qual. in civ. engineering.
O'GRADY, Capt. N. W. 34th L.I. to be maj. fr. May 4, v. Singleton, retired.
OWEN, Capt. W. G. 11th N.I. to be comm. of the Golcondah Sibbendy corps, May 19.
PALMER, Ens. W. C. 4th N.I. to be emp. under supt. of roads in Vizagapatam dist. v. Magrath.
PHILLIPS, Lieut. C. G. 5th N.I. to act as executive officer. under board of revenue in dept. of public works, May 9.
PLAYFAIR, 2nd Lieut. E. M. art. to be 1st lieut. fr. May 11.
PLAYFAIR, 2nd Lieut. R. L. art. to be 1st lieut. fr. May 11.
PRIOR, 2nd Lieut. G. B. art. to be 1st lieut. fr. May 11.
PRESCOTT, Lieut. col. W. 4th N.I. to be a brig. of 2nd class, and to com. Trichinopoly, v. Granttham.
RAIKES, 2nd Lieut. C. art. to be 1st lieut. fr. May 11.
RITHERDON, Capt. A. 28th N.I. to be a mem. of the committee for examining the army clothing in the room of Capt. Cooke.
SAXTON, Capt. G. H. 38th N.I. qual. in civ. engineering.
SCOTT, Lieut. J. D. art. to be capt. fr. May 11.
SELBY, Capt. G. art. to take rank fr. March 14, v. Lancaster, dec.
SINGLETON, Maj. G. 34th L.I. perm. to retire fr. May 4.
SMITH, Lieut. H. D. 2nd Eur. lt. inf. to be asst. to supt. eng. Hyderabad subsidiary force.
SMITH, 2nd Lieut. S. R. art. to lieut. fr. May 11.
THOMPSON, Cornet W. 7th L.C. to be lieut. fr. May 6, v. Byam, deceased.
THOMAS, 2nd Lieut. L. F. C. art. to be 1st lieut. fr. May 11.
VARDON, Lieut. F. C. art. to be capt. fr. May 11.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE—ARRIVED AT THE DATES SPECIFIED.

CAVALRY.

CHERRY, E. M. May 11.

INFANTRY.

HORNBY, H. F.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BENSON, Capt. R. 11th N.I. to Europe, on m.c. new reg.
BIVAR, Lieut. C. S. B. 1st L.C. May 20 to Nov. 20, to Neilgherries.
BORTHWICK, Capt. W. 9th N.I. 2 yrs. furl. to Europe, on m.c. old reg.
CAMPELL, Lieut. N. G. h. art. to June 15.
CARTER, Capt. G. M. 1st Eur. fus. 10 mo. fr. May 22, in ext. to Neilgherries, on m.c.
COOTE, Lieut. L. G. H. 52nd N.I. to Europe, on m.c. new reg.
DOBBIE, Capt. R. S. 39th N.I. 1 year, fr. June 1, in ext. to Neilgherries, on m.c.
DRAYNER, Lieut. A. W. 43rd N.I. 3 mo. to Singapore and Penang hills.
ELLIS, Ens. J. A. 8th N.I. 2 mo. fr. May 1, to pres.
FORBES, Capt. G. 5th L.C. in ext. to Aug. 15.
GAHAGAN, Lieut. A. 10th N.I. having been reported fit to return to duty, the unexpired portion of leave of absence, on m.c. is can. fr. April 13.
GRIFFIN, Capt. J. G. B. 3rd Eur. regt. 4 mo. fr. March 15, to Bombay and Western.
HART, Lieut. W. H. T. 40th N.I. 2 mo. fr. April 20, in ext. to Jaulnah, on m.c.
HILL, Lieut. eng. 4 mo. prep. to Europe.
HITCHINS, Brig. B. R. com. Masulipatam, to Europe, on m.c.

LANE, Lieut. T. G. M. 40th N.I. to Europe, on furl. old reg.
 McCASHILL, Capt. J. C. 51st N.I. leave cane.
 MINTHYN, Lieut. C. C. 6th N.I. June 5 to Sept. 15, to Masulipatam.
 PHILLIPS, Capt. A. C. 6th N.I. to Europe, on m.c. old reg.
 PRESCOTT, Lieut. col. W. 4th N.I. 6 mo. fr. April 25, to Madras and Bangalore.
 SURTEES, Lieut. A. S. 41st N.I. 2 yrs. to Europe fr. Calcutta, on m.c.
 SCOTT, Brev. Capt. J. D. art. 2 mo. fr. May 10, to Bangalore.
 SMITH, Capt. G. A. to reside at Bangalore till Dec. 31, and then to join detach. at Cuddalore.
 SMITH, Brev. Capt. M. H. O. 1st L.C. to Nov. 15, to Neilgherries.
 STEWART, Cornet R. C. 8th L.C. fr. April 27 to Aug. 31, to Bangalore, on m.c.
 TAYLOR, Lieut. col. C. 2nd N.V.B. 1 mo. to Shervaroy hills.
 THOMPSON, Ens. R. 48th N.I. to Nov. 1, eastern coast.
 WILLIAMS, Brig. J. E. 1 mo. fr. June 1.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ASTON, Vet. surg. T. fr. F. fr. art. to 5th L.C.
 BETTS, Asst. surg. G. to med. ch. of detach. 25th N.I. at Madras, and will accompany it to Burmah.
 CULLIMORE, Vet. surg. D. to do duty under Vet. surg. T. Aston, 5th L.C. to join.
 DICHINSON, Asst. surg. J. E. rec. med. ch. of jail and civ. estab. at Rangoon.
 FORD, Surg. C. G. E. to rank fr. Jan. 8, 1854, v. Anderson, dec.
 FOULIS, Surg. D. D. M.D. to rank fr. Nov. 15, 1853, to complete the estab.
 HEUDE, Asst. surg. W. W. M.D. 10th N.I. to offic. temp. for Dr. Bell in ch. of the civil med. duties at Nagpore, fr. March 28 last.
 JACKSON, Surg. J. M. to rank fr. Jan. 1, 1854, v. Wilkinson, retired.
 JOHNSTONE, Surg. T. G. M.D. fr. 45th to 52nd N.I.
 MACFARLANE, Surg. D. M.D. to rank fr. Feb. 14, 1854, v. Hay, ret.
 PORTHOUS, Asst. surg. H. W. to be surg. fr. Feb. 24, v. Key, ret.
 PRITCHARD, Surg. W. G. M.D. to rank fr. Dec. 15, 1853, v. Scott, ret.
 REYNOLDS, Surg. A. to rank fr. Nov. 24, 1853, v. O'Neill, ret.
 SANDERSON, Asst. surg. A. perm. to enter on gen. duty of the army.
 STEWART, Asst. surg. L. W. fr. 5th N.I. to A troop lt. art. to cont. to do duty with 5th N.I. until July 31, then to join his troop.
 THACKER, Vet. surg. J. fr. 5th to 8th L.C.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

McGREGOR, Asst. surg. J. 36th N.I. to Europe, on m.c.
 MIDDLEMASS, Surg. J. 17th N.I. to Europe, on m.c.
 OSWALD, Asst. surg. H. R. M.D. fr. April 17 to July 20, to Madras and Bangalore, on m.c.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

CLAY, wife of the Rev. J. s. at Cuddapah, May 16.
 CURRIE, wife of C. D. M.D. s. at Ootacamund, May 9.
 ELTON, wife of F. B. C.S. s. at Nellore, May 3.
 LOVERY, wife of B. d. at Madras, May 2.
 MALBY, wife of E. C.S. s. at Cuddalore, May 2.
 SWANSTON, wife of Lieut. W. O. 7th N.I. s. at St. Thome, May 4.

MARRIAGES.

D'ARCY, Lieut. F. 32nd N.I. to Margaret R. d. of Lieut. col. Sewell, at Jubbulpore, April 27.
 RAYNEAU, J. to Marie, d. of the late J. J. Hecquet, at Pondicherry, May 10.
 SMITH, G. N. to Jane Ann Shelly, at Neilgherries, May 4.

DEATHS.

BYAM, Lieut. W. T. 7th L.C. at Saugor, May 6.
 CLARIDGE, Harry C. S. inf. s. of Lieut. H. C. Z. 37th N.I. at Ootacamund, May 2.
 CROFTON, P. A. s. of Capt. T. 52nd N.I. at Ootacamund, May 5.
 DUN, Arthur C. inf. s. of Lieut. C. W. 43rd N.I. at Singapore, April 27.
 GALLIVEY, Eliza Mary, widow of the late Lieut. J. H. 12th N.I. at Ootacamund, April 20.
 HEWSON, Emma, inf. d. of J. M. at Madras, May 10.
 MAXWORTH, Grace A. d. of John, at Madras, aged 2, May 5.
 WYLIE, J. T. H. at Madras, aged 42, May 11.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

May 7. Thomas Lowry, Dobson, Melbourne.—11. Steamer Oriental, Henry, Suez, Aden, and Galle.—12. Teazer, Caster, Moulmein and Nagapatam.—15. Steamer Hugh Lindsay, Crowther, Moulmein, Munsoorcottah, Vizagapatam, and Masulipatam.—18. John Brightman, Gahan, Mauritius.—19. James Hall, Rose, Moulmein.—20. Steamer Bantick, —, Suez.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per steamer Oriental (May 11), from SUEZ, ADEN, and GALLE. From SOUTHAMPTON to MADRAS.—Messrs. Hancock, James Oakes, Cherry, and Barlay. From SOUTHAMPTON to CALCUTTA.—Messrs. Wren, Birch, W. G. Chalmers, Dr. Dopping, Messrs. Allen, Davidson, and McQueen, Lieut. Haldane, Messrs. P. Drinhot, Reynoldson, Polwart, Wheeler, and Lodge. From MASULIPATAM to MADRAS.—Messrs. Ricketts and Dandicollie. From MALTA to CALCUTTA.—Mrs. Beadon. From SUEZ to CALCUTTA.—Mr. Koecklin. From GALLE to MADRAS.—Mr. Roussac and Mr. Roussac, jun. From GALLE to CALCUTTA.—Mr. Dunstan and Mr. Williams. From BOMBAY to CALCUTTA.—Messrs. Hurjeeewin and Premjee Dey. From BOMBAY to CALCUTTA.—Messrs. Beebe and Mr. L. F. de Souza.

Per Teazer (May 12), from MOULMEIN and VIZAGAPATAM.—Asst. surg. George Betts.

Per steamer Hugh Lindsay (May 15), from MOULMEIN, MUNSOORCOTTAH, VIZAGAPATAM, and MASULIPATAM. From VIZAGAPATAM.—Capt. Haly, Mrs. Haly, and 2 children, Miss Haly, Mr. Robertson, and Dr. McGregor. From MASULIPATAM.—Brigadier B. Hitchens.

Per steamer Bantick (May 20), from CALCUTTA.—Mr. Ewing, Capt. Darroch, Lieut. Barrow, Capt. Hamilton, and Mrs. Hamilton.

DEPARTURES.

May 6. Sultana, Tapper, Calingapatam and London; Harsinger, Tannan, Masulipatam.—9. Bury St. Edmunds, Miller, London.—10. Lady Nugent, Bannerman, Rangoon; Sir George Seymour, Naylor, Mauritius.—11. Steamer Oriental, Henry, Calcutta.—12. Kallibokka, Buchanan, Rangoon.—13. Amelia, Maiden, Vizagapatam.—16. Hampshire, Roynell, London; Diana, Grant, Mauritius.—19. Steamer Hugh Lindsay, Gauthier, Nagapatam; Peregrine Oliver, Binet, London; Charles Dunergue, White, Northern Ports.—20. Steamer Bantick, —, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Harsinger (May 6), to MASULIPATAM.—Mrs. Arnold and Plowden, Mr. Brown, Mrs. Brown, and 2 children.

Per Bury St. Edmunds (May 9), to LONDON.—Lieut. McCarthy, H.M.'s 94th regt. wife, and 3 children; Lieut. Stephens, 3 children; Lieut. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, H.M.'s 9th regt. 6 children; Lieut. Walton, H.M.'s 9th regt. wife, and 3 children; Lieut. Saunders, H.M.'s 84th regt. wife, and 2 children; Capt. Mercer, H.M.'s 8th regt. and 2 children; Major Davidson.

Per Lady Nugent (May 10), to RANGOON.—Head quarters and detachment 25th regt. N.I. viz. Lieut. Col. Johnstone, Lieut. and adj. Daly, Lieut. and gr. mr. King, Lieut. Bannard, Asst. surg. Simpson.

Per steamer Oriental (May 11), to CALCUTTA. From MADRAS to CALCUTTA.—Sir S. W. Steel, K.C.B.; Hon. Dr. Elliot, Esq.; Rev. A. Morgan, Mr. Roussac, Mr. Roussac, junr.

Per Kallibokka (May 12), to RANGOON.—Conductor Coffin, wife, 6 children; Overseer Eddington, wife, and daughter; Mrs. C. Daly.

Per steamer Bantick (May 20), to SUEZ. To SOUTHAMPTON.—Brig. B. R. Hitchens, Ens. A. C. P. Hec, Miss Dove, J. H. Cochrane, Esq.; Mrs. Cochrane, Maj. H. J. Nicholls, and Lieut. F. G. St. Lane. To SINGAPORE.—C. A. Robertson, Esq. To PENANG.—Hon. T. R. Church. To SYDNEY.—E. M. Watson, Esq.

COMMERCIAL.

Madras, May 20, 1854.

BANK OF MADRAS.

Rates of Interest—on Loans,

On deposit of Government Paper, 5 per ct.
 On existing cash credit accounts on do., 5 do.

RATES OF ADVANCE.

On Government 5 per cent. Stock Receipts, 100 per ct.
 On 5 per cent. Promissory Notes, 98 "
 On 4 per cent. do., 88 "
 On Tanjore do., 88 "

Discount.

On Government Acceptances, 3 per ct.
 On Private Bills, at or within 30 days, 5 "
 Ditto above 30 days, 6 "
 Investments, Rs. 40,45,190 15 4
 Circulation and Deposits, 47,73,608 9 7
 Specie in the Bank, 36,05,385 14 7

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

5 per cent. loan of 1825-26

1829-30

1841 Par. to 1/4 prem.

4 per cent. 1832-33 1 to 1 1/2 dis.

1835-36 1/2 dis. to 1/4 prem.

1843 Par. to 1/4 prem.

5 per cent. transferable book debt 5 to 6 prem.

Tanjore Bonds 1/4 dis. to 1/4 prem.

Bank of Madras Shares 12 to 13 prem.

PRICE OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Sovereigns, Rs. 10-3-6 to 10-4 each
 Bank of England Notes, 10-2 to 10-3 each
 Spanish Dollars, 220 per 100

EXCHANGES.

Bills on England, according to sight,	1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¾d.
H.M. Treasury Bills,	1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¾d.
Bank of England Post Bills,	1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¾d.
Mauritius Government Bills,	1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¾d.
Ceylon do.	1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¾d.
Court of Directors' Bill on the Government of Bengal, 60 days' sight, none.

Calcutta.—Buy, ¼ per cent. disc.

Sell, par.

Bombay.—Buy, ¼ per cent. disc.

Sell, par.

FREIGHTS.

Quotations to London and Liverpool are 4l. to 4l. 5s. per ton of 20 cwt.

BOMBAY.

THE LATE LIEUT. CHAPMAN.

In our last we had the satisfaction to announce that the body of this lamented Officer, whose melancholy fate excited such a mournful sensation last Christmas, had been found on the bank of the Indus, near Hyderabad. Since then we have been put in possession of the following particulars:—

On the evening of the 3rd instant, a report was made to Lieut. Forrest that a dead body had been washed ashore near the entrenched camp, who immediately sent and made known the occurrence to Captain Johnstone, with a view to the assembly of a court of inquest. Captain Johnstone proceeded, in company with Captain Curties, the executive engineer, to the spot where the body was lying. They found that the body was dressed in a shirt and sleeping drawers of the European pattern, and the fact having excited hopes that the body might be that of Lieut. Chapman, they at once made a close examination of the dress, and found Lieut. Chapman's name on the shirt. There being now no doubt on the identity of the body, it was conveyed to Hyderabad, a report of the discovery made to the brigadier, and at 2 p.m. of the 4th, a court of inquest, presided over by Captain Curties, was assembled, and a more formal inquiry entered into, the proceedings of which we give below.

The remains of the deceased officer were interred in the churchyard at Hyderabad, with the usual military honours, the funeral being attended by all the officers and the company of the artillery at the station.

Proceedings of a court of inquest assembled at Hyderabad, on Thursday, the 4th day of May, 1854.

President.—Captain Curties, ex-engineer.

Members.—Capt. Johnstone, deputy-collector; Lieut. Tyrwhitt, deputy-collector; Ensign Moore, officiating lieut. of police; Assistant-Surgeon Bayne, C.S.

1. The Court proceed to view the body that was found on the bank of the Indus, and having minutely examined it are of opinion that it is the body of an European, which must have lain under water for a long period.

2. The shirt, banian, and sleeping drawers, still on the corpse, are all carefully inspected.

3. On the first article of dress the name of "Chapman" is distinctly visible. This portion of the shirt is therefore cut out, and attached to these proceedings, also a small portion of the sleeping drawers. The dress exactly tallying with that in which Lieut. Chapman was said to have been last seen, the size, the general appearance of the body, the circumstances under which it was understood Lieut. Chapman met his death, lead the Court to the unanimous conclusion that this is really the body of that officer.

4. There are no signs or marks that would lead the Court to suppose that Lieut. Chapman met his death in any other way than by drowning, which mournful event took place by the sinking of his boat off the village of Jam-ka-shore, on the 22nd December, 1853, and the Court returned a verdict of "Found drowned."—Sindian, May 10.

MR. JOHN LANG, has been retained by the Jhansi Maharanee. He is said to have received a large retaining fee, and to have stipulated to visit England in the furtherance of the prosecution of his client's claims, if necessary. The old lady urges the right of an adopted son of the late Maharajah's to the succession to the annexed state. The Jhansi territory, we need scarcely remind our readers, was annexed to the British dominions in March last, by Lord Dalhousie.

MR. J. F. HURCHINSON, the Deputy Sheriff of Bombay, has been appointed manager of the Bombay Steam Navigation Company.

CAPT. HAINES.—It appears that a charge of some sort or other is about to be brought by the Bombay authorities against Capt. Haines, late political agent at Aden. His baggage was seized; detained, and examined by a committee (Mr. A. D. Robertson, C.S.; Capt. Powell, I.N.; and Major Pope, commissary general); and he himself has been held to bail before the senior magistrate. No other particulars have transpired; but Capt. Haines seems to be peculiarly liable to investigations, having only just been exonerated from blame in the case of the defalcations at Aden.—Englishman.

THE NARRA.—The Scindian states that great efforts are now being made to open the Narra, a river which flows through the eastern portion of the district of Hyderabad. Lieut. Fife, in charge of the works, has remained in tents throughout the hot season, in order to drive them on, and it is said that the result of his labours is already apparent. The harvest in the districts along the Narra has been quadrupled in a single year.

INSOLVENTS.—It appears, from an official statement, that during the six months ending 1st January, 1854, the insolvent court of Bombay dealt with claims to the amount of Rs. 63,04,000. Of the total number of insolvents, three hundred and ninety had no assets whatever, while their aggregate liabilities amounted to Rs. 12,33,000.

THE NEW WATER-WORKS.—The Bombay Telegraph and Courier informs us that the new water-works for the supply of the presidency will be ready by the end of 1855. The reservoir is to be an artificial fresh-water lake, seven miles square, at Vehar, in the island of Salsette. Thence the water will be conveyed in iron pipes along the line of railway to the town, a distance of eighteen miles. The value of land around the tank, or lake, will, it is believed, be greatly enhanced; and the Telegraph warns the Government against allowing speculators to step in and purchase the property. It is said that five hundred deaths have occurred in Bombay during this hot season from drinking bad water.

COLONEL OUTRAM has been removed from the Residency of Baroda for the purpose of taking up an appointment as Deputy-Governor of Aden. The nature of his services is, however, not yet known, but it is generally believed that should a force of any strength be sent from India into Egypt, it will be placed under his orders.

H.M.'s 78TH HIGHLANDERS AND 10TH HUSSARS.—There is a report in Bombay, and in quarters likely to be well informed, that a wing of H.M.'s 78th Highlanders, and two squadrons of the 10th Hussars, come down to the presidency immediately for embarkation to Suez. If this be true, we imagine that the above will but form the first instalment of troops from this presidency for the seat of war. Two finer regiments for service could not be selected in any part of the world than the 10th and 78th. The horses of the former are all in first-rate condition, and the men, young and up to any work in the world. The discipline of the regiment has been greatly praised by successive general officers and brigadiers, ever since it came to India, in 1846. A friend who saw the corps reviewed not long ago, wrote us, "there is not in the 10th, from its plucky little colonel down to the youngest trumpeter, a single man who can be said to have passed the age for work; and the horses are as fine as the men." The 78th Highlanders, too, is, we hear, a very fine regiment indeed. The men are mostly young, and every soul belonging to the "Rosshire Buffs" is most anxious to see service before the corps goes home. We only hope that, if sent to Egypt, both regiments will have opportunities of proving that they can fight as well as in former days.

THE OFFICERS CHARGED WITH PERJURY.—The court-martial held on the officers connected with Lieut.-Col. Gidley's case has found verdicts as follows:—Lieut. L. B. Comyn, 15th N.I., guilty of having given false testimony on the trial of Lieut.-Col. Gidley; sentenced to be cashiered. Lieut. R. Laurie, Ens. F. J. Loft, and Ens. G. S. Hammond, 15th N.I., have also been found guilty of the same offence, and have been sentenced to be cashiered. Lieut. T. D. E. Fraser, 15th N.I., similarly charged to the above-named officers, was found guilty, and sentenced to be dismissed the service. But the Court having recommended this officer to the merciful consideration of the Commander-in-Chief, his Excellency "recognising a marked difference between the less aggravated offence of Lieut. Fraser, acknowledged and repented of by him, and the offences of the other officers who have been brought before this court-martial, extends a pardon to Lieut. Fraser."—[Want of space compels us to delay the publication of the particulars of this court-martial, in extenso, until our next number.]

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BAZETTE, R. Y. permitted to resign fr. May 16.
BETTINGTON, A. returned to duty.

COXON, M. A. to be registrar of Sudder Dewanee and Sudder Foudj-daree Adawlut, fr. date of A. Spens' resignation.
 COZENS, W. to act as prothonotary and ecclesiastical registrar of supreme court of judicature dur. abs. of Compton.
 HARRISON, W. H. judge and sess. judge of Surat, to be agent for the gov. at Surat fr. May 19; resu. ch. of du. April 24, and left Sudder station on circ. to detached station of Broach April 25.
 LARKEN, M. to be puisne judge of the Sudder Dewanee and Sudder Foudj-daree Adawlut fr. date of A. Spens' resignation.
 NEWTON, H. del. over ch. of Sholapoor Adawlut to princ. Sud. Ameen, May 6.
 SPENS, A. permitted to resign fr. May 23.
 SPOONER, R. coll. and mag. of Rutnagherry, assum. ch. of duties.
 STACK, J. W. dept. coll. in Scinde, joined app.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BETTINGTON, A. to May 23, in ext.
 BLANE, G. J. 1 mo. in ext.
 COMPTON, S. 18 mo. fr. May 10.
 DAVIDSON, A. P. 15 days to pres.
 HOPE, T. C. 3 weeks to Bombay.
 LE GEY, P. W. 20 days.
 ROBERTSON, E. P. 1 mo. fr. May 21; and 3 yrs. to Europe, on m.c.
 YOUNG, A. 6 mo. to Bombay and Calcutta.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

COTES, Rev. D. H. to offic. as chaplain of Sattara.
 TYRWHITT, Rev. Mr. returned to duty, to act as senior chaplain at Kurrachee.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS.

ANDREWS, Capt. 7th N.I. to act as 1st cl. commissariat ag. and to rec. ch. of bazaar dept. at Musseerabad, fr. May 17.
 ASHBURNER, Lieut. J. 18th N.I. to be adj. v. Jacob. prom. May 9.
 BARR, Capt. J. T. to act as pol. ag. in Rewakanta, dur. abs. of Wallace.
 BLACK, Lieut. J. 2nd asst. to pol. ag. in Kattewar, to act as 1st asst. dur. abs. of Wallace.
 COLLIER, Ens. H. C. 21st N.I. att. to 4th N.I. at Poona.
 COUSEN, Lieut. S. 13th N.I. ret. to duty May 3.
 DAVIES, Lieut. H. M. art. passed ex. in vernac. lang.
 DICKINSON, Ens. W. 8th N.I. att. to 19th N.I. at Poona.
 DUNCAN, Capt. W. G. 24th N.I. ret. to du. April 24.
 DUNCAN, Lieut. G. M. to be exec. engr. Deesa div.
 DURAND, Ens. A. 10th N.I. att. to 19th N.I. at Poona.
 EVEZARD, Lieut. asst. supt. of bazars at Poona, to act as supt. of bazars during abs. of Capt. Morse.
 GLASFURD, Lieut. 1st Eur. regt. to act as qu. mr. and interp. to marine batt. v. Maude.
 HAVELOCK, Ens. J. 6th N.I. att. to 19th N.I. at Poona.
 HEATH, Maj. J. C. 5th L.I. ret. to du.
 HEATHCOTE, Lieut. C. F. 12th N.I. att. to 19th N.I. at Poona.
 HODGSON, Lieut. P. 22nd N.I. ret. to du.
 HUTCHISON, Lieut. W. 24th N.I. name rem. fr. list of army without prejudice to any claims he may have under retiring regs.
 JACKSON, Maj. C. F. cav. to be lieut. col. fr. April 24, v. Delaman, ret.
 KENDALL, Lieut. W. to be exec. engr. Ahmedabad div.
 KERR, Ens. W. A. 24th N.I. att. to 4th N.I. at Poona.
 MACNAGHTEN, Col. A. W. to rank fr. April 24, posted to 2nd L.C. v. Sykes, prom.
 MOORE, Ens. H. assu. ch. of du. of act. lieut. of pol. at Hyderabad, May 15.
 OUTRAM, Col. J. services placed at disposal of gov. of Bombay.
 PALIN, Lieut. W. H. 17th N.I. att. to 19th N.I. at Poona.
 PLAYFAIR, Lieut. J. W. to be exec. engr. Surat div.
 PRESCOTT, Capt. A. 2nd L.C. to be maj. fr. April 24, in succ. to Jackson.
 REID, Ens. A. T. 10th N.I. att. to 4th N.I. at Poona.
 RIGBY, Capt. C. P. 16th N.I. ret. to du. April 24, to be perm. memb. of civ. and mil. ex-committee, in pl. of Lieut. C. Maude.
 ROSS, Lieut. E. T. 18th N.I. to be qu. mr. and interp. v. Ashburner, May 9.
 SANDWITH, Lieut. J. P. 1st N.I. att. to 4th N.I. at Poona.
 SHEPHERD, Lieut. col. (new prom.) posted to 22nd N.I.
 SHORT, Lieut. A. Y. 3rd asst. to pol. ag. in Kattewar, to act as 2nd asst. dur. abs. of Wallace.
 SMEE, Brig. W. N. T. to be a brig. of 1st class, and to com. in Upper Scinde, v. Brig. W. J. Browne, res.
 SMITH, Lieut. G. 2nd L.C. attached to the detail of his reg. at Poona, to join May 15.
 SYKES, Com. H. P. 2nd L.C. to be lieut. fr. April 24, in succ. to Tucker.
 TUCKER, Lieut. N. B. 2nd L.C. to be capt. fr. April 24, in succ. to Prescott.
 WALLACE, Capt. R. to act as pol. ag. in Kattewar dur. abs. of Lieut. col. Lang.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.

INFANTRY.

ANDERSON, E. R. April 24.
 HARRISON, C. H. April 24.
 PARK, A. A. April 24.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

KEMBALL, Lieut. N. T. 1 mo. in ext.
 LANG, Capt. J. 27th N.I. May 17 to 31, to rem. at Bombay, on m.c.
 LEESON, Capt. W. F. comdt. Guzerat irr. horse, to May 2 in ext.
 LEIKIE, Capt. J. D. 20th N.I. May 14 to June 30, in ext. to rem. at Supstring, on m.c.
 ROBERTSON, Ens. T. J. 21st N.I. 1 mo. fr. May 1, to Bombay on m.c.
 WESTROPP, Lieut. G. R. C. 21st N.I. leave canc.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BARNETT, Asst. surg. to do duty with the h. art. at Poona, May 11; to accompany the details of the h. brig. and sappers and miners proc. to Bombay, then return to Poona, May 11; placed on gen. duty in the Scinde div. to proceed to Kurrachee and aff. med. aid to the 6th N.I. May 17.
 CAMERON, Asst. surg. to perform the duties of civ. surg. at Kurrachee dur. abs. of Dr. Beatty.
 COLLIER, Surg. C. F. staff surg. Rajpootana field force, to offic. as supt. surg. v. Edwards, May 12.
 EDWARDS, Supt. surg. E. W. to offic. as ins. gen. of hosp. dur. abs. of C. D. Straker, on m.c. May 12.
 GANE, Asst. surg. H. J. att. to Eur. gen. hosp. at pres. serv. pl. at disp. of C.-in-C. Indian navy.
 HATTEN, Vet. surg. 1st L.C. to res. vet. ch. of No. 6 light field batt. fr. Lieut. Gaye, May 11.
 HUNTER, Asst. surg. W. G. to med. ch. of 6th N.I. to join; app. to the med. ch. of the 22nd N.I. v. Asst. surg. Young, app. civ. surg. at Kaira, May 15.
 LIEBEG, Asst. surg. Von, M.D. pl. on gen. duty in the n. div. to proc. to Baroda and aff. med. aid to the 1st N.I. May 15.
 MCKENZIE, Asst. surg. 4th N.I. to aff. med. aid to the h. art. at Poona, dur. abs. of Asst. surg. Turner, or until the ret. of Asst. surg. Barnett, May 11.
 WHITE, Surg. B. staff surg. and dep. med. storekeeper at Kurrachee, to offic. as supt. surg. v. Scott, May 12.
 YOUNG, Asst. surg. T. J. to be civ. surg. at Kaira.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT THE DATE SPECIFIED.

Ross, C. G. H. Nov. 19, 1853.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BOWIE, Asst. surg. 1 mo. fr. April 16, to Kurrachee.
 COLES, Asst. surg. 1 mo. fr. April 12, to Mahableschwur and the Deccan.
 FORBES, Asst. surg. G. F. 1 mo. fr. May 5.
 MOREHEAD, Surg. C. 1 yr. to Europe, on m.c.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BROOMAN, Lieut. perm. to reside on shore, May 17.
 CHATTERTON, Mids. of the Falkland, perm. to reside on shore.
 CLARKSON, Mate, of the Victoria, to perform du. of store accountant.
 DAWSON, Mids. W. W. ret. to du. May 24.
 GANE, Assist. surg. H. J. to be lent to the Auckland, May 17.
 MCKENZIE, assist. surg. of the Falkland, perm. to reside on shore, May 17.
 ROOME, Assist. surg. to June 1, in ext. to remain at Mahableschwur on m.c.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

CHAPMAN, wife of Lieut. J. F. 3rd N.I. s. at Sholapore, May 12.
 CLEARY, wife of J. d. at Girgaum, May 16.
 HOLTON, wife of Capt. A. d. at Bombay, May 11.
 SPENCER, Mrs. F. A. d. at Mahableschwur, May 8.
 WOOD, wife of Capt. J. A. 20th N.I. d. at Belgaum, May 10.
 YOUNG, wife of J. d. at Bombay, May 14.

MARRIAGES.

BLAKEMAN, J. to Miss Agnes Kennedy, at Byculla, May 8.
 ROOME, H. M.D. to Maria C. d. of H. Hebbert, at Mahableschwur, May 12.
 SOPPITT, Ens. A. 10th N.I. to Erina W. d. of Surg. Malcolmson, at Nussocabad, May 12.
 WALKER, Lieut. J. T. engs. to Alice, d. of Brig. Scott, c.b. at Umballa.

DEATHS.

ANDERSON, Mary, widow of the late E. C. at Girgaum, aged 57, May 15.

BABINGTON, Surg. W. F. at Bombay, May 10.
BOLTON, Lieut. W. M. S. 2nd N.I. near Mahableshwur, May 6.
COOKE, Emily L. P. d. of the late T. Cooke, at Bombay.
GILLANDERS, Surg. W. P. 1st N.I. at Baroda, May 4.
GILLANDERS, Mary, inf. d. of Mr. at Baroda, May 4.
HOLTON, Joseph A. s. of Capt. A. at Bombay, aged 4, May 17.
KEMBALL, Anne, wife of Lieut. V. S. art. at Belgaum, aged 32, May.
LLOYD, Maj. H. 83rd foot, at Cambay, May 6.
PARKINSON, Henry T. s. of F. at Bombay, May 17.
QUIRK, N. at Bombay, May 6.
TRUEMAN, M. at Bombay, aged 46, May 14.
WARDELL, Capt. R. H. 5th L.I. at Dharwar.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MAY 10. City of Palaces, Hamer, Mauritius.—12. Steamer Eaglet, Turnbull, Cochin, Cannanore, Mangalore, Goa, and Vingoria.—13. Margaret Mitchell, Jameson, Clyde and Cochin; Arabian, Couch, Melbourne.—FEB. 14. Steamer Cadiz, Roberts, Hong-Kong, Singapore, Penang, and Galle; Samroo, Henderson, Liverpool.—18. Steamer Bombay, Bays, Kurrachee; Cairngorm, Robertson, London.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per City of Palaces (May 10), from MAURITIUS.—Mrs. Hamer.
 Per Eaglet (May 12), from COCHIN, &c.—Mr. Oughterson, Mr. M. M. Remington, Mr. S. Remington, Lieut. Murphy, Capt. Mackenzie, Mr. White, Mr. Andrew, Mr. and Mrs. Showell.
 Per Arabian, from MELBOURNE.—Mrs. Carpenter and 3 children.
 Per Cadiz (May 14), from HONG-KONG, &c.—Lieut. Brooman, I.N.; Lieut. Daun, Mr. Pestonjee, Mrs. Pestonjee, Mr. Cama.
 Per Bombay (May 18), from KURRACHEE.—Lieut. Glasspoole, Lieut. Crutenden, I.N. Lieut. Meade, Capt. Groube, Lieut. Savill, Lieut. Berthon, Lieut. Pratt, Ens. Havelock, Ens. Armstrong.
 Per Cairngorm (May 14), from LONDON.—H. Coombes, Esq.; Mr. and Mrs. Wellington and infant.

DEPARTURES.

MAY 11. Caldera, Harrison, London; Flivo, Debley, Liverpool.—12. Queen Mab, Glendinning, Liverpool.—13. Steamer Victoria, Menese, Kurrachee.—16. Steamer Singapore, Baker, Galle, Penang, Singapore, and Hong-Kong.—17. Bank of England, Davison, Canton in China; Duke of Wellington, Campbell, Liverpool; steamer Ganges, Thomas Black, Calcutta.—18. William and Jane, Hunter, Canton in China; Empire, Richard Strick, Liverpool; Hamood, John McQueen, Mauritius; steamer Auckland, MacDonald, Kurrachee.—23. Steamer Victoria, —, Sues.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Ganges (May 7), to CALCUTTA.—A. Malet, Esq.
 Per Bombay, to KURRACHEE.—Ens. Gillespie, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, Dr. Beatty, Mr. F. J. Scott, Rev. Mr. Sheldon.
 Per Flivo (May 11), to LIVERPOOL.—Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone and 3 children; 3 children of Mr. Firlie, and Mr. Bumley.
 Per Victoria, to KURRACHEE.—Lieut. E. Thompson.
 Per steamer Singapore, to GALLI, &c.—Lieut. col. Delamain, Mr. Walker and servant, Lieut. Anderson, 78th Highlanders; Mr. Young.
 Per Empire, to LIVERPOOL.—Lieut. Russell, Madras army.
 Per Victoria (May 23), to SUZ.—Col. and Mrs. Cracklow, and child of Capt. Eyres; Dr. C. Morehead, Mr. and Mrs. A. Spens and child, a child of Mr. A. D. Robertson, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson and 2 children, Mrs. E. A. Bacon and 2 children, Lieut. col. Jackson, Maj. Jackson, E. P. Robertson, Esq.; Mrs. Clay, S. Compton, Esq.; Lieut. W. R. Dickinson, Lieut. Hathway, Mrs. Wardell, Col. W. J. Browne, Lieut. col. Stewart, Dr. W. F. Clay, J. Middlemass, Esq.; N. C. Alexander, Esq.; A. Dunlop, Esq.; Lieut. W. G. Turner, Lieut. E. A. Bacon, 25th reg.; Lieut. J. Anderson, 19th reg. N.I.; Lieut. F. Morphy, H.M.'s 64th reg.; Mr. J. Andrew, and Hajee Meerza Javado. For ADEN.—Syed Abdool Cader, Syed Boobaker, and Syed Salam.

COMMERCIAL.

Bombay, May 23, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

5 per cent. transfer loan ..	Rs. 110 for Nos. regist.
4 Do. do. 1832-33 ..	for trans. p. 100 Sa.
4 Do. do. 1835-36 ..	Rs. 104 p. 100 Sa.
4 Do. do. 1842-43 ..	Rs. 99½ p. 100 Co.
	Rs. 99½ do.

PRICES OF BULLION.

Sovereigns, each .....	Rs. 10-3 noml.
Bank of England Notes, per £ .....	10½ noml.
Spanish Dollars, per 100 .....	240
German Crowns .....	222
Sycee Silver, per 100 tolas .....	104½ to 104¾
Gold Leaf, per tola, range of quality .....	16 5-16ths
Gold Ingots, according to touch, per tola ....	15¾

BANK SHARES.

Bombay Bank .....	Rs. 1,000 each	1,000 pd.up	33 p.ct. pm. sales
Oriental Bank .....	250 each	250 do.	80 salces.
Commercial Bank .....	1,000 each	500 do.	24½
Agra Bank .....	500 each	500 do.	45 noml.
Bank of Madras .....	1,000 each	1,000 do.	10 p. ct. pm.
Apollo Press Com...	12,500 each	12,000 do.	20,000
Colaba Press Com...	7,000 each	7,000 do.	5,500
Bombay S. N. Com.	510 each	400 do.	58 p.ct. dis.

EXCHANGES.

On London—at
 6 months' sight, per rupee, 2s. 1-3 16ths. to 2s. 1½d. For doc. bills.
 6 .. .. 2s. 1d. to 2s. 1-16th. For cred. bills.
 On Calcutta at 60 days' sight, per 100.... 98
 ..... 30 days' sight ..... 98½
 ..... at sight ..... 99
 On China at 60 days' sight..... Rs. 242

FREIGHTS.

Our quotations are, to London, 4l. 15s. to 5l.; and Liverpool, 4l. 12. 6d.; China, per candy, Rs. 18 to 20.

CEYLON.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

ELLIOTT, Mrs. W. d. at Colombo, May 8.
 STEPHEN, wife of T. B. d. at Galle, May 7.
 STEPHENS, wife of John, s. at Colombo, May 13.

MARRIAGES.

HAMPTON, J. L. to Charlotte J. Piachand, at Colombo, May 16.
 HINGART, Henry E. to Matilda E. d. of J. A. Ledoux, at Caltura, May 4.

DEATH.

VANDERWALL, Clara E. d. of M. A. at Matelle, aged 2, April 30.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.—We regret to record the death of Captain R. H. Pearson, of the American ship Rose Standish, who suddenly expired on the 15th, of the wound received in the engagement of the 4th instant. The bullet, which proved to be a jingal ball, after breaking the bones of the jaw, had glanced downward through the muscles of the neck and throat, and lodged near the chest. The ulceration finally caused the rupture of the carotid artery, and he died in a few minutes after this took place. We learn from his acquaintance, that he was a man of estimable traits of character, and much beloved and respected by his friends, and all who knew him. He was buried with military honours, and the body was followed to the grave by the consular corps, the naval officers, with a party of seamen and marines from the American and English men-of-war, the volunteers, and nearly all the residents in the place. It was observed that, besides the ships in the harbour and consular flags being lowered half-mast until he was interred, the flags on the city walls were also lowered out of respect for the loss sustained by foreigners in their gallant defender; a salute of three guns was fired at the East gate battery at the time of the funeral. Mr. Brine was lingering at death's door.—North China Herald, April 22.

AFFAIRS IN GNAN-HWUY, NEAR PEKING.—The Gazette of the 21st February contains a report from Shing-chau, stating that after the fall of Loo chow, the servant of Chang-wan-pin, one of the acting magistrates of that city, made his escape out of Loo chow, and reported that his master rallied at the rebels, and refused to submit, whereupon he was put to death. Shing-chau goes on to state, that he has ascertained that the official seals of the lieutenant-governor and treasurer were both lost in the fall of the city; now the pecuniary affairs of the whole province must pass through the hands of the treasurer, and there are a vast number of documents which need to be verified by the treasurer's seal: it therefore becomes necessary to petition the emperor to command the board of ceremonies speedily to manufacture a treasurer's seal, for the purpose of having the documents of that office properly authenticated. As to the other seals, belonging to the various officers in Loo chow, it will merely be sufficient to wait till the new lieutenant-governor arrives at his post, to ascertain whether they are lost or not, and then petition to have the want supplied.—China Mail, April 15.

GOLD-DIGGING NEAR CANTON.—A fortnight ago we mentioned that some Chinese, who had been in California, had found gold in the extensive district of Ngan-ping, to the south-west of Canton, and that considerable excitement prevailed in consequence. The first discovery is said to have been made last year, from observing shining particles in the sand of the Tan-lin river, which, on being washed, turned out to be gold. Our most recent intelligence on the subject is, that the gold is also found in the hills called the Pak-wan-shan, or White Cloud Hills, in Yen-ping-hien, and in a mountain stream called Kin Kai-shwni, or Gold-Rivulet-water. The most successful of the gold-seekers got five taels of gold in less than a month; others have picked up in a day the value of a dollar, others half, and quarter of a dollar, and some a few cents, or nothing at all. The gold is said to be purer than that of California, as 16 to 13.—China Mail, April 27.

APPOINTMENT OF COLONIAL SURGEON.—It is reported that the appointment of colonial surgeon is to be abolished; 200*l.* per annum is to be given to a military surgeon for undertaking the duties. The chief magistrate is to receive an additional 200*l.* per annum as emigration agent.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BRIDGES, W. T. acting attorney gen. app. to a seat in the Legislative Council, April 15.
GRIFFIN, J. H. R.A. commanding the forces, app. to a seat in Executive Council, April 15.
MERCER, Hon. W. T. to be colonial sec. and aud. gen. April 13.
RIENACKER, R. app. to the office of col. treas. April 13.
WINCHESTER, C. A. to offic. as H.M.'s vice-consul at Whampoa, dur. abs. of A. Bird, Esq. April 17.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

GOODINGS, wife of R. d. at Victoria, Apr. 24.
JAMIESON, wife of Capt. T. s. at Hong-Kong, Apr. 27.
RANGEL, wife of J. A. d. at Victoria, Apr. 28.

DEATHS.

LECHLER, Augusta, wife of Rev. R. at Victoria, aged 31, Apr. 27.
MACKAY, A. J. on board the Mazeppa, off Chapel Island, Apr. 22.
PEARSON, Capt. at Shanghai, Apr. 15.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

APRIL 27. Rob Roy, Francis, Calcutta.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Zephyr.—Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher.
 Per steamer Pottinger.—Messrs. M'Queen, Pedder, Marsh, Warrington, Vaucher, and Don Escorand.
 Per Formosa.—Mr. Amery.
 Per Mazeppa.—Mr. Barretto and Capt. Bolten.
 Per Laurick.—Dr. Cheynes.

DEPARTURES.

APRIL 25. Onyn, Stop, Port Philip.—28. Beatrix, Vershoor, Port Phillip.
 —29. Maggie, Drewett, Liverpool.—30. Euprates, Johnstone, Bombay.—
MAY 11. Steamer Pottinger, —, Galle.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Lady M. Wood.—Mrs. Mann, Messrs. H. N. Lay, A. E. H. Campbell, W. Querin, Dr. J. I. Murray, L. Moses, Hormusjee Pestonjee Cama, Jafferhoy Moladeen, and Hinqua; 2nd class, Mr. Mallet; 9 servants; on deck, 8 Chinese.
 Per Statesman.—Master H. Duddell.
 Per Rose Standish.—Mr. J. S. Robinson.
 Per Jacob Bell.—Mrs. Pearson.
 Per Pottinger (May 11). For SINGAPORE.—Messrs. J. Owen, and M. da Silva. For ALEXANDRIA.—Messrs. W. Moore, and J. Manoel Mur. For MALTA.—John Walker, Esq. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hunt. Capt. W. Searle, and Lieut. E. Barclay.

COMMERCIAL.

China, May 11, 1854.

EXCHANGES AND BULLION.

On London, we have had a good demand at 5*s.* 2*d.*; but the amount of first-class Bills offering is very limited.
 On India Company's and Bank Bills, Rs. 248.
 Syce, 2½ to 3 per cent. prem.
 Gold, 21 doll. per tael.
 Carolus Dollars, 17 per cent. prem.

FREIGHTS.

To England, 6*l.* 10*s.* to 7*l.* To the United States, 18 to 20 dolls. per ton of 40 feet.

JAPAN.

TREATY WITH JAPAN.

In our narrative of Commodore Parry's recent negotiations in Japan, in stating that it had been arranged to hold another meeting on the 24th March, the day the Susquehanna was despatched, for considering the terms of a treaty, we ventured to express a hope that the commodore would not imperil his proud position by insisting on the immediate (or future) adoption of the conditions of the United States' treaty with China, which is there in many respects inapplicable, lumbering, and obstructive, and would be ten times more so in Japan. A simple convention, embracing the leading points in the letters of the President and of the Secretary of the United States, would complete the commodore's triumph; and it is pretty certain that so much could be easily obtained from the Japanese.

We happen to possess—but at present do not feel at liberty to say through whom—an outline of the arrangement proposed by the Japanese; which concedes the main points indicated by the United States' Government, and which, with certain modifications, such as shortening and specifying the terms for opening additional ports, might very well be acceded to as a preliminary arrangement. To insist on much more at once would not improbably cause the sacrifice of all the advantages now offered; and were force resorted to, the existing good understanding would be turned to lasting hatred.

The names of places are spelt according to Chinese pronunciation, and it is therefore nearly impossible to identify them:—

"Art. I.—Vessels of the United States of America restoring to the port of Cheang-ke, [? Nangasaki] will be supplied with water, wood, provisions, and coals, according to their wants. The Japanese will furnish anything they have. Payments are to be made in foreign gold and silver, and nothing else, as is the custom with the Chinese and Dutch. But this arrangement shall not commence till the first moon of the coming year. Five [?] years afterwards, another port will be opened."

"Art. II.—If any vessel of the United States be wrecked on any part of the coast of Japan, vessels of that country will convey the crew to the port of Cheang-ke, and whatever may be saved from the wreck will be accounted for. When the new port is opened, five [?] years hence, shipwrecked seamen will at their option be conducted thence, or to Cheang-ke."

"Art. III.—As it is difficult to know whether shipwrecked sailors are honest men or pirates, therefore they will not be permitted to go at pleasure anywhere else."

"Art. IV.—Cheang-ke is a port frequented by the Chinese and Dutch, and citizens of the United States resorting thither must conform to the established regulations, and not rove about on shore wherever they please."

"Art. V.—After the opening of the port (of Cheang-ke), any alteration or addition (to the present convention) will be carefully weighed before being finally settled."

"Art. VI.—The Loo Choo Islands being at a great distance, the opening of a port there is not a question to be determined on at present."

"Art. VII.—Choong-tsin [?] is also far off, and it is governed by a(n independent) prince. Neither, therefore, is the opening of a port there a question to be decided at present. But the subject will be considered in the spring of next year, when the ships of the United States arrive at Cheang-ke."

The following, which is styled "a reply," seems to be an additional article:—

"Ships of your honourable nation being short of provisions, firewood, or water, will have their necessities supplied at the station [? port] of Sang-kuoon-kong. But as that place is also at a great distance, and it will take months to arrange the matter, therefore we shall commence from the seventh moon of the coming year, in the autumn, according to our calendar."

This note bears the seals of the first two Japanese commissioners, and is dated the 25th day of the 2nd moon of the 7th year of the Emperor of Ká-wing. Supposing the Japanese and Chinese calendar to synchronize, it must have been written the day before the Susquehanna started for Hong-Kong, in an after part of which the meeting was to take place. But we are at a loss about the Emperor of Ká-wing, who is now in the seventh year of his reign. It cannot mean the temporal Emperor, who is in the first year of his reign, his predecessor having died in November last. Perhaps the Emperor of Ká-wing is the seogoin, or spiritual sovereign.—China Mail, April 27.

MILITARY COURTS OF REQUESTS IN INDIA.—In European Courts the officers, generally speaking, do their best at effecting an impartial settlement; but if a difficult case is brought into the native court, the members invariably try to decide it at once by dividing the claim, and awarding half the amount contended for to the plaintiff. Superintending officers do not always allow this absurd course to be pursued; but we do not think we are overstating the matter when we say that were the native members left to their own devices, they would settle every disputed case, of more than ordinary difficulty, in this manner. We have heard, and know, of claims being made in this way when the plaintiff had no possible ground for his case, and was not owed a farthing; but knowing that no harm could come of the attempt even if he failed, and that there was every chance of his getting half the amount demanded, he brought forward the most unfounded, unjust, and groundless complaint with perfect faith in his good luck.—Lahore Chronicle.

[The judge immortalized by Rabelais, after going through each case secundum artem, was accustomed to decide by a throw of the dice, and it is said that, on appeal, fewer of his decisions were reversed than of those of any of his judicial brethren.]

* * Should any delay or irregularity occur in supplying this paper, a communication of the fact to the Publishers will insure a remedy.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL,

LONDON.

THURSDAY, June 29, 1854.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE PUNJAB.

CONTINUING our examination of the Report on the Punjab, we come to a very important object, or rather to a nest of very important objects,—the preservation of order, the prevention of crime, and its detection and punishment if perpetrated,—in other words, police regulations, and the administration of criminal justice.

The police establishments are arranged under two heads—preventive and detective. The preventive police have a military organization, the detective police a civil organization. The preventive police consists of several regiments of foot, and troops of horse. The majority of the foot consist of regiments, which remained faithful to the British cause during the war; and thus opportunity is found for giving employment to men well deserving of it. The troopers have been selected from among the horsemen of the late durbar, the means of employing some of whom was scarcely less desirable. In one half of the infantry regiments Sikhs preponderate, in the remainder Mahomedans. The majority of the horsemen belong to the latter class of religionists. The entire force is superintended by four British officers.

The detective police is made up of what is termed in the Report the regular establishment paid by the state, the city watchmen, and the rural constabulary. The whole territory is divided into 228 police jurisdictions; and a police officer, with one or two persons of different grades under him, and about thirty ordinary policemen, are stationed in every jurisdiction. It is stated that the salaries of the superior classes of police officers have been fixed on a scale which, it is hoped, will secure them from ordinary temptation. On this point we should hesitate. It may be doubted whether any possible amount of salary would make an Oriental rigidly just. But as such persons must be employed, there is no course but to pay them well, though the probable result is always open to doubt. To assist in keeping these men honest, they are placed in some degree under the native collectors of land revenue, who are, it seems, to take care that they are faithful to the state, and that they do not act oppressively towards its subjects. Whether the tehsildars, for so are the native collectors termed, will take much trouble to uphold the integrity of the police, or whether they will not be more likely to claim a snack of the plunder, is a question too nice for us to discuss; but, as already suggested, we can only work with such tools as we can procure, and the whole business of government must not stand still because better instruments are not to be had. In Peshawur the state of the country has been considered to call for unusual precautions. The rules laid down are stringent, and very much at variance with our English notions; but they are necessary, and the old adage on that subject is too true to be quoted. An attempt has been made to render the heads of tribes and villages useful in preserving peace and preventing disorder, by making them responsible not only for their clansmen, but also for those who pass through their jurisdictions or alight in their villages. This is somewhat in the Saxon style, though applied to a very different state of society. It is not impossible that it may work well; the heads of clans are by old custom invested with patriarchal authority, and a system under which a reasonable deference is yielded to the habits of a people is more likely to succeed than one in which all such habits, good and bad, are set at defiance.

The city watchmen, who have already been referred to, deserve notice principally on account of the difficulty of finding a satisfactory mode of paying them. There are, it seems, two methods,—the one by a house-tax, the other by what are called town-duties, which are taxes levied on the import of articles of trade. "The former," says the Report, "is best in theory, the latter in practice." A house-tax, for any purpose, is perhaps the most equitable tax that can be levied; for the character of the house which a man occupies, though not an unfailing index to the state of his circumstances, is to a certain extent a guide. For the levy of a watch-rate, it is obviously the fairest mode that can be resorted to, as nothing can be more reasonable than that the protection of the house should be provided for by a charge upon the house. But it seems that a house-tax in the Punjab is nearly as unpopular as it is with the London shopocracy, and town duties are preferred. These town-duties are of the nature of transit-duties, which have been so universally condemned, and the abolition of which, in India generally, has been looked upon, and with reason, as a measure so highly beneficial. Under British management they are, of course, not productive of the same amount of mischief which they cause when a number of petty and rapacious lords of the soil levy them at pleasure, and frequently with irregularity, on the passage of goods through their territories, each anxious only to get as much as he can; but still, a tax on the transit of goods from one part of a country to another is decidedly bad. Yet there is a sunny side even to this dark matter. The tax is popular because it is indirect. The man who buys an article in the market does not know, and for the most part he does not care to inquire, how much of the price is part of the cost at first-hand, how much is the merchant's or retailer's profit, and how much is tax. As children are sometimes induced to take physic by disguising it, so children of larger growth are fond of being cheated into paying taxes by the amount being concealed from their knowledge. We do not blame any government for taking advantage of this fancy; and we hold those stern economists who deafen us with lectures on the advantage of direct taxation, to be little calculated for this world. We do not say that they are too good for it, for we fear the very contrary is sometimes the truth; but they are no more fitted for it than a sledge-hammer is fit to open a delicate lock. The Punjab administrators are not of this class: they knew that if you would deal with mankind successfully, you must treat them much as you would a high-mettled but somewhat wayward-tempered horse—with a mixture of indulgence and firmness. They permitted the watch and ward funds to be raised by town duties. They perceived, indeed, and have pointed out, that, apart from the general impolicy of such a tax, there was positive injustice in it, as part at least of the tax is probably borne by the people without, who supply the commodities, but who derive no advantage from the city police, which is for the sole benefit of those within, by whom the commodities are consumed. But Adam Smith long ago pointed out the activity and success with which the town interest of his day and previous days had managed to make prey of the country gentlemen and farmers; and so in the Punjab, to use the language of the authors of the Report, "The burden is thus partially removed from the right shoulders and thrown upon a class not inclined to murmur." To mitigate the injustice in some degree, it is stated in the Report, that "care has been taken, that as much as possible the articles taxed should be luxuries and not necessities." And here the city watchmen, and the means of supporting them, may be left to take care of each other.

The rural constabulary does not appear to be in the most satisfactory state; but the Punjab administrators view the matter with their usual temperance and good sense. "Here," they observe, "as in most regions of Upper India, their office is coeval with the institution of village society." The antiquity of the institution, and its being entwined with the habits and feelings of the people, are reasons why the administrators would respect it: these would be motives, with many Reformers in this country, for destroying it. In stating what has been done, and how it has been done, the reporters use language capable of far wider application than to the Punjab. The practical wisdom of the following passage will commend itself to all but those who, if a brick wall be in their way, will turn neither to the right nor the left, but will ride dead against it, to the damage only of themselves and their theories. It will be understood that we speak of such men as the late Jeremy Bentham, the wooden god of a not very large but very noisy section of Reformers, who, if he had taken it into his head, would have insisted upon Hindoos eating beef or Englishmen feeding altogether upon rice. The following passage is conceived in a different spirit. "One of the earliest measures after annexation was the organization of this important body [the rural constabulary] throughout the villages. The arrangements then made have been generally retained, but in places modified. It has been found that, like the townsmen, the villagers are often on this head sensitive and jealous. The Board, however, are fully alive to the importance of conciliation; measures of this kind, however good in themselves, will not succeed unless they are made acceptable to the people."

Such were, happily, the views of those employed in the work of giving peace and order to a country disorganized and prepared to dive into any abyss of anarchy and confusion.

In furtherance of these peaceful arrangements, and to aid in introducing and fostering orderly habits, the manufacture, sale, or possession of arms, was prohibited throughout the greater part of the country. Certain parts were exempted from this rule, as to enforce it within them would have been equivalent to a surrender of the frontier districts to rapine and massacre from the plundering hordes who could at any time have poured down upon them. The middle and lower portions of the delta harboured a scattered population, who subsisted chiefly by cattle-stealing. Roads were opened through these wild districts, and detachments of mounted patrol scoured them; but one of the most extraordinary, and it appears one of the most effective measures for present purposes, was the employment of professional trackers. In Waverley, a hardy Scot is spoken of who acts as guide to the herd, and who, suspecting some danger, before determining his course "snuffed the wind like a spaniel." These men, it may be presumed, proceed something in the same way. According to the Report, the acuteness of external sense displayed by "them approaches almost to an instinct. Although the ground is overgrown with grass, and is from its hardness unsusceptible of impressions from footsteps, yet these human bloodhounds have been known to follow the thief and his stolen cattle for fifty, eighty, and even a hundred miles." The fearful crime of thuggee was supposed not to exist west of the Sutlej. This was discovered to be a mistake, and as soon as the discovery was made, active measures were taken for putting down the system. It luckily happened that the services of a gentleman "who was known to have a natural turn for" the duties of a detective, were available; and under his directions an establishment was organized. In addition, the aid of that veteran hunter of thugs, Captain Sleeman, was obtained. The nature of the crime in its Punjabee variety was ascertained, the general habits of the criminals traced, and many of the murderers captured. "These persons differ in some respects from their brother professors of Hindostan. They are less poetical, less religious, and on the whole are a very commonplace set of ruffians, who are never likely to commit a murder with any credit. They nearly all belong to one class of Sikhs, and that, it is said, the lowest. As there is a vast difference between a Nicholas and a vulgar robber, so it seems that among the votaries of thuggee there is an aristocracy and a race of plebeian professors."

The general results of that part of the administration of the Punjab to which our attention has now been directed, are summed up by the authors of the Report in the following passage:—

"With a force of 11,228 men, a difficult frontier has been guarded 500 miles long, inhabited by a semi-barbarous population, and menaced by numerous tribes of hostile mountaineers. Attacks have been rare; the few that were made have been generally repelled. With a police force of 14,000 men, internal peace has been kept from the borders of Sindh to the foot of the Himalayas, from the banks of the Sutlej to the banks of the Indus, and this when a disbanded army of 50,000 men had mingled with the ranks of society—when countless adherents and servants of the late government were wandering unemployed about the country;—when the most influential portion of the population were still animated with a feeling of nationality, of revenge against the conquerors, of dislike to a change of institutions. So thoroughly have sedition and turbulence been laid asleep, that no single émeute or riot has anywhere broken out. Even on the frontier, the few disturbances which have occurred arose from without, and not from within. Nowhere has resistance been offered, even to the meanest servant of the Government. All violent crimes have been repressed, all gangs of murderers and robbers have been broken up, and the ringleaders brought to justice. In no part of India is there now more perfect peace than in the territories lately annexed."

HER MAJESTY'S TROOPS IN INDIA—CHANGES.

HER Majesty's 22nd, 25th, 96th, and 98th, now serving in India, are about to return to this country. Two of the above-named regiments, the 22nd and 96th, are to be relieved by the 27th and 35th, now under orders for embarkation. The services of her Majesty's 10th Light Dragoons (Hussars) being required by Government, that regiment also is on the point of quitting Poona, where at present it is stationed, to proceed elsewhere as may be ordered. One of the returning regiments, the 25th, is within the territories subject to the presidency of Madras.

THE BREVET.

THE brevet announced in our paper of this day will afford very great and general satisfaction. So far as the Indian army is interested, its results are as follow :—Lieutenant-Generals of 1846 become Generals; Colonels of 1846, Major-Generals; Lieutenant-Colonels, Colonels; Majors of 1846, Lieutenant-Colonels; Captains of 1843, Majors. The Brevet takes effect from the 20th day of the present month (June).

OFFICIAL DESPATCHES.

CONFLICT AT SHANGHAE.

ADMIRALTY, JUNE 14.

Despatches, of which the following are copies, have been received from Rear-Admiral Sir James Stirling, Commander-in-Chief of her Majesty's ships and vessels on the East-Indian and China station :—

Barracouta, Singapore, April 26, 1854.

1. Sir,—I transmit herewith, for the information of my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, the accompanying communications as per schedule from Captain O'Callaghan, of her Majesty's ship Encounter.

These communications contain the particulars of a very serious conflict between considerable numbers of the Chinese Imperialist soldiers, employed in the siege of Shanghai, and the naval force commanded by Captain O'Callaghan, in conjunction with the commander of the United States sloop of war Plymouth, and assisted by a body of volunteers from the factories in that vicinity.

2. The operations reported by Capt. O'Callaghan appear to have originated in the necessity for taking vigorous measures for the defence of the British and other factories, and to have led eventually to the seizure of the Chinese war-junks, and to the expulsion of the Chinese soldiers from the camps they occupied contiguous to the borders of the settlement.

3. I regret that it is not in my power to afford their lordships any further official information on this subject, beyond that which is contained in Capt. O'Callaghan's reports herewith transmitted.

4. In bringing this subject to their lordships notice, I beg to point attention to the very gallant conduct evinced by Captain O'Callaghan, and by all the officers, seamen, and marines engaged. The conduct of Commander the Hon. G. D. Keane, and of Lieutenants Dew and Majendie, and of a party of ten marines, who resolutely withstood the attack of an enormously superior force, is particularly commended by Captain O'Callaghan, and I trust it may be considered such as to merit some remark of their lordships' favour and approval.

I have, &amp;c.,

JAMES STIRLING,

Rear-Admiral, Commander-in-Chief.

The Secretary to the Admiralty.

Enclosure No. 1 in No. 23.

Her Majesty's steam sloop Encounter,
Shanghai, April 4, 1854.

Sir,—I have the honour to inform you, that a collision has taken place between the Imperialist forces before the city of Shanghai and ourselves, under the following circumstances :—

2. At about 4 p.m. on the 3rd instant I observed the signal (previously arranged) for the small-arm men of her Majesty's ships to land, which was promptly obeyed.

3. I shortly received a message from Commander the Hon. G. D. Keane (who happened to be on the spot at the time) that the Imperial troops were firing on our people, and the ground was being held by the marines of the main guard.

4. I advanced with the Encounter's men to the spot indicated (the race-course), which is within the limits of our boundary, where a sharp firing was being maintained on either side.

5. Her Majesty's Consul and Vice-Consul were there; and at the former's requisition, and quite in accordance with my own views, I determined on at once acting on the offensive, and having clearly ascertained the camp from which the aggression had been made, took it and burnt it, which I am happy to say was effected without loss, as the troops retired the moment we opened fire upon them.

6. Commander Kelly, of the United States ship Plymouth, also landed his crew, and having arranged with him for the protection of the settlement during the night by means of strong patrols, the rest of the crews were re-embarked.

7. Her Majesty's Consul deeming it advisable to take further steps for the security of the settlement, I suggested the taking possession of the Chinese fleet, and holding it until a camp (which most unnecessarily has been pitched close to the boundary, and from which most wanton attacks have frequently been made) was removed, and in this he concurred.

8. In accordance with the above, I sent the boats of the Grecian, with the pinnace of the Encounter (commanded by Lieut. Dew), under the command of Commander the Hon. G. D. Keane, to take possession of the junks, and bring them down under the Encounter's guns, which he effected most judiciously; and I take this opportunity of stating that from him I received every assistance that adroitness and promptitude could afford.

9. I think it my duty to call your attention to the conduct of Lieut. Majendie, of her Majesty's sloop Grecian. He was officer of the guard at the time the aggression took place, and on being sent for repaired to the spot with ten marines, and there kept a considerable body of men at bay until reinforced; and I feel it due to Lieut. R. Dew, first lieutenant of this ship, to mention the promptitude and smartness with which the crew of the Encounter was landed.

Advanced Post, Shanghai, April 5, 1854.

10. Since the above was written, I have the honour further briefly to inform you, that at the request of her Majesty's Consul, in accordance with the other Consuls, we have found it requisite to attack the Imperial camps near our boundary, which have been most gallantly taken. I have not time to enter into details, as I am writing this on the field.

11. The Imperialists have retired in considerable force (4,000 to 5,000 men) to the main camp. My object will be now to defend the settlement, but the force at my disposal is small, and I urgently request a reinforcement, if possible some troops; indeed so critical do I deem our position, that I have resolved on ordering the Styx up, if the senior officer at Amoy can spare her.

12. I cannot too strongly praise the conduct of Commander Keane and Lieutenant Dew, who most gallantly stormed the very strong works thrown up.

13. I am anxious this should reach as soon as possible, and for this purpose the Nymph clipper will sail to-night or to-morrow morning.

14. Our available force is about 300 men with the Americans. Capt. Kelly, with his gallant crew, has operated with me in a most effective and cordial manner. I am much indebted to the gallant and steady conduct of himself, officers, and men, and to all under my command. (Enclosed is a list of the killed and wounded.) Her Majesty's Consul and Vice-Consul, the latter with forty gentlemen of the settlement, have been with me in the field, and afforded me much assistance.

15. I will take the earliest opportunity of affording you a more detailed account; but of this you may rest assured, that the extreme measures taken were positively requisite for the safety of the community.

List of Officers engaged in the destruction of Chinese Imperialist Camps off Shanghai, on the 3rd, 4th, and 5th days of April, 1854.

Capt. G. W. D. O'Callaghan; Lieut. R. Dew; Lieut. L. E. Montgomery; Dr. J. T. Jenkins, surgeon; Mr. Hardy, mate; Mr. Butler, mate; Mr. Duckett, assistant-surgeon; Mr. Turner, passed clerk (acting as aide-de-camp to the senior officer); Mr. Hardinge, midshipman; Mr. Tupman, naval cadet; Mr. Pardon, gunner.

Her Majesty's ship Grecian.—Commander the Hon. G. D. Keane; Lieut. Majendie; Dr. Layton, surgeon; Dr. Little, assistant-surgeon; Mr. Jardine, mate; Mr. Rusden, acting second master; Mr. Williams, midshipman; Mr. Thursby, midshipman; Mr. Kelly, passed clerk; Mr. Mankey, gunner.

I have, &amp;c.,

(Signed) G. O'CALLAGHAN,
Captain and Senior Officer.

Sub-enclosure in Enclosure No. 1, in No. 23.

List of Killed and Wounded in an attack on the Chinese Imperialists' Camp, off Shanghai, April 4, 1854.

Her Majesty's ship Encounter.—Lieut. R. Dew, slightly; Mr. Tupman, naval cadet, slightly; Wm. Blackman, carpenter's crew, killed; Wm. Stevens, ordinary, slightly.

Her Majesty's ship Grecian.—Jno. Badge, A.B., severely; Henry Wilcox, quartermaster, severely; Henry Nichol, marine, severely (arm amputated); Geo. Bailey, captain foretop, severely. Shanghai Volunteers.—Mr. Brine, mortally; Mr. Grey, very severely (thigh amputated).

United States ship Plymouth.—1 killed, 4 wounded.

Total, killed, 2; wounded, 13.

(Signed) JNO. T. JENKINS,
Senior Surgeon, H.M.S. Encounter.Approved. (Signed) G. O'CALLAGHAN,
Captain and Senior Officer.

Enclosure No. 8, of No. 26.

Barracouta, Singapore, April 28, 1854.

Sir,—I received on the 22nd your reports dated on the 4th and 5th inst., written from the scene of action, describing the operations and arrangements in which you had been engaged up to the latest of those dates, and containing explanations of some of the circumstances which had led to the very serious collisions you describe, with the forces of an empire at peace with her Majesty.

On a full review of those communications, it is my duty to point out, that it belongs to the Crown alone to declare war; and that the orders and instructions of the Admiralty prohibit the commission of acts of hostility towards the subjects of foreign countries, and that naval officers will be held most strictly responsible for any departure from the line of duty thus marked out.

In the particular case comprised in your reports, it is clear that the seizure of the Chinese camps and junks were acts of hostility against the public forces of a state, not only at peace with the Crown, but towards whom we are enjoined to show the utmost consideration. No such acts can be justified on the ground that they were recommended or called for by any consular officer; they can only be justified by the immediate and unavoidable necessities of your position at the time; and it is by the proof you adduce of the existence of such necessities that the Admiralty will judge of the propriety of such a departure from its positive injunctions.

I have considered, as it is my duty to do, the circumstances you relate, and I am bound to acknowledge that they appear to have been such as to have left you no alternative, consistent with the safety of the interests you had been ordered to protect, but to pursue the course you took upon the 3rd and 4th instant; but I must apprise you, that in cases of this nature, it is not for me to pronounce a conclusive judgment.

With respect to the measures you took for effecting the objects you had in view, supposing these to have been justifiable, I am at liberty to form a more decided opinion; and I have, therefore, to inform you that your personal conduct, and that of the gallant captain, officers, and men who co-operated with you from the United States ship Plymouth, and the conduct of Commander Keene, and of Lieutenants Dew, Hemsted, Majendie, and Montgomery, and of the seamen and marines, and gentlemen-volunteers engaged on the occasions referred to, has elicited my warmest admiration; and I shall take an opportunity to bring to the notice of the Admiralty the names of the officers you particularly mention, and of the ten marines who so resolutely withstood the attacks of a very superior force upon the 3rd of the month.

I am, &amp;c.,

(Signed) J. STIRLING,

Rear-Admiral, Commander-in-Chief.

Capt. G. W. D. O'Callaghan, H.M.S. Encounter.

EAST-INDIA HOUSE.

A Quarterly General Court of the East-India Company was held at their house in Leadenhall-street, on Wednesday, the 21st of June, 1854.

The minutes of the last court having been read,

The Chairman acquainted the Court that certain accounts and papers, presented to Parliament since the last quarterly court, were on the table of proprietors, in pursuance of the Bye-laws.

Mr. Twining, the chairman of the Committee of Bye-laws, delivered in a report for the past year, which was read.

The Chairman acquainted the Court that the committee had reported upon certain proposed alterations to be made in the Bye-laws, a copy of which would be laid on the table in the proprietors' reading-room, and that the said alterations would be submitted at the next Quarterly General Court.

The whole of the members of the Committee of Bye-laws were then re-elected for the ensuing year :—

MUTINY OF THE SIXTH LIGHT CAVALRY OF MADRAS.

Mr. Lewin said the question which he was about to submit to the Court related to the case of certain sepoys of the 6th light cavalry of Madras, who were brought to trial on a charge of mutiny, the result of which trial was, that two of the men were shot, thirteen were banished for life, and one was pardoned. The circumstances out of which the alleged mutiny arose were these :—An order was sent from the Madras presidency to stop the batta of those sepoys, who were then serving in a distant part of India. How that order came to be sent it is impossible to say. The Government of Madras admitted it to be an error, and threw the blame on the officials; the consequence was, that the soldiers refused to mount their horses, and for three or four days there was what was called a mutiny; but no sooner was the order rescinded than the men returned to their duty. They afterwards were marched a distance of 900 miles to Arcot, regularly performing duty on the march. The Marquis of Tweedale, in his order for the removal of the men from the frontiers of the presidency to Arcot, stated that, although he was glad to find that the men had come to a sense of their duty, yet he could not suffer a regiment which had been guilty of a breach of discipline any longer to remain on the frontiers. This evidently showed that he meant to pass over the whole affair; if not, then it would have been illegal to have retained the men on duty during the nine months that elapsed before their arrival at Arcot. Many of the men were, during that interval, tried for minor offences and punished. That also would have been an illegal proceeding, if it had been intended afterwards to try them for the graver offence of mutiny. In a similar case which occurred in Bengal, Lord Gough, who was commander-in-chief at the time, pronounced the proceeding illegal, on the ground that the men who had been tried and sentenced by the court-martial, had since the commission of their offence, and before their trial, been suffered to perform their regular duties. If the proceedings in that case were illegal so were the proceedings in the case of the 6th light cavalry of Madras. Before these men were put upon trial there was a court of inquiry. The proceedings of that court rendered it utterly impossible that justice could be done. The first thing the Commander-in-Chief did was to write a letter—the most extraordinary document that ever was penned by an official person—in which he sets out with saying that he was determined to punish the men, although no offence had yet been proved. It was perfectly impossible to come to a fair trial after that decision. The Commander-in-Chief had already prejudged the case. The letter was dated January 29, 1844, and the words there used were :—"It is the Commander-in-Chief's inflexible determination to inflict punishment on the offenders." He must shortly refer to the proceedings which took place just before the court-martial, and which were of a most extraordinary nature. The court of inquiry required every sort of evidence, in order, if possible, to make out a case, but could prove nothing; and when certain individuals belonging to the service had been examined, and it was found that they could not prove so much as was wanted, those persons were dismissed the service; not, be it remembered, for any offence, but because their evidence did not amount to an inculpation of the regiment. Now, the Commander-in-Chief had no right to dismiss any man from the service without a trial. That is laid down in the articles of war. But after six officers had been dismissed the service how was it possible that justice could be obtained? Had the case been tried in England not a single punishment would have been inflicted. These poor unfortunate sepoys were placed in confinement, and were not able to see any of their friends. They were not even furnished with a list of the witnesses against them, although Symons says in his work that they had a right to it. The evidence brought forward in support of the charges was founded in perjury, and one of the witnesses has been since twice tried and sentenced for perjury. He (Mr. Lewin) said, therefore, that the punishment of death, inflicted by virtue of the sentence of that court-martial, founded on such evidence, was an act of murder. By the law of England, in the case of a court-martial, a prisoner has a right to demand a copy of the proceedings within three months. These had been demanded several times, and refused; and he (Mr. Lewin) did not wonder at it, because they would not bear the light. Mr. Lewin concluded by moving the following resolution :—

"That the time is arrived for taking into consideration the sufferings of the military who were punished on the ground of a mutiny of the 6th light cavalry of Madras."

Mr. Jones said he would second the motion rather than it should drop, although he knew nothing about the matter.—(A laugh.) Still, he said, it was his duty, and the duty of everybody here, to make himself fully acquainted with a case which appeared to be one of injustice and oppression.

The Chairman said, with regard to the motion of the hon. proprietor, he admits, I think, himself that none of those misguided men, whose case he has again brought forward, are at the present moment suffering any penalty whatever. But he has observed, in very strong language, upon the case of the two unfortunate men upon whom, as an example to others, the sentence of death was carried into effect. As to the court-martial by which they were tried and sentenced, I have the very highest authority for saying that it was in all respects legal. I have not only the authority of the then law-officers of the Crown, but that of the present Solicitor-General, and, above all, that of his Grace the late Commander-in-Chief. It would appear, by the statement of the hon. proprietor, that six officers were dismissed, and their families left without the benefit of a pension. But it was not so. In the year 1847, pensions were conferred on the whole of those native officers; and I must beg to observe, that there is nothing in the slightest degree inconsistent in granting pensions after a certain amount of punishment has been gone through. I have nothing more to state, but that I hope that this Court will be of opinion that there is no necessity for taking into consideration the case of these people, which has already been disposed of.

Mr. Lewin said he understood that not more than half the amount of the usual pension had been given to the native officers who were dismissed the service. The hon. Chairman talked of the court-martial being legal. He (Mr. Lewin) denied that altogether. Wherever life is at stake, the articles of war require that there should be thirteen members on the Court. Now, this court martial was composed of only seven members. There can be no doubt, therefore, that it was illegally constituted. But who were the members of it? The court-martial which tried Capt. Byng was composed of thirteen officers, at the head of which was Gen. Edward Williams; but this court-martial was composed of men of whom he would say nothing disparagingly, but that they were in great want of experience. Some of them did not know the native language, and the president of the court was, in point of rank, a major only. There was a want of consideration on this subject, which proves that in India there is one law for the natives and another for Europeans. There was another point which he had omitted to notice. One of the acts, and he believed the sole act, for which the two men were shot was the taking of an illegal oath. Martial law lays down that the offence which is made the subject of punishment shall be specifically stated in the charge. But there was not a word stated in the charge about this illegal oath. The hon. Chairman has stated that pensions have been given to these persons.

The Chairman.—Only to the native officers.

Mr. Lewin.—There were seventeen tried, of whom two were shot, and thirteen were banished. There were also six native officers dismissed without trial. He should like to know which of these persons have pensions and which have not.

The Chairman.—The memorandum I have before me states, that in consequence of instructions from the Court of Directors, pensions were given to the families of the six native officers who were discharged from the service. The amount of the pensions awarded was one-third of their former pay.

Mr. Lewin.—Then, for those you have transported you have done nothing?

The Chairman.—Nothing.

The motion was then put and negatived.

THE GOVERNMENT OF SCINDE.

Mr. Lewin, in rising to move,—"That the Court of Directors do lay before the proprietors the several reports of Mr. Pringle, Sir George Clerk, and of Mr. Frere, tending to explain the administration of the late lamented Sir Charles Napier in Scinde," said that on a previous occasion, when the name of Sir Charles Napier was introduced, there was an extreme alacrity shown on the part of the Court to produce papers that told against him, and he wished to see whether the same alacrity would be shown to produce papers in his favour. He was happy to say, that in the production of the former papers the parties had not succeeded in attaining their object. The memorandum of the Duke of Wellington, so far from injuring Sir Charles Napier, has had the opposite effect. It had merely shown that the mind of the duke was, at the time he wrote that document, in a state of imbecility.—(Cries of oh!)—He (Mr. L.) thought the Duke of Wellington's minute was a disgrace to him, and that it shows he was a man capable of any sort of injustice.—(Cries of oh! oh!—order! order!)—That is the character which he had in the army.—(Renewed cries of order! and question!)—The opinion throughout the army is, that he was one of the most unjust of men.—(Oh! oh!)

Mr. Twining said he must ask the Chairman whether the hon. proprietor was in order.

Mr. Lewin said he was speaking of facts, and he cared not whether they were believed or not.

The hon. proprietors concluded, by moving for the papers as mentioned above.

Captain Rathbone seconded the motion.

Mr. Jones said Sir Charles Napier had his full revenge on the Duke of Wellington, in the fact that, almost in the same year in which he injured Sir Charles Napier, he should offer the commandship-in-chief of the British army to a man who had confined the whole of his operations to the arts of peace; he had his revenge in the fact, that the Duke of Wellington should offer to Prince Albert the commandship-in-chief of the British army.—(Cries of "Question!" and "Chair!")

The Chairman.—I beg to call the attention of the hon. proprietor to the motion before the Court, and to request that he will confine himself to that subject.—(Hear, hear.)

Mr. Jones said, that when he showed that in almost the same year that the Duke of Wellington gave an opinion, which had the effect of dethroning from the commandship-in-chief of the Indian army the man who was his only equal in military skill, and to whom he had himself said—"If you don't go to save India from being lost, I must;" that he also offered the commandship-in-chief of the British army to Prince Albert—

The Chairman.—It is not the fact.—(Hear, hear.)

Mr. Lewin said, it was stated by Lord John Russell in parliament, at any rate.—(Hear.)

Mr. Jones had read it, and would say that Sir Charles Napier had his revenge against the Duke of Wellington in such an act of folly. He did not speak anything in the praise of Sir Charles Napier, for he considered he was as bad as the whole lot of them in the treatment of the people of Scinde. The treatment by the British nation of the people of Scinde was in the highest degree infamous. He wanted to see what redress was to be made to the Amers. We ought to have every information about Scinde. We violated our own treaties, and when the people took the first step to protect themselves you violently pounced down upon them; and then it was that Sir Charles Napier said, to them—"If you do not take off your tolls for the free navigation of the Indus we will make you. Such was the substance of his correspondence with Lord Ellenborough, and that noble earl assented to the doctrine.—("No, no!") It is in the books; and why are such things published if they are not true?

Mr. Mills (a director).—The hon. proprietor (Mr. Lewin) has stated that the Duke of Wellington offered the commandship-in-chief of the British army to Prince Albert. That was more than the duke had power to do, for the appointment did not rest with him. It was with the prime minister of the Crown, and the Duke of Wellington had nothing to do with it.

Mr. Lewin and Mr. Jones re-affirmed the fact.

The Chairman.—It is quite unnecessary for me to say anything in reference to the observations which have fallen from the hon. proprietor with regard to the late Duke of Wellington, except to express my deep regret that they should have been uttered in this Court. In regard to the motion of the hon. proprietor, I say at once that there is every disposition to give whatever information may be required; but as the correspondence with regard to Scinde forms such a large mass of papers, I should hope the hon. proprietor would be kind enough to specify what it is he wishes to have produced. I would, however, suggest to him whether it is desirable, upon any ground, to keep up anything like a feeling of personality with regard to a man who is now no more. I have reason to think that if the papers are produced, they are of a character not likely to bear out the impression which the hon. proprietor appears to entertain with regard to the reputation of Sir Charles Napier. But I would ask him whether there is any good reason for keeping the subject alive?

Colonel Dickenson supported the motion.

Captain Rathbone made some remarks on the comparative importance of the papers, and on those which he thought should be selected. If they should injure the memory of Sir Charles Napier, let them injure it; but if they were calculated to furnish the means of doing justice to his memory, let them be produced, that justice might be done to an already injured man.

Mr. Lewin said that, in answer to the observation of the Chairman, that the papers would not tend to the reputation of Sir Charles Napier, he could only reply, that since the last court he had received a letter from Sir William Napier, stating that nothing that could be produced could possibly tell against his brother.

The Chairman.—Perhaps the hon. gentlemen will be good enough to confer together, and tell us what papers they are which they call for.

Captain Rathbone said the papers required would only occupy about 150 pages of a Blue book.

The Chairman.—The hon. proprietor perhaps is not aware that the Report of Sir George Clerk was moved for in Parliament, and refused. Perhaps he will be good enough to ascertain what papers are wanted, and put them down in writing, with the dates, and send them in to me, and I will take care and consider them.

Captain Rathbone.—Sir George Clerk's report with the appendices were the papers principally required.

The Chairman.—But it is that report that was refused by parliament.

Captain Rathbone.—That was at a time when the Duke of Wellington's memorandum had not been made public.

The Chairman.—The usual course is that papers are not given here, which are not produced to parliament.

Captain Rathbone asked if either house of parliament should grant the document whether the directors would produce it?

The Chairman.—Undoubtedly.

After some controversial discussion as to the Duke of Wellington's memorandum having been laid before parliament, the motion was then put and negatived.

PUBLIC WORKS IN INDIA.

Colonel Dickenson rose to move the following resolutions:—

"That the inadequacy and tardy progress of the public works under execution for facilitating communication between the cotton-growing districts in the Deccan and the port of Bombay are such as to call for the grave consideration of this Court, and for more energetic measures and increased resources being placed at the disposal of the Bombay Government, for the earliest possible attainment of this all-important object.

"That, in the opinion of this Court, the pervading scantiness, frequent inaccuracies, and delayed publicity of the surveys of extensive portions of the Bombay Presidency, present another formidable obstacle to individual enterprise and the investment of European capital directed to increased local traffic, the extension of commerce, and agricultural improvement."

The Chairman.—I beg to acquaint the hon. and gallant proprietor that there are a great many papers with regard to public works in India, which have been ordered to be laid upon the table of the Court of proprietors; and I would, therefore, suggest to him the expediency of his postponing his motion till he has had an opportunity of inspecting those papers.

Colonel Dickenson signified his assent, and his motion was accordingly postponed.

THE CASE OF MR. LE GEYT.

Mr. Helps rose to bring forward the following motion:—"That the Court of Directors be requested to reconsider its decision with respect to the case of Mr. Le Geyt." He said, in the beginning of last year Mr. Le Geyt, who had then been thirty-one years in the East India Company's civil service, was one of the judges of the Sudder Court of Bombay, he having been appointed in 1846. On the 31st of January, 1853, there appeared an article in the Bombay Gazette in these terms:—"What if it should turn out that another judge of the Sudder is in debt to one of the English barristers, who plead with such convenience to themselves before it? What if it should turn out that one or more of them have been in debt to a suitor, and made only nominal transferences of their liabilities before deciding a suit—involving more than a lac of rupees in such suitor's favour?" On the 2nd of February following this article appeared in the same paper,—"So far from pleading guilty to a charge of unfairness to the Sudder, we have taken the blame to ourselves, that we have said so little regarding it—regarding the notorious and discreditable indebtedness of two, and the more than discreditable reputation of the entire Court throughout the Presidency." Very shortly after this Mr. Lumsden, the secretary of the government, wrote a letter addressed to the Registrar of the Court, stating that they thought it impossible to pass over such serious accusations, and had considered it necessary to ask the Advocate-General to say if he thought it fit that proceedings should be adopted. The following paragraph in the letter seemed to him (Mr. Helps) of considerable importance,—"I have been directed to transmit to you the copy of Mr. Le Mesurier's opinion, and to intimate to you that very grave objections exist to the judges of the Sudder adopting the course indicated by the Advocate-General, by appearing as suitors in an action for libel before the bar of a Court of criminal judicature; but that government, placing itself in the position of the Supreme Court, desires to know whether the judges are prepared to deny on oath the allegations made against them."

Mr. Clark said, he rose to order. He believed that he might state from authority, that the family of Mr. Le Geyt did not wish this discussion.

After some conversation on this preliminary point, in the course of which the Chairman and Sir George Pollock confirmed the views of Mr. Clark, while Mr. Jones and Mr. Lewin wished the discussion to proceed, the mover, Mr. Helps, resumed his observations.

Having read verbatim the charges that were made against Mr. Le Geyt, he begged to be allowed to read the answer of Mr. Le Geyt to those charges. Mr. Le Geyt's letter is dated Feb. 8, and runs thus:—

"1st. Debt to a Barrister.

"I am not indebted to any barrister of the Supreme Court.

"2nd. Fictitious transfer of a debt.

"I have had for many years past an account with Juggonath Sunberrsett, Esquire, of this city. In 1850-51, there was a balance against me. Early in that year, perceiving from some proceedings in the Concan Adawlut, that it was probable a case in which he was interested as a party would come into the Sudder Adawlut in the month of January, I told him I wished to pay off this balance, and asked him if he could recommend me to any sowcar, totally unconnected with the civil courts of this presidency, from whom the money could be taken up. After a few days, he introduced a man named Ravageer Couvageer, with whom I had some previous acquaintance, but had never had any money transactions of any kind; and he agreed to pay off the balance to Juggonath Sunberrsett, on my giving him a bond, and securing the loan by Life Assurance. I did so, and received back from Sun-bersett all bonds, receipts, and policies of insurance by which my debt to him had been secured, and an acknowledgment in full from him of payment of all demands. This was on the 17th February, 1851, from which date to this, I have received accounts current from Ravageer Couvageer, and the policies of insurance are in his name, and through him the premia have been paid.

"Whether, as between J. S. and R. C., the transfer of the debt was fictitious or not, I cannot, of course, undertake to say.

"But this I can declare, that I was led at the time to believe, and did believe, that it was a perfectly bond-fide transaction; that I sat in the case eight months afterwards with this belief; and when the article respecting it appeared in the Gazette of the 31st January last, I put the question directly to J. S., asking him the state of the case; and he assured me that the transfer was perfectly bond-fide, and that his books would prove it.

"3rd. Notorious and discreditable indebtedness.

"That I am involved in debt is without doubt true, and I believe it is no secret; but that I am discreditably indebted, I venture to deny. I have been most earnest in my endeavours for years past to clear off my debts, and I have the satisfaction of assuring government that arrangements for transferring the whole of them, with their securities, to Messrs. Leckie and Co., constituting them my only creditors, and for the gradual liquidation of my debts by monthly instalments, have been for some time past in progress, and are on the eve of completion."

From the date of that letter to the 4th of March, no communication passed between the Government and Mr. Le Geyt; but on the 4th of March the Secretary of the Government addressed another letter to the Registrar, stating that the letter of Mr. Le Geyt had been submitted to the Advocate-General, who considered the answer was not sufficient to enable him to move successfully for a rule for a criminal information against the Bombay Gazette, and therefore it was considered to be the obvious and bounden duty of the Government to remove Mr. Le Geyt. He (Mr. Helps) begged to be allowed to cite one single sentence from the opinion of the Advocate-General:—"The Government cannot erect itself into a court of justice, [which is just what it did] and place itself in the position of the Supreme Court in cases of libels on the Company's judges." He submitted, therefore, as one of the reasons for revising the decision, that Mr. Le Geyt's case has been brought before an unconstitutional tribunal. That was his first ground. His second was, that he had no trial. It was sufficient to say that the tribunal which pronounced on his case was a self-constituted tribunal, and that the members of that self-constituted tribunal were not by any means agreed in their opinion. In a minute by the Hon. Mr. Blane, dated the 28th of February, 1853, that gentleman says:—"I cannot regard the allegations in the libel under consideration as attaching in the same degree to Mr. Le Geyt as to Mr. Grant. The former I entirely acquit of the gravamen of the charge against him, and do not consider that there is anything in the transaction referred to in the libel to be construed into a public scandal." It is surprising that this gentleman should have come round and have been induced to concur in the condemnation of Mr. Le Geyt. Another gentleman, also a member of the council, Mr. Bell, in his minute dated the 1st of March, 1853, wrote thus:—"Mr. Le Geyt tells us, in his demi-official letter, to the address of the Judicial Secretary, dated the 24th ult. that his indebtedness was perfectly well known to Government when he was appointed to the Sudder, and in his official letter of the same date, that an European house of agency at this place has taken up all his liabilities; and refers us to his solicitor should we require further information on the subject. I cannot, therefore, but think we are dealing harshly with Mr. Le Geyt in removing him from the Sudder, as indebtedness may arise from misfortune, or from generosity outstripping discretion, and which latter I sincerely believe was the cause of Mr. Le Geyt's embarrassments." Are we not, then, entitled to say that Mr. Le Geyt has been harshly ill-treated? for it is only using the very expression which this gentleman, who was a member of the council, had used. That was his (Mr. Helps's) third ground. His fourth and last, and which was that upon which he mainly relied, was this—that the decision of the Bombay Government is, in fact, erroneous and unjust. He need not trouble himself about the charge of Mr. Le Geyt being indebted to a barrister; but go at once to what is, in fact, the turning point of the case, the alleged fictitious transfer of a debt. After quoting the opinion of two barristers of the Supreme Court, Mr. Helps contended that after this opinion, Mr. Le Geyt was quite right when he maintained that he had denied any knowledge of a collusive transfer of a debt. This was not at all a question to be decided upon authority.

The Chairman.—Upon what?

Mr. Helps.—Upon authority. What was the course of proceeding? The former creditor resigned all his securities. Those securities were handed over to the new creditor, a new policy of assurance was effected in his name, the premiums have been paid from that time to this by the new creditor, and what more could have been done? But try this by another test. If there had been no transfer would not Mr. Sunberrsett have brought an action against Mr. Le Geyt? But he had not brought any such action. This is the real point of the question. But whether there was or was not a real transfer between Mr. Sunberrsett and Ravageer Couvageer, if you believe Mr. Le Geyt, he had no knowledge of the fact—his transfer was at least bona fide. What then remains? The charge of indebtedness? No doubt it is a very serious evil to have judges, especially in India, anything but perfectly independent. (Hear, hear.) But when should you have taken the objection? Not after a man had been sitting years upon the bench, but when you first appointed him. (Hear, hear.) If there has been no change in the circumstances, which were within the knowledge of the Governor of Bombay, if he knew at the time of Mr. Le Geyt's appointment that that gentleman was in a state of pecuniary embarrassment, why should his being indebted be any ground for striking off his name from the list of judges? No honourable person could maintain the justice of so strong a course as that. Lord Falkland, in his minute dated April 22nd, 1853, says, "He (Mr. Le Geyt) was then known to be deeply involved;"—that is, when he was first appointed. So much for the fact; and now for the principle. Lord Falkland proceeds to say: "And certainly there could be no just reason for removing him from office afterwards until some overt act brought the consequence of his embarrassments to light." Now, the principle upon which a judge is to be tried ought to be marked, clear, and well-defined. Lord Falkland relies on the nominal transfer, as it is called, but which I call a real transfer. It is a real transfer of the judge's liabilities made by himself from an honorable motive. He (Mr. Helps) thought, then, that he had brought this gentleman's case within the terms laid down by Lord Falkland, that he had shown him to be a man who has been dealt by with some degree of harshness, in the measure that had been meted out to him. What has the Bombay government done in this case? Have they deprived Mr. Le Geyt altogether of all that they could? No; they have simply degraded him, and removed him to another court. Some difficulty was made with respect to his taking up his new appointment until he had consolidated all his liabilities in the hands of a house of European agency; but having done this, Lord Falkland considered him in a condition to take up his appointment. Lord Falkland distinctly stated that he should not have so considered, if he could have found any possible objection to his official character, but that, as a judicial officer, his integrity was altogether without a stain or a suspicion. Under these circumstances, without going into any general topics, he (Mr. Helps) submitted, that this is a case where a review might fairly be asked. He thought it was not too much to ask this, with a view, not of replacing Mr. Le Geyt, but in the event of a vacancy occurring at any distant time, that he should be appointed. One single word in conclusion. He (Mr. Helps) might have exercised a very unsound discretion in going on with this case, but the hon. gentleman on his right (Mr. Clark) never interrupted him until the whole charge had been stated. Mr. Helps then submitted his motion.

Mr. Lewin seconded the motion, but thought it tended to prejudice Mr. Grant, and would therefore refer to the contents of a letter which has been written by the Hon. Mr. Walker, a member of the council on the subject of Mr. Grant's removal.

The Chairman.—Will the hon. proprietor consider what the motion before the Court is? It is solely in reference to the case of Mr. Le Geyt, and distinctly apart from that of Mr. Grant. I put it to the hon. member to mark this, for it really is not in order to refer to the case of Mr. Grant.

Mr. Lewin, however, persisted in reading the letter, after which he made some remarks on the case, and said that:—As to allowing the case to remain in the hands of the Court of Directors, what have they already done? If they would tell what they have done, then the Court knows whether it is proper to leave the matter in their hands or not. But he objected to merely leaving it with them, with power to exercise their discretion.

The Chairman.—But that is the motion which the hon. proprietor has seconded. The motion is, that it should be left to the reconsideration of the Court of Directors.—(Hear, hear, and laughter.)

Mr. Lewin said, he wanted to know what that reconsideration meant. If a reconsideration involved an amendment of their proceedings, then he should not object to it.

The Chairman.—It is really very painful to have to say anything on the subject at all. I should have wished it had been allowed to rest; but I think the hon. proprietor has made a considerable mistake in treating the subject in the way he has done. Because, in his treatment of it, he has brought before us what would have been exceedingly applicable to Mr. Le Geyt's case prior to his removal from office; but the matter assumes a very different aspect when the gentleman happens to be removed, and we are called upon to say whether there are grounds for reversing the decision of a Government which was competent to make that decision. That being really the object of the motion, the question becomes limited to a very narrow circle. With regard to the very point which has been thrown over by the hon. proprietor, that of Mr. Le Geyt being indebted to a barrister, the objection was as to how far the character of a judge of the Sudder Court was affected by such a transaction, and whether such transactions on the part of the judges did or did not bring discredit on the proceedings of that Court. Gentlemen who are acquainted with the natives of India will entirely agree that it must have been prejudicial to the honour of the Court when such a fact came to their knowledge. With regard to Mr. Le Geyt's statement, I have not any wish to deny one word which that gentleman has stated. But the Bombay Government, acting upon its undoubted authority, removed that gentleman from the Bench. I am not here to say whether that was or was not the wisest course, but I am here to say that the Court of Directors took the decision of the Government of Bombay into their consideration, that they went over all the circumstances of the case, and that they came painfully to the conviction that it was not expedient that they should reverse that decision. I think the hon. proprietor, in a few concluding words of his speech, said that his object was not that anybody should be displaced, with a view to the reinstatement of Mr. Le Geyt, but rather that that gentleman should be raised higher in the service whenever a vacancy should hereafter occur. But his object does not appear exactly to tally with the notice which he has put upon the paper, because the motion is, that we should reconsider the decision at which we had arrived. But what he now requests is not that we should reconsider that decision, but advance Mr. Le Geyt on some future occasion. Under these circumstances, and considering the request of Mr. Le Geyt's friends, perhaps the hon. proprietor will allow me to suggest that his better course, and it is a very easy one, will be to leave the matter in the hands of the Court of Directors.

Mr. Sullivan said, he consented to leave the case with the Court of Directors, because he believed they have the best intimation to do justice, though all knew there was a stopper at the other end of the town.

Mr. Jones did not think the directors had made themselves masters of the case. It could hardly be imagined when they had only fifty-two days to decide upon 3,000 dispatches, that they could have made themselves acquainted with the real merits of the case.

Colonel Sykes said, he had known Mr. Le Geyt from the time of his entering the service, and had entire confidence in his integrity. He spoke as his friend, but at the same time he had no hesitation in saying that he, Mr. Le Geyt, showed a very unfortunate want of judgment in reference to the transfer of his liability. It mattered not whether he was indebted at the time of his appointment. That was no reason for his removal. The reason for his removal was the transfer. It might or might not be a fraudulent transfer. He (Col. Sykes) did not believe it was. He believed the Government of Bombay itself was satisfied that it was not; because they afterwards put Mr. Le Geyt in office, and gave him a superior judgeship, where he was uncontrolled, and where, if he had been wanting in integrity, he had abundant opportunities for disgracing himself. It might be hoped that the time would come when Mr. Le Geyt would receive the reward to which he was entitled; but he (Col. Sykes) entirely concurred in the recommendation of the Chairman, that the matter should be left in the hands of the Court of Directors.

Dr. Burnes said, from his long connection with Bombay, he knew that it would be highly gratifying to society and to all belonging to the public service there, if the Court of Directors would reconsider Mr. Le Geyt's case, and extend to him their favourable consideration.

Mr. Helps said that, after what had been stated by the Chairman, he would, with the permission of the Court, withdraw his motion.

Mr. Lewin, as the seconder of the motion, would not consent to its being withdrawn.

The Chairman.—All that the hon. proprietor can do is to object to the motion being withdrawn.

Mr. Helps said he thought all the good that could be done had been done. The whole case was now before the directors.

Mr. Lewin said, that is the very reason why the motion should not be withdrawn.

The Chairman thereupon move the previous question, the result of which motion was that the motion of Mr. Helps was lost.

THE MEDICAL SERVICE IN INDIA.

Dr. Burnes said the subject which he was about to introduce was one of great importance.

The Chairman.—I beg the hon. proprietor's pardon, but the notice which he has handed to me, is merely a question, which I shall be happy to answer, but the question must not be argued.

Dr. Burnes said he was not aware of the practice; this was only the second time he had attended the Court.

Mr. Prinsep.—You cannot make a speech, but you may give notice of a motion.

The Chairman.—The question which has been handed to me in writing is, whether means have been taken to remedy the injuries done to the members of the medical service by the new rules which were made in 1842, and which were to take effect in July, 1852, by which the medical service was placed on a different footing than that of the old rules? Now, first, I cannot assent to the statement of the hon. proprietor as to the injury done to the medical service by the new regulations; but, in answer to the mere question, I have to state that no alteration has taken place in the rules made in 1842, nor is it intended that any alterations should be made in those regulations: and I have to add that the further regulations that have been made are applicable to the medical service as well as to the military.

Dr. Burnes inquired if it were contrary to the rules of the Court for him to enter into an explanation?

The Chairman.—No, provided you conclude with a motion. At a general quarterly court it is always competent for any proprietor to make a motion without notice. But if he means to take a vote upon any question which requires consideration, I think notice of motion should be given.

THE PUNJAB.

Mr. Jones wished to ask a question. Whether the Court would give the papers containing a list of the confiscated states in the Punjab?

The Chairman.—If the hon. proprietor will be good enough to put his question upon paper I shall be able to see whether the papers can be given or not. It is impossible to answer the question off hand.

THE EAST-INDIA RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. Sullivan had observed in the papers that the East-India Company had guaranteed a loan on debentures to the East-India Railway Company, for five years, at  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent., and wished information on the subject.

The Chairman.—The East India Railway Company being unable, owing to the present state of the money-market, to find the capital which they had engaged to pay into the treasury, came to the Court of Directors, and asked whether they would guarantee the repayment of 1,000,000*l.* of money, to be borrowed at the rate of  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. interest; and the Court, rather than that the East-India Railway Company should be stopped in their operation, gave their consent to guarantee that the interest should be paid into the Bank of England, and that at the end of five years the capital should be paid off.

Mr. Sullivan asked whether a similar guarantee would be given on account of advances made to other railways in India.

The Chairman.—We must deal with every case of improvement in India as it comes individually before us.

COMMUNICATION WITH INDIA.

Mr. Weeding asked whether the Court of Directors had thought proper to put themselves in communication with Her Majesty's Government to facilitate the intercourse between England and India. Now that England was affording protection to Turkey, he thought the Government had a perfect right to suggest to that country the expediency of constructing a railway from Constantinople through Syria and the valley of the Euphrates to the Persian Gulf.

The Chairman.—The Court of Directors has not yet had any communication with Her Majesty's Government on the subject; but I will not forget the suggestion of my hon. friend.

THE MEDICAL SERVICE IN INDIA.

Dr. Burnes said he would now avail himself of the right of making a motion without notice, in order that he might bring forward the claims of the medical service to be restored to an equality of pension with the military. In 1796, the medical department was officially declared by the Court of Directors to be an integral portion of the Indian army. The same just principle was again enunciated in the Court's despatch of the 5th of February, 1823. And so for forty years the united departments proceeded pari passu, the officers of each retiring on the pension of the grade which they had respectively attained. In 1838, however, the home Government granted to military officers pensions by length of service as well as by rank, giving them an option to choose between the two, but without including their medical brethren in the boon; and when the latter prayed for a similar favour, they, strange to say, granted the pension by service, but withdrew that by rank; thus drawing a marked distinction between the departments. But the singular anomaly did not end here. In every other case, where innovations, injurious to individuals, had been introduced, they were only to affect new comers, and not those already in the service. Take, for instance, the new rules as to the pensions for chaplains, dated August 31, 1836, those for veterinary surgeons dated May 2, 1851, by both of which it was clearly defined that present members were not to suffer; and again, those promulgated in the present year for chaplains, prolonging their pension period from fifteen to seventeen years, but guarding religiously the interests of actual incumbents. While strict justice was thus being administered to other departments, the medical service was told that for ten years from July, 1842, its members might retire either under the old or new rules; but that in July, 1852, the latter were to become absolute. This narrow concession might reconcile the seniors to the change, but its practical effect was, by a stroke of power, to alter arbitrarily the conditions on which several hundreds valuable public servants had accepted the employ of government. This then was the grievance which he could not take his seat in that place without protesting against. While the old rules lasted, the medical services were able to effect something themselves by purchasing out their seniors as they attained rank to retire; but this impulse died with the old rules, for now no rank entitled to pension. Moreover, the highest pension could only be obtained after thirty-eight years, and the consequence was, that men would try to drag their weary way through that long period, to be, when they arrived at the higher ranks, and had the most important duties to perform, a burden to themselves, and an infliction on the public. What was required was to restore the medical department to the same relative footing with the military, on which it had virtually stood for nearly half a century, by giving it also pension by rank as well as service; but if this could not be generously conceded, then, in common justice, to protect the officers who were in the service at the promulgation of the new rules in July, 1842, from their operation, which was injurious to them, and in violation of the terms under which they were enlisted. Justice to a body of men over whom he had had the honour to preside had alone prompted him to make this effort. Personal objects he had none, for he had retired ere the new rules took effect, on the conditions fixed for his pension before he was born, and had neither relative nor family connection in the department. The hon. proprietor concluded by moving, "That the Court of Proprietors recommend to the Hon. Court of Directors to reconsider the pension-rolls for the medical service in India."

The Chairman.—Does any hon. proprietor second the motion? The motion not being seconded, it fell to the ground. The Court then adjourned.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS, JUNE 23.

ADULTERATION OF COFFEE.

Viscount Torrington presented a petition from the merchants, planters, and others interested in the trade of Ceylon, praying that a committee of their lordships' House might be appointed to inquire into and report on the adulteration of coffee. The noble lord said that, under the operation of the present minute, which allows coffee and chicory to be sold in a mixed state, there has been a great decrease in the consumption of coffee.

The Earl of Aberdeen said that, so far from any decrease in the consumption of coffee having taken place under the operation of the present minute, the consumption in 1853 was nearly nine per cent. greater than in the preceding year. He thought their lordships would be satisfied that the present system worked well, and ought not to be disturbed. He did not consider that it would be necessary to appoint a committee on the subject.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, JUNE 23.

COMMERCIAL INTERCOURSE WITH JAPAN.

Mr. Gregson asked the Lord President of the Council whether any steps would be taken to obtain an opening for British commerce with Japan.

Lord J. Russell said Sir J. Bowring had been instructed to proceed at once to Japan, and to ask for an opening for British commerce, on terms similar to those understood to have been conceded to the United States.

HAILEYBURY COLLEGE.

Mr. Horsfall asked the President of the India Board whether any regulations had been made for the examination of candidates for admission to Haileybury College; and how it was proposed to fill up the vacancies occurring before the coming into operation of the new system.

Sir C. Wood said that a committee, of which the right hon. the member for Edinburgh was chairman, was examining into the matter. All vacancies since the 30th of April last would be dealt with according to the new system.

JUNE 27.

THE RAJAH OF BERAR.

Mr. Williams, in the absence of Mr. Hume, moved for a variety of papers connected with the engagements of the East-India Company with the Rajah, and the recent annexation of his territory to that of the Company. Agreed to.

EAST-INDIA COLLEGE, HAILEYBURY.

CLOSE OF THE TERM.

Monday last, being the day appointed for closing the first term for the year 1854, a deputation from the Court of Directors of the East-India Company visited the College, for the purpose of receiving the Report of the Principal, and of distributing the medals and prizes awarded to the successful competitors in the various branches of Oriental, classical, and European literature.

A special train left the Shoreditch station of the Eastern Counties Railway at half-past ten o'clock; and on the arrival of the Directors and the Visitors at Haileybury, the distinguished party proceeded to the lodge to pay their respects to the Principal (the Rev. H. Melvill). The Directors then proceeded to the council-room, where they received the Principal's Report.

The deputation afterwards repaired to the library, where the visitors and a considerable number of the students had already assembled.

The chair was occupied by Major James Oliphant, the Chairman of the Hon. Court of Directors, who, together with the following Directors, formed the deputation:—Elliot Macnaghten, Esq. (Deputy-Chairman); W. B. Bayley, Esq.; Sir H. Willock, K.L.S.; Lieut.-Col. W. H. Sykes; W. J. Eastwick, Esq.; John H. Astell, Esq.; H. T. Prinsep, Esq.; Lieut.-Gen. Sir G. Pollock, G.C.B.; John P. Willoughby, Esq.

Amongst the visitors were the following:—Prince Gholam Mahomed (son of Tipoo Saib); Prince Feroze Shah (grandson of Tipoo Saib); Hafiz Sudrool Islam Khan Bahador; Hon. Wm. Law; Hon. Major Dalzell; Colonel Sim; Lieut.-Col. Mant; Rev. T. J. Rowsell; Rev. Chas. Clarke; Thomas Hankey, Esq.; J. Ales Hankey, Esq.; Major Moore; Wm. Dent, Esq.; Col. Astell; John C. Morris, Esq.; Henry Morris, Esq.; G. J. Morris, Esq.; Major Chase; F. Salmon, Esq.; Alex. Colvin, Esq.; E. Kindersley, Esq.; Dr. Greig; J. R. Martin, Esq.; G. S. Thornton, Esq.; J. O. Walker, Esq.; Rev. H. Blane; Hon. and Rev. Godolphin Hastings; Rev. R. W. Morice; T. C. Robertson, Esq.; &c. &c.

The following civilians on leave of absence were also present:—W. S. Seton Karr, Esq.; Cecil Beadon, Esq.; Wm. Wynyard, Esq.; Wm. S. Quintin, Esq.; E. C. Bayley, Esq.; Wm. Edwards, Esq.; S. Lushington, Esq.; G. H. Smith, Esq.; C. F. Montresor, Esq.; A. B. Warden, Esq.; W. B. Jackson, Esq.; R. Chatfield, Esq.; L. H. B. Tucker, Esq.; P. Grant, Esq.; H. P. Fane, Esq., &c. &c.

The Chairman having taken his seat,

Mr. Hooper read the following list of medals, prizes, and other honourable distinctions obtained by the students:—

Medals, Prizes, and other Honourable Distinctions of Students leaving College, June, 1854.

Fourth Term.

Morris, highly distinguished; medal in mathematics; medal in Sanscrit; medal in Telugu; and prize for general proficiency at the Easter examination.

Slmson, highly distinguished; prize for general good conduct during the whole term of his residence in College; and prize in Persian.

Bainbridge, highly distinguished; medal in political economy and history; and prize in Sanscrit.

R. G. Melvill, highly distinguished; medal in Persian.

Hunter, highly distinguished; medal in Hindustani.

W. Lane, highly distinguished; medal in law; and prize in Bengali.

Gordon, highly distinguished; prize in Hindustani.

Bosanquet, highly distinguished; prize in Marathi.

Wynch, highly distinguished; medal in classics.

Martin, Waterfield, Robinson, Coghlan, Hall, J. C. Robertson, Sheppard, J. D. Ward, Larpent, and Fairfax, highly distinguished.

Thornhill and Willock, passed with great credit.

Prizes and other Honourable Distinctions of Students remaining in College.

Third Term.

C. J. Mackenzie, highly distinguished; prize in mathematics; prize in law; prize in Sanscrit; and prize for general proficiency at the Easter examination.

Boswell, highly distinguished; prize for the best English essay; and prize in Hindustani.

Clifford, highly distinguished; prize in Persian.

Thomas, highly distinguished; prize in political economy and history; and prize in Telugu.

Harrison, highly distinguished; prize in classics.

C. Lane, W. Robertson, Arbuthnot, J. C. Colvin, and Crawford, highly distinguished.

Smith, Elphinston, and Paynter, passed with great credit.

Second Term.

M. Melvill, highly distinguished; prize in classics; prize in mathematics; prize in political economy and history; prize in law; and prize for general proficiency at the Easter examination.

Sharpe, highly distinguished; prize in Telugu.

Browne, highly distinguished; prize in Sanscrit; and prize in Persian.

Nisbet, Carr, J. P. H. Ward, G. N. Barlow, Lyall, Prinsep, Hooper, Kindersley, Cockerell, Reid, MacGregor, Coulson, Thompson, Whiteside, Ovans, and Daniell, highly distinguished.

R. W. Barlow, passed with great credit.

First Term.

F. D. Melvill, highly distinguished; prize in mathematics; prize in Sanscrit; and prize for general proficiency at the Easter examination.

Bayley, highly distinguished; prize in law.

Tottenham, highly distinguished; prize in classics.

Outram, Salmon, Macnaghten, Percival, Jenkinson, and Low, highly distinguished.

H. W. Alexander, Kerr, Hankey, and Spens, passed with great credit.

Mr. Boswell, who was received with loud applause by his fellow students, read his Prize Essay on "The Influence of the Greeks and Romans respectively upon Modern European Civilization."

The essay, a thoughtful and graceful composition, was very effectively read. Tracing civilization from its rise in Asia, to Greece, where it found a securer, because less assailable home, and from thence to Rome, and finally to the European world, which rose from the ashes of the "Queen of empires," the essayist proceeded to show the influence exercised on civil government, on art, and literature, and upon life and manners in modern times, by the codes, the manners, the arts, and the literature of ancient Greece and Rome. The essay concluded with the following eloquent passage:—

"The hallowed spark of civilization, kindled on the altar of Grecian freedom, was not to be extinguished by the rude blasts from the world without, but, fanned by the gentle breezes of heaven, burst forth into flames—a beacon to illumine a world enveloped in mental darkness. And who was to circumscribe its limits, or set a boundary to its onward progress? Insignificant were the barriers offered to its advance. It went forward to accomplish its destiny—conquering, and to conquer,—to prove to the world that the strongest tenures of empire are in their character moral, rather than physical; for, whereas the sovereignty of the globe was but a temporary possession, a dominion that has passed from the sway of Greece and Rome,—in the empire of civilization they have left undying influences, and have linked their memories with the eternal progress of intellect and improvement."

Mr. Hunter, who was received with much applause, read a passage from "Lane's Arabian Nights' Entertainments," translated by himself into Hindustani.

Mr. Morris, who was received with much applause, read a passage from "Atkinson's Expedition into Afghanistan," translated by himself into Telugu.

Mr. R. G. Melvill, who was received with much cheering, read a passage from "Colonel Sleeman's Rambles and Recollections of an Indian Official," translated by himself into Persian.

Mr. Morris, who on his re-appearance was again cordially greeted by his fellow-students, then read a passage from "Collins' Ode to the Passions," translated by himself into Sanscrit verse.

The Chairman then distributed the prizes awarded to the successful competitors, who were cordially cheered as they came up to receive them.

Mr. Hooper next read the classification of the rank of the students about to depart for India.

The Chairman then addressed the assembled students as follows:—Gentlemen, the Court of Directors have much pleasure in meeting you here this day, at the close of the College term. They have received the report of the Principal on the conduct of the students, and that report has given them the highest satisfaction. (Applause.) I hold in my hand a list of those gentlemen who are now about to leave this College for the scene of their future duties, and I am happy to find in the list of those who are set down as "highly distinguished," an unusually large number of names. In the third term also, a very large number of gentlemen have highly distinguished themselves; and in the second there is again a considerable preponderance of those who have achieved the same honourable distinction. (Applauses.) I wish that it were possible to speak of the gentlemen in the first term in equally favourable terms. I am willing to hope that, while there is in that term an unusually large number of gentlemen who, from some cause—and I am afraid it is their own fault, their own idleness—who have lost their term, it will only be necessary for me to mention this circumstance as the single thing which we have reason to regret to-day, in order to induce those who have failed upon this occasion to apply themselves with greater diligence to the studies of the place, so that they may recover what they have lost, and earn the distinction which it should be their ambition to secure. (Applause.) To the gentlemen of the fourth term, who, having completed their course of education here, are about to leave the college, I must make one or two observations, for the purpose of reminding them of what it is they are about to undertake. Before me are the future administrators of India. In this college the first foundation has been laid of those mental habits and acquirements which will be necessary to the performance of the important tasks entrusted to you. But it is only the foundation which has been laid. In India you will have to reduce to practice what you have acquired here. The knowledge you have here acquired is the necessary foundation of every great man's career; but you will need, besides this, that which in India is more especially necessary than elsewhere—profound knowledge of self, and great powers of self-control. Some of you will probably have to administer the affairs of provinces half as large as England, and in the performance of the important duties thus devolved upon you, you will have many difficulties to overcome. You will find yourselves in some cases surrounded by people whose every wish is to prevent your wish, and to find it out and thwart it if they can. How necessary, then, is it that you should be at all times masters of yourselves, and never enslaved by pleasures or passions which would interfere with the duties which you will have to perform. (Applause.) I need hardly say that a familiar acquaintance with the native languages of India will be indispensable to you; for it must be evident that, if you are surrounded by a people whose language you do not understand, you will be comparatively useless. Before you is a career sufficiently elevated to satisfy the proudest ambition; and on you personally it will in a great degree depend whether you do or do not, fill the eye of the world, by arriving at the position and achieving the fame which is within the reach of the civil servants of the East-India Company. There are amongst those who have preceded you many who have risen to great eminence in the Government of India, and I need only to mention to you such distinguished names as those of Elphinstone, Robertson, and Thomason, and to counsel you to follow their example. (Applause.) It is always a pleasure to the Directors to hear of the good conduct of the students in this place: and they have been much gratified at receiving from the Rev. the Principal this day, a report which shows that the discipline has been satisfactorily maintained. The Directors acknowledge with thankfulness the successful effort of the Principal and the Professors to this end. I will not detain you much longer, but I find it impossible to part from you without saying a word or two about the proceedings of the day. I have listened with great pleasure to the translations which have been read of passages from English books in the Oriental languages; and I have much satisfaction in stating, with reference to the translations into Hindustani and Persian, that the nobleman who sits by my side,—Prince Gholam Mahumed, who is familiar with the language,—bears testimony to the ease with which he understood the translations.—(Much applause.) The prince is not so well acquainted with the Telugu, and is therefore not so able to speak of the translation into that language by the distinguished student Mr. Morris. I believe, however, I may say that that gentleman is recognised as one of the best Oriental scholars that has ever left this college.—(Much applause.) I must also express the satisfaction which the Directors have felt in reference to the fact that it has been considered proper to award a special prize to one of the students—Mr. Simson—for his general good conduct; and I should be neglecting my duty if I did not express the gratification I have derived from listening to Mr. Boswell's essay on European civilization; and the hope I entertain that all the gentlemen who hear me now will do their utmost to carry with them, and to diffuse in the country to which they are going the blessings of that civilization of which he has so eloquently discoursed this day.—(Applause.) Gentlemen, I bid you farewell.

The directors, professors, visitors, and students then left the library, and after perambulating the grounds for a short time, proceeded to the examination hall, where an elegant luncheon was provided by Mr. Coleman, the college purveyor. Major James Oliphant presided, supported by Prince Gholam Mahumed, Prince Feroze Shah, and by the members of the deputation from the Court of Directors, the rev. the principal, &c.

At the close of the repast,—

The Chairman said—It was unnecessary for him to say that, but for the services of the principal, the dean, and the professors, this college would not be what it was. The gratitude of the Directors was due to them for the excellent manner in which they performed their arduous duties, in superintending the studies of the place, and for their diligence in maintaining the discipline of the establishment. He might add that, although on all occasions the gratitude of the Directors was due to the principal and the professors, it seemed to be more especially warranted by the result of the present examination. There was no doubt that they sometimes found it a difficult and a painful task to perform their duty; but the Directors had been witnesses to-day how faithfully they performed that duty.—(Applause.) He had felt bound to refer to the circumstance to which he now alluded, in the library, and he feared that he did so in a way which might have led some persons to think that his observations were addressed to the whole of the first term, when they were only meant to refer to those who had had the misfortune—he would use no harsher word—to lose their term. The others had exhibited as much diligence, and had distinguished themselves as highly as the gentlemen of the other terms, of whose attainments he had felt it his duty to speak in the highest praise. Amongst the gentlemen who had gone out from this College, there were many who had eminently distinguished themselves in the Indian service; and he hoped that while this College was permitted to last—and he thought it ought to last (much applause)—they would continue to find it sending out men fitted for the important posts they were designed to fill, and rising to eminence like those distinguished men who had preceded them. (Applause.) He would now give “The Health of the Principal, the Dean, and the Professors of the College.”—(Applause.)

The Rev. the Principal, on rising, was received with much applause. He said—It cannot fail to be highly gratifying to myself and the Professors of the College, to have our exertions and our services described in such kindly terms as have just been employed. We are indeed conscious that some measure, at least, of the praise thus received, must be ascribed to that friendly medium through which our kind masters, the Court of Directors, are disposed to view the proceedings of their servants. But, at all events, we may claim to ourselves an honest and hearty desire to promote the well-being of that magnificent service, whose members it is the business of this College to train. I call it a magnificent service, not merely from its opening many avenues to eminence, to the acquisition of wealth, and the attainment of rank—but because, as I suppose, there is no service in the world which affords so many opportunities of doing good, of benefiting vast masses of our fellow-men. This is the true greatness of the Civil Service, the greatness of being useful, of promoting civilization, and of recommending Christianity. And I do heartily rejoice that, as a body, the civil servants who have gone forth from this College, have proved themselves in every way equal to so lofty a calling. (Applause.) I do not believe that any deficiency in the body could be given in evidence, that the system of nomination was a failure, and that some other system must therefore be tried. And I only, but sincerely, hope, that, when we come to have—as, if to borrow the Chairman's expression) this College is permitted to stand, it is supposed that we shall have—the picked men of the land, the élite of our public schools and universities,—I only hope that we shall have as much of sound common sense, as much of practical working ability, as much of patience and perseverance, and as little of the eccentricities of genius, as have resulted from the system which is just about to die. (Applause.) I will only add that, whilst this is our wish, myself and the Professors will use every exertion to procure its being realised—a work in which we shall be greatly encouraged by the kindness which has now been shown us, and for which, once more and most sincerely, I beg to tender our united thanks.—(Much applause.)

The deputation and visitors then retired from the Examination Hall, and almost immediately left for London.

The next term will commence on the 11th of September.

B R E V E T.

War-Office, 20th June, 1854.

Her Majesty has been pleased to appoint the following officer to take rank of General by Brevet; the commission to be dated the 20th June, 1854:—

Gomm, Lieut. Sir W. M., K.C.B., 13th Foot, Commander-in-chief in the East Indies.

The undermentioned officers have been appointed Aides-de-Camp to the Queen, with the rank of Colonel in the army, from the 20th June, 1854:—

Honorary Aide-de-Camp to her Majesty, from the 20th June, 1854:—

Lawrence, Col. Sir H. M., K.C.B., Bengal artillery.

Aide-de-Camp to her Majesty, with the rank of Colonel in the East Indies, from the 20th June, 1854:—

Tucker, Lieut. Col. H., C.B., 8th Bengal N.I., Adjutant-general of the East-India Company's army.

Her Majesty has been pleased to appoint the undermentioned officers of the East-India Company's forces to take rank by brevet in her Majesty's army in the East Indies as follows; the commissions to bear date 20th June, 1854:—

LIEUT. GENERALS TO BE GENERALS.

Osborne, H. S., Bo. inf.	Greenstreet, John, B. inf.
Caldwell, Sir J. L., G.C.B. M. eng.	Kemp, G. R., Bo. inf.
Carpenter, G., B. inf.	Munro, John, M. inf.
Leighton, Sir D., K.C.B. Bo. inf.	Macgregor, J. A. P., B. inf.
Welsh, James, M. inf.	Prendergast, Sir J., Knt. M. inf.
Russell, Sir J., K.C.B., M.L.C.	Richards, Sir W., K.C.B. B. inf.
White, Martin, B. inf.	Duncan, A., B. inf.
Podmore, R., M. inf.	Latter, R. J., B. inf.
Houstoun, Sir R., K.C.B. B.L.C.	Dyson, J. F., Bo. inf.
	Doveton, Sir J., K.C.B. M.L.C.

Fair, A., c.b. M. inf.
Lushington, Sir J. L., g.c.b. M.L.C.

Fraser, W. C., M. inf.
Gilbert, W., Bo. inf.

COLONELS TO BE MAJOR-GENERALS.

Henry, John, M. inf.
Skardon, C. R., B. inf.
Swinhoe, S., B. inf.
Anderson, John, B. inf.
Young, F., B. inf.
Douglas, T. M., c.b. B. inf.
Costley, W. R. C., B. inf.
Herbert, C., c.b. M. inf.
Wymmer, G. P., c.b. B. inf.
Dick, A., B. inf.
Pattle, W., c.b. B.L.C.
Fiddes, T., B. inf.
Perry, James, M. inf.
Ross, H., M. inf.
Anderson, John, M. inf.
Ketchen, James, M. art.
Roberts, A., c.b. B. inf.
Morgan, John, c.b. M. inf.
Wallington, C. A. G., B. inf.
Oliver, T., B. inf.
Bagnold, M. E., Bo. inf.
Scott, D. G., B. inf.
Hart, H., c.b. B. inf.
Griffith, J. G., Bo. art.
Shaw, S., B. art.
Doveton, F. L., M.L.C.

James, C. B., Bo. inf.
Dunsterwile, J. H., Bo. inf.
Paul, M. C., B. inf.
Payne, C., Bo. inf.
James, J. P., M. inf.
Cheape, Sir J., k.c.b. B. eng.
Low, John, c.b. M. inf.
Harris, Joseph, B. inf.
Tulloch, John, c.b. B. inf.
Powney, R., B. art.
Wheeler, Sir H. M., k.c.b. B. inf.
Gowan, G. E., c.b. B. art.
Montgomery, P., c.b. M. art.
Stuart, James, c.b. B. inf.
Ovans, C., Bo. inf.
Hewitt, W. H., B. inf.
Home, John, B. inf.
Lloyd, G. W. A., c.b. B. inf.
Tulloch, A., c.b. M. inf.
Dyce, A. B., M. inf.
Cleveland, J. W., M. inf.
Blackall, R., B. inf.
Capon, David, c.b. Bo. inf.
Robertson, W. D., Bo. inf.
Sim, D., M. eng.

LIEUT. COLONELS TO BE COLONELS.

Budd, R., M. inf.
Hicks, G., c.b. B. inf.
Caley, H. F., B. inf.
Dick, H., B. inf.
Macties, W., c.b. B.L.C.
Nash, Joseph, c.b. B. inf.
Alexander, James, c.b. B. art.
Lase, J. T., c.b. B. art.
Hutton, G., M. inf.
Spens, A., B. inf.
Stewart, R., B. inf.
Pettigall, R., B. inf.
Hancock, H., Bo. inf.
Wood, H. J., c.b. B. art.
Huthwaite, E., c.b. B. art.
Coffin, I. C., M. inf.
Whitlock, G. C., M. inf.
Lister, F. G., B. inf.
Downing, D., B. inf.
Thompson, P., M. inf.
Cameron, T. M., M. inf.
Goldie, A., B. inf.
Wake, W. H., B. inf.
McSherry, T., c.b. B. inf.
Smeo, W. N. T., Bo. inf.
Parr, T. C., Bo. inf.
Sandys, F. H., B. inf.
Sibbald, H., c.b. B. inf.

Prior, H., M. inf.
Johnson, N., M. inf.
Moore, John, B. inf.
Bird, J. S., B. inf.
Barrell, D., B. inf.
Bolwhale, T., B. inf.
Handcomb, I. H., B. inf.
Brind, F., c.b. B. art.
Birch, R. J. H., c.b. B. inf.
Campbell, G., B. art.
Innes, Peter, B. inf.
Boileau, J. T., B. eng.
Lawrence, A. W., M.L.C.
Thompson, W. J., c.b. B. inf.
Lawrence, Sir H. M., k.c.b.
Bradford, J. F., c.b., B.L.C.
Graves, H. M., B. inf.
Grant, C., c.b. B. art.
Laurensen, G. S., c.b., B. art.
Jack, A., c.b., B. inf.
Logan, A. S., M. inf.
Shirreff, A., M. art.
Messiter, E., M. inf.
Brenner, W., M. inf.
Corbet, S., c.b., B. inf.
Macan, H., Bo. inf.

MAJORS TO BE LIEUTENANT-COLONELS.

Seaton, T., c.b., 35th B.L.I.
Burn, H. P., 1st B.N.I.
Mainwaring, E. R., 16th B.gren.
Youngusband, A. G. F. J., 36th B.L.I.
Ripley, J. P., 1st B. Eur. fus.
Craigie, J. H., c.b., 20th B.N.I.
Riddell, W., 60th B.N.I.
Pears, T. T., c.b., M. eng.
Moore, R. C., c.b., M. art.
Evans, D. F., 16th B.gren.
Whitlie, W. T., c.b., Bo. art.
Tucker, A., c.b., 9th B.L.C.
Balfour, G., M. art.
Clayton, H., 4th B.L.C.
Harris, Philip, 70th B.N.I.
Evans, F. R., 26th B.L.I.
Hutt, G., c.b., Bo. art.
Henderson, R., c.b., M. eng.
Tait, Joshua, c.b., 6th Bo. N.I.
Mayne, W., 37th B.N.I.
Macgregor, G. H., B. art.
McCall, A., 44th M.N.I.
Allardyce, James, 23rd M.N.I.
Taylor, J. L., 26th B.L.I.
Thomson, W. B., 3rd B. Eur. reg.
Swinley, G. H., B. art.
Pott, D., 47th B.N.I.
Hay, P., 54th B.N.I.
Palmer, H., 48th B.N.I.

Gordon, P., 11th B.N.I.
Fond, J. R., 1st B. Eur. fus.
Campbell, A. L., 1st B.L.C.
Pitties, W. S., B. art.
Boileau, F. B., B. art.
Loftie, M. E., 30th B.N.I.
Baker, W. E., B. eng.
O'Brien, C., 3rd B.N.I.
Harrington, T. L., 5th B.L.C.
Waller, R., B. art.
Seaton, D., 1st B. Eur. fus.
Forster, H., c.b. Shekawattee bat.
Hughes, G. C., 13th M.N.I.
Chalon, T. B., 33rd M.N.I.
Hughes, J. V., 39th M.N.I.
Grant, W. F., 63rd B.N.I.
Hay, T. P., 2nd M. Eur. reg.
Templer, H., 7th B.N.I.
Rawlins, W., 3rd M. Eur. reg.
Ricketts, R. R., 48th M.N.I.
Liptrap, John, 42nd B.L.I.
Wright, G., 10th M.N.I.
Byng, John, 6th M.L.C.
Macdonald, W. P., 41st M.N.I.
Swanson, John, 27th Bo. N.I.
Green, C. J., M. eng.
Maclean, A. N., 28th Bo. N.I.
Richardson, G. J., 31st M.N.I.
Corfield, Joseph, 1st B.N.I.
Borradaile, A., 4th M.L.C.

Brown, J. R., 6th M.L.C.
Arthur, G. M., 20th M.N.I.
Codrington, R., 46th M.N.I.
Arbuthnot, G. B., 3rd M.L.C.
Reece, W., 8rd M. Eur. reg.
Crispini, B., 16th Bo. N.I.
Carstairs, D., 6th Bo. N.I.
Spottiswoode, A. C., 37th B.N.I.
Graham, J., 50th B.N.I.
Wight, A. C., 8th M.N.I.
Brett, J. T., 4th M.L.C.
Campbell, R., 43rd B.L.I.
Nott, G., 19th M.N.I.
Maling, C. S., 68th B.N.I.
Pooley, C., 38th M.N.I.
Garrett, R., 69th B.N.I.
Bayley, J. W., 20th M.N.I.
Watkins, John, 23rd Bo. N.I.
Lewes, C. J., 3rd B. Eur. reg.
Beaumont, W., 23rd M.N.I.
Cooper, John, 7th Bo. N.I.
Ormsby, W. C., 3rd B. Eur. reg.
Scott, A. C., 70th B.N.I.
Nuthall, T. J., 46th B.N.I.
Smith, J. T., M. eng.
Congdon, J. H. B., 2nd M.N.I.
Hannah, S. F., 40th B.N.I.
Kenny, T. G. E. G., 2nd M. Eur. reg.
Hornsby, H. A., 2nd M. Eur. reg.
Hall, R., 49th M.N.I.
McLeod, A., 5th M.L.C.
Angelo, R., 34th B.N.I.
Back, John, M. art.
Ramsay, J. S., 2nd Bo. Eur. L.I.
Atkinson, E. H., 19th M.N.I.
Benwell, James, 46th M.N.I.
Lucas, C., Bo. art.
Trevelyan, H. W., Bo. art.

Birch, F. W., 41st B.N.I.
McNair, R., 73rd B.N.I.
Wilkinson, G. S., 39th M.N.I.
Bower, H., 52nd M.N.I.
Grant, S. A., 16th M.N.I.
Archer, D., 3rd M. Eur. reg.
Halpin, W., 26th M.N.I.
Ottley, C. G., 3rd M. Eur. reg.
Blaxland, John, 47th M.N.I.
Hill, John, 24th M.N.I.
Woodfall, C., 47th M.N.I.
Dudgeon, F., 44th M.N.I.
Rochfort, G. C., 41st M.N.I.
Gordon, N. J., 31st M.N.I.
Marshall, Hubert, 33rd M.N.I.
Hicks, J. W., 67th B.N.I.
Harris, H. L., 15th M.N.I.
Liddell, John, 3rd Bo. Eur. reg.
Maclean, C. M., 43rd M.N.I.
Adams, W. S., 3rd Bo. Eur. reg.
Faunce, R. N., 2nd M.N.I.
Drummond, H., 3rd B.L.C.
Grove, S. J., 66th B.N.I.
Grant, John, Bo. art.
Farquharson, E. A., Bo. art.
Dalzell, the Hon. H. B., B. art.
Plowden, J. C., 17th B.N.I.
Nicolay, F. L., 29th M.N.I.
Rose, A. R., 50th M.N.I.
Darvall, E., 57th B.N.I.
Atkinson, W. H., M. eng.
Wemyss, W. B., 9th B.L.C.
Pope, James, 17th Bo. N.I.
Boscawen, H. A., 54th B.N.I.
Abbott, Peter, 72nd B.N.I.
Drought, Richard, 60th B.N.I.
Russell, W., 48th M.N.I.
Scobie, D. M., 20th Bo. N.I.

CAPTAINS TO BE MAJORS.

MacDonell, G. G., 27th M.N.I.
Strange, W. R., 2nd M.L.C.
Wood, H. W., 4th M.N.I.
Mackenzie, Colin, 48th M.N.I.
Taylor, Robert, 2nd M.L.C.
Grimes, John, 8th M.N.I.
Lys, F. B., 45th M.N.I.
McCall, W. B., 41st M.N.I.
Hill, C. T., 29th M.N.I.
Edwardes, G. R., 2nd M.L.C.
Thompson, H. A., 50th M.N.I.
Stewart, James, 7th M.N.I.
Nott, H., 19th M.N.I.
Welch, W. H., 26th M.N.I.
Gordon, C., 13th M.N.I.
Walsh, T. P., 52nd M.N.I.
Groube, G. B. B., 5th M.L.C.
Kerr, A. B., 24th M.N.I.
Knyvett, F., 3rd M. Eur. reg.
Hughes, J. E., 47th M.N.I.
Macdougall, John, 17th M.N.I.
Kenny, J. W. G., 13th M.N.I.
Campbell, John, 38th M.N.I.
Place, T. L., 44th M.N.I.
Church, J. A., 20th M.N.I.
Hodson, D., 3rd M. Eur. reg.
Carr, G., 16th M.N.I.
Pope, H. Y., 27th M.N.I.
Stokes, G. W., 59th B.N.I.
Lamb, W., 51st B.N.I.
Cecil, G., 12th B.N.I.
Smith, E. F., 23rd B.N.I.
Ryley, J. S. G., 5th B.L.C.
Munro, C. G. G., 16th Bo. N.I.
Salmon, W. B., 19th Bo. N.I.
Ramsay, J. B., 3rd Bo. Eur. reg.
Shortreed, P., 17th B.N.I.
Butler, J., 55th B.N.I.
Eyre, T., 3rd Bo. L.C.
Mackenzie, H., 2nd B. Eur. fus.
Balderston, A., 16th B.N.I.
Edwardes, W., 18th B.N.I.
Gordon, G., 50th B.N.I.
Raleigh, F., 1st B.N.I.
Wollaston, C., 8th B.L.C.
Lydiard, W., 11th B.N.I.
Reddie, G. B., 29th B.N.I.
Lindsay, W., 10th B.N.I.
Williams, G. W., 29th B.N.I.
Whitelecke, G. F., 13th B.N.I.
Thomas, A., 8th Bo. N.I.
Spence, J. K., 20th B.N.I.

Gordon, James, 3rd B.L.C.
Westbrooke, F., 18th Bo. N.I.
Curtis, W. F., 1st Bo. L.C.
Hill, G. M., 17th B.N.I.
Scott, G., 6th B.L.C.
Brice, E., M. art.
Bell, J. M., M. eng.
Birdwood, W. L., M. eng.
Rowlandson, G., M. art.
Whiteford, J., B. art.
Mayow, J. H., 2nd B. Eur. fus.
Scott, J. C., 20th B.N.I.
Beatson, T. F. B., 10th B.L.C.
Lomer, W. H., 21st B.N.I.
Grimes, H. S., 46th B.N.I.
Burt, C. H., 64th B.N.I.
Salkeld, J. C., 54th B.N.I.
Bontain, J., 37th B.N.I.
Maitland, F., 5th B.N.I.
Stephenson, J. L., 1st M. Eur. fus.
Barrett, John, 37th B.N.I.
Kempt, R. J., 43rd M.N.I.
Anderson, J., 17th Bo. N.I.
Mac Queen, L., 3rd M.L.C.
Ewart, R. S., 30th B.N.I.
Hore, W., 25th B.N.I.
Herbert, G. E., 9th B.L.C.
Stock, T., 3rd Bo. Eur. reg.
Orr, W. A., M. art.
Mawdaley, J. E., M. art.
Lake, H. A., M. eng.
Bate, J. Craig, 11th Bo. N.I.
Andrews, E., 7th Bo. N.I.
Sleeman, James, 73rd B.N.I.
Gordon, H., 38th M.N.I.
Russell, A., 46th M.N.I.
Blake, M. T., 54th B.N.I.
Paterson, F. S., 54th B.N.I.
Gunthorpe, W. M., 6th M.N.I.
Haly, G. T., 41st M.N.I.
Nicholls, H. J., 25th M.N.I.
Salmon, A., 47th M.N.I.
Siddons, G. R., 1st B.L.C.
Riddell, T., 60th B.N.I.
Mackenzie, R., 8th M.N.I.
Macpherson, S. C., 8th M.N.I.
Lynch, E. P., k.l.s. 29th Bo. N.I.
Renny, J. W., 19th Bo. N.I.
Hogg, C. R., 1st Bo. Eur. fus.
Hennah, E. W., 4th M.L.C.
Lascelles, F. G. J., 4th M.L.C.

Haines, G., 18th M.N.I.
 Rickards, P. E. L., 49th M.N.I.
 Sansom, F. H., 3rd M. Eur. reg.
 Morrisson, R., 52nd B.N.I.
 Smith, Josiah, 13th M.N.I.
 Stuart, T. R., 8th Bo. N.I.
 Haselwood, A. M., 3rd Bo. N.I.
 Baynes, E., 20th Bo. N.I.
 Cooke, C. J., M. art.
 Lindesay, H., 3rd B.L.C.
 Godfrey, W. H., 17th Bo. N.I.
 Otley, G. O'Brien, 6th B.N.I.
 Bazett, C. Y., 9th B.L.C.
 Warden, W. E., 23rd B.N.I.
 Hillyard, H. T., 14th M.N.I.
 Coxwell, J. A. S., 49th M.N.I.
 Ranken, G., 69th B.N.I.
 Gausson, D., 42nd B.L.I.
 Brodie, T., 5th B.N.I.
 Cruickshank, J. J. F., Bo. eng.
 Young, P. B., 19th M.N.I.
 Browne, C. R., 60th B.N.I.
 Oldfield, J. R., B. eng.
 Anderson, John, B. eng.
 Forster, H., Bo. art.
 Glaspe, J. M., Bo. art.
 Cotter, G. S., M. art.
 Wormald, R. C., Bo. art.
 Baker, W., 9th B.L.C.
 Dobbs, R. S., 9th M.N.I.
 Rawlinson, H. C., c.a., K.L.S.
 1st Bo. gren.
 Brown, Williams, 12th Bo. N.I.
 Brind, James, B. art.
 Hollings, G. E., 38th B.L.I.
 Campbell, James, 50th M.N.I.
 Morse, T. R., 1st Bo. Eur. fus.
 Mallock, Z. M., B. art.
 Sissmore, T. H., B. art.
 Borthwick, W. 9th M.N.I.
 Estridge, Joseph, Bo. eng.
 Troup, R., 63rd B.N.I.
 James, T., 21st B.N.I.
 Burnett, F. C., B. art.
 Strange, A., 7th M.L.C.
 Hawkins, F. C., 10th M.N.I.
 Coke, John, 10th B.N.I.
 Boyé, H., 22nd Bo. N.I.
 Waugh, A. S., B. eng.
 Gumm, G. M., M. art.
 Black, B. W., M. art.
 Worster, W. K., M. art.
 Bell, H. H., M. art.
 Ommanney, E. L., B. eng.
 Congreve, H., M. art.
 Channer, G. G., B. art.
 Campbell, J. H., B. art.
 Broome, A., B. art.
 Smyth, T., M. eng.
 Church, W. J., 17th M.N.I.
 Walsh, C. G., 14th B.N.I.
 Wallace, R., 18th Bo. N.I.
 Jones, H. C., 2nd Bo. Eur. L.I.
 Hamilton, R., 1st M.N.I.
 Shaw, R. J., 1st Bo. Eur. fus.
 Rolland, H., 27th Bo. N.I.
 Jenkins, W. G. P., 10th M.N.I.
 Simpson, T., 57th B.N.I.
 Burton, C., 42nd M.N.I.
 Mathison, R., 3rd B. Eur. reg.
 Richardson, W., 73rd B.N.I.
 Nation, H. M., 3rd B. Eur. reg.
 Elphinstone, C. J., 12th M.N.I.
 Falconar, G. A. H., 46th M.N.I.
 Brockman, H. J., 20th M.N.I.

Hobart, C. R., 16th M.N.I.
 Cooper, G. L., B. art.
 Abbott, J. R., 12th B.N.I.
 Hennessey, John, 70th B.N.I.
 Fagan, C. G., 8th B.L.C.
 Preedy, H. W., 25th Bo. N.I.
 Jopp, K., 16th Bo. N.I.
 Jones, H. E. D., 28th Bo. N.I.
 Wells, P. C., 15th Bo. N.I.
 Evans, H. W., 9th Bo. N.I.
 Jackson, James, 14th M.N.I.
 Harriott, F. J., 9th B.L.C.
 Mitford, W. V., 9th B.L.C.
 Hunter, James, 53rd B.N.I.
 Knox, J. S., 42nd B.L.I.
 Hampton, W. P., 31st B.N.I.
 Woods, W. G., 6th M.L.C.
 Farran, J. W., 25th M.N.I.
 Gordon, R., 32nd M.N.I.
 Ferrier, Ilay, 48th M.N.I.
 Travers, R., 23rd Bo. L.I.
 Davidson, W. W., 18th B.N.I.
 Munro, R., 10th B.N.I.
 Hagart, C., 52nd B.N.I.
 Tapp, J. H., 23rd M.N.I.
 Leckie, J. D., 22nd Bo. N.I.
 Bissett, W., 15th M.N.I.
 Bush, J. T., 24th B.N.I.
 Grant, James, 22nd B.N.I.
 Erskine, W. C., 73rd B.N.I.
 Freshfield, J. S., 1st M.L.C.
 Whitelock, C. R., 11th Bo. N.I.
 Simpson, R. S., 27th B.N.I.
 Hebert, W. G., Bo. eng.
 McDonald, John, 66th B.N.I.
 Phillott, Johnson, 10th B.N.I.
 Spencer, R., 26th B.L.I.
 Pott, G., 3rd B.N.I.
 Towgood, Joseph, 35th B.L.I.
 Patrickson, John, M. art.
 Steward, R., 16th B. gren.
 Pears, A. C., M. art.
 Knatchbull, R. E., B. art.
 Baldwin, R. H., B. art.
 Loughton, John, B. eng.
 Innes, J. C., 61st B.N.I.
 Capel, E. S., 53rd B.N.I.
 Legard, W. B., 31st B.N.I.
 Close, F. A., 65th B.N.I.
 King, H. R. C., 6th M.C.
 Gompertz, S., 6th M.N.I.
 Davidson, W. W., 32nd B.N.I.
 Jackson, G., 4th B.L.C.
 Cormack, W. F., 15th Bo. N.I.
 Phayre, A. P., 7th B.N.I.
 Bristow, G. W. G., 71st B.N.I.
 Burton, C. E., 40th B.N.I.
 Crawford, J. H. G., Bo. eng.
 Wilson, W. J., 43rd M.N.I.
 Verner, J. E., 60th B.N.I.
 Hawthorne, R. J., 7th B.L.C.
 Elton, R. W., 59th B.N.I.
 Hunter, R., 7th M.L.C.
 Cary, B., 6th B.N.I.
 O'Grady, R. W., 34th M.N.I.
 Lawford, H., M. art.
 Colebrooke, T. E., 13th B.N.I.
 Scott, E. W. S., B. art.
 Smyth, R., B. art.
 Eyre, V., B. art.
 Woosman, J. B., Bo. art.
 Weller, J. A., B. eng.
 Sharp, J. N., B. eng.
 Crewe, R., 45th M.N.I.
 Bennett, J. W., 1st B. Eur. fus.

CONTINENTAL INDIA AND CONTINENTAL EUROPE.—A comparative view of the population and superficial area of continental India and continental Europe, exclusive of Russia and Turkey, has been drawn up with great care by Lieut. General Briggs, and exhibits some remarkable results. It shows that continental India exceeds the portion of continental Europe mentioned, both in area and population. The area of Europe is 1,035,000, that of India 1,298,000; the excess in favour of the latter being 263,000. The population of Europe is 160,480,473, that of India 160,536,314; the excess in favour of the latter being 59,841. With respect to the military resources of India, it appears that the army of the British Government, including 29,000 of her Majesty's troops, is 282,529. Add to this contingent forces maintained by allies and commanded by British officers to the amount of 32,311, and we have a total of 314,840 under British officers. The independent native princes in alliance with the British are obliged by treaties to keep up a force which amounts to 398,918. The grand total is 713,758, a force which may laugh to scorn any attempts made by a power, external to India, to disturb our quiet possession of our Indian territories. We are accustomed to speak slightly of the military resources of the United Kingdom as compared with those of some of the Continental states; but if the available forces in the West be added to those in the East, the result would show that our capabilities in this direction are enormous.

THE EGYPTIAN RAILWAY in the direction of Suez has been begun by a branch line of about three miles, which is to be laid between the main line near Cairo and the Viceroy's residence at Abbaseyah, which is on the road to Suez.

THE RIGHT REVEREND THOMAS CARR, D.D., late Bishop of Bombay, has been presented to the rectory of St. Peter and St. Paul, in the city of Bath and diocese of Bath and Wells, vacant by the resignation of the Hon. and Rev. W. J. Brodric; and the see being vacant, his Grace has granted his fiat for the institution of the aforesaid Right Rev. Thomas Carr, D.D.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

JUNE 13. Singapore, Both, Akyab; F. C. Clarke, Jean, Alfred the Great, Brayley, and Emperor, Lidstone, Bengal.—14. Anglesey, Thome, Sydney; John Dugdale, Williams, Whampoa; Waterloo, Green, Sydney; City of London, Diak, Bengal; Dahlia, Hodgson, Ceylon.—15. Henbury, Lambert, Hong-Kong; Cassibelanus, Armstrong, Cochin; Royal Saxon, Jackson, Shanghai; Hannah Eastee, Collina, Cape; Mary Spencer, Fisher, Hong-Kong; Charles Campbell, and Frances, Anderson, Bombay; Elizabeth Emily, Briggs, Akyab; Thomas Dorden, Brown, Ceylon; Lord Dalhousie, Ferris, Bengal; Greenwich, Barfield, Mauritius; Helen Mary, Legg, Batavia.—16. Phoebe Dunbar, Michie, Ceylon.—17. South Sea, Brett, Melbourne.—18. John McVicar, Parton, Bengal; Mary Graham, London, Manila.—19. Australian (steamer), Gilmore, Sydney; Melbourne, and Cape; David McIvor, Bailie, Hong-Kong; Joseph Sanderson, Chester, Bengal; Arles, Kennedy, Ceylon; Wild Irish Girl, Christie, Maulmain.—20. Herald, Jones, Mauritius; Trafalgar, Taylor, Madras; Steinhelm, Atkinson, Bengal; Tanjore, Clarke, Mauritius.—22. Bellona, Ritchie, Mauritius.—23. Emily, Harvey, Bengal.—24. Rajasthan, Cameron, Bombay.—26. Alexander Baring, Wilson, and George Kendall, Farley, Bengal; Prince of the Seas, Brown, and Herefordshire, Richardson, Sydney.—27. Onymus, Whampoa; Mary Ann, Hubbard, Cape.—28. Indemnity, Vickerman, Colombo; Robert Ritson, Curwen, Bengal.

PASSENGERS EXPECTED AT SOUTHAMPTON.

JULY 2. Per steamer Candia.—Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, Lieut. S. Barclay, Capt. Searle, Capt. Burn, Mr. Williamson, Major Minchin, Capt. Sleeman, Mr. Shaw, Col. Cautley, Capt. Smith, Dr. Lee, Mr. Penman, Col. Hitchens, Ens. Elliott, Miss Down, Mr. and Mrs. Cochrane, Major Nicholls, Lieut. Lane, Mr. Helshan, Mrs. Springer and 2 children, Col. and Mrs. Cracklow and infant, Mr. and Mrs. Bacon, Col. and Mrs. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Spens and 2 children, Capt. Wroughton and 2 children, Mr. W. G. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Betts, and Mr. Smith.

DEPARTURES.

From the Downs.—JUNE 18. William Frederick, Stephenson, Singapore; Affghan, Colebank, Madras; Spirit of the North, Tomlinson, Shanghai; Eleanor, Grierson, Mauritius.—19. Caracacus, Barber, Singapore.—23. W. S. Lindsay, Western, Bombay. From Portsmouth.—JUNE 20. Nile, Nisbet, Madras and Bengal.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Candia, from SOUTHAMPTON (June 4), to proceed per steamer Bentinck, from SUEZ.—FOR MALTA.—Mr. J. H. Robson, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson and child, Rev. W. B. H. Seger, Mr. E. J. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Morris, Capt. Shakespear, Mr. Angell, and Mr. Jeans. FOR SUEZ.—Mr. de Bourbel, and Mr. Chalmers. FOR CALCUTTA.—Mr. T. S. Gepp, Mr. Magniac, Mr. Clark, Mr. E. W. Dent, Mr. Butler, Mr. Linstead, Mrs. Haraden, and 2 children; and Mr. Snadden. FOR MADRAS.—Mr. Tawse, and Mr. Cleland. FOR CEYLON.—Mr. and Mrs. Francis, Madame Fallachon and Mons. Froth Kopf. FOR HONG-KONG.—Mr. B. Hart, Mr. E. Swincoe, Mr. B. J. Hughes, and Mr. J. Morgan.

Per steamer Ripon, from SOUTHAMPTON (June 20), to proceed per steamer from SUEZ.—FOR MALTA.—Mr. J. A. Grant, Lieut. Hon. F. Walpole, Rev. W. R. and Mrs. St. Leger and 3 children, Capt. Plowden, Dr. Wallis, Taleb Bohlab. FOR ALEXANDRIA.—Master Wilkinson. FOR ADEN.—Mr. J. Hancock, Mr. Griffith, Mr. Silver, Capt. R. L. Taylor, Mr. Gayford, Mr. Banks. FOR CEYLON.—Miss J. Grant, Miss L. Grant, Rev. Mr. Bayley. FOR MADRAS.—Mr. Falconnet, Lieut. E. Kindersley, Mr. Cox, Mr. W. A. Heath. FOR CALCUTTA.—Mr. W. L. Carpenter, Mr. Humphrey, Mr. Lany, Mr. W. H. Barker, Mr. Jenkins. FOR SINGAPORE.—Mr. C. Wilson. FOR HONG-KONG.—Capt. Watkins, Mr. Melisach, Mr. Macdonald, Mr. A. Grant, Mr. Trotter, Mr. H. Cohen, Mr. J. Moore, Mr. E. O'Neill.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BROWNE, the wife of the Rev. R. W. s. in Westbourne-street, Hyde-park-gardens, June 23.
 CAMPBELL, the widow of the late Smollett, of Calcutta, d. at Islington, June 24.
 CUNNINGHAM, the wife of Lieut. T. J. M. 2nd Madras N.I. s. at 28, Tivoli-place, Cheltenham, June 13.
 HOOKER, the wife of Dr. F.R.S. d. at Hitcham Rectory, Suffolk, June 23.
 ONSLOW, the wife of Capt. P. d. at Eltham, Kent, June 20.
 TYTLER, the lady of Capt. 38th Bengal light infantry, d. at Allsop-terrace, New-road, June 27.

MARRIAGES.

BARRY, William, s. of the late Samuel, M.D. 7th dragoon guards, to Mary Ann, d. of the late Charles S. Thomas, Esq. of Calcutta, at Trinity Church, Westbourne-terrace, Hyde park, June 24.

CHRISTISON, Alexander, M.D. Bengal establishment, to Jemima A. d. of the late James C. Brown, Bengal civil service, at Birkenhead, June 22.

DICKSON, James, formerly of Calcutta, to Agnes S. d. of the late John McCulloch, at Barholm-house, Kircudbrightshire, June 20.

GARRARD, Rev. Charles J. M.A. of Queen's College, Cambridge, s. of the late Lieut. col. Madras engineers, to Elizabeth, d. of the late John Knowles, at Streatham, Surrey, June 22.

LLOYD, Richard, Com. R.N. to Emily S. relict of the late H. M. Rowlandson, Madras, at St. George's, Hanover-square, June 14.

MAGNAY, Sir William, Bart. of Postford House, Surrey, and Rue d'Italie, Bruxelles, to Amelia, second d. of Thomas R. Clarke, of the India-House, at Christ Church, St. Marylebone, May 14.

NASH, John P. M.D. Madras army, s. of the late Capt. H. G. 62nd Bengal N.I. to Catharina H. d. of A. Allan, at St. Paul's, Deptford, June 20.

REACH, John, of the Oriental Bank, London, to Isabella T. d. of the late Thomas Ogilvie, at Edinburgh, June 22.

DEATHS.

HOLLAND, Mary, widow of Major, Bombay infantry, in Wimpole-street, aged 51, June 5.

JACOB, Lieut. col. William, late of the Bombay art. at Addiscombe-road, Croydon, June 16.

MILL, Harriet, widow of James, late of the East-India House, at 4, Westbourne-park Villas, June 15.

MORSEBY, Capt. Robert, Indian Navy, commander of the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamer Ripon, at Southampton, aged 58, June 16.

SCOTT, Capt. Colin C. 32nd Bengal N.I. at Bordeaux, on his return from India, May 19.

TURTON, Sir T. E. M. bart. late of Calcutta, at the Mauritius on his way to England, aged 64, April 13.

WILLIAMSON, Sarah, relict of Capt. T. G. Hon. E.I. Co.'s service, at 24, Newman-street, Oxford-street, June 23.

YOUNG, Archibald, late lieut. 9th Dragoons, at sea, on his passage from Calcutta to England, March 12.

ANTIQUARIAN RESEARCH IN SCINDE.—Brahminabad is situated on one of the branches of the Nara, called the Jeraree, now dry. The city is enclosed within a fort wall, which is well-defined, and has numerous bastions and towers. The walls are very nearly four miles in circumference, measured by a perambulator. Besides Brahminabad, and at the distance of  $1\frac{1}{2}$  miles, is the ruined city of Dolora, and five miles in another direction, the ruined city of Jerrar Gangra, and between these two are the remains of suburbs and villages for miles round. Amid the chaos of ruins of brickwork are several open squares and bazars of great extent, and the most prominent object is a tower, also of brickwork, standing isolated on a heap of ruins. I selected a heap standing on the verge of the principal bazar for excavation, and had not been at work many minutes when I came upon the edge of a wall; clearing it, I soon came to the cross wall, and then upon another and another. I had not dug to the depth of two feet before I came upon quantities of human bones, and at a greater depth bones were so numerous that it became almost impossible to dig a pourah full without bringing up particles of bones. So far as I could judge, many of them were human—the remainder of cattle and of horses. The bones were chiefly found in corners of rooms and in doorways. Many of the skeletons were in a sufficiently perfect state to enable me to decide whether they were in upright or reclining positions—one, in particular, I remember finding in a doorway; the unfortunate being had evidently been rushing out of his house when a huge heap of brickwork must have given way above him, and with its weight in its fall crushed him. Besides bones, I found a large quantity of pottery of different sorts, much of it of a very superior description to any I see now-a-days in Scinde. A good deal of the pottery was glazed, and had a variety of colours. Stones for grinding grain; a jar for grain, also of pottery, some five feet in depth, and two feet at the mouth, were sunk in one of the rooms; quantities of cornelian chips; pieces of agate; and balls, beautifully turned, of ivory and agate; copper and silver coins, beads and ornaments in great variety. The most curious relic I found was an octagonal piece of what I imagine to be ivory, with inscriptions on each side, similar to the Sanscrit or Devanagaree character, and also a signet, with the same characters. Finding such success during the first day's excavations, I increased the number of workmen from twenty to seventy, and in three days I was at Brahminabad. I excavated three distinct houses, two on one side and one on the other side of a street running out from the bazar. I look upon Brahminabad as a wonderfully curious place, and I think the popular account that it was destroyed by an earthquake, to be highly probable.—Correspondent of Scinde Paper.

EAST-INDIA HOUSE,

14th and 20th June, 1854.

ARRIVALS REPORTED IN ENGLAND.

CIVIL.

Bengal Estab.—Messrs. C. Beadon, C. W. Kinloch, Van Cortlandt, and E. C. Bayley.

Madras Estab.—Mr. W. A. D. Inglis.

Bombay Estab.—Messrs. G. S. Forbes and L. H. B. Tucker.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

Bengal Estab.—The Rev. T. A. C. Firminger.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Lieut. col. F. G. Lister; Lieut. col. T. Matthie, 17th N.I.; Capt. A. Harris, 1st cav.; Capt. G. Henderson, 30th N.I.; Lieut. R. A. Becher, 43rd N.I.; Brev. major F. C. Marsden, 29th N.I.; Capt. C. Hagart, 52nd N.I.; Capt. A. H. Dyke, 25th N.I.; Ens. E. R. Pogson, 55th N.I.; Surgs. J. S. Login, M.D., F. J. Mouat, A. Crozier.

Madras Estab.—Col. J. Campbell; Major W. C. Onslow, 44th N.I.; Capt. H. W. Wood, 4th N.I.; Capt. W. Borthwick, 9th N.I.; Lieut. C. R. W. Harris, 8th cav.; Lieut. J. M. Macintyre, art.; Lieut. J. H. Warden, 13th N.I.; Assist. surg. J. B. Fleming.

Bombay Estab.—Col. M. Stack, C.B.; Col. W. Cavaye; Capt. E. Wray, art.; Lieut. W. Buchanan, 3rd Eur. reg.; Capt. J. Pogson, 17th N.I.; Ens. J. W. Bryans, 22nd N.I.; Surg. John Scott.

MARINE.

Bombay Estab.—Commander G. Jenkins, and Lieut. Anderson, of the Indian Navy.

PERMITTED TO RETURN TO THEIR DUTY.

CIVIL.

Bombay Estab.—Mr. J. Webb.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Capt. W. K. Haslewood, inv.; Ens. R. S. Graves, 66th N.I.; Assist. surg. G. Saunders.

Madras Estab.—Capt. S. J. Batten, 18th N.I.; Lieut. N. E. B. Kindersley, 5th N.I.

MARINE.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. W. H. Fielder, pilot service.

GRANTED EXTENSIONS OF LEAVE.

CIVIL.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. E. H. Lushington, 3 months.

Madras Estab.—Mr. T. Onslow, 3 months.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Lieut. col. B. T. Phillips, 4th cav., 6 months; Lieut. col. D. Simpson, 28th N.I., 6 months; Lieut. J. Fairlie, 3rd cav., 3 months; Capt. G. N. Greene, 70th N.I., 3 months.

Madras Estab.—Brev. major W. Cantis, 15th N.I., 6 months; Surg. J. Grant, M.D., 6 months.

Bombay Estab.—Lieut. col. G. Macan, 2nd Eur. reg., 3 months; Lieut. col. N. Campbell, 16th N.I., 3 months; Capt. W. E. Evans, 1st Eur. reg., till the 25th November.

PERMITTED TO RETIRE FROM THE SERVICE.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Capt. W. Carnegie, invalids; Surg. H. H. Good-evil, M.D.

APPOINTMENT.

The Rev. Edward Theophilus Russell Moncrieff, B.A., of Trinity College, Dublin, appointed an assistant chaplain on the Bengal establishment.

No. 4 of 1854.

LIST OF RANK OF CADETS FOR THE BENGAL ARTILLERY, CAVALRY, AND INFANTRY.

To rank from the dates specified.

ARTILLERY.—Rawson Aislabie, Charles Gilbert Robinson, Charles Somner Sedley Taylor, George Grant Gordon, Charles George

Reid, Penton Thompson, William Thomson Somerville, Robert Hawkins Pitt, Somerset Edward Townsend, 8th June, 1854.

CAVALRY.—Robert Wilkinson Dent, 4th June, 1854.

INFANTRY.—Sir Atwell King Lake, Bart., 20th May; Thomas Sydney Gepp, 4th June; Brudenell Rogers, George Anthony Aufreèr Baker, John Peter Harris, William George Prole, William Lumley Louis, 8th June; George Lister Cautley (abroad), Frederick Wheeler, Herbert Mills Repton, George Edward John Maidman, Thomas Adair Butler, 9th June; Hanson Chambers Taylor Jarrett, Frederick Arthur Currie Knyvett, John Upperton, 10th June, 1854.

Mem.—Mr. R. S. Robertson and Mr. G. R. Hennessey having passed their examination on the 28th March, are to take rank next below Mr. R. S. Grant, vide Lists Nos. 1 and 2 of 1854, agreeably to the principle laid down in Military Letter, dated 21st July, 1852, No. 88.—Mr. O. S. Bridges has been permitted to proceed, per ship Nile, without prejudice to the rank assigned to him in List No. 1 of 1854.

No. 4 of 1854.

LIST OF RANK OF CADETS FOR THE MADRAS ARTILLERY, CAVALRY, AND INFANTRY.

To rank from the dates specified.

ARTILLERY.—John Hoyes, Frederick Edward Hadow, William Henry McCausland, Francis Henry Thompson, 8th June, 1854.

CAVALRY.—George Maidman Raynsford, Emerick Streatfield Berkeley, 10th June, 1854.

INFANTRY.—William John Bell, Arthur Edmund Oakes, Francis William James Sewell, 8th June; Henry Francis Hornsby (abroad), John Campbell Gunning, James Stephen Nicholson, George Rowlandson, Walter Henry Beaumont, Robert Charles Aeneas Stuart, John William Cleland, 9th June; William Leicester Nathaniel Knyvett, Edward Gardiner, George Murray, Robert Rainsforth Heskeith, George Edwin Borradaile, Stephen William Barrow Sherman, Frederick Brown Boone, William Hamilton Kindersly Bradford, Barnard Hughes Preston, 10th June; James Crawford Bayley, 13th June, 1854.

No. 4 of 1854.

LIST OF RANK OF CADETS FOR THE BOMBAY ARTILLERY AND INFANTRY.

To rank from the dates specified.

ARTILLERY.—Henry Charles Baskerville Tanner, Arthur Carey, Horace Seymour Kerr Pechell, William Home Brydon, 8th June, 1854.

INFANTRY.—Charles Matthew Griffith, Charles Douglas, 8th June; Lewis George Brown, Eugene Louis Le Fevre, 9th June, 1854.

No. 4 of 1854.

LIST OF RANK OF ASSISTANT SURGEONS FOR BENGAL.

To rank from the dates specified.

Thomas Anderson, M.D., Alfred Eteson, Hugh Davies Jones, 20th May; Arthur Trefusis Jones, M.D., 1st June; William Falconer Clark, 4th June; John James Halls, B.A., F.R.C.S., 10th June, 1854.

No. 4 of 1854.

LIST OF RANK OF ASSISTANT SURGEONS FOR MADRAS.

To rank from the dates specified.

John Simm Morton, M.D., Arden Halme Beaman, Joseph Alfred Bean, M.D., 10th June, 1854.

CHANGES AND PROMOTIONS IN H.M.'S REGIMENTS SERVING IN INDIA.

WAR OFFICE, 16TH JUNE, 1854.

52nd Foot.—Ensign Lord Walter Charles M. D. Scott, to be lieutenant by purchase, v. Ellis, who retires; Henry Alexander Chardin Wroughton, gent., to be ensign by purchase, v. Scott.

WAR OFFICE, 23RD JUNE, 1854.

9th Lt. Drags.—Cornet Francis R. C. Grant, to be lieutenant by purchase, v. R. W. King, who retires.

10th Lt. Drags.—Surgeon Arthur C. Webster, from the 78th Foot, to be surgeon, v. Ross, deceased.

75th Foot.—Ensign Thomas Carlisle, to be lieutenant by purchase, v. Walshe, who retires; Walter Hume, gent., to be ensign by purchase, v. Carlisle.

78th Foot.—Assist. surgeon Joseph Jee, from the 15th Light Dragoons, to be surgeon, v. Webster, appointed to the 10th Light Dragoons.

84th Foot.—Ensign James Creagh, from the 23rd Foot, to be ensign, v. Bigge, appointed to the 23rd Foot.

87th Foot.—Surgeon Richard G. D. Banon, from the 96th Foot, to be surgeon, v. Swift, who exchanges.

96th Foot.—Surgeon Benjamin Swift, M.D., from the 87th Foot, to be surgeon, v. Banon, who exchanges.

WAR OFFICE, JUNE 27, 1854.

9th Lt. Drags.—Major Archibald Little, to be lieutenant col. without purchase, v. Scott, promoted to be maj. gen.; Brevet-maj. J. R. H. Rose, to be maj. without purchase, v. Little; Lieut. F. C. Trower to be capt. without purchase, v. Rose; Cornet R. Mills, to be lieutenant without purchase, v. Trower.

29th Foot.—Brevet Lieut. Col. Matthew Smith to be lieutenant col. without purchase, v. the Hon. T. Ashburnham, C.B., promoted to be maj. gen.; Brevet Maj. John Power to be maj. without purchase, v. Smith; Lieut. Valens Tonnochy to be capt. without purchase, v. Power; Ens. H. W. S. Carey to be lieutenant without purchase, v. Tonnochy.

53rd Foot.—Brevet Col. H. Havelock, C.B., to be lieutenant col. without purchase, v. Breton, promoted to be maj. gen.; Brevet-maj. W. H. H. F. Clarke to be maj. without purchase, v. Havelock; Lieut. A. J. Sutherland to be capt. without purchase, v. Clarke; Ens. C. F. H. Lloyd to be lieutenant without purchase, v. Sutherland.

60th Foot.—Major John Jones to be lieutenant col. without purchase, v. Viscount Melville, K.C.B., promoted to be maj. gen.; Brevet maj. F. R. Palmer to be maj. without purchase, v. Jones; Lieut. C. A. B. Gordon to be capt. without purchase, v. Palmer; 2nd-lieut. W. W. Fox to be lieutenant without purchase, v. Gordon.

EMBARKATION OF TROOPS.

Per Nile, for Bengal, from Gravesend, June 10.—108 Company's recruits, Lieut. T. C. Bird, 36th Madras N.I.; Lieut. T. H. E. Stone, 9th Madras N.I.

Per Royal George, for Bengal, from Gravesend, June 20.—204 Company's recruits, Brev. capt. J. L. Sherwill, 39th Bengal N.I.; Lieut. J. Fairlie, 3rd L.C.; Lieut. J. J. Eagar, 52nd Madras N.I.

STOCKS AND SECURITIES.

India Stock .....	233 to 236
India Bonds .....	2s. dis. to 2s. pm.
East-India Railway, all paid .....	2½ to 2½ prem.
Great Indian Peninsular Railway, all paid .....	½ to ½ prem.

BENGAL GOVERNMENT LOANS.

	Buy. s. d.	Sell. s. d.	Actual Sales.
5 per Cent. Transfer Stock Paper, 1834-5, div. payable in London ..	—	—	2 1½
Book Debt of 31st Dec. 1834, 3rd Jan. and 3rd July .....	—	—	—
Do. 10th Aug. 1835, 13th Feb. and 13th Aug. ....	—	—	—
Do. 15th Jan. 1836, 18th Jan. and 18th July .....	—	—	—

INDIA EXCHANGES.

BILLS.	Commercial Bills, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.	E. I. Co.'s Bills, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.	Amount of E. I. Co.'s Bills, drawn fr. June 8 to June 23.
On Bengal ..	1s. 11¼d.	1s. 11¼d.	38,479 3 6
Madras ..	1s. 11¼d.	1s. 11¼d.	18,118 17 1
Bombay ..	1s. 11¼d.	2s. 0d.	2,700 0 0
Bi-Monthly ..			59,298 0 7

Annual sum required by Court of Directors in England .....	From 1st May, 1854, to 30th April, 1855, } £4,768,000
Bank Post Bills .....	1s. 11¼d. to ¼d.
Madras do. ....
Bombay do. ....	1s. 11¼d.

EXPORT OF BULLION.

Per Steamer Ripon, June 19, 1854.

	Gold.	Silver.
Malta .....	£2,600	—
Alexandria .....	1,000	—
Penang .....	—	£922
Singapore .....	13,538	39,975
Hong Kong .....	16,965	140,172
Canton .....	—	218,648
Shanghai .....	—	23,980
	£34,103	£423,697

ADVERTISEMENT.

East-India House, 21st June, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready, on or before Wednesday, the 5th July next, to receive proposals in writing, sealed up, from such persons as may be willing to supply the Company with

IRONMONGERY;—also
WORSTED and COTTON LACE;

And that the conditions of the said contracts (two in number) may be had on application at the Secretary's office, where the proposals are to be left, any time before 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the said 5th day of July, 1854, after which hour no Tender will be received.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 28th June, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That they have received from their Governments in India the under-mentioned Schedules, viz.—

BENGAL.

1. Schedule of all Sums of Money, Bonds, and other Securities received by the Administrator-General on account of each Estate remaining under his charge, together with the payments made thereout, and the balances. Prepared up to the 31st December 1853, under Section XI. of Act VII. of 1849.

2. Schedule of all Administrations whereof the final balances have been paid to the persons entitled to the same, specifying the amount of such balances, and the persons to whom paid. Prepared from the 1st July to the 31st December, 1853, under Section XI. of Act VII. of 1849.

MADRAS.

1. Schedule of all Sums of Money, Bonds, and other Securities received by the Administrator-General on account of each Estate remaining under his charge, together with the payments made thereout, and the balances. Prepared up to the 31st December, 1853, under Section XI. of Act VII. of 1849, extended by Act II. of 1850.

2. Schedule of all Administrations whereof the final balances have been paid to the persons entitled to the same, specifying the amount of such balances, and the persons to whom paid. Prepared from the 1st July to 31st December, 1853, under Section XI. of Act VII. of 1849.

And that the said Schedules are open, at the Secretary's Office in this House, to the inspection of the public.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

UNIVERSAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,
No. 1, KING WILLIAM STREET, CITY, LONDON.

Established 1834.

Empowered by Special Act of Parliament, 6 Will. 4, cap. 54.

DIRECTORS.

SIR HENRY WILLOCK, K.L.S., Chairman.

JOHN STEWART, Esq., Deputy Chairman.

John Bagshaw, Esq., M.P.

Augustus Bosanquet, Esq.

Charles Dashwood Bruce, Esq.

Ellis Watkin Cunliffe, Esq.

William Kilburn, Esq.

Francis Macnaghten, Esq.

Charles Otway Mayne, Esq.

Major John Arthur Moore.

William Rothery, Esq.

Robert Saunders, Esq.

Capt. Samuel Thornton, R.N.

Brodie McGhie Willcox, Esq., M.P.

The marked success which has attended the operations of this Society justifies the Directors in calling the attention of the public to the superior advantages held out to all classes desirous of affecting Assurances upon their lives.

The subjoined scale of rates is framed with the greatest care, and will be found to be as MODERATE AS IS CONSISTENT WITH PERFECT SECURITY.

Annual Premium required for the Assurance of £100 on a single Life, with participation in Profits:—

20	£1 18 8	35	£2 14 11	50	£4 5 6
25	2 3 3	40	3 3 0	55	5 5 10
30	2 8 10	45	3 12 2	60	6 13 2

Tables for Policies to be effected in India have been especially prepared from the records of the East-India Company, on the experience of mortality in that country.

During the last thirteen years, the reduction of Premium on Policies entitled to participate in Profits has averaged more than 44 per cent., and in the last four years it has been declared at 45 per cent.

An annual division is made of one-fifth of the ascertained profits of the five preceding years; the other four-fifths being set apart to enter into the average of succeeding years.

Of the sum annually divisible, 75 per cent. is apportioned to Policy-holders who have paid six annual Premiums, either in a Reduction of subsequent Premiums, or as a Bonus added to the Policy. The remainder is apportioned to the Shareholders.

Assets of the Society, upwards of £600,000.—Amount of Policies in force, £2,000,000.—Annual income arising from Premiums, exclusively of interest on the invested capital, exceeds £120,000.

Weekly Board-day, Thursday, at 1 o'clock.

Committees sit every Tuesday and Saturday, at 12 o'clock, when Policies requiring despatch may be effected.

AGENTS IN INDIA:—

Messrs Braddon & Co., Calcutta. | Messrs Bainbridge & Co., Madras.
Messrs Leckie & Co., Bombay.

MICHAEL ELIJAH IMPEY, Secretary.

FAMILY ENDOWMENT, LIFE ASSURANCE AND ANNUITY SOCIETY.

(No. 12, CHATHAM PLACE, BLACKFRIARS, LONDON.)

CAPITAL, £500,000.

Empowered by Act of Parliament, 19th May, 1836.

DIRECTORS.

William Butterworth Bayley, Esq., Chairman.

John Fuller, Esq., Deputy Chairman.

Lewis Burroughs, Esq.

R. Bruce Chichester, Esq.

Major H. B. Henderson.

C. H. Latouche, Esq.

Edward Lee, Esq.

Lieut.-Col. J. W. Onseley.

Major Turner.

Joshua Walker, Esq.

Secretary—Mr. John Casenove.

INDIAN BRANCH.*COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT AT CALCUTTA.

C. Binny Skinner, Esq.

James Stuart, Esq.

T. C. Morton, Esq.

Richard Stuart Palmer, Esq.

Joseph S. Judge, Esq.

Medical Officer—Richard O'Shaughnessy, Esq.

Bankers—Bank of Bengal.

Solicitors—Messrs. Sandes &amp; Watts.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT AT MADRAS.

Richard Barnes Bell, Esq.

J. Bidgood Jamney, Esq.

Capt. Francis Henry Scott.

Agents—Messrs. Binny and Co.

AGENTS AT BOMBAY.

Messrs. R. Strong and Co.

RATES OF PREMIUM FOR ASSURING 1,000 RUPEES.*CIVIL.

Age next birthday.	One Year.	Three Years.	Five Years.	Seven Years.	Life with Profits.	Without Profits.
30	25	26	26	28	38	35
40	29	29	30	31	49	45
50	36	38	39	41	65	59

MILITARY.

30	30	30	31	32	44	41
40	34	36	37	39	53	49
50	44	46	47	48	66	61

The above rates, it will be observed, are below those of any other Indian office.

To the policy holders on the profit scale, who have paid five years' premium, a bonus of twenty per cent. has been annually allowed for the last three years.

The Society grants an immediate reduction to the English rates to parties proceeding to Europe for a permanency, and a reduction after one year to those who come for a short period only.

The civil rate only charged on the lives of parties in the military service, holding civil offices, as long as they continue in such office.

Deferred Annuities and Endowments payable at any given period are also granted.

Tables and full information may be had at the Office in Chatham Place; or on application to the Secretaries at Calcutta, Messrs. GORDON, STUART, and Co.; or to the Agents at the other Indian Presidencies.

Second Edition, Corrected to May 9th,

THE EAST-INDIA REGISTER

AND

ARMY LIST FOR 1854,

CONTAINING

Complete Lists of the Company's Servants, at Home and Abroad

Regulations respecting the appointment of Writers, Cadets, &amp;c.

COMPILED FROM THE OFFICIAL RETURNS RECEIVED AT THE EAST-INDIA HOUSE.BY F. CLARK,

Of the Secretary's Office, East-India House.

12mo. sewed, 10s.; 11s. 6d. bound.

Separate Presidencies,—Bengal, 6s.; Madras, 5s.; Bombay, 5s.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

MERCANTILE BANK of INDIA, LONDON, and CHINA.

HEAD-OFFICE, BOMBAY.

THE LONDON BRANCH of this Bank is now open for the transaction of every description of Banking and Exchange business connected with India, Ceylon, and China.

ALEXANDER ANDERSON, Manager.

9, Broad Street Buildings, London,
1st June, 1854.

THE ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION grant DRAFTS and negotiate or collect BILLS payable in Bombay, Calcutta, Ceylon, Hong-Kong, Madras, Mauritius, Singapore, Melbourne, and Sydney. They also issue, free of charge, Circular Notes and Letters of Credit for the use of Travellers on the Continent, and to India overland. They undertake the agency of parties connected with India, the purchase and sale of Indian Securities, and the effecting of Remittances between the above dependencies. They further buy and negotiate in London paper of the Indian Government Loans.

W. W. CARGILL, Chief Manager

Walbrook, London, March, 1854.

This day is published, Vol. II., 4to., price £2. 10s., of

RIG-VEDA-SANHITA, the Sacred Hymns of the Brahmins; together with the Commentary of Sayanacharya. Edited by MAX MÜLLER, M.A.

Nearly Ready.

RIG-VEDA-SANHITA; a Collection of Ancient Hindu Hymns. Translated from the original Sanskrit, by H. H. WILSON, M.A., F.R.S., Professor of Sanskrit at Oxford. Vol. II. 8vo.

London: Wm. H. Allen and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

FORBES'S HINDUSTANI WORKS.

FORBES'S HINDUSTANI-ENGLISH & ENGLISH-HINDUSTANI DICTIONARY. Royal 8vo. £2. 12s. 6d.

GRAMMAR. 8vo. 12s.

MANUAL. 18mo. 5s. 6d.

— TOTA-KAHANI; or, Tales of a Parrot. 10s.

— BAGH-O-BAHAR. Hindustani. Royal 8vo. 15s.

— Ditto. English. 8vo. 10s.

— ORIENTAL PENMANSHIP. 4to. 8s.

London: Wm. H. Allen and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

Now ready, in 2 vols. 8vo., with Portrait, 28s. bound,

MEMOIRS AND CORRESPONDENCE OF

GENERAL SIR W. NOTT, G.C.B., COMMANDER OF THE ARMY OF CANADAR.

"One of the most valuable and interesting books that can ever claim a permanent place in a British library."—Standard.

"We know not a book, after the 'Wellington Despatches,' more deserving of the study of a young officer."—Literary Gazette.

"This book is one of the most interesting records of military life that we possess, and a genuine memorial of one who has achieved a right to be reckoned among England's greatest men."—Daily News.

HURST AND BLACKETT, Publishers, Successors to Henry Colburn.

ROBERT COCKS AND CO.'S NEW MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.—"SMILING SPRING."—New Vocal Duet, by JOHN PARRY (dedicated, by permission, to the Lady Mayoress). Price 3s.

Both words and music are characteristically Elizabethan; charmingly vocal, and redolent of the style of those merry days when the Queen of the May and Maid Marian could win the ear of the "Royal Virgin seated in the West."

EXCELSIOR, Ballad, words by LONGFELLOW, music by MISS LINDSAY. Beautifully Illustrated, 2s. 6d. "Some beautiful words of Longfellow are here wedded to a beautiful melody by this talented lady. The ballad is quite out of the way of the common-place productions of the day. It is evidently a heart-offering both from the poet and the gifted musician."

THE SWEET VESPER BELLS OF ANCONA.—Song, composed by JOHN PARRY. Illustrated, 2s. 6d.—"The Sweet Vesper Bells of Ancona is a pleasing remembrance of this talented musician."—Britannia, April 8. To be had of all music-sellers. London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington Street, Music Publishers to the Queen.

HAMILTON'S MODERN INSTRUCTIONS for the PIANOFORTE. 55th Edition. Contains Carl Czerny's last Contributions, and a notice of Mr. Hamilton and his Works, Table of Contents, &c. Large music folio, 62 pages, price only 4s.

THE TURKISH NAVY QUADRILLES, on national and popular melodies, by STEPHEN GLOVER: piano solo, 3s.; duets, 4s. Also, by the same composer, the Turkish Military Quadrilles: piano solo, 3s.; duets, 4s.; and Blewitt's Ocean Quadrilles, 3s.

PIANOFORTES for SALE or HIRE, in great variety. Ditto of VIOLINS, &c. &c.—Apply to her Majesty's Music Publishers, Messrs. ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street, London; of whom may be had price lists, with drawings, &c., gratis and postage-free.

MUSICAL CATECHISMS, by HAMILTON, viz.:—On Harmony and Thorough Bass, 2s.; Key to ditto, 1s. 6d.; Catechism on Melody and Composition, 2s.; Ditto on Double Fugue, 2s.; Ditto on the Art of Writing for an Orchestra, 2s.; Ditto on Musical Ideas, 3s.; Ditto on Singing, 3s.; Ditto for the Organ, 3s.; Ditto for Violin and Violoncello, each 1s.; Art of Tuning Pianos, 1s. 6d.; Dictionary of 3,500 Musical Terms, price only 1s.; and his Musical Grammar, 3s. Clarke's Catechism of Music, 1s. Warren's Hints to Organists, 3s. James's Catechism for Flute and Guitar, each 1s.; and Warren's ditto on Class-singing, 1s. Key to ditto, 1s. Warren's Rules for Chanting the Church Service, 8d.; Ditto, Cathedral, 4d.

London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington Street.

This day is published, in 8vo., 15s.

DIARY kept during a YEAR'S JOURNEYING and RESIDENCE in NORTHERN PERSIA and the ADJACENT PROVINCES of TURKEY, in the South-West of Russia. By LIEUT.-COL. STUART, 13th Light Infantry.

RICHARD BENTLEY, Publisher in Ordinary to her Majesty.

This day is published, in 8vo., with Maps, 15s.

NARRATIVES of PASSAGES in the GREAT WAR with FRANCE from 1799 to 1810. By LIEUT.-GEN. SIR HENRY BUNBURY, K.C.B., formerly Quartermaster-General to the Army in the Mediterranean.

RICHARD BENTLEY, Publisher in Ordinary to her Majesty.

NEW EDITION of LIEUTENANT ARNOLD'S EAST-INDIAN NOVEL.

Just Published, in 9 vols. post 8vo., price 21s.

OAKFIELD; or, Fellowship in the East. By W. D. ARNOLD, Lieutenant 58th Regiment Bengal Native Infantry. The Second Edition, revised.

London: LONGMAN, BROWN, GREEN, and LONGMANS.

Just published, in 2 vols. 8vo., price 32s. cloth.

A HISTORY of INDIA under Baber and Humayun, the First Two Sovereigns of the House of Taimur. By WILLIAM ERSKINE, Esq., Translator of "Memoirs of the Emperor Baber." London: LONGMAN, BROWN, GREEN, and LONGMANS.

OVERLAND OUTFITS TO INDIA.

JOHN BESEMERES and CO., Wholesale and Retail CLOTHIERS, SHIRT MAKERS, and MANUFACTURING OUTFITTERS, 61 to 64, HOUNDSDITCH, supply these OUTFITS to CADETS and CIVILIANS at their SHIPPING PRICES, and thus effect an important saving in the outlay.

LISTS MAY BE HAD of a good Outfit, classed under FOUR SCALES OF EXPENDITURE. Scale No. 1 comprises 171 articles of external and under-clothing and requisites for £17. 9s.; Scale No. 2, 206 articles, £25. 2s.; Scale No. 3, 248 articles, £35. 11s.; and Scale No. 4 gives an ample supply of superior Clothing and requisites, viz., 273 articles, for £51. 16s. Overland Trunks, One guinea each. Detailed Priced Lists of Ready-made Linen, also shipping and other useful information, sent by post free of charge.

Outfitting Warehouses, 61, 62, 63, and 64, HOUNDSDITCH, near the East-India House.

PAYNE and SONS' INDIAN CURRY POWDER,

UNEQUALLED for its delicious FLAVOUR and stimulating QUALITIES, in 1 lb. Bottles, 3s. 6d.; ½ lb., 2s. 3d.; or 7 lbs. for 21s.

CURRY and MULLIGATAWNY PASTE, 1 lb. jars, 3s. 6d., ½ lbs., 2s. 3d. CURRY SAUCE, Delhi and Oselle Chutnee, 1s. 6d. per bottle.

PICKLED MANGOES, HUMPS, TAP SAUCE, and every description of Indian Delicacies, may had, at greatly reduced prices, from

PAYNE and SONS' FOREIGN WAREHOUSE, 38, ROBERT STREET, LONDON.—A List forwarded on application.

TO LATE RESIDENTS IN INDIA.—TRUE

MADRAS CURRY, and MULLIGATAWNY PASTE and CHUTNEES.—Messrs. BARRIE and Co., Vepery, Madras, to enable their old correspondents returning from India to continue the use of the celebrated Condiments, have made arrangements to forward regular supplies of the above, packed in glass jars for family use, at 1s. 9d. and upwards, which may be had of CROSSE and BLACKWELL, Purveyors to Her Majesty, 21, Soho Square; FORTNUM, MASON, and Co., Piccadilly; and of the principal Sauce Vendors throughout the kingdom. Each bottle is labelled, and BARRIE and Co., Madras, stamped on the glass.

TO THE LADIES.—The powerful influence of the sun on the skin and complexion at this period of the year, calls for increased attention in preserving their delicacy and beauty. The most pleasing and effectual specific for this desirable object is ROWLAND'S KALYDOR, so deservedly established in royal and public favour and estimation. Its application neutralizes the effects of atmosphere, and induces that healthy action of the minute secretory vessels of the skin, by which its delicacy and beauty are so essentially promoted. Freckles, tan, spots, pimples, and discolorations, are eradicated by the application of the KALYDOR, and give place to a healthy clearness and transparency of complexion. Ladies travelling, or taking out-door exercise, will find it to diffuse a grateful and refreshing feeling. In cases of sunburn, stings of insects, or incidental inflammation, its virtues have long and extensively been acknowledged. Price 4s. 6d. and 8s. 6d. per bottle.

The heat of summer also frequently communicates a dryness to the hair, and a tendency to fall off, which may be completely obviated by the use of ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL, a delightfully fragrant and transparent preparation, and as an invigorator and purifier beyond all precedent.—Price 3s. 6d. and 7s.; or family bottles (equal to four small), at 10s. 6d.; and double that size, 21s.

Nor at this season can we be too careful to preserve the teeth from the deleterious effects of vegetable acids (the immediate cause of tooth-ache), by a systematic employment, night and morning, of ROWLANDS' ODONTO, or Pearl Dentifrice, a white powder, compounded of the rarest and most fragrant exotics. It bestows on the teeth a pearl-like whiteness, frees them from tartar, and imparts to the gums a healthy firmness, and to the breath a grateful sweetness and purity.—Price 2s. 9d. per box.

Beware of SPURIOUS IMITATIONS.—The only genuine of each bears the name of "ROWLANDS," preceding that of the article on the wrapper or label. Sold by A. ROWLAND & SONS, 30, Hatton Garden, London, and by Chemists and Perfumers.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS EFFECTED ANOTHER CURE

OF THE DIGESTIVE ORGANS.—Mr. Andrew Dawson, of Melbourne, was a constant sufferer from indigestion; no matter what he ate, the difficulty of digesting it was always the same for which he consulted many of the medical profession, and tried remedy after remedy without attaining any benefit whatever. Being nearly dispirited with continual suffering, he was advised to try HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. He did so, and adhered to the diet recommended with the directions; thus he has so strengthened the tone of his stomach, and increased his appetite, that he can now indulge in any kind of animal or other food without the least inconvenience.

Sold by all respectable vendors of medicine, and at the Establishment of PROFESSOR HOLLOWAY, 244, Strand, London; and by all European and Native vendors of Medicine throughout the whole of the East Indies.

ADDISCOMBE, HAILEYBURY, SANDHURST,
and DIRECT APPOINTMENTS. — YOUNG GENTLEMEN
destined for such Appointments are efficiently prepared in all the requisite branches in the Establishment of W. KIESEIT, M.A., Grove, Blackheath.

HANWELL COLLEGE and PREPARATORY SCHOOL.

The Fees commence on entrance.

"Hanwell College, conducted by Dr. Emerton, is fully sustaining the high character it has acquired. We find that former Pupils of Hanwell College have been either high wranglers or first-class men of our Universities during the present year; and this is the twentieth instance of success at Sandhurst or Addiscombe we have had to record within a short period."—United Service Gazette.

Prospectuses may be had on application to the Rev. Dr. EMERTON, Hanwell College, Middlesex.

TO OFFICERS ON FOREIGN SERVICE.

A CLERGYMAN, with twenty years' experience in Elementary Tuition, has VACANCIES for the Children of Officers abroad. Terms, inclusive, if desired, are moderate. The peculiar requirements of young Children are well understood by his family, and the responsibility attached to their performance is fully appreciated. Unexceptionable references to county families, and to connections with India. The situation is cited for its salubrity.

Address (p.p.) Rev. Woodthorpe Collett, M.A., Henly Hall, near Ipswich, Suffolk.

SURVEYING ARMY APPOINTMENTS IN INDIA.

OFFICERS at Home on Furlough, and GENTLEMEN CADETS, desirous of qualifying themselves for the Diplomas in SURVEYING and ENGINEERING, may obtain the requisite information by applying to Mr. HENRY JAMES CASTLE, Associate of the Institute of Civil Engineers, and Lecturer in Surveying and Levelling at King's College, London, who is at all times prepared to give Private Instruction (or to form a class for practical Field-work) in the uses and application of the several Instruments required for Surveying and Levelling. If desired, one or two Pupils could reside with the Lecturer.

INDIAN APPOINTMENTS.

MESSRS. GRINDLAY and Co. beg to announce the Removal of the OUTFIT branch of their establishment from St. Martin's Place to 63, Cornhill, and 124, Bishopsgate Street.

Detailed scales of OUTFIT, and plans of all SHIPS sailing to India, with prices of their accommodation, forwarded on application.

EAST-INDIA ARMY AGENCY.

63, Cornhill, and 124, Bishopsgate Street.

PASSENGERS to INDIA, AUSTRALIA, and NEW ZEALAND.—GRINDLAY and Co. negotiate Passages by first-class Sailing-vessels and Steamers to the above places.

All information given to parties about to emigrate, with Plans of the Ships, Rates of Passage-money, &c., free of all expense.

Apply to GRINDLAY and Co., 63, Cornhill; 124, Bishopsgate Street; and 8, St. Martin's Place, Charing-Cross.

ORIENTAL, AUSTRALIAN, and GENERAL STEAM AGENCY.

PARCELS, PACKAGES, and MERCHANDIZE forwarded, and Passages engaged to all parts of the world. Baggage shipped. Insurances effected, &c.

INDIA and CHINA—overland, 4th and 20th of every month.

AUSTRALIA—overland, 4th May, and alternate months.

Ditto—via Cape of Good Hope, 4th June, and alternate months.

Prospectuses, with reduced rates, from 2s. 6d., upwards, forwarded free, on application. Overland Guides, 1s., per post, 1s. 6d.

G. W. WHEATLEY and Co. (late Waghorn), 126, Leadenhall Street.

EAST-INDIA GENERAL AGENCY.

C. R. THOMPSON AND CO.,
52, OLD BROAD STREET, LONDON,

And 10, ORIENTAL PLACE, SOUTHAMPTON.

The increasing support which this Agency continues to receive, enables us confidently to invite your attention to our method of conducting every branch of our business as East-India Agents and Wine Merchants, having greatly facilitated the means of carrying on the same by the establishment of an Office at Southampton for the convenience of Passengers passing to and from the East. Our prompt and careful attention is given to

THE SUPERINTENDENCE of Outfits—securing Passages by all routes, and the Shipping and Insuring of Baggage.

THE EXECUTION of every description of Orders on the most favourable terms. Wines and Spirits have our best attention, having always a large stock on hand expressly for our Indian Customers.

THE RECEIPTION of the Wives and Children of Officers residing in India, and the receipt of remittances and payments of bills on their account.

THE RECEIPT also of Pay, Pensions, Annuities, Dividends, and the execution of all other Monetary and Banking transactions.

PARCELS received on the 2nd and 18th of each month, and forwarded Overland to all parts of India, &c. Baggage and Parcels also shipped to India, Australia, and other parts of the world, as occasion may require.

MAYNARD AND HARRIS'S MILITARY WAREHOUSE AND GENERAL AGENCY, 126, LEADENHALL STREET, LONDON.

MAYNARD and HARRIS execute with promptness, punctuality, and perfect accuracy in details, all orders for India entrusted to them, embracing MILITARY Accoutrements for OFFICERS and PRIVATES; PERSONAL APPAREL for Gentlemen, Ladies, and Families; SADDLERY, HARNESS, CHINA, GLASS, BAND and MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, with all MESS and general supplies at wholesale prices.

This establishment has been known for more than 27 years in LONDON, and the superior character of the goods it has shipped is familiar to a large portion of the Indian community, both CIVIL and MILITARY; and the same punctuality, intelligence, and attention which have characterized their former transactions will still be supplied to serve the interests of all constituents.

OUTFITS.

Cadets for the Cavalry, Artillery, or Infantry, Civilians or Assistant-Surgeons, and Passengers, are completely equipped with the utmost promptitude, for whom detailed lists have been prepared.

AGENCY.

MAYNARD and HARRIS undertake the receipt of Pay, Pensions, or Family Remittances, and the investment of Funds; the clearing of Baggage on the arrival in England, and warehousing the same during convenience—parties being requested immediately on landing to transmit by post their keys, with instructions; also the receiving and forwarding Packets and Correspondence, the same being always registered.

MAYNARD and HARRIS,

Removed from 27, Poultry, to more eligible and extensive premises,
126, LEADENHALL STREET, opposite the India House.

1854.

THE following SPLENDID SHIPS, belonging to Messrs. GREEN, of Blackwall, built expressly for the INDIA TRADE, will be despatched punctually from GRAVESEND at the under-mentioned dates:—

Name.	Tons.	Commander.	Destination.	To sail.
Windor .....	800	G. Tickell .....	Calcutta direct .....	Sailed.
Agincourt .....	1050	C. Hyne .....	Cape & Calcutta .....	15 July
Monarch .....	1400	C. Wilshire .....	Calcutta direct .....	31 —
Vernon .....	1000	H. H. Consitt .....	Cape and Calcutta .....	5 Aug.
Prince of Wales .....	1350	W. F. Hopkins .....	Calcutta direct .....	20 —
Alfred .....	1400	W. H. Pope .....	Ditto .....	28 Sept.
Trafalgar .....	1250	J. H. Taylor .....	Madras direct .....	10 —
Earl of Hardwicke .....	1000	.....	Ditto .....	18 —
Seringapatam .....	1000	H. J. Giblett .....	Mauritius & Bombay .....	1 July.
Owen Glendower .....	1000	W. H. Pare .....	Bombay direct .....	20 —
Sutlej .....	1200	A. Consitt .....	Ditto .....	10 Sept.

These Ships are all heavily armed with guns of large calibre and Colt's revolvers.

For Plans and Terms of Passage, apply to Messrs. GRINDLAY and Co. 63, Cornhill, or 9, St. Martin's Place, Charing Cross; or to

F. GREEN & Co., 64, Cornhill.

1854.

THE following SPLENDID SHIPS, belonging to Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM and SONS, of Blackwall, built and fitted expressly for the India and Australian Trades, will be appointed to leave GRAVESEND at convenient intervals.

Ship's Name.	Tons.	Captain.	Destination.	To sail.
Royal Albert .....	700	R. M. Norris .....	Madras direct .....	Sailed.
Southampton .....	1050	R. Roe .....	Calcutta direct .....	Sailed.
Devonshire .....	900	J. G. L. Storer .....	Ditto .....	19 July
Queen .....	1350	W. Bell .....	Ditto .....	1 Sept.
Kent .....	1000	G. Coleman .....	Port Philip .....	25 July
Maidstone .....	1000	W. Escott .....	.....	.....
Sussex .....	1000	A. Scanlan .....	.....	.....
True Briton .....	1200	H. W. Norris .....	.....	.....
Essex .....	850	J. B. Martin .....	As may be required	.....
Minerva .....	900	R. K. Johnston .....	.....	.....
Hampshire .....	700	E. Reynell .....	.....	.....
Slams Castle .....	600	W. Andrews .....	.....	.....
Cornwall .....	600	W. Dawson .....	.....	.....

For Freight or Passage, apply to McLEOD, ALLPORT, & Co., with Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM & SONS, 126, Leadenhall Street.

Communications for the Editor, and Advertisements, should be sent under cover to Messrs. Wm. H. Allen & Co., 7, Leadenhall-street.

COUNTRY AGENTS:—

Edinburgh, W. Blackwood and Sons.
Dublin, Hodges and Smith.
Brighton, C. Booty.

LONDON:—Printed by CHARLES WYMAN, of 13, Hunter Street, Brunswick Square, in the Parish of St. George, Bloomsbury, Printer, at the Printing-Office of COX (Brothers) & WYMAN, 74 & 75, Great Queen Street, Lincoln's-Inn Fields, in the Parish of St. Giles-in-the-Fields; and published by LANCELOT WILD, at 13, Catherine Street, Strand, in the Parish of St. Mary-le-Strand, all in the County of Middlesex.—June 29, 1854.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL,

AND

REGISTER OF INTELLIGENCE

FOR

BRITISH & FOREIGN INDIA, CHINA, & ALL PARTS OF THE EAST.

PUBLISHED ON THE ARRIVAL OF EACH OVERLAND MAIL.

Vol. XII.—No. 248.] LONDON, TUESDAY, JULY 18, 1854.

[PRICE 1s.

CONTENTS.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW...	377	Appointments, &c.	392
BURMAH:—		Domestic	393
Rangoon	379	Shipping and Commercial	393
Mea-doo	379	BOMBAY:—
Thayet Myoo	379	Canal Irrigation in India	394
BENGAL:—		Courts-Martial	395
Materials for the Railway—		Appointments, &c.	396
Wood and Iron	379	Marine Department	397
Survey of the Gogra	380	Domestic	397
Quarterly Report of the College		Shipping and Commercial	397
of Fort William	380	CEYLON	398
The Annexation of Jhanses	381	ORIGINAL ARTICLES:—
Mutty Lall Seal	382	Administration of the Punjab	398
The Barque "Clarion"	382	Retention of Rank by Indian
Roads in Bengal	383	Officers out of India	400
ought to be	383	Indian Navy—Pursers' and
The Progress of the Railway	383	Captains' Clerks	400
The Works of the Legislative		HOME:—
Council	384	Imperial Parliament	400
Governments	387	Shipping	402
Arrivals	387	Domestic	403
Arrivals in the	389	Arrivals, &c. reported at the
Commercial	390	East-India House	403
		Changes and Promotions in
		H.M. Regiments in India	404
Governor	391	BOOKS	404
Martial	392	STOCKS AND SECURITIES, &amp;c.	405

ARRIVAL OF MAILS.

Oriental, with a mail, left Calcutta May 31st, Madras June 1st, de Galle June 13th, Aden June 28th, and arrived at Suez 30th.

Ajdaha, with a mail, left Bombay June 7th, and arrived at June 21st.

... mails thus brought were taken on to Alexandria; they ... at Malta July 11th (per Ripon), and Marseilles (per ...), July 13th.

Ripon, with the remaining portion, may be expected at ... on July 22nd.

RES OF EACH MONTH—MAILS FROM LONDON TO INDIA, CHINA, ETC.

Ampton (from London), at 8 o'clock in the morning of 20th. It is advisable to post letters in London on the ...; if that day be Sunday, then on the evening of 19th; if Monday (of course) before 8 o'clock on that ...

... age, letters under  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz. . . . . 1s.

... 1 oz. . . . . 2s.

... ment is optional, but out of London it is the most certain ... early despatch; and it will be preferable to affix stamps ... than to pay in money.—Newspapers, free.

Marseilles, on the 8th and 24th; if either of these days be ... then on the 9th or 25th.

... (must be in stamps), letters, under  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz. 1s. 10d.

... " "  $\frac{1}{2}$  oz. 2s. 3d.

Newspapers, 3d. each.

The Marseilles mails of the 8th and 24th overtake the ... mails of the 4th and 20th, at Malta; they arrive in ... together.

Our publication commenced at 6 o'clock this morning, July 18.)

DATES OF ADVICES.

Bengal	.. ..	May 31	Burma (Rangoon)	.. May 20
Madras	.. ..	June 6	Bombay	.. .. June 7
Ceylon	.. ..	8	China (Hong-Kong)	(No arrival)

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

THE Mail just arrived has brought little to interest the general reader. The engineers in Burmah are stated to be actively employed in erecting proper buildings at the principal stations. A good many of the boats dispersed by storm on the Sitang, as related in our publication of the 29th of June, have come into port. The loss of life has therefore been less than was apprehended, but it is feared that it is not inconsiderable. This is the sum and substance of the news from Burmah.

From the other side there is not much even of that misty and vapoury rumour which has lately had the effect of provoking a good deal of angry discussion, if it were productive of nothing else. In conformity with our recent practice, we shall quote verbatim et literatim the latest dish of reports prepared by the correspondents of the Delhi Gazette. As we are advocates for liberty of opinion, we shall leave our friends to help themselves to such parts as they may choose to appropriate. The following bears date Caubul, 30th April:—

"You are already informed that the Russian and Persian agents, after having an interview with the khan of Khiva, visited the king of Bokhara, and have left that place for Herat. On this H.M., though still in his own palace, sent out his 'peshkhana,' or tents, and proclaimed that he was going to recover Bulkli from Sirdar Mahomed Afzul Khan, governor of the place, and son of the Ameer Dost Mahomed. There also had arrived a certain person from Hoorgunj at Bokhara. He was suspected as a spy of some Doulut or state, and therefore seized. H.M. asked him to give an account of himself, who he was, and from where and for what he had come. He was pinioned, but gave no satisfactory reply. On this the king ordered him to be hanged. The poor man never uttered a word. He struggled on the gibbet in such a manner that the rope was broken. However he breathed his last just as he fell to the ground. Since receiving the news of the king of Bokhara's preparations for Bulkli, the ameer has also been ordering reinforcements and warlike supplies for his son at Bulkli. It is whispered in respectable quarters, that the Sirdar Kohundil Khan of Candahar has conveyed secretly a letter from the king of Persia to Sirdar Souldan Mahomed Khan here, and has attached that chief to H.M., but this alliance has not been publicly proclaimed.

"There is also a rumour here that a new officer from the Russian camp had waited upon the khan of Khiva, with considerable presents, on the part of the emperor. He was kindly received, and dismissed with honour to go back to his country.

"The Russian and the Persian agents who had lately come to Herat, and negotiated with Mahomed Saeed Khan to leave Herat in their possession, and occupy Nishapoor in lieu of it while war was raging between Russia and Turkey, have been urging him to go on a mission to Candahar and Cabool. They have stated to him that the Candahar chiefs have long been attached to the Persian government, and therefore to Russia; that the ameer of Cabool has equally expressed his attachment to that government by means of agents through letters, but he at the same time sends his communications to the English government. They added that if Mahomed Saeed Khan was to go to Cabool, he would be no doubt quite able to sound the ameer and find to what side he really is inclined. However, neither the family of the Herat chief had gone to Nisha-pore, leaving Herat in the united charge of the said agents, nor had he quitted it on his mission to Cabool, up to the day of our last advices from that quarter."

Under the date of Peshawur, 8th May, we find another bit of rumour, which we insert by way of tart and jelly to close the entertainment:—

"There is a report that the Nazir Khairoollah Khan, agent of the Ameer, received a letter a few days ago from his master at Cabool, for the Commissioner here, and has sent his reply. At the same time the Nazir has been writing a diary of his travels and stay at Bokhara to give to the Commissioner, who will, it is said, forward the same to the Governor-General. Others say that the Afghan ambassador, after being a long time at Bokhara, has been requested by the Commissioner to pen a full account of the fate of the Saheban (Stoddart and Connolly) who were murdered by the merciless king of the Ozbegs in that city."

The reader will deal with the sweets as with the substantial—choose for himself.

A fearful case of outrage and murder is narrated in the Calcutta papers. A barque, named the Clarissa, left that port for Malacca, with about 170 persons—

"Who left their country for their country's good."

It appears, however, that the voyage did not suit the views of the convicts, and they took an opportunity of rising on the officers and crew. The captain and some others were killed. The mate, with a few of the persons aboard, managed to escape in one of the boats, and made their way to Rangoon. Two days after the outbreak, the ship was run upon the Tenasserim coast, where the convicts, now the chief authorities, landed, compelling the Sepoys and Lascars to accompany them. Some of the Lascars escaped to the vessel, under cover of night, and put to sea. A ship from Moulmein fell in with the ill-fated Clarissa, took possession of her, and carried her to Amherst. Measures, apparently somewhat inefficient, have been taken for apprehending the convicts, who, it seems, are driving their trade briskly, having taken forcible possession of a village, and killed some twenty of the inhabitants. Further particulars will be found in another part of our paper.

The following pretty story may be accepted as a companion for that just told. The scene is the country of the Nizam, where such things are common:—

"One hundred and fifty Rohillas made prisoners by the contingent, having been convicted of crimes committed by them individually, besides the general depredations of the body, were sentenced to imprisonment, and for that purpose were delivered over to the Killidar of Juctyal. They broke their fetters, seized the weapons of their guards, wounded fourteen of them, and have escaped. The Resident is making inquiries in the matter."

At Bombay, the scarcity of water and the bad quality of that which is procurable continue to be standing topics of complaint. This Presidency, as well as the others, is most barren in the article of news.

Singapore seldom furnishes anything very exciting, but it has departed, for once, from its usual pacific character, as the following report from thence testifies:—

"There have been some very dangerous riots at Singapore, in consequence of which much life and property have been destroyed. The Chinese, generally speaking, are possessed of a decided clannish feeling, which makes them ever ready to sacrifice much, if not all, to the imaginary reputation and prosperity of their clan. An ill-feeling which has lately been prevalent among the Tewchew, Macao, Keh, and even Hyla Chinese against the Hokeien, led to the disastrous results which we are about to describe. The rising was directed against the Hokeien in general, but particularly against the Heads of the Gee Hin Hocky, who, assisted by the influential men of their clan (Hokeien), ill treated with impunity the other clans. The first outbreak happened at the bridge, near Ellenborough's Buildings, where only Hokeiens are living, who attacked, beat, and threw into the river three Tewchews. The second at Teluk-Ayer, occupied by an overwhelming majority of Hokeiens, and there three Tewchews' shops were ransacked of all their contents. Shortly after the Tewchew temple in Philip Street was attacked. Such deeds, in the opinion of the injured parties, called for reprisals, and Hokeien houses and shops were attacked and pillaged in all directions on Saturday last. Both clans were afterwards armed, and called out a number of desperate men, who commenced assassinating wherever they met an enemy. Opposite the Opium farm in Teluk-Ayer, the first victim fell, the second near Purvis-bridge. Fifty-four houses in the Tangling district belonging to Tewchews were burned, and a number of the inhabitants who attempted to escape, after having concealed themselves for twelve hours, were attacked and one man killed, near Mr. Nassim's hill. The Tewchew village, on the Serrangoon road, was completely destroyed. And thus the conflagration became general. Rice, the only food of the people in the interior, who are all Tewchews, becoming scarce, and all supplies being captured by the Hokeiens located on the outskirts of the town, the exasperations became general, and a literal massacre took place. The whole of the European inhabitants enrolled themselves as special constables, and with their assistance, and that of the military, the local authorities were enabled after two or three days to quell the riot. The following statement will give an idea of the extent of the disturbances:—

Killed (rioters buried at the dead-house) .....	15
Ditto (rioters buried in various parts of the island) .....	70
Assassinations (estimated on good authorities) ....	400
Wounded .....	220
European (Edward Rohde, manager of the firm of E. Apel and Co.), killed by a stroke of the sun in the jungle at Tangling .....	1
Europeans wounded by accident .....	2
Prisoners .....	512
Houses burnt .....	280
Gardens destroyed .....	160
Shops ransacked .....	53 "

Something like the above has been long foreseen and predicted.

Of China there is nothing to report, save that all Shanghai is quiet.

Here we must conclude. If our Summary be not prolific in matters of great dignity, or of very amusing character, it is at least not deficient in such things as form the staple of melodramatic authors, and the delight of the audiences whom they attract. The continent, the high seas, and an island therein, have all contributed to replenish the cup of horror, and render it respectably full, if not overflowing so. Such news is not precisely that which we could wish to chronicle, but we can place before our readers only such viands as we can obtain; and if they be neither very palatable nor very wholesome, the fault is not ours.

CASUALTIES BY DEATH IN THE ARMIES OF INDIA, REPORTED SINCE OUR LAST PUBLICATION.

H.M.'s TROOPS.—Lieut. R. C. Sladen, H.M.'s 98th regt., at Fort William, May 20.

BENGAL.—Capt. W. E. Andrews, 73rd N.I., at Agra, May 22; Surg. W. Gerrard, at Futteghur, May 16; Capt. T. Riddell, 60th N.I., at Mussoorie, May 23; Lieut. S. W. S. Stokes, Art., at Asnee, May 2.

MADRAS.—Lieut. W. T. Byam, 7th L.C., at Saugor, May 6; 2nd Lieut. G. W. Onslow, Art., at Cape Town, Mar. 8; Lieut. C. H. Phillips, Art., at Streepernatoor, May 24; Lieut. A. S. Surtees, 41st N.I., at sea, on board the steamer Mauritius, May 17; Maj.-Gen. J. James, at George Hotel, Devonport, aged 63, July 5.

BOMBAY.—Lieut. G. G. Murray, 3rd Eur. regt., at Panwell, May 23.

BURMAH.

RANGOON.

THE following is an extract from a letter dated 5th May:—

"A good many of the boats of 36th M.N.I. and company of artillery which were dispersed by the storm of the 23rd April have reached Sitang. There are missing of 36th Lieut. Shortland, the two sergeants, and forty to fifty native officers and sepoy; also eight or ten of the European artillery."

It is gratifying to find that after all this catastrophe has not been attended with the awful loss of life which was at first apprehended; still the number of men who have perished is large, unless some of those still reported should eventually turn up, which we sincerely hope they may.

THE LATE HURRICANE.—We regret to say, from late authentic information received from Pegu, that there is every reason to believe that Lieutenant Shortland and about eighty men of the 36th M.N.I. and two Europeans of the artillery have perished in the late hurricane, in the Sitang.

We hear that the last that was seen of Lieut. Shortland was standing in deep water with the waves breaking over his head: a label bearing his name, which appears to have been washed off a box and floated on shore, has been brought to Pegu.—Chronicle, May 13.

The following is from a Rangoon correspondent, dated the 20th May:—

"The only news I have to send you by this opportunity is, that a committee has been formed here for the collection of articles for the Great Paris Exhibition. Unfortunately there is nothing to collect which may claim a place at the exhibition on the score of superior workmanship or particular ingenuity, but there are plenty of articles which will be very interesting on account of their novelty, and if the Calcutta secretary allows the committee here any latitude, the Burmese contribution will not be the worst."

"The weather is very trying, and no appearance of the rains yet, though they ought to have set in by this time. The heat produces a certain lassitude, which seems to have affected even the dacoits, for we have not heard of them for some time past. Letters from the upper part of the country report all quiet, and the native troops in pretty good health. The engineers are everywhere at full work, and buildings are springing up at all the principal places as if by magic. A few years hence the inland stations will not be the worst in India. I have no further intelligence to communicate, and therefore refer you to the paper which I send under separate cover. If you allow a good margin to the lively imagination of the editors, and an ample discount to what is called 'facts,' you may attach credence to the rest."

The Rangoon Chronicle mentions that a court of inquiry was to have been held at Paulang flat, for striking a soldier, his superior officer, but that Mr. Fretwell, the Captain, tendered his resignation, which not being accepted, he refused to attend the court of inquiry, and was consequently summarily and immediately dismissed. Capt. Brooking, Commandant of the steam Flotilla, to the Superintendent, for so far forgetting himself as to encroach upon the prerogative.

MEA-DAY.

The following is from our Burmah correspondent, dated Mea-day, May 3rd:—

"If no news of good news, you will receive a most excellent budget this Mea-day. The river has risen and fallen again considerably, and if we may believe that respectable person, the Mea-day, we shall have a very rainy season this year. I am as healthy as the present hot season has turned out, though hot and trying, is decidedly favourable to the health, much more so, as far as my experience, than swampy Bengal. It is quite a mistake to say Pegu is a damp and swampy place: a more dry climate Mea-day could not be: the dust storms almost equal those of Calcutta. Of sport there is very little just now, and the too hot even for its most ardent votaries. There is still party in the district under Major Allen, marking out the opening sentence of this letter must plead as my excuse its brevity."

THAYET MYOO.

The following is from Thayet-Myoo, 16th May, 1854:—

We are here still in a state of confusion yet of monotony, of comfort and at the same time of the most perfect quiet. This has been slightly varied by the arrival of the 8th Irregular Cavalry, and by one or two sinister reports, which have ended in nothing. The weather has continued intensely hot, and though we have occasionally been cheered by the gathering of clouds, yet the heat has not yet been dissipated by a shower. Last year the rains commenced (at Prome) on the 24th of May. We hope to be equally fortunate this year. It is no light matter to inhale an atmosphere always above, sometimes considerably exceeding, 100 degrees. The human frame can bear a great deal, but, unsustained by any heroic feeling, by the consciousness of even tacit service to one's country, it cannot long bear such an atmosphere as this. Lovely as Burmah is to the eye, she is in every other respect much below par. She resembles a beautiful but empty-minded woman, who attracts you by her personal charms, but on conversing with whom

"You start, for soul is wanting there."

Barren indeed is the feeling to which a lengthened acquaintance with this country engenders."

BENGAL.

MATERIALS FOR THE RAILWAY—WOOD AND IRON.

The Railway Company is unceasing in its efforts to obtain materials in this country. The rise in freights, the coming war, the increase in the price of iron, and, above all, the vast scale on which their operations must speedily be conducted, all render the discovery of materials in India itself a matter of primary importance. We cannot continue for ever bringing creosoted sleepers for 1,000 miles of railway over 16,000 miles of sea. We cannot always pay a freight on iron bars, which increases their prime cost nearly 12 per cent. The difficulty becomes an absurdity, when we know that India is teeming with iron ore, that many of its forests cover counties, and that the finest teak country in the world is numbered among its provinces. As for iron, we weary of recording the localities in which it may be found. In the museum of the Asiatic Society are specimens from more than a hundred different places,—from Burdwan and Nellore, Demawend in the Himalayas and the Nizam's country, from Porto Novo and Mergui, from Bundelcund and Nagpore; Jubbulpore, also, offers special facilities for its production. It is now more than a quarter of a century since Captain Franklin, surveyor to the mines of Saugor and Bundelcund, reported on the existence of iron ore in this locality.

That officer examined six mines, and found that with the native system of smelting and refining, which we have often described, the produce amounted to 40 per cent. of the ore. This system, too, was rendered more than usually inefficient by the niggardliness of the traders. They would not pay for labour, and their employees, ill-fed, and thoroughly discontented, worked as ill and as little as they dared. The supplies of charcoal sometimes failed. The miners could not afford the time to pick the ore, the bellows-men were careless, and in fact, everything proceeded in the slovenly ineffectual method, to which Anglo-Indians become only too fully accustomed. The cost of this iron was twelve annas per maund, or £2 sterling a ton. The purest specimens of all, however, the iron hammered until it is rendered fit for cooking utensils, costs infinitely more. So heavy is the loss on successive reductions, that even with machinery, Capt. Franklin estimated that iron fit for a suspension bridge would cost some £18 per ton, a price no company could possibly afford to pay. The iron, however, need not be purified to this degree for railway purposes, and the advantage of this locality consists in the boundless quantity which can be raised, and the neighbourhood of coal mines, from which thousands of maunds of coal can be obtained at two annas a maund. We have noticed already the mines of Kumaon, and we believe it is the opinion of Col. Cantley that ores richer than the richest of the Scottish ores are scattered through the Himalayas.

Specimens from several localities have been collected at Roorkee College; plans have been submitted for the importation of machinery and Swedish artisans; and in short everything has been done that could be done—on paper. There is an absence of practical effort to carry out these plans, which appears to indicate a deficiency either of stimulus or means. Captain Franklin, in the report from which we have quoted, elaborated a most comprehensive scheme, submitted estimates, and imagined that he was about to create iron-works at Jubbulpore. Projector, plan, and estimates have all alike disappeared. The iron alone remains, as abundant, as accessible, and as much required as it was a quarter of a century ago.

The case is the same with timber. Endless information has been collected. The Sudder Boards of the lower and upper provinces, have addressed queries to their subordinates, which, if fairly answered, will almost enable the railway company to count the logs in the Terai of Nepal, and other forest districts. Colonel Cantley has prepared accounts of the specific value of every description of wood: the cost of every log is accurately ascertained. Boards are writing, collectors are replying, scientific engineers are reporting, and the railway imports its sleepers from England, or buys them from speculators, who do not read reports, but who send men with axes to hew. The forests of Bumbulpore are coming down before the energy of one of these men.

There is enough information in existence. We now wish to see it applied to some practical object.—Friend of India.

SURVEY OF THE GOGRA.

The Benares Recorder tells us that the survey of the Gogra has been attended with a very favourable result. It has been found that in the driest weather the depth of water is nowhere less than 4 feet, when at the same time the Ganges has only from 2 to 2½ feet. But this is not the only advantage that the Gogra possesses over the Ganges. The course of the former river is very direct, whereas that of the Ganges is very tortuous above Revelgunge,—the place where the two streams unite; and it is this, we believe, that causes the shallows that abound thence to Allahabad; and we incline to think that as fast as one shallow is removed, another will be formed in some new place by the deposits of the stream turned into a fresh channel.

Our contemporary goes on to say that by the opening of navigation of the Gogra to Fyzabad, Cawnpore would be brought 100 miles nearer to Calcutta than at present. This is, we fancy, pretty nearly correct; but almost the entire saving would be in the water carriage,—the distance from Fyzabad to Cawnpore being but a few miles less than that from Allahabad to Cawnpore. We are willing enough to admit that it is a great object to save nearly a hundred miles of water carriage, and to obtain a channel navigable for steamers at all seasons of the year; but so far as the north-western provinces are concerned, this advantage is entirely negated by the want of a road from Fyzabad to Lucknow.

A line of steamers on the Gogra would no doubt pay, as they would afford the means of bringing down much of the produce of the districts of Jaunpore, Azimgurh, Gorruckpore, Ghazepore, and Chuppra, and also of the eastern portions of Oudh to Calcutta, and all these parts of the country yield products which are more or less articles of export trade; moreover, they consume many European manufactures, which would naturally be conveyed to them by the more direct and economical route which would be opened.

The Recorder mentions as an objection to the navigation of the Gogra the danger to which boats are exposed from plunderers after they enter the portion of the river which flows through Oudh. We doubt if the boldest dacoit, or the most powerful feudal chief in the Nuwabi, would venture to attack a steamer. Moreover, it is incorrect with reference to this part of the stream to talk of its flowing through Oudh, since at Fyzabad it forms only the boundary between the Nuwab's territory and the British district of Gorruckpore. From Fyzabad downwards it then divides the two countries for about 60 miles; for the remainder of its course, of not much less than 150 miles, till it joins the Ganges, both banks are British ground. We can hardly think that a boat moored on the Gorruckpore side of the river would be in much danger from plunderers from the opposite bank; but if such be the case, the Government of the north-western provinces should take measures to afford protection to those who navigate a stream which washes British territory. It is ridiculous to suppose that the English cannot afford efficient protection in such a position; it is disgraceful that they should not do so. We think, however, that the Recorder must have received a somewhat exaggerated account of the dangers attending a voyage up the Gogra to Fyzabad.

The time may yet come when our contemporary may see this place the terminus of the Cawnpore and Lucknow Junction Railway. The construction of such a work would do more to put an end to dacoity and insurrection in Oudh than anything short of annexation. The work would be considered a mere nothing in England. The distance from Cawnpore to Fyzabad via Lucknow is little more than 100 miles; the country is nearly a dead flat, and the only stream of any size to be bridged is the Goomtee (for a steam ferry would suffice across the Ganges at Cawnpore); and the rail could probably be laid down for about half a million of money, or not much more than the cost of the Britannia Tubular Bridge.—Bengal Hurkaru.

QUARTERLY REPORT OF THE COLLEGE OF FORT WILLIAM.

Examination of the Students of the College of Fort William, in Persian, Oordoo, Hindee, and Bengalee, held Jan. 3, 1854.

PERSIAN.

Saunders, date of admission into college Dec. 8, 1851; date of initiatory exam. Dec. 15, 1851. Passed—has to pass in a second language.

Halsey, date March 19, 1853; initiatory exam. March 21, 1853. Passed in Oordoo Aug. 1, 1853.

Clifford, date Dec. 1, 1853; initiatory exam. Dec. 1, 1853. Not passed in any language.

Hardinge, date Dec. 1, 1853; initiatory exam. Dec. 1, 1853. Ditto ditto.

OORDOO.

Taylor, date March 3, 1853; initiatory exam. March 5, 1853. Passed—has to pass in a second language.

Hay, date Aug. 13, 1853; initiatory exam. Aug. 15, 1853. Passed—has to pass in a second language.

Cockerell, date Nov. 1, 1853; initiatory exam. 1st Nov. 1853. Not passed in any language.

Palmer, date Nov. 8, 1853; initiatory exam. Nov. 12, 1853. Ditto ditto.

Grey, date Nov. 19, 1853; initiatory exam. Nov. 28, 1853. Arrived too late. Not passed in any language.

HINDEE.

Willock, date Feb. 4, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 7, 1853. Passed—qualified for the public service, having passed in Persian Sept. 1, 1853.

Colledge, date Oct. 17, 1853; initiatory exam. Oct. 24, 1853. Passed, and recommended for a medal of merit for general diligence and proficiency. Qualified for the public service, having passed in Persian Dec. 1, 1853.

Cuppige, date Oct. 1, 1851; initiatory exam. Oct. 15, 1851. Not passed in any language.

Waterfield, date Nov. 22, 1852; initiatory exam. Nov. 25, 1852. Will be separately reported upon. Passed in Oordoo Dec. 1, 1852; in Bengalee Jan. 3, 1853; in Hindee Feb. 1, 1853; and in Persian March 1, 1853. Qualified for the public service, received five medals of merit—one in Oordoo, one in Bengalee, one in Hindee, one in Persian, and one for general diligence and proficiency. Passed for high proficiency in Persian, April 1, 1853; in Hindee April 13, 1853; in Oordoo, May 2, 1853; in Sanskrit July 1, 1853; and in Bengalee Aug. 1, 1853. Passed for degrees of honour in Bengalee Oct. 3, 1853; and in Sanskrit Nov. 1, 1853. Studying for honours.

Watson, date Feb. 4, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 7, 1852. Studying at Meerut. Not passed in any language.

Hogg, date Feb. 4, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 7, 1853. Absent from Calcutta. Passed in Persian July 1, 1853.

BENGALIEE.

Wigram, date July 15th, 1853; initiatory exam. July 18, 1853. Not passed in any language.

Money, date Feb. 4, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 7, 1853. Passed in Oordoo, Sept. 1, 1853.

Simson, date March 19, 1853; initiatory exam. March 21, 1853. Not passed in any language.

Mangles, date July 15, 1853; initiatory exam. July 18, 1853. Passed in Oordoo Nov. 1, 1853.

Herschel, date March 3, 1853; initiatory exam. March 5, 1853. Will be separately reported upon. Passed in Persian April 1, 1853, and in Bengalee Aug. 1, 1853. Qualified for the public service. Passed for high proficiency in Bengalee Oct. 1, 1853. Studying for honours.

Chapman, date Dec. 6, 1852; initiatory exam. Dec. 6, 1852. Will be separately reported upon. Passed in Oordoo Jan. 3, 1853, and in Bengalee March 1, 1853. Qualified for the public service. Received two medals of merit—one in Oordoo and one for general diligence and proficiency. Passed for high proficiency in Oordoo March 1, 1853; in Persian April 1, 1853; in Bengalee July 1, 1853; in Hindee Sept. 1, 1853, and in Sanskrit Nov. 1, 1853. Studying for honours.

Drummond, date Jan. 6, 1853; initiatory exam. Jan. 7, 1853. Studying at Mozufferpore. Passed in Oordoo Aug. 24, 1853.

Elliott, date Dec. 8, 1849; initiatory exam. Jan. 2, 1850. Absent from Calcutta. Passed in Oordoo, Oct. 1, 1850.

Nairne, date May 5, 1851; initiatory exam. June 2, 1851. Absent from Calcutta. Passed in Oordoo Nov. 1, 1851.

Examination of the Junior unpassed Civil Servants in Persian, Oordoo, Hindee, and Bengalee, held Feb. 1, 1854.

PERSIAN.

Halsey, date March 19, 1853; initiatory exam. March 21, 1853. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Hardinge, date Dec. 1, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Not passed in any language.

Clifford, date Dec. 1, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Ditto ditto.

Watson, date Feb. 4, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 7, 1853. Studying at Meerut. Passed in Hindee Feb. 1, 1854.

OORDOO.

Grey, date Nov. 19, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Passed—has to pass in a second language.

Cockerell, date Nov. 1, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Not passed in any language.

Palmer, date Nov. 8, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Ditto ditto.

Barnard, date Jan. 6, 1854; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Ditto ditto.

HINDEE.

Saunders, date December 8, 1851; initiatory exam. Dec. 15, 1851. Passed in Persian Feb. 1, 1854.

Cuppige, date Oct. 15, 1851; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Not passed in any language.

Hogg, date Feb. 4, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 7, 1853. Absent from Calcutta. Passed in Persian Feb. 1, 1854.

BENGALÉE.

Wigram, date July 15, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Not passed in any language.

Simson, date March 19, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Ditto.

Money, date Feb. 4, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 7, 1853. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Mangles, date July 15, 1853; initiatory exam. July 18, 1853. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Taylor, date March 3, 1853; initiatory exam. March 5, 1853. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Hay, date Aug. 13, 1853; initiatory exam. Aug. 15, 1853. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Drummond, date Jan. 6, 1853; initiatory exam. Jan. 7, 1853. Studying at Mozufferpore. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Elliott, date Dec. 8, 1849; initiatory exam. Jan. 2, 1850. Absent from Calcutta. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Nairne, date May 5, 1851; initiatory exam. June 2, 1851. Absent from Calcutta. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Examination of the Junior unpassed Civil Servants in Persian, Oordoo, Hindee, and Bengalee, held March 1, 1854.

Hardinge, date Dec. 1, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Passed—has to pass in a second language.

Clifford, date Dec. 1, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Passed—has to pass in a second language.

Halsey, date March 19, 1853; initiatory exam. March 21, 1853. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Watson, date Feb. 4, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 7, 1853. Studying at Meerut. Passed in Hindee Feb. 1, 1854.

Skinner, date Jan. 31, 1854; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Studying at Jessore. Not passed in any language.

Probyn, date Jan. 31, 1854; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Studying at Mirzapore. Not passed in any language.

OORDOO.

Palmer, date Nov. 8, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Not passed in any language.

Cockerell, date Nov. 1, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Ditto ditto.

Barnard, date Jan. 6, 1854; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Ditto ditto.

HINDEE.

Elliott, date Feb. 1, 1854; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Passed—has to pass in a second language.

Saunders, date Dec. 8, 1851; initiatory exam. Dec. 15, 1851. Passed in Persian Feb. 1, 1854.

Cuppige, date Oct. 15, 1851; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Absent on medical certificate. Not passed in any language.

Hogg, date Feb. 4, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 7, 1853. Absent from Calcutta. Passed in Persian Feb. 1, 1854.

BENGALÉE.

Wigram, date July 15, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Passed—has to pass in a second language.

Simson, date March 19, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Not passed in any language.

Grey, date Nov. 19, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 1, 1854. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Mangles, date July 15, 1853; initiatory exam. July 18, 1853. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Money, date Feb. 4, 1853; initiatory exam. Feb. 7, 1853. Arrived too late. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Hay, date Aug. 13, 1853; initiatory exam. Aug. 15, 1853. Absent on medical certificate. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Drummond, date Jan. 6, 1853; initiatory exam. Jan. 7, 1853. Studying at Tipperah. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Elliott, date Dec. 8, 1849; initiatory exam. Jan. 2, 1850. Absent from Calcutta. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Nairne, date May 5, 1851; initiatory exam. June 2, 1851. Absent from Calcutta. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

Taylor, date March 3, 1853; initiatory exam. March 5, 1853. Absent from Calcutta. Passed in Oordoo Feb. 1, 1854.

WM. N. LEES,

Sec. to the Board of Examiners.

THE ANNEXATION OF JHANSEE.

If old zoologists may be credited, you cannot kill a polypus. It is the lowest of the animal creation, yet it possesses the strongest principle of vitality. You may cut it in pieces, skin it, turn its stomach inside out, but you cannot make an end of it. It reproduces itself, and in a few hours is growing again to the rock, disgusting to everything higher than itself, but alive still. The question of the right to adopt is the polypus of Indian history. It is in some respects a question of the lowest order. It is not interesting, for the disputants on both sides contrive to overlay its true merits with verbiage about treaties, good faith, and rights of inheritance, till the mind refuses to retain the isolated facts, which political adventurers call arguments. It stirs no feeling common to honourable men, for it is raised and supported only by considerations of personal interest, vanity, or pique. Like Swift's Struldbrugs it has but one recommendation, it never dies, and like them too, its continued existence is as wearisome as it is futile. Our readers will remember only too well the case of the rajah of Sattara. Supported by a clever political charlatan, and by the pseudo philanthropy of a section of English society, that case was argued and re-argued, debated and re-debated, written about and talked about, taken up and put down, until its name was the dinner-bell of the House of Commons, and the dread of the most stolid reader of debates. And we are to have it all over again, with the same facts, the same attempts at argument, and the same machinery of agitation. Mr. John Lang has been professionally retained to defend "the Jhansee case;" and all who know that gentleman, know that if he does not succeed, it will be from no want of effort, and from no fastidiousness in argument. With our recollection of the former case, its dryness, and its length, we would willingly leave this one to the mercy of the Mofussilite; but we know how an error incessantly reiterated is apt to be believed, and how easily the English public is deluded by high-sounding titles, and a show of right.

What are the facts? We will accept the ex parte statement of out north-west contemporary. In 1802, we were compelled by the intrigues of the Peishwah to crush that potentate. During the contest, the Saubadah of Jhansee, a great Mahratta estate held of the Peishwar, was treacherous to his own lord, and faithful to the British. The Government of that day entertained no suspicion that it was responsible for the welfare of the subjects whom it had acquired. It handed over Sattara to the absolute despotism of a descendant of Sivagee, and Jhansee to the absolute despotism of Sheo Rao Bhow. By a treaty, bearing date February, 1804—the date in the Mofussilite is incorrect—the hereditary government was secured to this personage. The grant was subsequently confirmed to his grandson, from whom the late Rajah, an uncle, claimed the throne. This uncle died in 1853, leaving as his heir a boy whom he had adopted some five days before his death. The Government of India, it is said, have refused to recognize the right of this child to anything beyond the personal property of his adopted father. They have annexed the State, the net revenues of which amount to some six lakhs of Rupees a year. The justice of this annexation is now called in question, and the Government is threatened with the wrath of the British Parliament. As will readily be perceived, it is only the old dispute again revived. There is no new circumstance, and no new oppression. The Government of India has simply been consistent. It has laid down the principle that no subordinate prince shall adopt without the consent of the paramount power, and from the dogma it has not receded. Is this consistent adherence to its own policy, in the first place, right, and in the second expedient?

We believe that it is right. We will set aside for a moment all considerations of the general welfare of the empire, and all reference to our "responsibility before God and man." We will consent to discuss phrases instead of things, to adhere to antiquated parchments, and to argue like a lawyer, or Count Nesselrode, and even then the annexation may be justified. Even the Mofussilite will scarcely deny that the right of the deceased rajah was derived solely from his treaty with the British power. He had no pretence of an ancestral claim. He was not even one of the horde of dacoits who, under the name of Mahratta princes squatted on the most fertile provinces of India, held them for a few years by the sword, and then talked to their suzerain at Delhi of their hereditary rights. By this treaty, then, he obtained the hereditary chiefship of certain lands. Undoubtedly, if the word hereditary is to be construed in its Hindoo sense, there may exist a claim to absolute equality between adopted and begotten heirs. Even then, however, we should require proof that this theory of descent was ever applied to Hindoo states as well as to Hindoo property. Be that as it may, there is no proof whatever that it was ever meant to be thus interpreted. The word is to bear the sense in which it is used by the conquerors, and not the one to which it is perverted by the conquered. This is proved by the almost universal insertion of a clause in Indian treaties, that if any dispute occur as to the meaning of a clause, the English phrase shall be the one to be finally accepted. And by "hereditary" in English we mean the lineal descendants of the first grantee. Even if this ground were abandoned, and we feel assured of the validity of the argument, we must fall back upon the law common to both parties, the general law of the empire, which undoubtedly imposed upon the vassal, the necessity of obtaining the consent of the suzerain to the transfer of his fief. On the merely legal ground, therefore, we hold the annexation right. On the general ground, our opinion has been expressed too often to require a fiftieth repetition. The Indian Government, from the moment it became the paramount power in India, became responsible for the welfare of every human being between the Indus and Cape Comorin. It has no right, either morally or legally, to abrogate any portion of that responsibility in favour of any native whatsoever. If the Guicowar oppresses his subjects, the blame rests with the authority which suffers him to tyrannize. If the Rajah of Travancore retains a hundred thousand men and women in hereditary slavery, the responsibility rests with the power which could offer him the alternative of concession or dethronement. The Mofussile says, the people of Jhansee are remarkably well governed. We have no information before us upon which to dispute the statement, but if they are, it is only by a happy accident. There is nothing to prevent the next Rajah from oppressing them to any extent, short of the limit which would render British interference a necessity. We know from the example of Oude how long and forbearing is the patience of that "rapacious rule." Moreover, the good or bad government of Jhansee has nothing to do with the affair. Norway is one of the best governed countries in the world, but that is no reason why Suffolk should be handed over to the Norwegians. The British Government is bound to do the best it can for its own subjects, and to improve its own constitution if necessary, but not to neglect its trust by delegating it to an untried native.

2. As for the expediency, it is scarcely necessary to repeat arguments employed scarcely two months since on the absorption of Nagpore. This law of adoption is the key to the future fortunes of the Indian empire. Whether India shall remain for ever at the mercy of 250 natives, or become a great, united, and progressive empire, depends upon this one principle. All aristocracies die out, and the Indian aristocracy more rapidly than any other. A family, however, which is recruited by adoption may be kept up for ever, and we may for centuries have to endure the sight of millions of our fellow subjects, surrendered to the absolute rule of dynasties, among whom a good king is an unnatural phenomenon. To secure the former result, to concentrate the whole empire under one administration, and one code, to render the revenue equal to the new claims upon our resources, and to change India from a congeries of states into an empire, one and indivisible, it is only necessary to maintain the policy which Lord Dalhousie has laid down. It must, however, to be just, be invariably adhered to. We must not pick and choose among lapsed kingdoms, selecting those which will pay, and rejecting those which will add little to our revenue or our strength. The system must be rigidly enforced, till the Indian Palatinates become what the English Palatinates now are, evils whose extent is known only to the antiquary.—Friend of India.

MUTTY LALL SEAL.

We must not allow the death of the great Baboo of Calcutta to pass without a comment. Insignificant in itself, it is important because he was the type of the class which is becoming the most important in India, which is eating up the ancient territorial magnates, and which alone reaps the full benefit of British sovereignty. Thirty years ago, Mutta Lall Seal, born of one of the lowest grades of the Sudra caste, was a common writer in the house of Ashburner and Co. It is now announced, not as a newspaper report, but as a statement made upon authority, that he leaves behind him more than a million sterling. Almost the whole of this vast fortune has been made in a single generation, and by money-dealing. By this phrase we do not intend merely money-lending, bill-discounting, and other banking business. There was scarcely a speculation into which he did not enter, and for which he did not supply some portion of the funds. From dealings in internal exchanges to contracts for station-building, for the erection of new bazaars to the revival of transit companies, there was scarcely an undertaking in which Mutty Lall Seal was not an important, though quiet shareholder. Not that he was by any means a man of the speculator class. He did nothing himself, he only found the funds for every promising enterprise, and sucked the profits in the shape of interest. He was a money-dealer and a Hindoo, and the English rule, which crushes the Musselman, and destroys the aristocracy, fosters the Hindoo money-dealer. In Benares and Umritsur, at Bombay and in Calcutta, wherever trade is concentrated, and the British power is strong, men of this stamp are accumulating wealth. Among a population always in difficulties, their trade can always be driven. The Civil Courts, which every one else dreads, protect the man whose wealth enables him to endure their tardiness. The administration which cannot protect the peasant from the dacoit, can and does secure the negotiation of a bill of exchange, can and does protect the banker from the violent extortion which alone can injure his position, and can and does enforce from the poor borrower the claim of the wealthy lender. For all this protection the banker, whose prosperity it secures, pays nothing whatever to the state. His food is as untaxed as that of the peasant. His house, though palatial in dimensions, pays no duty. His income is not decimated by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and his countless mercantile transactions are completed upon unstamped paper. He enjoys as much legal protection as an English shopkeeper, and as many legal exemptions as a French noble under the old régime. Add to all this, that he is inviolably faithful to his engagements, and that his unsigned draft on a house a thousand miles away is as good as a banknote, and his increase in wealth will scarcely appear extraordinary.

The character of the class may be estimated from that of its richest representative. He was rather a favourable specimen. The worst of the princes of Brunswick, the late King of Hanover, was the best of German sovereigns, and Mutta Lall Seal was one of the best of the big baboos of Calcutta. He had been accused in the Supreme Court of forgery and perjury, and though acquitted, it was not from the inherent improbability of his committing any of those acts. For any European to come in contact with him, was believed, perhaps unjustly, to be equivalent to ruin. He was accused of all kinds of meannesses, and in some instances the accusation had apparently a good foundation. Yet there is little doubt that he was better than his European reputation. Always charitable, he sometimes displayed a liberality almost inconsistent with his exact business habits. Even to debtors he was occasionally the most merciful of creditors, and his popularity with his countrymen was in strange contrast to their dislike of a far better man, the late judge of the Small Cause Court. In fact, if popular repute may be trusted, he was exactly what might be expected of an able, vigorous, kindhearted man, utterly devoid of Christian principle. As he was, so are the best of his class and country.—Friend of India.

THE BARQUE "CLARISSA."

Early on Thursday morning intelligence was received in town that the barque Clarissa, from Calcutta, bound to Malacca, with 172 convicts, had been cut off by these desperadoes.

It appears from the information that we have been able to gather, that the Clarissa left Calcutta with the above-mentioned convicts, all up-country people, but the greater portion of them were Sikhs, a guard of twenty-six sepoy, including a havildar and subadar, about twenty days ago.

Ten days ago, whilst the sepoys were sitting down between decks at the place where they usually take their meals, the sepoy who was serving out water to the convicts, was grappled by the throat by one of them, when a general scuffle ensued. One of the convicts ran forward with a ladle and cut one of the sepoys down. Although the greater portion of the convicts were down below, as soon as they heard the mélée they immediately rushed on deck, although ironed and handcuffed, commenced an attack on the officers and crew.

This melancholy affair is the more extraordinary as it occurred in mid-day; the guard we consider to have been ample in number; and must think that, had the presence of mind of the captain been equal to the critical situation in which he was suddenly thrown, and the courage of the sepoys, which had been rendered necessary, as it seems to us, by their own neglect, been somewhat greater, the mournful catastrophe would not have occurred.

It would seem that the captain and mate were taking the sun, and the acting third officer, Mr. Blaney, engaged writing at the cuddy-table, when a convict rushed in, and seized a musket. The lad, with the assistance of the mate's servant, wrested the weapon from him for the moment; but his strength was great, and he got the bayonet, aimed with it at the breast of Mr. Blaney, whom it missed, and eventually stabbed the mate's servant. At this time four or five other convicts joined the first one in the cuddy, and assisted to stab the servant to death. Young Blaney then, with great risk, managed to escape through the crowd on to the poop, where he found the poor captain perfectly paralysed, from the unexpected occurrence, though holding a sword in his hand. The convicts, it appears, had killed the sentry between deck before this scene took place on deck, but which had not been heard on deck; in fact, the officers were all engaged in their nautical observations.

The sepoy guard, instead of running for their arms on the poop, cecaped up the rigging, and the lascars jumped overboard. At this time there were only left on the poop the commander, his chief officer, third officer, two seacunnies, and one of the gunners who had acted properly, and joined the officers,—in six men; but then they had twenty-five musket on the poop (those of the sepoys), whereas the convicts had no more than seven muskets (those of the ship, which they got from the cuddy), and there were but five or six of the Seiks who were not both ironed and handcuffed; and we are inclined to believe that, had a vigorous firing been commenced upon the convicts in the onset, they might have been checked sufficiently to give the guard encouragement to find their way to the poop. We are not in possession of sufficient information to make any positive statement; but it does seem to us that, had the captain, in the severe juncture, called the guard and crew to his aid, and ordered instant firing to be commenced, a different result might have been hoped for.

The poor captain was shot between the breast and shoulder. In about ten minutes after the commencement of the outbreak he had time and strength left him to order the quarter-boat to be lowered, place himself in it, and ask to be remembered to his friends in Calcutta by his chief officer, when he expired. The sepoy who was firing from the poop was also killed, after shooting two or more of the prisoners. When the boat left with the captain, chief officer, Mr. Blaney, two sepoys, three seacunnies, one native doctor, three lascars, the gunner, and Burra Tindal, the convicts fired above a hundred shots at the boat, but fortunately killed no one. Most of them having to fire with handcuffs on, accounts for the uncertainty of the aim.—Calcutta Chronicle, May 13.

ROADS IN BENGAL AS THEY ARE, AND OUGHT TO BE.

Bengal is to have roads at last. It is in the pleasant certainty of this great promise, that we offer a few new facts on the present condition of the presidency in this respect. The task is the less irksome, tedious though the theme may have become, because it may hereafter be an advantage to look back to the actual state of affairs at the commencement of the new administration. The general state of the case, as it appears to the public, and is animadverted on in Parliament, may be described in a few words. Bengal has been in our possession for nearly a century. For the greater portion of that period, its revenue has been the mainstay of the Government; it has been to the empire what Lombardy is to Austria, the milch cow which pays both for war, and for the debt which is the consequence of war. The efforts to develop its resources, have been in an inverse ratio to the use which has been made of those already existing. With the exception of those which Providence has provided, it has no means of communication. Wherever a river does not run, mercantile traffic is almost impossible. There is one road, and fifty bridle-paths through swamp and jungle, the passage of which involves a loss of time and money altogether inconsistent with a profitable trade. It is easier to penetrate into Brazil than to reach the villages thirty miles west of Howrah, the Southwark of our Indian London. Places not a hundred miles from the capital, are as inaccessible as Cumberland was in the days of Charles the First, and along all the routes but two, the post is carried as it was in the days of Aurungzebe. Nor is this all. Not only are there few roads, but those which have occasionally been made, have been allowed to fall into gradual disuse. The country in some parts is covered with ruined tracts, which were once ordinary roads, but which the advancing jungle has been allowed for the second or third time to absorb. The ferry fund committees have continued to spend, few know how or where, some twenty thousand pounds a year, and every now and then an active magistrate completes a road instantly covered with an enormous traffic. Neither ferry committees or magistrates, however, possess the means of maintaining the roads they have commenced. The changes of officials, and consequently of plans, are almost incessant, the people are devoid of public spirit, there is no connection between these efforts and any great and general plan, and the fragments of roads have become more fragmentary still. Bengal is in this matter in the position of a newly settled colony, but with this especial disadvantage, that it is impossible by dint of mere personal effort to get across the country. In Australia, a good horseman can force his way anywhere. In Spain, the patience of an Asiatic is the only requisite to enable the muleteer to reach his journey's end. The best horseman, or the strongest pedestrian, would be alike foiled in the attempt to reach Calcutta from Rungpore.

All this is correct to the letter, but it is necessary, for the full comprehension of the subject, to enter somewhat further into details. These general statements, strictly true as they can be proved to be, wear always a certain air of exaggeration. Englishmen require statistics, and we propose to demonstrate the accuracy of our photograph by actual measurements. We will submit a regular itinerary, differing from those of Europe only in this, that whereas only a few of the roads which are in existence, ours displays those which ought to be.

A glance at the map will show to any one in the slightest degree acquainted with the capabilities of Bengal, the routes on which the great roads ought to run. The road to the north-west is necessary for imperial interests, to connect Bengal with the remainder of the empire, and to afford the means of military communication. It is provided for by the Grand Trunk Road, which with its great establishment and expenditure is always in good repair. The next route, along the line of the Ganges to Benares, is necessary to intercept the river-borne traffic, and will be provided for by the East Indian Railway Company. The third, from Calcutta through Midnapore and Cuttack, is required to connect the lower provinces with the Madras presidency, and bring the half wild districts through which it runs into communication with their capital.

The fourth, from the metropolis through Moorshedabad to Bograh, brings the richest of the rice districts into connection with their port, and would protect us for ever from a repetition of the assertion, that the people of Rungpore could scarcely pay their rent on account of the abundance of the harvest. There was no market within reach, and prices sunk till grain was to be obtained almost for the asking. The advantages of the fifth route from Calcutta through Dacca to Prome we have previously described. It will bring the newest and most fertile of our provinces into immediate connection with the general system of the empire, and will obviate the prejudice felt by the Sepoys against volunteering for a sea voyage. Lastly, we need a road from the Ganges to the neglected province of Assam, a road which will bring the products of the least known districts in Bengal, the tea, and the opium, the caoutchouc and the rice, down to the great artery of the empire. There is not one of these roads which is not imperatively required. There is not one which will not be ultimately constructed, but meanwhile how stands the case when reduced to figures? The total length of the roads included in our "Itinerary as it ought to be," with their branches, is 3,227 miles. Of this distance, 774 miles is decent "cutcha" road, with bridges over the smaller ravines, and passable whenever the cold weather has baked the mud into something like consistency.

Even then it is almost fatal to wheeled vehicles, for it is a peculiarity of our road administration, that it is never bad or good continuously. It is like some of Rubens' smaller pictures, full of bits of sunshine, which only make the general sombre tint of the scene the more conspicuous. The luckless traveller perhaps passes over fifty miles of very tolerable road, and condemns in his own mind the exaggerated statements of officials, till at the end of that distance he finds himself in a quagmire, and is longer in passing five miles, than he was in gliding over the previous fifty. There is then about 438 miles more of road, which is as destitute of bridges as of supervision, and over which an active man may possibly contrive in a very favourable season to proceed at two miles an hour. There remain 1,925 miles of what are called roads only by courtesy, consisting for the most part of bridle-paths, and of bits of glade roughly cut through an otherwise impenetrable jungle. On ninety miles only is there any metal, and an unmetalled road in Bengal is worse than the roads of England were, till Macadam redeemed them from the swamp.

Even these ninety miles are not in one continuous line. In short, the work requires to be begun, and it is to the labour of beginning that our rulers have seriously addressed themselves. The difficulties in the way are almost insurmountable. The country itself, with its alluvial soil, its vast rivers, and the absence of quarries, is singularly unfavourable to road making. The climate, with its accumulation of moisture at one season of the year, is equally hostile to their maintenance. The number of engineers at the disposal of Government is wretchedly insufficient, and the people, except, perhaps, in Shahabad, will lend us no assistance. Nevertheless, the work must be completed at any toil and at any cost, if the Court of Directors is to survive another Parliamentary inquiry.—Friend of India.

THE PROGRESS OF THE RAILWAY.

Till a locomotive is absolutely complete, it is absolutely useless. The shell may be all ready, the wheels may have been tested, the tubes may have been polished, and the sockets may have been fitted, yet until it begins to run, the public will not recognize its existence. It is only the engineer who knows that the putting together is the least difficult portion of the processes. It is the same with a railway; till it is open, the public takes no interest in its progress. It is only the initiated who know that the victory is half won when the fittings are complete. The fact may excuse as well as explain the vituperation heaped upon the East-India Railway. The machinery advances rapidly to completion, but the public comprehends only the result to which everything is tending, but which is not yet attained.

In spite of the European disturbances, of the rise in freights, of the increased demand for labour, and of a most cumbrous and complicated administration, the work of the railway rapidly proceeds. With the slightest display of energy at home, the journey to Delhi, in 1857, will occupy but a few hours. First, as to the facts most interesting to the public. The experimental line from Howrah to Pandooah, a distance of forty-two miles, will be open at the latest on the 15th of July. Four locomotives with their tenders arrived some fortnight since, and the carriages have already been prepared. The delay which has occurred has been produced by the difficulty of extricating the engines from the ship. It was felt equally in Yankee Liverpool, where a crane does not collect a crowd to watch it, and where it is not necessary to put a hundred natives on every separate rope. No ceremony whatever will accompany the opening. The line must, in the first instance, be tested for a few days, and will then be opened quietly for passengers and goods. Two trains a day each way, will, we believe, be at first the limit, and the fares, time, and stoppages have already been arranged.

The second section, to Raneeunge, a distance of 131 miles, will be opened on the 1st of January, 1855. This statement, we are aware, will be denied by all kinds of authorities, who will point triumphantly to some unfinished half mile, and declare, "as practical men, Sir," that the fulfilment of the promise is impossible. It will be kept for all that, and then, and not till then, will Calcutta enjoy the ceremonial in which it is so deeply interested. A picnic and a banquet, speeches and a ball, will at last bring conviction to the Calcutta mind, that the railway has in earnest been commenced. Whether the Government will sanction an outlay for hair-combs, and then put it into the formal schedule of expenses, as the Directors did at Bombay, we are not informed. The speculation is interesting, but too recondite for our columns. The instant this section of the line is complete, Calcutta will be amply supplied with coal. There is no limit to the amount which can be raised from the fields round Raneeunge. The Bengal Coal Company have millions of maunds above ground, which cannot find a market, because the available fleet is inadequate to its transport down the Damooda.

For the great line, also, preparations are actively proceeding. This strikes off, as our readers are aware, from Coolcool, a place a few miles to the westward of Burdwan. From thence to the More, a distance of forty-five miles, the work, done by the Company itself, is proceeding under the superintendence of Mr. Sibley, one of the most active and efficient engineers upon the line. The next section from the More through Rajmahal and along the Ganges to Colgong, a distance of 125 miles, has been entrusted to Messrs. Nelson and Co., a new firm, which includes, we believe, one of the former engineers of the company. From Colgong to Powie, a distance of eighty miles, the contract has been given to Messrs. Mackintosh, Burn, and Co., who, next to Messrs. Hunt, Bray, and Elmsley have been most successful in the sections already completed. From thence to Phoolwaree, the works will be completed by Messrs. Ward and Co., a branch, we presume, of the only ironfounders in Calcutta. The remaining divisions are Phoolwaree to the Kurumnassa seventy-eight miles, Kurumnassa to Benares sixty miles, and Benares to Delhi 480 miles.

The first two will probably be let immediately. The latter will either be let in one great contract, or executed by the company itself. In either case, a commencement will be made within the ensuing six weeks. Forty more engineers will be added to the staff on the arrival of the August steamers. All the large rivers will be crossed by rough, massive wooden bridges, on the American plan, by which the picturesque is sacrificed to speed and cheapness. The timber sleepers for the whole distance as far as Colgong, have been already contracted for, and are in process of delivery. The supply required between that point and the Soane, is also purchased, thought not yet delivered. Limestone in abundance can be procured at Rhotasghur, and brought down along the Soane. Coal is only too plentiful. On the line contracted for by Messrs. Nelson and Co., there is a seam thirteen feet in depth. Messrs. Mackintosh and Co. will be supplied from the Damun-i-koh, where Government has given away the right to work, unfettered even by a ground rent. Any quantity may be raised at Palamow and Kurriballi, and brought down by the Coyle and Soane for the more northern sections of the line, while the Government has provided for one of the greatest of the minor difficulties, the transmission of specie from Calcutta. Every one of these contracts, which in the aggregate involve millions, must be completed by the 31st December, 1856. The penalties are the withdrawal of the contract on fourteen days' notice, without appeal, and the consequent forfeiture of credit, securities, and the ten per cent reserve. The fittings in short are nearly prepared. When they are put together, the railway will be complete.

It remains to explain where the real obstacle in railway progress lies, and to remove some of the mistaken opinions widely current in Calcutta. It is believed in many quarters that the railway cannot be completed, that no energy can overcome the difficulties in the way, that the money cannot be procured, and that the material for the permanent way cannot be imported. All the ships in the trade, it is said, could not bring the material required. Undoubtedly this is the main difficulty, and it is one which will test to the utmost the energies of the company at home. We shall soon show, however, that it is not insuperable, and the importation will be the experimentum crucis by which we shall test the claim of the railway company to continued existence. If they are so devoid alike of energy and judgment as to neglect the opportunity, they must be swept away, and the work entrusted once more to the Government itself. The wood required is, or will be provided. There are boundless forests, and plenty of axes to hew them, when once the inducement is forthcoming. There remains the iron. Of this metal, for the entire line about 250,000 tons will be required within three years. The rails alone, which are unreasonably heavy, demand 150,000 tons, and the chairs and fishes, turn-tables and machinery make up the remainder. Eighty thousand tons a year must therefore be procured either in India or Europe. It can be procured in England. The war will speedily diminish the continental demand. Kings will not grant subventions, till it is decided whether Europe is to be republican or Cossack. Work is at a stand at home, already, and the price of iron which has been temporarily and unnaturally high will fall.

The great ironmasters will prefer the certainty of these vast contracts, to the chances of a trade as sensitive as the stock-market to political events. The iron, therefore, can be purchased. It remains to transport it sixteen thousand miles. This also, we believe, may be effected. The average tonnage of the vessels which reach this port is about 600 tons, and supposing that 400 of this is taken up for iron, 200 vessels a year will be absolutely required. This number it is not impossible to obtain. The number which arrived in 1851-52 was 270, and the company can afford to pay very heavily for freight. When the dead weight of their establishment, the payments for interest, the loss in the conveyance of the mails, and the absence of profits are taken into the account, every year adds fearfully to the expenditure. The saving of two years' delay would enable them to pay 4l. a ton for goods which in ordinary seasons are received as ballast. The shipping trade, moreover, shows a disposition to overbuild itself. The chain of events which has made the fortune of the shipowners, which has doubled the price of cabins in Calcutta, and sent rotten Newcastle colliers on profitable voyages to Australia, cannot last. There must be a reaction, and the reaction will be foreseen and provided for by men like Green and Lindsay. Whether it lasts or not, however, the amount of support is a question of money, and when it is remembered that every year saved, is an economy of 120,000*l.* in establishment alone, the power of the company to bribe assistance will be more readily appreciated.

With respect to money, there is, and can be no permanent difficulty. Whether shares are, or are not at a premium at home, does not signify one jot. The supply required can be raised in this country. In the last resort, should English capitalists decline five per cent., and natives refuse the company's guarantee, there is a balance of sixteen millions sterling in the treasuries, bearing no interest, and of no earthly use, and the idea of a stoppage for want of funds, is one which could be entertained only by those who believe India to be perpetually on the verge of bankruptcy. We submit the engine is in process of manufacture.

To sum up this long narrative in a dozen sentences. Forty-two miles of railway wait only for the locomotive. Eighty-nine more need only a few weeks more exertion. Eight hundred more have been granted out in contracts. The wood required has been procured. The iron necessary may be obtained. There is, and can be, no lack of funds. We need nothing but a little more energy, a little more popular support, and a little less of that petty depreciation which watches the longest railway in the world—through a microscope.—Friend of India, May 25.

THE WORK OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

The new Legislature of India may be considered fairly organized, and assembled for its first sitting on the 20th May. The members are,—

Ex-Officio.

The Governor-General (President).

Mr. J. A. Dorin.	Mr. B. Peacock.
Sir W. Gomm.	Sir L. Peel.
Mr. J. P. Grant.	Sir J. Colville.

Representative.

Mr. A. J. M. Mills,	Bengal.
„ Charles Allen,	Agra.
„ Dan. Elliot,	Madras.
„ A. Malet,	Bombay.

[The three gentlemen last named have not, as yet, taken their seats. Their appointments must be signed again, as the power of nomination only become vested in the governors after the 30th of April, when the new Act came into force. The error is of the slightest possible importance, and proceeded apparently from an over eager desire to carry into operation all the provisions of the Act. To these gentlemen the Governor-General, on the authorization of the Court of Directors, can add two more, one of whom will always be the home secretary, and the other perhaps selected from the North-Western Provinces.]

When complete, therefore, the Legislature will consist of thirteen members, of whom one, the Commander-in-Chief, will probably be a permanent absentee. Even should he be compelled, in defiance alike of precedent and policy, to reside in Calcutta, he will probably confine his attendance to the meetings of the Executive Council. The constitution of the new Legislature is, in one respect, open to objection. Not only is it practically composed solely of lawyers and civilians, but all the civilians are of one peculiar class, men who have earned distinction, not in the interior, or in the government of provinces, but in conducting the details of the executive administration. With one exception, every one who is not a lawyer has been a secretary, and even the exception, though well acquainted with the interior, has of late years been employed exclusively in the capital. The man of the desk has beaten the man of the cutchery, and the council presents in consequence somewhat too uniform an aspect. Let our English readers imagine the Cabinet assisted by the Chief Justice, and Baron Parke intrusted with the whole power of Parliament, and they will form an accurate idea of the constitution of the Indian Legislature. It is probable that such a body, even in England, would devise laws almost perfect in themselves. It is still more probable that they would be somewhat too doctrinaire, somewhat too attentive to abstract principles, and somewhat too contemptuous of local difficulties, prejudices, and facts.

There is little at which to cavil in the selection before us. Our legislators are all able men, but the ability is too much of one kind, and may require to be leavened with a little more of rough, practical knowledge of the people. The squirearchy, who have few ideas, and no originality, are not the least valuable element in Parliament. As they think, so will the mass of the people think, and the thoughts of our Indian squirearchy, the magistrates, frequently differ in no slight degree from those of an able secretary. It is possible that the selection may, to some extent, have been influenced by considerations of expense. Most of the members are already paid, and our legislature is, therefore, in appearance, cheap. It is open to question, however, whether a single law made imperfect by the absence of practical information, does not cost the country more than any economy in salaries is likely to save. For the rest, the new legislature is an improvement upon the old one. It is less of a department of the executive. It is a legislature for India, instead of for Bengal. It comprises well-informed members from all the presidencies, and the great defect of the ancient council, its municipal character, is finally removed.

The first duty of the new legislature, to use a French phrase, is the "verification of its powers." Its second will be to discuss and determine the "standing orders of the House." Like every other legislative body, it possesses the complete control of its own internal arrangements, and, in the present instance, those arrangements are almost as important as legislative enactments. They will affect the entire character and position of the legislature. It rests with the members to decide whether their discussions shall be oral or in writing, whether their sittings shall be permanent or sessional, whether their debates shall be secret or open to public discussion and control. The first will probably be determined with little difficulty or discussion. Even in India, thirteen officials will dread the fatigue of reading thirteen essays on every subject that is brought before them. Conversation is an easier as well as a more efficient method of eliciting differences of opinion, and even if the practice of minuting were retained, the debates would of necessity speedily become oral.

The two latter are of infinitely more importance. The primary defects of our Indian legislation are tardiness and want of strength, and both are owing in no small degree to defects, not in the legislature itself, but in its method of procedure. Still smaller mistakes have often crippled similar bodies. The national assembly was destroyed, because its galleries were too large. One main cause of our legislative tardiness has been the permanence of the session. The Council is always en séance. There is no fixed date, as in the British Parliament, at which work must be terminated, even though it be by a "massacre of the innocents." The work which may be done at any time is never done at all. The most difficult, and therefore most necessary tasks are postponed to a more convenient season, and the despotic promptitude with which an emergent measure becomes law, conceals the delays which impede laws that are not "emergent," but only urgently required. The consequences are patent to the least observant. The phrase "it has gone up to Council" is the death warrant of a reform. Measures desired by all classes are passed easily enough through the first stage. Opinions are collected, information is contributed, facts are more fully ascertained, and then, when the bill is ripe for action, the legislature draws back. The measure hangs fire. The second reading is postponed, perhaps the matter is referred to England, perhaps some officer already overworked is ordered to report; at all events there is no advance, no positive action. It is thus that we waited for the code. Despite the endless references to England, the former legislature twice received authority to pass the long-expected act, and it is not passed yet. It is thus that we waited for a new sale law, for a reform of the police, and for the Small Cause Court Act. As in our judicial system, so in our legislation, there is a want of the clôture, of some custom or some law, which shall peremptorily bring discussion to an end. This would be effected by a standing order, which should render the sittings sessional, and provide that all business not terminated at the close of a session, must be taken up afresh in the succeeding one. The recess, too, would be valuable for another reason. It would enable the legislators to quit Calcutta, to refresh their experience of Mofussil life, and to watch the effect of the measures they had passed. There is no sound reason why they should not themselves take the place of the special commissioners, who have of late been so frequently employed. A tour in the cold weather, through the interior of Madras, will benefit not only the representative of that Presidency, it will give a new stimulus to every officer whose proceedings are observed, and enable Mr. Elliott to bring to the work of legislation a freshness of knowledge not attainable from official records.

Similarly, the great source of the weakness of our Legislation is the absence of popular support. The Legislature, knowing itself to be despotic, is afraid of the appearance of despotism. A popular body can pass bills infinitely more stringent than one which is irresponsible. To take a very ordinary instance, the necessity of a Metropolitan Improvement Act has long been admitted in Calcutta; unfortunately, to render it of the slightest use, it must be stringent to the verge of despotism, and a despotic Legislature shrinks from the consequent unpopularity. In London and in Melbourne, in Boston and in Quebec, in America, where every man is a legislator, and in England where every man hates official interference, such Acts are in effective operation. In India, where the people have no voice, and the Government no check, we can obtain no provision of the kind. It is the same with more important edicts. The Legislature being legally irresponsible, feels on that very account a deeper responsibility, and the feeling fetters its effective action. It could crush the dacoits, and it could prevent affrays between regiments of armed men. It could render perjury at least a legal crime, and it could put down the practice of infanticide with a strong hand. Yet it shrinks from these necessary measures, because they can be effected only by acts of despotism, which, in the absence of popular support, are certain to be misrepresented. A popular Government would abolish the Calcutta municipality in a week. The despotic Legislature hesitates at an act which looks like an attack upon the privileges of freemen.

This source of weakness also, may, in a great measure, be removed by a second standing order. It is secrecy, and not the want of representation, which is the source of this perpetual distrust. If the public are admitted to the debates, if the reasons of every law, the facts upon which it is based, and the arguments by which it is supported, are made patent to the world, misrepresentation becomes impossible. We have no half-educated public to whom facts appear irrelevant, and arguments unintelligible. By opening its doors, no matter under what restrictions, the Legislature, while it retains all the strength of despotism, will gain also all the strength of popular support. It parts with nothing. If secrecy is necessary on any particular occasion, it can sit in secret session. It has no popular turbulence to dread, no external influences to avoid. It is amenable to no control, but its own, and in opening its doors will lose nothing, save a distrust which weakens its wisest resolutions.

Our comments are too long. We have said nothing of the effect of such a measure on the legislators themselves, of the dignity and force it will lend to their deliberations, or of the stimulus it will afford to every man not utterly dead to the sense of public appreciation. All this we have pointed out before, and now confine ourselves exclusively to the effect which will be produced upon actual legislation. To diminish its tardiness, and increase its strength, sessional sittings and open doors are imperatively required.—Friend of India, May 25.

HER MAJESTY'S BIRTHDAY.—On the 24th May, the anniversary of Her Majesty's Birthday was celebrated by a ball and supper at Government House, and on the same evening the electric telegraph announced the festivities which had taken place in commemoration of the same event at Indore.

MR. PLUMB has been appointed secretary to the Bank of Bengal; Mr. Lee has been appointed assistant secretary, and Mr. Cooke accountant.

CHOLERA is committing great havoc among the native population of Benares, and the mortality from this disease alone is 15 to 20 per diem. In order to afford all possible relief to the people, a cholera dispensary has been established pro tem. by subscriptions in which medicines are distributed to the applicants gratis.

THE PARIS EXHIBITION.—The Government of India have allotted—partly expended—five lakhs of rupees for the purchase of a suitable collection of Indian articles for the Great Paris Exhibition.

LIEUT. HARRIS, 17TH N.I., was tried by court-martial at Delhi on the 11th May.

THE BONDED WAREHOUSE ASSOCIATION.—We perceive from a report of the Bonded Warehouse Association that the profits of the past half year have amounted to only Rs. 14,000. The directors, however, have declared a dividend at the rate of eight rupees per share. Moreover, they have resolved to insure the warehouses and commercial buildings to the extent of five lakhs of rupees.

DEATH OF MR. W. MAPLES.—We regret to notice the sudden death of Mr. W. Maples, the secretary to the Bank of Bengal. He had scarcely held his appointment two weeks, when he was seized with fever, under which he finally sank on the 18th May. His decease leaves this coveted appointment again open to public competition.

THE LINE OF ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH between Calcutta and Bombay is now complete, as is also that between Calcutta and Lahore.

A PUNDIT ON THE CHARACTER OF THE MISSIONARIES.—The following is the opinion lately uttered by a Pundit in Ahmednagar, on the character of the missionaries. After a strong condemnation of the Hoolee festival, he says:—"And we may well consider whence, and by whose means, we have obtained this enlightenment. Plainly from the English, and particularly from the missionaries. Had these men not come to our land and endeavoured to bring up our people from their state of ignorance to true knowledge, we should never have attained our present position. Had we remained under a government of our own own people, and had these benevolent reformers never come here, the evil practices of this festival had doubtless greatly increased. Instead of being here to speak against this vile feast in the presence of such an assembly, I myself might have been in the streets engaged in the same filthy sports."

FURLONGS TO WARRANT OFFICERS.—For the future, warrant officers are to be allowed furlough to Europe on the same terms as unattached officers. The order emanates from the Court of Directors.

MR. LAKE, the judge of Midnapore, purposes retiring from the service about the end of the year.

MR. C. H. LUSHINGTON, though officiating as Secretary to the Government of India in the financial department, retains control over the accountant's office.

GENERAL JUNG BAHADOOR is preparing a beautiful collection of the most interesting manufactures and productions indigenous to the Nepal States, for contribution to the Paris Exhibition.

MR. J. H. CRAWFORD, commissioner of the Burdwan division, has applied for two years' sick leave to the Cape.

THE CLOTHING BOARD.—Boards are at a discount, for Government appears to have found out at last that more business can be done, and the duties more efficiently performed, by one responsible head, than by a board, the object of which apparently is only to receive collectively praise or blame for the acts of the working member. Last Saturday's Gazette announces the abolition of the Clothing Board, and of the office of secretary to the Board, at the three presidencies, from the 1st proximo. The duties will from that date be performed by a single officer, to be styled "Superintendent of Army Clothing," who is to be also auditor of clothing accounts, and is to receive a staff salary of Rs. 1,500 per mensem. The clothing will continue to be made up under "army clothing agents," whose salaries have been fixed at Rs. 750 per mensem each. The system of the Off-Reckoning Fund is likewise to be abolished from the 1st of January, 1855. Maj. J. H. Burn, of the 1st N.I., town major, Fort William, has been appointed superintendent of army clothing in Bengal, and auditor of clothing accounts. The selection is most unexceptionable, and will be hailed with pleasure by all parties concerned. —Hurkaru, May 29.

THE STUD DEPARTMENT.—Last Saturday's Gazette contains the transfer of the stud department, hitherto under the Military Board, to the direct control of Lieut.-col. Dickey, 14th N.I., who is to be designated Superintendent of Studs, and to receive a staff salary of Rs. 1,500 per month. There are to be two deputies on Rs. 1,000 per mensem; and Capt. C. Wollaston, 8th L.C., and Brov.-Maj. Apperly, 4th L.C., have been selected for the posts. The accounts will be audited by Capt. Newbolt, the auditor of commissariat accounts, and he is to be allowed such extra establishment as may be found necessary. The transfer of the stud is to take effect from the 1st of June, but the audit begins from the 1st inst. The auditor will thus exercise a check upon the Military Board itself in that particular department for a whole month. —Hurkaru, May 26.

DEATH OF BABOO RUSSOMOY DUTT.—We regret to notice the death of Baboo Russomoy Dutt, third judge of the Small Cause Court, and the head of a family always prominent in native society. The deceased judge was, we believe, a fair lawyer, and on many occasions gave proofs of ability of no common order. Though greatly respected among Europeans, he was not, we believe, very popular among his countrymen. He had probably advanced too far before them; but there was some superstition which rendered his name "unlucky." He will, it is said, be succeeded by Baboo Horochunder Ghose, the junior police magistrate of Calcutta.

THE MILITARY BOARD.—Yesterday's Gazette contains an order placing the services of Lieutenant J. N. Young, officiating first assistant-secretary to the Military Board, at the disposal of his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, and Capt. Dickens is promoted to the vacancy. It would thus appear that the Military Board, though stripped of the commissariat, the department of Public Works, and the studs, still requires the services of two secretaries to wind up the accounts of the branches of which it has been relieved. How long this "winding-up" is to last there is no guessing; but we venture to assert that, unless, as already suggested by us, a time be fixed within which the arrears are to be brought up and all accounts closed, years will elapse before the business is brought to an end. Were it not out of the usual way of business, we would recommend the appointment of a special officer for the task, without a fixed staff salary, leaving his remuneration to be adjusted by a per-centage on all accounts brought to a close. We feel sure that, twelve months hence, the military accountant would be saved the necessity of writing repeated letters regarding the many unadjusted balances standing in his books against the department hitherto under the control of the Military Board. —Hurkaru, May 26.

ELEPHANT KHEDDAS.—We understand that Government has decided upon establishing elephant kheddhas in Burmah, and that Capt. Baugh, of the 26th regt. L.I., is to be appointed superintendent of the establishment. We are not aware whether this arrangement is to supersede the present elephant kheddhas in Dacca, though we should hardly be surprised if such were the case. Though the elephants obtained through the Dacca establishment are brought forward in the accounts at a nominal valuation of Rs. 700, we have reason to believe that in reality the cost to Government is much more, considering the share to which the Rajah of Tipperah is entitled, and the loss by strayed elephants, as well as by casualties; and taking moreover into calculation the cost of the khedda establishment, the real value of each standard elephant must be much above one thousand rupees. We believe it was Col. Benson who, in a very able report on the Government studs in general pointed out the uselessness of the khedda establishment; but, unfortunately, his suggestions had to pass through the channel of that august body the Military Board, and, in the mass of business, were lost sight of altogether. —Bengal Hurkaru, May 20.

THE 37TH BENGAL N.I.—The following general order has been issued by his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief:—"It having been brought to notice by the officer commanding the 37th regiment of native infantry, that on his assuming command of the corps he found some thousands of rupees deposited in the quarter guard, appertaining to the estates of men who were killed or died in the retreat from Cabul, thus showing that the regulations of the service have been neglected by nearly all the officers who have commanded the regiment between the date of its return from Afghanistan up to the present time, his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, under instructions from the Most Noble the Governor-General in Council, calls the particular attention of all officers to the regulation on this head published in section xv. of the Pay Code of 1849, and enjoins the strictest observance of this rule for the future." The italics are ours. This, we believe, is 1851, and the retreat from Cabul took place, if we mistake not, at the latter end of 1840. Is it possible that the "some thousand rupees" belonging to the estates of men who died or were killed, on that retreat have been lying in the quarter guard of the 37th regiment N.I. for fourteen years? Were the fact not announced in general orders under the authority of the Commander-in-Chief, we should never believe it. It is one of the most unaccountable pieces of absurdity and neglect that we ever remember to have heard of during the whole course of our life; and we very much question whether any one else either ever heard of such an extraordinarily absurd affair. Will our contemporary the Hurkaru, who is learned in the Indian army list, tell us who "all the officers" are who have commanded the 37th N.I. from that date up to the present time? But why say "nearly," Sir William? Has the matter been represented to head-quarters by one or two of the officers who have commanded that regiment? If so, when, and why was the representation not attended to, or—but we need not trouble ourselves in asking any further questions on the subject. It is clear that it is a most extraordinarily absurd and verdant piece of neglect. Nothing could be more so.—Calcutta Morning Chronicle, May 24.

MILITARY ON-DITS.—There is a report that Col. Spens is to succeed Brigadier Warren, and take command of the station of Barrackpore.—Capt. J. Williamson, 1st Bengal fusiliers, has sent in his papers preparatory to retiring.—The courts-martial in the 15th B.N.I. do not appear to have yet terminated; the quarter-master of the regiment, Lieut. Thompson, is to be brought to trial for misappropriating the public funds of the corps.—Englishman.—A court of inquiry assembled to-day at the main guard at Fort William, to investigate a case of horse-whipping that occurred on the Queen's birth-day at the Military Club. It arose out of Asst.-surg. Wigstrom, H.M.'s 14th dragoons, forcing his way into the room of Capt. Dorin, of the commissariat, to apply formal castigation, and meeting with too warm a reception.—Capt. C. V. Bowie, of the artillery, aide-de-camp to the Governor-General, will, it is said, officiate as town major, as a temporary arrangement consequent on the appointment of Major Byrn to the clothing superintendency.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS.

OFFICERS EMPLOYED UPON THE GANGES CANAL.

Fort William, Home Department, May 11, 1854.—The Governor General in Council, having expressed the deep sense entertained by the government of the distinguished public services which have been rendered by Lieut.-Col. Cantley, the director of the Ganges Canal, desires further to record a marked acknowledgment of the able, and zealous, and unwearied aid which has been afforded to him by the officers employed upon the works, which have just now been completed.

His Lordship in Council desires especially to recognize the very valuable exertions of Captain Goodwyn, engineers, executive engineer, 1st division; of Conductor Firm, executive officer for materials, 1st division and of Mr. Dodsworth, assistant surveyor.

The full approbation of the government is due to Lieutenant Fraser, engineers, executive officer, 2nd division; to Lieutenant Price, 1st fusiliers, deputy superintendent, 1st division; to Mr. Kay, deputy superintendent, 1st division; to Mr. Volk, executive officer, 3rd division; to Mr. Login, deputy superintendent, 1st division; and to Mr. Parker, deputy superintendent, 1st division; as well as to Lieutenant Allen, 55th N.I., superintendent of work-hops; to Lieutenant Hodgson, executive officer, 4th division; to Lieutenant Whiting, engineer, 5th division; to Lieutenant Merrick, 3rd N.I., deputy superintendent, 3rd division; and to Mr. Read, executive officer, 4th division.

To those officers who have been at various times connected with the works, and particularly to Major Baker, engineers, who directed the operations from 1845 to 1848; to Lieutenant Richard Strachey, engineers; to Lieutenant A. D. Turnbull, engineers, and to Lieutenant Yule, engineers, the warm acknowledgments of the Government of India are now offered.

The Governor-General in Council congratulates them all on the signal success of their labours, and thus publicly conveys to them his cordial and special thanks.

THE NEW OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF STUDS.

Fort William, May 19, 1854.—The Most Noble the Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct that the Military Board shall be relieved from the superintendence of the stud department from the 1st proximo, from which date that department will be placed under the direct control of an officer to be designated "superintendent of studs," who shall exercise all the authority exercised heretofore by the Military Board, and shall correspond with the secretary to the Government of India in the military department.

2. The staff salary of the superintendent of studs will be Rs. 1,500 per mensem.

3. He will have individual, direct, and prompt authority over everything in the stud department, and will bear direct and individual responsibility to the Government for the right management of everything under his orders.

4. The two officers heretofore designated superintendents of the studs in the central provinces and in the North-Western Provinces respectively, will henceforward be designated "deputy superintendents," and will hold charge of those studs, receiving their present salary of Rs. 1,000 per mensem.

5. The rest of the department will remain on its present footing.

6. The audit of the accounts of the stud department from the 1st May, 1854, will be made by the auditor of the commissariat accounts, with such extra establishment as may be found necessary.

ABOLITION OF OFF-RECKONINGS.

Fort William, May 23, 1854.—The Most Noble the Governor-General of India in Council is pleased, with the sanction of the hon. the Court of Directors, to abolish the system of the off-reckoning fund, and to direct that, from the 1st January next, the clothing of the army at the three presidencies shall be provided at the cost of the state, and that a fixed sum, calculated on the average of the off-reckoning shares for the last twenty-one years, of which the accounts have been made up, after deducting from the same the amount of interest on unadjusted balances, as included therein, shall be payable to colonels of regiments and others entitled to off-reckoning shares, under existing rules, quarterly in England, and monthly in India, under the head of "colonel's allowance."

The amount of this allowance will be notified hereafter in general orders.

2. The clothing boards and the office of secretary to the clothing boards at the three presidencies will be abolished from the 1st of June, 1854, and the duties of the board at each presidency will be performed by a responsible officer, to be styled "superintendent of army clothing."

3. The staff salary of the superintendent in Bengal, who will also be auditor of clothing accounts, is fixed at Company's rupees one thousand and five hundred (1,500) per mensem.

4. The amount of salary of the superintendents at Madras and Bombay will be notified to the governments of those presidencies.

5. The clothing at the three presidencies will continue to be made up under "army clothing agents."

6. The staff salary of army clothing agents, who may hereafter be appointed, is fixed at Company's rupees (750) seven hundred and fifty per mensem.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ALEXANDER, H. A. R. to be register of deeds, and marriage registrar in district of Backergunge, May 18.

BALMAIN, W. to be dept. supt. of Jaloun, May 20.

BAYLEY, H. V. add. jud. of Dacca and Backergunge, vested with pow. of a spec. commissr.

BEEHETT, J. O. B. dept. coll. and dept. mag. in Kumaon, vested with full powers of mag. May 20.

BEST, W. R. to be jt. mag. and dept. coll. of Rohtuck, May 20.

BROWNE, Lord H. U. vested with special powers in Tutuot district, May 17.

CHAPMAN, R. B. to be jt. mag. and dept. coll. 2nd grade, May 16.

COCKERELL, F. R. vested with powers of jt. mag. and dept. coll. in Cuttack district, May 17.

COLVIN, B. J. to be a judge of court of sudder dewanny and nizamat adawlut, May 26.

DALRYMPLE, F. A. E. to offic. as coll. of Dinagapore, May 20.

DASHWOOD, H. W. to be jt. mag. and dept. coll. of Banda.

DRUMMOND, Hon. R. A. J. to be a memb. of local com. of public instruction at Agra, May 16.

DRUMMOND, F. B. to be mag. of Tipperah, fr. May 16.

DRUMMOND, Hon. E. rec. ch. of office of accountant to govt. of Bengal fr. C. H. Lushington, May 22.

EDWARDS, R. Mc. to be jt. mag. and dept. coll. of Seharunpore.

ELLIOTT, C. P. attached to N.W. provinces and the Punjab.

ELLIOT, A. J. vested with powers of jt. mag. and dept. coll. in 24-pergunnahs, May 17.

FERGUSON, H. D. H. to be mag. of 24-pergunnahs and supt. of Allipore jail, May 26.

FREELING, G. H. to be jt. mag. and dept. coll. of Delhi, to continue to offic. as jt. mag. and dept. coll. of Humcepore, May 20.

GREY, J. J. vested with powers of jt. mag. and dept. coll. in Houghly district, May 17.

HALSEY, W. S. recently admitted, att. to N.W. provinces.

HENDERSON, W. H. vested with powers of jt. mag. and dept. coll. in Noacolly district, May 17.

HUME, A. O. to jt. mag. and dept. col. Mynpoory, May 20.

JOHNSON, W. to be dept. col. and dept. mag. in zillah Moradabad.

JENKINS, C. vested with powers of jt. mag. and dept. coll. in Backergunge district, May 17.

LANE, T. Bruce, vested with special powers in Purneah district.

LANE, T. Blomefield, vested with powers of jt. mag. and dept. coll. in Cuttack district, May 17.

MANDERSON, R. to be jt. mag. and dept. coll. of Goorgaon.

MANGLES, J. H. vested with powers of jt. mag. and dept. coll. in Bancoorah district, May 17.

MARTIN, S. N. to be jt. mag. and dept. coll. of Benares, but to continue to offic. as jt. mag. and dept. coll. of Jounpore, May 20.

MILLS, A. J. M. to be a legislative councillor of education of India fr. May 20.

MOORE, W. R. to be an extra jt. mag. and dept. coll. in zillah Mirzapore, and asst. to supt. family domains of Rajah of Benares.

MORRIS, G. G. to be a jt. mag. and dept. coll. 2nd grade, fr. May 16.

MUSPRATT, H. vested with powers of jt. mag. and dept. coll. in Burdwan district, May 17.

OWEN, C. B. dep. coll. and dep. mag. in Ghazeeopore, vested with special powers, May 20.

SAMUELLS, E. A. to be com. of revenue and circuit for Cuttack div. and superint. of tributary mehals, May 26.
SMITH, M. to be a judge of Sudder Dewanny and Nizamut Adawlut, N.W. prov. fr. May 1.
SPENCER, M. C. vested with powers of jt. mag. in districts within S.W. frontier agency, May 17.
THOMASON, J. G. to be jt. mag. and dep. coll. of Budaon, May 20.
THORNHILL, H. B. to be jt. mag. and dep. coll. of Moorabad.
THORNHILL, M. B. to be jt. mag. and dep. coll. of Hissar, to continue to office as mag. and coll. of Azimgurh, May 20.
TUCKER, R. T. to be civ. and sess. judge of Futtehpore, fr. date of Mr. Smith's permanent appt. to be a judge of the court of Sudder Dewanny and Nizamut Adawlut.
YOUNG, J. H. to be jt. mag. and dep. coll. of Noacolly, to continue to office as coll. of Burdwan, May 26.
YULE, G. U. to office as civ. and sess. judge of Rungpore until further orders, making over charge of his present office of coll. of Dinagpore to W. Le F. Robinson, May 10.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BATTEN, G. H. M. 6 mo. in ext. on m.c.
CRAWFORD, J. H. 2 yrs. on m.c.
FAGAN, C. W. 6 weeks.
GRANT, C. 1 mo. fr. May 29.
JENKINS, A. leave cancelled.
JOHNSTONE, W. 1 mo.
MANSEL, C. G. leave cancelled.
PEARSON, E. S. 6 mos.
PERRY, B. R. 1 mo.
TUCKER, F. 1 mo.
WATSON, W. C. 6 weeks.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

JACKSON, Rev. J. to be a marriage registrar in district of Agra, v. Reid, res. May 16.
LASCELLES, Rev. H. leave cancelled.
ROBINSON, Rev. R. to be a marriage registrar in district of Dacca.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ABERCROMBIE, Brev. maj. W. engrs. permanently app. garrison engr. and civil architect, with effect fr. May 3, in suc. to Lieut. col. H. Fraser; to office as supt. engr. 2nd circle, lower provinces, pending arrival of Lieut. col. Fraser.
APPERLEY, Brev. maj. W. W. 4th L.C. to be dep. superint. of studs.
ARMSTRONG, Lieut. col. 14th N.I. is, at his own request, permitted to resign the adjutancy of that corps, May 8.
BARTLEMAN, Ens. J. doing duty with 42nd L.I. posted to 23rd N.I. at Moorabad, as 3rd ens. May 8.
BARTLETT, Lieut. H. T. 21st N.I. to office as cantonment jt. mag. of Sealcote, in add. to his reg. duties, dur. abs. of Chambers.
BATTINE, Ens. W. A. 43rd L.I. to office as interp. and qr. mr. to 57th N.I.; to be adj. 16th irr. cav. v. Urmston.
BEATSON, Capt. T. F. A. 10th L.C. to act as adj. v. Harrison, proc. on furl.
BREYON, Lieut. W. H. adjt. Kotah cont. to act as 2nd in com. in add. to his own duties, dur. abs. on leave, of Capt. Dennys, or till further orders.
BOILEAU, Ens. T. B. to do duty with 70th N.I. at Umballah, May 19.
BOILEAU, Brev. maj. F. B. art. to be maj. fr. May 17, in suc. to Cantley, ret.
BONHAM, Lieut. J. 2nd batt. art. to do duty with 3rd ditto dur. abs. of Gillespie.
BRADSHAW, Riding-master T. to be lieut. on vet. estab. fr. May 16.
BRIDGES, Ens. O. S. (not arrived) posted to 53rd N.I. at Barrackpore, as 4th ens. May 18.
BROWN, Lieut. G. F. S. to be dept. comm. 2nd class, Saugor and Nerbudda territories, May 20.
BRYCE, 2nd Lieut. J. H. art. to do duty with 1st comp. 2nd batt. with No. 7 battery attached.
BURN, Maj. H. P. 1st N.I. to be supt. of army clothing in Bengal and auditor of clothing accounts, fr. June 1.
BUSHBY, Ens. J. T. 67th N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 17, in suc. to Minchin, ret.
CAMPBELL, Ens. H. 63rd N.I. to be lieut. fr. Feb. 12, in suc. to Woodhouse, dec.
CAMPBELL, Lieut. L. G. A. 53rd N.I. to be adjt. 2nd Assam L.I.
CARNELL, Lieut. W. to be adjt. to 3rd Eur. regt. May 8.
CHALMERS, Ens. W. A. doing duty with 50th, posted to 56th N.I. at Umballah, as 4th ens. May 8.
CLERK, Lieut. E. to be dept. comm. of 2nd class in Saugor and Nerbudda territories, May 20.
COPLAND, Ens. A. to do duty with 50th N.I. at Benares.
COX, Col. H. C. M. 58th N.I. perm. to draw pay and allowances fr. Jullundur or Umballah pay-office dur. stay at Landour.
COX, Ens. W. E. (not arrived) posted to 26th N.L.I. as 4th ens.
CUPPAGE, Cornet B. fr. 1st to 6th L.C.
DANDRIDGE, Lieut. E. 73rd N.I. to act as adj. to the corps dur. abs. of Twycross.

DAVIES, Ens. H. N. 25th N.I. to act. as adj. dur. abs. of Lieut. A. Hunter.
DAVIDSON, 1st Lieut. W. 1st. Eur. fus. to be adj. v. Salusbury, prom.
DE BRETT, Ens. H. doing duty with 50th, posted to 57th N.I. as 4th ens. May 8.
DE KANTZOW, Ens. C. A. on leave, posted to 38th N.I. at Cawnpore, as 3rd ens. May 8.
DICKENS, Capt. C. H. art. to be offic. 1st asst. sec. to mil. board fr. April 1, v. Young, May 19.
DICKEY, Lieut. col. E. J. (on staff emp.), posted to 57th N.I. May 8; to be superint. of studs.
DOWN, Ens. R. W. doing duty with 42nd L.I., posted to 7th N.I. at Berhampore as 4th ens. May 8.
D'OYLY, Lieut. G. F. 67th N.I. to be capt. fr. May 17, in succ. to Minchin, retired.
DRUMMOND, Ens. W. L. P. doing duty with 50th, posted to 38th N.L.I. at Cawnpore, as 4th ens. May 8.
EVANS, 2nd Lieut. H. J. art. to be 1st lieut. fr. May 17, in succ. to Cantley, retired.
GABBETT, Surg. C. 11th N.I. to afford med. aid to 25th N.I. fr. May 1 in add. to his other duties.
GARDNER, Capt. H. C. to act as adjt. to 38th N.L.I. as a special arrangement.
GILLESPIE, Ens. J. 61st N.I. to be lieut. fr. Jan. 29, v. Lieut. T. H. L. Bland, ret.
GLUBB, Lieut. O. M. 37th N.I. to ch. of 3rd tr. 8th irr. cav. proceeding to Rangoon.
GORDON, Lieut. F. D. to be supt. of Jhansi, May 20.
GRAHAM, Ens. G. F. to do duty with 42nd L.I. at Benares.
GRANT, Ens. A. P. doing duty with 33rd, posted to 71st N.I. at Noorpore as 4th ens. May 8.
GREATHEAD, 1st Lieut. W. H. engs. offic. exec. engr. 1st or Dum-dum div. dept. pub. works, is permanently appt. to that situation, with effect fr. May 3, in succ. to Abercrombie.
GRUBB, Lieut. E. A. 24th N.I. to be stat. staff, v. Parsons.
GULLIVER, Lieut. H. W. engs. serv. pl. at disp. of civil eng. in Punjab, for employ. on Baree Doab canal.
HAMILTON, Lieut. J. asst. commy. of ordnance, to ch. of magazine, temp. in room of Capt. G. C. Channer, on m.c.
HEWETT, Ens. J. N. B. to do duty with 50th N.I. at Benares.
HICKEY, Lieut. R. J. F. to be adj. 15th irr. cav. v. Hotham, dec.
HICKIE, Lieut. W. A. G. 2nd in com. 15th irr. cav. to rec. ch. of adjt.'s office.
HICKS, Col. G. C.B. posted to 70th N.I. May 20.
HILL, Brig. W. com. Gwalior conting. rec. ch. of Gwalior pol. agcy. fr. Maj. D. A. Malcolm.
HOLROYD, Ens. W. R. M. on leave, posted to 23rd N.I. at Moradabad, as 4th ens. May 8.
LAURENCE, Col. H. posted to 72nd N.I. May 8.
LEIGH, Capt. R. T. 7th N.I. serv. pl. at disp. of lt. gov. of Bengal.
LINDSAY, Ens. T. E. doing duty 42nd N.L.I. posted to 22nd N.I. at Ferozepore, as 4th ens. May 8.
LOCKWOOD, Cornet, J. C. posted to 5th L.C. at Ferozepore, as 2nd cornet.
LUMSDEN, Brev. capt. H. B. 59th N.I. to be capt. of a comp. fr. Feb. 5, v. Hyslop, ret.
MACDONALD, Ens. W. doing duty with 42nd N.L.I. posted to 25th N.I. at Allahabad, as 4th ens. May 8.
MACDONALD, Ens. D. doing du. with 61st, posted to 25th N.I. at Allahabad, as 3rd ens. May 8.
MANSON, Lieut. col. J. fr. 20th to 21st N.I.
MARTIN, Capt. and brev. maj. W. J. 9th N.I. is permitted to ret. fr. the service of the Company, on pens. of a maj. from June 1, 1854, and to draw his pens. fr. the treasury at Peshawur.
MONEY, 1st Lieut. J. art. to be capt. fr. May 17, in succ. to Cantley, retired.
MONTGOMERIE, Cornet A. W. J. posted to 6th L.C. at Nowgong, as 2nd cornet.
MORTON, Ens. B. W. D. 30th N.I. adjt. 2nd Assam lt. inf. batt. services pl. at disp. of lieut. gov. of Bengal.
MURRAY, Cornet J. M. posted to 6th L.C. at Nowgong as 3rd cornet.
MURRAY, Lieut. J. J. offic. brig. maj. Gwalior cont. to act as pay-mr. also, dur. abs. of Meade, or till further orders.
MYLNE, Ens. C. K. doing duty with 42nd, posted to 35th N.L.I. at Sealkote as 4th ens. May 8.
NOBLE, Ens. H. N. doing du. with 50th, posted to 44th N.I. at Dinapore as 4th ens. May 8.
OLDFIELD, Ens. H. T. 9th N.I. to act as adj. to 16th irreg. cav.
PESTER, Lieut. H. L. 63rd N.I. to be capt. fr. Feb. 12, in suc. to Woodhouse, dec.
PLAYFAIR, Lieut. E. M. com. of art. U. Malwa conting. assumed ch. of du. May 5.
PRENDERGAST, Cornet M. M. posted to 10th L.C. at Peshawur as 2nd cornet.
RANDALL, Ens. W. L. 59th N.I. to be lieut. fr. Feb. 5, v. Hyslop, ret.
ROBERTSON, Ens. R. to do du. with 42nd L.I. at Benares.
ROWECROFT, Ens. F. doing du. with 50th, posted to 2nd N.I. at Futteghur as 4th ens. May 8.
RUTHERFORD, Ens. T. W. 33rd N.I. to ch. of 5th tr. 8th irreg. cav. proc. to Rangoon.

SANDYS, Lieut. col. L. H. fr. 7th to 20th N.I.
 SCOTT, Ens. E. H. 55th N.I. to act as adj. v. R. S. Haig.
 SEPPINGS, Lieut. E. J. 2nd L. C. to act as adj. in add. to his other duties dur. abs. of Warner.
 SMALLEY, Ens. R. T. doing duty with 50th, posted to 41st N.I. at Etawah, as 4th ens. May 8.
 SMITH, Capt. A. S. 2nd in com. 3rd regt. inf. Punjab irr. force, to offic. as com. v. Henderson, on leave.
 STAFFORD, Lieut. J. F. 4th N.I. to offic. as adjt. to 3rd regt. Punjab inf. dur. abs. on leave of Lieut. Paske.
 TAYLOR, Lieut. T. to be adjt. to 14th N.I. v. Armstrong, resigned.
 TEMPLER, Lieut. col. H. posted to 7th N.I. May 20.
 TURTON, Brev. lieut. col. J. art. to be lieut. col. fr. May 17, in suc. to Cauley, ret.
 WAKE, Cornet E. B. posted to 1st L.C. as 2nd cornet.
 WALTERS, Ens. J. S. (not arrived) posted to 1st Eur. Bengal fus. as 8th 2nd lieut. May 8.
 WARNER, Cornet A. C. posted to 7th L.C. at Jullundur, as 2nd cornet.
 WOLLASTON, Capt. C. 8th L.C. to be a dept. supt. of studs.
 WYLD, Capt. W. appt. as offic. cantonment jt. mag. of Sealcote, cand.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE—ARRIVED AT THE DATES SPECIFIED.
 CAVALRY.

WREN, T. S. M. May 15.
 INFANTRY.

ALLEN, A. B. May 15. KEMP, E. F. May 15.
 BIRCH, F. M. May 15. MCQUEEN, J. W. May 15.
 CHALMERS, W. G. May 15. WHEELER, F. May 15.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ARMSTRONG, Lieut. C. 14th N.I. fr. April 26 to June 30, to Bombay prep. to app. for furl. to Europe, on m.c.
 BAINBRIDGE, Ens. F. T. 64th N.I. leave cand.
 BADSEN, Capt. C. B. 61st N.I. fr. June 1 to Sept. 30, to Agra, Gwalior, and Almorah, old regs.
 BIGGS, Lieut. J. A. M. 14th N.I. to April 15, in ext. to remain at Sealkote, on m.c. old regs.
 BLAGRAVE, Lieut. J. W. B. 74th N.I. 4 mo. fr. June 13, to Allyghur, Dhurmsalla, and hills north of Kangra, old regs.
 BLOIS, Maj. T. F. 11th N.I. 2 years to Europe.
 BRISTOW, Capt. E. W. 1st N.I. fr. March 6 to April 12, old regs.
 CARLETON, Capt. H. A. art. fr. May 20 to Oct. 15, to Cashmere.
 CHRISTIE, Brev. lieut. col. J. 3rd L.C. 6 mo. fr. May 1 to hills north of Deyrah, old regs.
 COOKES, 1st Lieut. C. H. h. art. fr. May 1st to Oct. 15, to Cashmere, with sanction of govt. old regs.
 ECKFORD, 2nd Lieut. J. A. H. art. fr. April 3 to Dec. 1, to Simla, on m.c. old regs.
 ELLIS, Lieut. F. J. 58th N.I. 6 mos. fr. May 15, to Cashmere, old regs.
 FANE, Lieut. W. 2nd in com. 1st Punjab irr. cav. 6 mo. fr. May 15, old regs.
 FULLER, Lieut. A. R. 3 mo. fr. June 1, to pres.
 GIRDLESTONE, Lieut. W. B. 67th N.I. fr. Dec. 31 to April 30, to Rangoon and Benares, on m.c. old regs.
 GURNELL, Capt. R. M. inv. est. 6 mo. fr. June 1, to pres. prep. to retiring, old regs.
 HAIG, Lieut. A. S. 55th N.I. 3 mo. fr. May 4, to Bombay prep. to app. for furl. to Europe, on m.c. old regs.
 HONEYFRAY, Ens. M. F. 17th N.I. 6 mo. fr. May 1, to pres. old regs.
 LLOYD, Lieut. G. C. 56th N.I. fr. May 10 to Oct. 15, to Nynees Tal and hills north of Deyrah, old regs.
 MAISTER, Lieut. G. h. art. leave cand.
 MOORE, Lieut. J. 2nd in com. Scinde rifle corps, fr. April 1 to Nov. 30, Murree, on m.c.
 MURRAY, Lieut. C. 70th N.I. 4 mo. fr. May 13, to pres. old regs.
 NICHOLSON, Lieut. L. 4th Seikh local inf. 6 mo. fr. May 1, to Rangoon and Calcutta, old regs.
 PARSON, Ens. Q. D. 8th N.I. fr. April 20 to Oct. 15, to Mussoorie and hills N. of Deyrah, old rules.
 RATTRAY, Capt. J. 2nd N.I. leave cancelled.
 RIDDELL, Capt. T. cantonment jt. mag. of Cawnpore, 3 mos.
 ROBERTSON, Capt. R. 70th N.I. 6 mo. furl. to Europe, new regs.
 RYLEY, Capt. J. S. G. 5th L.C. fr. May 15 to Nov. 15, to Mussoorie and presidency, prep. to apply for furl. to Europe, old rules.
 WALSH, Capt. G. C. 14th N.I. 1 year, fr. March 25, to Darjeeling, on m.c. old regs.
 WILSON, Capt. H. M. 8th N.I. 6 mo. fr. May 9, to Gyah and Ghazepore, old regs.
 WROUGHTON, Capt. F. T. 8th N.I. fr. April 18 to June 1, to remain at Cawnpore, on m.c. old regs.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BROWN, Asst. surg. J. B. S. attached to garrison of Govindghur, is appt. to 13th irr. cav. at Bareilly.
 BUCKLE, Asst. surg. H. B. 15th N.I. to aff. med. aid to 2nd comp. ssp. and min.
 CANTOR, Surg. T. 3rd Eur. regt. to assu. temp. med. ch. of H.M.'s depot and stores at Chinsurah.

DALZEL, Asst. surg. W. F. B. M.D. to med. ch. of 6th inf. Gwalior cont. to join his appt. on being relieved fr. med. ch. of corps of guides, May 19.
 EWART, Asst. surg. J. with a detach. of 40th N.I. to assu. temp. med. ch. of corps.
 HUNTER, Surg. T. C. 46th N.I. to resu. appt. as staff surg.
 JESTON, Asst. surg. R. P. art. to make over med. ch. of depot 1st Eur. Bengal fus. to Asst. surg. T. Turnbull.
 LYELL, Asst. surg. R. M.D. to be civ. asst. surg. of Ghazepore.
 MACLEAN, Asst. surg. L. H. J. of Meerut circ. posted to art. div. at that station.
 MCRAR, Surg. J. 8th L.C. to aff. med. aid to 39th N.I. in add. to his other duties, v. Cunningham.
 PARRY, Vet. surg. R. B. to hold vet. ch. of the Haupper stud.
 PHILIPS, Vet. surg. J. to 3rd L.C. during the period Parry may be in the stud dept.
 RAY, Asst. surg. G. H. 3rd irr. cav. to aff. med. aid to detach. of 5th inf. Scindiah's contingent at Jhansi.
 ROSS, Asst. surg. J. T. C. Murree depôt, to aff. med. to detach. of 66th, or Goorka regt.; to take ch. of civ. med. du. of sanitarium of Murree.
 SKINNER, Asst. surg. G. R. F.R.C.S. att. to gov. gen.'s body guard, passed colloquial exam. April 15.
 THORNTON, Surg. H. J. 1st L.C. to act as med. storekeeper, Cawnpore, in add. to his other duties, v. Bruce, on leave.
 TRESDIDER, Asst. surg. J. N. to offic. as st. surg. at Cawnpore, v. Bruce.
 TUCKER, Asst. surg. S. R. 7th irr. cav. to rec. med. ch. of 5th tr. 1st brig. h. art. fr. C. K. Webb.
 WALLICH, Surg. G. C. 37th N.I. to assume med. ch. of 72nd N.I. v. Wilson.
 WEBB, Asst. surg. C. K. H. art. to proc. to Hazarah, and aff. med. aid to 3rd Seik loc. inf. temp. v. Farquhar, app. to corps of guides.
 WHITE, Asst. surg. A. M.D. to aff. med. aid to 13th N.I. May 8.
 WILSON, Surg. T. W. M.D. to be a presidency surgeon, v. Chapman.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE—ARRIVED AT THE DATE SPECIFIED.

DOPPING, A. B.A. and M.D. May 15.
 HUTCHINSON, R. F. M.D. May 18.
 LAMB, M. B. M.D. May 6.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

GERRARD, Surg. W. R. 25th N.I. 6 mo. fr. May 1, to Fettehghurh, on m.c. old regs.
 GRANT, Asst. surg. G. to be surg. fr. May 16, v. Gerrard, dec.

HER MAJESTY'S FORCES IN THE EAST.

STAFF.

Lieut. C. L. Peel, 52nd ft. to be a.-d.-c. to C.-in-C. in India, v. Halkett; Ens. Lord W. C. M. Scott, 52nd ft. to act as a.-d.-c. to C.-in-C. in India dur. emp. of Staplyton; Maj. gen. W. H. Sewell, to be C.-in-C. of Madras; Maj. G. Talbot, 43rd ft. to be mil. sec.; Lieut. T. L. Mayne, 14th Lt. Drag. to be Persian interp.; Lieut. R. C. Glover, 43rd ft. to be a.-d.-c.; and Lieut. O. Lowry, 96th ft. to be extra a.-d.-c. to Maj. gen. Sewell.

CAVALRY.

9th Lancers. Cornet Payne, to Oct. 31, to Sumla and hills n. of Deyrah, on m.c.

INFANTRY.

8th regt. Lieut. G. Corry, 2 yrs. to England.—10th. Lieut. J. E. H. Taylor, March 31 to Sept. 30, on m.c.—22nd. Brev. maj. Ramsay, 6 mo. to England, on m.c.; Col. Cotton, 4 mo. to Murree.—24th. Lieut. J. T. Tovey, passed exam. incivilengineering; Lieut. C. A. Mouatt, May 1 to Oct. 31, to Murree, on m.c.—52nd. Lieut. C. K. Crosse, to Oct. 15, in ext.; Lieuts. Eteson and Gibbons, to Oct. 5, in ext.; Lieut. W. J. Stopford, to be adj. v. Peel, res.—61st. Lieut. D. Reid, to be adj. v. Burnside, res.—74th. Brev. lieut. col. W. D. Patton, to April 6, 1855, in ext.—75th. Lieut. R. Barter, to do duty at Murree, conval. depôt; Lieut. W. H. Urquhart, 18 mo. to Cape, on m.c.—81st. Lieut. S. S. Bristowe, 6 mo. to Landour, on m.c.—83rd. Capt. J. Kelsall to be major; Lieut. H. D. R. Pigott to be capt.; and Ens. E. Meurant to be lieut. fr. May 7, in suc. to Lloyd, dec.—96th. Major J. Snodgrass, July 12 to Dec. 31, on m.c.; Lieut. G. A. Warburton, to Oct. 25, to Darjeeling.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

APPLEBY, wife of W. d. at Lahore, May 24.
 BELL, Mrs. W. O. d. at Azimgurh, May 21.
 BOGLE, wife of the Rev. W. s. at Sealkote, May 13.
 BROWN, wife of E. S. d. at Burrisaul, May 16.
 CAREY, Mrs. W. H. d. at Roorkee, May 21.
 CLARKE, wife of Lieut. C. M. L. 37th N.I. s. at Calcutta, May 16.
 FERNMAN, wife of W. T. d. at Calcutta, May 12.
 FERNIE, wife of J. A. s. at Calcutta, May 24.
 GEORGE, wife of J. s. at Calcutta, May 18.
 HERRERT, wife of Maj. C. s. at Alipore, May 16.
 JACOBS, Mrs. J. s. at Mirzapore, May 25.
 KENNEDY, wife of Lieut. col. J. D. 5th N.I. d. at Meeran Meer, May 15.

LAZARUS, wife of C. s. at Calcutta, May 16.
MACDONALD, wife of J. B. s. still-born, at Etawah, May 22.
MACDONELL, wife of Capt. A. A. 40th N.I. s. at Mozafferpore, May 11.
MACNAMARA, wife of Dr. F. N. professor of chemistry, s. at Calcutta, May 24.
MACRAE, wife of A. C. M.D. s. at Calcutta, May 19.
MELDRUM, Mrs. d. at Blannys, May 25.
MELISS, wife of T. s. at Purneah, May 16.
MICHAEL, wife of J. H. d. at Calcutta, May 24.
POGSON, the lady of Lieut. J. F. d. at Simla.
PORTER, Mrs. W. d. at Calcutta, May 27.
RICHARDSON, wife of C. R. H.M.'s 61st, s. at Wuzceerabad, May 13.
SHARKEY, the lady of the Rev. J. d. at Peshawur, May 22.
STROVER, wife of Surg. T. R. 69th N.I. s. at Hooshearpore, May 28.
TURNER, wife of Lieut. S. D. 21st N.I. s. at Sealcote, May 23.
YARDON, the lady of A. M. s. at Calcutta, May 27.
VIALLS, wife of Conductor W. s. at Cossipore, May 17.
WOOD, wife of Rev. T. d. at Dum-Dum, May 20.
YOUNG, wife of T. d. at Calcutta, May 18.

MARRIAGES.

GILBERT, G. to Bessy, d. of H. Gilbert, at Calcutta, May 17.
JONES, T. to Miss Alice E. Burnell, at Calcutta, May 23.
MAYES, C. W. to Miss Eliza Tiezler, at Calcutta, May 24.
MINAS, P. A. to Anne, d. of G. M. Gasper, at Calcutta, May 27.
NICHOLSON, Leslie, to Lucy Maria, d. of the late D. Curtaigne, at Rangoon, May 15.
OLDFIELD, R. C. s. to Mary, d. of Maj. F. Angel, at the Cape of Good Hope, March 16.
RICHARDES, Ens. C. 11th N.I. to Augusta H. d. of Lieut. col. Sewell, at Allahabad, May 12.
SMITH, Alfred, to Mary, widow of the late D. Herklots, at Calcutta, May 17.
SUTCLIFFE, J. to Harriet E. d. of the late G. Matvieff, at Howrah, May 24.
SWEENEY, J. C. to Anne M. d. of H. M. Smith, at Calcutta, May 24.
THADDEUS, J. to Miss Catherine O'Toole, at Peshawur, May 13.

DEATHS.

ANDREWS, Capt. W. E. 73rd N.I. at Agra, May 22.
ASHE, Arthur, s. of C. at Calcutta, aged 2, May 27.
BABINGTON, d. of Asst. surg. W. R. at Concanada, April 22.
CAMPBELL, Colin, at Calcutta, aged 52, May 8.
DA COSTA, Lewis, at Calcutta, aged 63, May 20.
FANNING, Frederick, s. of Capt. F. at Damaun, near Surat, aged 3, April 27.
GASPER, inf. s. of A. C. at Calcutta, May 25.
GERBARD, Surg. W. at Putehghurb, May 16.
JANVIER, Hannah A. wife of the Rev. L. at Simla, aged 36, May 5.
LANG, W. G. s. of Maj. at Kishnagur, May 24.
LYNCH, Elizabeth, d. of Quarter-master sergeant, at Moradabad, May 17.
MACRAE, Louisa E. E. wife of C. W. at Calcutta, aged 21, May 27.
MAPLES, W. C. s. at Calcutta, aged 23, May 18.
PAYNE, Arthur M. s. of the late M. at Dhurrumtollab, aged 18, May 21.
PEREIRA, inf. s. of L. at Calcutta, May 20.
RIDDELL, Capt. T. 60th N.I. at Mussorie, May 23.
ROBINSON, Julia, R. d. of the late John, at Calcutta, May 10.
RYDER, Richard D. s. of Lieut. S. C. D. 14th N.I. at Mooltan, aged 1 year, May 19.
SACHITE, C. J. wife of A. at Cossipore, aged 36, May 16.
SLADEN, Lieut. R. C. H.M.'s 98th regt. at Fort William, May 20.
STOKES, Lieut. S. W. S. art. at Arnee, May 21.
THOMPSON, W. at Calcutta, aged 39, May 28.
TROUP, wife of Lieut. col. C. 45th N.I. at Bareilly, aged 26, May 21.
WAKE, Arthur W. s. of Lieut. col. 44th N.I. at Dinapore, aged 17, May 23.
WILSON, F. J. d. of C. M. at Munglepore, aged 1, May 21.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MAY 18. Chandernagore, Gandalia, Pondicherry.—27. Steamer Sesostria, Niblett, from Maulmein.—29. Kate Hastings, Fifield, San Francisco and Singapore; City of Edinburgh, Brown, Glasgow; The Queen, Gray, Sydney; Nusser Musjeed, Fairweather, Mauritius; Mallard, Porteous, Port Phillip; Pantaloon, Bonnyman, Singapore; Erin, Box, Pinang; Arrow, Rogers, Singapore; Fateel Rozack, Andrew, Rangoon; Neptune's Cur, Forbes, New York and San Francisco; Alexander, Baxter, Melbourne; Matchless, Potter, San Francisco and Singapore; Geneva, Dodge, Sydney; America; Kier, Port Phillip.—30. Merlin, Barlace, Liverpool and Melbourne; Julia, Purchase, Bombay and Alleppey; Robt. Pulsford, Gibson, Liverpool; Albert Edward, Partridge, Liverpool; Persia, Roberts, Sydney.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Fatty Sultan.—Mr. and Mrs. Adam, and family.
 Per the Queen (May 20), from SYDNEY.—Mrs. Caddy, and family.
 Per Pantaloon (May 27), from SINGAPORE.—Mr. Wrafter.
 Per Erin.—W. Grant, Esq. and Miss Braine.
 Per Mallard.—Mr. Mackay.

Per Neptune.—Mrs. Forbes.

Per steamer Sesostria (May 27), from Maulmein.—Capt. and Mrs. Cannon, Capt. Neville, Lieut. col. Fraser, Lieut. and Mrs. Heberden, and two children; Lieuts. Glubb, Moreland, and McKellar; Ens. Rutherford, Mr. Duncanson, Mr. Gregory, Mrs. Steven, and Capt. Lewis.
 Per steamer Ganges.—A. Malet, Esq.

DEPARTURES.

MAY 12. Aurora, Ryan, London.—14. Ranee, Campbell, Liverpool; Hebrides, Ferguson, St. Helena and London; Saladin, Myers, St. Helena and London; Cornubia, Ellison, Cape and London.—18. Loodianah, McDonnell, Liverpool; steamer Mauritius, Sceales, Madras, Ceylon, Mauritius, Cape, St. Helena, and London; Joseph Manook, Mackenzie, Maulmain; Matinal, Bone, Algoa Bay.—17. Encas, Wright, Mauritius; steamer Pekin, Grainger, Penang, Singapore, and China; steamer Beattinck, Bouchier, Madras, Ceylon, and Suez.—18. Royal Sovereign, La Croix, London; Augusta, Parrasso, Mauritius; Catherine Apar, Fowler, Mauritius; Emma Colvin, Nicholson, London; Sea Horse, Heron, Liverpool.—19. State of Main, Ford, London.—20. Alliance, Hyssop, London; Athelston, Hickman, Liverpool; steamer Chusan, Down, Singapore and China; steamer Fire Queen, Singapore and China.—21. Camillus, Southern Cross, Paine, Boston.—22. Lotus, Leckie, Boston; Medici, Delamore, Bourbon.—23. Laurie Estelle, Batard, Mauritius; Gem of the Queen, Crosby, Boston.—25. Anne Laing, Wright, Mauritius.—26. Linnet, Barth, Rangoon; Louis Cezard, Chatilain, Havre.—27. Hamilla Mitchell, Bradley, London; Thomas Brocklebank, Morrison, Liverpool; Martaban, Rodock, Liverpool; Ocean Pearl, Sears, Boston.—20. Atiet Rohoman, Sawyer, Mauritius.—31. Steamer Oriental, Madras and Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per screw steamer Mauritius (May 16), to CAPE and LONDON. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Lieut. Combes, Mrs. Combes and infant, Mr. and Mrs. Sandys and two children, Rev. D. F. Wilson, Mrs. D. F. Wilson, Lieut. W. P. Connolly, Mrs. Parbury and infant, Mr. Hooper and infant, M. Richards, Esq. Dr. Murchison, Lieut. F. H. Smith, Rev. C. Bennett. For MADRAS.—Mrs. Fell, Mrs. Mallet, and Mr. and Mrs. Mead. For POINT DE GALE.—Rev. J. S. Spencer.
 Per steamer Oriental for MADRAS.—Capt. Young, Capt. Wapshare, Mrs. Wapshare and 2 children, Mr. T. H. Suter, and Mr. Tardival's child. For GALLE.—Mrs. Durnford. For BOMBAY.—Mr. E. F. Duncanson. For ALEXANDRIA.—Capt. Robertson. For Marseilles.—Mr. Carnegie, Mr. Perrett, and Mrs. Cohen and infant. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Mr. Sevestre and Mr. Weston.
 Per steamer Oriental (May 31), to MADRAS and SUEZ. To POINT DE GALLE.—Mr. Durnford. To BOMBAY.—Mr. E. F. Duncanson. To ALEXANDRIA.—Capt. Robertson, Mr. E. Cohen and child, and Rev. J. Bozalla. To MARSEILLES.—Mr. Carnegie, Mr. Perrett, Mr. Battaille's infant, and Mrs. Cohen and infant. To SOUTHAMPTON.—Mr. Sevestre, Mr. Weston, W. Barker, George Kenny, Joseph Vaughan, John Kennedy, J. J. Allan, W. J. Graham, H. Young, and T. Rangel. To MADRAS.—Mr. T. H. Suter, Capt. Young, Capt. Wapshare, Mrs. Wapshare, child and infant, Mr. P. Cotter, Lieut. Mackellar, Mr. Tardival's child, Mr. J. Lamond, and Mr. D'Arrachy.

COMMERCIAL.

Calcutta, May 30, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.		Sell.	Buy.
Transfer Stock Paper 5 per cent.	prem.	6 0 to 6 2
New Co.'s 5 do.	.. ..	0 8 .. 0 12
Third Sica 4 do.	.. ..	0 6 .. 0 8
New Co.'s 4 do.	.. ..	Par. to 4 as. prem.

BANK SHARES.

Bengal Bank (Co.'s Rs. 4,000)	..	2425 to 2450
Agra Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	700 to 710
N.W. Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	300 to 305

BANK OF BENGAL.

Discount on Government acceptances (3 months)	..	6 per cent.
Do. on private bills and notes	do. ..	4 per cent.
Interest on deposit of Co.'s paper..	.. ..	5 per cent.
Do. on open cash credit accounts	.. ..	5 per cent.
On deposit of Metals, &c.	.. ..	7 per cent.

PRICES OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Sycee Silver	Co.'s Rs. 104 4 to 104 12	} per sa. wt.
China Gold Bars	15 12 .. 16 8
Gold Dust	13 0 .. 13 8
Spanish Dollars	225 12 .. 226 12	} per 100.
Mexican ditto	223 12 .. 224 4
Sovereigns	10 0 .. 10 1	} each.
Madras Gold Mohurs	16 0 .. 16 4
Old Gold Mohurs	20 6 .. 20 8

EXCHANGES.

Six months' sight Bills are 2s. 0½d. to 2s. 0½d. Treasury Bills, at 30 days' sight, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d. Navy Bills, at 3 days' sight, and Bank of England Post Bills at sight, 1s. 11d. to 1s. 11½d.

FREIGHTS.

To London, 7l.; to Liverpool, 7l. 15s. to 8l. 15s.

IMPORTS.—(Calcutta, May 30, 1854).—In imports a fair amount of business has been done. The market for British cotton goods has continued smooth, but the improvement which was expected some time ago has not yet taken place, though some descriptions, especially Grey Goods, have been in good favour with native dealers. Metals have given way a little, the market being better supplied and the holders not so firm as before.

MADRAS. THE NEW GOVERNOR.

Lord Harris is earning for himself golden opinions on all sides, and promises to be no less popular with all classes than was Lord Elphinstone. His habits, though, are more active than those of that nobleman, for each morning, we understand, finds him on his horse at daylight, and he already has, perhaps, seen more of Madras, its environs, and public institutions, than some who have been residents for the last ten years. Sir Thomas Munro, on his arrival as governor in 1820, learning that the officers of certain departments were in the habit of attending office at extraordinarily late hours, made it his business to visit each department in turn; and great was the horror of some of the heads of offices at learning on arrival that the Governor had been there before them. Not a word of reproof was given; in fact, it was quite unnecessary, for the offending parties took good care to attend earlier in future. Lord Harris, too, goes about in the most unostentatious manner; indeed, the natives are astonished at his little regard for state, as they say that "he goes about like any other gentleman." We learn from the Spectator that his lordship paid "a flying visit to Ennore on Wednesday last, for the purpose of seeing the salt stores there, in company with the chief secretary to Government, and the superintendent of the salt department, and astonished the natives not a little, by coming down in a hack vehicle, and making his inspection from a top-boot on the lake."

Our contemporary wishes that his lordship had either gone down or returned by Cochrane's Canal, in order that he might have personally acquainted himself with the present deplorable state of its navigation; he would then have carried home some really practical knowledge of a great public want, which might have led to the early and thorough relief of it. Three or four hours' experience of either ploughing through the mud, or sticking fast in it—which are, for the most part, the alternatives offered to those who essay the passage—could not but have brought home a conviction that he will never derive equally from newspaper articles or engineer reports.

From what we hear, however, Lord Harris is sufficiently well disposed to cause improvement in the state of the navigation of Cochrane's Canal without any such personal annoyance, and as his lordship has the power at once to set about the work, which has been already sanctioned by the Court of Directors, we are very sure that he will do so with promptitude.—United Service Gazette, May 23.

THE LONDON MAIL of April 24th arrived at Madras May 27, en route to Calcutta, per Bombay. The London Mail of May 8 arrived at Madras June 9, en route to Calcutta, per Hindustan. The subsequent Mail of June 8 left Aden for Madras on June 26.

THE TELEGRAPH between Madras and Bangalore is complete.

THE BALL GIVEN BY THE NEW GOVERNOR.—The Spectator observes:—"The ball at the banquetting-hall in celebration of her Majesty's birthday went off with unusual éclat. The front of the building was tastefully illuminated, and the arrangements for the amusement of the evening gave general satisfaction to a very crowded party. Dancing commenced at about half-past nine o'clock, and was kept up with great spirit, allowing for a brief interval spent at the supper-table, till two, notwithstanding that the sea-breeze was exchanged for a sharp land wind. In our monotonous life at Madras novelty becomes attractive, and it was presented on Wednesday under three features: the first, that the ball was on the Queen's birthday, next that it was the first of a new governor's giving, and then that H. H. the Nabob again attended such an entertainment. But what attracted most attention in the proceedings of the evening was a very felicitous speech from Lord Harris, in introducing the toast of her Majesty's health, replete with happy sentiments appropriate to the occasion, in respect both of its object and of his lordship's first so meeting the society of the place. It left a pleasing impression on all who heard it.—Spectator.

THE Government of Madras has appointed Major-Gen. Sewell to be ad interim commander-in-chief of that presidency. The necessity for this step had been produced by the sudden death of General Staveley.

A SALUTE of fifteen guns announced the arrival in cantonment yesterday morning of Major-Gen. Sewell, c.s. provisional commander-in-chief.—Bangalore Herald, May 30.

BREAKING DOWN OF THE ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.—The Spectator remarks:—"From the style of the electric telegraph notification which appeared in the Fort St. George Gazette of the 23rd May, and which appeared in the last Herald, our readers would scarcely understand that the message from the deputy-superintendent, informing the governor of the completion of the line from Madras to Bangalore, had been sent from this station. Such was the case, however. During the storm of wind and rain which passed over the country on Wednesday night, two of the stone pillars, about eighteen miles from Bangalore, fell, one of them breaking the wire in its fall. This accident would prevent any communication along the line up to Saturday, and we have not heard if any message were despatched or received yesterday.

PUBLIC MOVEMENTS OF LORD HARRIS.—Lord Harris is unobtrusively exploring for himself the state of Madras and its nuisances, to the astonishment no doubt of many, upon whom, for the first time, the thought that such is a governor's duty, has dawned.

LORD HARRIS has visited the Commissariat-office without previous notice of his coming, walking through and inspecting the various branches of it; and we doubt not that he found everything in order to his satisfaction, since there is no department better conducted in the presidency.

TRANQUEBAR CANAL.—We have received intelligence of the opening of the Tranquebar canal, by the assistant collector, Mr. Innes, and the engineer, Major Lawford, on the 24th of May, after a short inauguration service by the Rev. Chaplain Taylor.

PUBLIC RECORDS.—The Madras Athenæum announces that the local government has commenced the publication of its records. The first number was issued the day after the departure of Sir Henry Pottinger, and contains Major F. Cotton's report on the Godavery.

MADRAS RAILWAY.—It is reported that Mr. Smalley, the secretary of the Madras Railway, has tendered his resignation. The progress of the railway is most disheartening, owing to causes of every form. They are thus enumerated by the Athenæum:—"There is no machinery, no sleepers—save those of local manufacture, the managers do not pull well together, the coolies are reckless, the soil treacherous, the bridges unworthy of confidence, and nothing in short appertaining to the concern of a satisfactory character, save the guarantee of a dividend under any circumstances. The shareholders have no cause to complain, but the good people of India who furnish the 4½ per cent. may conceive themselves entitled to demand explanation."

CALICUT.—From a correspondent at Calicut we (Athenæum) learn, that although lightning and thunder are of constant occurrence, and the clouds gather in dense masses, no rain of any consequence has fallen, and the heat is said to be intense. He gives a lengthened account of the sad neglect of sanitary measures, and of the apathetic indifference of the powers that be, to the intolerable nuisances which abound in the settlement. From the Bangalore Herald we learn that cholera still continues its ravages in the bazaars there, and, what is a matter of surprise (!), is almost confined to the Mussulman population. It also reports the decrease of the disease throughout the Mysore territory.

A DIFFERENCE has occurred in the Madras council as to the filling up of the vacant seat at the Board of Revenue. The Hon. Mr. Elliott wished to put in Mr. A. Robertson, collector of Vizagapatam, who sat at the board years ago; the Hon. Mr. Thomas was in favour of his own brother, the collector of Coimbatore; while Sir H. C. Montgomery was an advocate for the interests of Mr. Maltby, the collector of South Arcot. Lord Harris has decided that for the present the post shall be filled temporarily by Mr. W. H. Bayley, the secretary,—an indication that the new governor will probably judge for himself.—The Spectator has an article upon the subject of the pending vacancy in the Madras Council, in which it is declared that the Governor cannot legally appoint any other than Sir Vansittart Stonehouse to fill the temporary post. Our contemporary says:—"There is here a provisionally appointed civil servant, whose nomination has never been revoked, and he alone can lawfully be called into council, when an opening takes place. While Mr. Elliott retains his seat, the question lies dormant; but it must be raised, and dealt with, in the event of his vacation. About the law of the case, we feel no doubt whatever. Lord Harris has no option, and the Court of Directors can only keep out Sir Vansittart Stonehouse by formally superseding him, which were an act of injustice which they will hardly perpetrate." There can be no question about the decisive way in which the question is settled by our good brother; but we beg to assure him that he is quite mistaken in his "law." The very point was mooted whilst Mr. Lewin remained in the presidency, and the Court of Directors, in answer to the reference made to them, said, that whilst a suspension remained unrevoked, it was, to all intents and purposes, a positive shelving of the civil servant suspended. Sir Vansittart cannot be nominated, even if the Governor wished to do an unwise thing; and in this case there are none who will deplore the operation of the rule that restrains him.—Athenæum.

HYDERABAD still continues to be the theatre of scenes and disturbances. Salar Jung, the young premier, seems to be adopting vigorous measures to reduce the country into a state of law and order. About 1,900 Arabs, including late dismissals of about 400 men, have been dismissed, and forty lakhs of mortgaged revenue redeemed through his exertions. Other reductions, by curtailing salaries of troops and reducing their numbers, as in the instances of four Patan jemadars, have been besides made, to the amount of five or six lakhs of rupees annually. This is not bad working, and, considering his means and opportunities, very creditable to the minister. A steady persistence in this course may put the government right at last, but it will be some time before good order and a well-regulated government are attained. When Arabs are dismissed the service, the Arab jemadars systematically make room for them in their own bands, by dismissing the Mowullids and Deccannees serving in them. These jemadars have changed their system of letting out their Arabs to individuals, and recent applications on this account have been refused. There appears to be a good intention in all this; but it will certainly evaporate. It is absurd to expect that a powerful military body, acting independently of control, will long maintain order, or decline their opportunities of serving themselves. They are the general creditors, and they will seek to do themselves justice, which they will provide for themselves as men ordinarily do who are judges in their own cases.

MILITARY ON-DUTY.—The Madras papers mention Lieut.-Colonel Anstruther, C.B., as likely to be appointed superintendent of the gunpowder manufactory of that presidency, in succession to Capt. Lavie, gone to England.—Two detachments of recruits for the Hon. Company's service arrived, on the ships Malabar and Lesmoyne; the former on the 25th May, consisting of 1 sapper, 14 artillery, and 123 infantry, under the command of Major Congdon, of the 2nd regt. N.I.; and the latter, on the 26th May, consisting of 20 artillery, and 114 infantry, under the command of Capt. St. Aubyn, 10th regt. N.I. The artillery were marched to the Mount, and the infantry to Poonamallee, there being no barrack accommodation for them at the Mount.

COURT MARTIAL.

LIEUT. WILLIAM HENRY DOWBIGGIN.

Head Quarters, Ootacamund, April 21, 1854.—At an European general court-martial held at Kamptee, on Monday, April 3, 1854, Lieut. W. H. Dowbiggin, of the 6th L.C. was arraigned upon the following charges, viz.:—

First.—For conduct unbecoming the character of an officer and military discipline, in having at Kamptee, on Feb. 12, 1854, stated to Lieut. and Brev. Capt. J. M. MacGregor, who had proceeded to his (Lieut. Dowbiggin's) quarters for the purpose of placing him in arrest, by order of Maj. John Byng, commanding the 6th L.C. "I am sorry for Byng; pray give my compliments to the major, and tell him I shall now bring up everything that has occurred in the regiment regarding myself since I rejoined," or words to that effect—thereby speaking contemptuously and disrespectfully of his commanding officer, the said Maj. Byng, and insinuating that he (Lieut. Dowbiggin) could bring up things that had occurred in the regiment that would be prejudicial to Maj. Byng's character as his commanding officer.

Second.—For scandalous and infamous conduct unbecoming the character of an officer and a gentleman, and to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, in having at the same time and place falsely stated to Lieut. and Brev. Capt. J. M. MacGregor, who was then and there at his (Lieut. Dowbiggin's) quarters, as set forth in the first charge, "I gave the major the option of cancelling the regimental order regarding myself," alluding to the following order, which appeared in regimental orders on Feb. 1, 1854, which was as follows:—

"The commanding officer regrets to observe, that Lieut. Dowbiggin failed to make the usual report to the senior officer at stables yesterday evening, when ample time was afforded him for doing so, such conduct being not only disrespectful, but in direct disobedience of regimental orders. The commanding officer also regrets to be obliged to record in regimental orders his disapproval of Lieut. Dowbiggin's general conduct and deviations from prescribed forms and rules, and trusts that this will be a warning to him; for should there be a recurrence of such conduct, the commanding officer will be obliged to take the most serious measures, as friendly warnings have had no avail." Such statement being false and unfounded.

Finding.—Guilty of conduct unbecoming the character of an officer, and to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, in having at Kamptee, on Feb. 12, 1854, stated to Lieut. and Brev. Capt. MacGregor, who had proceeded to his (Lieut. Dowbiggin's) quarters for the purpose of placing him in arrest by order of Major J. Byng, commanding 6th L.C. "I am sorry for Byng; pray give my compliments to the major, and tell him I shall now bring up everything that has occurred in the regiment regarding myself since I rejoined," or words to that effect, thereby speaking contemptuously and disrespectfully of his commanding officer, the said Major John Byng; but the Court acquits the prisoner of the remainder of the charge.

Not guilty of the second charge.

Sentence.—To be suspended from rank, pay, and allowances for a period of three calendar months.

Kamptee, 6th April, 1854.

Approved: Although the language addressed to Lieut. MacGregor by Lieut. Dowbiggin, on the occasion of his being put in arrest, was highly objectionable, Maj. Byng gave a wider meaning to it than the mere words themselves implied; but having imputed falsehood to Lieut. Dowbiggin in the matter, no alternative was left but to submit that officer's conduct to the ordeal of a court-martial.

The Court by which he was tried has released him of this serious imputation, and in that result the Major-General fully concurs.

Lieut. Dowbiggin having been acquitted of the more serious parts of the charges, the Major-General will refrain from giving effect to the sentence, in the hope that Lieut. Dowbiggin will for the future be more guarded in his language when speaking of his superior officers.

(Signed) WM. SEWELL, Major-General,
Provincial Commander-in-Chief.

Head Quarters, Ootacamund, 20th April, 1854.

Lieut. Dowbiggin will be released from arrest and return to his duty.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

COFLESTON, F. to act as civ. and sess. judge of zillah of Honore.
ELIOTT, D. to be memb. for pres. of Madras of legislative council of India.
FISHER, W. to be a sub-coll. and jt. mag. of Canara.
FRERE, H. civ. and sess. judge zillah of Tellicherry, res. ch. of court, May 20.
HALL, A. to be coll. and mag. of s. div. of Arcot.
HUDDLESTON, W. to be head assist. to coll. and mag. of Chingleput, May 30.
MASTER, C. G. admitted to the service, arrived at Madras Mar. 31.
PRENDERGAST, Thos. to be coll. mag. and agt. to gov. of Fort St. George in Ganjam, May 30.
PURVIS, A. to be coll. and mag. of Rajahmundry, May 30.
RATLIFF, J. to be add. sub-coll. and jt. mag. of Canara, but to continue to act as mag. of Nellore.
ROBINSON, J. D. to act as sub-judge of zillah of Mangalore.
SANDEMAN, A. S. to act as head assist. to coll. and mag. of Malabar, June 2.
SMOLLETT, P. B. to act as coll. and mag. of Chingleput dur. abs. of Cochrane.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.
LEWIN, R. C. 2 months.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

POSNETT, Rev. R. 1 mo.'s leave.
KILVERT, Rev. E. 2 months.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BOULDERSON, Capt. W. L. 25th N.I. perm. to resign app. of fort adj. Trichinopoly, fr. date of rejoining his reg.
BUDD, Lieut. col. M. to be brev. col. fr. May 7.
CAMPBELL, Cornet A. H. E. fr. doing duty 1st L.C. to do duty with 2nd L.C. to join via Bombay.
CAULFIELD, Capt. J. late promotion, posted to 2nd batt. art.
CHURCH, Ens. T. R. 12th N.I. exam. in Hindustani, qual. for general staff, to receive moonshee allowance.
CLERK, Corn. C. 2nd L.C. to be lieut. fr. May 23, v. Russell, prom.
CONGDON, Maj. J. H. B. 2nd N.I. ret. to duty, May 15.
DIGHTON, Lieut. J. H. 30th N.I. to be adj.
ELMS, Lieut. F. 16th N.I. to do duty permanently with sappers and miners, May 13.
FAREWELL, Lieut. W. T. F. 3rd Eur. reg. passed exam. in Telooogo, to receive moonshee allowance.
FORD, Capt. 12th N.I. to be 2nd asst. civ. engr. v. Goddard, May 30.
GARDNER, Capt. R. O. 50th N.I. to act as asst. comm. gen. dur. abs. of Nicholls, May 26.
GILBERTSON, Lieut. C. F. 3rd Eur. regt. relieved fr. doing duty with Eur. inf. depot, perm. to join head qrs. of his corps at Bellary.
GODDARD, 2nd Lieut. J. engrs. to be 1st asst. civil engr. v. Humphreys, May 30.
GRANT, Capt. C. D. asst. comm. in Pegu, assu. ch. of dist. of Sarawak.
GUNNING, Ens. J. C. to do duty with 12th N.I. to join.
HANKIN, Lieut. F. G. 15th N.I. to do duty with the sappers and miners, May 22.
HICKS, Ens. F. J. 3rd L.I. to do duty with 44th N.I. to join under orders from the adjt.-gen. of the army, May 30.
HILL, Brig. W. com. Gwalior contingent, rec. ch. of Gwalior poli. agency fr. Maj. Malcolm.
HODGSON, Lieut. F. G. 39th N.I. to be adj.
LANE, Lieut. T. G. M. 40th N.I. passed exam. in Tamil, qual. as interp. to rec. moonshee allowance.
O'DELL, Lieut. W. 43rd N.I. ret. to duty, arr. at Calcutta May 15.
PHILLIPS, Ens. G. H. 41st N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 15, v. Surtees, dec.
PLAYFAIR, Lieut. E. M. comdt. of art. united Malwa contingent, ass. ch. of duties.
RATHERDON, Capt. A. 28th N.I. is perm. to join his corps, via Bombay.
RUSSELL, Lieut. G. W. 2nd L.C. to be capt. fr. May 23, v. Mackenzie, ret.
SCOTT, Capt. J. D. late prom. posted to 2nd batt. art. May 22.
SCOTT, 2nd Lieut. C. engrs. att. to sappers and miners, services pl. at disp. of Gov. of India, foreign dept. for employ in surveying the line of road from Rangoon to Prome.
ST. AUBYN, Capt. E. P. 10th N.I. to proc. to Poonamallee, and do duty with detach. of recruits at that station, May 26.
SWETE, sen. 2nd Lieut. J. B. to be first lieut. fr. May 24, v. Phillips, dec.
TAPP, Capt. J. H. 23rd L.I. rettd. to duty, arrived at Calcutta.
THOMSON, 2nd Lieut. H. G. fr. 5th to 1st batt. art. May 22.
TRIFE, Capt. L. 12th N.I. rettd. to duty May 31.
TYRRELL, Lieut. F. 18th N.I. placed at disp. of C.-in-C. for duty with his regt. in Pegue, May 23.
WATTS, Lieut. J. P. 27th N.I. to act as dept. asst. comm. gen. dur. emp. of Gardner on other duty, May 26.
WAY, Ens. T. H. 35th N.I. to do duty with the sap. and miners.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT DATES SPECIFIED.

INFANTRY.

GUNNING, J. C. May 31.
HICKS, F. J. May 25.
NICHOLSON, J. S. May 31.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BARCLAY, Lieut. J. S. 39th N.I. fr. June 1 to Aug. 31, to pres. prep. to app. for furl. to Europe, old reg.
BURN, Lieut. and act. adjt. R. C. 53rd N.I. 2 mo. to Rangoon.
CLERK, Lieut. C. 2nd L.C. to Nov. 15.
COODE, Capt. J. P. 35th N.I. leave canc.
CORBETT, Ens. R. J. 38th N.I. 3 days, fr. May 1, in ext. to enable him to join.
ELLIOTT, Lieut. H. M. jun. asst. to Mysore commission, 3 weeks, to Madras.
FOORD, Lieut. col. H. S. art. in ext. fr. May 31 to July 31, to St. Thomas's Mount and Madras.
HAWKINS, Lieut. W. K. 40th N.I. perm. to return to Europe on furl. for 1 yr. without pay, old reg.
HILL, Lieut. engs. 4 mo. prep. to Europe.
LAVIE, Ens. R. C. 3rd L.I. in ext. to Dec. 1, to Madras, on m.c.
MACNEIL, Maj. gen. R. 30 days, fr. May 31, to Bangalore.
MUSGROVE, Lieut. col. J. F. 36th N.I. 6 mo. fr. May 1, to Madras, Eastern Coast, and Bangalore, on m.c.
NOTT, Capt. H. 19th N.I. fr. April 11 to Oct. 31, to Madras and Bangalore, on m.c.
OGILVY, Ens. D. S. 26th N.I. 9 mo. to Europe, ceasing to draw pay fr. date of embarking.
PRESCOTT, Brev. col. W. 4th N.I. leave canc. fr. date of his joining his appt. at Trichinopoly.
SHUBRICK, Maj. R. 5th N.I. reported fit for duty; unexpired portion of leave is canc.
SMART, Capt. G. 21st N.I. leave canc. fr. date of his joining the 43rd N.I.
SMITH, Capt. J. 134th N.I. 18 mo. furl. to Europe, on m.c. old reg.
SUTRES, Lieut. A. S. 41st N.I. 2 yrs. to Europe, on m.c. fr. Calcutta, old reg.
TEMPLE, Capt. J. 12th N.I. 1 mo. fr. June 30, to Madras.
TRIST, Capt. J. H. G. 2nd N.V.B. leave canc.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BALFOUR, Surg. E. G. to be Pers. and Hindoostanee interp. to Govt.
CHOLMELEY, Assist. surg. H. M.D. 1st Madras fus. to med. ch. of the detach. of 25th N.I. at Madras, and to accompany it to Burmah.
SUTLEFF, Assist. surg. R. R. ref. to duty.
VAN SOMEREN, Assist. surg. W. J. to be civ. surg. of Coimbatore, v. Porteus, prom.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

FORSTER, Surg. J. to March 20, in ext.
LESLIE, Assist. surg. W. A. 1 mo. in ext. to remain on the Neilgherries.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BRETT, wife of Maj. J. T. 4th L.C. d. at Ootacamund, May 16.
CARR, wife of Dr. J. K. H.M.'s 25th, s. at Poonamallee, May 31.
DALLAS, wife of Maj. A. R. 1st N.I. s. at Ramandroog, May 5.
GERBARD, wife of Capt. J. Eur. vet. d. at Ootacamund, May 17.
GORDON, wife of Capt. R. 32nd N.I. s. at Kamptee, May 3.
LAWRENCE, wife of John, s. at Bellary, May 16.
M'HEUTCHIN, wife of Lieut. T. M. 19th N.I. s. at Mercara, May 24.
PRIOR, wife of Lieut. G. B. art. s. at St. Thomas's Mount, May 31.
RATLEFF, wife of J. c.s. d. at Nellore, May 18.
SERLE, wife of W. A. s. at Madras, May 25.
STANSFIELD, wife of Lieut. W. 51st N.I. s. at Vellore, May 29.
YALDWYN, wife of Brig. s. at Bellary, May 31.

MARRIAGES.

BUCK, Lieut. L. W. 38th N.I. to Harriet J. d. of Maj. D. Archer, at Waltair, May 19.
KEMPSTER, Capt. F. 6th N.I. to Maria E. d. of G. Jephson, at Ootacamund, May 27.
SLOAN, W. to Laurie C. d. of A. Vanderputt, at Itchapoor, May 22.
WATTS, Capt. W. H. 5th N.I. to Alice Louisa, d. of Maj. Byng, 6th L.C. at Ootacamund.

DEATHS.

BARTLEMAN, J. J. wife of J. L. at Salem, May 30.
BRENNER, wife of Lieut. A. R. 41st N.I. at Kamptee, aged 22, May 21.
BYAM, Lieut. W. T. 7th L.C. at Sangor, May 6.
COCKBURN, Robt. at Suez, June 3.
DALY, Charlotte S. wife of A. P. at Secunderabad, aged 18, May 25.
DRAPER, H. Ellen, d. of W. at General Hospital, June 1.

FORBES, Robt. at Cuddalore, May 19.

FRANCIS, Emma M. inf. d. of Capt. engineers, at Jackattallah, May 27.

MITCHELL, R. H. s. of S. at Madras, aged 18, May 9.

NEWMAN, E. Lucy E. d. of James, near Cuddapah, aged 1, May 21.

ONSLow, 2nd Lieut. G. W. art. at Cape Town, March 8.

ONSLow, Lydia E. d. of Maj. W. C. at sea, on board the Bengal, May 8.

PHILIPPS, 1st Lieut. C. H. art. at Streepermatoor, May 24.

SPENCER, Rev. J. S. at sea, on board the str. Mauritius, May 15.

STONEHEWER, S. C. s. of R. W. at Arcot, aged 7, May 28.

SURTERS, Lieut. A. S. 41st N.I. at sea, on board the str. Mauritius, May 17.

WEDDERBURN, James A. c.s. s. of the late John and the Lady Helou, at Chingleput, May 20.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MAY 20. Screw steamer Mauritius, Seales, Calcutta Sandheads.—22. Alex. John Kerr, Dickson, Calcutta Sandheads.—23. Anna Maria, Anwyl, Adelaide, South Australia.—24. Sea Snake, Gilbert, Port Adelaide; Atalanta, Gibson, Munsoorcottah; Gloriana, Toynbee, Kingston, Jamaica, and Table Bay; Shanghai, Ganton, Port Louis; Heatherbell, Ellis, Mauritius.—25. Malabar, Noaks, London.—26. Leamoyne, King, London Downs.—27. Caroline, Charlton, London.—28. Urgent, Stooke, Aden.—29. Cambodia, Comyn, Port Phillip; Mirzapore, Parker, Port Phillip; Constantine, Rogers, Wellington, New Zealand.—31. Screw steamer Bombay, Paterson, Suez, Aden, and Galle; Amelia, Millard, Mauritius; Benjamin Buck Greene, Gammon, Mauritius; Pekin, Whitley, Mauritius.—JUNE 1. Melaine, Bird, Port Louis.—2. Queen of the Wave, Stook, London; Durnstone, Newton, Adelaide.—8. Steamer Oriental, —, Calcutta.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per screw steamer Mauritius (May 20), from CALCUTTA and SANDHEADS.—For MADRAS.—Mr. and Mrs. Mead, Mrs. Fell, and Mr. E. A. Mottet. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Lieut. Coombs, Mrs. Coombs, and infant; Mr. Sandys, c.s. Mrs. Sandys, and 2 children; Rev. D. F. and Mrs. Wilson, Lieut. W. P. Connolly, Mrs. Parbury and infant, Mrs. Hooper and infant, Mr. Richards, Dr. Munchion, Lieut. F. H. Smith.

Per Alexander John Kerr (May 22), from CALCUTTA.—Capt. Stavers, Mr. Ramsbottom.

Per Atalanta (May 24), from MUNSOORCOTTAH.—Asst. surg. W. H. Bouterflower.

Per Shanghai (May 24), from PORT LOUIS.—Mr. John Gay.

Per Malabar (May 25), from LONDON.—Maj. Congdon, Lieut. Rolleston, Dr. Sutcliffe, m.d.; Capt. Frye and child, Mr. Hicks, Lala Meer, Mesdames Noaks, Frye, Rolleston, Houghton, Tod, Tranter, and Buller; Misses G. Davies and H. Davies.

Per Leamoyne (May 26), from LONDON DOWNS.—Capt. and Mrs. Aabyn, Mr. C. Noaks, Lieut. Hurst, Dr. Morgan.

Per Cambodia (May 29), from PORT PHILLIP.—Mrs. Comyn and child.

Per Samarang (May 30), from SYDNEY.—Mrs. McDonald, Miss Morris, Mr. R. H. James, Mr. C. Black.

Per Constantine (May 30), from WELLINGTON, NEW ZEALAND.—Mrs. Rogers and Dr. Hurst.

Per screw steamer Bombay (May 31), from SUKZ, ADEN, and GALLE.—From SUKZ to MALTA.—Paymaster and Mrs. Pope, Mr. Riera, Asst. surg. Langham, Cassell, and Miller, Depy. asst. comy. gen. Webb, Col. Allan, Mr. L'Amey, Capt. Sunk and Morris, Asst. comy. gen. Edwards, Asst. comy. Routh, Depy. comy. Hawkins, Depy. comy. Foulblanque, Mrs. Foulblanque, infant, and servant, Col. Maule, Lord William Paulet, Gen. Airy and Maj. Airy. From SOUTHAMPTON to MADRAS.—Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Rhenius and child, Mr. and Mrs. Collins, Mr. J. H. Fenwick, Captains Tripe and Diabrome, Lieut. Gough, Mr. J. B. Pharoah, Mr. Masters, Mr. Gunning, Mr. Nicholson, and George Leven. From MARSAILLES to MADRAS.—Mr. A. Claperton. From BOMBAY to MADRAS.—Mr. Walker. From GALLE to MADRAS.—Messrs. Brown, L. Thompson, J. Morris, and J. Keysley. From SOUTHAMPTON to ADEN.—Captain and Mrs. Fearon, Capt. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, Lieut. Hankin, Mrs. Moyle, Mrs. Manger and infant, Mr. Baumbach, Dr. Ward, William Rutherford, Ed. Mark, J. Moore, Thomas Young, J. Head, Mr. Mayer, P. Tickle, A. Villeneuve. From MARSAILLES to ADEN.—Mr. Steven.

From SUKZ to ADEN.—Mr. Honiberger and servant, and Mr. Frere and servant. From SOUTHAMPTON to CYLON.—Mr. and Mrs. Portman and servant, Miss Cohen, and Mr. Robertson. From MARSAILLES to CYLON.

Mr. M. C. Leurin. From SOUTHAMPTON to SINGAPORE.—Mr. and Mrs. Fraser, Miss Ramsom, and John Harris. From GIBRALTAR to SINGAPORE.—Don Francisco Lameyer. From MARSAILLES to SINGAPORE.—Mr. F. A. Pringiers. From SUKZ to SINGAPORE.—W. V. Burries. From SOUTHAMPTON to HONG-KONG.—Mr. Andrews and Mr. O. Simpson. From MALTA to HONG-KONG.—Lieut. Bruce, R.N. From SUKZ to HONG-KONG.

—Mr. O. Schmeltzen. From SOUTHAMPTON to CALCUTTA.—Mr. and Mrs. Palin, Miss Norton, Mr. D. McGill, Mr. Patton, Mr. Repton, Mr. R. Drabble, Mr. Stephenson, Dr. Furnell, Mr. and Mrs. Ward, and Richard Hodge. From BOMBAY to CALCUTTA.—Mr. Young, M. Mahomed and N. Nusha. From GALLE to CALCUTTA.—Mr. J. Morgan, M. Toussaint, Mr. Stork, Mr. Sterling, and L. Vanderbaten.

Per Benjamin Buck Greene (May 31), from MAURITIUS.—Mr. Goubert.

Per Queen of the Wave (June 2), from LONDON.—Mrs. Phillips.

Per steamer Oriental (June 6), for MADRAS.—Capt. Young, Capt. Wapshare, Mrs. Wapshare and 2 children; Mr. T. H. Suter, and Mr. Tardival's child.

DEPARTURES.

—MAY 20.—Per screw steamer Mauritius, Seales, Galle, Mauritius, Cape.

and London.—21. Genegal, Reed, Bimlipatam and London; Thomas Lowry, Dobson, Tranquebar; John Brightman, Graham, Ennore.—22. Teazor, Castor, Rangoon and Moulmein.—23. Gloriana, Toynbee, Calcutta.

—27. Shanghai, Ganton, Calcutta; Heatherbell, Ellis, Calcutta.—28. Jona, Middleton, Calcutta.—30. Mirzapore, Parker, Calcutta; Atalanta, Saudal, Rangoon.—31. Screw steamer Bombay, Paterson, Calcutta.

JUNE 1. Pekin, Whitley, Calcutta; Helen Wallace, Major, Calcutta; Benjamin Buck Greene, Gammon, Calcutta; Cambodia, Comyn, Calcutta; Constantine, Rogers, Calcutta.—3. Samarang, McDonald, Calcutta; Urgent, Stooke, Calcutta.—7. Steamer Oriental, —, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per screw steamer Mauritius (May 20), to GALLE, MAURITIUS, CAPE, and LONDON.—From MADRAS to the CAPE.—Capt. W. Fulton. To LONDON.—Lieut. Humphries, J. D. Hay Hill, Esq. 12th lancers; Maj. Reed, H.M.'s 94th regt.; Mrs. Reed; Capt. A. C. Phillips, 44th N.I.; Mr. Franklin; Capt. Cafe, H.M.'s 94th regt.; Mrs. Cafe; Lieut. Sheaffe, H.M.'s 51st regt.; Master Butler, Capt. Cafe's child and infant, Miss Wilkinson, Capt. R. Benson, 10th N.I. and infant; Lieut. S. W. Peile, 40th N.I.; Rev. Mr. and Mrs. McMillen and 2 children, Lieut. C. G. H. Cooke, 52nd N.I.; Lieut. Knight, H.M.'s 94th regt.; 2 children of Dr. Van Feytonges, and Ens. D. S. Ogilvy.

Per screw steamer Bombay (May 31), to CALCUTTA.—Ens. C. H. Maude, Capt. A. H. M. Chesney, Mrs. Chesney, and Mr. J. Brown.

Per Samarang (June 3).—Capt. W. McDonald.

Per steamer Oriental (June 7), to SURZ.—To SOUTHAMPTON.—Lieut. L. H. Isaac, Capt. D. G. A. Darroch, Maj. G. Singleton, and Capt. E. B. Cooke. To MALTA.—Lieut. Lord E. H. B. Cecil. To BOMBAY.—Capt. A. Ritherdon, Cornet A. H. E. Campbell. From MADRAS to ADEN.—Asst. Apoth. W. H. Yarde.

COMMERCIAL.

Madras, June 6, 1854.

BANK OF MADRAS.

Rates of Interest—on Loans.

On deposit of Government Paper ..... 5 per ct.
On existing cash credit accounts on do. .... 5 do.

RATES OF ADVANCE.

On Government 5 per cent. Stock Receipts ..... 100 per ct.
On 5 per cent. Promissory Notes ..... 98 "
On 4 per cent. do. Sicca and Co.'s ..... 88 "
On Tanjore do. .... 88 "

Discount.

On Government Acceptances ..... 3 per ct.
On Private Bills, at or within 30 days ..... 5 "
Ditto above 30 days ..... 6 "
Investments ..... Rs. 40,45,190 15 4 "
Circulation and Deposits ..... 47,73,608 9 7
Specie in the Bank ..... 36,05,385 14 7

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

4 per cent. loan of 1854 } 3½ to 4 dis.
4 per cent. .. 1832-33 } 1 to 1½ dis.
                                  1835-36 } ½ to 1 dis.
                                  1843 } ½ to 1 dis.
5 per cent. transferable } 5 to 5½ prem.
book debt .. .. }
Tanjore Bonds .. .. } ½ to ¾ dis.
Bank of Madras Shares .. 13 to 13½ prem.

PRICE OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Sovereigns ..... Rs. 10-3-6 to 10-4 each
Bank of England Notes ..... 10-2 to 10-3 each
Spanish Dollars ..... 220 per 100

EXCHANGES.

Bills on England, according to sight, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¾d.
H.M. Treasury Bills, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¾d.
Bank of England Post Bills, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¾d.
Mauritius Government Bills, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¾d.
Ceylon do. 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¾d.
Court of Directors' Bill on the Government of Bengal, 60 days' sight, none.
Calcutta.—Buy, ½ per cent. disct.
                                  Sell, par.
Bombay.—Buy, ½ per cent. disct.
                                  Sell, par.

FREIGHTS.

Quotations to London and Liverpool are 4l. to 4l. 5s. per ton of 20 cwt.

BOMBAY.

CANAL IRRIGATION IN INDIA.

(From the Bombay Times, May 30.)

The gods help those who help themselves; and we rejoice to observe our Indian reformers, after having failed, chiefly through want of support from India, to obtain an improvement of the government, have resolved themselves to endeavour to improve the country. Our readers may have observed notices from time to time of a joint-stock company now being organized in London, for the purpose of cutting canals of irrigation in India, the first of these having, we believe, appeared in the columns of the Bombay Times some sixteen months ago. The matter seems now in such a state of maturation that we are disappointed at not having received prospectuses by the mail just arrived, or seen the names of local agents or office-bearers for the sale of stock advertised. The company proposes to commence its operations in Scinde, where, to the eastward of the Indus and around Hyderabad, there are two millions of acres of eminently fertile land within the reach of the river, and capable of being made beyond conception productive, by the application of a sufficient abundance of fresh water. The value of a watering of 500 cubic yards per acre, equal to a sheet of about four inches, is estimated by Government at one rupee, but the best authorities consider this infinitely too low.

Taking it as it stands as the basis of our estimate, a million of acres selected from the best at command will yield 100,000l. of water-rent alone annually. Colonel Scott states in his report that the natives believe that a canal from Roree would realize six lacs of rupees, and he himself appears to assent to the soundness of this view. He informs us, moreover, that canal excavation can be performed in Scinde for Rs. 40 per 1,000 cubic yards. Now, if we assume the projected canal to be 200 miles in length, ninety feet across, and nine in depth, or a section of ninety square yards, the contents of a mile will be under 160,000 cubic yards, or 640l. per mile, or 128,000l. for the whole length. As the work must be performed by imported labourers, we shall allow double the charge, or 256,000l. Making the most liberal allowance for an expensive head, and sluices for apertures of discharge every half-mile all along the line, for a couple of strong dredging-machines, and every other appurtenance, the total cost will certainly fall very greatly under 400,000l., leaving 100,000l. of the half-million capital proposed to be raised for incidental charges. Flowing at the rate of about a mile an hour, the canal would water above 7,000 acres per day, or above 2,000,000 acres annually. But we have purposely doubled all our charges, while we halved the income for the sake of safety. Water-rent at one rupee an acre for a single watering over a million of acres would afford ten lacs of rupees, or 100,000l. per year of gross returns; and if we take four lacs, or 40,000l., that is, nearly double the Government allowance for the charge of maintenance, we shall still have close on 12 per cent. to divide amongst the shareholders.

Nor let the latter imagine these sums are at all incredible, these are not one farthing higher than Government with their tardy progress and expensive arrangements have, according to their own showing, invariably realized. Such has been the want of confidence created by mismanagement in India, that it is doubtful if the English capitalist will be induced, even on terms so magnificent as these, to come forward, and to meet the difficulty. A guarantee of five per cent. will be obtained from the Court of Directors. To cover the risks of the Court, however, the guarantee will only be asked for our regions, where their own engineers estimate a return of at least seven per cent.; so that the guarantee itself will, in point of fact, never be drawn upon. It is very true that the profits of the company would to a certain extent have accrued to Government, if Government for themselves had been persuaded to undertake the work; but although they have begun to bestir themselves at length, they will realize more by the improvement of the land revenue which the active operations of the company will immediately secure them, than they would under their own sleepy system realize of land and water revenue both put together. Besides, the government of India consists of three separate and independent bodies, perpetually thwarting each other. The Court of Directors sanctioned the Ganges Canal in 1839, and fifteen years elapsed before it was opened. Lord Ellenborough stopped the whole of the works during the second Afghan war, and similar stoppages in any peace improvement may occur at any time in India. The famine of 1837 cost the Madras Government a couple of millions sterling; yet though famines have been known to be of decennial occurrence, and one is now considerably over-due, scarcely anything has been done to remedy or prevent mischiefs equally formidable—mischiefs, the return of which a canal company would in three years' time prevent for ever. Large as seems the guarantee, it cannot on the present occasion be refused, unless the Government are prepared to meet the reproach and the burst of indignation which must follow it, that they will neither improve India themselves nor suffer others to improve it.

THE LONDON MAIL of April 24 arrived at Bombay May 25 (per Queen).

TROOPS TO EGYPT.—A column of Bombay troops, 4,000 strong, is talked of as likely to be sent to Egypt.

THE FORTIFICATIONS AT BOMBAY are to be forthwith strengthened.

MR. PRICE of the civil service has been placed out of employ for having taken the benefit of the Insolvent Act.

THE head-quarters of the army will be removed to Poona on the 12th June.

* COLONEL OUTRAM, under a salute of thirteen guns, arrived at the presidency, from Baroda, the 3rd inst., and is residing at the Byculla Club. The gallant officer takes his departure for Aden by the steamer which leaves to-day.—Telegraph and Courier, June 7.

BOMBAY RAILWAY.—The Bombay journals announce the opening of the railway from Tanna to Callian. The total length of railway, now open in Bombay, is therefore forty-two miles. The opening was celebrated as before, with the usual ceremony, about two hundred guests, among whom was Lord Elphinstone, sitting down to dinner at the terminus. The speeches were of the most ordinary description, but the consulting engineer declared, that no decision had as yet been made as to the route by which to ascend the Ghauts.

TIGER HUNTING.—Captain Raitt of the 16th N.I., during his period of service, has assisted in killing about one hundred and fifty tigers.

THE GOVERNOR OF BOMBAY proceeds to the Deccan about the end of May, and will remain during June and July at Da-poorie, near Poona. He proposes to make a bond-fide tour of inspection above the Ghauts and to Ahmednuggur, in August and September, returning to the presidency in October.

OPERATION OF THE PRESENT LAW OF APPEAL.—The Bombay Times gives the following instance of the operation of our present law of appeal. It is a bona-fide case, which was finally decided in 1853. "No. 2,984 tried before Moonsiff, appealed before the zillah judge, who confirmed the Moonsiff's decree,—reheard on appeal before a single judge in the Sudder,—referred him to a full Court,—again reheard by the said full Court,—referred back to the court of original jurisdiction for retrial, retried accordingly, and re-appealed before the zillah judge, ending in a special appeal again to the Sudder, which, in this instance, affirmed the second decision of the lower court!" Can there be any doubt that the abolition of all process whatever, a positive denial of justice, would be more just than such protracted litigation? It is worse than the English Court of Chancery. There, the suitor at least knows where his case is. Here, the plaintiff is bandied about from court to court, sometimes 300 miles apart.

COURTS MARTIAL.

LIEUTENANT LEWIS BINGLY COMYN, 15TH N.I.

Head Quarters, Mahableswhur, May 12, 1854.—At a European general court martial, assembled at Bombay, on Thursday, April 27, 1854, and of which Lieut.-Col. W. Parlbey, H.M.'s 10th royal hussars is president, Lieut. L. B. Comyn, 15th N.I., was tried on the following charge, viz:—

Charge.—For having at Bombay, on or about March 15, 1854, behaved in a scandalous infamous manner, unbecoming the character of an officer and a gentleman, in having wilfully and knowingly given false testimony on oath before a court martial, on the trial of Lieut.-Col. Gidley, 22nd N.I.

The following extract from the proceedings of the court martial exhibits the examination of Lieut. Comyn, in which his false testimony appears, viz:—

Q. Do you remember an interview at which you, Ens. Wainright, and the Rev. Mr. Watson were present when the occurrence at Col. Gidley's quarters, on the occasion that Ens. Loft was said to be drunk on duty, formed the subject of conversation, and when on reply to a remark from Mr. Watson, that a deviation from the truth in any account you might be called upon to give of those occurrences would be inconsistent with your character as a gentleman, an officer, and a christian, you replied, that rather than give evidence against Col. Gidley, you would resign the service, or words to that effect.

A. Nothing of that kind transpired to the best of my recollection.

Q. Will you state positively that you did not tell Ens. Wainright, that Ens. Loft was so drunk at Col. Gidley's, on the occasion referred to, that you asked and obtained the colonel's permission to take his duty for him, and that you never in your reply to Mr. Watson's remark made use of the expression quoted in the last question, or words to the same effect?

A. I will positively state that I did not do one or the other.

Q. A verbal statement of yours to the contrary, as regards both the points embraced in the last question put to you has been brought to my notice, and you have now an opportunity, if you wish it, of explaining the contradiction, have you any explanation to offer?

A. I state that the verbal statement you have received is incorrect, and I have no recollection of having told Ensign Wainright anything further than what I deposed to the other day before this court-martial, or any one else. (Pp. 207, 208, defence—cross-examination of Lieut. Comyn by the prosecutor.)

The above being in breach of the Articles of War.

Adjutant-General's Office,

Head-Quarters, Mahableswhur, April 19, 1854.

By order of his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief,

H. HANCOCK, Lieutenant-Colonel,
Adjutant-General of the Army.

Finding.—Guilty.

Sentence.—To be cashiered.

(Signed) W. PARLBAY, Lieut.-Col., President.

Approved and confirmed.

(Signed) F. FITZCLARENCE, Lieut.-General,
Com.-in-Chief, Bombay Army.

Head-Quarters, Mahableswhur, May 5, 1854.

The name of Lieutenant Lewis Bingly Comyn is to be struck off the strength of the army, from the date of the publication of this order at Bombay, which is to be reported to the Adjutant-General of the Army.

LIEUTENANT ROBERT LAURIE AND ENSIGN FREDERICK JAMES LOFT, 15TH N.I.

In continuation of the proceedings of the same court-martial, re-assembled at Bombay, on Tuesday, May 2, 1854, Lieut. R. Laurie and Ens. F. J. Loft, both of the 15th regt. N.I., were tried on the following charge:—

Charge.—For having, at Bombay, on or about March 15, 1854, behaved in a scandalous and infamous manner, unbecoming the character of officers and gentlemen, in having, wilfully and knowingly, given false testimony on oath, before a court-martial on the trial of Lieut.-Col. Gidley, 22nd regt. N.I., by stating that Lieut. Comyn, 15th N.I., was "sober," when they saw "him outside the residency gate," on the road to the Durbar, on, or about April 7, 1853, he, Lieut. Comyn, being drunk at that time.

The above being in breach of the articles of war.

Adjutant-General's office,

Head-Quarter's, Mahableswhur, 19th April, 1854.

By order of his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief,

(Signed.) HENRY HANCOCK, Lieut.-Col.
Adj. Gen. of the army.

Finding.—Guilty.

Sentence.—To be cashiered.

(Signed.) W. PARLBAY, Lieut.-Col.,

H.M.'s 10th Royal Hussars, and President.

Approved and Confirmed.

(Signed.) FREDERICK FITZCLARENCE, Lieut.-Col.
Commander-in-Chief Bombay Army.

Head-Quarters, Mahableswhur, 9th May, 1854.

The names of Lieut. Robert Laurie and Ensign Frederick James Loft, are to be struck off the strength of the army from the date of the publication of this order at Bombay, which is to be reported to the Adjutant-General of the army.

ENSIGN GEORGE SCROPE HAMMOND, 15TH N.I.

In continuation of the proceedings of the same court-martial, re-assembled at Bombay, on Thursday 4th May, 1854, Ens. G. S. Hammond, 15th N.I., was tried on the following charge:—

Charge.—For having at Bombay, on or about March 17, 1854, behaved in a scandalous and infamous manner, unbecoming the character of an officer and a gentleman, in having wilfully and knowingly falsely represented on oath before a court-martial, on the trial of Lieut.-Colonel Gidley, 22nd N.I., that Ens. Loft, 15th N.I., was merely in a deep sleep at the dinner party given by the political agent in Cutch, on or about April 7, 1853, whereas Ens. Loft was drunk on that occasion, and Ens. Hammond well knew that he was drunk, he, Ens. Hammond, having on that occasion assisted in removing Ens. Loft from the dinner table, and from the room.

The above being in breach of the articles of war.

Adjutant-General's Office,

Head Quarters, Mahableswhur, 19th April, 1854.

By order of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

(Signed) H. HANCOCK, Lieut.-Colonel,
Adjutant-General of the Army.

Finding.—Guilty.

Sentence.—To be cashiered.

(Signed) W. PARLBAY, Lieut.-Colonel,

H.M.'s 10th Royal Hussars, President.

Approved and confirmed.

(Signed) FREDERICK FITZCLARENCE, Lieut.-Gen.,
Com.-in-C., Bombay Army.

Head-Quarters, Mahableswhur, May 9, 1854.

The name of Ensign George Scrope Hammond, is to be struck off the strength of the army, from the date of the publication of this order at Bombay, which is to be reported to the Adjutant-General of the army.

LIEUT. THOMAS D'EKENNES FRASER, 15TH N.I.

In continuation of the proceedings of the same court-martial, re-assembled at Bombay, on Monday, May 8, 1854, Lieut. T. D'E. Fraser, 12th N.I., was tried on the following charge, viz:—

Charge.—For highly disgraceful conduct, unbecoming the character of an officer and a gentleman, and to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, in having, at Bhooj, in the province of Cutch, on or about Nov. 5, 1853, when giving evidence before a court of inquiry, then and there assembled, stated to the effect, that at the regimental nautch given on the presentation of new colours in April, 1853, all the officers present were perfectly sober, he, Lieut. Fraser, well knowing at the time that such evidence was false, and that Ensigns Loft and Hammond were "intoxicated with liquor" on the occasion referred to in his evidence.

The above being in breach of the articles of war.

Finding.—Guilty.

Sentence.—To be dismissed the Hon. Company's service.

(Signed) W. PARLEY, Lieut.-Col.,
H.M. 10th Royal Hussars, President.

Recommendation to mercy.—The Court having performed a painful but imperative duty, beg leave to recommend most respectfully the prisoner to the merciful consideration of his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

(Signed) W. PARLEY, Lieut. Col.,
H.M.'s 10th Royal Hussars, President.
General Court-Martial.

Approved and confirmed.

(Signed) FREDERICK FITZCLARENCE, Lieut.-Gen.
C-in-C. Bombay Army.

Head-quarters, Mahabeshwar, May 12, 1854.

Remarks by the Commander-in-Chief.—Although I have approved and confirmed the sentence passed upon Lieut. Fraser, I feel that I can, without a compromise of duty, yield to the dictates of mercy, and pardon that officer.

The appeal that has been made in his behalf is entitled to great consideration and respect, as conveying the sentiments of officers of much experience, who, in the performance of a painful duty, have by their decisions vindicated justice and upheld the discipline and honour of the army.

By attending to the present recommendation, I admit my concurrence with the Court in recognising a marked difference between the less aggravated offence of Lieut. Fraser, acknowledged and repented of by him, and the offences of the other officers who have been brought before this court-martial, and, in extending a pardon to that officer, I entertain the hope that the repentance he has manifested is the assurance of a course of irreproachable conduct for the future.

I refrain from offering general observations in respect to the recent trials in the manner of a warning, as it would be wholly out of place my addressing such remarks to an army whose conduct has been most exemplary, and merits my fullest approbation, and which satisfies me that for honourable feeling and high principles it is not surpassed by any other army or service.

Lieut. Thomas D'Egennes Fraser, of the 15th regiment N.I., is to be released from arrest, and directed to return to his duty.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ATKINSON, G. A. to be asst. to the supt. rev. survey and assessment, Rutnagherry, fr. April 10.
CAMERON, C. H. to be asst. judge and sess. judge of Koncan.
DAVIES, C. J. dep. sec. judicial dep. del. over ch. of his office, to H. L. Anderson, May 19; assume ch. of his duties as dep. commr. of customs, salt, and opium, at pres.
ERSKINE, C. J. to be a director of the bank of Bombay, to be a member of the mint committee, to be a member of the committee of management of the Government savings bank; to be a member of board of conservancy, v. Spooner, May 31.
LE GYTT, P. W. judge and sess. judge of Poona, del. over ch. of office to Hon. G. Hobert, May 17.
LIGHTON, D. C. R. to be asst. judge and sess. judge of Poona, and asst. agent for sirdars in the Deccan, May 31.
LLOYD, F. to be senior asst. judge and sess. judge of Surat for detached station of Broach, May 31.
LOCKETT, H. B. to be asst. judge and sess. judge of Ahmednagar, May 31.
MALET, A. to be a member of the Legislative Council of India.
NEAVE, E. D. 2nd asst. mag. at Candeish, vested with the power to inflict corporal punishment.
NEWTON, H. asst. judge and sess. judge of Poona, res. ch. of duties, also of duties of Poona adawlut fr. Hon. G. Hobert, May 20; to be judicial asst. to comm. at Sattara, May 31.

RICHARDSON, A. St. J. judge and sess. judge of Candeish, ass. ch. of app. May 25.
ROSE, J. N. acting coll. of Dharwar, ass. ch. of duties, May 22.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

DAVIDSON, A. F. 15 days in ext.
RICHARDSON, A. St. J. to May 7, in ext.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

JERRIS, Rev. J. J. W. chapl. at Rajkote, 1 mo. leave fr. May 2, to Balacherry.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ANDERSON, Ens. E. R. att. to do du. with 3rd Eur. reg. to join.
ASHBURNER, Capt. W. 3rd L.C. to do du. with the detach. at Poona until further orders to join.
BAINBRIDGE, Lieut. R. 2nd in com. of Sawunt Warree local corps, res. of ch. of duties, May 23.
BAYLY, Lieut. col. R. A. 5th N.L.I. to 20th N.I. May 24.
BENNETT, Ens. J. with 1st Eur. reg. to act as adj. to N. vet. batt. v. Tyrwhitt.
BEVILLE, Lieut. H. to be 2nd in command 1st Belooch batt. v. Mainwaring, to Europe, on m.c. May 29.
COLLIER, Ens. H. C. 21st N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 1, in suc. to Scott, prom.
CRACKLOW, Brig. H. res. com. of garrison at Bombay, fr. May 23, prep. to proc. to Europe.
DAVIDSON, Ens. F. C. 19th N.I. reported fit for duty, to rejoin.
GRANT, Capt. C. T. assumed ch. of the office of superint. of police at Ahmedabad, May 13.
HAGGARD, Lieut. T. T. fr. 3rd to 2nd batt. art.
HALE, Lieut. col. J. 21st N.I. to be a brig. of 2nd cl. on estab. fr. May 23, v. Cracklow, to Europe, to join hd. qrs. at Poona.
HARRIS, Ens. H. W. att. to do du. with 4th N.I. to join.
HARRISON, Ens. C. H. att. to do du. with 3rd N.I. to join.
HEFFERMAN, Lieut. T. vet. estab. rem. fr. appt. as riding mr. of 2nd L.C. and perm. to reside and draw pay at Neilgherries.
HOGGARD, Lieut. T. T. art. to be adj. and qr. mr. to the 2nd batt. v. Cameron, app. to com. light field batt. June 1.
JACKSON, Lieut. col. C. T. posted to 2nd L.C. May 24.
JACKSON, Brev. maj. T. 10th N.I. ret. fr. the serv. on pens. of a maj. fr. May 23.
KERR, Ens. W. A. 24th N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 11, v. Hutchinson, rem. fr. the list of the army.
LESON, Lieut. col. J. S. art. to com. a 2nd class brig. while Lieut. col. Hale is acting as dep. adj. gen. of the army.
LEITH, Capt. R. W. D. 1st Eur. reg. ret. to du. April 15th last.
LESLIE, Ens. G. B. att. to do du. with 4th N.I. to join.
LLOYD, Ens. J. W. att. to do du. with 19th N.I. to join.
LUCAS, Lieut. C. S. de N. fr. Neemuch to Surat, to com. detach. of 2nd co. 3rd. batt. art.
MACKECHNIE, Lieut. R. W. 5th N.L.I. to be capt. fr. May '6, v. Wardell, dec.
MAUDE, Lieut. C. O. rec. ch. of the office of supt. of police, Kaira, from Capt. C. F. Grant, May 12.
MORRIS, Lieut. col. J. E. G. fr. 15th N.I. to 5th N.L.I. May 24; to be brig. of 2nd cl. on estab. v. Lieut. col. Smece, prom.
MORRIS, Ens. G. S. 15th N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 15, v. Comyn, cashiered, passed colloq. exam. May 16.
NICHOLLETS, 2nd lieut. G. 1st Eur. fus. to be adjt. to the 1st Belooch batt. v. Beville, June 1.
OUTRAM, Lieut. col. J. 23rd N.L.I. to be pol. res. and com. at Aden.
PELLEY, Lieut. W. P. 10th N.I. to be cap. fr. May 23, in suc. to Jackson, ret.
PENNEY, Lieut. col. J. fr. 2nd to 1st. L.C. May 24.
RAMSAY, Ens. J. A. 5th N.L.I. to be lieut. fr. May 6, in suc. to Mackechnic, prom.
SAULEZ, Lieut. W. H. fr. Surat to Kolapore, to com. the 5th comp. 3rd batt. art.
SCOTT, Lieut. E. L. 21st N.I. to be capt. fr. May 1, in suc. to Fanning, dec.
SCOTT, Lieut. S. to be an asst. to the supt. rev. survey and assessment, Rutnagherry, fr. April 10.
SHORTT, Lieut. col. J. M. fr. 20th N.I. to 15th N.I. May 24.
SMITH, Lieut. E. W. 1st Eur. reg. to join hd. qu. at Aden.
SOPFIT, Ens. A. 10th N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 23, in suc. to Pelly, prom.
STOCK, Capt. asst. adj. gen. to rec. ch. of office of act. dep. adj. gen. of army fr. Lieut. col. Hale, proc. to Poona.
TAYLOR, Capt. F. F. 3rd L.C. tr. to inv. estab. and perm. to rec. his pay at any station in the pres.
WAINWRIGHT, Ens. M. F. 15th N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 15, v. Laurie, cashiered.
WARDEN, Lieut. A. S. 14th N.I. ret. to du. May 7.
WATKIN, Capt. H. S. 15th N.I. to be line adj. at Bhorj. v. Laurie.
WILKINSON, Lieut. H. E. 1st Eur. regt. to join hd. qu. at Aden.
WILLOUGHBY, Lieut. M. W. 4th N.I. to be 1st. cl. commissariat ag.
WILSON, Ens. A. R. 7th N.I. to be lieut. fr. Jan. 23, v. Bates, dec.

WOOD, Capt. H. H. A. 4th N.I. to be brig. maj. on the establishment, v. Jackson, June 1.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT THE DATES SPECIFIED.

INFANTRY.

HARRIS, H. W. May 7.

LESLIE, G. B. May 7.

LLOYD, J. H. May 7.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BACON, Lieut. E. A. H. 25th N.I. 6 mos. to Europe.
BILLAMORE, Lieut. G. R. 2nd Eur. L.I. June 30, in ext. on m.c.
BOYD, Lieut. M. 11th N.I. to June 30, in ext. on m.c.
CAMPBELL, Capt. E. 3rd Eur. regt. to June 30, in ext. on m.c.
DAVIDSON, Ens. F. C. 19th N.I. to June 30, in ext. on m.c.
DODDS, Lieut. P. 9th N.I. 18 mos. on m.c.
FORD, Lieut. St. C. 3 mos. fr. June 9, to Benares.
GEACH, Capt. 13th N.I. to July 1, on m.c. to Deccan.
GLASSPOOLE, Lieut. R. E. 6th N.I. to June 30, in ext. on m.c.
HARFUR, Lieut. asst. supt. of police, Tanna, 10 days fr. May 15, to pres.
JOHNSON, Lieut. W. T. 6th N.I. 6 mos. to Europe.
JONES, Ens. 16th N.I. to July 1, on m.c. to Sattara.
KULNER, Maj. T. supt. engr. north provs. 1 mo.
LAING, Capt. J. 27th N.I. to June 30, in ext. on m.c.
LECKIE, Capt. J. D. 22nd N.I. to June 30, in ext. on m.c.
MACKINTOSH, Ens. J. E. A. 3rd Eur. regt. to June 30, in ext. on m.c.
MILLS, Ens. W. T. 25th N.I. to June 30, in ext. on m.c.
NAYLOR, Lieut. C. E. 19th N.I. to June 1, in ext.
NEAVE, Lieut. K. 24th N.I. to June 30, in ext. on m.c.
SOPPITT, Lieut. M. J. 12th N.I. 3 years to Europe.
WADDINGTON, Lieut. T. asst. supt. rev. survey, leave canc.
WARDEN, Lieut. A. S. 14th N.I. to June 30, in ext. on m.c.
WESTROFF, Lieut. J. E. fr. May 25 to June 10, to Poona.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BALLINGALL, Asst. surg. to be acting prof. of principles and practice of surgery, and clinical surgery, May 20.
BEATTY, Asst. surg. ass. ch. of duties of civ. surg. at Kurrachee fr. Asst. surg. Cameron.
DAVEY, Asst. surg. W. 17th N.I. to join; to be supt. of vaccination in N. div. of Deccan, v. Haines.
DENT, Asst. surg. R. to be surg. fr. May 10, v. Babington, dec.
HARRISON, Surg. F. to offic. as supt. surg. N. div. dur. abs. of Supt. surg. Scott, on leave, May 27.
IMPEY, Surg. E. 19th N.I. to be st. surg. and dep. med. store-keeper at Poona, v. Babington, dec.
KEITH, Asst. surg. rec. ch. of office of supt. of vaccination, N. Deccan div. fr. Asst. surg. Haines.
LARKINS, Asst. surg. T. R. to be surg. from May 4, v. Gillanders, dec.
PEET, Asst. surg. to be acting prin. of Grant Medical College, and acting prof. of principles of medicine and clinical medicine, May 10.
PELLEY, Asst. surg. S. M. to be an asst. mag. at Nassick, in suc. to Dr. Knap, with ch. of the gaol, May 18.
SILVESTER, Asst. surg. to be act. curator of museum, acting prof. of anatomy and physiology, and acting asst. surg. of Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy Hospital.
STEDMAN, Asst. surg. J. S. passed colloq. exam. May 4.
WARD, Asst. surg. A. V. to be supt. of vaccination in the Concan div. of Asst. surg. Johnstone, May 29.
WARD, Asst. surg. T. W. to med. ch. of 19th N.I. v. Impey.
WINCHESTER, Surg. J. W. to be supt. of Mahabaleshwur, in suc. to Costelloe.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

CLAY, Asst. surg. W. F. 6 mo. to Europe, new reg.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BUTTS, Mids. fr. the Maldiva to the Hastings, May 23.
CHESTER, Mids. fr. the Clive to the Falkland, June 6.
CRAWFORD, Asst. surg. J. to be civ. surg. at Rajcote, v. Clay.
DANIEL, Com. E. W. S. to be master attendant, May 26.
DE BELIN, Mids. fr. the Auckland to the Hastings, May 31.
DELPATE, Lieut. of the Ajdaha, perm. to reside on shore.
FOX, Asst. surg. fr. the Falkland to the Auckland, May 31.
GANE, Asst. surg. fr. the Auckland to the Falkland, May 31.
GIBSON, Purser J. to Nov. 15, to Asheerghur, on m.c.
JAMES, Asst. surg. of the Queen, transf. to the Ajdaha, v. Shephard.
PARKER, Mids. G. C. fr. the Hastings to the Queen, June 3.
PREVOR, Lieut. E. 3 years' furl. to Europe, on m.c.
POWELL, Capt. F. T. to be asst. superintend. May 26.
STIFFE, Mids. fr. the Auckland to the Hastings, May 31.
TWINAM, Lieut. fr. the Ajdaha to the Hastings, May 31.
WARD, Asst. surg. A. to be superintend. of vaccination in the Concan div. is rel. fr. du. in I.N. June 2.
WILLIAMS, Purser H. G. to June 30, to rem. in the Deccan on m.c.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

CLUTTERBUCK, wife of Maj. s. at Kamptee, May 22.
HARE, the lady of Capt. G. 5th N.I. s. at Aurangabad, May 22.
PRICE, wife of Capt. A. 4th N.I. s. at Poona, June 3.
TROT, wife of James, s. at Rutnagerry, May 29.
WALSH, wife of Ens. J. P. B. 1st N.I. at Baroda, May 24.

MARRIAGE.

SCOTT, G. C. S. to Emma M. J. d. of Capt. A. M. Haselwood, 3rd Bombay N.I. at Dajepore, May 25.

DEATHS.

BURTON, Mary E. d. of Capt. at Kotah, aged 13, May 25.
HEREFORD, R. T. at Lower Colaba, aged 36, May 31.
MARQUES, wife of J. F. at Dhoolia, aged 52, May 29.
MURRAY, Lieut. G. G. 3rd Eur. regt. at Panivell, May 23.
PREEDY, L. Mary Anne, inf. d. of Capt. H. W. at Kurrachee, May 15.
PRICE, Augustus, inf. s. of Capt. A. 4th rifles at Poona, June 3.
VIGES, Emily Jane, inf. d. of John, at Dhoolia, aged 1, May 13.
WATKINS, E. L. at Ahmedabad, aged 49, May 18.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MAY 23.—Omega, Potter, Port Phillip; Sea Breeze, Newell, Bushire; Chancellor, Turner, Liverpool; Flying Dragon, Bombay.—24. Steamer Victoria, Menesse, Kurrachee; Rock City, Cubbins, Liverpool.—25. Nith, Spence, Liverpool, Rio de Janeiro, and Table Bay; Mississippie, Vasilit, Cardiff; steamer Queen, Young, Aden.—26. Knight, Robert Bradshaw, Aden; steamer Ajdaha, Barker, Buara, Bushire, Bassadora, and Muscat.—27. Victory, Stephens, Swan River; Flora, Withers, Adelaide; Napoleon, Chatfield, Boston.—28. Juliana, Darby, Calcutta; Bushire Merchant, Woodhouse, Calcutta; Boyne, Saberton, London and Cape; Mahomed Samday, Butler, Mauritius.—29. Cecil, Young, Batavia; Shelomith, Potter, China; Newton, Whitney, Calcutta.—30. Steamer Auckland, Macdonald, Kurrachee; Dudbrook, Mills, London. JUNE 1. Regina, Quinton, Melbourne.—2. Steamer Pottinger, Stead, Hong-Kong, Singapore, Penang, and Galle.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Omega (May 23), from Port Phillip.—Capt. and Mrs. Ashburner, and 6 children; Miss Ashburner.
Per Victoria (May 24), from KURRACHEE.—Lieut. Mackenzie, H.M.'s 88th regt.; Lieut. Tisdall, H.M.'s 83rd; Lieut. E. B. Mellersh, art.; Lieut. and Mrs. 55th B.N.I.
Per Rock City (May 24), from LIVERPOOL.—Capt. W. Goode, H.M.'s 64th regt.; and E. Browne, Esq.
Per Nith (May 24), from Liverpool, &c.—Miss Sarah Parkins.
Per steamer Queen (May 25), from ADEN.—Capt. and Mrs. Fearon, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Moyle, Mrs. Munger and infant, Capt. Simpson, Lieut. Henken, Mr. Baumbach, Mr. Ward, Mr. Steven, H. B. Frere, Esq.; Messrs. Rutherford, Mark, Moore, Young, Head, Tickle, Mager, Honigbezer, and Stiner.
Per Victory, from SWAN RIVER.—Dr. Dodd.
Per Flora, from ADELAIDE.—Miss C. T. Colmer.
Per Juliana, from CALCUTTA.—Lieut. Wilson, detachment 54 men of H.M.'s 78th Highlanders.
Per Shelomith, from CHINA.—Mrs. Potter and child, and Miss Bowser.
Per Auckland, from Kurrachee.—Lieut. Stroyan, Indian Navy; Mr. Acting master Wood, Mr. J. Reid, Robert Windsor, and an engineer apprentice.
Per Regina, from MELBOURNE.—Mrs. Quinton, and Mr. Butcher.
Per P. and O. Company's steamer Pottinger (June 2), from HONG-KONG, SINGAPORE, PENANG, and GALLE.—Mr. Yuill, Mr. Miller, Mr. Johnstone, and Mrs. Miller.

DEPARTURES.

MAY 23. Indiana, Malcolm, Canton; Cooma Luxmy, Pulling, Colombo; Sophia, William, Malabar Coast.—23. Maple Leaf, James Peter, Liverpool; steamer Victoria, Adams, Suez; America, Perrie, Liverpool.—25. Puttay Moombaruck, Wadge, Canton; Khusravie, Short, Siam and Singapore; Gauntlett, Inglis, Canton.—26. John Gardner, Pendleton, Calcutta and Boston; steamer Bombay, Bays, Kurrachee.—27. Sultana, Rice, Calcutta and Mauritius.—29. Result, Cow, to China; Asia, Howes, China; Typhoon, Bell, London; City of Palaces, Palmer, Mauritius.—JUNE 1. Steamer Cadiz, Roberts, Galle, Penang, Singapore, and Hong-Kong.—7. Steamer Ajdaha, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per John Gardner, to CALCUTTA and BOSTON.—Mr. Richardson, Mr. William Boate, and 13 natives.
Per Bombay (May 25), to KURRACHEE.—Brig. Smee, Dr. Liabos, Lieut. H. Berthon, and 50 deck.
Per Typhoon (May 29), to LONDON.—Mrs. Vaughan, Mrs. Hicks, and Lieut. Mead.
Per Cadiz (June 1), to GALLE, &c. For CALCUTTA.—Lieut. col. Have-lock. For Port Phillip.—Mrs. Taylor and 2 children; Mr. Jamsetjee Sorabjee. For SUEZ.—Maj. Blois. For Hong-Kong.—Mr. Corrigan, Mr. A. Donaldson, Mr. Muncherjee Pestonjee.
Per steamer Ajdaha (June 7), to ADEN.—Col. J. Outram, C.B.; and Lieut. J. K. D. Mackenzie, H.M.'s 88th regt.

COMMERCIAL.

Bombay, June 7, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

5 per cent. transfer loan ..	Rs. 110 for Nos. regist.
4 Do. do. 1832-33 ..	for trans. p. 100 Sa.
4 Do. do. 1835-36 ..	Rs. 104 p. 100 Sa.
4 Do. do. 1842-43 ..	Rs. 99 p. 100 Co.
	Rs. 99 do.

PRICES OF BULLION.

Sovereigns, each .....	Rs. 10-3	noml.
Bank of England Notes, per £.....	10½	noml.
Spanish Dollars, per 100 .....	240
German Crowns .....	222
Sycee Silver, per 100 tolas .....	104½	to 104¾
Gold Leaf, per tola, range of quality .....	16	5-16ths
Gold Ingots, according to touch, per tola ....	15¾

BANK SHARES.

Bombay Bank.....	Rs. 1,000 each	1,000	pd. up 32	p. ct. pm. sales
Oriental Bank.....	250 each	250	do.	Closed.
Commercial Bank ..	1,000 each	500	do.	2½
Agra Bank .....	500 each	500	do.	45 noml.
Bank of Madras.....	1,000 each	1,000	do.	19 p. ct. pm.
Apollo Press Com....	12,500 each	12,000	do.	20,000
Colaba Press Com....	7,000 each	7,000	do.	5,500
Bombay S. N. Com. ..	510 each	400	do.	58 p. ct. dis.

EXCHANGES.

On London—nt
6 months' sight, per rupee, 2s. 1½ to 2s. 1	3-16ths. For doc. bills.
6 .. .. .	2s. 0½d. to 2s. 0-15. For cred. bills.
On Calcutta at 60 days' sight, per 100....	98
..... 30 days' sight .....	98½
..... at sight .....	99
On China at 60 days' sight.....	Rs. 240

FREIGHTS.

Our quotations are, to London, 4l. to 4l. 15s.; and Liverpool 4l. 2s. 6d. to 4l. 5s.; China, per candy, Rs. 18 to 19.

IMPORTS.—(Bombay, June 6, 1854).—Few or no transactions of any kind in the general market have taken place during the past fortnight. The season may now be considered as closed, and it is impossible to give any quotations with correctness, as the rates on almost all descriptions of manufacture must be regarded as nominal. The stocks in hand of all goods are heavy, and more than sufficient to meet all probable demands, which for the next three months must be local.

CEYLON.

THE LONDON MAIL of April 24, en route to China, left Point de Galle May 28 (per Singapore), and the Cadiz left June 10, with the London Mail of May 8 for China.

DHULLEEP SINGH.—Now that Dhulleep Singh has taken his departure for England, we cannot help giving expression to our hope that the Government of India has taken measures to prevent his being made an exhibition in London, more particularly a religious exhibition. Considering that this young boy has professed Christianity, and also considering that his profession has been somewhat ostentatiously paraded at various churches in Calcutta, we take the liberty of expressing an opinion publicly, which few, perhaps, would express viva voce to the Governor-General, but which has been very generally expressed in Calcutta, viz., that it will be a great error if those who have the charge of this youthful prince are permitted to exhibit him in London as a star to attract the gaping public at religious demonstrations. The boy himself can have no taste for such notoriety; and we cannot help reminding those who would look with favour upon his being thus paraded, that he is a mere boy, and his consistency of character, as well as sincerity of feeling, have yet to be tested; and it would, in our esteem, be to the last degree lamentable for enthusiastic people to make a show of a youth in whom it is utterly impossible they can yet place any grounded confidence or reliance. The object which the Government has in sending Dhulleep Singh to England is of course to improve and expand his mind. It would indeed be a bad beginning to carry him away from this laudable purpose by making him a travelling show, and allowing him to be lionized in such a manner as Jung Bahadoor was. It would, however, be doubly injurious to his mind if he found himself hawked about as a religious spectacle, and were thus taught to think more highly of himself than he ought to think; for of course all sobriety of mind would suffer amidst the glare, and gas-lights, and oceans of laudatory verbiage which platform orators would pour forth without measure upon this Indian phenomenon. To provide against this appears to us to be the duty of Government, which stands essentially in loco parentis to this youth at present. —Abridged from Bengal Hurkaru.

* * * Should any delay or irregularity occur in supplying this paper, a communication of the fact to the Publishers will insure a remedy.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL,

LONDON,

TUESDAY, July 18, 1854.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE PUNJAB.

In pursuing our course through the interesting report on this subject, we come to the head of penal law. So much nonsense has been written on this subject, that we are almost surprised to find the reporters writing on it with moderation and calmness. For the most part men form most absurd conceptions as to what penal law can accomplish. If they had a ferocious animal who broke his chain, they would naturally go to a smith, and instruct him to make a stronger chain which should hold the savage beast fast. So when the law fails to restrain the practical development of the evil passions of man, some great law-smith, who, by the public voice or his own, has reached the top of the trade, is called upon, or calls upon himself, to fabricate instruments which shall remedy the defects of previous laws, and bind fast those whom those laws could not hold. It is assumed that laws may be so framed that all men will obey them,—a doctrine contradicted by the entire stream of history. The state of both public and private morals is affected by many circumstances besides the condition of the law; and he who believes that by mere legislation he can put down crime, should go and seek another planet for the exercise of his skill—he is not fit for this. The administrators of the Punjab are not of this class; and the good sense which marks their statements on penal law is perhaps the cause of their affording little scope for remark. Due respect is paid to public feeling; but this is seldom allowed to interfere with a just view of the character of atrocious and unmistakable crime. Infanticide, perhaps, is scarcely treated as it deserves; and though it must not be denied that the subject is attended by difficulty, we should have been happy to have found at least a more decided tone of denunciation. Another crime of deep dye—conjugal infidelity—is dealt with severely, severity being called for by the feelings of the people, and by the necessity of providing against deeds of violence and blood, to which the impunity of the offender would assuredly lead, no less than by the flagrant enormity of the offence itself. Much has been lately written on the custom in this country, said, though falsely, to be peculiar to it, of mulcting one of the offenders in pecuniary damages. This is not the place to discuss the propriety of our law; but most persons will be surprised to learn that, in so primitive a state of society as exists in the Punjab, “the injured husband may recover by civil action the sums expended in the dowry and wedding ceremonies.”

In treating of penal law, prison discipline naturally finds a place. The subject is introduced by the following ominous sentence, which to us, however, afforded no surprise:—“The perfection of prison discipline being mainly dependent on the construction of good gaols, is necessarily a work of time; and on the first establishment of our rule in a new country, its attainment has been retarded by many inevitable disadvantages." This is not more than might be expected. When honest men engage in a search for "the perfection of prison discipline," such a confession as the above is always to be looked for. The discovery of a perfect system of prison discipline, or even of a tolerably good one, is the most hopeless of all hopeless things. Compared with the search for it, that of the alchemist was rationality itself. We have had as many varieties of it as of the outward aspect of prisons, of which we in this country possess so curious a collection, ranging from the frowning fortification at Millbank,—built, one might almost suspect, for the sole and very uncourteous purpose of annoying the Archbishop of Canterbury,—to the dandified erections at Reading and Holloway. On the subject of prison discipline (for we must escape from bricks and mortar and stone and stucco as best we may), we find some excellent observations in the Friend of India of the 10th November last. The writer says:—

"For the last four generations, statesmen and philanthropists, the press and the public, have been hunting for a principle upon which to reform the internal management of the prisons, and they certainly do not appear to have as yet succeeded. The original idea everywhere seems to have been that prisons were simply places of confinement. Society was to be rid of the presence of the criminal for a certain specified time, and so long as he did not break loose, the object was considered attained. Whether he rotted in a dungeon as terrible as anything ever told of priestly cruelty, or lived in luxury by bribing his keepers, whether he left the prison a wiser if not a better man, or returned an adept in every crime, mattered nothing. He was in prison, and society for the time was exempt from his depredations. The revelations of John Howard broke up this happy complacency. Humanity was terrified at the cruelties it had permitted to exist, and in England there was a violent reaction. The theory that punishment was intended for the reformation of criminals was eagerly embraced, and between sentimentalism and genuine philanthropy, the prisons were 'reformed' till they reached the point denounced by Dickens and Carlyle. The criminal was better fed, better clothed, and less worked, than he who had remained honest."

After a remark on education, in which we cannot coincide, and on religious instruction, which is inapplicable to India, the Friend thus proceeds:—

"All the resources of science were exhausted to preserve his (the criminal's) health, and a classification introduced so minute as to include shades of crime perceptible only to those who, like French juries, consider the cause of the crime its 'extenuating circumstance.' Then came the second reaction. The prison was to be made a place of punishment. The convict was to work, and to work at useless labour; and this, with variations, is the stage we have reached at present. Its result is the revelation of the atrocities of Birmingham gaol,—of prisoners habitually tortured and boys literally worked to death."

Here a passing observation on the state of Indian prisons occurs, after which the Friend lays down the sound principle on which penal restraint is, or ought to be based, and on which it must be defended.

"The idea which seems to occupy the minds of all theorists, which lies at the bottom of the opposition to capital punishments, and which seems to have influenced the reformers of the North-West Provinces, is that prison discipline should be calculated to reform the prisoner. With all respect for those who entertain this humane theory, we submit that this is only a subsidiary object. The first and last purpose of imprisonment, as of all other penal arrangements, is the protection of society. Whether any idea of retribution, or what Carlyle denominates the vengeance of right on wrong, can be entertained by statesmen, may be left to philosophers. This is the practical end, and to effect this we must act upon the fears of the criminal population."

We should feel pity for the man who cannot appreciate the vigorous common sense displayed in the above extracts from the Friend of India. The proper end of punishment is the protection of society. Charity may induce us to seek the reformation of the criminal, but it must not be gratified at the expense of justice,—the honest must not be sacrificed to the dishonest. The question whether the idea of retribution can be permitted to mingle with legislative or judicial dealing, we are willing, for the present at least, to leave to philosophers, as suggested by the Friend; but we are quite sure that something might be said in favour of the affirmative side. But here we may be permitted to observe, that though the second reaction above adverted to has undoubtedly taken place, and brutal tyranny, oppression, and cruelty have in a great degree superseded the maudlin sympathy which regarded criminals almost as objects of admiration, the latter is not entirely extinct, or nearly extinct. It is held even among statesmen so called, that a short seclusion from temptation will make a man honest for ever; and thus we are blessed with the ticket-of-leave system, turning loose upon us to-day those whom it was found necessary to shut up yesterday. Every one has read the letter in the Times from the Bow Street reporter of that paper, showing how persons are selected for the indulgence, how easily it is obtained by a little hypocrisy, though of so awful a character that, in every well-regulated mind, and even in many which cannot aspire to this praise, it must excite a shudder. A writer in a periodical published so long ago as 1739, is very severe on what he calls "Gaol-bird sacraments and Newgate communions." What would he have said to the condition under which a ticket-of-leave is purchaseable, had it been the custom in his day to grant such tickets? But passing from such a profanation of the most solemn of Christian ordinances (and we are glad to pass from it), we may find enough in other quarters to show that sympathy with rogues, and indifference to the claims of honesty, are not among the "by-gones." In the Times of the date at which we are writing (July 15th), we find a report of a debate carried on by the sage citizens who represent their fellows in the Common Council of London, wherein one of the members is represented to have made an assertion on which it might have been thought no man living would have had the hardihood to venture. The motion under discussion was for a grant of money to a reforming institution, and a gentleman affirmed that "many of the poor children whose reformation was contemplated, were actually ignorant that they had acted criminally, until they were locked up in prison for the violation of the law." This is too much. As if it were possible that in this country any one, however uninstructed, could be ignorant that certain acts,—pilfering and stealing, for instance,—were prohibited. Did these children never see a constable? Did they never run away from such a functionary? Why their flight? Did they pursue their avocation as calmly and fearlessly as an apprentice or an errand-boy pursues his? To say that such children are entitled to commiseration because they were exposed to temptations which those more happily placed never knew,—that utter destitution and bitter want drove them to crime, is something to the purpose; but to say that any one of them, when he picked a pocket, believed that he was in the exercise of a lawful occupation, is a dose which none but a professional philanthropist, whose moral taste and perception have been destroyed by unnatural stimulants, can swallow. The youthful thief would not be able to argue questions on the ground, nature, and extent of moral obligation with Grotius or Puffendorf, with South, Barrow, or Butler; but he knows that dishonesty is wrong. When charged with an offence, does he plead ignorance of the criminality of theft? Not at all—he says he did not commit it; thus acknowledging the act to be wrong, and that he knows it to be so. We have referred to the Times' report for the stuff we have quoted. In another paper, the Illustrated London News, also dated 15th July, we find the following biting analysis of the report of an institution called the "Metropolitan Industrial Reformatory," over which a popular nobleman presides:—"Examining this return [that made in the report], it resolves itself into the following results:—That of 100 interesting sinners of various ages admitted in the course of the year, 40 had 'left whilst on probation' (left for what we need hardly ask), or been 'dismissed as insincere;' and that of the remaining 60, 24 had been got rid of among their friends, other reformatory institutions, or in situations;* leaving 36 still to be dealt with. In a word, 40 per cent. of his lordship's protégés have turned out failures at starting; the remainder being treated with various but still problematical success, at a cost annually of 2,000*l.* in round numbers, or an average of 33*l.* per head. A hard-working farm-labourer in the country considers himself lucky in earning ten shillings a week, wherewith to keep a wife and family. Why should he toil for this pittance, when here are a body of benevolent gentlemen ready to spend 12*s.* 6*d.* per week a head upon him, and reform him into the bargain?" Perhaps some newspaper readers recollect the attempts to get up sympathy for a man named Levi Something, who was hanged a few years since for the atrocious murder of a clergyman in Hampshire, and who it was said at one period of his career had applied as a penitent for admission to a reforming institution; his penitence, however, did not afterwards restrain him from committing a cold-blooded murder.

But we must return to the Report from which we have been led into such a long digression. An account is given of the Punjab prisons, from which it appears that disease and mortality have prevailed in them to an alarming extent. Into the causes of this we shall not inquire, for the Board of Commissioners appear to have been unable to ascertain them. One avowal we must quote, for the purpose of recording our dissent. It is the following:—"The Board are favourable to the principle of solitary confinement." Without placing our opinion in competition with that of administrators so painstaking and generally so successful, we must say that our view is different; we regard solitary confinement as one of the most powerful and fatal instruments ever devised for enfeebling a man's body and destroying his mind.

Here for the present we are compelled to stop. There is much more which we are anxious to notice, but we have used all the space which we can spare.

RETENTION OF RANK BY INDIAN OFFICERS OUT OF INDIA.

Our readers will have seen in the daily papers a memorial from Lieut.-Colonel Tucker, of the Bengal service, praying that the rank of Indian officers may no longer be merely local. General opinion awards them everywhere the position which they enjoy in India, and justice and policy alike require that law should recognise the claims at present sanctioned only by courtesy. The Court of Directors have no power in the case, and to a question on the subject put to the President of the Board in the House of Commons, Sir Charles Wood made the only answer that could be given—that he could not decide the matter. It is a question for the entire Cabinet, not for any individual member of it. We trust that the movement which has been commenced will be persevered with, but temperately, and in a manner exempt from everything that can give offence in any quarter. The advocates of a good cause often injure it by unnecessary warmth. The officers of the Indian army have an excellent cause, in the prosecution of which, unrelaxed effort, combined with discretion, and marked by abstinence from all irritating topics, and from all approach to what is too well known by the term "agitation," must insure ultimate success.

INDIAN NAVY—PURSERS AND CAPTAINS' CLERKS.

THE number of pursers and captains' clerks in the Indian navy having been found insufficient for the wants of the service, the Court of Directors have determined to increase it. In regard to the former, the increase will consist of six; to the latter twelve will be added; making the entire number of pursers twenty, and that of captains' clerks twenty-four. The Government of Bombay will make arrangements for the requisite promotions to the rank of purser, and that class of officers will henceforward receive commissions instead of being appointed by warrant as heretofore. The captains' clerks will be appointed from home as usual.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, JULY 3.

THE GOVERNMENT OF SCINDE.

Mr. J. Phillimore asked the President of the India Board whether he would lay on the table of the house the report of Mr. Pringle on Scinde, in which he refuted the charges brought against Sir C. Napier by the Board of Administration of the Punjab.

Sir C. Wood said he had made inquiry for such a report; but could not find it; but if the hon. gentleman would properly describe the report, by giving its date, there would be no objection to its being produced.

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY.—CONSULS.

On the vote of 148,033*l.* for the consuls abroad,

Mr. H. D. Seymour inquired whether the consuls in China were allowed to trade. If they were, there would be a strong interest in siding with the rebels. In alluding to the recent attack on Shanghai, he said that if we went on as we had been going, we must end by an occupation of the country.

Lord Palmerston said that the Chinese had encroached on the ground set apart for British subjects, and had committed such acts of violence that it was necessary to use violence against them; but so far from our proceedings having the slightest tendency to disturb the amicable relations between the British Government and the Chinese empire, we had acted with the greatest forbearance. Abundant cause for a rupture between the two Governments had existed almost since the conclusion of the last war. There was hardly a single engagement in the treaty of Nankin which the Chinese had not broken.

Mr. Gregson believed it would not be long before we should have to take more determined measures to compel the Chinese to adhere to their treaties.

JULY 6.

INDIAN BUDGET.

In answer to a question from Capt. Bellew,

Sir C. Wood stated that it was his intention to make his financial statement relative to India on Monday, the 24th instant.

JULY 11.

TENURE OF LAND AT MADRAS.

Mr. Blackett, in rising to move for an address for the appointment of a commission to proceed to India to inquire into the tenure of land in the presidency of Madras, said he believed he could show, on official authority, that the present system adopted with regard to the tenure of land tended to prevent the accumulation of property, to precipitate the decline of the Indian population, and to render it difficult to establish anything like a healthy and stable civilization in British India. The House was aware that the tenure of land was different in different portions of India. At Bengal they paid a fixed sum to the Treasury; in the North-Western Provinces the village system was in operation; in Bombay the semindarry system, and at Madras the ryotwarry. In his opinion, the Indian Government, by the ryotwar system, attempted a task which would be difficult to the most favourably-situated government in the world—namely, that of acting, not nominally, but in deed, as landlords of their whole territory, and of placing a money rent upon every field within their vast dominions. The principle upon which the rent was fixed was this—the quality of the ground was estimated, and the probable per-centage of the gross produce of the soil was commuted into a money rent, at the market prices of the day, and such rent was then saddled on the land for ever. He thought this was a great misfortune, for at the time to which he referred many circumstances combined to render the market prices of India unusually high. Ever since that period prices had been steadily falling, while the ryots were called upon to pay an assessment calculated upon the high rate of prices which prevailed sixty years ago. He was quite aware of the difficulties which impeded the introduction of a better system, but the evils of the existing state of things were so great, that, whatever the difficulties might be, it was the duty of the House to take measures for overcoming them, and for placing the tenure of land in India—and especially in Madras—upon a sound and just basis.

* The number provided with situations being only eleven.

Mr. Lowe said, his hon. friend seemed to think that he had nothing to do but to state a case against the present way in which the land revenue was collected in Madras in order to entitle him to ask the House to take the strong and unnecessary course of addressing her Majesty to send out a commission of Englishmen to India to inquire into the matter. It appeared to him that the hon. gentleman had by no means made out so strong a case as to justify any such course. Nothing but the strongest and clearest necessity should induce the House to sanction any course by which the authority of the Indian Government should appear, in the eyes of its subjects, to be superseded by an authority checking and controlling it from without. The resolution purported to refer to the appointment of a commission of inquiry into the tenure of land in Madras. The hon. gentleman had said a great deal about the collection of revenue, but as to the tenure of land he had said nothing which he (Mr. Lowe) could hear, except in almost the last sentence of his speech, in which he spoke of allowing the ryots to redeem their rents and thus become proprietors of the land. Now, if this were the object of his hon. friend, he confessed he did not think it would be worth while to send out a commission merely to inquire whether or not the ryots ought to be allowed to redeem their rents. These persons were described by his hon. friend as trembling between indigence and starvation, and at the same time, in order to give the commission a subject on which to report, they were to suppose these miserable creatures to be in a condition to redeem their rents, and to become owners and proprietors of the soil. Nothing in his opinion could be more objectionable than to send persons to India on a crusade against the ryotwar system; because he was prepared to prove that they must continue this system in Madras, without denying one single objection which had been urged against it by his hon. friend. The abuses which had been pointed out were no part of the system itself; they were only evils which grew out of it, and remedies for those evils might be applied. His hon. friend was afraid that nothing would be done by the Government; but he entreated him to believe that the Government did feel the grave responsibility which pressed upon them in this matter, and he did trust that the result of a few years would be to show that they were able to redress all the practical grievances complained of, without interference with the system which formed the basis upon which the tenure of land rested in Madras, and upon which he believed it must continue to rest; and that they required no commission to be sent out to India to stimulate their diligence in redressing those grievances.

Mr. W. D. Seymour supported the motion, and recommended the adoption of a system similar to that existing in Malabar.

Sir J. Hogg said, he must say he had seldom heard in that house a speech wherein any hon. member had dealt so largely in assertion and so little in proof as that they had just heard.—("No, no!") Although that assertion might not meet with the approbation of some hon. members, he was compelled to say the statement of his hon. friend, who had no doubt proceeded in a very laudable manner to collect all the information he could after Parliament rose last session—and he gave him credit for the sincerity of his intentions and his anxious desire to obtain that information—was unsupported by proof. What was the motion before the House? He (Sir J. Hogg) had listened with great attention to the temperate speech made by the hon. gentleman who introduced the motion, and who confined himself to the subject-matter, deprecating a general discussion on Indian government, which question he observed had been fully discussed last session, and ought not now to be reopened. But what course had the hon. member for Poole taken? He opened his carpet-bag, produced his memoranda, and told the House everything he had heard from every possible source of information. This was a motion for a commission to proceed from this country to India; but the House had been asked by his hon. friend of what use it was to refer the subject to the Governor of Madras? It would take him, he said, many years before he was acquainted with the habits of the people; and he had made another observation, which he thought was applicable to himself more than to the Governor, when he said that a person going out to India was very apt to fall into the hands of interested and designing persons, who, with the very best intentions on his part, might lead him wrong. Now he (Sir J. Hogg) thought that had been just the case with the hon. member himself, and that, acting with the best intentions, he had fallen into the hands of interested and designing persons, who were in connexion with an association at Madras, from which had emanated a petition of a more extravagant and unfounded character than any document he ever remembered to have seen laid on the table of the house, or adduced before a committee. His hon. friend, in the exercise of his own sound sense and discretion, proceeded to make a tour, and, no doubt, with the most honest intentions, put himself into communication with that association, and actually set out attended by two deputies from it. Now, he asked the House what was the description of information that could be expected to be gathered by his hon. friend in a hurried tour, he never having been before in India, and being attended by two emissaries from such an association? Would it not be of the most exaggerated character? He could not fancy how a member of parliament could expect to get information by going to the south of India, into districts where, except as a collector or a judge, it was a question whether the natives ever saw a European face. He (Sir J. Hogg) would rather apply himself to the speech of his hon. friend who introduced the motion, but he felt it incumbent on himself to state what he knew in answer to some things which had been commented on by his hon. friend the member for Poole; and with reference to one of those statements he would remind him that the rent of the most valuable land was fixed by the Government. The particular grievance in this case was, that a particular portion of land, which was improved jungle-land, had been charged at the value of best land. He thought the answer of the Government to the representation of that grievance, the purport of which the hon. gentleman read, was quite satisfactory, showing that the land was estimated at a reduced value for twenty-one years, but was then rated according to its quality. He would also correct a misrepresentation with respect to a house-tax in India; no such thing existed; they paid a rent for land, but could erect a palace on it, if they liked, without paying a house-tax. Within the walls of the town of Madras, as within those of Calcutta and Bombay, where a system of police was in operation, it was necessary to have a house-tax, but not in the country. The hon. member for Newcastle (Mr. Blckett) had truly said that a great deal of ground in Madras was too highly taxed, because the price of grain had fallen so considerably that rates of assessment which were perfectly fair in Sir T. Munro's days were exorbitant now. This circumstance showed the necessity of improving the means of communication and public works in India, for, if the production of grain was increased beyond the amount required for consumption in a particular district, means ought to be provided for conveying the surplus elsewhere (hear, hear). He (Sir J. Hogg) hoped and believed that the system of communication which had been established in the southern districts of Bombay, and which was nearly completed in the northern districts, would be extended to Madras (cheers), for the subject was now prominently engaging the attention of the Indian Government. In the course of this discussion the characters of the natives had been stigmatised by some hon. gentlemen; but he might remind the House of the obloquy which was last year heaped upon the Court of Directors because they did not employ in offices of importance those very natives who were now the objects of attack (hear, hear), and who, it was contended, ought to be eligible to become members of the Council. He considered that the greatest evils to which India had been subjected had arisen from attempts to force upon the people of that country English notions and habits; and he believed that the wisest course would have been, instead of attempting to apply any particular system of tenure to the whole of India, or to any of the presidencies, to have studied the feelings and habits peculiar to the different districts, to have adopted and protected the tenure found to be existing, and to have removed as far as possible all possibility of speculation. That had been the plan adopted so successfully in the North-West Provinces by Mr. Thomasson, who took things as he found them, protected the weak against the strong, and ascertained by careful survey the quality of the soil in every field, however small, and the extent to which various parties were interested in the property. He (Sir J. Hogg) admitted that there were evils attaching to the present system of tenure which ought to be remedied; and he had no doubt that Lord Dalhousie, if he found it necessary, would send persons thoroughly acquainted with the subject to institute an inquiry in the presidency of Madras. He hoped it would not be thought advisable to send out from this country commissioners whose knowledge of the matters to be investigated must necessarily be limited, and thus to supersede the Governor-General in the main points of his government—the care of the people committed to his charge, and the raising of a revenue in the manner most profitable to the state and least oppressive to the people.

Mr. Bright said, the hon. baronet the member for Honiton had charged the member for Poole with going to Madras and allying himself with a native association. He (Mr. Bright) would like to know with what party in Madras it would have been more proper for the hon. member to have allied himself than with an association formed of intelligent natives, anxious to communicate to parliament such information as might advance the interests of their country? It could not be attributed as a matter of blame to the hon. member for Poole that, as he went through the country, crowds of people came round him, and certainly if, as had been said, they never saw an Englishman but a tax collector, it must have been a refreshing sight to have found out an Englishman in India who was not a tax collector. The real question before the House was as to whether the Government should appoint a commission to proceed to the presidency of Madras to gather evidence on the spot as to the condition of the people, as connected with the tenure of land and the taxation on the land. He was not going to contend that it was of much importance as to whether this commission should go out; something might be said in its favour, and something might be urged against it, and, no doubt, they might choose two or three men in India as honest on this question as any who could be chosen in England, and who, doubtless, from their position, would have more easy access to information, and who would probably draw up as satisfactory a report as any other gentlemen. But he would not quarrel with the president of the Board of Control if he did not send out this commission, but he would fail in his duty if he did not, as a result of this discussion, promote the inquiry recommended, with a view of bringing about the improvements which even the hon. member for Honiton had admitted to be necessary.

Sir C. Wood would not, in the brief observations he should make, follow hon. gentlemen in the discursive discussion they had entered upon, but confine himself altogether to the point which the hon. and learned gentleman, in his temperate speech, had propounded, namely, the tenure of land in India. He admitted that, generally speaking, the assessment was too high, but that did not alter the tenure of the land, to which, so long as a man paid his assessment, he had an indefeasible right, and he hoped that by a large expenditure upon public works—by an improvement in the system, not of the tenure of land, but of the land revenue, and by the extension of irrigation, before long Madras would cease to be called the benighted Land of India.

Mr. Mangles said that the question was one of over-assessment, and not of tenure. The ryotwari system prevailed in Canada, and yet that province was in a most flourishing condition.

Mr. Henley expressed his astonishment that no member of the Government had contradicted the assertion of the hon. member for Manchester, that torture was applied in order to compel the natives to pay the tax.

Sir C. Wood explained that, having heard the allegation for the first time that evening, it was impossible for him to answer it without referring to Madras.

Mr. Mangles said it was difficult to prove a negative, but he could solemnly declare that, during many years which he passed in India, he never heard of torture being applied in Madras for the purpose of collecting the revenue.

Mr. Elliott confirmed what was said by the hon. member (Mr. Mangles). During thirty years of Indian service, he had never heard of torture being used for the purpose of collecting rent, and he did not believe such a thing ever did exist in their time.

The House then divided, when the numbers were:—

For the motion .....	59
Against it .....	64
Majority .....	—5

The motion was consequently lost.

JULY 14.

OFFICERS OF THE INDIAN ARMY.

Mr. Otway put a question to the President of the India Board, relative to the recognition of the rank of Indian officers in this country.

Sir C. Wood said that it was not a question which the India Board could decide. With respect to their rank in the militia, the officers of the East-India Company's service were put on exactly the same footing with those of Her Majesty's service.

THE EGYPTIAN RAILWAY AND OVERLAND ROUTE.—Overland travellers have now the advantage of being conveyed between Alexandria and the Nile, a distance of sixty-six miles, by the railway. The first departure from Alexandria occurred on the 4th instant, with the passengers who arrived on that day by the Ripon, and the canal, the most tedious part of the journey through Egypt, is now avoided altogether. The whole of the line between Cairo and Alexandria is expected to be completed in another year.

ANOTHER HIPPOPOTAMUS, but of the feminine gender is being conveyed to England by the Ripon steamer, to be a companion to the male hippopotamus in the Regent's Park Zoological Gardens.

THE SON OF ABBA PASHA.—El Hainee Pasha is at Mount Sinai, and on his return to Egypt, will proceed on a visit to England in the Egyptian steam yacht Faid Gihad.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

JUNE 23.—Prinula, Collins, Bombay; Hemsbyke, Howes, Bengal; Robert Small, Walker, Akhab; Mobile, Ponsonby, Bombay.—29. Queen, Bell, Bengal; James Willis, Baxter, Bengal (at Havre); Albert, Care, Mauritius; Nemesis, Hamilton, Shanghai; Earl of Hardwicke, Pope, Madras; Prince of Wales, Hopkins, Bengal; Sutlej, Peppercorne, Bengal; Nimrod, Pearce, Bengal; Vigilant, Toly, Cape.—30. Vernon, Coslett, Bombay; Sir George Anderson, Sedgwick, Bengal; Julia, Brittan, Java; Willing, Bertram, Akhab; Pasha, Milton, Mauritius; Minden, Crawford, Bengal.—JULY 1. Prince, Thomas, Algoa Bay; Yarra, Roy, Manila; Lady of the Lake, Scott, Algoa Bay; Earl Balfour, Morice, Bombay; Standard, Blyth, Bombay; Amy Louise, Hutchins, Mauritius; Bangalore, Morgan, Shanghai; Constantine, Akhab; Van Dyk, Kotelsen, Akhab; Scandia, Trece, Mauritius; Harpener, Morice, Mauritius; Rienzi, Taylor, Bengal; Oscar I, Lilliehook, Mauritius; Rockliffe, Duncan, Bengal; Bouanza, Burnett, Ceylon; Africa, Omann, Maulmain; Grouville, Faye, Mauritius; Active, Ijarnie, Algoa Bay.—3. Japan, Green, Mauritius; Walmer Castle, Pryce, Hong-Kong; Lady Keenaway, Young, Bengal; Duke of Argyll, Suckling, Mauritius; Seringapatam, Hillman, Madras and Coast; Clara, Jarmain, Maulmain; Colonist, Somerset, Calcutta; Alexander, Burron, Mauritius; Agra, McLean, Ceylon; Asia, Robertson, Bengal; African, Pollock, Bengal; Calphurnia, Coere, Singapore; Oxnard, Hickley, Bengal; Fanny Chapman, Cunningham, Ceylon; Warrior, Queen, Stephenson, Mauritius; Whampoa, Kramer, Java; Abbot, Ferguson, Hong-Kong; Georgia, Small, and Audubon, Arthur, Bengal; Switnamley, Hamilton, and Patriot King, Wise, Bombay; Ino, Warwick, Madras; Alert, Smith, Hong-Kong; Evangeline, Hutton, Hong-Kong; Lockett, Valentine, Shanghai; Nymph, Le Couteur, Akhab; St. Helena, Cottier, Akhab; Tippoo Saib, Cornforth; Ardencraig, Conry, and Fatima, Chud, Bengal; Christabel, Flyck, and Courier, Arthur, Mauritius; Conservative, Waterson, Madras; Woodland Castle, Barclay, Singapore; Charles Kerr, Potts, Maulmain; Outhona, Taylor, Akhab (at Antwerp); Calcutta (steamer), Goodall, Benaul and Cape.—4. Jabez, Smith, Mauritius; Bolivar, Foote, Saldanha Bay; Richard Young, Smith, Akhab; Duke of Lancaster, Major, Madras; William Shand, Morris, Bombay.—5. Jane, Mearns, Akhab (to Bremen); Grauville, Burrows, Bengal.—6. Abrota, Ogier, Mauritius.—7. Ann Leckleny, Stanley, Mauritius.—8. Cyrrus, Bartley, Mauritius; Janet Wilson, Barr, Bombay; Lady Bruce, Simpson, Akhab; Carl Ritter, Subbe, Batavia.—11. Severe (late Irwin), Akhab; Magellan, Maj. and Ceylon, Free Trader, Wade, Penang.—12. Mooltan, McCracken, Mauritius; Lucy Sharp, Gibbs, Penang.—15. Thomas Blyth, Maxwell, Mauritius; Coronandel, Byron, Bombay.—17. G. F. D. —, Munsoorecottah; E. A. Souillard, Thomas, Manila.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED AT SOUTHAMPTON.

Per General Screw Company's Steamer Calcutta, July 3. — Mrs. Thornton and 2 children, Mrs. Sewell and 3 children, Mrs. Causley and child, Mrs. Bell and child, Miss Dennis, Mrs. Kean and 2 children, Miss Ainger, Maj. and Mrs. Mercer, Capt. and Mrs. Fraser and child, Mr. and Mrs. Dodd, Mr. Maclean and family, Capt. and Mrs. Richards, Capt. Bonamy; Lieuts. Milligan, Reynolds, Glanville, Reade, and Dickinson; Mr. Johnson, Mr. Saudeman, Mr. Constable, Mr. Stevens, Mr. Holme, Col. and Mrs. Miller and family, Col. and Mrs. Neill and family, Maj. and Mr. Bower and family, Capt. and Mrs. Jacobs and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fullerton, Mrs. Tripe and family, Mrs. Maltby and 2 children, Mrs. Nicholls and family, Miss Prendergast, Lieut. Hill, Lieut. Lodge, Lieut. Bristol, Lieut. Gerardot, Lieut. Mason, Lieut. Mackenzie, Ens. Sladen, Ens. Chambers, Mrs. Leggett, Mrs. Whiting and family, Mrs. Fogarty and family, Capt. and Mrs. Henderson, Capt. and Mrs. Hall, Capt. Corfield, Hon. Mr. Hobart, Mr. Kaye, Mr. Ireland, Mr. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. Toudour, Mdme. de Torney and family, Sir G. Cathcart, Col. Seymour, Hon. Capt. Elliott, Lieut. Greville, Col. Pinckney, Mrs. Cooper and family, Mrs. Wray and child, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Cox, Rev. Mr. Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Elder, Mrs. Corfield, Mr. and Mrs. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Noke and child, Dep. com. gens. Power and Robinson, Mr. Bang, Mr. Rudd, Mr. Boyce, Mr. Stewart, Mr. Pean, Mr. Delta.

PASSENGERS EXPECTED AT SOUTHAMPTON.

Per steamer Ripon, July 22.—Mr. Levestre, Lieut. Issache, Capt. Davooh, Maj. Singleton, Capt. Coote, Mr. Macaulay, Mr. Claude, Dr.

Caldwell, s.w.; Sir A. Oliphant, Mr. Milne, Lieut. Mackenzie, Mr. Forbes, Mr. Cornish, Mr. Bravay, Mr. Sinain, Mr. and Mrs. Acozanie, Mr. Cohen and infant, Capt. Robertson, Mr. Schutz, Mrs. Randolph and child, Mr. Herring, Rev. W. B. Bly, Mr. L. Bliss, Mrs. Col. Haly and 3 boys, Mrs. Reid, Capt. Chamberlain and infant, Mr. and Mrs. Lane, Capt. Calder, s.w.; Col. Browne, Capt. Darling, 2 Miss Browns, Mrs. Gifford, Miss Stevens, and 2 children.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Tagus, from Southampton (July 6), to proceed per steamer Ganges from Suez.—For MALTA.—Mrs. Buckley, Miss Buckley, Mrs. Browne, Lieut. Dunn, Asst. com. gen. Horne, Mrs. Horne and 4 children, Mr. Richards, Capt. and Mrs. Ormsby, and Mr. Smith. For ADEN.—Mr. Jamieson and Mrs. Haines. For SUZ.—Mr. Burn and Dr. Buist. For CALCUTTA.—Mr. Willock, Mr. Dobbin, Mr. H. De Borbel, Mr. E. B. Thornhill, and Mrs. Beatson. For MADRAS.—Mr. B. F. Schomberg, Mr. W. J. Bell, Maj. Monro, Lieut. Jary, Capt. Tribe, and Mr. Levinge. For Hong-Kong.—Mr. Caldas.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BEATSON, the lady of Capt. 1st Bengal cav. s. at 23, Victoria-road, Kensington, July 11.
DELAINE, the wife of Lieut. col. c.b. Bombay cav. d. at 13, Queen's-road, Jersey, July 11.
FRASER, the wife of Capt. J. E. 4th Bengal N.I. d. at sea, on board the General Company's steamer Calcutta, July 4.
HERBERT, the lady of Abraham, d. at Coundon, near Coventry, July 9.
HORNIDGE, the wife of Marmaduke, d. at Harrow-on-the-Hill, July 1.
PRYCE, the lady of Capt. W. B. d. at sea, on board the Walmer Castle, May 5.
RAWLINSON, the wife of the Rev. W. C. d. at Chedburgh Rectory, Suffolk, June 28.
VIVIAN, the lady of Col. R. J. H. Indian army, d. at Pont de Brigue, Boulogne, June 26.
WIGRAM, the wife of Money, jun. d. at 10, Southwick-crescent, Hyde-park, July 1.

MARRIAGES.

ABBOTT, Rev. T. J. to Anne, d. of the late Rev. Edward Swatman, rector of Fransham Parva, Norfolk, at Beccles, Suffolk.
ABDY, John T. s. of Lieut. col. formerly of the Madras art. to Marian, d. of John H. Hollway, at Gunby, July 7.
BAILLIE, William D. H. 24th regt. to Hannah M. A. d. of John Greensell, and niece of Maj. gen. Roberts, c.b. Hon. E.I. Co.'s serv. at West Tharrock church, Essex, July 11.
CARR, Rev. Henry, M.A. Malta Protestant College, to Selina E. d. of the Rev. Guy Bryan, at Woodham Walter, Maldon, Essex, July 13.
COOPER, Edward M. G. 13th Bombay N.I. to Annette, d. of John C. Saunter, at Brompton, July 5.
MORGAN, W. D. 22nd Bengal N.I. to Ellen A. widow of the late G. Ross, H.M.'s 14th Light Dragoons, at St. John's, Nottingham, July 8.
MORRIS, Sarah, d. of the late William R. Bombay civ. serv. at Sidcup-place, Kent.
WESTON, Capt. Henry, 14th Bombay N.I. to Adine B. d. of the late William Burgess, at St. Nicholas Church, Brighton, July 12.

DEATHS.

BALNEAVIS, Georgina, wife of Lieut. gen. C.M.G. K.H. at Malta, July 1.
BELL, Adam, M.D. at Venice, on his way from India, July 9.
BOURDILLON, Edmond G. at Holybourn, Hants, aged 85, June 20.
CORSELLIS, Maria, widow of George, late of the H. E. I. Co.'s civil service, at Colchester, July 2.
JAMES, Maj. gen. John P. Madras army, at George-street, Devonport, aged 63, July 5.
JAMES, Ellen M. H. d. of Col. Bombay army, at Bayswater, aged 16, July 14.
OSBORNE, Fanny, d. of the late Lieut. col. H. R. Bengal army, at Farnham, Surrey, aged 13, June 30.
PEMBERTON, Henrietta P. widow of the late Capt. Robert B. Bengal army, at the residence of her father, Gen. M'Leod, 3, Clifton-place, Sussex-square, Hyde-park, aged 43, July 10.
SPENCER, Rev. J. Leigh, rector of Barfreystone, Kent, on his passage home from Calcutta, on board the Mauritius, May 14.
THACKER, William, at Muchall-hall, near Wolverhampton, aged 87, June 25.
WEST, Lieut. col. Charles Augustus, lieut. govr. of Languard Fort, at Aberdeen-place, Maids-hill, aged 88, June 20.

EAST-INDIA HOUSE,

28th June, 5th and 12th July, 1854.

ARRIVALS REPORTED IN ENGLAND.

CIVIL.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. N. H. E. Prowett, and Mr. G. E. Pool.
Madras Estab.—Messrs. R. Davidson, J. H. Cochrane, and W. S. Jacob.
Bombay Estab.—Messrs. A. Spens and E. Robertson.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Col. D. Williamson; Lieut. cols. B. Bygrave, — Sherer, H. Rowcroft, J. Pond, F. B. Corfield, and F. T. Cantley; Major F. C. Minchin, retired; Brev. maj. J. Sleeman, 73rd N.I.; Capt. J. E. Fraser, 4th N.I., A. H. Corfield, invalids, and W. Master, invalids; Lieuts. A. G. Austin, artillery, J. T. Watson, 12th N.I., W. D. Morgan, 22nd N.I., G. J. Glanville, 2nd Eur. reg., F. M. Martin, 52nd N.I., J. C. Bonamy, 32nd N.I., and G. Milligan, artillery; Surgs. A. Keir and — Turnbull; Assist. surgs. W. G. W. Cleminger and — Lee; Veterinary, C. J. Dawson.

Madras Estab.—Col. B. R. Hitchens; Lieut. cols. A. T. Cotton, J. Millar, and J. G. Neill; Majors H. Bower, 52nd N.I., and J. Smith, 13th N.I.; Capt. F. G. S. Lascelles, 4th cavalry, F. H. Sansom, 3rd Eur. reg., T. Lavie, artillery, W. Wroughton, invalids, and H. J. Nicholls, 25th N.I.; Lieuts. J. Bristow, 8th N.I., W. D. Chapman, 17th N.I., D. Mackenzie, 16th N.I., and T. M. Lane, 40th N.I.; Ensigns E. H. Chambers, 30th N.I., and J. L. Reynolds, 36th N.I.; Surg. J. Middlemass; Assist. surg. C. M. Duff, M.D.

Bombay Estab.—Lieut. col. J. Jackson; Major T. Jackson, retired; Lieuts. R. Cowper, 1st Eur. reg., the Hon. W. A. Hobart, 3rd Eur. reg., P. Dods, 9th N.I., J. Anderton, 19th N.I., and E. H. Bacon, 25th N.I.; Surgs. R. Wosman and C. Morehead; Assist. surg. W. F. Clay.

MARINE.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. J. Sandeman, pilot service.

Bombay Estab.—Lieuts. W. M. Pengelly and E. Peevor, and Mr. J. A. Turner, Indian Navy.

PERMITTED TO RETURN TO THEIR DUTY.

CIVIL.

Bombay Estab.—Mr. J. R. Morgan.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Major R. McDonnell, 10th cavalry; Brev. major W. P. Meares, 42nd N.I.; Capt. S. Greville, 1st fusiliers, R. C. Tytler, 38th N.I., J. Hood, 49th N.I., H. D. Maunsell, 62nd N.I.; Lieuts. T. H. Salt, art., A. E. Osborn, 45th N.I., F. Mackenzie, 26th N.I., E. G. Langmore, 27th N.I., D. Briggs, 17th N.I., R. J. Stannus, 16th N.I., A. Taylor, 25th N.I., and A. H. Paterson, 68th N.I.; Ens. A. J. Dashwood, 48th N.I.; Surg. J. C. Brown; Assist. surgs. J. A. C. Hutchinson, M.D., J. Harrison, M.D., and J. Hooper.

Madras Estab.—Lieut. col. J. F. Bird; Brev. Lieut. col. T. P. Hay, 2nd Eur. reg.; Capt. C. G. Cottell, 45th N.I.; Brev. Capt. A. L. Steele, 6th N.I.; Lieuts. J. G. C. Fraser, 1st Eur. reg., R. C. T. Nicholls, 6th N.I.; and J. C. Buttler, 49th N.I.; Ens. W. H. L. Fuller, 4th N.I.

Bombay Estab.—Major E. Hallum, invalids; Capt. E. M. Macgregor, 2nd cavalry; Lieuts. S. J. Thorp and A. W. Graham, 4th N.I.; Assist. surgs. H. Coles and R. Dent.

GRANTED EXTENSIONS OF LEAVE.

CIVIL.

Bombay Estab.—Mr. T. A. Compton, 3 months.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Brev. Col. P. Grant, c.b., 6 months; Major H. Vetch, 54th N.I., 2 months.

Madras Estab.—Lieut. col. G. Logan, Lieuts. G. B. B. Holmes, artillery, W. C. Phillips, 44th N.I., J. H. Evans, 4th cavalry, H. P. Cambridge, 8th N.I., 6 months.

Bombay Estab.—Capt. C. F. Grant, 3rd N.I., 6 months.

MARINE.

Bombay Estab.—Messrs. E. H. Pennington and W. Collingwood, Indian Navy, till end of the present year.

RESIGNATION OF THE SERVICE ACCEPTED.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Lieut. W. W. Saunders, 7th lt. cav.

Madras Estab.—Ens. J. T. Thorp, 39th N.I.

PERMITTED TO RETIRE FROM THE SERVICE.

MILITARY.

Bombay Estab.—Capt. George Wingate, engineers; Capt. C. H. Morse, invalids.

APPOINTMENTS.

MARINE.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. William Ross, admitted a volunteer for the pilot service.
Bombay Estab.—Mr. E. A. S. Mignon, now at Bombay, admitted a captain's clerk for the Indian Navy.

ADDISCOMBE.

Mr. John T. Hyde has been appointed, on probation, for one year, to the office of assistant professor of fortification at the military seminary, in succession to the late Lieut. col. Jacob.

DEPOT—WARLEY.

Lieut. R. J. Mallock, of the 16th Bengal N.I., has been appointed orderly officer, in the room of Lieut. H. Birch, resigned.

HAILEYBURY.

The undermentioned gentlemen have been appointed members of the Company's Civil service in India, for the presidencies hereafter stated, and with the rank expressed in their respective certificates, viz.:—

Anthony John Rickards Bainbridge, Richard Gwatkin Melvill, James Simson, Wilmot Lane, Robert Paton Martin, Edward Waterfield, James Davidson Gordon, Basil Francis Hall, Henry Houlton Robinson, Charles George Wynch, James Duff Ward, Thomas Edward Fairfax, James Casamajor Robertson, Edmund Bensley Thornhill, and George Boileau Willock, Bengal; Frederick William Morris, Madras; Robert William Hunter, Theodore Bosanquet, George Frederick Sheppard, William Mant Coghlan, Arthur John de Hochepeid Larpent, Bombay.

CHANGES AND PROMOTIONS

IN H.M.'S REGIMENTS SERVING IN INDIA.

WAR OFFICE, 7TH JULY, 1854.

22nd Foot.—Capt. John Breton, from the 53rd Foot, to be capt. v. Maycock, who exchanges.
25th Foot.—Capt. Charles Miller Layton, from the 35th Foot, to be capt. v. Brown, who exchanges.
53rd Foot.—Capt. Joseph Maycock, from the 22nd Foot, to be capt. v. Breton, who exchanges.

EMBARKATION OF TROOPS.

Per Charlotte, for Bengal, from Cork, June 20.—190 troops, H.M.'s 27th foot. Capt. Stapleton, Capt. Warren, Ens. White, Asst. surg. Kidd.

Per Soubahdor, for Bengal, from Cork, June 20.—230 troops, H.M.'s 27th foot. Major Touzel, Capt. Molesworth, Capt. Creagh, Lieut. Carnegie, Lieut. Murphy, Ens. O'Loughlin, Asst. surg. Cameron.

Per Windsor, for Bengal, from Gravesend, June 28.—224 troops. Lieut. Chadwick, Cornets Mackenzie and Drew, of H.M.'s 14th Dragoons; Lieut. Coryton; Ensigns Blackhouse and Bingham, of H.M.'s 70th regt.; Ensigns Wood, Floyd, and Speedy, of H.M.'s 81st regt.

Per Barham, for Bengal, from Cork, June 30.—300 troops, H.M.'s 27th foot. Major Durnford, Capt. Rhodes, Capt. Manby, Lieut. Downing, Lieut. Newton, Lieut. Grisson, Lieut. Pinwell, Surg. Mostyn.

Per Southampton, for Bengal, from Cork, June 30.—216 troops, H.M.'s 27th foot. Lieut. col. Williamson, Capt. Langley, Capt. Thomas, Lieut. Chester, Lieut. Twemlow, Lieut. Barnardiston, Lieut. Patton, Paymaster Kidd, Adj. Cooper, Qr. mr. Mr. Trevor, Asst. surg. Trevan, Lieut. Nott, 75th foot.

BOOKS.

A History of India under the two first Sovereigns of the House of Taimur, Baber and Humáyun. By William Erskine, Esq., Translator of Memoirs of the Emperor Baber. 2 vols. 8vo. London, 1854. Longman and Co.

THIS is a book destined to live. It is a highly valuable contribution to a portion of history but little known to general readers, but to which the volumes before us will no doubt attract many students.

We lately met with an article in the Bombay Times expatiating and enlarging upon a text in the Mofussilite on the vast and inconvenient multiplication of books, in the course of which commentary, our brother of Western India exclaimed, "Of the hundreds of volumes published monthly in England, how many, we wonder, are read! Of the hundreds of books monthly got up, how many are merely got-up books, containing nothing new, incapable of expressing or impressing a single truth half so well as has been done before!" All reasonable men must participate in the feeling of the Indian Journalist on this monstrous evil, an evil for which no remedy is discernible. On first thought we might catch a gleam of hope, from the apprehended dearth of paper; but recollecting that this will stop the progress of good books as well as bad ones, we resign ourselves again to despair, admitting of no alleviation but that derived from the occasional appearance of such a book as that of Mr. Erskine, which may take its place by the side of Gibbon's great work. It displays an equal measure of research, an equal determination to exhaust the treasures of authority, while it is free from the meretricious allurements and the insidious sophistry which disfigure the otherwise noble production of the elder author. Passing to our own times, and to Indian history, we may observe that in carefulness of research, Mr. Erskine may be compared with Mr. Elphinstone, without any injustice to that great man, while in regard to style, that of Mr. Erskine will perhaps be generally preferred, as being less curt and more flowing.

It is only when we meet with such a work as this that we have occasion to regret the smallness of the space that we can devote to books. We should like to extract largely, were it not impracticable; but, to show that matter of exciting interest, as well as information, may be found in these volumes, we quote a brief narrative of female generalship. The heroine was the wife of Yúnis Khan, one of the princes of Moghulstán, previously to the union of the divisions of the empire under the Turkish dynasty of Taimur:—

"It appears that Yúnis Khan's Amírs, being discontented with him, had entered into a conspiracy with Sheikh Jemáledín, to whom the whole Ulús of Moghuls submitted as their chief. The Sheikh, to add insult to injury, bestowed Ais-doulat Begum, the Khan's wife, and mother of the betrothed wives of the Sultans of Samarkand and Ferghána, on one of his officers. The Begum, when this unseemly transfer was notified to her, uttered not a word. Her intended husband, arriving in the evening, entered the house; his attendants remaining without. The Begum's female slaves closed the doors behind him, and barred them within. They then fell upon the unhappy bridegroom and put him to death with their knives. In the morning his body was ignominiously cast out of the house. When Sheikh Jemáledín sent to call the Begum to account for this murder, 'I am the wife of Yúnis Khan,' she replied, 'and of him only. Sheikh Jemál has thought fit to give me to another. He knows whether this is in accordance with religion and law. I have killed the man; let Sheikh Jemál kill me, if he chooses.' Jemál was loud in her praise, and allowed her to return with honour to her husband."

A hair-breadth escape is always captivating, so we treat our readers to one:—

"Shah Ismael soon after quitted Herát on his return to Irák; and Shah Beg was left to linger out his life in prison. But when some time had elapsed, Mahter Sambal, one of his attached slaves,—believing that the first vigilance of the gaolers was relaxed so far as to afford him hopes, by patient perseverance, to gain an interview with his lord,—repaired to the fort of Zefer; and, having learned how matters were then conducted, opened a pastry-shop close to the tower in which Shah Beg was confined. In the course of his calling, by his conciliating manners, joined with occasional little presents of his sweetmeats and pastry, contriving to form an intimacy with the guards, he went quietly and steadily on, omitting nothing that could forward the design he had in view. By frankly associating and mixing with them, he lulled all suspicion; gradually gained ready admittance into the tower; and, having first put the prisoner on his guard by signs and hints, at length succeeded in speaking with him privately. Shah Beg being thus prepared, twelve of his faithful retainers bound themselves to each other by an oath, either to deliver him from prison and convey him to Kandahár, or to perish in the attempt.

"When everything was arranged, the conspirators repaired to the castle, at different times, and were one by one received into Sambal's shop, where they lay concealed. At night Sambal, who had prepared some sweetmeats and pastry for the occasion, in which he had mixed a strong narcotic, disposed of them as usual among the guards, who were thus in a short time rendered quite insensible. He then passed the sleeping guard, accompanied by two of his associates; made his way good to Shah Beg's room; and, by means of some ropes, which they brought for the purpose, assisted him to descend on that part of the tower which opened on the outside of the fort of Zefer. The rope, however, having broken, he fell from some height, and, in the fall, his manacles, from which they had not been enabled to disengage him, knocked out one of his teeth. In spite of this accident, his friends, who were waiting below, got him mounted, and they all set out on horses, shod, it is said, backwards, to mislead the pursuers. They rode incessantly for two nights and a day, when, getting a change of horses, they resumed their route, and went on without halting, till they arrived on safe ground. As soon as the keepers of the tower recovered their senses, and found the prisoner gone, a hot pursuit commenced, but in vain. The fugitives were already too much ahead to be overtaken."

Although the following is somewhat longer than is perfectly convenient, it illustrates the manners of the time and country so forcibly, that we cannot forbear extracting it. The period of its occurrence is fixed by the name of Baber:—

"When Báber took Kandahár, whole families of the Arghún chiefs fell into his hands, and among others Máhchuchak Begum, the daughter of Muhammed Mokim, Shah Beg's brother. This lady, as Báber himself informs us, was married a few months after to Kásim Gokultásh, an officer of distinguished merit, to whom Báber was much attached, and to whom, at a subsequent period, he owed his life. But this alliance, formed in captivity, seems to have been painful to her relations, and was probably considered as not suitable to her rank. By Kásim she had only one daughter, Nahíd Begum, who afterwards became celebrated in the history of Sind.

"The disgrace of having a princess of their illustrious house in a secondary situation in a foreign land, ranked in the minds of the ladies of the harem. On Shah Beg's return from Siwí, in the midst of the rejoicings which took place on the occasion, Mokim's widow presented herself in the garb of a mourner, standing upright in the doorway of the palace, with a coarse black woollen cloth thrown over her head, in sign of her deep distress. She laid hold of the skirt of his garment as he entered, and with loud lamentation and tears besought him to have pity on her daughter, all that was now left of his beloved brother, and to release her from her shameful bondage. Shah Beg, moved by her misery, and by the remembrance of his brother, who had died not long before, thus forcibly brought to his mind, expressed his willingness to attempt whatever could be done to effect the object of her wishes. Success was not easy; and the consultations which he held with his nobles produced nothing satisfactory. A plan was, however, devised by the ladies in the harem, and met with his acquiescence. It was arranged that some one should be sent to open an intercourse with the princess; and, when she was fully prepared, that means should be taken to carry her off from Kábul into the hills of the Hazára country that were nearest that city; secure that, when once among the friendly mountaineers, she would soon find her way in safety to Kandahár.

"In pursuance of this plan, Doulat Kittá, a female who had been a servant in Mokim's harem, was despatched to Kábul; but before setting out, in compliance with the demands of Eastern decorum, she was married to one Doulat Khan. On arriving at Kábul, she contrived to introduce herself to the Begum, as a helpless stranger; and, when a safe opportunity offered, discovered herself and revealed the plan. The princess, surprised and alarmed, refused to enter into the plot, and expressed her fears that, should she reach Kandahár, her proud relations would consign her to the grave, to bury deep the stigma brought on them by her captivity. Doulat Kittá relieved her apprehensions, by taking the most solemn oath that no such intention was entertained; and that, on the contrary, the warmest welcome awaited her from her mother and her uncle. Máh Begum was at last prevailed upon to consent; the news was conveyed to Kandahár; and a select body of the first warriors and chief nobles of the kingdom was secretly despatched on the service. They took their way through the country of the Hazáras, and pushed on for the capital, having arranged with the chiefs of that tribe that they should take post on the point of their mountains nearest to Kábul with a body of their followers to be ready to support the party on its return. On getting near Kábul they rested for two or three days, at a short distance from the town, to refresh their horses, and, it is said, to have them shod backwards.

"When everything was in readiness, Máh Begum, on the day fixed for the attempt, left her house about the time of afternoon prayers, to repair to the bath, the great place of recreation and freedom for Mussulman women. Having waited till the moment when the streets were covered with the crowds leaving the mosques, she mingled with them; and, protected by the impenetrable disguise worn by Mussulman ladies, which covers the whole body, leaving only an opening for the eyes, made her way, unnoticed, among the throngs that were passing to and fro. She reached in safety a convenient spot that had been fixed upon, where she was mounted on horseback, and conducted by Doulat Kittá to the party which waited her coming. Her daughter, Nahíd, then a child of only eighteen months old, and unable to bear the fatigue of the flight, was of necessity left behind. The instant she appeared, the whole party, delighted, leaped on horseback and set out along with her. All that night and the next day, and the night following, they held on their way. In the course of the succeeding day, they arrived at their halting-place. Here, having rested awhile to recruit their exhausted strength, they went on for a day and night more, by which time they had escaped from the dangerous ground, and found themselves in safe quarters among the friendly Hazáras.

"They now halted for a few days, that the princess might rest from her fatigues, and then went on to Kandahár. As she approached that place, the grand scene of her hopes and fears, Shah Beg came forth to receive and welcome her, with every demonstration of joy; saluted and embraced her affectionately as his brother's daughter, treated her with every mark of honour, conducted her to the palace, and there, taking her by the hand, placed her in the arms of her mother and her nurse. It was a day of general rejoicing, as for a great victory. All who had been engaged in the enterprise were rewarded with presents of horses, arms, or dresses of honour. In adventures and rescues such as these the Arghúns delighted, and their predatory habits taught them, like our borderers, to manage them with the utmost address and sagacity."

The allusion in the last sentence reminds the reader of Mr. Erskine's country. One more anecdote, illustrating the character of a faithful and devoted servant, and we will conclude:—

"Kásim Gokultásh had attended Báber in his wars beyond the Oxus against the Uzbeks. It happened on one occasion, that the Emperor, while alone, was surrounded and taken by a party of the enemy. His troops were not near enough to assist him. The gallant Kásim, with admirable presence of mind, going up, and personating the Emperor, exclaimed, 'How dare you touch a servant of mine? Do you not know your prince?' Deceived by his words, they let go Báber to turn to what they supposed a richer prize; and, in the scuffle that ensued, the Emperor escaped. The Uzbeks put Kásim to death; but Báber ever after cherished and protected his family, and all his dependents, with the most affectionate care."

Remarks upon Sir William Napier's Pamphlet regarding the Duke of Wellington's Letter. Extracted from the Bengal Hurkaru of the 13th, 14th, and 17th April, 1854. Calcutta, 1854.

ALL interest in the rabid effusions of the Napiers has now passed away. The atrocious attack on the GREAT DUKE has been consigned to eternal oblivion, and its writer to — no matter what. The reprint before us is a regular crusher, and did the question discussed still require settling, would settle it with a vengeance. Argument, spirit, and humour, alike contribute their aid.

Fugitive Pieces. By FRANCIS WILLIAM STONE. London, 1853. Hookham and Sons.

IN the dedication prefixed to this volume the author speaks of its contents as the effusions of a "youthful muse." This claim upon the forbearance of the critic is never urged in vain upon our notice, and we cheerfully quote the following lines to a lady "On the Birth of a Daughter," as affording an agreeable specimen of Vers de Société:—

"Dear lady, let me offer
Gratulations on the birth,—
The springing of another flower
In the garden of the earth.
And may the little maiden
Grow up in love and beauty
With bounteous graces laden:
Adorned with filial duty,
Be to thee in Life's probation
A blessing and a pride,
Gracing the appointed station
By her loved mother's side."

GOVERNMENT CENTRAL MUSEUM, MADRAS.—The report of this institution for 1853, with a supplementary communication, which appeared in the Fort St. George Gazette, 13th April, 1854, brings down the history of the establishment almost to the present time. Its progress appears to be very creditable to Surgeon Edward Balfour, who has the charge of it. It seems to be rich in specimens of the marbles of India, and of many other objects of natural history, and economic geology. It is satisfactory to see this word "economic" prefixed to "geology." If inquirers will take the trouble of describing rocks and strata, and their uses, rational men will be glad to listen to them; but when they aspire to tell the time (if time then were) when the world was made, and how it was made, it will be felt that these would-be philosophers have no experience of such matters; seeing that worlds are not made every day, their dissertations are entitled to just as much attention as would be due to a lecture on colours from a man born blind, or on sounds, from one who had never enjoyed the faculty of hearing from the moment of his entrance into the world. Surgeon Balfour's turn of mind appears to be practical, and his industry and care are obvious.

INDIA EXCHANGES.

BILLS.	Commercial Bills, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.		E. I. Co.'s Bills, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.		Amount of E. I. Co.'s Bills, drawn fr. June 24 to July 8.
					Rs.	S. d.
On Bengal ..	1s. 11½d.		1s. 11½d.		25,514	17 10
Madras ..	1s. 11½d.		1s. 11½d.		15,080	5 4
Bombay ..	1s. 11½d.		2s. 0d.		1,150	0 0
Bi-Monthly ..					41,745	3 2

STOCKS AND SECURITIES.

India Stock .....	225 to 227
India Bonds .....	1s. to 4s. pm.
East-India Railway, all paid .....	1½ to 2 prem.
Great Indian Peninsular Railway, all paid .....	½ prem.

BENGAL GOVERNMENT LOANS.

	Buy. s. d.	Sell. s. d.	Actual Sales.
5 per Cent. Transfer Stock Paper, 1834-5, div. payable in London..
Book Debt of 31st Dec. 1834, 3rd Jan. and 3rd July .....	Ss.Rs. —	—	2 1½
Do. 10th Aug. 1835, 13th Feb. and 13th Aug. ....
Do. 15th Jan. 1836, 18th Jan. and 18th July .....

Annual sum required by Court of Directors in England .....	From 1st May, 1854, to 30th April, 1855, }	£4,768,000
Bank Post Bills .....	1s. 11½d. to ½d.
Madras do. ....
Bombay do. ....	1s. 11½d.

EXPORT OF BULLION.

Per Steamer Tagus, July 5, 1854.

	Gold.	Silver.
Malta .....	£6,970	....
Alexandria .....	10,000	....
Bombay .....	—	£12,350
Calcutta .....	—	5,200
Singapore .....	14,785	2,250
Hong Kong .....	16,385	95,572
Canton .....	1,000	112,552
Shanghai .....	—	17,883
	£49,140	.... £245,807

ADVERTISEMENTS.

East-India House, 5th July, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That they have received from the Government of Madras the undermentioned Schedule, viz.—

Schedule, dated 1st March, 1854.

Part 1.—Containing the accounts of all Administrations granted to William A. Serie, Esq., as Ecclesiastical Registrar of the Supreme Court, since the period of exhibiting his last preceding Schedule (the 22nd October, 1853), to the 1st day of March, 1854.

Part 2.—Containing the accounts of all Administrations granted to William A. Serie, Esq., as Ecclesiastical Registrar of the Supreme Court, prior to such last-mentioned period, and which remain unclosed.

Part 3.—Containing all Administrations whereof the balances have been paid over by the said William A. Serie, Esq., as such Ecclesiastical Registrar, since the period of exhibiting his last preceding Schedule, specifying the amount of such balances, and the persons to whom paid, or how otherwise disposed of.

And that the said Schedule is open, at the Secretary's Office in this House, to the inspection of the public.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 12th July, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready, on or before Wednesday, the 26th July, 1854, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, to receive Tenders, sealed up, from such persons as may be willing to supply the Company with 4,500 Tons of Coal, of any of the under-mentioned sorts, to be delivered at Bombay, viz.:—

WEST HARTLEY COAL, CARR'S HARTLEY COAL, BUDDLE'S HARTLEY COAL, DAVISON'S WEST HARTLEY COAL, HARTLEPOOL WEST HARTLEY COAL, RAVENSWORTH WEST HARTLEY COAL, JONASSOHN'S HARTLEY COAL, STEWART'S WALLSEND STEAM COAL, GLASGOW HARD SPLINT COAL,	Screened.

The Tenders are to be made according to a form which may be had upon application at the Marine Branch of the Secretary's Office, in the East-India House, with Conditions annexed; and the Tenders are to be left at the Secretary's office at any time before 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the 26th July aforesaid, after which hour no Tender will be received.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 12th July, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready, on or before Wednesday, the 26th instant, to receive proposals in writing, sealed up, from such persons as may be willing to supply the Company with

BRITISH IRON,—also CANVAS;

And that the conditions of the said contracts (two in number) may be had on application at the Secretary's office, where the proposals are to be left, any time before 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the said 26th day of July, 1854, after which hour no Tender will be received.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

UNIVERSAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

No. 1, King William Street, City, London.

ESTABLISHED 1834.

Empowered by Special Act of Parliament, 6 Will. IV. cap. 54.

SIR HENRY WILLOCK, K.L.S., Chairman.

JOHN STEWART, Esq., Deputy-Chairman.

Its successful operations of this Society have enabled the Directors for the last thirteen years to reduce the premiums on Policies entitled to participate in profits on an average more than 44 per cent., and during the last four years a reduction of 45 per cent. has been declared.

Weekly Board-day, Thursday, at 1 o'clock.

Committees sit also every Tuesday and Saturday at 12 o'clock, when Policies requiring despatch may be effected.

Agents in India.—Messrs. Braddon and Co., Calcutta; Messrs. Bainbridge and Co., Madras; Messrs. Leckie and Co., Bombay.

MICHAEL ELIJAH IMPEY, Secretary.

STANDARD ORIENTAL WORKS,

EDITED OR COMPILED BY

DUNCAN FORBES, LL.D.

Dictionary, Hindustani-English and

English-Hindustani. By DUNCAN FORBES, LL.D. Royal 8vo. cloth, £2. 12s. 6d.

"Dr. Forbes, by his Grammars and other works on the Hindustani and Persian Languages, has, heretofore, conferred an invaluable boon on all the students of Oriental literature: but this Dictionary crowns the series of his magna opus, for a great work we have no hesitation in pronouncing it, whether we regard its vast utility to the learner, or consider the immense amount of labour and practical skill brought to bear upon it by the author."—Calcutta Review, No. 19.

Hindustani Grammar, Reading Lessons,

and Vocabulary; in the Oriental and Roman Characters, forming an Introduction to the Bagh-o-Bahar. By DUNCAN FORBES, LL.D. 8vo. 12s.

Hindustani Manual;

Being a short Grammar, Dialogues, Vocabulary, &amp;c., in the Roman Character. By DUNCAN FORBES. 18mo. bound, 5s. 6d.

Bagh-o-Bahar, in Hindustani.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 15s.

Bagh-o-Bahar, in English.

By DUNCAN FORBES. 8vo. 10s.

*. The Bagh-o-Bahar is the text-book in which Cadets and Assistant-Surgeons are examined in India.

Tota Kuhani, in Hindustani.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 10s.

Oriental Penmanship;

A Guide to the Study of Oriental Manuscripts. By DUNCAN FORBES. 4to. 8s.

Hindustani Reader.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Persian Grammar, Reading Lessons, and

Vocabulary. By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 12s. 6d.

LONDON: WM. H. ALLEN AND CO., 7, LEADENHALL STREET.

ALLEN'S MAPS OF INDIA, &c.

DRAWN BY JOHN WALKER,

Geographer to the East-India Company.

A New Map of India;

Showing the British Territories subdivided into Collectorates, and the Position and Boundary of each Native State; chiefly compiled from Trigonometrical Surveys executed by Order of the Honourable Court of Directors of the East-India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 6 in. high; 5 ft. 8 in. wide. £2; or on cloth, in a case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or with rollers, and varnished, £3. 3s.

••• The object kept in view in compiling this Map, has been to render it available to the greatest possible extent for popular use. For this purpose the names of all Stations—Civil and Military—are inserted, as well as those of all Towns and places of note, likely to be looked for. To make clear the subdivisions of the whole of the country, both British and native, the limits of the various Districts and Collectorates, with their names, are distinctly indicated. The Railways are laid down, and the trunk roads conspicuously coloured. The newly-acquired district in Burmah is included. To avoid, however, the confusion consequent upon over-crowding, and make the Map clear and easy for Reference, the names of many small villages, and places of no present importance, have been omitted, and thus a very wide measure of comprehensiveness has been attained, while needless diffusiveness has been shunned.

A General Map of India;

Compiled chiefly from Surveys executed by order of the Hon. East-India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 3 in. wide; 5 ft. 4 in. high. £2; or on cloth, in a case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or with rollers, and varnished, £3. 3s.

Map of India;

From the most recent authorities. On two sheets—Size, 2 ft. 10 in. wide; 3 ft. 3 in. high. 16s.; or on cloth, in a case, £1. 1s.

Map of the Routes in India;

With Tables of Distances between the principal Towns and Military Stations. On one sheet—Size, 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or on cloth, in a case, 12s.

In this Map are given the whole of the Military and Civil Stations, together with the principal Towns, the villages being omitted so as to make the stations more prominent. The colouring defines the boundaries of the three Presidencies.

A Map of the Western Provinces of Hindoostan;

The Punjab, Cabool, Sind, Bhawalpore, &c.; including all the States between Candahar and Allahabad. On four sheets—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 4 ft. 2 in. high. 30s.; or on cloth, in a case, £2; or on rollers, and varnished, £2. 10s.

Map of India and China, Burmah, Siam, the Malay Peninsula, and the Empire of Annam.

On two sheets—Size, 4 ft. 3 in. wide; 3 ft. 4 in. high. 16s.; or on cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

Map showing the Steam Communication and Overland Routes

Between England, India, China, and Australia. Size, 4 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 4 in. high; on cloth, in a case, 14s.; or with rollers, and varnished, 18s.

Map of Arabia;

Compiled from all the most recent authorities, by order of the Court of Directors of the East-India Company.—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 3 ft. 3 in. high; on cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

Map of the Punjab and Sikh Territory.

On one sheet, 5s.; or on cloth, in a case, 6s.

Map of Afghanistan and the adjacent Countries;

On one sheet—Size, 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or on cloth, in a case, 12s.

Map of China,

From the most authentic sources of information. One large sheet—Size, 2 ft. 7 in. wide; 2 ft. 2 in. high. 4s.; or on cloth, in a case, 11s.

Map of the Burman Empire,

Showing the annexed district of Pegu. One sheet, 3s. 6d.; or on cloth, in a case, 6s.

London: Wm. H. ALLEN & Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

In post 800., price 7s.,

PUBLIC WORKS IN INDIA,

WITH

SUGGESTIONS FOR THEIR EXTENSION AND IMPROVEMENTS,

By Lieut.-Col. A. T. COTTON,

CHIEF ENGINEER, MADRAS.

London: Wm. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street; and all Booksellers.

OUTFITS TO INDIA.

JOHN BESEMERES and CO., Manufacturing Outfitters, Clothiers, and Ready-made Linen Warehousemen, 61 to 64, HOUNDSDITCH, supply CADETS and PASSENGERS at MANUFACTURERS' PRICES, thus effecting an important saving in the outlay. Gentlemen's Long Cloth Shirts, with linen fronts, 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d. The Indusian, an easy-fitting shaped shirt, 5s; White jean or drill Trousers, 5s. 6d., 6s. 6d., 8s. 6d.; Long cloth Drawers, 1s. 6d., 2s.; Merino Under-waistoats, 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d.; Cotton Socks, 6s., 7s., 9s. per doz.; Lawn Pocket-handkerchiefs, 6s., 8s., 10s. per doz. Bullock-trunks, one guinea each. Outfitting lists, estimates, and shipping information forwarded by post; also detailed Lists of Ready-made Linen, priced and described.

Outfitting Warehouses, 61, 62, 63, and 64, HOUNDSDITCH, London.

CHESS.—THE STAUNTON TERRACE CHESS

BOARD, expressly sanctioned and adopted by Mr. Staunton himself. The amateurs of Chess in India are respectfully invited to give their orders for the magnificent Chess Boards which MECHI has just produced, as an appropriate accompaniment to the far-famed Staunton Chess-men. The prices vary, according to the style of embellishment, and they are warranted to stand any climate. N.B.—MECHI'S, 4, Leadenhall Street, London, is the well-known emporium for dressing cases, writing desks, razors, and all descriptions of cutlery. Orders must be accompanied by a reference for payment to some home in London.

4, Leadenhall Street, near the India House.

PAYNE and SONS' INDIAN CURRY POWDER,

UNEQUALLED for its delicious FLAVOUR and stimulating QUALITIES, in 1 lb. Bottles, 3s. 6d.; 1 lb., 2s. 3d.; or 7 lbs. for 21s.

CURRY and MULLIGATAWNY PASTE, 1 lb. jars, 3s. 6d., 4 lbs., 2s. 3d. CURRY SAUCE, Delhi and Osele Chutnee, 1s. 6d. per bottle.

Pickled MANGOES, HUMPS, TAP SAUCE, and every description of Indian Delicacies may had, at greatly reduced prices, from

PAYNE and SONS' FOREIGN WAREHOUSE, 326, REGENT STREET, LONDON.—A List forwarded on application.

TO LATE RESIDENTS IN INDIA.—TRUE

MADRAS CURRY, and MULLIGATAWNEY PASTE and CHUTNIES.—Messrs. BARRIE and Co., Vepery, Madras, to enable their old correspondents returning from India to continue the use of the celebrated Condiments, have made arrangements to forward regular supplies of the above, packed in glass jars for family use, at 1s. 9d. and upwards, which may be had of CROSSE and BLACKWELL, Purveyors to Her Majesty, 21, Soho Square; FORTNUM, MASON, and Co., Piccadilly; and of the principal Sauce Vendors throughout the kingdom. Each bottle is labelled, and BARRIE and Co., Madras, stamped on the glass.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS EFFECTED ANOTHER CURE

OF THE DIGESTIVE ORGANS.—Mr. Andrew Dawson, of Melbourne, was a constant sufferer from indigestion; no matter what he ate, the difficulty of digesting it was always the same, for which he consulted many of the medical profession, and tried remedy after remedy without attaining any benefit whatever. Being nearly dispirited with continual suffering, he was advised to try HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. He did so, and adhered to the diet recommended with the directions; thus he has so strengthened the tone of his stomach, and increased his appetite, that he can now indulge in any kind of animal or other food without the least inconvenience.

Sold by all respectable vendors of medicine, and at the Establishment of PROFESSOR HOLLOWAY, 241, Strand, London; and by all European and Native vendors of Medicine throughout the whole of the East Indies.

TO THE LADIES.—The powerful influence of the sun

on the skin and complexion at this period of the year, calls for increased attention in preserving their delicacy and beauty. The most pleasing and effectual specific for this desirable object is ROWLAND'S KALYDOR, so deservedly established in royal and public favour and estimation. Its application neutralizes the effects of atmosphere, and induces that healthy action of the minute secretory vessels of the skin, by which its delicacy and beauty are so essentially promoted. Freckles, tan, spots, pimples, and discolorations, are eradicated by the application of the KALYDOR, and give place to a healthy clearness and transparency of complexion. Ladies travelling, or taking out-door exercise, will find it to diffuse a grateful and refreshing feeling. In cases of sunburn, stings of insects, or accidental inflammation, its virtues have long and extensively been acknowledged. Price 4s. 6d. and 8s. 6d. per bottle.

The heat of summer also frequently communicates a dryness to the hair, and a tendency to fall off, which may be completely obviated by the use of ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL, a delightfully fragrant and transparent preparation, and as an invigorator and purifier beyond all precedent.—Price 3s. 6d. and 7s.; or family bottles (equal to four small), at 10s. 6d.; and double that size, 21s.

Nor at this season can we be too careful to preserve the teeth from the deleterious effects of vegetable acids (the immediate cause of tooth-ache), by a systematic employment, night and morning, of ROWLANDS' ODONTO, or Pearl Dentifrice, a white powder, compounded of the rarest and most fragrant exotics. It bestows on the teeth a pearl-like whiteness, frees them from tartar, and imparts to the gums a healthy firmness, and to the breath a grateful sweetness and purity.—Price 2s. 9d. per box.

Beware of SPURIOUS IMITATIONS.—The only genuine of each bears the name of "ROWLANDS," preceding that of the article on the wrapper or label. Sold by A. ROWLAND & SONS, 20, Hatton Garden, London, and by Chemists and Perfumers.

Second Edition, Corrected to May 9th,

THE EAST-INDIA REGISTER

AND
ARMY LIST FOR 1854,

CONTAINING

Complete Lists of the Company's Servants, at Home and Abroad;

Regulations respecting the appointment of Writers, Cadets, &amp;c.

COMPILED FROM THE OFFICIAL RETURNS RECEIVED AT THE
EAST-INDIA HOUSE.

BY F. CLARK,

Of the Secretary's Office, East-India House.

12mo. sewed, 10s.; 11s. 6d. bound.

Separate Presidencies,—Bengal, 6s.; Madras, 5s.; Bombay, 5s.

London: Wm. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

Just published, in 2 vols. 8vo., price 32s. cloth,

A HISTORY OF INDIA under Baber and Humayun, the First Two Sovereigns of the House of Taimur. By WILLIAM ERSKINE, Esq., Translator of "Memoirs of the Emperor Baber."

London: LONGMAN, BROWN, GREEN, and LONGMANS.

NEW EDITION OF LIEUTENANT ARNOLD'S EAST-INDIAN NOVEL.

Just Published, in 2 vols. post 8vo., price 21s.

OAKFIELD; or, Fellowship in the East. By W. D. ARNOLD, Lieutenant 58th Regiment Bengal Native Infantry. The Second Edition, revised.

London: LONGMAN, BROWN, GREEN, and LONGMANS.

ADDISCOMBE, HAILEYBURY, SANDHURST, and DIRECT APPOINTMENTS. — YOUNG GENTLEMEN destined for such Appointments are efficiently prepared in all the requisite branches in the Establishment of W. KIESER, M.A., Grove, Blackheath.

HANWELL COLLEGE and PREPARATORY SCHOOL.

The Fees commence on entrance.

"Hanwell College, conducted by Dr. Emerton, is fully sustaining the high character it has acquired. We find that former Pupils of Hanwell College have been either high wranglers or first-class men of our Universities during the present year; and this is the twentieth instance of success at Sandhurst or Addiscombe we have had to record within a short period."—United Service Gazette.

Prospectuses may be had on application to the Rev. Dr. EMERTON, Hanwell College, Middlesex.

KING'S COLLEGE, LONDON.

A MASTER in KING'S COLLEGE SCHOOL is willing to take charge of ONE or TWO BOYS from India. Their education would be carefully superintended, and they would be thoroughly prepared for their future pursuits, whether MILITARY or CIVIL, MERCANTILE or PROFESSIONAL. During the vacation they would go to the seaside or into the country, and be treated as members of the family. Terms, INCLUDING VACATIONS, COLLEGE FEES, BOOKS, AND ALL EXTRAS, 120 guineas per annum.

Address, REV. GEORGE RUST, M.A., 17, James Street, Buckingham Gate, London.

TO PARENTS OR GUARDIANS.

AN INCUMBENT in the immediate vicinity of London (formerly a Chaplain on the Bengal Establishment), offers to receive into his family ONE or TWO LITTLE GIRLS under the age of ten years. They shall be thoroughly instructed in Music, French, and Italian, besides receiving a sound and religious education, under charge of his lady and daughters.

The Parsonage, though not seven miles from the General Post-Office, is very quiet and retired. Terms, 60 guineas each, or 100 guineas for two sisters. Satisfactory references would be expected.

Address, C. H., care of Rev. R. Chambers, Wandsworth, County Surrey.

SURVEYING ARMY APPOINTMENTS IN INDIA.

OFFICERS at Home on Furlough, and GENTLEMEN CADETS, desirous of qualifying themselves for the Diplomas in SURVEYING and ENGINEERING, may obtain the requisite information by applying to Mr. HENRY JAMES CASTLE, Associate of the Institute of Civil Engineers, and Lecturer in Surveying and Levelling at King's College, London, who is at all times prepared to give Private Instruction (or to form a class for practical Field-work) in the use and application of the several Instruments required for Surveying and Levelling. If desired, one or two Pupils could reside with the Lecturer.

NORTH-WESTERN BANK of INDIA.—LONDON
BRANCH, 4, TRAFALGAR SQUARE, CHANCERY CROSS.—
Approved Bills on India Negotiated or Collected, and Credits Granted on the Head-Office, Calcutta, and the Branch at Mussoorie, in addition to all Banking business connected with the East Indies.

ROBERT McKIM,
Agent.

THE ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION grant DRAFTS and negotiate or collect BILLS payable in Bombay, Calcutta, Ceylon, Hong-Kong, Madras, Mauritius, Singapore, Melbourne, and Sydney. They also issue, free of charge, Circular Notes and Letters of Credit for the use of Travellers on the Continent, and to India overland. They undertake the agency of parties connected with India, the purchase and sale of Indian Securities, and the effecting of Remittances between the above dependencies. They further buy and negotiate in London paper of the Indian Government Loans.

W. W. CARGILL, Chief Manager

Walbrook, London, March, 1854.

INDIA.—Gentlemen expecting Appointments in the East-India Company's Cavalry, Artillery, Infantry, or Medical Service, are respectfully informed that, on application to Messrs. CHRISTIAN, they will be furnished with carefully prepared ESTIMATES, showing the whole cost of outfit and passage via the Cape or Egypt, without the necessity of employing an agent, which will be found desirable to those who study economy.

11, Wigmore Street, Cavendish Square.

INDIAN APPOINTMENTS.

MESSRS. GRINDLAY and Co. beg to announce the Removal of their OUTFIT branch of their establishment from St. Martin's Place to 63, Cornhill, and 124, Bishopsgate Street.

Detailed scales of OUTFIT, and plans of all SHIPS sailing to India, with prices of their accommodation, forwarded on application.

EAST-INDIA ARMY AGENCY,

63, Cornhill, and 124, Bishopsgate Street.

ORIENTAL, AUSTRALIAN, and GENERAL STEAM AGENCY.

PARCELS, PACKAGES, and MERCHANDISE forwarded, and Passages engaged to all parts of the world. Baggage shipped. Insurances effected, &c.

INDIA and CHINA—overland, 4th and 20th of every month.

AUSTRALIA—overland, 4th May, and alternate months.

Ditto—via Cape of Good Hope, 4th June, and alternate months.

Prospectuses, with reduced rates, from 2s. 6d., upwards, forwarded free, on application. Overland Guides, 1s., per post, 1s. 6d.

G. W. WHEATLEY and Co. (late Waghorn), 186, Leadenhall Street.

To sail from Gravesend 31st August,

Under engagement to the Honourable East-India Company.

FOR BOMBAY, the fine first-class Bombay teak-built ship EARL BALCARNAS, 1,488 tons register, belonging to Messrs. SOMES, BROTHERS, of Blackwall, HENRY MORRIS, Commander, lying in the East-India Docks. This Ship has excellent Accommodations for Passengers, and will carry an experienced surgeon.

For Freight or Passage, apply to CAPT. H. MORRIS, or to McLEOD, ALLPORT, and Co., 156, Leadenhall Street.

1854.

THE following SPLENDID SHIPS, belonging to Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM and SONS, of Blackwall, built and fitted expressly for the India and Australian Trades, will be appointed to leave GRAVESEND at convenient intervals.

Ship's Name.	Tons.	Captain.	Destination.	To sail.
Royal Albert .....	700	R. M. Norris .....	Madras direct .....	Sailed.
Southampton .....	1050	R. Roe .....	Calcutta direct.....	Sailed.
Devonshire .....	900	J. G. L. Steere ..	Ditto .....	Sailed.
Queen .....	1350	W. Bell .....	Ditto .....	1 Sept.
Kent .....	1000	G. Coleman .....	Port Philip .....	25 July
Sussex .....	1000	A. Scanlan .....	Ditto .....	Sept.
Maidstone .....	1000	W. Escott .....	As may be required
True Briton .....	800	H. W. Norris .....
Essex .....	850	J. B. Martin .....
Minerva .....	900	R. K. Johnston ..
Hampshire .....	700	E. Reynell .....
Slains Castle .....	600	W. Andrews .....
Cornwall .....	600	W. Dawson .....

For Freight or Passage, apply to McLEOD, ALLPORT, &amp; Co., with Messrs. MONEY WIGRAM &amp; SONS, 156, Leadenhall Street.

Communications for the Editor, and Advertisements, should be sent under cover to Messrs. Wm. H. Allen & Co., 7, Leadenhall-street.

COUNTRY AGENTS:—
Edinburgh, W. Blackwood and Sons.
Dublin, Hodges and Smith.
Brighton, C. Booty.

LONDON:—Printed by CHARLES WYMAN, of 13, Hunter Street, Brunswick Square, in the Parish of St. George, Bloomsbury, Printer, at the Printing-Office of COX (Brothers) & WYMAN, 74 & 75, Great Queen Street, Lincoln's-Inn Fields, in the Parish of St. Giles-in-the-Fields; and published by LANCLOT WILD, at 13, Catherine Street, Strand, in the Parish of St. Mary-le-Strand, all in the County of Middlesex.—July 18, 1854.

of our friends in Manchester. Like the editor of the Telegraph, from which paper we extract it, we offer no opinion as to the probable success, or want of success, which the projectors may look for. Like other speculators they must take their chance, and as we are no speculators we shall be content to look on. The good which Britain has conferred on India is of incalculable amount. But the gentlemen who are most noisy in bawling for justice to that country, have done it great harm by ruining its manufactures. Perhaps these gentlemen will take some shares in the new concerns, and give them the benefit of their experience.

"A speculation—or undertaking—has lately been set on foot by certain parties in Bombay, which will not only prove very remunerative, but also cause a great change in many of our mercantile relations with England. The enterprise is nothing less than to erect in the cotton districts of Guzerat two very large spinning factories, where cotton cloths and piece goods can be turned out as well as at Manchester, and for about seventy-five per cent. less expense. The shares of these concerns—each factory is completely separate from the other in every way—are almost entirely in the hands of monied Englishmen, residents of Bombay, men who know the country and are up to what can be done here. The shares—although in very large amounts, and not transferrable for three years—were picked up in two days, the money subscribed in a week, and the machinery for one factory is now on its way out from England. One factory is to be erected in the cotton districts about Broach, the other in those near the coast. If these pioneers of a new era in Indian industry succeed, no doubt but that others will follow in their footsteps. An instant's consideration will suffice to show what an advantage in prices cotton goods manufactured out here will command. Instead of the staple having to be packed in Guzerat, sent at a great expense to Surat, shipped in country boats to Bombay, transhipped to England, manufactured there into cloth, and then sent back to India—to say nothing of the insurance, freight, commission, brokerage, and all the thousand items which swell accounts current—the Guzerat spinners will simply have to select the very best cotton they can find, work it, and send it all over the country for sale.

"Should the speculation succeed, and we see no reason why it should not, but many—considering the long-headed men who have embarked money in it—why it should, the benefit to the surrounding districts of Guzerat will be great indeed. We may, in fact, look forward at no distant day to see an Eastern Manchester near Broach and Surat become once more a port for a very considerable export trade."

The Governor of Bombay was about to recreate at Poonah. Those who think that such a step requires an apology (which we do not), will find it in the following passage from the paper last quoted.

"The Governor takes his departure from the Presidency for Poona on Thursday next, the 22nd instant—at least such are his Lordship's present intentions, nor is he likely to defer his journey, unless the English mail should not arrive by the aforesaid day.

"As a general rule, the absence of the Governor from the Presidency is detrimental to public business, and, therefore, much to be deprecated; but there is a reason in everything, and a very great difference exists between absence from Bombay every year from the early part of March to the middle of January—as was the custom of our late Governor, and as appears, by the way, to be the custom of our Right Reverend Bishop—and a move from the Presidency to Poona for July, August, and part of September, as we hear is the intention of Lord Elphinstone. During the next three months we shall have but three direct mails to England—and at this season there is a stagnation of business in every department and in every office. One month's leave of absence during the year is what every one in and out of Government offices considers himself entitled to during the year, and it would be a hard case if the Governor was not allowed some change during the twelve months, particularly as his work follows him wherever he goes.

"There is, moreover, a great change since this time last year, in the Governor's residence near Poona. We allude to the electric telegraph, which is now complete and in working order between the Presidency and Government House, Dapoorie. Were his Lordship's presence required in Bombay, the message could be sent up in a few minutes, and six hours would suffice to bring him down here. Under these circumstances, and for these reasons, a temporary absence from the seat of Government cannot be condemned, nor is it contrary to the spirit of the evidence which Lord Elphinstone gave before the Committee on Indian affairs."

From a letter addressed to the Secretary to Government by Major Trevelyan, Political Agent in Cutch, it is painful to learn that suttee still prevails in that country.

The water question continues to agitate Bombay.

A new candidate for public patronage, bearing the title of the Sind Kossid, is now before us. It informs us that theatricals flourish in Sind, and nothing else. As the heat of the weather is represented as oppressive, we are somewhat surprised at the encouragement afforded to the dramatic art. The heat has closed one house in London, and will probably close others.

The latest intelligence from China, we give in the following extract from the Friend of China.

"We have to reverse the usual order of our report, and, as undoubtedly most interesting at home, give, before our Chinese provincial intelligence, a detail of the progress and position of British arms in these seas. The Malta, with the declaration of war by combined France and England against Russia, arrived on the 25th of May. Within an hour the blue peter was flying on board the Winchester, 50 guns, Spartan, 28, and paddle-steamer Baracoula, 6; and at sundown those vessels left the harbour, bound, it was generally believed, in search of the Russian frigate Pallas, and corvettes Olivontza, Ducina, and Aurora, all presumed to be hovering on the coast of China, waiting for the announcement of war to commence offensive operations. Admiral Stirling, with commendable foresight, took due precaution in preventing the Russian admiral from obtaining the despatches which had been kindly forwarded to him (by his agents here) in the British ship Akbar. It is said that before the Akbar reached Shanghai, her mails were taken out of her by H.M.S. Rattler, and that they now lie at the British Consulate, Shanghai, under seal; applications for letters by the several Russian officers there, having been rejected until the declaration of war or otherwise became known.

"The Russian steam-tender Vostock has been busy boarding vessels to inquire for news, and on one occasion was within a mile of H.M.S. Stryx, her vicinity having been hid by a thick fog. The Stryx tried the Vostock's rate of going for an hour or two, and found that with two boilers on the lowest grade of expansion, it was quite possible to keep way with her. The Vostock ran away to the south-east, and has not since been seen, although one report runs that she passed through Hong-Kong Harbour only a few nights ago, and that boatloads of provisions have been despatched hence to be put on board the squadron directly they arrive. Reports, however, were still, up to a week ago, being taken to Shanghai, by Chinese fishing boats, of six Russian vessels as not far from the port; and with a head wind to contend against, they can hardly be in Hong-Kong under a fortnight at the least. Indeed, the more we think on the matter, the more we feel certified that Hong-Kong is not the place where Russians will make any demonstration—hard knocks and little pelf being all the substantiality they can at all anticipate. Apparently struck, however, with the want of defence against Chinese pirates, of which there are large numbers close to us, his excellency the admiral has directed the Spartan to return here.

"The day after a grand ball at Government House, given on the anniversary of her most gracious Majesty's birthday, his excellency Sir John Bowring took his departure for Shanghai in H.M.S. Baracoula, with intention, it is said, of proceeding to Nanking so soon as the exigencies of the service permit the admiral to place a steam vessel at his excellency's disposal. During his absence the government of the colony has devolved on the honourable the lieutenant-governor."

CASUALTIES BY DEATH IN THE ARMIES OF INDIA, REPORTED SINCE OUR LAST PUBLICATION.

H.M.'s TROOPS.—Capt. T. C. Annesley, 60th Rifles, at Gyah, May 20; Major Goddard, 14th L.D., from the rupture of a blood-vessel, at Simla, May 31.

BENGAL.—Capt. the Hon. R. V. Powys, Inv. Estab., at Binsur, near Almora, May 26; Lieut. G. R. Smith, 52nd N.I., at Meerut, June 1; Capt. H. Tanner, Inv. Estab. at Monghyr, May 29.

MADRAS.—Lieut.-Col. W. Bremner, at Kamptee, June 6; Capt. O. Smith, 33rd N.I., at Nagode, May 26; Lieut. E. Tomes, 2nd N. Vet. Bat. at Ongole, May 28.

BOMBAY.—Major J. Watkins, commanding 23rd N.L.I., of apoplexy, at Goondree, near Deesa, while the deceased was en route to Mount Abou.

BURMAH.

The following is from our correspondent at Thyet Myoo, dated May 25, 1854:—

The news that the Baltic fleet had sailed reached this station on the eve of Her Majesty's birthday. That event and the account of the ceremonies which preceded the departure of the fleet raised the enthusiasm of our garrison to the very highest pitch. Yesterday the anniversary was kept, we flatter ourselves, in a manner worthy of the sworn servants of the Crown. Our gallant little frigate, the Mahanuddy, decked out by the prominent loyalty of her gallant commander, Captain Eales, with the gayest flags, fired the customary salute, and announced to the astounded Burmans that we possess a sovereign whom we love, reverence, and adore, and on whose account it is our highest and chiefest pleasure to risk our lives and fortunes. In the evening a large party assembled at the hospitable board of the 1st Fusiliers. No sooner was the cloth removed, than the gallant colonel, in a very eloquent and impressive speech, proposed the health of Her Majesty. The allusions made in this speech to the thrilling events, the news of which had just arrived, drew forth unbounded applause. The toast was drunk with the greatest enthusiasm, all standing as the magnificent band played our grand national anthem.

Major Seaton then rose to propose the second toast, "Sir Charles Napier and the Baltic Fleet." In the course of his speech, he made a graceful and touching allusion to the farewell scene between Her Majesty and Charley, which was loudly cheered. He finished by expressing his conviction that the united fleet would prove more than a match for the batteries of Cronstadt, and the vessels of the Czar. This speech was loudly applauded, the band playing, "Over the water to Charlie."

"Lord Raglan and the Army" was toasted in a very efficient manner by Capt. Cunliffe. Air—"Britons strike home."

The health of Her Majesty's august ally the Emperor of the French was then proposed by Lieut. Malleison, who wound up his remarks by expressing his conviction, that the troops sent by the nephew to combat alongside of us on the Danube, would prove as worthy allies, as their fathers sent by the uncle to combat against us at Salamanca, Vittoria, and Waterloo, had proved themselves worthy opponents of British troops. Air—"Partant pour le Syrie."

"The 50th and the other Queen's regiments who served with us on the Sutlej," was proposed by Capt. Richardson, and drunk amidst loud cheering. Several other toasts followed. Not one was more heartily drunk than "Colonel Welchman and the 1st Fusiliers," proposed by Capt. Richardson. The applause must have been particularly gratifying to the gallant colonel, who so justly commands the esteem of all who know him.

I have given you but a very hasty sketch of this entertainment, but even now the mail is closing, and I fear this may be too late.

We have literally no news to send you.

ARRACAN.

The following is from our correspondent at Akyab, dated the 17th ultimo:—

"For the last few days clouds have been flying about in all directions, and though the weather at times looked most threatening, no rain has as yet come to our relief. The oldest inhabitant predicts that the periodical rains will set in on the 20th, and I hope that his prophecy may turn out correct. There is very little sickness just now, and I hope it will not be worse when the rainy season sets in. We have not seen a steamer for some time, but we don't care now so much about it, as the last brought us a good supply of stores. Our memorial to the Governor-General was ready, but as the steamer has relieved us in some degree of our wants, we have forgotten and forgiven the past, and the less said about it the better. You will of course have heard that Capt. Faithfull is to come down again and officiate for Hopkinson whilst absent on sick leave. A better selection could not have been made, for Capt. Faithfull is not only a most efficient officer, but also universally liked. Turtles have of late been very scarce, and if the rains set in on the predicted day, none will be seen for months to come. This may appear very stale news for the readers of your paper, but it is of great importance to Calcutta epicures. No news from Burmah. All quiet in the Aeng Pass. After the last lesson administered to them the wild hill tribes have given up kidnapping our coolies. You shall hear from me again if anything occurs worth writing about.—Hurkaru, June 13.

Only one officer of the 36th M.N.I., Lieut. Shortland, adjutant of the regiment, has lost his life in the wreck of the fleet conveying the head-quarters of the corps to Tonghoo, but we regret to say that no less than 80 men have perished, and also two men of the detachment of European artillery.

BENGAL.

COMPANY'S PAPER.

A report has been circulated in the bazaar that English holders of Company's paper intend to sell out their stock, and have the proceeds remitted to them, in the hope that the war with Russia will afford an opportunity of investing capital at home with greater advantage than it can be done at present in India. The thing is perfectly absurd. Were holders at home bent upon following such a course, they would only cut their own throats; for, as the sale or purchase of the Company's paper must soon become known in the market, the fact of large sales being effected for the purpose of remitting the proceeds to England would have an immediate effect upon the rates of exchange, so that money could not be remitted home except at a very high premium. The circumstance which has given rise to the report is, we believe, that several parties holding paper of the transfer loan have declined to avail themselves of the proffered transfer into the guaranteed four per cent. loan; but they evidently overlooked the fact, that by taking payment they incur at once a positive loss.

According to the conditions under which the payment of the loan was advertised, they must receive either cash in India, or bills on the Court of Directors at twelve months' date. The former entails upon them the commission of the agents with the attendant risk of an unfavourable exchange; the latter deprives them at once for twelve months to come of any interest at all. Having once intimated their desire to receive payment, they have no option left, and must, therefore, take payment either in cash or by bills, as they may have expressed a wish at the time they omitted to avail themselves of the proffered transfer. But whatever they may have decided upon, it is quite immaterial, as the Indian Exchequer is fully prepared to meet their wishes. It was but a few days ago that in commenting upon the Friend of India's remarks on railways, we expressed our opinion about the inadvisability of applying the large balances in the Indian treasuries for other than the legitimate purposes for which they are intended, and here we have a proof that our reasons for so doing were not unfounded. We are afraid that many of the stockholders, who are speculating upon the probable effects of the war with Russia upon the finances of the country, will deeply regret to have lost the opportunity of availing themselves of proffered transfer of the 5 per cent. transfer stock into the guaranteed 4 per cent. book debt.—Hurkaru, June 2.

THE EAST-INDIA RAILWAY COMPANY.

The following is, we believe, a more complete and accurate statement of the arrangements already concluded between the East-Indian Railway Company and the several contractors for the execution of the works along the extension line to Delhi than that which we quoted from the Friend of India last week.

From Coolcool, near Burdwan, to the More, a distance of forty-five miles, the Company, as correctly stated by the Friend, is constructing its own works. The line thence to Colgong, a distance of 125 miles, through Rajmahal, is in the hands of Messrs. Nelson, Smith, and Co., of whom Mr. Smith was formerly an engineer in the service of the Company, under contract. From Colgong to Powie, a section of eighty-six miles, Messrs. Mackintosh and Co. have taken the works under contract; but these contractors are not, as the Friend erroneously supposes, the firm who next to Messrs. Hunt, Bray, and Emsley have been most successful on that portion of the line already constructed. Messrs. Mackintosh and Co. have held no previous contract; but as the principal members of the firm are partners in that of Mackintosh, Burn, and Co., builders of considerable experience in this country, and Messrs. Jardine, Skinner, and Co. stand sureties for them to the Company, there is every reason to suppose that the contract for this section of the line will be executed with vigour and efficiency. From Powie, Messrs. Ward and Co. take up the works as far as Phoolwarree, a distance of seventy-five miles. Mr. Ward, well known as a member of Jessop and Co., possesses both activity and local experience, and the capital of the firm is found by a barrister not of the briefless order. We consider, therefore, this section of the line also as satisfactorily disposed of. From Phoolwarree to the Kurumnassa (the boundary of Bengal) and thence to Benares, a section of 130 miles, the works have been undertaken by Messrs. Burn and Co., the successful contractors alluded to by the Friend, though under a wrong name and mentioned in the wrong place. From Benares to Allahabad, a distance of ninety-four miles, the works had been let to Messrs. Hunt and Emsley, to whom the Friend has assigned the palm among Indian contractors. A section of the line from Allahabad upwards, about 120 miles in length, has been assigned to Messrs. Norris and Co. We have heard that Messrs. Mackillop, Stewart, and Co. back Mr. Norris with capital, if indeed they do not take an interest in the contract.

Some portion of the upper part of the line remains still undisposed of, but above Allahabad the country is smooth as a bowling-green, and there can be no difficulty in providing for the completion of the works, either by contractors or by the company itself.

On the whole, we think that the company has both displayed judgment and been favoured by good luck in the "placing" of the several portions of its line. On all the worst parts it has men of pith and tried ability. The heavy stone-cutting falls to the share of Messrs. Hunt and Emsley, perhaps the only men in India who would have faced the work. On the portions of the line entrusted to Messrs. Mackintosh and Co. and Messrs. Burn and Co. will be some of the heaviest brick work, to which, as builders in a large way of business, they may be supposed fully equal.

Of the great bridging works, those over the Soane and Jumna, the latter is, we believe, included in Messrs. Hunt and Emsley's contract; but we imagine that the former has not yet been tackled by any contractor.

We believe that a plan for crossing the main rivers by wooden bridges of a temporary character has been suggested to the railway company's engineer, and favourably received. The delay which would be occasioned by waiting for the construction of permanent structures will be thereby avoided, and a considerable expense, which double stations and double rolling stock would have entailed on the company, should it have been resolved to open the line before the completion of all the bridges, will be avoided.

The time limited by all the contracts for the completion of the works is, as the Friend states, the 31st of December, 1856. We must consider this as in some degree a paper date; indeed we know that some of the contractors, while in the very act of signing the tender, having declared the impossibility of being up to time. Nevertheless, we hope in all 1857 or early in 1858 to be able to book through from Calcutta to Delhi. Bengal Hurkaru, June 1.

REVENUE OF THE NORTH-WEST PROVINCES.

The "Report by the Sudder Board of Revenue on the Revenue Administration for the official year 1851-52," has just been printed. It is dated 23rd September last, a year and a half after the expiration of the period to which it relates, and the Board, not without reason, regret the delay that had occurred, and which is accounted for by reference to the fact that the returns from all the divisions had not been received till after the 30th June previous. Some of the divisional authorities it would thus appear, required more than a year to complete and send in their separate reports.

The entire demand for land revenue in 1851-52 was Rupees 4,30,81,012, of which Rupees 4,25,84,042 had been collected, leaving a balance to be realised of Rupees 4,96,970, or of 1.13 per cent. on the entire demand. In 1850-51 these outstanding balances amounted only to Rupees 3,06,154, or 0.71 per cent.

The difference is attributed to the nature of the seasons respectively. That of 1850-51 was one of unusual prosperity. The rain, we are told, was not only more abundant than in the following year, but more favourably distributed over the twelve months with reference to the rubbee and khurreef harvests. The average fall of rain throughout all the divisions in 1850-51 was,—for the khurreef 26.75 inches, for the rubbee 4.48 inches; total, 31.23 inches. In 1851-52 the fall was,—khurreef 25.37 inches, rubbee 2.74 inches; total, 28.11 inches. A deficiency of even only three inches of rain in a country where the aggregate is so small, may suffice to account for a considerable amount of agricultural difficulty and distress; especially when, as in 1851-52, the want occurs just at the time when rain is most required, i.e. in the months of September and October. Still, the arrears of 1851-52, though in excess of those of the preceding years, were less than those of 1848-49, and 1849-50, which were, the former 1.879, and the latter 1.112 per cent. upon the entire demand.

Coercive measures for the realization of the land revenue were somewhat more extensively resorted to in 1851-52, than in the years preceding,—in the different forms of sales, farms, transfers, dustucks, &c. The Board are glad to perceive, however, that the process of transferring defaulting pottées to sharers of the same community, has been used successfully instead of the more extreme measures of sale, farm, &c.

The number of summary suits in the Revenue Courts has increased from 24,152 in 1847-48, to 30,602 in 1851-52, and the decisions from 16,200 to 21,696 in the same period. But the Board observes with regret, that the number of cases adjusted or withdrawn remains nearly stationary, being 7,319 in 1847-48, and 7,150 in 1851-52. It is suggested as probable, however, that the facility afforded to the landlord on the one hand of obtaining his just dues, and to the cultivator on the other of resisting exaction, by the adjudication of their suits through the tehseldars who are on the spot, has brought many cases into court, which would not have been worth the trouble and expense of litigation at a distant sudder station.

Changes in the possession of property seem very numerous, and to be gradually and constantly increasing in number. Those registered as affected by the courts or by private transfer, have extended from 8,930 in 1847-48 to 12,426 in 1851-52. What may be the occasion of these frequent mutations, or what their frequency indicates, we cannot conjecture. It is to be feared, however, that they afford no proof of growing prosperity among the people.

While there has been a falling off in the land revenue there has been an increase in that derived from the abkaree. The entire demand in 1851-52 was Rs. 21,89,640, of which Rs. 21,06,696 was collected; while in the preceding year, of a demand for Rs. 21,16,059, only Rs. 19,86,491 was realised within the twelve months. The difference in favour of 1851-52 is ascribed to good management, but it may possibly be attributed, in part at least, to the fact that a distressed people are more prone to drink than a thriving one. This view is in some degree justified by the report, which shows that those districts which present the greatest deficiency in the value of land revenue exhibit the largest returns under the head of abkarree. Thus we find that, while in Kumaon the land revenue balances were considerably increased, in consequence, as the report states, of a dreadful visitation of cholera, the abkarree exhibited an improvement, "notwithstanding the epidemic." In Rohilcund again, where an unfavourable season rendered remission of rent necessary, there was no falling off in the abkarree. Thus, too, in Banda, where the results of the year, as regards land revenue, are described as the reverse of favourable, the improvement in the abkarree is "especially observable"—and is set down to the exertions of Sirdar Khan, the deputy-collector.

The net income from stamps has undergone but little change, having been Rs. 13,90,786 in 1851-52, and Rs. 13,45,680 in the preceding year.—Agra Messenger, June 3.

THE ROOS AND THE COMMANDANT OF THE SCINDE HORSE.

Major John Jacob, of the Bombay presidency and the Scinde irregular horse, appears to be one of those indefatigable, restless, interfering, never let-well-alone sort of personages, who are continually poking their noses into places where those organs are not required, and getting themselves and other people into scrapes which they find it difficult to extricate either from afterwards. Major Jacob's career has been an eventful one. He has had his quarrel with the Napier, and it may be supposed has not, and will not, forget it. Doubtless, he looks back with exultation on the scold, but there are men of rank, equally brave and able as himself, who under any circumstances would have shrunk from unseemly antagonism with the old and gallant general. The major, too, has had his attack upon the army of this presidency. He accused Bengal officers of a laxity of moral feeling—to an extent that would not be tolerated for an instant on this side of India. It would have been easy then, and now, to retort in the same vein, but such a course could not be condescended to, and the animadversions of the commandant of the Scinde horse, were received with that silent and withering contempt they so richly merited. Dissatisfied, perhaps, with the little real notice taken of his attack upon this army, he, intending probably to take all three in turn, next visited his displeasure upon the army of his own presidency. However, though full of childish suggestions, and the crudest of military notions, somehow or other, this brochure attracted more notice than that which preceded it. Unluckily for Major John Jacob, it attracted the notice of the Court of Directors. He had at least this time succeeded, in obtaining for himself that notoriety which one would think he regards as the stepping-stone to honour and promotion, and in gagging the armies of India. And now having succeeded in debarring the officers of the Indian army from the expression of any opinions through the public press, it is but right that he should feel the full enormity of his offence.

We have been led into these observations by seeing in the Bombay papers a statement that the errant major, accompanied by another officer and sixteen sowars, had been lately visiting the Khan of Khelat; had been spoken to by its chief, relative to a subsidy from the British Government; and had captured and "bound" some persons pointed out to him by the khan as Russian emissaries.

It may be suspected that, if numerous, the major and his sows must have found their prisoners a capture entailing no slight inconvenience. We are unable to anticipate how they decided upon their ultimate disposal—whether to send them to Bombay as state prisoners, or suffer them to remain in Khelat in the paid durance of its khan. That they were Russian emissaries at all, and not some unfortunate travellers or merchants, whose goods and chattels had excited the cupidity of the chief, can hardly be believed on his own statement. When it shall suit the court of St. Petersburg to intrigue in that quarter, it will do so in the full possession of the knowledge that the khan himself is so needy as to render unnecessary any indirect method of purchasing at his hands, either the annoyance of our frontier, or his good will towards any force passing through his country bent on the invasion of this.

These frontier chiefs only court British notice and alliance, that they may obtain on false pretences the subsidies our Government has been so often wheedled out of. They have always proved themselves faithless and double dealing; and if they received Company's silver to-morrow, would not be a whit too honest to finger Russian gold, for a directly contrary purpose, the day after. They are powerless in themselves, and for all that they could do in assisting or checking the progress of an invasion, are as little to be dreaded. Should Russia ever determine on the invasion of this country, the place to meet her armies, be they either her own troops or the subsidised forces of the Western Asian chiefs, will be upon the threshold of our own territories; but it is very doubtful, no matter how great the preliminary preparations, that any invading force will ever reach our frontier, of which the available brigades of the Punjab would not be able to give a good account. Our policy should be a strong and well defined frontier and the proud indifference of ready strength to all beyond it; for if the British rule in the East is to fall, it will not be beneath the sword of the foreign invader, though it may tremble before the force of a public opinion, which has already had its birth, already made the first faint efforts of its power felt, and which, if treated with that disregard which the Company's Government would fain evince, may one day become dangerous.—Englishman, June 9.

THE COURT OF DIRECTORS AND THEIR EUROPEAN SOLDIERY.

Saturday's Gazette contained some announcements of importance, amongst others, an order intimating that all soldiers of either H.M.'s or the Company's services, are to be entitled to claim the medal and gratuity given for long service and good conduct, or the medal and annuity for meritorious conduct, without reference to whether their servitude has been passed doing regimental duty, or on staff employ. This is a great boon, or, perhaps, more correctly speaking, the remedy of a great grievance. Heretofore, under the operation of the rules regulating the distribution of these, by far too restricted rewards, none of the Company's army, but soldiers and non-commissioned officers, who had done nearly uninterrupted duty with their corps were entitled to either gratuity or annuity; and the consequence of such a regulation was, that magazine, commissariat, cattle, and barrack sergeants, and a host of others, who, through good conduct and intelligence had been promoted to births on the staff, were debarred from the enjoyment of benefits expressly intended to induce others to follow in their footsteps and emulate their good conduct.

Luckily this great cause of complaint no longer exists; but we believe there is another circumstance connected with these rewards that calls loudly for the attention of those possessing the power of remedying it. We have said that they are far too restricted, and we believe that, upon inquiry, it will be found that the Court of Directors is not above practising with their European troops, the mean subterfuge of publicly tendering to the well conducted amongst them, certain pecuniary donations and annuities, to be given as it were to all really entitled to them, but in reality to be doled out in such proportion as a miserably small and rigidly fixed allotted sum may be sufficient to cover. This is the sheerest deceit dispiriting to men, who are too intelligent not to be aware of it, and disgraceful to the Government, by placing the authorities in the position of those who, under false pretences, achieve a reputation for good deeds.

The Gazette also mentions the promotion to the rank of Lieutenant on the invalid establishment, of Conductor James Foster, on the grounds "of his long and highly distinguished services in the Burmese War in 1824-25-26, in the Afghan War of 1842-43, and in the Sutej campaign of 1845-46," a promotion as honourable to the individual on whom it has been conferred, as discreditable to the authorities who—considering such services—so tardily render it; and who (according to the Gazette) even waited to be memorialized before they did so.

Naturally disgusted with so obvious and inexcusable an indifference to good and true service, and well aware that Lieut. Foster's is not a solitary case, it is with something like pleasure that we notice in the same page an indication that the present authorities in India are by no means indifferent to the comfort and welfare of their European soldiery. The matter to which we allude is an order directing the issue by the commissariat of cooking utensils for the use of the European troops of this presidency, a most excellent provision, and one that will doubtless be hailed with no small gratitude by those for whose benefit it is intended.

The Gazette likewise publishes some very liberal regulations as to the staff to be allowed to wings of regiments in case of being detached from each other; as well as the retirement from the service of Capt. James Whiteford, of the artillery, on the pension of major, with some other military announcements, which have already appeared in our columns, and which require no comment.—Englishman, June 12.

THE NEW CIVIL FURLOUGH RULES.

We republish on our outside sheet the despatch of the Court of Directors, containing the new furlough rules for the Indian civil service. Though not perhaps adequate to satisfy an overstrained expectation, they will in general, we imagine, be regarded as a boon. They are decidedly an improvement on the old rules in clearness, simplicity, and adaptation to the circumstances of the hour. With one exception, moreover, the liberality of their provisions is strangely contrasted with that of the rules applied to military officers in civil employ. Whatever is excellent in those rules has been retained, unaltered by the restrictions which have created so universal a feeling of disappointment. The exception, however, is important. No option whatever is allowed between the ancient and the present rules. From the moment of their promulgation they will be absolutely in force, and however long his service or weak his health, the civilian must accept the restrictions imposed, as well as the benefits conferred.

And first with respect to furloughs. It was hoped, and perhaps expected, that in this respect one important innovation would have been permitted. It has frequently occurred that officers have been compelled for personal reasons to take furlough, who are so peculiarly qualified for the offices they hold, that the Government would willingly submit to the inconvenience of an acting appointment. Hitherto no such arrangement has been possible. The civilian may have qualified himself for his post by the labour of a life, he may be the only man absolute competent to fill it, he may intend to be absent only for six months. But in spite of common sense, his own wishes, and the policy of the Government, his appointment must be resigned. The act of parliament is imperative, and government is driven to a justifiable evasion in the shape of personal pledges. This inconvenience still continues to exist. The Court might have removed it with a word. They had only to authorise the Governor-General in Council to make special exceptions, and it would have disappeared. For the rest, their instructions are sufficiently liberal. The three years' furlough remains at present. The allowances during the period of absence are unchanged. But the civilian may, if he pleases, divide his holiday into two, and relieve the tedium of an Indian residence by taking the two portions at intervals of ten years.

It is with respect to sick leave, that the most important innovations have been introduced. All distinctions of place and climate, European or Indian residence, charter limits, and lines of latitude and longitude are summarily abolished. The sick civilian may go anywhere where he thinks he can get well, to the Cape or Australia, Washington or London, wherever his tastes, his health, or his family connections may incline. The Court of Directors has formally recognised the existence of steam, and the possibility of railroads. Formerly, however, the officer was tempted to proceed to places within Indian limits by the certainty of retaining his appointment for two years. He can now retain it on sick leave even in England, but only for eighteen months. He may stay for three years; after the expiration of a moiety of that period, his appointment must be resigned. The time allowed will, in the majority of cases, be sufficient for restoration to health, and we may for the future regard eighteen months as the orthodox period of an officer's sick leave. The allowances, however, are reduced. Hitherto, the civilian absent at the Cape has forfeited only one-third of his salary. For the future, he forfeits one-half, nor can he in any case receive during the period of absence more than 1,000*l.* a year. Thus, under the old rules, a collector at the Cape would have received 1,440*l.* a year for three years. He will now receive only 1,000*l.* a year for eighteen months, with, however, the privilege of spending it in England. Should he stay longer than the year and a half, his allowances are reduced to 500*l.*, and after the three years, even should he obtain further leave, he will be compelled to maintain himself from his own resources. Even with these restrictions, however, so great are the temptations of Europe to an Anglo-Indian, that a severe fit of sickness will in many cases be regarded as a boon. The Courts are well aware of the fact, and their old jealousy of their medical servants, a jealousy which has repeatedly checked the relaxation of the furlough rules, suddenly revives. New and stricter formulas are again to be prepared, and will prove just as inoperative as those which are at present in force. No rules, however stringent, which admit of sick leave at all, can prevent occasional cases of malingering, and the cases which occur even now, are exceedingly infrequent. Englishmen, when once on the sea, relieved from constant work, and emancipated from the daily reek of a crammed cutcherry, rapidly recover. Dinner on board ship is always the event of the day, and the Court, who witness the arrival of healthy, rosy invalids, shake their heads in grave doubt of the fidelity of their surgeons.

There is one paragraph in the Court's Despatch which we must quote entire:

"We entirely concur in the opinion expressed in paras. five and six of your despatch in this department, date May 3, 1850, No. 21, that it is advisable to prescribe, by rule, some period of service after which civil servants shall not be appointed to any new office, nor be permitted to retain office which they may have held for a period of five years and upwards, and we have resolved to establish thirty-five years as the period of service for the purpose in question. This rule must, as you suggest, be subject to exceptions in special cases which are to be referred for our decision. In such cases your recommendation will not fail to receive our prompt consideration. The above rule may be applied to every civil servant appointed to office after its promulgation, and to the case of every other civil servant to whom it relates, at the close of five years from the date of its promulgation."

This rule, in fact, introduces a most startling innovation. In 1850, every civilian of 1854 and upwards will hold his commission at the pleasure of the Government. Without special permission, he cannot be suffered to remain; and the following list will show how extensive will be the swoop among the patres conscripti of the service:—John French, Abercrombie Dick, Charles Du Pre Russell, William Dampier, George Francis Brown, James Hardwicke Patton, Francis Gouldsbury, John Inglis Harvey, Sir Robt. Barlow, Bart.; George Charles Cheap, Thomas Wyatt, William Popham Palmer, Sir Robert N. C. Hamilton, Henry Ricketts, The Honorable Joseph Alexander Dorin, Edward Currie, John Dunbar, Richard Walker, James Grant, Henry Stainforth, Charles Bury.

The service generally arrive in India at the age of twenty-three, and it follows that in a few years a civilian of sixty will be as great a prodigy as a lady in some districts of Australia. Despite its apparent harshness, the rule will be considered just by the public, as well as by the juniors of the service. However much our forefathers may have overrated the dangers inherent in an Indian climate, thirty-five years' unbroken residence usual wears out the stamina alike of the intellect and the constitution. Old age is an invidious charge to bring against an officer, whose decay has been accelerated by the fidelity of his service, yet it has occasionally been necessary to compel the departure of a judge guiltless of any more serious offence. From this painful necessity, the Government for the future is happily exempt. The practical effect of the rule must depend greatly upon the manner in which it is observed. The Court, by ordering every case of exception to be referred for their special sanction, have rendered it almost peremptory, and we suspect the Government will find it most expedient to allow it to come universally into operation. In that case, senility, like want of education, and ignorance of the vernaculars, will have been excluded by law from the India civil service.—Friend of India, June 1.

THE DRAINAGE OF CALCUTTA.

The government of Mr. Halliday has opened with a demonstration in the right direction. We hope that it is indicative of what the reign may be throughout,—in itself clean, free from the mire and sewerage of jobbery, and radically given to the sweeping out of all filthy obstructions.

God helps those that help themselves, is the theme of the lieutenant-governor's first address to the public through his secretary. We perfectly agree with the sentiment, and perhaps there is no city in the world to which the doctrine is susceptible of more practical application than to Calcutta. The people of Calcutta are not altogether to blame for the evil of social indolence and the toleration of civic nuisances. Government must bear its fair share, which share justice compels us to own, is the lion's share. The lieutenant-governor very properly instructs the municipal commissioners, that if the town of Calcutta is to be drained, the people of Calcutta must drain it; but unfortunately the said people are very well aware by long experience that the E. I. Company has looked with a reproving eye on any demonstration of an inclination among the ditch citizens to help themselves. Had the lieutenant-governor more strictly accommodated the moral of his discourse to the actual history of events, he would have implied that if Calcutta is inclined to help itself, the Government will no longer be inclined, as it always has heretofore, to hinder its laudable activity.

We look upon the Municipal Commission as trash; it possesses no power, and it lingers among its own sewers in the most abject dependence. Perhaps a more hollow pretence for a civic corporation was never exhibited in any other civilized town. What can this commission do? Nobody regards it because every one knows that it is a sham. We take the liberty, therefore, of expressing to the Government of Bengal our opinion, that it would best become its dignity to invest the town of Calcutta with those powers of internal self-government which a town such as this ought to have. The lieutenant-governor cannot think that there should be any great difficulty in raising upon the credit of such a city as Calcutta the funds necessary for effecting a new system of drainage. The sarcasm admits of a rejoinder. The town of Calcutta will give no credit to Government until it finds itself able to deal with its own grievances in its own way. We have not the smallest doubt that ample means would be forthcoming, without any loan from Government, to provide for the complete drainage of the city; but no one feels the slightest care or inclination to busy himself in affairs that are essentially civic, but which Government monopolizes, while it sticks up a ludicrous sham yclept the Municipal Commission.

Official papers are easily constructed. The commissioners may address Mr. Grey, and Mr. Grey may reply in very practical sentences, with here and there a dash of sarcasm that reads spicily. But we beg to state, neither the commissioners, nor the lieutenant-governor, nor his secretary, are advancing the end in view a single jot. The indifference of the people of Calcutta is the consequence, and not the cause of the existing state of things. Government has made people what they are; and until Government chooses to unmake the evil it has created, the most able documents telling people to help themselves will fall still-born from the hands that pen them. In point of fact, truth does not strictly reside in the moral which the Government of Bengal teaches. As things at present stand, it would be more correct to say, Government will help those that will help the Government. While the authority of Government in this city continues as arbitrary as it is now, every one will perforce feel that whatever may be done is done for its benefit, and not for the benefit of the citizens themselves. The remedy is plain, and we cannot help expressing our conviction that the Government of Bengal is perfectly aware what the remedy is, only it cannot make up its mind to surrender, even remotely, a scintilla of authority. For the 999th time, we will reiterate the remedy to bad drainage, narrow thoroughfares, and all their attendant evils. Let the Government of Bengal use its sweeping-brush in the first instance to the commissioners for the improvement of the town of Calcutta. Sweep away the man of straw—poor—harmless—innocent—emasculated—the chronic incompetent, at which every one laughs, and no one can trouble themselves to despise, it is so helpless and infatigable in all its little ways. In the place of this, let Government create a municipal corporation—it matters not what name it gives it—invested with power, like the civic authorities in all our great British cities, colonial or otherwise: when this is done, there will be found plenty of people ready to interest themselves in the improvement of the town, the complete new drainage, watering, and lighting of the streets; and also there will be found plenty of money-lenders ready to advance the required funds for this and every other such highly necessary purpose. Verb. sap.—Hurkaru.

THE GOVERNMENT SAVING'S BANK.

A general order in the official Gazette announces that, in obedience to the instructions of the Court of Directors, the rate of interest on civil deposits in the Government Savings Banks is from the 26th of November next to be reduced from 4 to 3 per cent.; that the limit of deposits in regard to depositors of all classes be extended from Rs. 500 to Rs. 1,500, and that the interest of 4 per cent. per annum on the deposits of the soldiery is to be reduced to 3½ per cent. We do not admire the spirit that dictated this reduction. It is true that, in a financial point of view, it appears anomalous to allow depositors in the Savings Bank 4 per cent., whilst the State loan itself is reduced to 3½; but then it must be remembered that the deposits of single individuals were restricted to Rs. 500, and that as soon as any deposit reached that sum, the amount was immediately invested in Government paper, so that the State paid interest at the rate of 4 per cent. only for a limited period, and never on a sum exceeding Rs. 500 belonging to a single depositor. The reduction to 3 per cent. will have the effect of causing considerable contributions to the 3½ per cent. loan, because it will be for the interest of depositors to make up as soon as possible a sufficient sum to invest in the loan, which yields a return of one-half per cent. more than the Savings Bank gives. We believe that the amounts on account of the 3½ per cent. loan may be tendered for as small sums as Rs. 250. The measure will, however, affect all those who are obliged to have their business transacted through agents; for as the deposit by each depositor is by the new order extended to Rs. 1,500, the Government agent is not bound to invest the deposits until they reach the above sum, and if such be done through any other agent, the commission to be paid will absorb the difference of interest; so that in all likelihood a considerable amount will remain deposited at 3 per cent. Nobody can, however, complain, for there is no bank which would allow such a rate on floating deposits. Considering, however, the special purpose for which the Government Savings Bank was created, we confess that the reduction in the rate of interest is inconsistent with the spirit of liberality which generally characterises the Indian Government.

The poor soldier is also to be clipped; but, as if the Court of Directors were somewhat conscience-struck, the reduction is only  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. per annum. This we look upon as exceedingly injudicious, because it is for the interest of the State to encourage economy to the utmost among the soldiers; and instead of clipping the  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent., we think it would have been by far more advisable to increase the rate of interest by one per cent.—Hurkaru.

WANT OF ENCOURAGEMENT OF PRIVATE ENTERPRISE.

If the Indian Government had carried out every undertaking, which, in the opinion of the public, ought to have been done at the expense of the State, the vaults and coffers of the Treasury might have safely been thrown open for a complete ventilation, without the least fear of inviting the attention of robbers. It is unnecessary to go back to a remote period, for the proposals which have been before the public within the last few years, if carried out, would have swallowed up the whole of the balances. First came the plan of supplying the whole town of Calcutta with water from Pultah. Then we had dry and wet docks. After these came the drainage of Calcutta; the lighting of the town by gas; then a canal and a railroad to Diamond Harbour; all sorts of public buildings were to be erected; a lunatic asylum to be established; then came a bridge across the Hooghly; in fact, there was no end of projects, all of which Government were to carry out at its own expense for the special benefit of the town of Calcutta. It is somewhat strange, that, with the exception of lighting the Indian metropolis with gas, not one of all the other proposals induced private capitalists to form a joint-stock company, though all that time money was almost unprecedentedly abundant and cheap. If all the above undertakings were to pay Government, surely it might be expected that they would have yielded a still better return to private companies, for there is hardly any doubt that Government management is not the cheapest. To what, then, are we to attribute this reluctance on the part of private capitalists to invest money in enterprises which it is asserted will pay a handsome dividend? We will not maintain that it is a want of confidence or fear, that following precedents of years gone by, everything would be turned into jobbery; but we will rather ascribe it to the effects of the late commercial crisis, which has produced great caution and circumspection on the part of all those who may have money to invest.

In recording these views, we, however, by no means exonerate Government from all blame; on the contrary, we are of opinion that Government may justly be censured, not only for having done so little for the advancement of works of public utility, but also for the want of encouragement held out to private enterprise. It cannot be denied, that the several proposals which have been submitted from time to time by private parties, have met with no countenance whatever, and that many useless difficulties were thrown in the way, which proved a complete extinguisher of all hopes. We are of opinion that with regard to all works of great public utility, it is desirable that they should be left to private enterprise, because it prevents the creation of a monopoly and opens a fair field for competition, but at the same time no work of more than ordinary extent can be carried out effectually and efficiently unless Government holds out such encouragement as the nature of the undertaking may render necessary. Nowhere is the absence of such encouragement so much felt as in India, where the unsatisfactory state of the revenue system, as well as the defects in the judicial department in the Mofussil, must prove a serious drawback to the investment of capital in similar undertakings. And yet there is no country in which the Government itself is so directly interested in the establishment of those very works as in India, as everything would tend to contribute towards the revenues of the country. Railways, roads, canals, each must lead to a speedier and more extended development of the natural resources of the country.

There is another circumstance, which in India, more than anywhere else, renders the utmost encouragement on the part of Government necessary. We have seen the reluctance on the part of native capitalists to invest money in any undertaking not yielding an immediate and large return. Any funds required must therefore be supplied by European capitalists, and as there are but few who can command large sums, it follows that nearly the whole amount necessary to carry out an undertaking of some magnitude must be drawn from the mother country. To effect this some encouragement on the part of Government is absolutely required, especially as the manner in which English capitalists have been led by the nose with respect to railways is not likely to inspire people with much confidence. Moreover, times in India have greatly changed. The members of the services were once glad to invest their savings with commercial agents; but that period is gone by. Money now flows into the banks, where the returns are quicker and periodical. Those vast sums formerly lodged in agency houses would have been subscribed to any undertaking in which Government would have taken an interest; at present they are withheld even from works guaranteed by the State, such as the Railway, merely because people think that it is better to get a dividend of 8 per cent. per annum from a Mofussil Bank, than  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. from the Railway Company. Government cannot undertake to carry out every work of public utility at their own expense without cramping their financial resources, but they have it in their power to hold out such encouragement, as will call forth private enterprise, and induce people at home to invest capital in the undertaking.—Hurkaru.

ADDRESS TO GEO. HILL, ESQ., ON HIS RETIREMENT FROM OFFICE BY THE NATIVE ASSISTANTS IN THE TREASURY.

DEAR SIR,—As you are about to retire from the post of uncovenanted head assistant in the office of the Military Accountant, Fort William in Bengal—an office to which you did both honour and justice during your past incumbency—we, the native assistants of the same office, cannot, with a right sense of our duty towards you, allow the present opportunity to pass, without offering this humble testimony of the sense of gratitude and esteem with which you will be remembered by us as our late superior in office, at whose hands we have met with a just and impartial consideration of our rights and interests.

We are quite assured, that a man so generally and favourably known as yourself will gain little from the praises which we may bestow, but permit us to acquaint you that it is a sincere tribute of respect, such as is due to the character of a man like yourself, that we have this evening met in this hall to offer you thus publicly.

The ability and official integrity which have always marked your long career, have been noticed with approbation by your superiors in office, and need scarcely any mention at our hands on the present occasion. Partiality and favouritism were unknown to you in the discharge of your official functions, and instances without numbers are remembered, that in spite of the strongest recommendations you have given preference to men whose merits and qualifications deserved them,—a circumstance which in itself does sufficiently indicate the characteristic of a noble mind.

For these reasons and for the experience which you have acquired, your absence from the office will be greatly felt and your loss not readily repaired, but we regret that ill health has rendered it necessary, that you should retire from the cares and toils of a busy life, and we pray God that you may enjoy a long lease of life, a perpetual equanimity of mind untroubled by busy cares and live among your family and children, the patriarch of undivided love and affection.

We request you to accept the accompanying vase as a humble but sincere token of your esteem and regard, and with it our most respectful cordial farewell.

We remain, Sir, yours sincerely,
Fort William, Military Accountant's Office, June, 1851.
To GEORGE HILL, Esq.,
&c. &c. &c.

EXAMINATION RULES FOR THE UNCOVENANTED.

The Board of Revenue seem determined to carry out the new examination rules with a vengeance. They have just issued a circular intimating to all commissioners of revenue, that with reference to the new classification of deputy collectors, no one of these uncovenanted officials can expect gradual advancement until he has passed an examination of the second standard, and that no new officer will be appointed unless he has passed an examination of the first standard within twelve months. We cannot offer any objection to the latter condition, but we strongly apprehend that the first was never contemplated, and that the Board, as they do in almost everything, are carrying out rather the letter than the spirit of the regulations. A deputy collectorship is in the uncovenanted branch almost analogous to that of a collectorship in the covenanted service. It is the highest situation which the generality reach, and that only after a prolonged number of years in the service. What would the collectors think if they were called upon to pass an examination after fifteen years' service in the higher standard, and yet, although the new examination rules make no distinction, the qualifications of the deputy are to be tested again, but those of the covenanted remain unquestioned.

Looking upon these examination rules dispassionately, we cannot help perceiving that they bear uncommonly hard upon the uncovenanted, even if no difference were made in the test. As the object is to secure among the members of both services a thorough knowledge of the vernacular languages, and promotion being guarded by the degree of efficiency attained by the applicants, the apparent effect is that of a sort of commendable competition; but that competition is very different with the covenanted and the uncovenanted servant. The former has only to compete with his fellow brethren in the same service, without having anything to fear from outsiders. It is a privileged service into which no degree of proficiency or talent can obtain admittance. With the uncovenanted it is quite different. He has to compete with the natives, and hence his attainments are judged by a standard it is nowhere stipulated the civilian should reach. But the unfairness consists in the circumstance that, whilst the native has to pass only in his own language, no standard is prescribed for his attainments in English. Not that we expect any extraordinary proficiency in that respect of the Anglo-Saxon, still if he be obliged to pass in the vernacular, it is equally important that the native should pass in English. The objections to this latter course are, however, greater than may be anticipated from the circumstance that the result would be far from reflecting creditably upon the system of education pursued in our colleges, as it would show the utter uselessness of the notion to cram the native's mind with learning, for which he will never have any use.

The great reason assigned for this proficiency in the vernaculars is based upon the necessity that he who administers justice should be able to converse perfectly well with those who appear before his tribunal. But as long cases cannot be finally disposed of by native magistrates, &c., it is necessary that the submission of the facts to superior authority should be equally clear and intelligible. It hence follows, that whatever proficiency a man may have attained in the vernacular, it is of equal importance that he should possess also a thorough knowledge of English, or the only alternative left is that the superior authority referred to should understand thoroughly the vernacular. The superior authority is vested in covenanted judges; and hence, if it be necessary to take such stringent measures with uncovenanted deputies, we submit that there exists still stronger reason for exacting the same, if not a superior, standard from covenanted judges.—Hurkaru, June 13.

RUSSIAN VESSELS IN THE EAST.

Nicholas of Russia seems to have contracted an alliance with his namesake, the potentate of the lower regions, and to have been accommodated by the latter with the loan of a fleet under the command of Admiral Snarleyow, hoisting his flag on board the well-known cruiser The Flying Dutchman.

Two Russian line-of-battle ships reported to be at sea, says the telegraph from Europe. Two Russian frigates said to be in the Straits of Rhio is the last news brought by the China steamer. Doubtless these vessels are identical—degrees, latitude, and longitude being unknown quantities in the phantom system of navigation, and are also the same as were reported, some six weeks ago, as in the neighbourhood of Manila, but have not yet made Calcutta experience the horrors of war by cutting off her supply of cheroots.

We feel that we can just now afford to joke at the idea of a Russian fleet making its appearance in the Hooghly and beginning to play its broadsides upon the dome of Government House. If there have been any Russian ships in Pacific waters they were sailing vessels, and the commander, if a wise man, has long before this exchanged the latitudes of opium and tea for those of Australian gold.

But can we rest satisfied that this agreeable sense of security will continue throughout the war upon which we are now entering with an enemy of insatiable ambition, great resources, and no despicable courage and enterprise? Steam is a despiser of geographical distances, and squadrons of observation almost as contemptuous as any commander in his Satanic majesty's service. What would be the sensation on the Course at driving time if, some twelve or eighteen months hence, the telegraphic reports of the morning, ill understood during the day, announcing the arrival at Kedgerie of first one and then another large steamer, should receive their interpretation in the evening in the shape of a brace of Russian war frigates, screwing up the river in defiance of all port regulations, returning with interest a salute from the fort, and beginning to knock our much boasted palaces about our ears, in a manner truly gratifying to Messrs. Burn and Co. and Mackintosh, but not perhaps equally pleasant to the Qui-hyes, their occupants, who might not relish being shelled out by the Russians at night, and having to shell out to the Russians in other fashion in the morning?

We have the least disposition possible to be alarmists. We feel as comfortable as the weather will permit; and sleep o' nights without dreaming of a domiciliary visit from Cossack or Red Russian, making themselves more familiar than welcome with our watch and diamond ring, and perhaps with our wife and daughters. But whilst at shaving time (the birth season of our brightest ideas, or those we fancy such) we do ask ourselves the question—"Might it not be as well to be prepared? Better be laughed at for a little over-caution, than have to cry after too much confidence." Then, notwithstanding Punch's culinary efforts upon the warrior of Brook Green, which left that illustrious individual in a state of crackling to which roast pig would be a fool, we cannot for the life of us see that there would be anything so very ridiculous were the European inhabitants of Calcutta to think about enrolling themselves into a corps of volunteers. There are plenty of them to furnish a very efficient regiment of foot and another of horse, which need not put the Government to the expense of a rupee, except in the matter of drilling. We do not see that the goose step is a bit more absurd than the polka; playing at soldiers would be just as good fun as a stupid evening drive, and then the excuse for wearing moustaches would be absolutely unexceptionable.

Even should the advent of a Russian squadron be considered beyond the bounds of probability, yet the presence of such a corps as we have hinted at, might place at the disposal of Government, in some emergencies more likely to occur, regular troops, which it might otherwise be thought necessary to keep in reserve at the presidency. It is extremely probable that troops from India will be called for in Turkey; and if for no other purpose than to detain such a brigade in this country, the machinations of our wily foe will be directed to the creation of disturbances in central Asia, if not disaffection and conspiracy in the interior of our own Indian empire. We cannot, therefore, but think that a juncture may possibly arise within the next year or two which would make Government not ungrateful for having the task of guarding the capital taken, at any rate, to some extent, off its hands.

We merely throw out a suggestion. Topics for discussion are not over rife; we therefore beg to bring on the tapis that of the Calcutta Volunteers.

We are quite prepared for a round of jeers and raillery from our contemporaries to-morrow morning, but after they shall have sufficiently expended their mirth, let them tell us seriously what they think of our proposition.—Ibid.

THE LONDON MAIL of April 24th arrived at Calcutta June 3rd (per Bombay).

SECRETARY TO THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.—We understand that it is the intention of the Governor-General to confer the post of Secretary to the Legislative Council upon Mr. Wylie, the first Judge of the Court of Small Causes.

THE PATNA AND GYA ROAD.—Government has sanctioned the construction of a metalled road from Doobee, on the grand trunk road to Patna on the Ganges, a distance of about seventy-nine miles, at an estimated expense of about ten lacs of rupees. The importance of this line of communication cannot be over-estimated by the native, and especially the Hindoo, community. Gya is the resort of a larger number of pilgrims than any other place of sanctity in Hindoostan, Benares, and perhaps Jugger-nauth, excepted. The inconvenience to which these pilgrims were subjected, owing to the dilapidated state of the road leading to the town, both from the Patna and the trunk road side, was very great, and the annual loss of life by sickness and hardship was fearful. The line of road now authorized to be constructed at the public expense also runs through a district of the greatest fertility, and in the highest state of cultivation. The districts of Behar, Patna, Shahabad, and Sarun, through or contiguous to which the road now planned will run, are the principal fields for the production of that useful class of esculents which, under the common name of doll, constitutes, next after rice, the principal food of the Indian population. Patna is the place from which all this produce is exported for the consumption of the neighbouring provinces. Hence, whatever facilitates the means of conveyance to that port affords a direct encouragement to the agriculture of that extensive region, and an appreciable relief to the consumers of its produce. How injuriously the want of communication practicable for wheeled carriages tells upon the freedom of export, and distribution of produce, is apparent from the following table, which we have extracted from the last published official statement of Prices Current:—

	Gya.	Patna.
Urhur	27½ seers	20 seers.
Khesarie	46 ..	36½
Mascullye	25 ..	36
Moorg	17 ..	34
Mussoor	34 ..	40
Gram	33½ ..	45
Rice	20 ..	26
Ghee (cow's)	2½ ..	1½
Cane-sugar	2½ ..	4

We have no doubt as to the general accuracy of the returns from which these statements are compiled. Our readers will find in the above table those articles priced higher at Patna than at Gya which are the produce of the district, while imported articles are priced higher in the interior. The difference is on an average a third over the price at which the articles are brought to the first market. Ought this difference to exist between two towns distant only sixty miles from each other?—Hindoo Patriot, May 25.

HIGHWAY MURDERS.—A friend who went up to Ishapore on some private affairs mentioned to us yesterday, that on his way to the above village he saw the bodies of four murdered travellers near Sothul. The darogah of Thannah Noiabuttee and his assistants were there instituting local inquiries, and the village and its neighbourhood were nearly emptied of their respectable inhabitants on the approach of the darogah. What the cause of the disappearance of the inhabitants was may be easily guessed by the public.—Hurkaru, June 8.

THE RIVER DAMOODAH.—We learn from the pilgrims who came to bathe in the river on the festival of the Dussaharah, and who reside in the Damoodah districts, that owing to the late heavy rain the Damoodah has overflowed its embankments, and in many places the water is above kneedeep. They mentioned to us that paddy crops which were about two feet high have been destroyed by the inundation.—Hurkaru.

BENARES.—From a Benares correspondent, we learn that the cavalry stables at Sultanpore are now a mass of ruins, having been entirely dismantled by orders from the Military Board. The bricks are being conveyed to Rancee-ka-Talao (on the Allahabad road) for some Government building now in course of erection near the cross-roads. A sale of withdrawn stallions from the central stud (Arab, English, and stud-bred) comes off on the 3rd of June. Great bidding is looked for by the numerous griffs. The new post-office, Bungalow, is speedily progressing. Colonel McCausland, commanding the 50th, is about to proceed on sick leave to the hills shortly. One marriage on the tapis already, and a probability of one or two others, ere many months elapse. The "Thomason Pillar" is, at last, standing erect in the college-garden. All honour to Captain Atkinson, the ex-engineer! Very hot! and we hope the rains may come in their own good time to cool the fiery atmosphere. When is our new brigadier coming? No signs of the mail yet. A hurried telegraphic scrap reached us a day or two ago.—Morning Chronicle, June 3.

CHUNAR.—A Chunar correspondent, dating the 22nd May, writes:—"Swords in this little place have not yet quite been turned into ploughshares, nor has the lamb laid down with the lion, but the preliminary organs of peace are now residing in the district; no less than two engineers of the East-India Railway Company have taken up their abode here—theodolites and dumpy levels are becoming as plentiful as mangoes, levelling staves are at a high premium, bis and tricoloured flags are fluttering in the breeze, and the long supposed mythical railway is fast becoming a substantial reality. Between this and Agra there are ten civil engineers and one district surveying engineer; these are indeed "signs of the times;" and if what these gentlemen say is the case, we may in four years hence expect to be hurled from this to Calcutta in ten hours, others of a more sanguine nature, adopting the go-a-head principles of America, declaring that with means at their disposal, they would guarantee the whole line between Calcutta and Mirzapore being completed and opened in a twelve-month. This, Mr. Editor, in my opinion, is all flam, neither do I expect at the expiration of four years even will their chimerical expectations be realized. The line of country through which the railway must pass in this district is probably one where more engineering ingenuity will be called into operation than upon any other part of the line (not including the Soan and the Jumna); it is intercepted with innumerable nullahs, which, though now for the most part dry, are in the rains perfect torrents, broad and deep, and running with such impetuous velocity, that anything in the shape of an ordinary bridge or embankment is invariably demolished, if not bodily carried away; yet, with all these difficulties to contend against, and where an unlimited scale of masonry must primarily be resorted to, I see no bricks being burnt—no stones being collected—no contracts entered into for the above material—no artificers and no workmen employed—though now is the time, for in the rains it is as useless to attempt to make bricks as to make hay; thus another year is thrown away; and if, after the lapse of four years, any of us should be very anxious to reach Calcutta in ten hours, we must be transmogrified into an alphabetical generation, and be conveyed thither by electric telegraph, for there will assuredly be no railway open in that time. In the mean time, as works progress, and hope springs up, I will occasionally give you a line, relating how difficulties have been successfully overcome by engineering skill, or how nature has signally triumphed over art."—Indian Standard, May 26.

BLUETT v. ROGERS.—We understand that the further proceedings against Mrs. Bluett, to which we alluded a few days ago, are in no way relative to her original libel upon Capt. Rogers, but in respect of the gratuitous slanders in which Mrs. Bluett indulged while giving her evidence on the trial of the action brought by Capt. Rogers, the object of which was to blast the reputation of the plaintiff's wife.—Calcutta Paper.

DR. McQUEEN is said to have been appointed to the charge of the medical duties of Shony-geen, in the province of Martaban.

A MOST ABSURD RUMOUR was yesterday (May 28) current in the town of Calcutta, that the Governor-General had directed the European soldiers in the fort, and the British sailors on board the ships in the river, to be let loose for the purpose of plundering the native population. Women generally, and even many men, were so thoroughly impressed with the truth of this report that they shut themselves up in their houses, and numerous workmen in Calcutta have left their employment and retired to their homes in the suburbs.

MAJOR J. H. BURN, 1st N.I., town major, Fort William, has been appointed superintendent of army clothing in Bengal, and auditor of clothing accounts.

MR. GEMNER, a German gentleman, has been appointed conservator of forests in the Tenasserim provinces, on a salary of Rs. 600 per mensem.

MR. MATE PILOT G. SAUNDERS. — The result of the Marine Court for the trial of Mr. Mate Pilot George Saunders for the loss of the barque Eliza is published in the Gazette. As expected Mr. Saunders has been acquitted fully of all and every part of the charges, the proceedings of the Court being fully approved of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

PROGRESS OF THE ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.—We have received the important intelligence, that the communication has been carried across the Sutlej and the Beas, and that a telegraph office will, in all probability, be opened at Lahore, in the course of another week. It has not, we believe, been definitely settled where the office is to be located, but we understand that negotiations are pending for the purchase of the house belonging to Mr. Kirke, at Anarkulee, and conveniently situated near the chief public offices. Mr. A. Todd is the officer deputed to take charge of the communication.—Lahore Chronicle, June 3.

BRIDGE ACROSS THE CHUMBUL.—H.H. the Maharajah of Gwalior, has given six lakhs of rupees to build a bridge across the Chumbul. An application has been made to the Governor-General for a competent engineer to superintend the work.—Mofussilite, June 1.

THE RIVER DAMOODAH.—We learn from the pilgrims who came to bathe in the river on the festival of the Dussaharah, and who reside in the Damoodah districts, that owing to the late heavy rain, the Damoodah has overflowed its embankments, and in many places the water is above knee-deep. They mentioned to us that paddy crops which were about two feet high, have been destroyed by the inundation.

MR. G. F. COCKBURN, the officiating chief magistrate, is to be president of the commissioners for the improvement of the town of Calcutta.

A MESSAGE sent by Lord Dalhousie to Lord Elphinstone to Bombay by the electric telegraph, took twenty-six hours and a half in its transmission.

RULES OF EXAMINATION FOR JUNIOR CIVIL OFFICERS.—We mentioned some time ago, that the stringent (scorpion) rules of examination for junior civil officers, on which promotion was to depend, first introduced, singularly enough, in Bengal, were about to be adopted in the North-Western Provinces and in the Punjab. We remark on the singularity of their being first introduced in Bengal, as it is so rarely that any real improvement of any kind originated in a province notoriously worse governed and managed than much more recent acquisitions. The arrangements for the adoption of these rules in the Punjab are, we understand, complete, and they are to be brought into operation, for the first time, on the 1st November next. They are to apply equally to assistants and extra assistants. All officers desirous of "going up" are to obtain leave for the occasion. Loodeeana is to be the place of examination for the Cis- and Trans-Sutlej states, the committee there to consist of the two commissioners and the deputy commissioner of the district. The Lahore divisional examination is to take place at the capital, and the committee to consist of the commissioner, and the deputies of Lahore and Goojranwala. The Jelum examination is to take place at the station of that name, and the examiners are to be the commissioner, deputy commissioner, and the present first-class assistant. One committee is to be for Mooltan and Leila, to assemble at Khangur, and to consist of both the commissioners, assisted by the deputy commissioner of the district. The Peshawur committee to assemble at that station, and consist of the commissioner, aided by the deputy commissioner of Hazara. A central committee is to be formed at Lahore, to consist of judicial and financial commissioners, with the secretary to the chief commissioner. They are to prepare the questions to be proposed to examinees by the divisional committees. We shall in our next give an outline of the examination which those anxious to be advanced in the service are to undergo.—Lahore Chronicle.

CAPTAIN BOWIE will, we believe, be appointed to the town-majorship in an officiating capacity, and discharge the duties of the post until the arrival in this country of Captain J. Metcalfe, 3rd N.I., at present on furlough in Europe, and on whom the situation will be permanently conferred.

BABOO MUTTY LOLL SEAL has set apart two lacs of rupees in his will for the performance of his shroud, and that his sons, in honour of their late father, contemplate adding another lac, to make the shroud as magnificent as possible.

THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.—Colonel Low had been added to the Legislative Council, and Mr. Wylie has been appointed its secretary.

DEATH OF MR. CAVANAGH.—We regret much to see the death of Mr. Hugh Cavanagh, of Cawnpore, recorded in our obituary. Mr. Cavanagh, in connexion with the Cawnpore Bank, was well known and highly respected by a large class of persons in these provinces. His illness was short, and death terminated it on the 2nd instant, his age at the time being 36 years.—Delhi Gazette, June 7.

DARJEELING, June 6.—The rains have begun I fear. During the last three days we have had a regular down pour; this is earlier than usual, in fact the season has been a most extraordinary one. We have had (for Darjeeling) no end of gay doings, two very pleasant dances, and I hear may expect more. Archery is the order of the day, besides the regular meetings, scoring days, &c. of the society (whose cognizance is a bow of Cerise ribbon). The bachelors of the dépot entertained the station at Leebong the other day in a most handsome manner, giving prizes to the ladies, which were well contested for and much admired; unfortunately the day was wet, which, however, did not damp the spirits of the guests or their entertainers, who did all in their power to make the party go off well, in which they succeeded admirably. The married men give a return I hear in the same shape. The assembly-rooms are at last rented for a moderate sum. The season being anti-dramatic, I expect the little theatre which was erected last year will be useless. The Masons, I understand, wish to start a lodge. The new barracks, now in the course of erection, as well as those under repair will, when finished, be magnificent buildings and very comfortable, well able to contain a larger dépot than the present one. The officers seem much crowded, thanks I hear to the Military Board. The station is not very full, and will remain in statu quo, I fear, as there are very few more people expected, which is a great pity, and would not be the case if the many advantages of the bright spot were better known; it is the cheapest hill station they say in India, no inconsiderable addition to the salubrity of the climate and the beauty of the scenery. A fire is quite bearable even now by day and night."

THE LATE LADY LAWRENCE.—We have only time to draw the particular attention of our readers to the following most interesting paper, handed to us this morning for insertion:—"Some friends of the late Lady Lawrence, wishing to perpetuate the memory of one so exemplary in all the relations of life, propose to establish a fund in connection with the Lawrence Asylum, the object of which shall be to provide donations for deserving girls on their leaving the institution. Those who either knew Lady Lawrence, or who approve of the object of this proposition, are invited to join in establishing an endowment, to be called 'Lady Lawrence's Fund.' The following gentlemen have kindly undertaken to act as a committee, and to receive subscriptions in aid of the above design: R. Montgomery, Esq., Lahore; Lieut.-Col. R. Napier, Lahore; Major H. B. Edwardes, Peshawur; Dr. C. Hathaway, Lahore; Rev. W. Jay, Agra; Rev. W. Parker, Kusoolie. Names of subscribers: Major and Mrs. H. B. Edwardes, Rs. 1,000; R. Montgomery, Esq., Rs. 500; Col. R. Napier, Rs. 500; Dr. Charles Hathaway, Rs. 300."—Lahore Chronicle, May 24.

SEALKOTE.—We have the following from Sealkote, dated 18th instant:—"It is said that Major J. Clarke, deputy commissioner of Goojranwallah, is to proceed shortly as political officer to Cashmere, and that Mr. F. Thompson, assistant commissioner of Sealkote, is to officiate for him at Goojranwallah. Another on dit is that Mr. Wedderburn, deputy commissioner of Lahore, goes on furlough to Europe in October next, and that Mr. Temple, at present in charge of the Goojerat district, is to succeed him. This promises to be a mild hot season compared with other years. We have had no hot winds as yet—the occasional showers of rain that fall have kept them back. It is still cold in the morning, and a light quilt is still used by the natives who sleep out in the open mydam. I hear the telegraph posts have been put up as far as Wuzerabad. Perhaps you will be able to inform us if a supply of postage-stamps has been received at Agra, and whether the new postal rules are to take effect from the 1st proximo." We fear not.—Agra Messenger, May 27.

DEATH BY DRINKING.—A melancholy event occurred on board the Nussur Mujeed yesterday morning. The second mate of the vessel, having received his salary the day before, bought a dozen bottles of brandy, and began to indulge in the liquor at a most astonishing rate of excess. He drank two bottles and a half when his superior officer discovered the fact, and found the man very drunk; whereupon he took the remaining bottles away from him, and secured them. But this kind precaution came too late, for the mate expired early the next morning from an apoplectic fit, which carried him off so suddenly, that nobody in the ship knew anything of the occurrence until he was discovered a corpse.

OPIMUM.—The following is the result of the sixth opium sale of the season, held at the Exchange rooms June 8:—

	Chests.	Highest.	Lowest.	Average.	Proceeds.
Behar..	2,885	820	805	809-13-5½	2,312,100
Benares.	1,170	825	815	816-14-5	955,755

MR. ARRATOON, who figured some time ago in the Alipore Magistrates' Court, and was sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the house of correction, and further sentenced to imprisonment for fourteen years in banishment to Hazareebaugh, and thence made his escape, has been traced to Tangra by Mr. Campbell, police serjeant of Entaly, who apprehended him. It is said that Arratoon struggled hard to get off from Campbell, but was overpowered by a large body of the police.

LAHORE.—The following is from a correspondent at Lahore, writing on the 23rd instant:—"Lahore and Wuzerabad will probably see general courts-martial sitting in the course of next month. At Lahore, a few days since, two horse artillerymen of Burnett's troop had a misunderstanding, and one stabbed the other with a knife in four places, inflicting three severe wounds, any one of which would have proved fatal if somewhat deeper. At Wuzerabad, on the 19th, a soldier of H.M.'s 61st, while engaged cleaning his pipe, chanced to ask a comrade who owed him some money, when he intended to repay him. The debtor, a man named Donaghue, walked away, loaded his musket, and deliberately shot the other through the body, so that he died the day following. Lieut. Crofton, of the engineers, is engaged surveying a line for a branch of the canal, which is to pass to the northward of the Sudder Bazar out of cantonments. It is understood that the chief objection to its running through the station is the clashing of authorities; but it would be of great public benefit if the civil and military authorities would, were it for this time only, consent to agree, even if the water were only made available for the public purposes of watering the roads and the trees planted on either side of the road. Yesterday there was a great change in the weather, and it is time to put up tattles—the wind is hot."—Agra Messenger, May 27.

RUSSIAN EMISSARIES.—The Czar seems to have been sowing his agents broad cast over the East, indifferent as to the sort of ground on which they fell, but trusting probably that some of them might yield the comfortable fruit of injury and annoyance to his enemies in the West. It is suspected, and has indeed been roundly asserted, that some of his emissaries have been thrown even into India itself, and there can be no doubt that they abound in Persia and the countries adjacent. The crop of results is hardly likely to repay the cost of the seed and the sowing. The sterility of the soil is not the only difficulty to be contended with. Our Government has its "little birds" ready to pick up the tares which the enemy is scattering among its wheat. If the Scind News is correctly informed, the object, or one of the objects, of Major Jacob's trip to Khelat is now apparent. According to our contemporary, writing "on pretty good authority," the major "has made very judicious arrangements with the khan of that principality, who pointed out some half-dozen Russian emissaries who have been boned by the major, and are now in his safe custody and keeping." There is nothing very improbable in this story, which may account for the mysterious visit of the bewigged Jacob to Khelat, some distance beyond our frontier. The only point which seems to demand qualification is that of the number of the alleged emissaries. Six for Khelat seems an extravagant allowance; but if so many have really been stationed in so small a territory as that, how many may we suppose there are in Persia and Afghanistan? British India under Lord Dalhousie, is not to be caught napping, however cunningly the Russian bear, or the brutes in alliance with it may advance. There has for some time been an unostentatious movement of men and materiel towards the north western frontier, and we shall not be surprised to find all these quiet preparations developed in a very pugnacious attitude ere long. The Hurkaru, we observe, has "good reason" for supposing that an "Army of Observation" will be formed in the neighbourhood of Peshawur, for the purpose of showing to the Czar and his friends that we are quite ready to give them a warm reception whenever they please to honour us with a visit.—Agra Messenger.

THE BHAGURUTTEE.—A letter dated 6th instant from the mouth of the Bhaguruttee mentions that the planters had had good rain, but want a few days sun. The river rising from four to nine inches daily.—Englishman, June 12.

CAPTAIN NICOLL.—We believe Captain Nicoll, of the 50th N.I., acting major of brigade at Cawnpore, will succeed Major Menteth in the same appointment at Delhi, and will be here about the end of the month to receive charge of the office.—Delhi Gazette, June 7.

THE TRAINED THUG-CATCHER versus THE ORDINARY THIEF-CATCHER.—A case has recently been decided, which clearly proves the great advantages possessed by the special over the general system of police in India as elsewhere, and which illustrates, in a singular manner, the confidence which bankers repose in the messengers they employ to carry bullion to and fro. About the middle of November last year, an old and infirm man was despatched from Sealkote to Umritsur, with a bag containing the sum of 1,519 rupees eight annas, the property of some merchants at the former place. On the third morning of his journey, he left Chimeearce, in the Umritsur district, and had proceeded about half a mile, when he was attacked by two men, who knocked him down, broke his teeth, filled his mouth, ears and eyes, with dust, wound a sash, the thug instrument of strangulation, round his neck, left him for dead, and carried off the bag. He recovered, however, gave information to the nearest thana, and the police were quickly on the spot. But all their exertions to trace the thieves were ineffectual; they gave "it up," and the deputy-commissioner of Umritsur reported the case to the superintendent of thuggee; his bloodhounds never slumbered, and three months after the commission of the crime, Major Graham obtained a clue, which led to the apprehension of the principal criminals, the clue being furnished by an accomplice before the fact, who had instigated the deed, and furnished the necessary information; but he was dissatisfied with the share of the booty, and ultimately "split." The arrest led also to the recovery of 682 rupees of the lost cash. The culprits immediately confessed; and, the case being clear against them, they have been sentenced to perpetual imprisonment beyond the seas, and hard labour in irons. The accomplice is sentenced to fourteen years' imprisonment with hard labour; two other men, accessories to the extent of keeping the matter secret, were sentenced to three years' imprisonment, and to a fine of 250 rupees each, the money to be handed to the merchants, whose further loss is to be made good by the sale of the effects of the chief culprits, who are, it appears, men in a respectable position of life, enjoying a religious pension from Government! It is admitted on all hands that, but for the exertions of the thuggee department, the crime would never have been brought home to the guilty parties.—Lahore Chronicle, May 31.

A BARBAROUS MURDER.—We regret much to hear, from the following and other letters given elsewhere, that a most barbarous murder has been committed at Murree by a husband on the person of his wife:—

"Murree, May 28, 1851.

"This hitherto quiet little station has been thrown into a state of intense excitement by a fearful murder, which was committed about nine o'clock last evening, in the barracks occupied by the convalescents of the season. The unfortunate victim was the wife of a private named Costello, of the 87th Royal Irish Fusiliers, and the perpetrator of the fearful act was her own husband. The particulars are as follows: It appears that Costello had an altercation with his wife, and in a fit of jealousy struck and abused her, and she left her room with the declared intention of reporting him; upon which he knocked her down; she got up, and proceeded a few paces, when he again attacked her, and she was seen by some men who were standing near to fall a second time; she then cried out that she was killed; and on one of the men lifting her up, he found her covered with blood, which was gushing from a fearful wound in her throat five inches long, dividing the jugular vein and carotid artery, ending under her right ear, causing almost instant death. Medical aid speedily arrived, but all efforts were useless, and before ten minutes the wretched woman was a corpse. The murderer had, in the mean time, made off to his quarters, whither he was speedily followed and made prisoner, and conveyed to confinement. Search was then made for the instrument with which the deed was committed, but without effect, until by accident one of the men, who was searching for a lock to fasten the door of the room, happened to turn up a guttural, which was lying on a charpae, when he found underneath a razor covered with blood. The murderer had evidently thrust it in there when he left the body of his hapless victim. An inquest was this morning held on the body, which presented a fearful appearance; and it is to be hoped that speedy justice will overtake the ruthless perpetrator of this horrid deed."—Lahore Chronicle, June 3.

FIRST JUDGE OF THE CALCUTTA SMALL CAUSE COURT.—We understand that Mr. Stack, of the Calcutta bar, is to be Mr. Wylie's successor as first judge of the Calcutta Small Cause Court. The appointment is a good one, but we are surprised that any gentleman who can make a respectable livelihood at the bar, and whose income is steadily increasing, should give up his practice and his liberty, and take to the sedentary business of the Small Cause Court, for a salary of Rs. 1,500 a month. Better anything made by one's own exertions and industry, than the stagnant life of these small judges.—Morning Chronicle, June 12.

THE GANGES CANAL.—A correspondent sends us the following interesting notice of the channel of the Ganges in the neighbourhood of Chunar. The enormous depth of the river will probably surprise some of our readers, and we deem it necessary to say that we can vouch for the correctness of our correspondent's statements:—"You may be interested in learning that no perceptible difference has been made in the fall of the Ganges since the opening of the canal, and it is daily rising at present. Upwards of 10,000 cubic feet of kankur rock have been removed since the 17th of April from the bed of the channel at Deodhampur, which will make the passage safer. I observed a paragraph in a copy of your paper of the 13th inst., relative to the rise of the Indus at Attock, which some one remarked was not greater than that of the Ganges at Benares. I can testify to the correctness of the remark, as the difference between the lowest fall and greatest rise of the Ganges at Chunar, in the two years when there were the greatest floods, was forty-eight feet, viz., in 1825 and 1847. In 1852, the rise was thirty-eight feet, and last year forty-three feet. The Ganges runs from one to one and a half mile per hour during the cold and hot season, and from four and a half to five in the rains, except at some parts, when the velocity is increased to eight miles; at Chunar Fort for instance. The natives say, the Ganges is unfathomable at Chunar; but last cold season it was measured and found to be about 120 ft. deep near the fort. I have given these particulars, thinking you might be glad to avail yourself of them for publication, should you think the public will be interested by them." It is almost too soon to decide on the effects which the Ganges Canal is likely to have on the depth of the river below, as the water was turned off from the canal almost immediately after the ceremony of the public opening, and it has not, we believe, since been turned on again. But we have little doubt that Colonel Cautley's theory will be verified, and that no effect will be produced on the river below Allahabad. Whatever may be the effect on the upper branch of the Ganges, will be of little moment, as the river is practically useless for the purposes of irrigation, while for navigation it will soon be entirely superseded by the canal.—Delhi Gazette, May 31.

THE HORSE-WHIPPING AFFAIR.—On the 31st May a committee of inquiry assembled at the Main Guard in Fort William, to investigate the circumstances connected with the horse-whipping affair that took place at the military club on the 24th current; and in which Assistant-Surgeon Wigmore, of H.M.'s 11th light dragoons, and Captain Dorin, of the 27th N.I., on the commissariat staff at the presidency, are principals.

EASTERN JESSORE.—A letter of June 9 mentions that the violence of the rain has done considerable mischief to the indigo. The writer estimates the quantity fallen since the first of the month at sixteen inches, which is very much more than usual at the commencement of the rains. He says, the prospects of the planters before the rain were unprecedentedly fine, but that many low fields had a foot of water lying in them at the time he wrote, and that even the high lands require two or three weeks of fine weather to restore them to their previous condition. He concludes by saying that the planters' estimate of the produce of the district was as high as 20,000 maunds; but is now so much reduced that they will be fortunate if it reaches 12, to 13,000. Indigo is therefore something like war, which Napoleon said was frequently high at night, but low enough in the morning.—Englishman, June 13.

DACCA, JUNE 4.—We were oppressed for about a month by insufferable heat. On the eve of the 28th ult. the mercury rose to 97 deg. Fah. During the last two days we have occasional showers, and then the weather is pleasant indeed. Curzon tells us that at Erzroum the cold in winter is commonly 16 deg. below zero, and is often colder! By the bye, we may as easily realize the dreams of Ariosto, as imagine the rigour of an Armenian winter,

Who can hold a fire in his hand
By thinking on the frosty Caucasus?

The Government has sanctioned the construction of a road between Dacca and Calcutta; and our energetic magistrate, Mr. M., is of opinion that the road will be ready by the end of '56, in case nothing prevents him from commencing the work by the first month of '55. If the Government intends only to join Dacca and Furreedpore, we may then have the whole work done in a couple of years, as the Furreedpore road wants only a little repair to render it the most beautiful road in Bengal, and that station is already in communication with Calcutta overland. The collector, Mr. T., has received orders to advance from the Dacca treasury Rs. 10,000, for the purchase of commissions ordered for the Paris Exhibition of '55. A few days ago I saw a beautiful piece of Dacca muslin, made to order, and destined for Paris. Its worth Rs. 100, its size ten yards by eighteen inches, and weight only 3 oz. 2 dwt. Goods are to be purchased after inspection; four competitors are already in the field, and there is no want of zeal in them, though Mr. T. is not taking a very active part in settling matters with them, which I am afraid will go far to cool the ardour of the aspirants.—Captain Smith intends removing the elephants from their present unhealthy location to the old cantonment. This will be doing them a great service, and they will be bound down, not by iron chains, but by the chain of gratitude. There are now about 206 elephants in Dacca, out of which nearly ninety have been just brought from Chittagong. Dacca has been so unhealthy of late, especially towards the jungle, that Captain Smith has been forced to send the elephants to four distant parts of the town before their final removal to Phoenix Park. I visited the feelkhanah a couple of years ago, before Captain Smith's arrival, and I found it as disgusting a place as Moorshedkooly's Bycaout; but of late things have undergone marked improvements, and I have not the least doubt that Captain Smith will put everything to rights very soon.—The magistrate has ordered all the akhayas within the town to be broken up, as Mr. M. had recently experienced the strength of our Dacca prize-fighters. Mr. M. is an able officer as far as I know, and I can judge of him, but he wants a little spirit to stir him up now and then. A big-bellied Baboo, with a long tongue, will at no time put him out of his wits, but when the mischief is done, Mr. M. comes upon his victim with vengeance. Though he cannot stop the crime, he does not betray the same dearth of good sense in punishing the criminal. But this is not the right way of doing the business. Mr. M. has yet a bit of a Tartar's notion of justice. He is young, and we may expect much from him in time.—The summer vacation is over, and the principal has requested, till further notice, the pupils and masters to attend the college from 10 A.M. to 3 P.M. As the first three classes have to study plan-drawing, they have been ordered to be an hour earlier in their attendance from Wednesday next. I have been just informed on very good authority, that the mathematical examination has again proved a failure. Go ahead Sir James with Mr. Bethune's minute, and you will reap another rich harvest of blocks next year.—You will hear again very soon a few words on a very interesting subject, which is only "looming in the future," and so I cannot drag it out.—Hurkaru.

CAPT. JAMES WHITEFOORD, of the artillery, has obtained leave of absence to the 31st proximo, to remain at the presidency, for the purpose of submitting an application to retire from the service. This casualty will advance 1st Lieut. Alfred Wintle, a cadet of the 11th June, 1841, and 2nd Lieut. T. E. Hughes, a cadet of the 8th June, 1849, to the superior grades. By Lieut. Wintle's promotion, the adjutancy of the 1st battalion of artillery will be vacated. Lieut. O. Penson, of the 3rd E. R., has also obtained leave of absence to the 1st proximo, with a view to resigning the service. This will give Ensign F. J. Stephenson, the father of the ensigns, his lieutenantcy; and it is about time he should get promotion, being in the tenth year of his service. Ensign Duffin, of the 70th N.I., a cadet of December, 1844, will become the oldest ensign in the army. There are only four ensigns of 1845, and three of these belong to the 3rd European regiment; so it is to be hoped for their sake that the new corps will get a little promotion, and the officers be able to come to some arrangement to buy out several of the old hands said to be ready to retire.—Hurkaru, June 10.

MILITARY ON-DITS.—The Morning Chronicle states that Captain James Williamson, of the 1st Bengal fusiliers, has applied for permission to resign the service. Brigadier Eckford is appointed to Delhi, in room of Brigadier Gwatkin, who is compelled by ill health to be absent from the station. Colonel F. Markham, C.B., the new adjutant-general of H.M.'s forces in India, was expected to join head-quarters about the 23rd or 24th of June.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS.

STAFF-OFFICERS' PAY.

Head-Quarters, Simla, May 29, 1854.—The Commander-in-Chief announces, for general information, that the Most Noble the Governor-General in Council has been pleased to decide that a staff-officer permitted to study at the Thomason College shall be allowed to enjoy half-staff salary for a period of six months only.

By order of his Exc. the Com.-in-Chief,
H. T. TUCKER, Lieut.-Col.
Adj.-Gen. of the Army.

LIEUT. A. BASILICO.

Head-Quarters, Simla, May 24.—The leave of absence granted to Lieut. A. Basilico, of the 11th regt. of N.I., in General Orders of the 6th instant, is cancelled, with reference to the unfavourable report which has since been made to His Exc. the Commander-in-Chief, by the officer commanding this corps, of the lieutenant's conduct in respect to his pecuniary affairs, and of his frequent appearance before courts of requests.

2. Lieutenant Basilico will return to his corps without delay, and his leave will be considered as cancelled from the date of his rejoining, a report of which is to be made to the adjutant-general of the army, for the Commander-in-Chief's information.

THE NEW MEMBERS OF COUNCIL.

Fort William, Home Department, June 3, 1854.—The right Honourable the Governor of Fort St. George, the right Honourable the Governor of Bombay, and the Honourable the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, having, in accordance with section XXII., Act XVI. and XVII. Vict. cap. 95, respectively appointed the Honourable Daniell Elliot, Arthur Malet, Esq., and Charles Allen, Esq., to be members of the Council of India for making laws and regulations, they have this day taken the oaths and their seats in the Legislative Council.

GEORGE COUPER,
Under-Secretary to the Govt. of India.

GENERAL OFFICERS RESIDING AT STATIONS.

Head-Quarters, Simla, May 31, 1854.—Under instructions from the Most Noble the Governor-General in Council, the Commander-in-Chief is pleased to prohibit general officers commanding divisions, whether temporarily or permanently, from residing in future at stations other than the established head-quarters of the divisions they command; but it is to be understood that this rule is not intended to apply to brigadiers falling for brief periods into the command of divisions in which they are serving, and who will remain ordinarily at their usual stations unless otherwise directed.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ALLEN, C. to be a member of the Council of India for making Laws and Regulations, May 23.
ANDERSON, C. C. to be dep. coll. in Ghurwal.
BRIGHT, G. offic. mag. of Midnapore to offic. as coll. until relieved by Mr. Broadhurst, May 25.
BROADHURST, W. H. to offic. as coll. of Midnapore, May 25.
COCKBURN, G. F. to offic. as chief mag. of Calcutta, and to be commr. for the improvement of the town, vested with the powers of a mag. in the Twenty-four Pargunnahs, Howrah, Burnset, Hooghly, Nuddea, and Jessore, to exercise concurrent jurisdiction with the mag. in those districts.
COLVIN, B. J. to be a member of the Board of Examiners, and ditto of standing committee for exam. of candidates for off. of pleader at pres.
DASHWOOD, H. W. to offic. as reg. to Court of Sudder Dewanny and Nizamut Adawlut, N. W. prov. June 1.
DRUMMOND, F. B. to be register of deeds and marriage registrar in district of Tipperah, June 7.
ELLIOTT, W. H. to offic. as commr. of rev. and circuit for the Burdwan div.
ELLIOTT, C. P. attach. to N.W. Prov. and the Panjab, instead of Bengal div. May 26.
HAMILTON, Sir R. Bart. agent to the gov. gen. for Central India, rec. ch. of the polit. duties of the Bundelcund and Rewas states, fr. Maj. D. A. Malcolm, rec. ch. May 26.
HALSEY, W. S. to be an asst. in the Benares div.
HARDINGE, B. qual. for pub. service, attach. to N.W. P. and Panjab, June 9.
KEENE, H. G. to be jt. mag. and dep. coll. of Moozuffernuggur.
LONSDALE, D. F. to be coll. of customs at Tounghoo, May 26.
MARTIN, J. C. to be marriage reg. in the district of Kamroop.
RAIKES, H. C. to offic. as joint mag. and dep. coll. of Furreedpore.
TAYLER, S. H. C. qual. for pub. serv. attached to Bengal div.
THORNHILL, H. B. to offic. as mag. and coll. of Moradabad, dur. abs. of Roberts.
WATERFIELD, W. to be an asst. to mag. and coll. of 24 Pargunnahs.
WIGRAM, R. J. qual. for pub. serv. attached to Bengal div. June 9.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BRANDRETH, E. L. 3 mo.
 BRANDRETH, A. 1 mo.
 JENKINS, C. 2 mo.
 JENKINS, E. 1 mo.
 LEVIEN, A. 1 mo.
 LIMOND, C. 1 mo. on m.c.
 ROBERTS, A. A. 21 days.
 WATSON, W. C. to Aug. 10 in ext.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

JENNINGS, M. J. leave for 1 mo.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ALEXANDER, 1st Lieut. F. art. to be exec. off. Dinapore div. v. Ommamey, May 30.
 APPERLEY, Major W. W. 4th L.C. to stud in central prov. June 2.
 ATKINSON, 1st Lieut. G. F. eng. to be exec. eng. Umballa div. v. Anderson, May 30.
 BATCHELOR, Lieut. C. 3rd Punjab irr. cav. offic. 2nd in com. to offic. as commandant from Mar. 1.
 BAYLEY, Lieut. D. 7th L. C. to be brev. capt. fr. Mar. 9.
 CAREY, 2nd Lieut. De V. F. art. to be 1st lieut. fr. May 21, in succ. to Stokes dec.
 CARTER, Ens. A. H. 73rd N.I. to be lieut. in success. to Brev. maj. W. E. Andrews, dec.
 CLARKE, Corn. M. 3rd L.C. passed colloq. ex. in n. lang.
 COARE, Lieut. G. 60th N.I. to be capt. fr. May 23 in succ. to Riddell, dec.
 COUPER, Lieut. J. K. 2nd N.I. to be 1st class assist. stud depart. v. Apperley, June 2.
 DAVIDSON, Lieut. E. eng. to be assist. to chief eng. of the lower provinces, May 30.
 DAWSON, Lieut. J. 1st N. I. to do du. with Arracan batt. and to act as 2nd in com. v. Munro, dec.
 DYAS, 1st Lieut. J. H. eng. to be director of canals in the Punjab.
 ECKFORD, Lieut. J. 6th N.I. to offic. as exec. off. Cuttack div. v. Short, May 30.
 EDEN, Capt. W. F. 1st asst. to the agent to the Gov.-Gen. for Central India, resu. ch. of du. May 20.
 ELLIOTT, Lieut. H. M. asst. to the Mysore commiss. ret. to duty.
 FAITHFUL, Capt. G. 68th N.I. to offic. as commiss. of Arracan.
 FOSBERY, Ens. G. V. 48th N.I. passed colloq. exam. in native language.
 FRANKLAND, Lieut. T. 2nd in com. 5th inf. to be instead 2nd in com. 6th inf. Hyderabad conting.
 FULTON, 1st Lieut. G. W. W. engr. to be exec. eng. of the Julundur div. v. Boileau, May 30.
 GRAHAM, Ens. G. A. 2nd N.I. passed colloq. exam. in n. lang.
 GRANT, Cornet A. C. 2nd L.C. placed at the disposal of the C.-in-C. June 2.
 GREATHED, 1st Lieut. W. W. H. eng. to be superintend. of canals west of the Jumma, v. Turnbull, May 30.
 GUISE, Capt. H. J. 28th N.I. to offic. as 2nd in com. 13th irr. cav. dur. abs. of Alexander.
 HAMILTON, Lieut. T. C. to continue to act as adj. of Arracan batt.
 HICHENS, Lieut. W. engr. passed colloq. exam. in n. lang.
 HODGSON, Lieut. H. N. 9th N.I. to be adjt. v. Lieut. Travers, May 30.
 HOWARD, Lieut. G. J. to offic. as cant. jt. mag. and superint. of Abkeree, at Wuzerabad, in addit. to his other duties.
 HOWARD, Lieut. J. J. E. 24th N.I. 2nd Sikh local inf. to be adjt.
 JERVIS, 2nd Lieut. S. C. engr. to be exec. engr. 2nd div. Arracan road, May 30.
 KNYVETT, Maj. F. 64th N.I. off. exec. off. 2nd div. grand trunk road, to cont. ch. of that div. May 30.
 LAMB, Lieut. T. jun. asst. to commissr. of Assam to offic. as princ. asst. at Nowgong, dur. abs. of Capt. J. Butler.
 LEIGH, Capt. R. T. 7th N.I. to offic. as jun. asst. to commissr. of Assam, June 7.
 LESLIE, Lieut. Sir N. R. 5th irr. cav. to offic. as 2nd in com. in add. to his other du. v. Need, on leave.
 LUMSDEN, Ens. P. S. 60th N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 23, in succ. to Riddell, dec.
 M'DOUGALL, Ens. C. A. 9th N.I. to be lieut. fr. June 1, in succ. to Martin, ret.
 MACDONNELL, Ens. F. J. 14th N.I. passed colloq. exam.
 MACKENZIE, Lieut. A. M. to offic. as 2nd in com. 8th irr. cav. in add. to his other du.
 MAGNAY, Lieut. J. D. 30th N.I. to act as adjt. May 26.
 MAINWARING, Lieut. N. W. 73rd N.I. to be capt. of a co. in succ. to Brev. maj. W. E. Andrews, dec.
 MARSHALL, Lieut. W. E. 48th N.I. to study civil engineering at the Thomason coll. Roorkee until Nov. 1.
 MEAD, 2nd Lieut. C. J. art. to be exec. off. 3rd div. Arracan Road, May 30.
 MERRICK, Lieut. T. C. 3rd N.I. to be exec. off. 3rd div. grand trunk road, v. Fulton, May 30.

MORTON, Ens. B. W. D. to offic. as jun. asst. to commissr. of Assam.

OSBORN, Ens. H. R. 55th N.I. passed exam. in field engineering.

OTTLEY, Capt. G. O. B. 6th N.I. to be a 2nd class assist. stud. depart. v. Couper, June 2.

PHILLIPS, Ens. H. 40th N.I. passed colloq. exam. in n. lang.

QUIN, Ens. T. 22nd N.I. to act as 2nd in com. dur. abs. of lieut. Moore; to be adjt. v. Lieut. Sidebottom.

RANKEN, Capt. G. 69th N.I. perm. to retire on the pension of a major, fr. July 17.

REID, Lieut. B. T. asst. commissr. of Ferozepore to offic. for E. L. Brandreth dur. his abs.

RICHARDSON, Lieut. R. 3rd L.C. to be brev. capt. fr. March 26.

RICHARDSON, Capt. to offic. as com. 8th irr. cav.

RIGBY, Capt. H. eng. to be exec. eng. Benares div. v. Atkinson.

RUSSELL, 2nd Lieut. L. eng. to be exec. eng. 1st div. Arracan Road, May 30.

SIM, 1st Lieut. G. eng. to be exec. eng. of the Cawnpore div. v. Pott, May 30.

SHARP, Capt. J. N. eng. to offic. as civ. architect and garrison eng. Fort William, v. Abercrombie, May 30.

SHORT, 1st Lieut. W. D. A. R. engr. to offic. as exec. eng. Meer div. v. Sharp, May 30.

SKENE, Capt. A. 68th N.I. to be supt. of Jalown and Jhansee.

STEWART, Lieut. D.M. 9th N.I. to be capt. fr. June 1, in succ. to Martin, ret.

STURT, Lieut. col. 43rd N.I. to assu. com. of stat. and garrison at Umritsir and Govindgurh.

TRAYERS, Lieut. E. J. 1st Punjab inf. to be 2nd in com. v. Lieut. Keyes, May 30.

TYNDALL, Ens. H. 61st N.I. to be lieut. fr. April 12, v. Cumberland, dec.

WARREN, Ens. C. H. L. 8th N.I. passed colloq. ex.

WATSON, Ens. J. 1st Punjab irr. cav. to act as 2nd in com. dur. abs. of Lieut. Fane.

WHITEFOORD, Capt. J. art. permitted to retire from the service of the Comp. on pension of a major fr. July 31.

WOLLASTON, Capt. C. 8th L.C. dep. superint. stud dep. fr. Central to N.W. Prov. June 2.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE—ARRIVED AT THE DATES SPECIFIED

CAVALRY.

PATTON, J. A. M. June 3.

FLOWDEN, C. W. C. (abroad, May 23).

INFANTRY.

BATTYE, W. May 23.

BUSHBY, C. M.

HOGGAN, G. H. W.

REPTON, H. H. June 3.

WARD, P. June 5.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BASILICO, Lieut. A. 11th N.I. leave canc.

CONOLLY, Lieut. W. P. 46th N.I. to Aug. 30, prep. to Eur.

COOKSON, Capt. G. R. joint mag. of Meerut, leave canc.

CORFIELD, Maj. J. 1st N.I. to Nov. 15, Murree.

COX, Col. H. C. M. 58th N.I. to Oct. 15, in ext. m.c. prep. to Eur.

ECKFORD, Col. J. 56th N.I. to reside at Nyne Tal.

EDEN, Capt. W. F. 1st asst. to agent to Gov.-Gen. for Central India, leave canc.

GARDNER, Lieut. H. J. T. executive officer 2nd div. Peshawur Road, 6 mo. to Murree and Cashmere.

GRAHAM, Brev. maj. J. 3rd Eur. regt. 6 mo. to Cherra Poonjee, m.c.

HAIG, Lieut. A. S. 55th N.I. 3 years to Eur.

HOPKINSON, Capt. H. commr. of Arracan, 1 mo. on m.c.

KITSON, Capt. CA. 10th L.C. to Oct. 15, Cashmere and Murree.

LOFTIE, Brev. maj. M. E. 30th N.I. to Sept 23.

MAINWARING, Lieut. G. B. 16th N.I. 3 years to Eur. old reg.

MORLAND, Lieut. J. 1st Eur. Fus. 2 years to Eur. on furl. on m.c. old reg.

NORMAN, Lieut. H. W. to Aug. 25, Murree.

PATCH, Maj. H. inv. estab. to Dec. 1, to Dorundah and Chota Nagpore.

PENSON, Lieut. J. O. 3rd Eur. regt. to July 1, prep. to res. the service.

PHILLIPS, Capt. J. S. com. of ord. to Nov. 1, to hills N. of Deyrah, on m. c.

PONSONBY, Lieut. col. C. C. asst. adj. gen. Meerut div. fr. May 3 to Nov. to Simla.

ROBERTS, Lieut. F. S. art. to Oct. 15, to Cashmere.

TAYLOR, Lieut. R. N. asst. commissr. West div. Rachore Doab, 1 mo. to Hyderabad.

WARREN, Brig. G. Warren, brig. staff, to Aug. 18, prep. to Eur.

WHITEFOORD, Capt. J. art. to July 31, prep. to ret. fr. the service.

YOUNG, Capt. J. 4th N.I. 3 mo. to Bimlipatam, new reg.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ANDERSON, Surg. F. trans. fr. 13th N.I. to 10th L.C. at Peshawur.

EWART, Asst. surg. J. passed colloq. ex. in n. lang.

GRANT, Asst. surg. G. to be surg. fr. May 16, in succ. to Gerard, dec.
 HENDERSON, Vet. surg. C. to vet. ch. of the Saharunpore stud depot, v. Phillips, res. June 2.
 McCOSH, Surg. J. transf. fr. 10th L.C. to 13th N.I.
 PAUL, Asst. surg. J. L. rec. ch. of the jail and civil med. dep. of Moulmein, fr. Surg. Reynolds.
 SIMPSON, Asst. surg. B. lately arr. to rec. med. ch. 39th N.I. fr. Surg. McRae.
 TUSON, Asst. surg. J. E. to med. ch. of Scinde rifle corps.
 WALLICH, Asst. surg. N. D. S. to rec. med. ch. of 1st Punjab cav. and civ. div. of Dera Ishmael Khan.
 WATSON, Asst. surg. J. C. M.D. and A.M. services pl. at disp. of the C. in C.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.
 BRADLEY, Surg. W. H. leave canc.

HER MAJESTY'S FORCES IN THE EAST.

STAFF.

Capt. J. W. Hay, 70th ft. to be mil. sec. to gov. of Madras.

CAVALRY.

9th Lancers. Lieut. Ellis, May 25 to Oct. 24, to Simla and hills n. of Deyrah, on m.c.

INFANTRY.

—22nd. Lieut. F. H. Gee, fr. 87th, v. Macpherson, exch.—24th. Lieut. J. T. Torey, to be exec. off. of road fr. Sumbulpore to Nagpore.—29th. Lieut. W. S. Simmons, 2 yrs. to England, on m.c.—43rd. Capt. R. H. Weyland and Lieut. G. H. W. Walker, perm. to retire.—61st. Major Deacon, to Oct. 31, to Kussowlie, Simla, and interior.—64th. Capt. Cumberlandge, 2 yrs. to England, on m.c.; Ens. A. Bannison, passed in Hindustani.—75th. Lieut. col. Hallifax, to be brev. col. fr. May 7.—78th. Lieut. T. Anderson, 18 mo. to England, on m.c.; Lieut. Purvis, to act as brig. maj. until arr. of Havlock's succ.; Lieut. R. B. A. Purvis, to be brev. capt. fr. May 11.—83rd. Capt. Heatley, to act as dep. adj. gen. until arr. of Havlock's succ.—86th. Lieut. W. Knipe, 2 yrs. to England.—87th. Lieut. W. Macpherson, fr. 22nd, v. Gee, exch.—96th. Lieut. col. Cumberland, to be brev. col. fr. June 5.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BIRD, wife of Capt. 31st N.I. d. at Allahabad, May 26.
 BLUNT, wife of Wm. C. S. s. still-born, at Bareilly, May 30.
 BROWNE, wife of F. H.M.'s 29th, s. still-born, at Moulmein, May 23.
 CRAWFORD, wife of John, d. at Trichinopolee, May 2.
 DE SILVA, wife of J. G. s. May 27.
 DUNN, wife of J. T. s. at Calcutta, June 8.
 DRUMMOND, wife of Lieut. H. engr. d. at Mussorree, May 14.
 HARE, wife of Capt. George, 5th N.I. s. at Aurangabad, May 22.
 LACKERSTEEN, wife of W. R. s. at Calcutta, June 6.
 LEIGH, wife of Capt. R. T. 7th N.I. s. at Berhampore, May 22.
 LLOYD, Mrs. R. s. at Howrah, May 23.
 LUTMAN, wife of Capt. H. M.'s 24th, s. at Sealkote, May 26.
 McLEAN, Mrs. W. T. d. at Calcutta, June 1.
 MELDRUM, Mrs. d. at Bhanno, May 25.
 MELIAS, wife of Thomas, s. at Purneah, May 16.
 PENHEARROW, Mrs. D. s. at Dinapore, May 23.
 ROBERTSON, wife of Capt. 68th N.I. s. at Akyab, May 25.
 ROSS, wife of Lieut. C. D. R. 3rd Eur. regt. d. at Chinsurah, May 28.
 VANDENBERG, Mrs. J. B. d. at Calcutta, June 1.
 VARDON, the lady of S. M. s. at Berhampore, May 26.

MARRIAGES.

DEVERELL, G. T. to Miss A. E. Clark, at Bowangolah, June 3.
 KENNEDY, W. P. to Charlotte J. d. of R. Howard, at Cuttack, May 18.
 NICHOLSON, Lieut. L. 4th Sikh I. to Lucy M. d. of the late D. Curtaene, at Rangoon, May 15.
 SMELT, C. T. H.M.'s 38th, to Ellen, d. of the late G. A. Ward, at Darjeeling, May 27.
 WILLIAMS, Lieut. L. H. 6th N.I. to Emina, d. of the late T. Jones, at Ghazeeapore, June 6.

DEATHS.

ANNESLEY, Capt. J. C. 60th rifles, at Grah, May 30.
 ANAKIEL, wife of C. G. at Calcutta, May 21.
 BLUNT, Margaret, wife of W. at Bareilly, aged 26, May 30.
 BOSE, M. at Akyab, May 19.
 BURTON, Mary, d. of Capt. at Kotah, aged 3, May 5.
 DA COSTA, Lewis, at Calcutta, aged 63, May 20.
 DRUMMOND, W. P. s. of G. at Arrah, May 28.
 KEMP, H. C. at Calcutta, aged 46, June 3.
 NEWTON, J. at Calcutta, aged 24, June 3.
 POSTANCE, Mrs. S. at Allahabad, aged 50, June 1.
 POWYS, Capt. the Hon. R. V. inv. estab. at Binsur, near Almora, May 26.

SMITH, Lieut. G. R. 52nd N.I. at Meerut, June 1.
 SPENCER, Rev. J. S. at sea, on board the steamer Mauritius, May 15.
 TANNER, Capt. H. inv. estab. at Monghyr, May 29.
 WAKE, Arthur, s. of Lieut. col. 44th N.I. at Dinapore, May 23.
 WILSON, Frances J. d. of C. M. at Calcutta, May 21.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MAY 31. Shoo Gong, Mendham, Mangoon.—June 2. Ship Thomas Hamlin, Hamlin, Port Phillip; Gen. Godwin, Hicks, Swan River; Bella Marina, Thomas, Liverpool; Rockall, Martin, Boston; Pere Charnegnan, Veillon, from Bourbon 30th April.—4. Steamer Bombay, Paterson, Suez; Aden, Galle and Madras; Gloriana, Toynbie, Jamaica, Cape and Madras; Sagof, Lugrin, Bombay and Alleppey.—5. Heatherbell, Ellis, Madras; Shanghai, Gunter, London, Algoa, Mauritius, and Madras; Shaw Allum, Adelpore, Bombay; Alliance, Hyslop, put back, Mitchell Montaigne Villet, Melbourne and Pondicherry; St. Abbs, Rouse, London.—6. Col. Burney, Crisp, Rangoon; Iona, Middleton, Madras; Mirzapore, Parker, London; Devon, Wrightman, Liverpool.—7. Steamer Shanghai, Munro, Hong Kong, Singapore and Pinang; and Peony, Jenkins, Mauritius.—8. Schooner John Hepburne, Galastan, Rangoon.—9. Steamer Fire Queen, Burbank, Maulmain; John Brightman, Gahan, Ennore; Sultany, Shire, Mauritius; Gallant, Black, Singapore.—10. Cambodia, Corryn, Maulmain and Madras; Invincible, Graham, Liverpool; Samarang, McDonald, Sydney and Madras; Benjamin Busk Green, Gannon, London and Madras; City of Benares, Muir, Clyde; Pekin, Whitley, Mauritius and Madras; Progress, Henderson, London; Constantine, Rogers, Wellington and Madras; Gallant, Black, Singapore and Pinang; Dido, Youngerman, Pinang.—11. Urgent, Stroke, Madras; Helen Wallace, Major, Melbourne; Hindoo, Schamlett, Sydney and Batavia; John Gardener, Penidleton, Bombay; Sal ges, Suard, Bourbon.—12. Tenasserin, Jacques, Mauritius; Mooltan, Baikie, Rangoon; Eliza Penelope, Ramage, Rangoon.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Shoo Gong (May 31), from RANGOON.—Mr. Fretwell.
 Per Rockall.—Messrs. Farnham, Greenleaf, and Blood.
 Per Colonel Godwin (June 2), from SWAN RIVER.—Mrs. Hicks and child; Mr. Mathewson.
 Per steamer Bombay (June 4), from SOUTHAMPTON.—Mr. and Mrs. Talm; Miss Norton; Messrs. McGill, Patton, Repson, Drabble, and Stephenson, and Dr. Farnell. From GALLE.—Messrs. Young, Morgan, and Stock. From MADRAS.—Mr. Plowden; Captain and Mrs. Chesney, and Ensign Marde.
 Per Sagof (June 4), from BOMBAY.—Mrs. W. C. Lugrin.
 Per Gloriana.—Lieut. Sinclair, 59th M.N.I.; T. Ward, Esq., and E. J. Roberts, Esq., M.B., Surgeon.
 Per Iona.—Mrs. Middleton, Master Middleton, Mr. Greenlaw, and Mr. Mier.
 Per Shanghai (June 7), from Hong Kong.—Capt. Toogood; Mr. P. Mackinnon; Mr. C. Ballen, and Mr. W. Maitland. From SINGAPORE, RASABUR.—Mr. Adams; Mr. Quareley, and Mrs. Dawson, and child.
 Per John Hepburn.—J. A. Jones.
 Per steamer Fire Queen, from RANGOON.—Major Nott, 19th regt. M.N.I.; Mr. and Mrs. Cousins; Capt. J. Dixon, and D. Berwick; Mr. Davis; Lieut. Onslow, H.M. 29th regt.; Asst.-surg. Montgomery; Mr. T. Frost; Mr. T. W. Frost; Messrs. Chater, Galstin, Gordon, and Fitzgerald; Ordnance dept. From MAULMAIN.—Capt. Tapley. From AKYAB.—Messrs. Hervey, H. Smith, Wollaston, Surg. R. C. Read, and J. Read. From KYOOK PUYOO.—Dr. Walker, Lieut. Duprey, and 14 Camp Followers.
 Per Samarang.—Messrs. McDonald, and R. B. Morgan, Esq.
 Per Constantine.—Mrs. Rogers, and Dr. Stuart.
 Per Cambodia.—Miss Comyn.
 Per Mooltan.—Capt. J. Kanis, and S. Stephen, Esq.

DEPARTURES.

MAY 30. Sky Lark, Henry, New York; Josephus, Paine London.—JUNE 1. Perseverance, Hart, Madras; Villa de Dunquerque, Versaille, Dunkirk, and Old England, Pearce, London, via St. Helena.—7th. Norden, Salt-trox, London; Veanne, Morean, Mauritius; Fittay Salaam, Jones, Mauritius; Lyman, Pearce, Boston; Malay, Hutchinson, New York; John Mathie, Ball, London; Chandernagore, Goudelin, Mauritius; Stornoway, Hart, Singapore and China; Hamoodly, Pearson, Pinang and Singapore; Arratoon, Apear, Connew, Maulmein; and steamer Sesostria, —, for —.—9th. Ararat, Cochran, Moulmein.—10th. Robert Morrison, Cumming, London; Rokeby, Paterson, Cape of Good Hope; Frederick, McNalty, Liverpool; Wadiatool Rohoman, Page, Mauritius; Maria Somes, Davis, London; Octavia, Murdoch, for London, and Cohota, Gerry, for Boston.—12. Maria Somes, Davies, London; Octavia, Murdoch, London; Cohota, Gerry, Boston.—13. Steamer Ganges, —, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Steamer Ganges (June 11), to MADRAS and SUEZ. To BOMBAY.—Mr. Duval. To MARSHALLS.—Mr. C. Ballen. To SOUTHAMPTON.—Mrs. Woodley, Mrs. Young, Master Young, Mr. Davidson, Mr. J. Hosmer, Mr. Hay, Mr. Browne, Thomas Cummings. To MADRAS.—Mr. Temesfield, Mr. Clark's child.

COMMERCIAL.

Calcutta, June 13, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.		Sell.	Buy.
Transfer Stock Paper 5 per cent.	.. prein.	4 12	5 0
Third Sica 4 do.	.. .. dis.	1 6	2 8
New Co.'s 4 do.	.. ..	0 8	0 12

BANK SHARES.

Bengal Bank (Co.'s Rs. 4,000)	..	2475
Agra Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	700 to 710
N.W. Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	300 to 305

BANK OF BENGAL.

Discount on Government acceptances (3 months)	..	6 per cent.
Do. on private bills and notes	do. ..	4 per cent.
Interest on deposit of Co.'s paper..	..	5 per cent.
Do. on open cash credit accounts	..	5 per cent.
On deposit of Metals, &c.	..	6 per cent.

PRICES OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Sycee Silver	Co.'s Rs. 104 4 to 104 12	} per sa. wt.
China Gold Bars	15 12 .. 16 8
Gold Dust	13 0 .. 13 8
Spanish Dollars	225 12 .. 226 12	} per 100.
Mexican ditto	223 12 .. 224 4
Sovereigns	10 0 .. 10 1	} each.
Madras Gold Mohurs	16 0 .. 16 4
Old Gold Mohurs	20 6 .. 20 8

EXCHANGES.

Six months' sight Bills are 2s. 0½d. to 2s. 0½d. Treasury Bills, at 30 days' sight, 1s. 11d. to 1s. 11½d. Navy Bills, at 3 days' sight, and Bank of England Post Bills at sight, 1s. 11d. to 1s. 11½d.

FREIGHTS.

To London, 7l.; to Liverpool, 7l. 15s. to 8l. 15s.

IMPORTS.—(Calcutta, June 13.)—The amount of business done in British Cotton Piece Goods has been rather on a limited scale. Grey and White Shirtings have been freely taken at former quotations, but the demand for bleached has been rather slack. Book Mullins have not been favoured at all, and but a very small quantity sold during the week. Grey and White Mulls are in moderate enquiry, and prices continue unaltered.

MADRAS.

A WARNING TO YOUNG OFFICERS.

"He that hateth suretyship, is sure."—Proverbs.

(TO THE EDITOR OF THE SPECTATOR.)

Dear Sir,—Will you do me the favour to insert in your paper the following letter: it may perhaps have the effect of deterring officers from heedlessly becoming security—at any rate, it will point out the responsibility they incur by so doing.

Yours faithfully,

W. G. WHITE, Lt.-Col. 35th N.I.

Madras, 1st June, 1854.

To the Officers of the Madras Army.

Gentlemen,—Allow me to bring to your notice the following facts:—

An officer of my regiment died intestate in 1849. The usual committee of adjustment assembled, the authorised demands were liquidated, and in due course a balance of about 1,500 Rs. was transmitted to the secretary to government. As the estate was solvent, I obtained the sanction of government to send home to the family of deceased a few trinkets subsequently valued at 12l. 19s. Early in the year 1851, when in England, I was informed by the brother of deceased, that a demand was made against the estate of about 9,000 Rs., and that he was required to return the trinkets I had forwarded, or remit their value. On inquiry, I learnt that the deceased in 1846 had become joint security with a Dr. C., for a sum of money borrowed of the Agra bank by Captain G., who was either unable or unwilling to repay this loan. The other security, Dr. C., declined to reply to the administrator's letters, and consequently a demand was made against the estate, the proceeds of which was made over to the Agra bank. On my return to India in December last, I was called on to pay into the treasury the value of the articles I had forwarded to the friends of the deceased. I appealed to government for protection against the injustice of the demand. In reply, I was informed that government had no power over the administrator—so I had to pay.

When it came to the knowledge of Captain G. that his friend's estate was sequestered, he endeavoured to clear it, and for that purpose remitted on three occasions—100l., 150l., and 200l., but this did not relieve the estate—it was all placed to his own debt, nor will the estate ever be released till he pays the amount of his own debt in full, and liquidates the sum he borrowed in 1846, and for which the deceased was one of the securities. This may be a caution against officers jointly and severally becoming security for similar loans. During the time the estate was in my hands no demands were ever made, nor any claims preferred by the secretary of the Agra bank, that the instalments were not regularly paid, had he done so, I should have informed Captain G. how he jeopardized the estate of his friend, and prevented the sister receiving the proceeds of the estate which the deceased requested should be given to her.

In the event of an officer under my command dying, who, when alive, had requested me to send to his family his watch, ring, locket, bible, and prayer-book, I shall first ascertain if, at any period of his life, he had been security for a friend, and if he had, I should make up my mind to fulfil the dying man's request with a tolerable certainty of being eventually compelled to refund the value, although at the time the estate was solvent.

My object is to point out to officers the responsibility they incur by becoming security; they are not only, while living, liable to be called on to pay in default of the borrower not fulfilling his engagements, but in the event of their own death, the proceeds of their estate, and even the trinkets, or their value, which they might earnestly desire to be sent home to their family, are liable to be made over by the administrator to satisfy the claims of the Agra bank. A recent order prohibits officers making known their grievances through the press; but I would hope that I do not transgress by cautioning young officers against heedlessly becoming security.

W. G. WHITE, Lieut.-Col.

THE DEFENCES OF MADRAS, we learn from the Examiner, are being put in as effective a state as possible, and many of the old guns which have not been fired or even charged for so long are being and will be immediately exercised.

NIZAM'S DOMINIONS.—From the Nizam's dominions we learn that Mr. Bushby's expostulations have had the effect of temporarily restraining the conduct of the Arabs, and that the Nizam's minister was making arrangements for the final settlement of all the questions which depend between the Arabs and the country.

BANGALORE.—We understand that the amateur theatrical performers of H.M.'s 43rd Light Infantry are determined to exert themselves to enliven the place. Their first performance came off on Friday night, when the "Dream at Sea," was performed, followed by the nautical farce of the "Spitfire," both of which, we hear, were sustained in a highly creditable manner. We hope to hear something more of the amateurs of the 43rd Light Infantry. —Bangalore Herald, June 6.

CONVERTS TO CHRISTIANITY.—The Madras Athenæum announces the baptism on one day by the Free Church Missionaries at Madras, of eleven native converts. Seven of them were females. One of the converts was on his way to Benares as a pilgrim, when he met at Madras a relative who had embraced Christianity, and through his instrumentality became a Christian too. Even the enemies of the Christian Mission (for they have enemies still), must admit that within the past few years there has been a surprising increase in the number of conversions.

THE PAUMBAM PASS.—We learn from the Madras papers that thirty thousand rupees have been sanctioned for the further deepening of the Paumbam Channel between Ceylon and the main land. The channel is now to be deepened to thirteen feet.

POSTAGE STAMPS.—The same authority informs us, that the Local Government have, also, just intimated to the Superintendent of Stamps, that his office will have to furnish postage stamps to the public, from the date at which the new postal rules are destined to come into play. About twenty-five lakhs of stamps have been already struck off in Bengal, and forwarded to this Presidency for immediate distribution, as a preliminary measure.

PUBLIC WORKS.—It is estimated by some of the local journals, that Lord Harris intends to set on foot a commission, consisting of no less than eleven persons, to whom the discharge of certain duties in connection with Public Works is said to be entrusted. Major Balfour, one of the notable P. W. Commissioners of Madras, is said to be one of this body, a proof that the report, which was gall and bitterness to Sir Henry Pottinger, is far differently received by our present ruler. Nothing definite is known of the object of this new commission, but it is reported that his Lordship "has in view the preparation of some comprehensive and connected plan of operations to be laid before the Supreme Government or Court of Directors; which, if sanctioned, will enable the Madras Government to carry on the work of improvement, without any external intervention. It is felt that our public works will only advance at a snail's gallop, till the Governor has at his disposal a specified adequate sum to be expended on them generally, "leaving the application of it on single objects, to be settled afterwards, when the Government shall have been satisfied of the most advantageous way in employing it."

A New Cross Road is to be constructed between St. Thomas's Mount and Poonamallee.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ANDERSON, F. civ. and assd. jud. of Mangalore, res. ch. of his office, and assd. ch. of the sub. court, June 6.
CARMICHAEL, D. F. to act as hd. asst. to reg. of court of Sud. and Foudaree Adalat dur. abs. of R. S. Ellis.
CORLESTON, F. sub. judge of the zillah of Mangalore, del. over ch. of civil and sub. courts to the princ. sud. ameen, May 29, assd. ch. of court of Honore, June 7.

ELLIS, G. H. to be add. sub. coll. and joint mag. of Canara, June 6.
 GREENFELL, St. L. M. to be asst. to coll. and mag. of n. div. of Arcot.
 MASTER, C. G. is perm. to prosecute his studies under the orders of the coll. of Rajahmundry.
 MURRAY, H. A. to be priv. sec. to the governor.
 RATLIFF, J. to be sub. coll. and joint mag. of Nellore, June 6.
 ROBINSON, W. act. sub. jud. of Mangalore, asst. ch. of the court.
 SMOLLETT, actg. coll. and mag. of Chingleput, asst. ch. of the district, June 5.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BAYLEY, W. H. 6 weeks.
 BAYNES, C. R. 1 month.
 LIDDELL, W. 1 year, to Neilgherries.
 MASTER, R. E. 2 weeks.
 ROBERTSON, A. 1 month.
 THOMSON, H. 1 mo. to Madras.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

RHENIUS, Rev. C. admitted to the service, arrived May 31.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ANDERSON, Capt. H. J. 34th L.I. to be an asst. to supt. of roads.
 ANDERSON, 2nd Lieut. D. D. art. fr. 4th batt. to h. brig. June 7.
 APPELGATH, Lieut. F. 33rd N.I. to be capt. fr. May 26, v. Smith, dectd.
 ASHE, Ens. B. T. 10th N.I. to be lieut. fr. June 1, in succ. to Stapleton, invalidated.
 BABINGTON, Lieut. col. D. fr. 17th to 32nd N.I. June 14.
 BABINGTON, Lieut. R. C. 4th N.I. to be 2nd asst. civ. engr. v. Farewell.
 BARROW, Capt. J. L. art. fr. 2nd to 1st batt. June 8.
 BELL, Ens. H. J. 2nd Eur. L.I. pass. exam. in Hind. qual for charge of a comp. June 13.
 BERDMORE, Capt. H. F. M. art. posted to 4th batt. June 8.
 BIDEN, 1st Lieut. art. posted to 1st batt. June 8.
 BOILEAU, Lieut. A. J. M. engr. to be civ. eng. in 6th div. in succ. to Major Lawford; to proc. to Cuddalore and relieve Major Lawford.
 BOND, Lieut. F. W. art. to be capt. by brev. fr. June 11.
 BRADLEY, Lieut. C. J. 24th N.I. to be capt. by brev. fr. June 12.
 BROUGHTON, Ens. A. F. D. 33rd N.I. to be capt. fr. May 26, in succ. to Smith, dectd.
 CAMERON, 1st Lieut. C. art. posted to h. brig. June 8.
 CAMPBELL, Capt. T. H. art. posted to 5th batt. June 8.
 CARR, Ens. M. W. 9th N.I. to be lieut. fr. Feb. 2, v. Lawford, ret.
 CHAMBERS, Lieut. O. W. S. engr. to act as civ. eng. in 2nd div. v. Boileau, to join.
 CHAUNCEY, Lieut. A. 39th N.I. to offic. as dep. supt. of elec. telegraphs, v. Brunton, at Calcutta.
 CHERRY, Cornet C. N. to do duty with 1st L.C. June 16.
 CLARKE, Ens. T. G. 21st N.I. passed ex. in n. lang. qualified for ch. of a company.
 COSSERAT, Lieut. J. P. 34th L.I. passed ex. in Hind. qualified as adjt. June 6.
 DUDGEON, Brev. maj. F. 44th N.I. to be major fr. June 5, in succ. to McCally, prom.
 FAREWELL, Lieut. W. T. F. 3rd Eur. regt. to be a 1st asst. civ. engr. v. Wilkieson.
 FALLS, Lieut. A. V. art. to be capt. by brev. fr. June 11.
 FARLEY, Capt. W. to act as master attendant at Cocanada during H. Thomson's abs. June 6.
 FERGUSSON, Lieut. H. M. 3d Eur. regt. pass. exam. in Hind. qual. as interp. June 6.
 FITZGERALD, Lieut. col. J. fr. 32nd to 17th N.I. June 14.
 FRYE, Capt. J. P. 22nd N.I. permitted to join his corps, via Calcutta.
 GIB, Lieut. W. A. 48th N.I. to act as exec. officer in dept. pub. works, v. Ritherdon, June 16.
 GOAD, Capt. J. W. art. posted to 3rd batt. June 8.
 GRAY, Capt. F. 1st nat. vet. batt. to com. the detach. of the 2nd nat. vet. batt. at Poonamallee.
 GROVE, Lieut. H. L. 2nd Eur. regt. to be a first asst. civ. engr. v. Rundall.
 HAIG, Lieut. F. T. engr. to act as civ. eng. in Godavery div. dur. abs. of Cotton, or till further orders, June 16.
 HURST, Lieut. W. P. 7th N.I. ret. to du.
 JOHNSON, Ens. J. H. E. 2nd Eur. L.I. passed exam. in Hindustani for ch. of a comp. June 6.
 JOHNSON, Lieut. W. R. 39th N.I. to be an asst. to supt. of roads.
 KING, Lieut. J. act. dep. commissary of ord. to revert to former app. of asst. commissary of ord. since Lieut. Clarke's return.
 LAMPEN, Ens. J. 11th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani for ch. of a comp.
 LANAUZE, Lieut. A. act. asst. commissary of ord. to revert to former app. of dep. asst. com. of ord. since Lieut. Clarke's return.
 LAWDER, Lieut. E. J. 44th N.I. to be capt. from June 5, in succ. to McCally, prom.

LITTLE, Capt. R. R. art. posted to h. brig. June 8.
 MACINTIRE, Capt. A. W. art. posted to h. brig. June 8.
 MACLEAN, Lieut. J. N. H. art. to be capt. by brev. fr. June 12.
 MAGNAY, Ens. J. 38th N.I. pass. exam. in Hind. qual. for the gen. staff, June 13.
 MCCALLY, sen. Maj. A. 44th N.I. to be lieut. col. from June 5, v. Bremner, died.
 MITCHELL, Capt. W. S. 1st nat. vet. batt. perm. to retire from the service on the pension of his rank, from May 31.
 MORGAN, Lieut. J. R. 13th N.I. to act as exec. off. in the dept. of pub. works, v. Babington, June 16.
 NICHOLSON, Ens. J. S. to do du. with 12th N.I. to join, June 3.
 PARRY, Lieut. S. H. J. 1st Eur. fus. pass. exam. in Hind. to rec. moonshlee allow. June 6.
 PEARSE, Ens. C. J. 47th N.I. passed exam. in n. lang. qualified for ch. of a company.
 PLAYFAIR, Lieut. R. L. art. serv. pl. at disp. of govt. of Bombay with a view to his being app. asst. to political res. at Aden, posted to 4th batt. June 8.
 PLAYFAIR, 1st Lieut. E. M. art. posted to 1st batt. June 8.
 PRESCOTT, sen. Lieut. J. C. P. 10th N.I. to be capt. fr. June 1, v. Stapleton, invalidated.
 PRIOR, 1st Lieut. G. B. art. posted to 5th batt. June 8.
 PURVIS, 1st Lieut. C. A. art. fr. 1st brig. to 2nd batt. June 7, to be capt. by brev. fr. June 13.
 RAIKES, 1st Lieut. C. art. posted to 2nd batt. June 8.
 RAIKES, Ens. A. 44th N.I. to be lieut. fr. June 5, in succ. to McCally, prom.
 RIPPON, Lieut. S. fr. 1st to 5th batt. June 7, to be adjt. to 5th batt. (Golundauze), at the recommendation of the C. in C.
 RITHERDON, Lieut. A. W. 45th N.I. to be 2nd asst. civ. engr. v. Grove.
 ROWLANDSON, Capt. G. art. ret. to duty, June 13.
 RUNDALL, Lieut. F. H. engr. to be civ. engr. in 9th div. fr. May 31.
 SCOTT, 1st Lieut. A. N. art. fr. 2nd to 4th batt. June 7; to be adjt. and qr. mr. to 4th batt. art. at the recommendation of the C. in C. June 9.
 SMART, Capt. G. 21st N.I. to do du. with 43rd N.I.
 SMITH, 1st Lieut. S. R. art. posted to h. brig. June 8.
 STAPLETON, Capt. G. J. 10th N.I. trans. to inv. estab. fr. June 1, posted to N.V. batt. June 8.
 ST. AUBYN, Capt. E. P. 10th N.I. ret. to du.
 STEUART, 2nd Lieut. M. art. fr. 2nd batt. to h. brig. June 7.
 SWETE, 1st Lieut. J. B. art. posted to 5th batt. June 8.
 THOMAS, 1st Lieut. L. F. C. art. posted to 3rd batt. June 8.
 TYRREL, Lieut. F. 18th N.I. to be an asst. civ. engr. under ord. of bd. of rev. in dept. of pub. works.
 VARDON, Capt. F. C. art. posted to 3rd batt. June 8.
 WALPOLE, Ens. H. fr. doing duty 2nd batt. art. to do duty 49th N.I. June 7.
 WILKIESON, Lieut. C. V. engr. to be asst. to sec. to bd. of rev. in dept. of pub. works, to join.
 WYSE, Lieut. J. C. 34th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani for general staff.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT DATE SPECIFIED.

CAVALRY.

CHERRY, C. N. June 13.

INFANTRY.

BEAUMONT, W. H. June 13.

ROWLANDSON, G. June 13.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ANSTRUTHER, Lieut. col. P. art. to Europe on m.c. new regulations.
 BARROW, Lieut. T. O. 5th N.I. sub-assist. commy. gen. to Eur. on m.c. old reg.
 CLARKE, Lieut. G. inv. estab. leave cancelled.
 COTTON, Brev. maj. F. C. engr. 1 year, to western coast, m.c.
 DE WET, Capt. O. G. 1st N.I. in ext. to Sept. 15, to Neilgherries.
 GODFREY, Lieut. R. C. 31st L.I. prep. to Cape of Good Hope.
 HAMILTON, Capt. R. 1st N.I. to June 1, on m.c. to the Neilgherries, June 6.
 JACOB, Lieut. V. G. 44th N.I. 3 mo. fr. June 9, to the Neilgherries.
 JEFFERIS, Lieut. J. H. art. to Eur. on m.c. old reg.
 JOHNSTONE, Maj. W. G. 12th N.I. fr. June 1 to Nov. 30, to Neilgherries and Madras.
 LIARDET, Maj. C. F. 14th N.I. to Europe on furl. new regulations.
 MOLONY, Brev. capt. C. P. 25th N.I. to Europe, on m.c. old regulations.
 ORR, Lieut. J. 27th N.I. to Europe, on furl. old regulations.
 STEPHENS, Lieut. G. N. 31st L.I. prep. to Cape of Good Hope.
 STUART, Lieut. R. A. W. C. 17th N.I. 3 years, to Eur. on m.c.
 WARD, Lieut. W. 46th N.I. 1 month, prep. to Eur.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

CLEVELAND, Assist. surg. E. S. M.D. is permitted to enter on the general duties of the army, June 6.

CULLIMORE, Vet. surg. J. M. fr. doing duty under vet. surg. horse brig. to do duty under vet. surg. 63rd L.C. June 7.
 DAY, Assist. surg. F. to do duty supg. surgeon's depôt, Mysore div. June 2.
 GOODHALL, Surg. A. fr. 10th N.I. to 34th L.N.I.
 JACOB, Assist. surg. W. A. M.D. posted to 30th N.I. June 7.
 PORTEOUS, Surg. H. W. posted to 32nd N.I. to rem. as at present until relieved, June 7.
 SANDERSON, Assist. surg. A. M.D. passed exam. in Hindustani for med. ch.
 SUTLEFFE, Assist. surg. R. R. posted to 38th N.I. June 7.
 WILSON, Assist. surg. J. fr. doing duty supg. surg.'s dept. Sangor div. in med. ch. 17th N.I. posted to 17th N.I. June 7.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BURTON, wife of H. s. at Royapooram, June 17.
 INNES, wife of Dr. 84th foot. s. at Rangoon, May 17.
 KELLIE, wife of J. d. at Madras, June 7.
 OAKES, wife of W. s. at Suffolk House, Madras, June 13.
 PEARNS, wife of Capt. Arnold, Madras art. d. at Mhow, May 24.
 RATTON, wife of Asst. surg. J. A. d. at Chingleput, June 8.

MARRIAGES.

HODSON, H. L. to Georgiana, eld. d. of the late J. P. Meppen, at Vizagapatam, June 1.
 JAMES, F. J. to Mrs. Sarah Hardie, at the Cathedral, June 8.

DEATHS.

BARTELS, H. R. s. of H. E. music master 3rd M.L.C. of cholera, at Pebbare, May 22.
 BOYSON, Caroline, d. of J. R. at Shervwaroy Hills, June 5.
 BRENNER, Lieut. col. W. 41st N.I. at Kamptee, June 6.
 CAMPBELL, inf. s. of N. G. at Chedderghaut, Secunderabad, June 10.
 COTTRELL, wife of Lieut. C. C. 1st N.V. batt. at Madras, June 9.
 CUTTER, inf. twin s. of Rev. Mr. American mission at Rajahmundry, June 6.
 FENNEL, wife of Rev. A. chaplain at Mercara, June 10.
 POSNETT, inf. s. of Rev. R. at Bangalore, May 31.
 SMITH, Capt. O. 33rd N.I. at Nagode, May 26.
 TAYNTON, Myra, widow of Lieut. col. J. late Madras art. June 8.
 TWIGG, R. W. aged 45, at Black Town, June 17.
 WILLIAMS, Sally, youngest d. of Qr. mr. serjt. W. horse art. of fever, May 29.
 WILLIAMS, Qr. mr. serjt. W. H. art. of apoplexy, May 29.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

JUNE 5. Hermine, Fox, Melbourne.—7. Nonpareil, Tulloch, Coringa.—11. Thomas Lowry, Dobson, Tranquebar; Harsinger, Tanen, Masulipatam.—13. Str. Hindostan, Tronson, Suez; Hippogriffe, Howes, Boston.—14. Str. Hugh Lindsay, Crowther, Cuddalore.—15. Anna Maria, Anwyll, Mauritius.—17. Gazelle, Leslie, Liverpool and Cape of Good Hope.—18. Screw str. Proponitis, Maynard, Southampton, Cape, and Mauritius; Sultana, Tapper, Calingapatam.—19. Str. Ganges, Black, Calcutta.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Thomas Lowry (June 11).—Mr. C. H. Roddy.
 Per Harsinger (June 11).—2 Misses Sherkey and Master Sherkey.
 Per steamer Hindostan (June 10), from SUEZ, ADEN, and GALLE. From SOUTHAMPTON.—Major Rowlandson, Miss Rowlandson, Mr. Rowlandson, Mr. Latham, Mr. Beaumont, Mr. Murray, Mrs. Spence, and Mr. Cherry. From Suez.—Capt. Russell. From GALLE.—Mr. and Mrs. Murray. From SOUTHAMPTON to CALCUTTA.—Mr. Curtis, Mr. Gordon, Mr. Delpratt, Mrs. Delpratt, Mr. Sutherland, Mr. Barlow, Mr. Hemah. From SUEZ to CALCUTTA.—Mr. and Mrs. Campbell. From GALLE to CALCUTTA.—Mr. Simpson. From BOMBAY to CALCUTTA.—Lieut. col. Havelock.
 Per Hippogriffe.—F. F. Wills, Esq. Miss Wills, and Miss Dale.
 Per steamer Hugh Lindsay.—Mr. C. Johnson.
 Per steamer Proponitis (June 19), from SOUTHAMPTON.—Dr. Cheyne, Miss Peybot, and Mr. Grace. For CALCUTTA.—Mr. and Mrs. White, Mr. Pearson, Mr. Brandfield, Mr. Mayton, Mr. Walker, and Mrs. Mitchell.
 Per steamer Ganges (June 19).—Mr. Temesfield, Mr. Clarke's child.
 For BOMBAY.—Mr. Duval. For ALEXANDRIA.—Mr. Jenkins. For MARSEILLES.—Mr. C. Ballen. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Mrs. Woodley, Mrs. Young, Master Young, Mr. Davidson, Mr. J. Hosmer, Mr. Hay, Mr. Brown, and Mr. T. Cummings.

DEPARTURES.

JUNE 7. James Hall, Rose, Penang, Malacca, and Singapore; Chapmans, Charles, London; Melanie, Bird, Coringa.—10. Iceni, Bupham, Cuddalore and London.—12. Alexander John Kerr, Dickson, Northern Ports and Calcutta.—13. Steamer Hindostan, Tronson, Calcutta. JUNE 19. Nonpareil, Tulloch, Mauritius; Malsabar, Noaks, Bimlipatam and London; Lesmoynne, King, Calcutta.—19. Steamer Hugh Lindsay, Crowther, Masulipatam, Coringa, and Vizagapatam.—20. Steamer Ganges, Black, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Hindostan (June 13), from MADRAS to CALCUTTA.—F. J. Bell, Esq. Mrs. Bell; Capt. J. P. Frye, Mrs. Frye, and infant; H. B. Webster, Esq. B.C.S. and Mrs. C. Lafond.
 Per Malsabar (June 19), to LONDON.—W. H. Bayley, Esq. and Capt. Young, B. A.; Mr. and Mrs. Burton, and Mr. Fireacre.
 Per Lesmoynne (June 19), to CALCUTTA.—W. Warrington, Esq.
 Per steamer Hugh Lindsay (June 19), to MASULIPATAM, CORINGA, and VIZAGAPATAM. For MASULIPATAM.—Col. Grantham, Mrs. and Miss Beesar, and Lieut. Benson, 45th regt. For CORINGA.—Mr. G. Williams, Mr. J. H. Master, Mr. C. J. Master. For VIZAGAPATAM.—Mrs. Beale.

 Per steamer Ganges (June 20), to SUEZ. To SOUTHAMPTON.—C. R. Hinds, Esq. Lieut. Jeffers, Capt. C. P. Malony, Miss H. Johnson.

COMMERCIAL.

Madras, June 20, 1854.

BANK OF MADRAS.

Rates of Interest—on Loans.

On deposit of Government Paper ..... 5 per ct.
 On existing cash credit accounts on do. .... 5 do.

RATES OF ADVANCE.

On Government 5 per cent. Stock Receipts ..... 100 per ct.
 On 5 per cent. Promissory Notes ..... 98 "
 On 4 per cent. do. Sica and Co.'s ..... 98 "
 On Tanjore do. .... 88 "

Discount.

On Government Acceptances ..... 3 per ct.
 On Private Bills, at or within 30 days ..... 5 "
 Ditto above 30 days ..... 6 "

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

4 per cent. loan of 1854 2 to 2½ dis.
 4 per cent. .. 1832-33 2 to 2½ dis.
 1835-36 3 to 3½ dis.
 1843 2 to 2½ dis.
 5 per cent. transferable .. 5 to 5½ prem.
 book debt .. ..
 Tanjore Bonds .. .. 2 to 2½ dis.
 Bank of Madras Shares .. 12½ to 13 prem.

PRICE OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Sovereigns ..... Rs. 10-2 to 10-3 each
 Bank of England Notes ..... 10-2 to 10-3 each
 Spanish Dollars ..... 220 per 100

EXCHANGES.

Bills on England, according to sight, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d.
 H.M. Treasury Bills, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d.
 Bank of England Post Bills, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d.
 Mauritius Government Bills, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d.
 Ceylon do. 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d.
 Court of Directors' Bill on the Government of Bengal, 60 days' sight, none.

Calcutta.—Buy, ½ per cent. disct.
 Sell, par.
 Bombay.—Buy, ½ per cent. disct.
 Sell, par.

FREIGHTS.

Quotations to London and Liverpool are 4l. to 4l. 5s. per ton of 20 cwt.

BOMBAY.

SUTTEE IN CUTCH.

Subjoined is a copy of a letter addressed by Major Trevelyan, political agent in Cutch, to H. L. Anderson, Esq. secretary to Government. It has just been placed at the disposal of the Press, and our readers will learn from it that suttee still prevails in Cutch:—

"It is with regret I have to report the commission of an act of suttee, or self-sacrifice, at a small village in this neighbourhood, though in this instance, the victim, an old woman of the Charun tribe, seventy years old, perished by means of entombing herself along with the corpse of her husband.

"The circumstances connected with this case were brought to my notice by his highness the Rao at Bhooj, about a month ago, and a few days subsequently several of the Charun inhabitants of the village of Bhada were summoned there by his highness for either being concerned in, or not preventing the woman in question from destroying herself in the manner above described.

"On the 2nd instant these men underwent their trial before his highness the Rao, in the palace, on which occasion I was present; but there was little elicited beyond the fixed determination on the part of the woman not to survive her husband, and all endeavours to divert her from her purpose proved unavailing. Rather than resort to force to prevent her from immolating herself, and thereby drawing down upon their heads imprecations and curses, she was permitted by her relations and the other inhabitants of the village to take her own course without interference.

"After the investigation, his highness, in consultation with me, sentenced the son of the deceased to imprisonment in irons for a period of one year, and further directed that 150 korees should be levied from the villagers,—which, considering the smallness of their number and impoverished condition, added to their belonging to one of the most bigoted tribes in the province,—would seem to be sufficient notice to take of the matter in the present instance, especially as the punishment is, I feel assured, looked upon as a severe one by the parties concerned.

"The wife of the son of the deceased came to me here this morning to implore my intercession with his highness the Rao on behalf of her husband, and obtain his release from prison, he being the only support of herself and family, who, by his imprisonment, have been reduced to the utmost destitution; and such I believe to be partly or wholly true: but I, of course, declined to interfere in any endeavour to alter a punishment so justly deserved by her husband for disobedience of his highness the Rao's orders, prohibiting the performance of suttee in any shape."

THE SUMALI EXPEDITION.

[Abridged from the Bombay Times, June 14.]

The home mail, which leaves Bombay within a week, takes with it, as far as Aden, Lieut. Richard Burton, of the 18th N.I., author of several peculiar but very able and interesting works on districts in India, Hadji, and leader of the proposed expedition to the country of the Sumalis. There has been not a little geographical research in Eastern Africa, and the Transactions of the Bombay Geographical Society, and unpublished records of Government, contain several useful papers specially devoted to that subject; but, while enterprising travellers have visited the nations both to the north and to the south of the Sumali country, they have left that large district a terra incognita, to be now, we trust, thoroughly explored, and brought into closer relationship with the opposite port of Aden, and with the shores of India. Lieuts. Christopher and Dansey were both, on different occasions, very nearly penetrating into that country; Lieut. Cruttenden has intended, from time immemorial, to pay it a visit; and Dr. Carter might have risked an excursion in it, had he so pleased. Even Mr. Burton's visit is, as yet, only proposed, and has to be sanctioned by the Court of Directors; but, having already expressed their opinion as to the necessity of such an exploration, it is to be expected that they will throw no obstacles in his way; in which case, sure we are, that he, if man can, will carry it to a successful issue. So far from this expedition being premature, there is now not a day to be lost in carrying out its objects, if we do not wish to see them laid hold of by some other nations, to the limitation of the spread of British commerce, and to the eventual general detriment of British interests in the East. The French are already anxious to obtain possession of Zeyla, not far west from Berbera, and perhaps it is just as well for us that the Cayman war steamer was wrecked there lately. Even the unenterprising Austrians are turning their attention to Eastern Africa, as affording an opening for the extension of their power and commerce; and, to this end, have erected forts near the equator, and taken other measures of a very practical kind. And the obstacles thrown in the way of the construction of railways through Egypt, together with the possibility of a ship canal being opened between the Mediterranean and the Red Sea, should make us doubly careful as to the future. Bombay itself was, at one time, very nearly ceded by the British, as a valueless possession, and there are always men whose cui bono is limited to their ledgers; but that great British empire, on which, as Disraeli put it, the sun never sets, has only been formed by the enterprise of daring men, acting in accordance with the far-seeing policy of wise rulers. But in this particular case it needs no great stretch of mind to discover the advantages which are likely to ensue. In 1853 Lieut. Dansey, as we find from his Journal, reported of Berbera, that the presence of a British functionary there was necessary "to control and prevent the interminable petty feuds which at present frighten away the timid merchants (African and Foreign)," and that, if this were granted, "less than a year would suffice" for the establishment of "a large and permanent town." Hurrur, the capital of the Sumali country, is only twelve days' journey from Berbera, and affords better coffee than that of Arabia; and, as our contemporary the Gazette has already informed the public, there is good hope of a valuable trade in horses, ivory, gums, and gold. Already the Americans supply their own cottons and German cutlery to the Sumalis, a fact which should put us to shame. Aden ought, of course, to monopolize the trade with Berbera, and from thence with the interior; and were this once partially accomplished, Aden, so far from remaining a burden on our revenues, would become a source of much wealth, and enable us, even if a canal were made through Egypt, yearly to extend the commerce, the power, and the fame of our country. On the scientific results of such an expedition it is almost unnecessary to dwell. For our own part, we would be more than satisfied, if it only yielded an admirable account of the Sumalis, from a human and sensible point of view, such as Mr. Burton has already displayed his ability to occupy, together with an extension of our geographical knowledge.

Many expeditions have been so unfortunate, and others, like that of Major Harris, so expensive, that there has been, for some time, an aversion to starting new ones; but in 1849, the Royal Geographical Society obtained permission from the Court of Directors that an officer should be sent into the Sumali country; and the want of a fit person was then the great difficulty. All we have to object to the present plan is, that it is too modest and demands too little. Mr. Burton is perfectly ready to go alone and unattended, if his further plans are not approved; but his requests from the Court of Directors are too reasonable, we should think, to be refused. All he asks is, that permission be given to three officers to accompany him, and that he should have letters from Government, surveying-instruments, and 500 rupees per mensem to defray the expenses of the journey. He is also, we believe, desirous to have a Mahomedan surveyor with him; but a fit person of this kind will not easily be found, especially one able to work, and, at the same time, to endure the hardships of savage life. Only half the coast line from Berbera to Zanzibar has been surveyed, and much may be done in this respect in the interior, so that we would suggest that, to give an additional guarantee of accuracy, and to lessen the labours of Lieut. Herne, of the fusiliers, Lieut. Stroyan, of the Indian Navy, be added to the mission. Mr. Burton is deserving of every aid, and, as is usual in such circumstances, something might be done to aid the success of the expedition, if not by increased pecuniary means, yet, at least, by conferring on him some higher status,—say a local or official majority, which would be to no one's prejudice. We fancy, neither that old chief who has sent word that he intends to demolish the first European who enters his territories, nor any others of the Sumalis, except those who have intercourse with Aden, could discern between the divinity of a lieutenant and that of a local major; but the Aden men will understand it, the reports of him will be more respectful if he starts as a major, and the Austrians, French, and Americans, seeing that we are taking up the affair in earnest, may keep away from the field. Mr. Burton already deserves any advancement or honour which may be safely given to him. When we see so many brevet-majors and C. B.'s, distinguished rather by good luck than by ability, and a French African traveller, like M. Arnaud d'Abbadie, made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honour, there is double reason why enterprising and talented English discoverers should have some honours conferred upon them.

Though Lieut. Burton leaves Bombay in a few days, he does not intend to start from Aden till early in October, travelling being impossible in the Sumali country during the monsoon. After landing at Berbera, and establishing his character among the Sumalis, he proposes to visit Hurrur, the capital of the country. From thence he will push on, in a south-western direction, towards Gonana, from which place he trusts to be able to reach Zanzibar. If compelled, after reaching Zanzibar, to return immediately to India, his expedition must then come to an end, which many parties will deeply regret; but if his leave is extended to at least a couple of years, and if he is permitted to penetrate westwards, and he obtains the countenance of the Imam of Muscat, he may explore the Jebel Kamar, the no longer fabled Mountains of the Moon, and discover the sources of the Nile and of the White River. Some danger there certainly is in the enterprise, but none that there is not reasonable expectation of being overcome. Certain Sumali chiefs, who have property at Aden, are willing to guarantee the safety of the travellers; and we have little doubt that the leader of it, who intends, by all possible means, to cultivate the friendship of the Sumalis, will insure its popularity among them.

But now we have delayed long enough in referring to what specially needs comment in this matter, the character and abilities of Mr. Burton, and the duty which lies on Government to turn these abilities to proper account. Rarely united are the qualities which fit one for exploring unknown countries and pioneering the way for civilization, laws, and commerce. To the honour of the Indian army be it said, that it has always been able to furnish such men, and at the present day, we know of none to compete, in this respect, with the officer who has proposed this expedition. To the acquirements of scholarship, not easily outrivalled even in this land of scholars, he possesses the genial insight of the student of human nature, and the celerity in action and bravery of spirit of the soldier and man of the world. He has already proved, by his visit to Mecca, the possession, in a high degree, of what we may call dramatic power, and of a singular combination of fearlessness and caution. Most of our readers must know that he visited Mecca professedly as a native of Afghanistan, and succeeded, by means of his well-assumed disguise, in not only examining the Holy Land of Muhammedanism, but also in obtaining information which Burckhardt and Ali Bey failed to gain, because they were known as Europeans and renegades. Few things could be more difficult of accomplishment than this visit to Mecca, and yet he succeeded in it, and he will succeed in whatever he undertakes, if not too much fettered by the Government. Already he is an Ancer polutropus, and able to combat with fortune in all her shifts. To keep such a man at mere regimental duty, would be waste, sheer waste: any man can accomplish that duty: one man has visited the Caaba and sketched that Semetic Kiblah. He is not at all of the Bombay native infantry; but belongs to what Carlyle would call the World Pioneer Service, a service which, in most cases, indeed, has had to go a warfare on its own charges; each member of which has very often had to say, like poor Columbus after he had discovered the million acres of America for the starving millions of Europe, "I lack wherewith to pay my tavern bill;" but there is no reason why the present should fall into the errors of the past, or because true men worked for us, and left their bones on many a shore, without encouragement and without reward, that we should let our children be benefited in the same selfish way. This is mere common sense; and the same common sense demands that Mr. Burton should have all convenient aid, and that he should be left at liberty to follow out his own plans; to stay one year, or ten years, among the Sumalis; to survey the coast, or the Mountains of the Moon. Before he leaves Aden, however, we hope to have from him his Mecca pilgrimage, which ought, if flying anecdotes be true, to be one of the most interesting of all books of travel. And if his writings and labours go on steadily improving, as they have done, and he steers clear of that common fault of humanity, the desire to seem rather than to be, remembering well the line, which we need not translate to such an accomplished scholar, les sages asphalees o misthos, he may yet accomplish a future, at least as enduring as the Greek Troglodytes and the Berbera-desa of the Indian Puranas.

THE VEHAR WATER-WORKS.

(From the Telegraph and Courier, June 14.)

The Bombay public will be glad to hear that Government are not allowing the grass to grow under their feet with regard to the Vehar water-works. Lieutenant Day, one of the most efficient officers in the revenue survey, has been employed for the last week in measuring and surveying the ground which will be required for the purpose of forming the fresh-water lake. Mr. Day's work will be over in about ten days, and a committee is then ordered to assemble and examine the accounts of the Vehar estate, and ascertain the true value of the land. The committee will be composed of the collector of Tanna, Mr. Acland, the company's solicitor, and Capt. Crawford, of the engineers. To the latter officer we are indebted for the original plan of obtaining water from Salsette, which he laid before Government some years ago. We are delighted to learn that; however much delay the justices have been guilty of, no such blame can be laid at the door of the "mild despotism." Every week is of the utmost importance in having the affair settled. The delay of a month in commencing the work might cause us to be an extra year without the required supply of water. As it is, and making all the haste possible, the Vehar water could not be used in Bombay before the hot weather of 1856; but even to accomplish this, the work should be commenced upon by the end of this monsoon—say in August or September. We hear that the work is to be conducted under Mr. Conybere, a gentleman fully competent for the task, and who, after having abolished the nuisance of the main drain, and supplied Bombay with good water, may certainly say that his labour has not been in vain whilst eking the salt of the municipality. But we should not forget that the first projector of this scheme was Captain Crawford, and to him we are very greatly indebted both for the original plan and the subsequent carrying out of the same. This officer, too, is one whose work will be remembered in Bombay, both in connection with the water-works and the railway.

We repeat that the highest credit is due to the local Government for the manner in which they have carried out and pushed on this matter of the Vehar water-works. And it is the more pleasing to witness, and gives us the greatest hopes for the future, inasmuch as the local press, and local public opinion, have, in this subject, pointed out the road in which the Governor in Council should walk. It is not too much to say that there is now a public opinion in Bombay, nor can we record higher praise of Government than to assert that they—as at present constituted—are not ashamed to be led by the public voice.

Having gone thus far in a great and a good work, let them now not delay. They should remember that although the man who puts his hand to the plough has done half the work, there is a bitter condemnation against him if he ever looks back. We are not writing without book, when we say that Mr. Goldsmid, the revenue secretary, has helped greatly to expedite the work to its present state of forwardness.

THE LONDON MAIL of May 9th arrived at Bombay June 8th (per Acbar).

THE RAILWAY.—We are glad to hear that the Board of Conservancy are acting vigorously on the idea of bringing water in by the railway from Mahim. The first batch came in yesterday morning. It is expected that 30,000 gallons can be brought in daily by this means, and conveniently placed for disposal among the people of both the native town and fort—an immense blessing, which, but for the railway, they could not have enjoyed.—Gazette, June 3.

LIEUT. THOMPSON, 15th N.I.—We learn from the Bombay Telegraph, that a seventh court-martial is to take place in the 15th Bombay Native Infantry. Lieutenant and Quartermaster Thompson is to be tried for misappropriation of the regimental funds.

LIEUT. MILLIGAN, of the Bengal artillery, has obtained the usual reward of Rs. 1,000 for high proficiency in the Oordoo and Hindee languages.

THE LATE PHOOLSHAIR (EDUCATIONAL) INSTITUTION have given up to the Indo-British Institution the sum of Rs. 6,600, being the balance of the funds in their possession, on the ground that the latter institution approximated in some degree to the objects contemplated by the Phoolshair institution, which has long since been defunct.

DR. SHEKLETON, of the Bombay Medical Establishment, has been appointed Deputy Assay Master in the Mint at Calcutta.

ACCIDENT TO MR. O'SHAUGHNESSY.—We deeply regret to learn from the Bombay Gazette that a very serious accident lately befel Mr. O'Shaughnessy, of the Bombay Telegraphic Establishment, eldest son of Dr. O'Shaughnessy. Dr. Green, deputy superintendent, in charge of the Bombay line, says—"On the night of the 25th, while we were telegraphing the mail to Seepoor, Mr. O'Shaughnessy went to the well in which the earth plate is sunk, to see that all was right, and tumbled headlong into it, fracturing his shoulder-joint, and otherwise seriously injuring it. He will recover, thanks be to God. This is all I can say for him."

STUDY OF THE NATIVE LANGUAGES.—At a special examination held on the 12th June, in the Town Hall, Messrs. Hope and Gonno of the C. S. passed respectively in Guzeratee and Hindostanee. Some eight or nine young civil servants went up, but only two passed, and of these one, Mr. Hope, is a noted linguist, and has now passed in his third language, after being only a few months in the country. So long as young civilians are allowed to assemble in crowds at the presidency, very few will go through the ordeal of passing. We thought that there was some rule by which no young man just arrived from Haileybury was allowed to remain in Bombay. There used to be some such rule, but it appears to have been forgotten for some time past. At present there must be upwards of a dozen future judges and collectors residing here as gentlemen at large, before they have passed in the languages. The effects of this are partly seen, and will be more fully developed perhaps hereafter.

POONA.—THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.—Lord Frederick Fitz Clarence and family, accompanied by his personal staff, had arrived at Poona from Mahabuleswar, and has taken up his residence for the rains. At his lordship's desire, the salute announcing his arrival was not fired till Monday morning.—Poona Observer, June 14. The Commander-in-Chief inspected the 21st regiment N.I. and the southern Mahratta irregular horse while passing through Sattara en route to Poona on Friday last. His lordship was, we hear, highly pleased with the fine appearance and high state of discipline maintained by these corps, and expressed himself in terms of warm approbation to their commanding officers.—Ibid.

Since my last, I have been on a visit to the Hill-Fort at Singhur, where a sad accident, which I do not see anywhere recorded, happened just before I arrived. The widow of a medical officer of Her Majesty's service, whilst taking a walk in the dusk of the evening, fell down a precipice, at the foot of which was an excavation for the reception of water. Fortunately it was dried up at the time, otherwise the poor lady would inevitably have been drowned. An officer of the 10th Hussars, who happened to be walking by at the time, hearing Mrs. ———'s cries, went to her assistance, but unfortunately overbalancing himself, he was precipitated to the bottom with fearful violence, and broke his leg in the fall. Both parties were very severely injured, and it was several hours before assistance reached them, the accident having occurred in an out-of-the-way spot. They are both, I am glad to say, now doing well.

MEETING OF JUDGES.—A very full meeting of her Majesty's justices has been held in the Town-hall. The bench have acquiesced in the Draft Act forwarded by Government with their letter of the 5th June, on consideration that clause to the following effect be added to it:—"Provided always, that so soon as the bench shall have proposed and the Government shall have sanctioned a substitute for the tax levied under this Act, and so soon as the same shall have come into operation, this Act shall immediately thenceforth be repealed." Mr. Narayan Dinnanath's proposition, substituting a water-rate in lieu of an increased house assessment, was carried.

OPENING OF THE SEASON, JUNE 15TH.—Our season has opened, Poonah is filled to overflowing, and every thing betokens the gathering of the élite of the Bombay presidency. The numbers of fine turn-outs at the Bandstand, the bright light of innumerable Argand lamps seen through the now reviving verdure of the gardens in front of the bungalows, the over-crowded pews in the church, all testify that the "beauty and fashion" of the Western presidency are collected here. Every one has returned from the hills, the only blank now left being that caused by the absence of Lord Elphinstone and his civil and military staff, the former having, as you are aware, put off his visit till the arrival of the next mail. Much speculation has been caused among all circles, both great and small, relative to the cause of the governor's continued stay at Bombay; some have it that he has received orders, by the last steamer, to prepare everything for the despatch of an expedition to Egypt (?) others that he has only been warned that something may be expected by the next mail. The dearth of water and scarcity of forage is causing much injury to the life of man and beast in the Deccan, and the agriculturists have been much disappointed at the continued want of those genial showers which usually feed our parched plains during the first weeks of June. There have been only a few cents of rain during the last fortnight, but appearances are now threatening, and a fall may be expected I think in the course of the night. The Gymkhana opens to-morrow, and a goodly meet is expected to take place, weather permitting; a tiffin will of course be ready, and the preliminaries of matches, &c., settled over cold fowl and "barley brew." The secretary is Mr. G. Shaw, of the civil service. The lovers of the turf have had a meeting, and have arranged all the necessary preliminaries; some good running is expected. The Persian prince Aga Khan has arrived with a splendid stud. Detachments of the 1st lancers and 3rd light cavalry have just arrived, and are encamped on the banks of the river; as also the detachment of the 2nd cavalry, which arrived more than a fortnight ago. I observe, however, that temporary lines are being put up for them near the Masonic Hall. The troop of Poona auxiliaries has been countermanded, being so near that they can come down at once whenever the season opens."

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BARR, M. W. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 HEBBERT, H. jud. and sess. jud. of Ahmedabad, recd. ch. of the Adawlut at that station, fr. Mr. Walter, June 6.
 NEWTON, H. jud. assist. to commiss. at Sattara, asst. ch. of the Adawlut at that station fr. Mr. Leighton, June 9.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

JORDAN, T. S. 1 month.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

ASTON, Brev. Maj. H. (retired) 10th N.I. to be maj. fr. Nov. 15, 1853, v. Hume, prom.
 BANNERMAN, Ens. P. W. 10th N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 23, in suc. to Macgowan, prom.
 BOLTON, Ens. G. N. res. to be lieut. 10th N.I. fr. August 3, 1853, v. Coley, prom.
 BOODLE, Lieut. C. E. 5th N.I. to be interp. in Hindoostanee.
 BURD, Lieut. R. 10th N.I. to take rank fr. Nov. 15, 1853, v. Schneider trans. to 3rd Eur. regt.
 CAMPBELL, Lieut. J. 2nd N.I. ret. to du. May 25.
 CARNEY, Lieut. A. 7th N.I. to be interp. in Hindoostanee.
 COLEY, Capt. J. C. 10th N.I. to take rank fr. Aug. 3, 1853, v. Morton ret.
 CRISPIN, Lieut. G. B. 4th N.I. to be interp. in Hindoostanee.
 DANVERS, Ens. A. 5th N.I. to be interp. in Hindoostanee.
 DOBBIE, Lieut. J. R. P. 10th N.I. to take rank fr. Nov. 15, 1853, v. Aston, prom.
 FEARON, Capt. P. S. 14th N.I. ret. to du. May 25.
 FORBES, Ens. C. H. H. 14th N.I. to be lieut. fr. March 15, v. Goble ret.
 GOODFELLOW, Lieut. W. W. passed ex. in Hindoostanee, to be emp. in pub. works.
 HANKIN, Ens. S. K. 2nd N.I. ret. to du. May 25.
 HAWTHORN, Ens. G. S. to be lieut. 24th N.I. fr. May 11, v. Hutchinson, rem. fr. list of army.
 HENDERSON, Lieut. W. H. to be interp. in Hindoostanee.
 HERNE, Lieut. G. S. 1st Eur. reg. withdrawn fr. his reg. to be emp. on spec. du. in pol. dept.
 JACKSON, Capt. T. ret. to be maj. 10th N.I. fr. April 16, v. Aston, ret.
 KEMBALL, Lieut. V. S. is perm. to resign his appt. of superint. revenue survey and assessment, Rutnagherry, fr. June 4.
 KERR, Lieut. W. A. 24th N.I. to take rank fr. April 11, v. Scatterd, dec.
 KNIGHT, Lieut. F. W. 1st Eur. regt. to be interp. in Hindoostanee.
 MACKINTOSH, Ens. J. E. A. having been reported by the garrison surg. fit for du. is to join his corps, Jan. 14.
 MACGOWAN, Lieut. F. 10th N.I. to be capt. fr. May 23, v. Vincent, prom.
 M'PHERSON, Lieut. W. E. 24th N.I. to be capt. fr. April 18, v. Duncan, prom.
 MOORE, Lieut. R. B. 3rd L.C. to be capt. fr. May 19, v. Taylor, inv.
 MOYLE, Capt. J. G. to take rank in 10th N.I. fr. Nov. 15, 1853, v. Aston, prom.
 NAYLOR, Lieut. resumed ch. of his office as lieut. of police, Hyderabad, June 3.
 NEAVE, Lieut. K. 24th N.I. to take rank fr. April 11, v. Scatterd, dec.
 PELLY, Capt. W. P. 10th N.I. to take rank fr. Apr. 16, in suc. to Jackson, prom.
 PIERCE, Lieut. T. W. W. to take rank fr. Aug. 31, 1853, v. Bolton, res.
 PHILLIPS, Lieut. A. 29th N.I. to be super. asst. to supt. of rev. surv. at Rutnagherry, to join.
 ROSE, Ens. A. 8th N.I. passed ex. in vernac. lang. March 3.
 SANDWICH, Lieut. J. P. 1st Gr. N.I. passed ex. in Guzerattee, and to be interp.

SHAW, Ens. G. M. to rank fr. May 19, and posted to 3rd L.C. v. Stevens, prom.
 SIMPSON, Capt. E. H. 2nd L.C. ret. to duty, May 25.
 SMITH, Lieut. G. 2nd L.C. to be interp. in Hindoostanee.
 SOPPITT, Lieut. A. to take rank fr. Apr. 16, in suc. to Jackson, prom.
 THOMPSON, Lieut. D. passed ex. in Hindoostanee, to be emp. in pub. works.
 VINCENT, Capt. H. to be maj. 10th N.I. fr. May 23 v. Jackson, ret.
 WADDINGTON, Lieut. T. to remain in ch. of office of supt. revenue survey and assessment, Rutnagherry, until further orders.
 WARDEN, Lieut. T. S. 4th N.I. to be acting adjt. of Guzerat irreg. horse, dur. abs. of Johnson, or till further orders, June 14.
 WOOD, Capt. to be a brig. maj. on estab. posted to Deesa.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ADAMS, Maj. W. S. 3rd Eur. regt. 6 mo. to Europe on furl. on m.c. new regulations.
 LECKIE, Capt. W. M. 13th N.I. 1 month to Ceylon.
 LECKIE, Capt. J. D. 22nd N.I. 3 years to Europe, m.c.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

COSTELLOE, Surg. D. to med. ch. of 1st Eur. regt. v. Arnott, to Eur. to join.
 EDWARDS, Surg. E. W. offic. insp. of hospitals, is permitted to remain in the Deccan on special duty, June 4.
 PEET, Assist. surg. to have charge of the Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy hospital, June 4.
 WARD, Assist. Surg. T. W. ret. to duty, May 25.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

McKENZIE, Assist. surg. J. M. R. 18 mo. to Eur. on furl. on m.c. old regulations.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BARRON, Mids. C. fr. the Hastings to the Queen, June 16.
 BURNES, Mids. H. W. H. perm. to reside on shore, June 9; 1 mo. fr. June 10, to the Deccan, on m.c.
 CRAWFORD, Asst. surg. of the Peroze, perm. to reside on shore, June 9.
 FENDALL, Mids. W. 1 yr. on furl. to Europe on m.c.
 GARDNER, Lieut. F. ret. to du. to join the Hastings, June 7; transf. to the Falkland, June 9.
 GLEN, Asst. surg. of the Tigris, perm. to reside on shore, June 9.
 GRAHAM, Purser, fr. the Semiramis to the Elphinstone, June 9.
 INGLE, act. Purser, fr. the Elphinstone to the Semiramis, June 9.
 LIARDET, Mids. of the Falkland to be disch. to the Auckland, June 14.
 McALISTER, Asst. surg. of the Achar, perm. to reside on shore, June 9.
 MASON, prov. Mate, fr. the Falkland to the Queen, June 10.
 PEEVOR, Lieut. perm. to reside on shore, June 9.
 ROOME, Asst. surg. to July 1, in ext. to remain at Mahableshwar and Deccan on m.c.
 STEVENS, Lieut. J. L. to be withdrawn fr. list of officers of I.N. by authority of the Court of Directors, June 7.
 STROYAN, Lieut. to join the Hastings, June 10.
 TURNER, Mate J. A. of the Hastings, perm. to reside on shore, June 9.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BURKE, wife of Asst. apoth. R. I.N. s. still-born, at Omecarry, June.
 CABRAL, wife of G. s. at Aden, May 24.
 COLLINS, wife of J. d. at Aboo, May 27.
 DE CRUZ, wife of G. s. at Belgaum, June 4.
 ELLIS, wife of F. M. of the steamer Phlox, s. at Poona, May 29.
 FLYN, wife of E. I.N. s. at Calaba, June 14.
 GEACH, wife of Capt. G. O. 13th N.I. s. at Poona, June 6.
 NEALE, wife of Lieut. W. A. 3rd N.I. s. at Sholapore, June 11.

MARRIAGE.

DE CASTA, Joseph, to Beatriz Borges, at Madras, May 15.

DEATHS.

BETHAM, Jane T. d. of R. G. at Madras, aged 2, June 6.
 BURTON, Mary E. d. of Capt. at Kotah, May 25.
 DAVIDSON, Anna Maria, wife of Major Cutburt, at Bolaum, aged 35, June 8.
 FENTON, Benjamin, at Aden, aged 30, May 15.
 MANQUES, Ursule, wife of J. F. at Dhoolia, aged 52, May 29.
 MILLER, R. at Deesa, May 28.
 POLLOCK, Susan, d. of the late Wm. at Umbrolee.
 ROBEIRO, Antonia, relict of the late Andrea, at Bombay, May 30.

TRAVERS, A. C. sub-collr. and mag. of Alibaugh, of cholera, in that district, June 10.

WARNER, Margaret, wife of Charles, at Kalbadavee, aged 34, May 30.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

JUNE 5. Falkland, Hewett, from cruise.—6. Steamer Bombay, Deyts, Kurrachee.—7. Hydroos, Eaglesham, Calcutta, and Galle.—8. Steamer Acbar, Balfour, Suez and Aden; Good Success, Thomas, Melbourne.—9. Frederick Huith, Tober, Cape; Julia, Hunt, Singapore and Anjer; Ayrehiro, Davis, Aden.—11. Java, Robertson, Melbourne; Salem, Cunningham, Melbourne.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Bombay (June 5), from KURRACHEE.—Rev. Mr. Tyvel; Miss Sandwith; and 50 natives.

Per Julia (June 6), from SINGAPORE and ANJER.—Mrs. Hunt.
Per steamer Acbar (June 8), Mrs. Clarkson, Miss Godwin, Mr. Mrs. and three Misses Whyte; Mr. Whyte, junior; Mr. Bruce, Mr. Utterson, Mr. Souffront, Mr. Burstall, Mr. Gardner, Mr. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Robson. From ADEK.—Mr. Brown, Mr. Erenlieb, and Major Grant.

DEPARTURES.

JUNE 6. Tornado, Teulon, Liverpool.—7. Steamer Ajdaha, Barker, Aden; Anna Dorothea, Darley, Liverpool.—10. Euterpe, Morton, Liverpool.—11. Sea-Breeze, Newell, Sorabaya.—16. Steamer Erine, Mallison, Galle, Penang, Singapore, and Hongkong.—20. Steamer Auckland, —, Suez.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Tornado (June 6), to LIVERPOOL.—Mr. Gidley; Mr. Laurie; Mr. Hammond; Mr. Loft; and Mr. Comyn.

Per Columbus, to CHINA.—Mrs. Holton and child.
Per Vasco de Gama, to LIVERPOOL.—Mrs. Lees and servant.

Per Ajdaha (June 6), to ADEK.—Col. J. Outram, C.B.; Lieut. J. K. D. Mackenzie, H.M. 86th regt.; and M. Remington, Esq.

Per Erin (June 18), for GALLE.—Captains J. D. Leckie and W. M. Leckie; Mr. R. A. W. C. Stewart; Sorabjee Rustonjee; Mr. Miller, and Jaffer Hoossain. For CALCUTTA.—Dr. J. Shekleton.

Per Steamer Auckland (June 20), to SUEZ.—Major S. F. Mackenzie, 2nd regt. Madras L.C.; Lieut. C. Armstrong, 14th regt. Bengal N.I. Major W. S. Adams; Mr. and Mrs. Stewart; St. John Gordon and child. To ADEK.—Ensign J. Finlay, 78th Highlanders, and P. F. Campbell Johnstone, Esq.

COMMERCIAL.

Bombay, June 20, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

5 per cent. transfer loan ..	Rs. 111 for Nos. regist.
4 Do. do. 1832-33 ..	for trans. p. 100 Sa.
4 Do. do. 1835-36 ..	Rs. 103½ p. 100 Sa.
4 Do. do. 1842-43 ..	Rs. 98 to 98½ p. 100 Co.
	Rs. 98 to 98½ do.

PRICES OF BULLION.

Sovereigns, each .....	Rs. 10-3 noml.
Bank of England Notes, per £ .....	10½ noml.
Spanish Dollars, per 100 .....	240
German Crowns .....	218
Sycee Silver, per 100 tolas .....	104½ to 104¾
Gold Leaf, per tola, range of quality .....	16 5-16ths
Gold Ingots, according to touch, per tola ....	15¾

BANK SHARES.

Bombay Bank .....	Rs. 1,000 each	1,000 pd. up	32 p.ct. pm. sales
Oriental Bank .....	250 each	250 do.	73 ex. div.
Commercial Bank ..	1,000 each	500 do.	27
Agra Bank .....	500 each	500 do.	45 noml.
Bank of Madras .....	1,000 each	1,000 do.	13 p.ct. pm.
Apollo Press Com...	12,500 each	12,000 do.	20.000
Colaba Press Com...	7,000 each	7,000 do.	5.500
Bombay S. N. Com. ..	510 each	400 do.	58 p.ct. dis.

EXCHANGES.

On London—at
6 months' sight, per rupee, 2s. 0½d. For doc. bills.
6 .. .. 2s. 0½d. For cred. bills.
On Calcutta at 60 days' sight, per 100 .....	98½
..... 30 days' sight .....	99
..... at sight .....	99 7-16ths
On China at 60 days' sight .....	Rs. 245

FREIGHTS.

Our quotations are, to London, 4l. 7s. 6d.; and Liverpool, 4l. 5s.; China, per candy, Rs. 19.

IMPORTS. Bombay, June 19.—As usual at this season of the year very little is being done in the market, a few sales on speculation or to meet local wants, and to put off damaged goods by auction, have taken place, but these cannot afford any safe or fair criterion for quotation. The rains have hitherto been rather scanty, and it is not likely till they fall more abundantly both here and in the Mofussil that any changes will take place in the market.

CEYLON.

BIRTHS.

FINCHAM, wife of P. s. at Kandy, June 9.
MUTTUKISTNA, wife of the Rev. G. R. s. at Cottanchina, June 11.
RUDD, wife of H. s. at Colombo, June 16.

DEATH.

DE LA HARPE, J. Arthur, s. of P. H. at Colombo, June 18.

CHINA.

The Malta, with the London Mail of April 8th arrived at Hong Kong May 25th.

The Douro left Hong Kong on May 22nd with the China Mail for Europe, and was wrecked on the 26th of May on the Paracels. The mails, passengers, and crew were saved.

WRECK OF THE MAIL-STEAMER "DOURO."—The P. & O. screw-steamer Douro, the second day out from Hongkong, experienced a typhoon, in which her funnel being washed overboard and other damage sustained, Capt. Hederstedt resolved on bearing up for the port he had left. The fourth day out the vessel struck on one of the Paracels, where she hung when the boat left, which brought here two of the passengers and an officer, who, with a crew of five, in eight days travelled some 350 miles. The Malta, which was to have taken the present mail, started for the wreck within five hours after the receipt of the news; the Pekin, previously circulated for Calcutta, taking her berth. We are told by one of the passengers that when they left, if the weather continued as it was, the vessel might hold together for a month; and that he did not think the hull had sustained any material damage. On leaving, Mr. Norie, late chief officer of the L. M. Wood, who is going home for his health, steered in to the coast of Hainan, where, by the interpretation of the Chinese servant of the Rev. Mr. Young, a request was made of the mandarins for assistance; but the application was not only treated slightly, but some degree of hostility was exhibited, and they then resolved on steering direct for Hong-Kong. On the 1st instant it blew so hard, that they had to lash the sail over the boat to keep the seas which broke on board from swamping them outright. Too much praise can hardly be accorded to the gallant fellows who undertook such a voyage for the purpose of relieving their suffering shipmates. Mr. Pestonjee Merwanjee's conduct in inspiring the rowers to their work we have heard spoken of in the highest terms. When the boat left, Captain Hederstedt had nearly completed two rafts, sufficient to carry all on board if the vessel broke up. The Douro's cargo consisted of some 1,600 bales of silk.

BIRTHS.

BROWN, Mrs. Wm. S. d. at Shanghai, May 14.
EMSLIE, wife of Adam W. s. Macao, May 29.
NEWMANN, wife of Rev. Robert, d. at Victoria, May 21.

DEATHS.

GOODINGS, Mary Anne, wife of Robert, at Victoria, May 23.
HEMSTED, Lieut. Edward, of H.M.'s brig Grecian, at Shanghai, aged 37, May 26.
MEREDITH, Richard, at Victoria, May 24.
RANGEL, wife of F. A. at Victoria, June 2.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

MAY 9.—Mercator, Meulen, Hartlepool.—10. Douro, Hederstedts, Bombay.—15. Sea King, Forman, Melbourne.—17. Klazini, Browning, Hartlepool.—21. Nederland, Rinter, Hartlepool.—22. Bon Accord, Bacle, Sydney.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Hellespont.—Mr. and Mrs. Maloy, and Mrs. Lily.
Per Don Quixote.—Mrs. and Miss Nott, and Mr. T. G. Cary.
Per U. S. steamer John Hancock.—Gen. Jochnus.
Per steamer Malta.—Messrs. Nicol, Anthon, and Belise.
Per Zephyr.—Capt. Helms.
Per Aerolite.—Mrs. Stutley.
Per Pekin.—Mr. Ralli and servant.
Per steamer L. M. Wood.—Messrs. Birdseye, Shask, Hossain, Roberts. R.N., Sillar, Waller, Matheson, Donaldson, Framhein, and servant.

SHIPPING.

DEPARTURES.

MAY 4. Merse, Shewan, London.—16. Hurkarn, Crowe, London.—22. Douro, —, Galle.—24. Paon Shun, Burt, Calcutta.—24. Scotland, Davie, London.—26. Zinto, Jones, Colonies; Louisa Ballie, Sparke, Colonies.—June 6. Steamer Pekin, —, Galle.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per Douro (May 22), for SINGAPORE.—Messrs. George Cheyne, and Menam.
Per SYDNEY.—Mr. Andrew Shortrede, Lieut. H. B. Barnaby, R.N. and Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Young. For PORT PHILIP.—Captain Gargalez.
For BOMBAY.—Messrs. P. Rustonjee, Shaik Moherally, F. S. Adam, P. Merwanjee, and servant, Ludhabhoy Surmahomed, Cowasjee Eduljee, and Yacoub Shover. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Commr. Tong, R.N. and Don Jorge Corbiz. For ALEXANDRIA.—Col. Sade and 4 children.
Per Pekin (June 6), for SOUTHAMPTON.—Messrs. Elms, Donaldson, Sillar, and Burmah. For MARSEILLES.—Mr. Birdseye. For ALEXANDRIA.—Capt. Roundy, and Mr. P. Ripley. For PENANG.—Dr. Barton, and Capt. Woodberry. For SINGAPORE.—Messrs. Gossett and King.

COMMERCIAL.

China, June 6, 1854.

EXCHANGES AND BULLION.

On London, Bills, 6s. 8d.

On India Company's and Bank Bills, Rs. 315 to 320.

Syce, 114 doll. per 100 taels.

Gold, 165 doll. per bar.

Carolus Dollars, 17 per cent. prem.

FREIGHTS.

To England, 7l. 10s. to 8l. To the United States, none offering.

C A B U L.

ENCROACHMENTS OF THE RUSSIANS AND PERSIANS.

CABUL.—We now publish below another letter from Cabul, received this morning. It tends to confirm a report which reached us yesterday from the frontier, to the effect that Dost Mahomed had addressed to Major Edwardes a definite request for aid against the threatened encroachments of the Russians and Persians:—

Cabool, 10th May, 1854.

In my former communications I have intimated that there has been an exchange of letters between the Ameer of Cabool and the Peshawur commissioner, through Nazir Khairoollah Khan. It is now asserted privately in confidential circles that the Ameer has warned the British Government of the daily increasing power of the Persians in Heerat and Candahar, aided by Russian agents, and has volunteered to assist the English against those powers, provided money is placed at his disposal. He has added, that if the English Government places him in a position to oppose the Western Powers, Peshawur will remain free from any internal or external disturbance. This is the secret object of the Nazir's mission, while openly he is said to have come to settle his pecuniary affairs in Cashmere. At the same time, the Ameer maintains his communication with Persia and Russia direct, as well as through the son of Yar Mahomed Khan, at Heerat. It is said that Sirdar Gholam Haidur Khan will command the reinforcement sent towards Bulk, which country is threatened to be attacked by the King of Bokhara. Sirdar Sooltan Mahomed Khan has really moved to attach himself to Persia, while the Ameer seems convinced of the advantages of an alliance with his British neighbours.

The Ameer has employed several news writers secretly, to know what Nazir Khair-oolah and his brothers are doing with the English authorities at Peshawur and Sindh. He has become lately very suspicious; and when informed by his own spy at Peshawur that the Nazir was preparing an account of the sufferings and death of the English officers at Bokhara for the information of the Government of India, he expressed his surprise that he had not been informed of the Nazir's intention.

There is a report here that several thousands of Persian soldiers have united with the Heerat force, which is encamped between Heerat and Forah on the Candahar frontier.

The Ameer was remarking the other day after reading the Nazir's letter, that he (the Dost) is very much pleased with him for his advocating the cause of the poor Mooftee before the commissioner of Peshawur, adding to his courtiers that this poor man was unjustly accused by the wicked son of the barber (Bachah Dalak), Haje Mahomed, formerly in the service of the late Sahub-i-Peshawur, as news writer of the Sirdar Gholam Haidur Khan.

There is a rumour from the Heerat side that the Emperor of Russia has informed the Shah of Persia that he is going to overthrow the Turks, the enemies of the Christian as well as of the Persian faith, and that two more sovereigns of Europe have joined the Russians. That if the Shah of Persia were to march against Bagdad, and take the holy shrine of the Najuf Ashraf from the followers of the Osman, it will be advantageous to the interests of the Kajar government and spread its creed. The latter, it is said, has deputed Musoom Beg to the king at Constantinople, and has already excited some places, subject to the Sooltan-i-Room (Turks) to rebel against their lawful master.

The remains of the late Nawab Jabbar Khan were brought from Tatung and buried here some days ago. The wife of Sirdar Gholam Haidur Khan, the daughter of Sirdar Sooltan Mahomed Khan, has also followed the nawab. I forgot to mention the demise of Mahomed Mirza Khan Jawan Sheer, the son-in-law of the nazir, and also a conspicuous enemy of the British when under the wings of the late Mahomed Akbar Khan. He is succeeded in his estate and office by his son, who is placed under the immediate orders of the Sirdar Mahomed Ameer Khan, son of the Dost.

Khan Sheereen Khan, the Persian chief, has married his son Habeeboollah Khan, with great pomp, with the daughter of Yusuf

Alee, son of Mahur Alee Khan Moorad Khanee, and is now looking for a bride of equal rank for his grandson, Kadirdad Khan.

Sirdar Peer Mahomed Khan was lately amusing himself in the vicinity of Jellalabad with shooting, &c.

There is a story among the people here that the Candahar chiefs have written to the King of Persia that they will give up the administration of that place for a certain stipulated sum to the English in Sindh, if Dost Mahomed does not take immediate measures to bring them and their country under his own protection, while the Ameer has his eyes open towards the success of the Nazir's mission to the English Government at Peshawur.

A rumour is also current at Cabul that the Russian force has been attacking and destroying many places subject to Kokan, in the direction of the Hoorgunj boundary. In some places they have placed iron works over the sands of the waterless wastes to convey water for the use of their camp. They intend to extend this useful scientific device all the way to Khiva. But this report requires confirmation.

The troops of the Sirdars at Jellalabad and Cabul say that the English army will come to Cabul as soon as the roads are made.

It is also said that Sirdar Mahomed Afzul Khan is indisposed at Bulk, — Delhi Gazette, May 27.

Cabool, 18th May, 1854.

I have ere this informed you of the inundations of the Cabool river, in consequence of a considerable fall of snow on the mountains during the last cold season. By the order of the Ameer, all the trees of the Alum Gunj were cut down and placed on the banks of the river, to prevent the spreading of the waters, and thus save the city from further injury. The Ameer has issued orders that every house in the city should pay him one rupee each.

The following is the copy of the news or letter from the agent of the Dost at Heerat, which had reached Cabool on the 20th Rabee-ool-sanee:—

Translation of a letter from the agent of Dost Mahomed Khan at Heerat, to the address of the Ameer. It reached Cabool on the 20th of Rabee-ool-sanee (6th of January), and the contents are as follows:—

On the 8th an envoy from the King of Persia arrived here with magnificent dresses of honour for Zahcer-ool-doulah, son of the late Vazeer Yar Mahomed Khan. He put them on, but as money and shawls have no value in his eyes, he gave them away next day to Abdoolah Chani Beglurbegee, of the Jumshadee tribe.

The Persian envoy, whose name is Hasun Khan, remains still at Heerat, and Gholam Raza Khan, a relative of the Moostaafee, has waited upon Zahcer-ool-doulah from the Urz-i-ukdus (meaning only ground, or city of Mushbud), with despatches from Heesam-ool-sult-nut, the governor of Khorasan, and stated that the British flag has been pulled down at Teheran ("Bairuk-i-doulut-i-ungreeze ra uz payah takht maukoof namoodund"), and this has interrupted all friendly intercourse between the Persian and English Courts. The British ambassador was nearly ready to quit Persia, which country has united herself with Russia.

Heesam-ool-doulah, with 6,000 men and extensive munitions, has marched to Anadurburd, a distance of twelve fursongs from Mushbud. Heesam Khan, son of the late Raza Koolee Khan Koord, along with his troops and artillery, having set out in the direction of Merw, has taken possession of that place. The chiefs of Sur Burdgan, and of its dependencies Taka and Shahpoor, with all their subdivisions, have given in their allegiance to the Governor Heesam-ool-sult-nut.

A report has arrived that Surdar Nasir Khan, at the head of 12,000 Persians, and in conjunction with his Majesty's Mirraunee (not understood), composed of 30,000 soldiers, have, by the advice (literally "ititafak," union) of the Russians, been ordered to move towards Oorgunj. This is the Persian news.

May I become sacrificed to your highness ("tasuddookut shawum," are the real words), but a few days ago Mahomed Ameen, agent of the Vazeer-i-Mookhtar, the English Plenipotentiary, has come with letters for establishing friendly relations between the British and the Heerat states. Zahcer-ool-doulah was induced to attach himself to the English, being won over by the friendly mission of the Vazeer-i-Mookhtar. This threw the Persian envoy into neglect.

As soon as your slave heard of this state of things, I called upon Zahcer-ool-doulah, and entreated him thus: "The English nation has never continued friendly to any state, and I fear that their alliance will not only injure Heerat, but poison the mind of the Ameer, since both states (Cabool and Heerat) are one," and I added that he ought not to mind the necessity of the times.

While I was thus conversing with Zahcer-ool-doulah, your messengers arrived with letters. As they were full of accusations against the English, whom you were pleased to name "be aitbar" (honourless) and "mutlub ashna" (self-interested), the perusal of your communication produced a change in his sentiments, and he has since treated the Persian envoy with more distinction. After drawing up an able paper proposing an alliance, agreeably to your suggestions, he has forwarded it to the King of Persia, Salah Mahomed Khan, brother of the Surteep Sooran Khan, takes the letter, and will be escorted by Gholam Raza Khan with 500 cavalry. They are first to wait upon Heesam-ool-sult-nut, the governor of Khorasan, and afterwards proceed to the presence of the Shah.

One of the articles of the proposed treaty is that in the event of the English being foolishly desirous of taking Cabool, with the view of polluting the earth there with their impure bodies, the Persian king engages himself to supply Zaheer-ool-doulah with funds in order that the latter should proceed with his army to aid the Ameer of Cabool, and should the cursed English nation be inclined to attack Heerat, the court of Persia will similarly send money to the Cabool chief for coming to the succour of Heerat. This treaty is to be guaranteed by the Russian plenipotentiary, Vazeer Mookhtar-i-Roos, who is to see also that the Persian government acts liberally towards Heerat in consideration of the good offices of the late Yar Mahomed Khan. The contracting parties are also pledged to consider the enemies and friends of Persia to be the enemies and friends of one another as dictated by the Ameer. Pending the arrival of an answer to this draft of a treaty, Zaheer-ool-doulah is deceiving the English ambassador at Teheran, by detaining his agent, Mahomed Ameen at Heerat. On the return of the treaty duly ratified from the capital of Persia, Hajee Khair-oolah Khan will be deputed to the Cabool court to confer personally with the Ameer, and after consultation, will act on the advice of the Dhost.

May I become sacrificed to you,* but seven crores of rupees, which Persia owed to the Cabinet of St. Petersburg, have been forgiven by the Emperor, and also numerous cities, formerly taken, have now been restored to the Kajar dynasty. All the sea ports of Persia will be closed against the English, and the Russian army is to be at the disposal of Persia, and the king in person will shortly move out.

There is no information of Shadmen Khan, who by his brother Hakoomut Khan Valee was deputed to Meer Ahmud Khan Jumshaidee, the Commander-in-Chief of the Oorgunj State, whether he is in Karah Yab with the said Meer Ahmud Khan, or gone direct to Khiva. But it is not improbable that the Russian and Persian force will shortly be or rather in possession of that kingdom.

The agent of Hakeem Khan Shiburghanee, has waited upon Zaheer-ool-doulah at Heerat, and petitioned that he would try to get him and his country freed from the molestation of the Ameer of Cabul. He was told in reply that the Governments of Heerat and Cabul are one.

A few days ago Yar Mahomed Khan Jumshaidee of Heerat and the Shah Ghazee Azum Khan Jumshaidee of Persia, set out by order of Zaheer-ool-doulah, and made chapaos (plundering expeditions) in the provinces of Shorawuk and the Khost Hazarahs. Similar services were entrusted to Ahmud Khan, the brother of Kareemdad Khan Hazarah and Surdar Jubbar Khan, with the Heerat horse in the districts of the Farah and Javeen Hazarahs. Immense booty has been brought into the city of Heerat by these marauders.

Surdar Mahomed Omur Khan lately started from Candahar, took possession of Baroburd, and plundered a caravan of Ahmud Shahee. The natives of Baroburd have since solicited the assistance of Zaheer-ool-doulah, from Heerat. Consequently Surteep Alee Khan has gone to aid them. Some cavalry was also sent towards Kayun, and they carried off about 10,000 sheep.

Zaheer-ool-doulah has acknowledged before the Persian and English envoys, as well as the Dooranee and Parseeban chiefs, that he and Heerat are both at the disposal of the Ameer of Cabul, who is quite at liberty to send a noble of his court, or any of his sons, to Heerat, which is his own (Ameer's) house, and therefore can send all his family there if he likes.

The chiefs of Candahar had stated to Nusroollan Khan, that if he could make amicable terms with them on part of Zaheer-ool-doulah, it would destroy the foundation of the existing quarrels between Heerat and Candahar. This was mentioned to Zaheer-ool-doulah, who swore that he would have nothing to do with the chiefs there, and that any one advocating their cause would be treated as disloyal. He will never be a friend of Candaharees, and if he become one, it will be through the Ameer of Cabool.

This is the true copy of the Heerat letter, and I hope soon to send you more recent and more important documents.—Delhi Gazette, June 10.

* * Should any delay or irregularity occur in supplying this paper, a communication of the fact to the Publishers will insure a remedy.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL,

LONDON,

FRIDAY, July 28, 1854.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE PUNJAB.

THE subject of civil justice is dismissed somewhat briefly. The most noticeable feature in the returns of the amount of litigation in different divisions of the country is its great disproportion in some as compared with others, upon the basis of population. Thus the division of Lahore has a population something more than double that of Jhelum; but the number of suits in Lahore is upwards of fourteen times those of Jhelum. The arrangements for determining suits are of the very simplest kind, and though the habits of the people render them unfitted for a very artificial or refined system, it may be feared that the instruments employed for the administration of justice are scarcely better fitted for their duty than a hatchet or a bill-hook would be fitted for the fabrication of exquisite cabinet-work. The Board are sanguine in their hopes of success: time only can show whether their hopes are well founded or not. The employment of professional pleaders is discouraged, while arbitration is regarded with favour. Any system that will gradually (for all movement of this nature must be very gradual) lead nations to administer justice to and for themselves is consonant to the better feelings of Englishmen. It is to our own institution of trial by jury that, more than to anything beside, we owe our freedom, our love of fair play, our moral courage, our self-respect, and our respect for the rights of others. It is the great engine which has made us what we are. Some little confusion arises from the indiscriminate use, in this part of the Report, of the words juries, punchayets, assessors, and arbitrators, as having not merely a somewhat similar, but an identical meaning. In preference to spending time, however, on such points of difference, it will be better to quote a passage from the Report, which shows that the Board had formed a correct conception of the work to be done, and of the proper manner of doing it:—

"Private arbitration is a potent means of popular justice. The attribute of divine discernment, which the people of India fondly ascribe to their cherished institution, is no less associated with arbitration in the minds of the Punjabees. From the first, the Board have been anxious that public disputes should be referred to that rude tribunal, whose voice is all-powerful in the regulation of private affairs, where individuals are most vitally concerned, and of those social and family interests which are dearest to mankind. These native assessors are especially useful in ascertaining the truth, in questions relating to intricate accounts, local usages, and social practice. But it has been found that unless vigilance and discrimination be exercised, abuses will arise in the working even of this institution; the selection and appointment of the arbitrators, the conduct of the inquiry, the mode of recording the award, must be scrupulously and jealously guarded. In England, from the time that a jury is empanelled and sworn, their every movement is observed; their place of sitting and of consulting, the delivery of their verdict, are all matters of the strictest rule; so must it be with these Indian juries; otherwise, the very thing which should have been for our guidance will become an occasion of stumbling, and a byword; and if discredit should be thrown on the system of punchayets, and the faith of the people in this their best institution, should be broken, their morality will thereby be weakened. Impressed with these convictions, the Board have drawn up a detailed code of rules to regulate the proceedings of arbitrators.

* This is the mode of addressing the superiors from the inferiors.

“Résumé of rules regarding arbitration.”—1st. The presiding officer must see that there is a proper case to go to the jury, and must define the precise issue which they are to try. 2nd. Either party has the right of challenging any arbitrator who may be nominated. 3rd. Arbitrators must be nominated by parties themselves, and not by their attorneys. But persons of rank, or females, may nominate through their relatives or private agents. 4th. Any evidence which the arbitrators may take must be placed on record. 5th. The arbitrators must record the grounds of their award. Any member differing from a majority must also record the reasons for his dissent. 6th. The arbitrators must attend and decide in court. They may consult the records of the case in the court-house, but they may not take any public documents to their private residences. 7th. The award must be presented in the presence of the parties, either of whom is at liberty to urge any objection he may entertain. 8th. No decision passed by arbitration shall be considered final unless it shall appear to the presiding officer just and proper. Any award can be set aside when its illegality or injustice may be apparent, or when partiality may be suspected. If these instructions are faithfully carried out, it is hoped that the institution will be preserved in all its vigour and usefulness.”

Fraud and chicanery here, as elsewhere in India, embarrass all attempts to administer civil justice, and reduce litigation almost to the condition of a game of chance. On their efforts to check such abuses, and secure a fair dispensation of justice, the Board speak with a modesty, and at the same time with a moderated tone of expectation as to the future, which none but minds of a high class ever attain in regard to such subjects. They say :—

“On the whole, the Board can hardly consider that civil justice has advanced as satisfactorily as the other branches of the administration. Indeed they are not sure that it will ever be very successful. There is no part of the British system so difficult to popularize.”

Although we thereby leap the blank fence which separates the first part of the Report from the second, we shall proceed at once to the subject of revenue, and we may venture on this with the greater confidence, seeing that throughout India revenue officers exercise functions quasi judicial. The Board divide the revenue into five heads,—1. land-tax; 2. excise, stamps, and water-rent; 3. tribute; 4. post-office; 5. miscellaneous. Two of these they very summarily dismiss from consideration—“tribute,” as being of insignificant amount, and “post-office” contribution, as unnecessary to be treated of; while the “miscellaneous” is reserved for future notice. The “land-tax,” it appears, has certain satellites, or, as they are called in the Report, “accessories;” and of these the first may be considered to be the “grazing-tax,” which is made up of dues levied on the owners of camels and cattle in return for the right of pasturage on the central wastes of the Doabs. Vast herds of camels, occupied ordinarily in the carrying trade of the country, are, at certain seasons of the year, turned loose to feast themselves on the leaves of the densely-growing trees and brushwood; but as the collectors of the tax would find far greater difficulty in tracing the wandering owners of the vagrant beasts than the latter experience in discovering supplies of toothsome food, the attempt to levy the tax individually, by the Government at least, would, in colloquial phrase, be attended with “more plague than profit.” It would be desperate work to set about counting the number of beasts; and even the precise number of their owners, to say nothing of identifying them, could scarcely be ascertained with less difficulty. Luckily, the rude organization often found to prevail among people who have attained the measure of social advancement which prevails in the Punjab, furnishes the means of effecting a realization which could not otherwise be accomplished. The camel-owners being gregarious, or, to speak more refinedly, clannish, contracts are made with the chief or representative of the clan, who pays a stipulated sum into the Government treasury, and assesses his partners, distributing the amount of the burden among them; and it is to be hoped, with a fair regard to the number of their camels. There are also “forest dues,” being the produce of the sale of timber on Government domains, or of licenses to cut it; and “garden proceeds,” derived from patches of land belonging to the late Government, or subsequently confiscated.

Coming now to the land-tax itself, we are first introduced to the practice of the Sikhs, who, according to the views of certain noisy demagogues, must as natives have been models of mildness and mercy, while their European successors must also have been monsters of fraud, tyranny, and oppression. The share of Government, however, under Sikh rule, was assumed to be a clear half of the gross produce, and in some cases fifty-four per cent. was collected. The tax, save in regard to certain articles of produce, was levied in kind, and deductions were generally necessary for fraud, waste, and expenses. For sugar-cane, cotton, indigo, and a few other articles, payment was required in money. When the Government demand was a share of the crop, whether by actual division or by apportionment, the officials sometimes disposed of the grain themselves, but more commonly obliged the agriculturists to pay for it at prices somewhat higher than those quoted in the markets.

No sooner did the British possess power, or even influence, than the improvement of the revenue arrangements was undertaken. It is admitted that at first some mistakes were committed,—as unavoidably there must have been,—but even these mistakes were more endurable than the systems which they superseded. Their effects were rapidly corrected, as experience and information suggested, and the country even became more productive to the Government, while the assessments were reduced. The exact amount of relief afforded to the cultivators cannot be precisely ascertained, as various modifying causes were at work. But at a low estimate, it may be stated that the reduction of land-tax throughout the Punjab averaged twenty-five per cent., exclusive of abolished extra levies. Yet the revenue improved, notwithstanding the country had suffered severely from war and devastation. The improvement was aided by some accidental circumstances, but it was the result chiefly of good management. Arrears were recovered which would have been lost to the native Government. The plunder formerly derived from Mooltan came to an end; the assignments on its revenues were replaced by pensions where there was any claim for them, and instead of the tribute formerly paid by that province, or at least engaged to be paid, the entire revenue, subject only to the charges above mentioned, found its way to the Government coffers.

Yet there was a drawback, although in addition to the liberality of the Government, and the peace and security of the country, or rather in consequence of them, cultivation was greatly extended, and one blessing beyond the reach of any Government to secure was enjoyed,—that of a succession of harvests more favourable than had occurred for a long series of years. The result of all this was a fall in prices, which could not be counteracted by exportation.

Afghanistan, from the distressed state of the country and the difficulty and cost of transit, afforded no outlet. Sind produces as much grain as it consumes, and Bhoawlpore is poverty-stricken and thinly peopled. The Jullunder Doab is fruitful as a garden, and needs no supply of the riches of the earth, while those who inhabit the hills to the north of the Punjab, though quite ready to receive the surplus produce of the Punjab, have no means of paying for it. In fact, the excess of agricultural wealth was the source of inconvenience and suffering. Production was in excess of consumption, and though all political economists, with the single exception, as we believe, of M. Sismondi, tell us that this is a state of things which never can occur, the uninstructed agriculturists of the Punjab, who are no philosophers, could have answered, "but here it is." This is not the only instance in which philosophy has been set right, or at least contradicted (for philosophers never retract), by hard facts.

Hazlitt said that abstraction was nothing but seeing only one half of the question. This is the fashionable philosophy. Leave out of your theory everything that may embarrass it; lighten it by dashingly cutting away all conditions, modifications, limitations, and reference to circumstances,—everything, in fact, that may impede its progress,—and then trust its success to the capacity of human gullibility. This is not the place to discuss the point; but the reception given to the most monstrous doctrines in political economy within the last thirty years, affords ample illustration of the soundness of the above prescription for success.

The occurrence of the name of the Dewan Moolraj, who slaughtered certain Englishmen in cold blood, demands a moment's pause. This person, it will be recollected, was arraigned before a solemn judicial tribunal, who found, à la mode de France, that he was the "victim of circumstances." Great is the variety of human fortune, and great the difference with which human beings pass through the same conditions. Miss Vincent, "the acknowledged heroine of domestic tragedy," was the "victim of circumstances" at the Victoria Theatre, every evening, Sundays excepted, for twenty years, and was none the worse for it. Ladies, we suppose, are better prepared for these trials than a hard, stern, Oriental despot. Moolraj, however, though an unmitigated villain (bating the allowances to be made on account of his having been the "victim of circumstances"), was a good administrator. This faculty he acquired under his father, Sawun Mull, who went to Mooltan in the year 1820, as head of one of the offices of account. In 1823, Runjeet Sing assigned to him (Sawun Mull) half the province; in 1829 he obtained the whole. The country previously to his appointment was a ruined desert. Sawun Mull dug canals, made various other improvements, and replenished the depopulated country by inducing inhabitants from the adjoining states to settle within it. "In the progress of years," says the report, "tracts for which Sawun Mull paid a mere trifle, yielded a large revenue." He accordingly accumulated a splendid fortune, and would probably have accumulated much more, had not his career been cut short, in 1844, by a disease to which Eastern magnates are very subject—the blow of an assassin. Moolraj, however, followed his father's steps; and allowing for such foibles as the practice of treachery and murder, he would deserve the reputation of an able ruler.

It is observed in the Report, that "occupancy and conquest were probably the real grounds of property in land." They were so everywhere, and therefore, it may be presumed, in the Punjab also. The present tenures are various. There is a singular class of proprietors, so called, not unhappily characterized as "proprietors out of possession." They claim, however, as the descendants of ancient proprietors, a sort of head-rent, which, as might be expected, is variable in amount and precariously realized. In some instances they retain a very small portion of land. The actual proprietors come next; and here, too, is variety. Sometimes the proprietors are individuals; sometimes co-parcenary bodies. Part of the land in each case is cultivated by the proprietors; the remainder by mere cultivators, of whom a part are only tenants at will, the rest entitled to hereditary occupancy, subject to the payment of the rent. Between the hereditary cultivator and the proprietor the distinction is very fine. The main test is the right to sink a well, which one who is but an hereditary cultivator cannot do. Moreover, he cannot sell or mortgage his land, but he can sublet it. The trees which he or his ancestors have planted are his own property; and he sometimes claims to pay no more than an equal quota of the public demand. In Mooltan a curious tenure was introduced by Sawun Mull, and followed by Moolraj: where land was owned, but not cultivated, patents to sink wells were granted to strangers, who paid a head-rent or a proportion of the produce to the proprietor; the use of the land, as also the well, belonging to the patentee.

The English law of tenures has been deemed an abstruse subject, and has given rise to an amazing display of research and learning. How much would be required to reduce the subject of Indian tenures to anything like order and consistency!

---

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, JULY 21.

INDIAN APPOINTMENTS, &C., BILL.

On the motion of Sir C. Wood, this bill was read a third time and passed.

JULY 24.

INDIAN BUDGET.

In answer to a question from Sir E. Perry,

Sir C. Wood said that he would fix a day for the Indian financial statement when the state of public business would allow him to do so.

---

BILLS ON INDIA.—The amount paid into the treasury of the East-India House for bills on India from the 8th to the 24th inst. was 39,615*l*.

---

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

JULY 18. Severn, Scowcroft, Portland Bay; Margaret, Barker, Bombay. —19. Mary Ann, Watts, Mauritius; Leonidas, Todman, Sydney; Samuel Boddington, Hurst, Melbourne; Queenstown, Haisman, Bombay; Pakenham, Ransom, Coringa. —20. Iris, Dobson, Adelaide; Ferozepore, Hutton, Melbourne. —21. Ashburton, King, Sydney; Marion Moore, Tweedie, Melbourne; Prince Alfred, Smith, Melbourne; Susan Crisp, Holdsworth, Alcoa Bay; Isabella Blyth, Nash, Swan River. —22. Tartar, McGreen, Alcoa Bay; Australasia, Lindsay, Portland Bay; Matilda, McPhun, Mauritius; Carthage, Cromar, Madras and Ganjam; Gleaner, Duffin, Mauritius; Queen of Sheba, Kingston, Adelaide; Chatham, Wharton, Madras and Mauritius. —24. Bermondsey, Darke, and Poictiers, Downes, Geelong; Shannon, Wigg, Mauritius; Free Trader, Campbell, Manila; Augusta, Buck, South Australia; Bucephalus, Lansdowne, Bengal and Demerara. —25. Alfred, Voss, Bengal; British Isles, Storie, Hobart Town; Blackfriar, Tisseman, New South Wales. —26. Amaranth, Young, Java; Tudor, Quhampton, Melbourne; Lydia, Greaves, Ceylon. —27. Euphemus, Bowden, Bombay.

DEPARTURES.

From PORTSMOUTH.—July 20. Hotspur, Toynebee, and Agincourt, Hyne, Cape and Calcutta.

From the Downs.—July 20. Devonshire, Steere, Calcutta.—23. Owen Glendower, Pare, Colombo and Bombay.—20. Token, Ollard, Bombay.—23. Lord Auckland, Skingley, and Earl Grey, Dalton, Kurrachee; Wellington, Black, Kurrachee.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per steamer Euxine, from SOUTHAMPTON (June 20), for SUEZ.—J. Jell, G. Jotham, J. R. Lantham, J. Harmer, J. Grant, E. J. Painter, J. Graves, M. Radford, and J. Hudson. For ADEN.—Capt. Goodfellow, J. Delany, Mr. Hogg, Mr. Remington, Mr. Stephens. For CRYLON.—Mr. Sutherland. For MADRAS.—Mr. McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins, Mr. G. Gilbert, Mr. Dames, Mr. Budd, Lieut. Fraser. For CALCUTTA.—H. Robinson, C. B. Fair, J. Durragh, Mr. Bell, J. Groser, Dr. Brizzett, Miss Cunliffe, C. Baker, J. Holmes. For HONG KONG.—J. Chitty, Capt. Penroze. For SINGAPORE.—J. N. Kent. For PENANG.—G. R. Main.

PASSENGERS EXPECTED AT SOUTHAMPTON.

AUG. 6. Per steamer Ripon, from HONG KONG.—Mr. Birdsey, Mr. A. Roberts, Mr. Binnun, Mr. T. Sellar, Mr. O. Donaldson, Capt. Nilms, Capt. Yonge. From SINGAPORE.—Lieut. Bilbe, Mr. B. Weymar, Mr. and Mrs. Large, and children.—From CALCUTTA.—Mrs. Woodley, Mrs. Young, and child; Mr. Davidson, Mr. Hay, Mr. Hoamer, Mr. Brown, T. Cummin, and C. Ballow.—From MADRAS.—Mr. C. R. Hurd, Lieut. Jeffries, Capt. Malone, Mr. W. Johnstone.—From BOMBAY.—Maj. S. F. Mackenzie, 2nd L.C.; Lieut. C. Armstrong, 14th N.I.; Maj. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, Lieut. J. Gordon, and P. F. C. Johnston.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

COMPTON, the wife of Capt. (retired list Madras army), s. at 23, Cumberland-street, July 21.

CURRIE, the wife of J. P. s. at Eaton-place South, July 20.

EDGER, the wife of the Hon. J. E. s. at Cardiff, July 20.

FINCH, the lady of F. of Shahpore, Oondce, Tirhoot, s. at Mar-seilles, June 29.

CANE, Maitland, M.D. Madras army, s. at Bayswater, July 19.

KINDERSLEY, the wife of J. R. Madras c.s. d. at Brighton, July 16.

SPANKIE, the wife of R. Bengal c.s. s. at Gosean House, Killy-leagh, July 15.

SULLIVAN, the wife of T. O. of China, d. at Bath, July 18.

MARRIAGES.

ALLMAN, Geo. of North Brixton, to Caroline, eldest d. of the late Capt. H. Whitfield, at St. Paul's, Hammersmith.

APPLEGATH, F. 33rd M.N.I. to Emily Rose, 3rd d. of General H. S. Osborne, at Trinity Church, Westbourne-terrace, July 20.

BRINTON, W. M.D. of Brook-street, Grosvenor-square, to Mary, 2nd d. of F. D. Danvers, of Lancaster-place, at St. John the Baptist, in the Savoy, July 22.

HAMILTON, Daniel E. of Clifton, to Mary Annie, d. of the late J. Bennie, at Bath, July 18.

JENKYNs, Edward Senkler, eldest son of E. Jenkyns, of the East India House, to Julia Sophia, third surviving d. of Edward Riddle, of Caledonia House, St. Heliers, and late of the War-office, London, at St. Mark's Church, St. Heliers, Jersey, July 4.

LEACH, Benjamin Auber, s. of William Leach, of Blenheim House, Marlborough-road, St. John's Wood, to Emily, eldest d. of Frederick Dawes Danvers, of Lancaster-place, at St. John the Baptist, in the Savoy, July 22.

MEADON, R. K. of Walbrook, to Caroline Fitzwilliam, eldest d. of the late Capt. Pollok, H.E.I.C.S. at St. Marylebone Church, July 19.

VINER, Rev. A. W. E. to Lucy Maria, youngest d. of the late W. Prichard, H.E.I.C.S. at Bath, July 18.

DEATHS.

BACON, J. F. late a surgeon on the Bengal estab. at Exeter, July 15.

BATHIE, Katherine Frances, youngest d. of the late George Kin-naid Bathie, at Kennington, July 22.

BODE, Lt. E. I.N. at Brighton, July 25.

CHESTER, Mary Anne, widow of the Rev. W. M.A. late a Chaplain in the Hon. Company's Service, at Boulogne-sur-Mer, aged 64, July 15.

DODWELL, Elizabeth, wife of E. at Ravenscourt Park, Hammersmith, aged 51, July 51.

HODGES, Capt. E. H.E.I.C.S. at Ramsgate, aged 66, July 18.

EAST-INDIA HOUSE,

19th and 26th July, 1854.

ARRIVALS REPORTED IN ENGLAND.

CIVIL.

Madras Estab.—Mr. G. F. Fullerton.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Major G. Cox, inv.; Capt. R. Robertson, 70th N.I.; Col. J. H. Handerscomb; Lieuts. R. P. Anderson, 25th N.I., and J. G. Robinson, retired.

Madras Estab.—Col. W. Justice, Surg. J. Dodd, Major G. Singleton, retired; Lieuts. L. H. Isacke, 2nd Eur. reg.; and W. R. Lodge, 35th N.I.

Bombay Estab.—Col. W. J. Browne, c.b.; Col. H. Cracklow, and Surg. F. S. Arnott, M.D.

PERMITTED TO RETURN TO THEIR DUTY.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Lieut. col. T. Seaton, c.b.; Col. J. Eckford, c.b.; Capt. G. M. Waddilove, 24th N.I.; Surg. J. Macintire; Lieut. col. C. Haldane; Capt. H. D. Twysden, 33rd N.I.; Lieuts. C. Dumbleton, 10th cav.; A. W. Owen, 11th N.I.; and H. B. A. Poulton, 64th N.I.; Ens. A. H. Bramley, 44th N.I.; Assist. surg. J. Campbell, M.D.

Madras Estab.—Capt. W. J. Birdwood, eng.; Lieut. P. P. L. Stafford, 34th N.I.; Capt. R. R. Scutt, inv.; Lieuts. M. C. Lawson, art.; and J. W. Rutherford, 47th N.I.

Bombay Estab.—Major J. Estridge, eng.; Lieut. G. F. Hogg, 1st Fus.; Lieut. Noding, 4th N.I.; Surg. G. M. S. Seaward; Brev. Major T. R. Morse, 1st Eur. reg.; Ens. F. Anderson, 2nd Eur. reg.

GRANTED EXTENSIONS OF LEAVE.

CIVIL.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. R. Houstoun, 6 weeks; Mr. D. Ogilvy, 6 months; Vet. surg. D. Cullimore, 4 months.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Lieut. P. A. P. Bouverie, 35th N.I., 6 months.

Madras Estab.—Lieut. R. R. Houghton, 19th N.I., 6 months.

Bombay Estab.—Major E. P. Lynch, 29th N.I., 3 months.

PERMITTED TO REMAIN.

MARINE.

Bombay Estab.—Commander J. S. Draper, I.N., till end of the present year; Mr. R. O. Hordern, I.N., till end of January next.

PERMITTED TO RETIRE FROM THE SERVICE.

MILITARY.

Bengal Estab.—Lieut. J. H. Bacon, 56th N.I.

MARINE.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. H. Perrin, of the pilot service.

APPOINTMENTS.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

The Rev. Robert F. Colvin, of the University of Edinburgh, appointed Junior Minister of the Church of Scotland, at Bombay.

MARINE.

Bengal Estab.—Mr. W. F. Hewison, volunteer for the pilot service.

Bombay Estab.—Mr. Richard Noble, and Mr. Clements C. B. Daniell, captains' clerks for the Indian Navy.

EMBARKATION OF TROOPS.

Per Devonshire, for Bengal, from Gravesend.—175 H.M.'s troops, Lieut. col. W. R. Faber, Capt. O. Chatherton, Lieuts. Blyth, Moon, and Davis, Asst. surg. Pateyon, of H.M.'s 35th regt.

Per Lord Auckland, for Kurrachee, from Gravesend, July 20.—190 H.M.'s troops, Ens. Graham, H.M.'s 10th regt.; Lieut. Stewart, and Ens. Sheatfield, H.M.'s 24th regt.; Lieuts. Dundas and Hare, H.M.'s 60th rifles; Lieut. Lampen, H.M.'s 87th foot; Asst. surg. Hooper, Bengal estab.

Per Earl Grey, for Kurrachee, from Gravesend, July 20.—223 H.M.'s troops, Ens. Purvis, H.M.'s 10th regt.; Ens. Logan, H.M.'s 24th regt.; Lieut. Fenton, H.M.'s 53rd regt.; Lieut. Harrison, H.M.'s 75th regt.; Lieut. Simpson, H.M.'s 87th regt.

Per Wellington, for Kurrachee, from Gravesend, July 2.—150 H.M.'s troops, Col. Blair, H.M.'s 9th Lancers; Lieut. the Hon. D. Monson, Ensigns Atkinson and Wroughton; H.M.'s 52nd regt. Ensigns Ord and Edwards, H.M.'s 86th regt.

STOCKS AND SECURITIES.

India Stock .....	222 to 226
India Bonds .....	1s. to 4s. pm.
East-India Railway, all paid .....	1½ to 2 prem.
Great Indian Peninsular Railway, all paid.....	¾ to ¾ prem.

BENGAL GOVERNMENT LOANS.

	Buy. s. d.	Sell. s. d.	Actual Sales.
5 per Cent. Transfer Stock Paper, 1834-5, div. payable in London ..
Book Debt of 31st Dec. 1834, 3rd Jan. and 3rd July.....	Ss.Rs.	—	2 1½
Do. 10th Aug. 1835, 13th Feb. and 13th Aug. ....
Do. 15th Jan. 1836, 18th Jan. and 18th July .....

INDIA EXCHANGES.

BILLS.	Commercial Bills, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.	E. I. Co.'s Bills, at 60 days' sight, per Co.'s Rupee.	Amount of E. I. Co.'s Bills, drawn fr. July 9 to July 24.
On Bengal ..	1s. 11½d.	1s. 11½d.	24,158 16 10
Madras ..	1s. 11½d.	1s. 11½d.	15,153 5 4
Bombay..	1s. 11½d.	2s. 0d.	303 0 0
Bi-Monthly ..			39,615 2 2

Annual sum required by Court of Directors in England.....	From 1st May, 1854, to 30th April, 1855, } £4,768,000
Bank Post Bills .....	1s. 11½d. to ½d.
Madras do. ....
Bombay do. ....	1s. 11½d.

EXPORT OF BULLION.

Per Steamer Eurine, July 20, 1854.

	Gold.	Silver.
Malta .....	£200	—
Alexandria .....	35,000	—
Calcutta .....	—	£5,200
Singapore .....	6,611	6,721
Hong Kong .....	11,020	52,183
Canton .....	1,000	175,039
Shanghai.....	—	7,125
	£53,831	£246,268

ADVERTISEMENT.

East-India House, 26th July, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That a Quarterly General Court of the said Company will be held at their House, in Leadenhall Street, on Wednesday, the 27th September next, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 26th July, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the rate of exchange at which they will receive cash for bills on Bengal and Madras will, from the present date, and until further notice, be 1s. 11d. the Company's rupee, and for bills on Bombay, 1s. 11½d. the Company's rupee.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 19th July, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready, on or before Wednesday, the 2nd August next, to receive proposals in writing, sealed up, from such persons as may be willing to supply the Company with

FIG LEAD,
SERGE FLANNELS, SWORDS and SCABBARDS,—also
VITRY;

And that the conditions of the said contracts (four in number) may be had on application at the Secretary's office, where the proposals are to be left, any time before 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the said 2nd day of August, 1854, after which hour no Tender will be received.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

East-India House, 26th July, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready, on or before Wednesday, the 2nd August, 1854, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, to receive Tenders, sealed up, from such persons as may be willing to supply the Company with 500 Tons of Coal, of any of the under-mentioned sorts, to be delivered at Point de Galle, in Ceylon, viz,—

WEST HARTLEY COAL,
CARR'S HARTLEY COAL,
BUDDLE'S HARTLEY COAL,
DAVISON'S WEST HARTLEY COAL,
HARTLEPOOL WEST HARTLEY COAL,
RAVENSWORTH WEST HARTLEY COAL,
JONASSON'S HARTLEY COAL,
STEWART'S WALLSEND STEAM COAL,
GLASGOW HARD SPLINT COAL,

Screened.

The Tenders are to be made according to a form which may be had upon application at the Marine Branch of the Secretary's Office, in the East-India House, with Conditions annexed; and the Tenders are to be left at the Secretary's office at any time before 11 o'clock in the forenoon of the 2nd August aforesaid, after which hour no Tender will be received.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

CONVEYANCE OF TROOPS TO INDIA.

East-India House, 26th July, 1854.

THE COURT of DIRECTORS of the EAST-INDIA COMPANY do hereby give notice,

That the Finance and Home Committee will be ready on Wednesday, the 2nd August next, before 11 o'clock in the forenoon, to receive Tenders for the conveyance of TROOPS from England to Bombay, on board Ships either of 400 tons register and upwards O.M., or 500 tons register and upwards N.M.

The number of Troops under orders for embarkation is 340 Company's, and they must embark between the 21st and 31st August, 1854.

The Tender must express the rate per head for the passage, diet, and accommodation of the Men for the whole voyage, and be made according to a form which may be had at the Marine Branch of the Secretary's Office, at this House, with terms and conditions annexed.

Two-thirds of the passage-money will be payable in India, at the exchange of 1s. 11½d. per Company's rupee.

N.B.—No Tender will be received unless made and filled in according to the form prescribed.

JAMES C. MELVILL, Secretary.

UNIVERSAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,
No. 1, KING WILLIAM STREET, CITY, LONDON.

Established 1834.

Empowered by Special Act of Parliament, 6 Will 4, cap. 54.

DIRECTORS.

SIR HENRY WILLOCK, K.L.S., Chairman.

JOHN STEWART, Esq., Deputy Chairman.

John Bagshaw, Esq., M.P. Charles Otway Mayne, Esq.
Augustus Bosanquet, Esq. Major John Arthur Moore.
Charles Dashwood Bruce, Esq. William Rothery, Esq.
Ellis Watkin Cunliffe, Esq. Robert Saunders, Esq.
William Kilburn, Esq. Capt. Samuel Thornton, R.N.
Francis Macnaghten, Esq. Brodie McGhie Wilcox, Esq., M.P.

The marked success which has attended the operations of this Society justifies the Directors in calling the attention of the public to the superior advantages held out to all classes desirous of affecting Assurances upon their lives.

The subjoined scale of rates is framed with the greatest care, and will be found to be as MODERATE as is CONSISTENT WITH PERFECT SECURITY.

Annual Premium required for the Assurance of £100 on a single Life, with participation in Profits:—

20	£1 18 8	35	£2 14 11	50	£4 5 6
25	2 3 3	40	3 3 0	55	5 5 10
30	2 8 10	45	3 12 2	60	6 13 2

Tables for Policies to be effected in India have been especially prepared from the records of the East-India Company, on the experience of mortality in that country.

During the last thirteen years, the reduction of Premium on Policies entitled to participate in Profits has averaged more than 44 per cent., and in the last four years it has been declared at 45 per cent.

An annual division is made of one-fifth of the ascertained profits of the five preceding years; the other four-fifths being set apart to enter into the average of succeeding years.

Of the sum annually divisible, 75 per cent. is apportioned to Policy-holders who have paid six annual Premiums, either in a Reduction of subsequent Premiums, or as a Bonus added to the Policy. The remainder is apportioned to the Shareholders.

Assets of the Society, upwards of £600,000.—Amount of Policies in force, £2,000,000.—Annual income arising from Premiums, exclusively of interest on the invested capital, exceeds £120,000.

Weekly Board-day, Thursday, at 1 o'clock.

Committees sit every Tuesday and Saturday, at 12 o'clock, when Policies requiring despatch may be effected.

AGENTS IN INDIA:—

Messrs Braddon & Co., Calcutta. | Messrs Bainbridge & Co., Madras.
Messrs. Leckie & Co., Bombay.

MICHAEL ELIJAH IMPEY, Secretary.

NORTH-WESTERN BANK OF INDIA.—LONDON
BRANCH, 4, TRAFALGAR SQUARE, CHARGING CROSS.—
Approved Bills on India Negotiated or Collected, and Credits Granted on the Head-Office, Calcutta, and the Branch at Mussoorie, in addition to all Banking business connected with the East Indies.

ROBERT McKIM,
Agent.

THE ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION grant
DRAFTS and negotiate or collect BILLS payable in Bombay, Calcutta,
Ceylon, Hong-Kong, Madras, Mauritius, Singapore, Melbourne, and Sydney.
They also issue, free of charge, Circular Notes and Letters of Credit for the use of Travellers on the Continent, and to India overland. They undertake the agency of parties connected with India, the purchase and sale of Indian
Securities, and the effecting of Remittances between the above dependencies.
They further buy and negotiate in London paper of the Indian Government Loans.

W. W. CARGILL, Chief Manager.

Walbrook, London, March, 1854.

FAMILY ENDOWMENT, LIFE ASSURANCE AND ANNUITY SOCIETY.

(No. 13, CHATHAM PLACE, BLACKFRIARS, LONDON.)

CAPITAL, £500,000.

Empowered by Act of Parliament, 19th May, 1835.

DIRECTORS.

William Butterworth Bayley, Esq., Chairman.
John Fuller, Esq., Deputy Chairman.

Lewis Burroughs, Esq.      Edward Lee, Esq.
R. Bruce Chichester, Esq.      Lieut.-Col. J. W. Ousley.
Major H. B. Henderson.      Major Turner.
C. H. Latouche, Esq.      Joshua Walker, Esq.

Secretary—Mr. John Casenove.

INDIAN BRANCH.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT AT CALCUTTA.

C. Binny Skinner, Esq.      T. C. Morton, Esq.
James Stuart, Esq.      Richard Stuart Palmer, Esq.
Joseph S. Judge, Esq.

Medical Officer—Richard O'Shaughnessy, Esq.

Bankers—Bank of Bengal.      Solicitors—Messrs. Sandes & Watts.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT AT MADRAS.

Richard Barnes Bell, Esq.      J. Bidgood Jauncey, Esq.
Capt. Francis Henry Scott.

Agents—Messrs. Binny and Co.

AGENTS AT BOMBAY.

Messrs. R. Strong and Co.

RATES OF PREMIUM FOR ASSURING 1,000 RUPEES.

CIVIL.

Age next birthday.	One Year.	Three Years.	Five Years.	Seven Years.	Life with Profits.	Without Profits.
30	25	26	26	28	38	35
40	29	29	30	31	49	45
50	36	33	39	41	63	59

MILITARY.

30	30	30	31	32	44	41
40	34	36	37	39	53	49
50	44	45	47	48	66	61

The above rates, it will be observed, are below those of any other Indian office.

To the policy holders on the profit scale, who have paid five years' premium, a bonus of twenty per cent. has been annually allowed for the last three years.

The Society grants an immediate reduction to the English rates to parties proceeding to Europe for a permanency, and a reduction after one year to those who come for a short period only.

The civil rate only charged on the lives of parties in the military service, holding civil offices, as long as they continue in such office.

Deferred Annuities and Endowments payable at any given period are also granted.

Tables and full information may be had at the Office in Chatham Place; or on application to the Secretaries at Calcutta, Messrs. GORDON, STUART, and Co.; or to the Agents at the other Indian Presidencies.

STANDARD ORIENTAL WORKS,

EDITED OR COMPILED BY

DUNCAN FORBES, LL.D.

Dictionary, Hindustani-English and English-Hindustani. By DUNCAN FORBES, LL.D. Royal 8vo. cloth, £2. 12s. 6d.

"Dr. Forbes, by his Grammars and other works on the Hindustani and Persian Languages, has, heretofore, conferred an invaluable boon on all the students of Oriental literature: but this Dictionary crowns the series of his magnum opus, for a great work we have no hesitation in pronouncing it, whether we regard its vast utility to the learner, or consider the immense amount of labour and practical skill brought to bear upon it by the author."—Calcutta Review, No. 19.

Hindustani Grammar, Reading Lessons, and Vocabulary; in the Oriental and Roman Characters, forming an Introduction to the Bagh-o-Bahar. By DUNCAN FORBES, LL.D. 8vo. 12s.

Hindustani Manual;

Being a short Grammar, Dialogues, Vocabulary, &c., in the Roman Character. By DUNCAN FORBES. 18mo. bound, 5s. 6d.

Bagh-o-Bahar, in Hindustani.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 15s.

Bagh-o-Bahar, in English.

By DUNCAN FORBES. 8vo. 10s.

* The Bagh-o-Bahar is the text-book in which Cadets and Assistant-Surgeons are examined in India.

Tota Kuhani, in Hindustani.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 10s.

Oriental Penmanship;

A Guide to the Study of Oriental Manuscripts. By DUNCAN FORBES. 4to. 5s.

Hindustani Reader.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 3s. 6d.

Persian Grammar, Reading Lessons, and Vocabulary.

By DUNCAN FORBES. Royal 8vo. 12s. 6d.

LONDON: WM. H. ALLEN AND CO., 7, LEADENHALL STREET.

THE SIXTH EDITION, 2 vols. 4to. price £4. 6s.

HORSBURGH'S INDIAN DIRECTORY;

OR,

Directions for Sailing to and from the East Indies,
China, Australia, &c.

HORSBURGH'S CHARTS for the Navigation from England to India and China, and throughout the Eastern Seas, viz.—

1. North Atlantic Ocean, 5s.
2. South Atlantic Ocean, 5s.
3. Anchorage at Gough's Island, 1s.
4. Bird's Islands and Doddington Rock, 1s.
- 5 and 6. Cape of Good Hope, S.E. Africa, and Madagascar Seas, two sheets, 8s.
7. Indian Ocean, 6s.
8. Arabian Sea and East Africa, 7s. 6d.
9. Hindoostan Coasts and Islands, 6s.
10. Bombay Harbour, 5s.
11. Goa Road and River, and Murmagoa Anchorage, 6s.
12. Maldiva Islands and Channels, 2s.
13. Bay of Bengal, 5s.
14. Peninsula and Islands of India, East of Bengal Bay, 7s.
15. West Coast of Sumatra, 5s.
16. Straits of Malacca and Singapore, one sheet, 6s.
- 17, 18, and 19. Straits of Malacca and Singapore, three sheets, 15s.
20. Straits of Sunda, 5s.
21. Straits of Banca and Gaspar, 7s. 6d.
22. Carimata Passage and Borneo West Coast, 6s.
23. Straits of Ithio, Durlan, Lingin, and Singapore, 6s.
- 24 and 25. China Sea and Coast adjacent, two sheets, 12s.
26. Canton River and its approximate Channels, 6s.
27. East Coast of China, 7s. 6d.
28. Bashee Islands and Channels between Luzon and Formosa, 2s.
- 29, 30, and 31. Eastern Passages to China, three sheets, £1. 1s.
32. Passages through the Barrier Reefs, Australia East, 2s.

Horsburgh's East-India Pilot, £12. 15s. 6d.

Hand-book for Pilots and Coasters navigating to and from the river THAMES, through all the Channels to DUNGENESS and ORFORDNESS. By Lieut. E. BURSTAL, R.N., from the Survey of Capt. BULLOCK, R.N. Price 1s. 6d.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street;

Of whom may be had,

A LIST of CHARTS for the Navigation of the Eastern Seas.

In royal 8vo., cloth, price 36s.,

L A D Á K,

PHYSICAL, STATISTICAL, AND HISTORICAL; WITH NOTICES OF THE SURROUNDING COUNTRIES.

BY ALEXANDER CUNNINGHAM,
BREVET-MAJOR, BENGAL ENGINEERS.

Illustrated by numerous Plates and a large Map.

LONDON: WM. H. ALLEN AND CO., 7, LEADENHALL STREET.

Second Edition, Corrected to May 9th,

THE EAST-INDIA REGISTER

AND
ARMY LIST FOR 1854,

CONTAINING

Complete Lists of the Company's Servants, at Home and Abroad;
Regulations respecting the appointment of Writers, Cadets, &c.

COMPILED FROM THE OFFICIAL RETURNS RECEIVED AT THE
EAST-INDIA HOUSE.

BY F. CLARK,

Of the Secretary's Office, East-India House.

12mo. sewed, 10s.; 11s. 6d. bound.

Separate Presidencies,—Bengal, 6s.; Madras, 5s.; Bombay, 5s.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

In 8vo. cloth lettered, price 12s.

THE MILITARY ENCYCLOPÆDIA; A TECHNICAL, BIOGRAPHICAL, AND HISTORICAL DICTIONARY,

REFERRING EXCLUSIVELY TO THE MILITARY SCIENCES,
THE MEMOIRS OF DISTINGUISHED SOLDIERS, AND
NARRATIVES OF REMARKABLE BATTLES.

By J. H. STOCQUELER, Esq.

"This useful publication is a technical, biographical, and historical dictionary, devoted exclusively to the military sciences, the memoirs of distinguished soldiers, and the narratives of remarkable battles. The author, who is not unknown in the literary world, has produced a work very much needed at the present moment, and which it is, therefore, probable will obtain a very wide circulation. It comprehends the essence of many excellent books, and, whilst it discards much of what is old, it embodies in its pages all that is new upon the subject treated. To military men, this work will be indispensable; by the ordinary reader, it will be found an important aid to his historical and general studies. Under these circumstances, it can be cordially recommended to the attention of both classes of the community."—Observer, Feb. 19, 1853.

"This is a useful and intelligent book. In a small compass, it contains a large mass of facts and dates, and the results of copious professional learning. The combination of the biography and history of the professional, with an explanation of the technical terms of the profession, is a useful and fortunate device. It increases the interest and it enlarges the application of the volume. The articles are written with spirit and precision—the arrangement and typographical appearance of the volume are good—and the number of topics embraced and terms explained is very considerable. Mr. Stocqueler readily admits that he is largely indebted to preceding writers and compilers; at the same time, it is due to himself to say, that he has executed his task so well and carefully, as to render his book almost an original work."—Athenæum, March 26, 1853.

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street

TREATISE ON FORTIFICATION AND ARTILLERY.

By MAJOR HECTOR STRAITH,

LATE PROFESSOR OF FORTIFICATION AT ADDISCOMBE.

SIXTH EDITION.—In 2 vols. 8vo. and 4to. Plates, price £2. 2s.

INTRODUCTORY ESSAY TO THE STUDY OF FORTIFICATION, FOR YOUNG OFFICERS OF THE ARMY.

By MAJOR STRAITH.

SECOND EDITION.—In 8vo. and 4to. Plates, price 13s.

Candidates for admission to Her Majesty's Army, and Direct Cadets for the East-India Company's Service, will find this a valuable book.

LONDON:—WILLIAM H. ALLEN & CO.,
7, LEADENHALL STREET.

ENGRAVING BY ORDER OF THE HON. EAST-INDIA COMPANY.

AN ATLAS OF INDIA.

On a scale of four miles to an inch. From Trigonometrical Surveys made for the purpose, being intended to form a complete Map of the whole of India, on an uniform plan, the Sheets being issued separately as they are completed, at 4s. each.

The following Forty-three Sheets are also completed:—

- |   |  |
|---|--|
| 26. Junjeera, Rutnagheriah, Vizadroog                   | 68. Furruckabad, Etawah.               |
| 27 and 41. Goa, Dharwar, Belgaum.                       | 69. North Bundelcund.                  |
| 40. Sattara, Beejapoor, Meeruj.                         | 70. South Bundelcund.                  |
| 42. North Canara, Mysore, &c.                           | 72. Nagpore.                           |
| 43. South Canara, Koorg, &c.                            | 75. Hyderabad.                         |
| 44. Part of Malabar.                                    | 76. Guntoor, Kumool, &c.               |
| 47. Himalaya Mountains.                                 | 77. Cuddapah, Nellore, &c.             |
| 48. Dehra Dooab, Sirhind, and Upper Dooab.              | 78. Madras, Arcot, &c.                 |
| 49. Delhi, Meerut, &c.                                  | 79. Salem, Trichinopoly.               |
| 50. Agra, Bhurtpoor, Jeypoor.                           | 80. Rannad, Tanjore.                   |
| 56. Nandair, Kowlas, Beder.                             | 81. Tuticorin.                         |
| 58. Part of the Ceded Districts, and Nizam's Dominions. | 89. Rewar, part of Mirzapore.          |
| 59. Part of the Ceded Districts, and Mysore Dominions.  | 94. Rajahmundry, Elloor, Coringa.      |
| 60. Mysore Dominions.                                   | 95. Masulipatam, Mouths of the Kistna. |
| 61. Coimbatore, Neilgherry Hills, Malabar.              | 107. Ganjam, Goomsur.                  |
| 62. Travancore, Cochin, Dindigul.                       | 108. Ganjam, Part of Vizagapatam.      |
| 63. Tinnevely and Travancore.                           | 109. Part of Vizagapatam.              |
| 65. Himalaya Mountains.                                 | 124. Lower Assam.                      |
| 66. Gurhwal, Kumaon.                                    | 125. Sylhet.                           |
| 67. Moradabad, Bareilly.                                | 129. Upper Assam.                      |
|   | 130. Upper Assam.                      |
|   | 131. Munnipoor.                        |
|   | 139. North-East Part of Assam.         |

London: WM. H. ALLEN and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

ALLEN'S MAPS OF INDIA, &amp;c.

DRAWN BY JOHN WALKER,

Geographer to the East-India Company.

A New Map of India;

Showing the British Territories subdivided into Collectorates, and the Position and Boundary of each Native State; chiefly compiled from Trigonometrical Surveys executed by Order of the Honourable Court of Directors of the East-India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 6 in. high; 5 ft. 8 in. wide. £2; or on cloth, in case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or with rollers, and varnished, £3. 3s.

*.* The object kept in view in compiling this Map, has been to render it available to the greatest possible extent for popular use. For this purpose the names of all Stations—Civil and Military—are inserted, as well as those of all Towns and places of note, likely to be looked for. To make clear the subdivisions of the whole of the country, both British and native, the limits of the various Districts and Collectorates, with their names, are distinctly indicated. The Railways are laid down, and the trunk roads conspicuously coloured. The newly-acquired district in Burmah is included. To avoid, however, the confusion consequent upon over-crowding, and make the Map clear and easy for Reference, the names of many small villages, and places of no present importance, have been omitted, and thus a very wide measure of comprehensiveness has been attained, while needless diffusiveness has been shunned.

A General Map of India;

Compiled chiefly from Surveys executed by order of the Hon. East-India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 3 in. wide; 5 ft. 4 in. high. £2; or on cloth, in a case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or with rollers, and varnished, £3. 3s.

Map of India;

From the most recent authorities. On two sheets—Size, 2 ft. 10 in. wide; 3 ft. 3 in. high. 16s.; or on cloth, in a case, £1. 1s.

Map of the Routes in India;

With Tables of Distances between the principal Towns and Military Stations. On one sheet—Size, 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or on cloth, in a case, 12s.

In this Map are given the whole of the Military and Civil Stations, together with the principal Towns, the villages being omitted so as to make the stations more prominent. The colouring defines the boundaries of the three Presidencies.

A Map of the Western Provinces of Hindoostan;

The Punjab, Cabool, Sinde, Bhawalpore, &c.; including all the States between Candahar and Allahabad. On four sheets—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 4 ft. 2 in. high. 30s.; or on cloth, in a case, £2; or on rollers, and varnished, £2. 10s.

Map of India and China, Burmah, Siam, the Malay Peninsula, and the Empire of Anam. On two sheets—Size, 4 ft. 3 in. wide; 3 ft. 4 in. high. 16s.; or on cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

Map showing the Steam Communication and Overland Routes

Between England, India, China, and Australia. Size, 4 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 4 in. high; on cloth, in a case, 14s., or with rollers, and varnished, 18s.

Map of Arabia;

Compiled from all the most recent authorities, by order of the Court of Directors of the East-India Company.—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 3 ft. 3 in. high; on cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

Map of the Punjab and Sikh Territory.

On one sheet, 5s.; or on cloth, in a case, 6s.

Map of Afghanistan and the adjacent Countries;

On one sheet—Size, 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or on cloth, in a case, 12s.

Map of China,

From the most authentic sources of information. One large sheet—Size, 2 ft. 7 in. wide; 2 ft. 2 in. high. 8s.; or on cloth, in a case, 11s.

Map of the Burman Empire,

Showing the annexed district of Pegu. One sheet, [3s. 6d.; or on cloth, in a case, 5s.

London: WM. H. ALLEN & Co., 7, Leadenhall Street.

SANSKRIT WORKS,

PUBLISHED OR IMPORTED BY

WM. H. ALLEN AND CO.,

7, LEADENHALL STREET.

Dictionary, English and Sanscrit, by
MONIER WILLIAMS, M.A., 4to. £2. 15s.

Dictionary, Sanscrit and English, designed for the use of private Students, and of Indian Colleges and Schools. By the late Rev. W. YATES, D.D. 8vo. half-bound, £2. 5s.

Grammar of the Sanscrit Language, on a Plan similar to that most commonly adopted in the learned Languages of the West. By the Rev. W. YATES. 2nd Edition. 8vo. 18s.

Elementary Grammar of the Sanscrit

Language, partly in the Roman Character, arranged according to a new Theory, in reference especially to the Classical Languages, with Short Extracts in easy Prose. To which is added, a Selection from the Institutes of Manu, with copious references to the Grammar, and an English Translation. By MONIER WILLIAMS, M.A. Royal 8vo. cloth, 14s.

English and Sanscrit Vocabulary. By
E. A. PRINSEP, Esq. Royal 8vo. cloth, 10s.

The Rig-Veda Sanhita; the Sacred

Hymns of the Brahmans; together with the Commentary of Sayanacharya. Edited by Dr. MAX MÜLLER. Published under the Patronage of the Hon. East-India Company. Vol. 1, 4to. price £2. 10s. cloth.

Mahabarata (Selections from); to which is added, a Vocabulary. Edited by Professor F. JOHNSON. Royal 8vo. cloth, 9s.

Hitopadesa; the Sanscrit Text, with a Grammatical Analysis, alphabetically arranged, by Professor F. JOHNSON. 4to. £1. 11s. 6d.

Hitopadesa, in the Original Sanscrit, with Bengali and English Translations. 8vo. 15s.

Megha Duta; or, Cloud Messenger.

A Poem in the Sanscrit Language, by Kalidasa. Translated into English Verse, with Notes and Illustrations, by Professor H. W. WILSON. 2nd Edition. Imperial 8vo. 7s. 6d.

Daya Bhaga; or Law of Inheritance.

By Jimutavahana. With a Commentary, by Krishna Terkalankara. 8vo. 8s.

Mitakshara; a Compendium of Hindu

Law. By Vijnaneswara. Founded on the Texts of Yajñawalkya.—The Vyavahara Section, or Jurisprudence. 8vo. 9s. 6d.

Daya Krama Sangraha; a Compendium of the Order of Inheritance. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

Vyavahara Tatwa; a Treatise on Judicial Proceedings. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

Daya Tatwa; a Treatise on the Law of Inheritance. 8vo. 2s. 6d.

Grammar of the Sungskrit Language; composed from the Works of the most esteemed Grammarians. To which are added, Examples for the exercise of the Student, and a complete list of the Dhatoos, or Roots. Royal 4to. £4. 4s.

Ramayana (the); a Poem, by Valmeeki, in the Original Sungskrit. With an English Prose Translation, and Notes, by W. CAREY and J. MARSHMAN. Vols. 1 and 2, 4to. £10. 10s.

LONDON: WM. H. ALLEN & CO., 7, LEADENHALL STREET.

STANDARD WORKS

ON

INDIA, &amp;c.

Thornton's History of India. 6 vols. 8vo.
£2. 8s.

Ritchie's British World in the East. 2 vols.
8vo. 24s.

Hamilton's East-India Gazetteer. 2 vols.
8vo. 32s.

Thornton's Gazetteer of the Punjab, &c.
2 vols. 8vo. 23s.

Stocqueler's Hand-Book of India. Post 8vo.
14s.

Barber's Overland Guide-Book. Post 8vo.
5s.

Prinsep's (H. T.) Bactrian Coins. 8vo. 15s.

Tod's Travels in Western India. Plates.
Royal 4to. £3. 13s. 6d.

De Butts's Rambles in Ceylon. Post 8vo.
10s.

Wellesley's (Marquess) Despatches,—India.
5 vols. 8vo. £5. 10s.

Thornton's East-Indian Calculator. 8vo. 21s.

Roberts's (Emma) Scenes and Characteristics
of Hindoostan. 2 vols. post 8vo. 18s.

Bellew's Memoirs of a Griffin. 2 vols. post
8vo. 21s.

Thornton's (Thos.) History of the Punjab,
and of the Rise, Progress, and present Condition of the Sect and Nation of the Sikhs. 2 vols. post 8vo. £1. 1s.

Wilson's (Prof. H. H.) Rig-Veda Sanhita; a
Collection of Ancient Hindu Hymns, constituting the first Ashtaka, or Book of the Rig-Veda; the oldest authority for the Religious and Social Institutions of the Hindus. Translated from the original Sanscrit. Vol. I.
8vo. 10s.

LONDON: WM. H. ALLEN AND CO.,
7, LEADENHALL STREET.

In post 8vo., price 7s.

PUBLIC WORKS IN INDIA,

WITH

SUGGESTIONS FOR THEIR EXTENSION AND IMPROVEMENTS,

By Lieut.-Col. A. T. COTTON,

CHIEF ENGINEER, MADRAS.

London: Wm. H. Allen and Co., 7, Leadenhall Street;
and all Booksellers.

LADIES' OUTFITS TO INDIA.

JOHN BESEMERES AND CO., Manufacturers of LADIES' READY-MADE LINEN, Under-clothing, Baby-linen, and every article required for a family proceeding to India, are now compiling Outfits at their Manufacturing Prices, thus effecting an important saving in the outlay. Wedding Outfits on the same terms.

Ladies' Long Cloth Chemises, 1s. 6d., 2s., 2s. 6d.; Frilled Night Dresses,
2s. 6d., 3s., 3s. 6d.; Long Cloth Drawers, 1s. 6d., 1s. 9d., 2s.; Petticoats,
1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d.; Dressing-gowns, 7s. 6d., 8s. 6d., 10s. each. A detailed Priced List of every article may be ordered by post. The Outfit Department is entirely superintended by young women of competent skill, aided by dressmakers of taste and experience.

All the Under-clothing is made up by selected classes of carefully-trained private hands, needlewomen, who receive constant employment throughout the year, at a liberal and fixed rate of wages. This system, ORIGINATED BY THIS THE OLDEST ESTABLISHMENT OF THE KIND IN LONDON, has effectually redeemed the character of Ready-made Linen for strength and neatness, while its admitted usefulness and economy for garments for family and general home use, have placed it among the successful manufactures of the day.

To the Merchant exporting to Australia and other settlements, these goods, from the high character they bear, are very attractive, and rank among the safest shipments to those parts.

Ready-made Linen Warehouses, 61, 62, 63, and 64, HOUNSDITCH, London.

PAYNE and SONS' INDIAN CURRY POWDER,
UNEQUALLED for its delicious FLAVOUR and stimulating QUALITIES, in 1 lb. Bottles, 3s. 6d.; ½ lb., 2s. 3d.; or 7 lbs. for 9s.
CURRY and MULLIGATAWNY PASTE, 1 lb. jars, 3s. 6d., ½ lbs., 2s. 3d.
CURRY SAUCE, Delhi and Oselle Chutnee, 1s. 6d. per bottle.
Pickled MANGOES, HUMPS, TAP SAUCE, and every description of Indian Delicacies, may had, at greatly reduced prices, from
PAYNE and SONS' FOREIGN WAREHOUSE, 338, REGENT STREET,
LONDON.—A List forwarded on application.

TO LATE RESIDENTS IN INDIA.—TRUE

MADRAS CURRY, and MULLIGATAWNEY PASTE and CHUT-
NIES.—Messrs. BARRIE and Co., Vepery, Madras, to enable their old correspondents returning from India to continue the use of the celebrated Condiments, have made arrangements to forward regular supplies of the above, packed in glass jars for family use, at 1s. 9d. and upwards, which may be had of CROSSE and BLACKWELL, Purveyors to Her Majesty, 21, Soho Square; FORTNUM, MASON, and Co., Piccadilly; and of the principal Sauce Vendors throughout the kingdom. Each bottle is labelled, and BARRIE and Co.,
Madras, stamped on the glass.

TO THE LADIES.—The powerful influence of the sun

on the skin and complexion at this period of the year, calls for increased attention in preserving their delicacy and beauty. The most pleasing and effectual specific for this desirable object is

ROWLAND'S KALYDOR, so deservedly established in royal and public favour and estimation. Its application neutralizes the effects of atmosphere, and induces that healthy action of the minute secretory vessels of the skin, by which its delicacy and beauty are so essentially promoted. Freckles, tan, spots, pimples, and discolorations, are eradicated by the application of the KALYDOR, and give place to a healthy clearness and transparency of complexion. Ladies travelling, or taking out-door exercise, will find it to diffuse a grateful and refreshing feeling. In cases of sunburn, stings of insects, or incidental inflammation, its virtues have long and extensively been acknowledged. Price 4s. 6d. and 8s. 6d. per bottle.

The heat of summer also frequently communicates a dryness to the hair, and a tendency to fall off, which may be completely obviated by the use of ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL, a delightfully fragrant and transparent preparation, and as an invigorator and purifier beyond all precedent.—Price 3s. 6d. and 7s.; or family bottles (equal to four small), at 10s. 6d.; and double that size, 21s.

Nor at this season can we be too careful to preserve the teeth from the deleterious effects of vegetable acids (the immediate cause of tooth-ache), by a systematic employment, night and morning, of ROWLANDS' ODONTO, or Pearl Dentifrice, a white powder, compounded of the rarest and most fragrant exotics. It bestows on the teeth a pearl-like whiteness, frees them from tartar, and imparts to the gums a healthy firmness, and to the breath a grateful sweetness and purity.—Price 2s. 9d. per box.

BEWARE OF SPURIOUS IMITATIONS.—The only genuine of each bears the name of "ROWLANDS," preceding that of the article on the wrapper or label. Sold by A. ROWLAND & SONS, 30, Hatton Garden, London, and by Chemists and Perfumers.

Just published, in 2 vols. 8vo., price 32s.,

HISTORY of INDIA under Baher and Humayun, the First Two Sovereigns of the House of Taimur. By WILLIAM ERSKINE, Esq., Translator of "Memoirs of the Emperor Baber."

"A valuable contribution to the early history of India,—all the more valuable because the author, familiarly acquainted with the languages of India, has proceeded upon data drawn from authentic sources."—John Bull.

"This faithful and highly-instructive author derives his information from the fountain-heads of Persian, Turkish, and Indian story, with as much erudition, care, and fidelity, as Gibbon displayed in drawing his from the ancient and modern languages of Europe."—Examiner.

London: LONGMAN, BROWN, GREEN, and LONGMANS.

NEW VOLUME OF DODSLEY'S AND RIVINGTON'S ANNUAL REGISTER.

Now ready, in 8vo.

THE ANNUAL REGISTER; or, a View of the History and Politics of the YEAR 1823.

Rivingtons; Longman and Co.; J. M. Richardson; Hamilton and Co.; Simpkin and Co.; Houlston and Stoneman; G. Lawford; Cowie and Co.; Capes and Son; Smith, Elder, and Co.; H. Washbourne; H. G. Bohn; J. Bumpus; Waller and Son; J. Thomas; L. Booth; W. J. Cleaver; Upham and Beet; G. Routledge and Co.; J. Green; G. Willis; and W. Heath.

Just published, in 8vo., price 2s.,

THOUGHTS on EDUCATION in INDIA: its Object and Plan; to which are appended, Regulations for Schools and Colleges, and Hints to Teachers, submitted to and adopted by the General Committee of Public Instruction for Bengal, and now revised. By THOMAS A. WISE, M.D., H.E.I.C.S., F.R.S.E., formerly Secretary to the Council of Education of Bengal.

London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 65, Cornhill.

WANTED, a PASSAGE to MADRAS or CEYLON, for a European Female Servant, by the Mail which will leave Southampton on the 4th October. No remuneration required beyond her passage being paid. The person in question thoroughly understands her duties as lady's-maid, and can be highly recommended. She is a German, and speaks French and a little English.

Address, A. B., care of Messrs. Grindlay, 63, Cornhill.

ADDISCOMBE, HAILEYBURY, SANDHURST, and DIRECT APPOINTMENTS.—YOUNG GENTLEMEN destined for such Appointments are efficiently prepared in all the requisite branches in the Establishment of W. KIESEL, M.A., Grove, Blackheath.

HANWELL COLLEGE and PREPARATORY SCHOOL.

The Fees commence on entrance.

"Hanwell College, conducted by Dr. Emerton, is fully sustaining the high character it has acquired. We find that former Pupils of Hanwell College have been either high wranglers or first-class men of our Universities during the present year; and this is the twentieth instance of success at Sandhurst or Addiscombe we have had to record within a short period."—United Service Gazette.

Prospectuses may be had on application to the Rev. Dr. EMERTON, Hanwell College, Middlesex.

KING'S COLLEGE, LONDON.

A MASTER in KING'S COLLEGE SCHOOL is willing to take charge of ONE or TWO BOYS from India. Their education would be carefully superintended, and they would be thoroughly prepared for their future pursuits, whether MILITARY or CIVIL, MERCANTILE or PROFESSIONAL. During the vacation they would go to the seaside or into the country, and be treated as members of the family. Terms, INCLUDING VACATIONS, COLLEGE FEES, BOOKS, AND ALL EXTRAS, 120 guineas per annum.

Address, REV. GEORGE RUST, M.A., 17, James Street, Buckingham Gate, London.

TO OFFICERS ON FOREIGN SERVICE.

A CLERGYMAN, with twenty years' experience in Elementary Tuition, has VACANCIES for the Children of Officers abroad. Terms, inclusive, if desired, are moderate. The peculiar requirements of young Children are well understood by his family, and the responsibility attached to their performance as fully appreciated. Unexceptionable references to county families, and to connections with India. The situation is cited for its salubrity.

Address (p.p.) Rev. Woodthorpe Collett, M.A., Henly Hall, near Ipswich, Suffolk.

SURVEYING ARMY APPOINTMENTS IN INDIA.

OFFICERS at Home on Furlough, and GENTLEMEN CADETS, desirous of qualifying themselves for the Diplomas in SURVEYING and ENGINEERING, may obtain the requisite information by applying to Mr. HENRY JAMES CASTLE, Associate of the Institute of Civil Engineers, and Lecturer in Surveying and Levelling at King's College, London, who is at all times prepared to give Private Instruction (or to form a class for practical Field-work) in the uses and application of the several Instruments required for Surveying and Levelling. If desired, one or two Pupils could reside with the Lecturer.

PASSENGERS to INDIA, AUSTRALIA, and NEW ZEALAND.—GRINDLAY and Co. negotiate Passages by first-class Sailing-vessels and Steamers to the above places.

All Information given to parties about to emigrate, with Plans of the Ships, Rates of Passage-money, &c., free of all expense.

Apply to GRINDLAY and Co., 63, Cornhill; 124, Bishopsgate Street; and 8, St. Martin's Place, Charing-Cross.

ORIENTAL, AUSTRALIAN, and GENERAL STEAM AGENCY.

PARCELS, PACKAGES, and MERCHANDIZE forwarded, and Passages engaged to all parts of the world. Baggage shipped. Insurances effected, &c.

INDIA and CHINA—overland, 4th and 20th of every month.

AUSTRALIA—overland, 4th May, and alternate months.

Ditto—via Cape of Good Hope, 4th June, and alternate months.

Prospectuses, with reduced rates, from 2s. 6d., upwards, forwarded free, on application. Overland Guides, 1s., per post, 1s. 6d.

G. W. WHEATLEY and Co. (late Waghorn), 156, Leadenhall Street.

INDIAN APPOINTMENTS.

MESSRS. GRINDLAY and Co. beg to announce the Removal of the OUTFIT branch of their establishment from St. Martin's Place to 63, Cornhill, and 124, Bishopsgate Street.

Detailed scales of OUTFIT, and plans of all SHIPS sailing to India, with prices of their accommodation, forwarded on application.

EAST-INDIA ARMY AGENCY,

63, Cornhill, and 124, Bishopsgate Street.

EAST-INDIA GENERAL AGENCY.

C. R. THOMPSON AND CO., 52, OLD BROAD STREET, LONDON,

And 10, ORIENTAL PLACE, SOUTHAMPTON.

The increasing support which this Agency continues to receive, enables us confidently to invite your attention to our method of conducting every branch of our business as East-India Agents and Wine Merchants, having greatly facilitated the means of carrying on the same by the establishment of an Office at Southampton for the convenience of Passengers passing to and from the East. Our prompt and careful attention is given to

THE SUPERINTENDENCE of Outfits—securing Passages by all routes, and the Shipping and Insuring of Baggage.

THE EXECUTION of every description of Orders on the most favourable terms. Wines and Spirits have our best attention, having always a large stock on hand expressly for our Indian Customers.

THE RECEIPT of the Wives and Children of Officers residing in India, and the receipt of remittances and payments of bills on their account.

THE RECEIPT also of Pay, Pensions, Annuities, Dividends, and the execution of all other Monetary and Banking transactions.

PARCELS received on the 2nd and 18th of each month, and forwarded Overland to all parts of India, &c. Baggage and Parcels also shipped to India, Australia, and other parts of the world, as occasion may require.

MAYNARD and HARRIS'S

MILITARY WAREHOUSE AND GENERAL AGENCY, 126, LEADENHALL STREET, LONDON.

MAYNARD and HARRIS execute with promptness, punctuality, and perfect accuracy in details, all orders for India entrusted to them, embracing MILITARY Accoutrements for OFFICERS and PRIVATES; PERSONAL APPAREL for Gentlemen, Ladies, and Families; SADDLERY, HARNESS, CHINA, GLASS, BAND and MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, with all MESS and general supplies at wholesale prices.

This establishment has been known for more than 27 years in LONDON, and the superior character of the goods it has shipped is familiar to a large portion of the Indian community, both CIVIL and MILITARY; and the same punctuality, intelligence, and attention which have characterized their former transactions will still be supplied to serve the interests of all constituents.

OUTFITS.

Cadets for the Cavalry, Artillery, or Infantry, Civilians or Assistant-Surgeons, and Passengers, are completely equipped with the utmost promptitude, for whom detailed lists have been prepared.

AGENCY.

MAYNARD and HARRIS undertake the receipt of Pay, Pensions, or Family Remittances, and the Investment of Funds; the clearing of Baggage on the arrival in England, and warehousing the same during convenience—parties being requested immediately on landing to transmit by post their keys, with instructions; also the receiving and forwarding Packets and Correspondence, the same being always registered.

MAYNARD and HARRIS,

Removed from 27, Poultry, to more eligible and extensive premises, 126, LEADENHALL STREET, opposite the India House.

Communications for the Editor, and Advertisements, should be sent under cover to Messrs. Wm. H. Allen & Co., 7, Leadenhall-street.

COUNTRY AGENTS:—

Edinburgh, W. Blackwood and Sons.

Dublin, Hodges and Smith.

Brighton, C. Booty.

LONDON:—Printed by CHARLES WYMAN, of 13, Hunter Street, Brunswick Square, in the Parish of St. George, Bloomsbury, Printer, at the Printing-Office of COX (Brothers) & WYMAN, 74 & 75, Great Queen Street, Lincoln's-Inn Fields, in the Parish of St. Giles-in-the-Fields; and published by LANCELOT WILD, at 13, Catherine Street, Strand, in the Parish of St. Mary-le-Strand, all in the County of Middlesex.—July 28, 1854.

up to the current of the time; and we give the matter floating on the surface of Indian society as we find it. The date of the letter is the 13th June:—

"I mentioned to you that the minister had had an interview with the resident the other day; I now learn that he had been deputed by the king to express his majesty's sympathy with the cause of England in the existing struggle between Russia and the Western Powers. 'His majesty also,' the minister said, 'was actuated by the most friendly feeling towards his ally, the Government of India, as well as his forefathers, who had endeavoured to aid the British in their wars with the native powers of Hindoostan by conferring loans in specie. If the king had the means, he too would gladly offer to the British Government what we consider the sinews of war;* but on account of the exhausted state of his exchequer, he was powerless to aid them in that way, and therefore begged that the resident would make known to the Governor-General his resolution to offer for the service of England an auxiliary force. He could place twelve battalions, each a thousand strong, of Sepoy infantry at the Government's disposal; among them those regular corps at present commanded by European officers and by native captains, all efficiently disciplined according to the English system of drill. His majesty could also add to this force a thousand cavalry, as well as the guns attached to each battalion, which would amount in the aggregate to about one hundred guns, mortars, howitzers, and other pieces of small calibre. It was true, this force is not at present exactly so very efficient as to be able to cope with an enemy of such redoubtable valour; but in case the Most Noble the Governor-General accept this offer, so frankly made, the king would through him (the minister) lose no time to put them on a complete war footing, provide them with experienced officers, and march them anywhere the British desired. That there were rumours of disturbances on the British north-western frontier, where the Oudh troops could perhaps advantageously aid British interests, and that therefore his forces might be stationed, and fight alongside their native brethren in the Honourable Company's service.' I believe the authority on which I mention this piece of information to be trustworthy; it certainly has been widely circulated in Lucknow, and is generally credited. Presuming, therefore, that it has really occurred, the offer has been made either with a view to be refused or accepted. If the former, it certainly shows much political acumen on the part of the minister, who, we may suppose, suggested it to prove that the king's government either is or wishes to be considered friendly to the British, who would not, after such a display of kindly feeling towards them, adopt any stringent measures with respect to Oudh. If, on the contrary, the proffer has been advanced in all sincerity, I think we might as frankly accept the proposition, for the king could well afford to spare us a portion of the numerous troops he has, and which amount altogether to fifty or sixty thousand men, regulars and irregulars, artillery, cavalry, and infantry. In case we do so, and as, according to the last mail, it is not unlikely that we may have to send Indian troops to the seat of war, the Oudh auxiliary forces, thus generously placed at our disposal, and with their expenses either wholly or partially defrayed by the king, might be of great service in guarding Peshawar and the north-west, from which we might remove our own forces, who might then take an active part in the strife, without exposing our frontier to danger."

We seem to be in favour everywhere. The following is from Hyderabad:—

"I hear it has been officially reported that the four ressalas of the contingent horse have volunteered for service in Turkey. Whatever the inducement (I presume its object is to recommend themselves to Government), it will be pleasing, if the example be followed elsewhere. I consider, however, that as their services are very much required here for the internal security of the Nizam's country, it will be found inexpedient to send them out of it."

The Presidency papers declare unanimously that they have nothing to report of the respective seats of power, and we should be sorry to pretend to know better than they.

The Ceylon editors seem to think that the first duty of their office is to manifest their skill in squabbling. When they can manage to settle their personal differences, they will perhaps favour us with something more interesting to the public than such matters. The coffee-planters have petitioned against the proposed trigonometrical survey, not only on account of the expense, but because they apprehend interference with the boundaries of estates as previously settled.

The state of affairs in China, no man in the western part of the world, we suppose, professes to understand. We therefore take up with the Summary afforded us by the Friend of China, which we subjoin:—

"Since the despatch of the last overland mail hence, we have had no tidings of the movements of Admiral Stirling's squadron in the North Pacific; indeed, we have had no later news at all from the north; and, amongst other matters, Commodore Perry's expedition to Japan, now unheard of for three months and upwards, is beginning to excite considerable interest.

"In the south, affairs are in a fearfully excited state; and never, we believe, at any time since the commencement of the revolution, have matters approached so close to a crisis. There is hardly a district within a hundred miles of Canton, but the elements of disaffection in it are in active fusion. Last October, it will be remembered, we speculated on the fate of Canton, should Toong-kiang, or the eastern branch of the Pearl River, actually fall into the hands of the insurgents. Afterwards, we reported the temporary subdual of the rioters, caused, we believed, by the feeling that 'the time was not come.' At that time, there had been some fighting about Shihlung.* Now we have to report Shihlung in the absolute possession of the Triad Society, and a new form of government established (if that can be called government which consists principally in devising modes for levying black mail, and chopping people's heads off who refuse to acknowledge the ruler). A man 'of the flood family Hung'—(some call him Hoe-Atukh)—is the leader of this movement. For several weeks, while preparing his plans, he continued sending letters to the Che-hien and elders of the place, announcing his advent with twenty thousand men. 'You cannot raise the half of this number,' ran one of his letters, 'and how foolish is it of you to think of resisting me. As for you, Che-hien, (chief magistrate), your head is the first that shall fall to the swords of my followers. Look for me on the 22nd!' And on the 22nd, sure enough (equivalent to our 17th instant), his word was kept; the Che-hien was headless, and Shihlung and surrounding villages acknowledged Hoe-Atukh's sway.

"From the Bogue, the admiral sent a colonel and a thousand men, with the offer of a large reward for Hoe Atukh's head. The colonel was killed, and the whole regiment either dispersed or fraternized with those they were sent to fight against. From Canton fourteen war-boats were sent to oppose Hoe Atukh's progress. Four returned to Canton a day or two ago, reporting the defection of the other ten. A council was called immediately; and we are told that from sundown to sunrise the Governor and Lieut.-Governor of Canton held argument with their colleagues on the best mode of warding off the threatened attack. Next day an application was made to charter the Spark (American steamer) to tow some more war-junks to the scene of action. The Spark, however (the crack passage-boat of the river), could not be let to hire for towing purposes; and the junks had to find their way to Shihlung under sail. Half a dozen of them, miserably manned, were passed a few miles from their destination on Monday last. They can do no good when they get there. Extending operations in advance, Hoe Atukh and his band have named four lakhs of dollars as the ransom of Whampoa. The sum is being made up.

"In Canton every preparation is made for the worst: two thousand of the Manchu part of the garrison patrol the streets nightly, and, if we may judge from the large amount of voluntary contributions, or promises to pay, by the wealthier portion of the community (some 900,000 taels, say £300,000, within the last week or so), a substantial militia will be obtained to repel the invaders. But this can only last for a time. Canton is almost as bad as Hongkong in the number of its lazaroni and secret-society men; no foe being so dangerous as the one that lurks unseen. But we will not anticipate.

"Of Tai-ping Wang's army we hear of an encampment on the borders of Hunan and Hupih."

CASUALTIES BY DEATH IN THE ARMIES OF INDIA, REPORTED SINCE OUR LAST PUBLICATION.

II.M.'s TROOPS.—Capt. J. A. Butler, Ceylon rifle regt., at Silistria, of a wound received while defending that fortress, aged 27, June 22.

BENGAL.—Lieut. J. J. E. Howard, 24th N.I., at Wuzerabad, June 12.

MADRAS.—Ens. W. H. Clarke, 26th N.I., at Kimmedy, June 12.

BOMBAY.—2nd Lieut. H. M. Davies, art., at Ahmednuggur, aged 19, June 17; Surg. Malcolmson, 3rd L.C., at Nusseerabad, June 16; 2nd Lieut. H. M. Marshall, art., at Ahmednuggur, June 17; Lieut. William Cameron, art. of cholera, June 26, at Sholapore.

* The Marquis of Hastings relieved the treasury of Oude of a good deal of this material.—Ed. Allen's India Mail.

"* The Pearl River commences, or rather ends, a few miles east of First Bar, Whampoa, 'not many miles from Shihlung, a large mart and manufacturing place, where the trade and produce of the eastern half of the province centre.' This river (Toong-kiang, or East River) is about the same size as the North River; and, once in the insurgents' possession, the fall of Canton becomes certain.—F. of C., Oct. 22."

BENGAL. THE RENT LAW.

There is yet another reason for desiring that the Small Cause Court process should be summary in reality as well as name. It appears to be not impossible, that the legislature may through its agency remove one of the most prominent abuses of Bengal. We allude to the law which provides for the recovery of rent by summary process, the law which is known to magistrates and cursed by ryots as the "huftum." This law is one of the many by which we have strengthened the hands of the zemindars, till instead of the English landlords which Lord Cornwallis fondly believed they would become, they occupy more nearly the position of American slaveholders. Or rather, perhaps, we may compare them to the Russian proprietors of serfs, whose power though regulated by law, is practically limited only by their own sense of justice, and their own conviction of their personal interests. Originally rendered necessary by the faithlessness of the people, the Act has been perverted into a terrible instrument of oppression. That a summary process for the recovery of rent is in this country indispensable, may be instantly allowed. No ryot pays until he is convinced that evasion is impossible. The infinite oppression of the zemindar is equalled by the infinite guile of his tenant, and we have heard experienced officers declare, that if it were possible for a people to deserve oppression, the Bengalee ryots would merit it to the full. The evil rests not in the summary process, but in the manner in which that process is enforced. Its principal defects in working are the provision for immediate personal arrest without summons, and the facility afforded for unjust ex parte decrees by means of false returns to notices. So completely is the former provision employed as an instrument of torture, that experienced officers have calculated that two-fifths of all the cases which appear upon the record, are cases got up solely to punish refractory tenants. A ryot perhaps has neglected to obey the summons of his zemindar at an inconvenient season. He has quarrelled with the favourite gomashtha, or other agent. He has refused to give information against a neighbouring villager, or has declined to volunteer false evidence in his master's interest. Instantly the law is put in motion. The ryot is arrested without summons, in the midst of harvest, or of some religious or family ceremony, and retained in prison by all the devices, which in this country are possible to wealth and influence.

There is probably no rent due, but the burden of proof rests with a ryot, ignorant beyond the ignorance of an English peasant, opposed to the shrewdest and most unscrupulous of mankind, and tortured with the certainty that his fields and family are unprotected in his absence. Yet the nonpayment of rent is not in this country a criminal offence; the power of adjudicating such cases has been entrusted to the collectors, but they are specially enjoined to proceed according to the rules of civil procedure. Yet in every other description of civil procedure, a summons invariably precedes arrest. It is true that by sect. 15, Reg. VII. of 1799, it is provided that arrest is only to be made when there is a suspicion that the defaulter is preparing to abscond. But no proof of the suspicion is required. An easy falsehood is all that is demanded to satisfy the court. The creditor has only to add half a dozen words to his petition, and the warrant of arrest must issue, even in the teeth of all prima facie evidence.

It must issue, also, without any deposition as to the fact of a balance existing against the victim, though such deposition is necessary before a summons can issue for the most ordinary assault. We need scarcely say that absconding is not the offence likely to be committed by a Bengalee ryot. The great defect of his character is a sort of catlike attachment to his native village, an indisposition to move, except in the very last resort. Besides, his flight would scarcely benefit him. He cannot resign his land, while his landlord declares his accounts are unclosed. The law of distraint is always in operation, and even if he escaped his persecutor's clubmen, he could carry with him nothing but the cloth around his loins. In reality, it is his last resort, a fact which can be brought at once to the test of statistics. Let a return be called for from every district, shewing the number of cases in which judgment has not been executed in summary suits for rent, because the defaulter has absconded. Of course more would abscond after judgment has been entered, than after the suit had merely been instituted, and the test therefore is only too fair towards the law. The result will prove, that the law, even if necessary in the dark ages of 1799, is in 1854 simply an instrument of oppression.

In the second case, supposing the ryot is not to be punished, but only plundered, the process is something in this wise. The collector issues a "notice," directing the tenant to attend his court for such and such a cause. The Nazir or sheriff hands this to a peada or constable, an individual without the slightest education, scarcely able to distinguish wrong from right, and paid in an inverse ratio to his power of extortion. He is taken to the house of the gomashtha, and well fed; a false receipt is written out, and he is told to take that back to the Nazir. If, as is frequently the case, he is a blockhead from the North-west, he returns careless, whether the affair is right or wrong, but satisfied that he has had little trouble, and has enjoyed a remarkably good dinner. If, on the other hand, he is a Bengalee, with eyes in his head, he probably shuts them for a small douceur. In either case, he is unable to read, and greatly in dread of the gomashtha, who might injure him with his real superiors, the Amlah of the court. The "receipt" of the notice is filed, the collector has no means of discovering the forgery, and the ex parte decree is delivered as of course. Perhaps, however, the collector has a remarkable keenness of vision, and an instinctive distrust of a summary application. He makes inquiry as to the genuineness of the receipt. Two witnesses are immediately in attendance, and their story, delivered with the customary appearance of unwillingness, is perfectly consistent. The plot is as perfect as one of Bulwer's novels, and the "unities" of time and place as complete as in a French tragedy. The collector, though satisfied that oppression is intended, is still without resource, the decree is issued, and the witnesses depart happy in the possession of four annas, and the pride of successful perjury. The ryot is ruined, and it is the absolute certainty that this machinery can at any moment be put in force against him, that renders him a serf.

Is it absolutely impossible to transfer these cases to the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Courts? We have endeavoured to show how little the summary arrest is required, and we believe the production of the return we have demanded will render the demonstration complete. Why should not claims for rent be settled like claims for oil? We are no dreaming philanthropists. We know that the ryot is nearly as much inclined to pay less than his due, as his owner is to exact more; a summary provision is necessary, and it may be found in the process of the Small Cause Courts. In those courts the ryot must receive a summons before he is arrested, the plaintiff must appear himself instead of by attorney, and the judge living among the people, with an establishment over which the zemindar has little power, will have at least some slight prospect of detecting perjury. At all events, if the court is competent to decide a claim for the price of sweetmeats, it is competent also to decide a claim for the price of the usufruct of land.—Friend of India.

PROGRESS OF THE INDIGO SEASON.

The rains having set in earlier and more violently than usual, we have received most miserable accounts of the progress of the indigo season, from the neighbourhood of Furreedpore, Dacca, &c. &c.

A vast quantity of the plant has been cut, and the produce obtained from it is next to nothing. It remains to be seen what is the extent of the injury done to the other indigo districts by the incessant rains which have this year been experienced; but we conceive, from the tenor of our correspondent's letter, that as far as the above districts are concerned, their out-turn can no longer be doubtful.

From all we can gather from other parts of the country, we cannot but infer that serious damage has been generally done to the growing crop; and with the rainy month of July in expectation, and the present state of the country, already saturated with the heavy rains of June, the result of the Bengal crop cannot be looked forward to, except with anxiety, by those interested in indigo cultivation.

Of up-country prospects it is too early to give an opinion; but we understand that the rains have set in generally, which at this early date is certainly one favourable feature, so far as that portion of the crop is concerned.

A letter from Serajunge, dated the 17th June, says:—
"Our prospects in this part of the country, Pubna and Mymensing districts, are, I am sorry to say, very bad indeed just now."

"We commenced manufacturing with a magnificent crop on the ground, but first the extreme heat (accompanied with northerly winds during the night) which we experienced during the greater part of May, withered the plant almost completely—and next, just as it commenced recovering, we got such a downfall of rain for thirteen successive days as to rotten the plant and almost entirely divest it of leaves. We are anxiously looking for some fine sunny weather, but the clouds still hover about and threaten more rain."

"Almost every factory has decreased in number of vats for the past few days, and we are now working half power."

"Produce is very bad indeed; two maunds per 1,000 bundles, whilst this time last year we were getting from seven to nine maunds.

"The river is low for the time of the year, and the only thing that can save us is its keeping so, and our getting some fine weather and hot sun; but under the most favourable circumstances, I do not think it possible that any factory can do more this season than pay its outlay—a bumper season is out of the question."

The following is a statement of the indigo prospects in Purneah, June 20 :—

"The season commenced rather unfavourably. No rain had fallen from the beginning of October last to the time that the sowings commenced, consequently the planters were apprehensive that a good portion of the moisture of the lands would have been evaporated; but in this idea they are mistaken: the easterly winds, which have blown almost without intermission since that time, caused the lands to remain sufficiently moist to effect a pretty fair vegetation of the seed. The prospects were good up to the middle of April, when the effects of a six months' drought began to be felt. The sky looked very rainy at times, and the appearance of distant lightning nearly every night, indicated that some more fortunate districts were refreshed with golden showers. The plant suffered very much in April from the want of rain; it became checked in its growth, and on the clay soils showed symptoms of morea (a native expression used for the plant when its tips are curled up, and yellow by the heat, whilst the lower leaves become blackish); when the plant is in this state it never recovers, but remains in the same state until its time arrives for returning to mother earth.

"The planters to the north of the station were more fortunate than those to the south in having had several nice falls of rain in April. The first shower which fell to the south was on the 5th of May, which was quite in time to save the crop, and to enable those who had not completed their sowings to do so; it rained again on the night of the 6th, which was unfavourable, for it caked the soil on the seed sown that day; it rained again on the 8th, and caked the sowings of the 7th.

"We experienced hot sun during the middle of May, which was favourable for the spring sowings, and unfavourable for the May sowings. It rained again on the 31st of May, which was all right. It rained again on the 1st of June, which was all right also, and quite sufficient; but from the 2nd to the 5th inclusive it rained incessantly, and it has been raining almost daily since. We have only had two days of sunshine in this month. I calculate that at least one-eighth of the crop of the district was swamped between the 2nd and 5th, and about three-eighths has turned yellow and sickly since. Nearly all the factories have been at work sooner than was intended, but the produce from such unhealthy plants as I have described is miserable. The three rivers which run through the district, viz., the Great Kosee, Little Kosee and Punar are full; the two Kosees have already done great injury, and are still rising. The Punar is banded out, and all the hopes of those who are affected by that river depend on these bunds. Under the most favourable circumstances, Purneah cannot make more than 3,000 or 3,500 maunds; and if the weather does not improve, and the rivers recede, even this low estimate must be reduced."—Englishman.

THE IRON DISTRICTS OF INDIA—BEERBHOOM.

There is iron in Beerbhoom, not only in the ground, but dug out, manufactured, and sold as far as Moorsheadabad on the one side, and Deoghur on the other. The district is nearer to the line of railway than any of those hitherto examined, and the communication with the Ganges or the Grand Trunk Road is not a matter of unusual difficulty. The production too, under native management, is enough to justify the belief, that the mines, if worked upon the Swedish system, would afford a large and permanent supply.

At present it reaches.

Village.	Furnaces.	Mds. of cutcha iron.	Mds. pukkah.
Dahoocha . . .	22	24,288	17,688
Dewangunge . .	4	4,416	3,216
Gunpore . . .	12	13,248	9,648
Bareekotah . .	1	1,104	804
Damrah . . .	4	4,416	3,215
	43	47,472	34,571

To this must be added the produce of the villages scattered through the jungles from Nugore to Deoghur, estimated at 20,000 maunds of raw, or 16,000 maunds of prepared iron. It is sold at the furnace for Rs. 1-12 a maund, or 4l. 18s. per ton, and at Moorsheadabad, at prices varying from Rs. 2-4 to Rs. 2-8 per maund. In this one district, therefore, easily accessible from Calcutta, and by the use of the native methods alone, 2,000 tons of good iron a year may be obtained at a reasonable price. That amount would be of little value either to India or the railway, but it requires only an expenditure of capital to be indefinitely increased.—Friend of India.

FURLOUGH FOR THE UNCOVENANTED.

The Court of Directors has recently remodelled the furlough rules for both branches of their covenanted service. It remains to create furlough rules for those who do not possess the advantage of a covenant. We are happy to believe that the abolition of the Act of Parliament, which prohibited the departure of any officer from India without quitting his appointment, will enable the Court to frame regulations for this purpose, in accordance with a policy more liberal than has been heretofore pursued. Their decision, however, should be made speedily, for the question in its present state is a nuisance alike to Government and its servants. By the theory of the Indian Administration, every uncovenanted servant is, or ought to be, a native. He is therefore at home, and has no more actual necessity for a furlough than a clerk in Somerset House or St. Martin's le Grand. The theory, however, which was never strictly correct, is now utterly at variance with the facts. Englishmen in large numbers have entered the uncovenanted service, and are among the most efficient agents of the Government. Born and educated in Europe, and subject to all the evils incident to a foreign climate, they feel the absolute refusal of a furlough as a bitter injustice. Moreover, with the progress of the empire, and the introduction of more liberal principles of administration, a separate class has been created, which occupies a position totally distinct from the mass of the uncovenanted servants. Law appointments and civil offices, scientific situations and places in the educational department, are filled by men who, enjoying the same education with civilians, are subject to the same disqualifications as the Portuguese clerks, who being in Government offices consider themselves part of the uncovenanted service. If their health requires that they should proceed to Europe, they must throw up their appointments. They may have worked hard and successfully for years, but the Government can make no allowance for that long period of service. They may be possessed of such peculiar qualifications, that their superiors would consent to any inconvenience rather than injure the state by the deprivation of their services, but the Government is as powerless as the officers themselves. The law forbids any uncovenanted servant to leave India. The system forbids the grants of a subsistence allowance, and the unfortunate officer must either remain and die in harness, or depart to subsist as he best can upon his savings, content with a personal promise of restoration on his return.

We do not intend to assert that this system is unjust. We submit only that it is inexpedient. We have a strong sympathy for the indignant feeling which induces many uncovenanted servants to demand these concessions as a right, but we are none the less sensible that the argument cannot be maintained. No man has, or can have, any right to anything beyond the terms of his contract. If he bargains for a penny, he has a right to a penny, and to no more. The only question—setting natural kindness aside—is, whether it may not be advantageous for an employer to offer advantages beyond the bare day's wages, whether, in short, good service at a high rate, is not cheaper than inferior service at diminished cost. This is the principle which induces most of the civilized governments of the world to offer pensions to their servants. Governments never die, and it is therefore cheaper to postpone a portion of the reward of labour, than to pay down the sum which would attract the same men without the pension. And it is on this principle that we advocate the concession of liberal terms of furlough to uncovenanted servants. It is true the servant may obtain a great benefit which was not in the bond, but the master will obtain better service for the present, and better servants for the future. The additional health, knowledge, and energy gained by the covenanted judge in his two years' residence at home, would be gained also by the European principal sudder ameen. The mildew of a prolonged Indian residence gathers alike on the civilian and the uncovenanted, on the porcelain and the clay, and requires in either case to be carefully rubbed off, if the article is to be of farther service. The knowledge that such a furlough would be among their privileges, would attract men into Government employ who now prefer work which is heavier and worse paid, simply because it leaves them the hope of again reaching England. Twelve months' furlough on half-pay up to a certain limit would benefit the Company as much as those who have so long been irritated by the refusal of the boon.

With respect to natives, the case is somewhat more complicated. They are at home, and failing health can scarcely be pleaded as an excuse for removing to a climate identically the same, but fifty or a hundred miles away. It is questionable, also, whether a native judge would gain much additional energy or zeal from lying asleep for six months in his own house, the manner in which the majority of them would probably employ their holiday. At all events, the question rests upon ground very different from that occupied by the Europeans, and may wait until stirred by the native community themselves.—Friend of India.

CALCUTTA versus SIMLA.

With the appointment of a new Commander-in-Chief in India, a modification of existing arrangements will, we believe, come into operation, which is not likely to prove acceptable to the parties affected by it, or beneficial to the interests of the state. We allude to the establishment of army head-quarters at the presidency, instead of in the Upper Provinces, where, with a few temporary exceptions, they have been located for the greater portion of the last half century. The new order, of course, emanates from home, where it is considered that as the Commander-in-Chief draws council pay, he should be made to perform council duties. This narrow view of the case we look upon as illiberal in principle, and likely to prove bad economy in practice. That the Commander-in-Chief of the whole royal army in India and of the Company's troops in the Bengal presidency, should have a voice at the council board on military and political questions is natural and just, but it does not follow from this that he should always be present at the seat of Government. The real object should be rather to secure his recorded and responsible opinions on particular and important occasions, than to entail a forced attendance to the thousand minor details that may come before the Council for decision. On the contrary, the latter course is far from desirable, since it must of necessity interfere with the due and efficient performance of his more legitimate duties as chief of so large, so mixed, and so widely scattered a command.

Important as may be the opinion of the military head on the great questions of a campaign, there is little that could not be communicated in a letter as well as in a Council minute. Even granting that advantages might occasionally accrue from the adoption of the latter course of procedure, they would be dearly purchased by the practical and permanent severance of the Commander-in-Chief, and the general staff, from the bulk of the army. The force in Bengal, including Behar, the eastern frontiers, and Pegu, for all of which Calcutta might be considered as a suitable centre of command, constitutes but a small fraction of the total force under the Commander-in-Chief's control.

Beyond these limits, exclusive of five-sixths of the royal infantry scattered over Hindoostan, there will be found from Allahabad upwards the whole of the regular cavalry, European and native, nine-tenths of the irregular cavalry, about four-fifths of the native infantry, together with the head-quarters, and nearly four-fifths of the artillery, including the whole of the horse artillery and the sappers. Of this force, the larger portion is stationed on or beyond the Sutlej. Surely then the proper locality for the head of this force is in the North-West Provinces, from some central point of which he can periodically visit the more important frontier and division stations, and annually pass one-half of the force under his personal inspection.

For meeting all these requirements there can be few localities better situated than Simla, where in a cool and bracing climate the bodily and mental constitution is likely to be maintained in a more efficient working condition, than under the enervating and wearing influence of the hot winds of the plains. As a general rule we consider that there should be no fixed head-quarters, but that the Commander-in-Chief should be where his presence is most generally beneficial. Circumstances may arise which may render it desirable that he should occasionally visit the presidency, but on ordinary occasions his place is decidedly where the main body of the force under his command is stationed.

One objection to the system of past years is the expense entailed by the Commander-in-Chief's tours during the cold season. In this there may be some truth, but the remedy is a simple one;—let future visitations be conducted on a more economical scale. Time as well as money would be saved by the Commander-in-Chief relinquishing the slow progress of the stately camp and escort, and proceeding from station to station by dāk, with a portion of his staff. This, also, would enable him to extend the circle of annual inspection considerably, and permit a longer residence at each place of importance.

Lord Frederic Fitzclarence will, in all probability, be the next Commander-in-Chief; and as he is known to be equally desirous and capable of introducing beneficial reforms, it is most desirable that he should have a personal and practical acquaintance with the real condition and wants of all branches of the force under his command. This acquaintance can never be obtained by a permanent residence in Calcutta.—Friend of India.

SURVEY OF THE RAILWAY.

The Benares correspondent of the Indian Standard gives an account of the progress made in the survey of the railway line in the North-western Provinces, such as does not create any hope that the anticipations of the Friend of India will be realized, and locomotives be hurrying us along from Calcutta to Delhi by the expiration of 1857. We shall not be disappointed if the line is opened only to Rajmahal by that date, and another section from Allahabad upwards in working order. Above Allahabad, along the ridge of the Doab, it will be easy work; cuttings there will be none to speak of; the bridges will be few and far between, and of small dimensions, and the soil is eminently adapted for embankments; but below Allahabad it is quite another pair of boots. From Chunar to Mirzapore, and thence on to the banks of the Jumna, there is a long series of hills to be cut through or turned, numerous ravines to be crossed, one large river, the Tons, and smaller ones, which in the rains are roaring torrents, and the bridging of which has severely tasked the engineering skill of some of the most efficient of the Company's officers. From Rajmahal to Monghyr the country presents numerous engineering difficulties, which, we have no doubt, will all be surmounted in a masterly style; and beyond this comes the great work of the line, the bridging of the Soane; this, we question not, will also be effected, but at an enormous outlay, we fear.

We believe that there is no obstacle which will stop the progress of the English railway engineers, who possess skill and energy to construct a railway over a far more difficult country than that through which our Bengal line is to pass; but we feel convinced that the time required for the execution of the work will much exceed the calculations of the least sanguine among them, and we fear the cost of construction will be greater upon the Bengal portion of the line than is anticipated. From Allahabad upwards, where there is little water-carriage, and where the outlay per mile will be about one-third of that in the lower provinces, the returns from the rail will be proportionably so much larger, that we consider it would be very politic to open the section from Allahabad to Cawnpore with the least practicable delay, and above all, not to delay that measure until the intervening portion between Rajmahal and Allahabad is completed; for we apprehend that several years may elapse from the finishing of the first section in the Doab, before those through the northern part of Bengal, Behar, and the southern portion of Allahabad can be opened for traffic.—Hurkaru.

COLONEL CAUTLEY'S LAST REPORT.

On the 13th April, 1854, five days after the opening of the Ganges Canal, Colonel Cautley presented to Government his last report on that stupendous undertaking. The praise of the Governor-General stamped his character as an officer of Government; this report, it is said, confirms his reputation as an engineer. Our Indian enterprisers, official as well as private, are too apt to theorize, to indulge in paragraphs showing in well-rounded periods the vast benefits their projects will confer on the community, and to mix up that which may be, with that which is, in inextricable confusion. Of all these errors, Colonel Cautley has steered clear. The report was written in the very moment of his triumph, yet it is remarkable chiefly for the cold truthfulness of its scientific details, and its elaborate description of the minute flaws here and there discovered in the masonry. There is not a word of the fertility bestowed on millions of acres, of the dread of famine averted, or of the increase of revenue which will ultimately accrue. In short, the report is in direct contrast to a railway prospectus, an education minute, or Dr. Buist's plan for Indian irrigation. Of the great ceremonial of the 8th April, he speaks in the most ordinary terms:—"The anticipations which had been held out," he observes "in the 111th and 112th paras. of my inspection report of 1852-53 have been realized. Water was admitted in the canal channel from the head above Hurdwar on the 1st April, and allowed to pass off through the dam and sluices at Dhunouree, after passing through a course of thirteen miles. On the morning of the 8th April, water was passed over the Solani aqueduct in the presence of the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces."

The canal is complete; but in so vast a structure the flaws are neither few nor unimportant. They arise partly from immense masses of masonry resting on earth of unequal character, partly from a contraction of material in drying, and partly from the penetration of water through the soil, the brickwork, or the cement. Colonel Cautley observes, with respect to the parapet settlements on bridges—"Some are so exceedingly slight that they would by an inexperienced eye be disregarded;" and again, speaking of horizontal separations in the Solani aqueduct rivetments, he says, they "show themselves in mere hairs." Some more noticeable instances, at other points, were found after a long interval to have suffered no increase. The most scrupulous consideration is given to every fissure in the chief of all these great works, the aqueduct, which conveys the water of the Ganges over a bridge which spans the Solani river. The vast weight of this extensive and substantial structure, pressing on such a soil as the bed of a river, must have a settlement, productive of at least some rents in the unyielding mass. These were expected—they are stated as bare facts—and such and such are the scientific remedies. There is no shrinking in the man;—in all his statement, the engineer is as callous as his own bricks. Moreover, not content with pointing out these minute flaws, Colonel Cautley adds to the impressiveness of his warning by a general statement. "Since the water has been passing over the aqueduct proper, there has been not only moisture showing itself on the intrudes, but at some points dripping is observed. On the face of the elevation, and at a point between the abutment and pilaster of the wing-buildings, moisture shows itself externally. Moisture shows itself also in the interior of the wing-buildings, through the wall on the canal side. It strikes me that the application of asphalt may be found expedient eventually. I have in fact so arranged the floorings with regard to true bed-level (from which they are depressed nine inches), that asphalt, or any other material, can be applied hereafter. In the mean time, the action of the brickwork, as shown by the admission of water, will offer practical hints as to further remedies." All these expected deficiencies will speedily be remedied. We have not quoted them to prove that there are imperfections in the great canal, but to demonstrate how completely Colonel Cautley was devoid of the vanity occasionally attributed to him. Even when complete success afforded him an opportunity for a not ungraceful exultation, he is still the faithful servant of the public; he prefers remedying even minute defects, to claiming the honour to which he was so justly entitled; he is anxious rather for the permanence of his work, than for any present addition to his reputation. Calcutta refused to honour the most successful of Indian engineers; the Governor-General, in the eyes of the public, more than compensated for the absence of popular applause; but with thinking men Colonel Cautley's greatest honour is his own estimate of his own completed undertaking.—Friend of India.

DIVISIONAL AND BRIGADE COMMANDS.

Yesterday's Gazette contained an order relative to divisional and brigade commands, which will be anything but acceptable to elderly officers in weak health, or such as are fond of summering at hill-stations. The Governor-General, considering that circumstances have rendered it expedient that special attention should be drawn to the orders of the Court of Directors upon this subject, republishes the following paragraph of a home letter:—"No officer who is not fully qualified for the discharge of those duties should be selected for the command, or be continued in it if he become disabled by loss of health." We do not know what the circumstances to which Lord Dalhousie alludes may be, but within the last few years generals of division and brigadiers have been pretty frequently on sick leave, and we presume it is the intention of the Government to warn such, that they are liable to be relieved from duties which they are not capable of performing.

The officers of the Bengal army in command of divisions and even of brigades are men who have generally reached that period of life at which, in the best climates, man's energies have suffered considerable deterioration; and having been so many years subjected to the enervating effects of a tropical climate, and in many cases to the fatigues of active campaigning, it is hardly to be supposed that they possess that activity which men in such responsible situations ought to have.

We want younger men in positions of high command, from the general of division to the commander of a corps; and that we have them not is the fault of the system. It would be hard to shelve men because, owing to the slowness of promotion, they have become worn out in the service of their masters before reaching that position which entitles them to high command. An easy remedy might be found for the existing evil, which is the formation of a retired list; and we have no doubt that the officers of the army would be only too glad to contribute towards the support of such a list; in fact, though we consider the agitation of all other projects for retiring funds objectionable, because it tends to retard promotion, we should hail with satisfaction the publication of a scheme having for its object the removal from the effective list of all officers who have completed their tours of divisional commands.

We would go even further. In former days the period for which a divisional command was retainable was fixed at three years. This was increased to four, and subsequently to five years. We would fix the term hereafter both for divisions and brigades at three years, which is identical with that for which an admiral holds a command, and we believe is the period for which general officers of the British army retain theirs.

By this means younger men would, in a very few years, be available for all the most responsible and onerous military posts in India; and it would be no hardship to subject officers to a rule analogous to that which is about to be enforced with regard to civilians, who are hereafter to be compelled to retire upon the completion of thirty-five years' service, within which term no officer ever yet obtained a division, and few ever got command of a brigade. The youngest brigadier in the Indian armies is Brigadier Story, who came out in 1824; and we never remember an officer who obtained a brigade after so short a service.

The Court of Directors might object to a retired list on the score of expense, but we question if the outlay would be so great as apprehended; for if officers reached the higher grades at an earlier age, fewer would retire than now do in the rank of captain and major; and those who do retire in these grades have generally served long enough to be able to claim, in virtue of their length of service, a pension higher than that to which their rank entitles them. Two great advantages would be gained by the establishment of such a fund as we have hinted at,—promotion in the various branches of the service, and the several regiments of each branch would be greatly equalized, and in all we should have younger men in high positions, which would so much promote the efficiency of the service, that if the Court of Directors is wise, it will not be deterred from adopting so desirable a measure, even if it involves the expenditure of a few lakhs of rupees per annum, especially as savings are now being effected in several departments, which, we feel confident, will more than meet any additional outlay that the formation of a retired list upon the system we have suggested, might involve.—Hurkaru.

The LONDON MAIL of May 8th arrived at Calcutta, June 16th (per Hindustan).

SINGULAR LAW CASE.—The Englishman mentions a curious case now under trial in the Sudder Court. A wealthy zemindar of Midnapore, named Rudronarayan Singh, died. His estates were placed in the hands of the Court of Wards. An individual has now appeared, who declares that he is Rudronarayan Singh, and claims the property. He says he ran away to escape the cruelty of his stepmother. The two sisters of the deceased zemindar, and other relatives swear to his identity. The case is one of frequent recurrence, but always unsuccessful.

A CURIOUS FACT.—The Englishman, in a review of the annals of medical science, mentions the curious fact that an outbreak of the "mahamurree," or plague of Kumaon, is invariably preceded by a mortality among the rats. It would seem that the filth and effluvia which are the causes of this terrible disease, are too powerful even for these animals. They can live in a London sewer,—they perish in a Kumaon cottage.

POORER, JUNE 5.—The concourse of pilgrims at the shrine of Juggernath this year has been so great, and the demand for articles of consumption so high, that rice (boiled) is actually selling at five seers the rupee. This is a deplorable state of things, and ought not to be allowed to continue long, for if it does, the poorer classes of the pilgrims must perish by thousands. It is high time for the local authorities to interfere. Let supplies of rice be instantly imported, and let Government undertake this on their own account, if they wish to save these pilgrims from starving. It is heart-rending to see these infatuated indigent pilgrims go about from door to door begging for a handful of rice to satisfy their hunger, and hundreds weakened by want from food, are lying about the streets awaiting certain death.

KISHNAGHUR.—We extract the following from a Kishnaghur letter, dated June 16:—"Mr. Lillie, the magistrate, goes hence to Chittagong in four or five days, having been appointed officiating collector of that district, and Mr. Lawford, his assistant, will take charge of the magistracy. He is already performing the magistrate's duties, though he has not yet formally taken charge."

MR. H. B. SIMSON.—We have been given to understand that Mr. H. B. Simson, an unpassed civil servant, having exceeded the prescribed period of one year and three months allowed for qualifying himself for the public service by proficiency in two of the native languages, the Hon. the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has granted him a further period of six months for that purpose, but he has been warned by his Honour that if within this extended period he fails in qualifying himself, his name will be removed from the Bengal civil service list, and he will be required to return to England.

DR. O'SHAUGHNESSY, we are sorry to say, talks of vacating his post of superintendent of electric telegraphs in this country. Ill health, through over exertion, is said to be the cause.—Englishman.

SIR JOHN CHEAPE, K.C.B., has been transferred from the Pegu to the Cawnpore division.

MR. WYLIE.—The report that Mr. Wylie had been appointed secretary to the legislative council is incorrect.

CAPT. GREGG, the officer who, on the death of Capt. Young, temporarily officiated as brigade major of H.M.'s troops, Fort William, is to be retrenched to the amount of Rs. 6,000, money embezzled by a Serjeant Robinson employed as clerk in the brigade office.

THE RAILWAY.—A large concourse, representing all classes, chiefly natives, flocked to Howrah on the 29th June, to witness the incipient "snort" of the "iron-horse," which is destined, after a short interval, to annihilate time and space in this part of India. The locomotive itself, unencumbered by a "train," started early in the morning, and made a journey as far as Pandooah. It was expected back at one, but did not return till about three in the afternoon, those having the direction of the experiment stopping immediately for refreshments. We are told that the locomotive ran at a rate of nearly forty miles an hour, as it had nothing but its own weight to drag along. We understand that several of the public departments in the habit of forwarding stores to the upper provinces have been applied to by the directors of the railway company for a return of the number of persons and quantity of goods for which passages and freight have been engaged in private steamers during the year. We believe these returns have been asked for with a view to compare the comparative cost at what the same number of persons and quantity of freight could be conveyed by the railway. This looks as if the railway was really going to be opened some time or other, and that the only thing remaining to be done was the fixing of the rates of freight and passage. If, however, the rates charged by our inland steam navigation companies are to form the basis, the public will be disappointed in their expectations of cheap travelling, for it so happens that since the withdrawal of the Government boats, private companies had it all to themselves, and therefore the rates were far from being the cheapest.

NEW INSOLVENT ACT.—Sir Lawrence Peel's draft of a new Insolvent Act is ready, and will be submitted to the Legislative Council of India almost immediately. It is said that the new Act will entirely remove those anomalies which in the existing Act are very justly complained of.

LIEUTENANT ARCHIBALD PROCTER, 39TH N.I., is to be tried upon two charges of wilful murder, for shooting the two Burmese some months ago, on the ground of their being spies. —Hurkaru.

SECRETARY TO THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.—The appointment of secretary to the Legislative Council of India has been conferred upon Mr. Morgan, of the Calcutta bar, with a salary of 2,500 rupees per month. Mr. Cochrane is to succeed Mr. Morgan in the appointment of acting master of the Supreme Court during the absence of Mr. Macpherson.

GOVERNMENT CATTLE ESTABLISHMENTS.—The Gazette of June 21 contains the order for the reduction in the Government cattle establishments. By these new arrangements a saving of twelve lakhs of rupees per annum will be effected in the military expenditure.

THE WELLINGTON ENDOWMENT FUND.—An account of the subscriptions to the Wellington Endowment Fund has been published; from which it appears that the total number of subscribers is 1,356, being 1,211 European and 165 natives, whose contributions, including the collections at the Straits settlements, amounted to Rs. 1,39,306 13., of which Rs. 1,33,454 3. 2. have been paid, and Rs. 5,852 9. 11. remain outstanding. The royal army has contributed Rs. 30,714 12. 10., so that the total amount forthcoming from Bengal falls little short of Rs. 180,000.

ASSISTANT-SURGEON WIGSTROM, one of the officers engaged in the late fracas at the military club, the investigation of which has occupied so long a period, has, it is said, made himself scarce, and according to a contemporary is supposed to have left in the screw steamer Argo. —Hurkaru.

THE REVEREND W. KAY, principal of Bishop's College, is about to proceed to England: failing health is the cause.

A CARPET OF IVORY.—The Citizen informs us that among the curiosities to be transmitted from India to the great exhibition of 1855, in Paris, is a carpet of ivory. It is 20 feet long by 6 feet broad, and made of long strips of ivory plaited like the matting of our rooms. The price fixed upon it is 3000 rupees, and it may yet become the fashion. Such a carpet would be nearly indestructible, but we fear it will have the inconvenience which attends cocoanut matting—it will be slippery.

DELHI.—A most agreeable change has taken place in the weather. The periodical rains set in yesterday about half-past 12, noon, with a heavy shower and strong breeze from the N.E. Up to yesterday the heat had been very oppressive. —Delhi Gazette, June 14.

MR. A. FORBES.—The civil and sessions judge of Chittagong, Mr. A. Forbes, has sent in his application for permission to retire from the civil service.

THE BENGAL COAL COMPANY.—We understand that at the meeting of the shareholders of the Bengal Coal Company, which was held yesterday, the financial result of the operations of the past half year exhibited a clear profit of Rs. 1,07,516 15. 10, out of which a dividend of twelve per cent. per share per annum was declared. A proposition was brought forward which has been postponed for final decision at a special meeting to be called for the purpose, to the effect that an addition to the capital of the Company should be created by opening a few hundred new shares, the old shareholders, in consideration of the three lakhs of working capital contributed by them, benefitting under the new arrangement by being allowed an increase to the number of shares held by them in the proportion of one in four. —Hurkaru, June 22.

MR. MACLEOD WYLIE.—We much regret to learn that Mr. Macleod Wylie, the first judge of the court of small causes, continues in a very delicate state of health. We sincerely hope that we shall shortly be able to announce his convalescence, for should he be compelled to leave Calcutta for a change of air it might be difficult to find a locum tenens, who, by his knowledge of law, combined with great courtesy, would be so acceptable to the community at large; added to which Mr. Wylie's reputation for a conscientious discharge of his duties stand so high, that suitors, if we are rightly informed, are at times content to accept his decision, when, were another on the bench, they might possibly appeal to a higher tribunal. —Hurkaru, June 27.

MR. W. H. ELLIOTT.—From letters from Burdwan, we are sorry to learn that the health of our late chief magistrate, Mr. W. H. Elliott, and the officiating commissioner of revenue and circuit of that division, is so impaired, that he contemplates applying to Government for leave of absence on medical certificate.

ROGERS v. BLUETT.—Counsel for Captain Rogers have moved the Supreme Court for a rule for Mrs. Bluett to show cause why a criminal information should not issue against her for the slanderous imputations upon Mrs. Rogers, uttered by Mrs. Bluett while giving her evidence as a witness in the action for libel brought against her by Captain Rogers. The information was moved for against Mrs. Bluett as the publisher of a written libel, her evidence having been reduced to writing by the clerk of the papers, and afterwards signed by her according to the rule and practice of the Court. As the case was put in by Captain Rogers and his wife, Mrs. Rogers's female attendant and medical man denying fully and minutely the falsehoods deposed to by Mrs. Bluett. The Court refused the application on the ground that this was not a case calling for the extraordinary mode of redress by means of criminal information. Sir L. Peel in delivering judgment, said that the trial referred to of Rogers v. Bluett was fresh in the recollection of the Court, and it was in the opinion of the Court scarcely necessary, considering the style of the evidence given by Mrs. Bluett, to have taken the trouble of thus publicly coming forward to contradict the assertions then made by her in a way that could lead no person who heard them to give them any credit. But putting that point wholly out of consideration, it appeared to the Court very undesirable to extend the rules hitherto affecting applications for criminal informations, which were applications of an extraordinary kind. —Hurkaru.

RESIGNATION OF THE CHIEF JUSTICE.—We regret exceedingly to hear that Sir Lawrence Peel has, in consequence of failing health, tendered his resignation of the Chief Justiceship. Sir Lawrence's departure will be a serious loss, not only to Calcutta, but to India at large, for his great legal knowledge and truly liberal spirit would have rendered him invaluable as Vice President of the legislative Council. We hardly know how his loss is to be supplied. We are glad to be able to add that there is nothing alarming in the illness of Sir Lawrence, and that he is suffering chiefly from debility, brought on by long residence in India. —Hurkaru.

BABOO PROSONO COOMAR TAGORE has been appointed Deputy Clerk to the Legislative Council. The selection is, we consider, an admirable one, for in addition to the knowledge he must have of the feelings and wants of his countrymen, the Baboo has from his long practice as a leading pleader in the Sudder Court necessarily obtained an intimate acquaintance with the Mofussil laws and Company's regulations, which cannot but be of eminent service in the situation he has been chosen to fill. The salary of the new appointment is, we are told, to be Rs. 1,250 per mensem.

CROSSMAN v. WARREN.—We understand that Capt. Crossman, Superintendent of Bazaars at Barrackpore, has filed a plaint for libel in the Supreme Court against Col. Warren, late Brigadier of that station, on account of the article which appeared in the Chronicle of the 22nd of May, reflecting upon the conduct of the first-named officer in the discharge of his staff duties. —Hurkaru, June 17.

LORD DALHOUSIE, in determining the limits of the territorial rule of Lieut.-Governor of Bengal, has deemed it expedient to place the Tenasserim and Pegu Provinces directly under the Governor-General in Council.

GOVERNMENT GENERAL ORDERS. NEW SUB-DIVISION.

June 12, 1854.—The lieut.-governor of Bengal has been pleased to sanction the formation of a sub-division, composed of thanahs Gourunddee, Khutwalliparah, and Booreer Haut, in Zillah Backergunge, and thannah Sheebchur, in Zillah Furreedpore, with the head-quarters at Madareepore.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Fort William, June 13, 1854. No. 632 of 1854.—In amendment of the rules on the subject of travelling allowance to officers of the Department of Public Works, contained in General Order No. 113 of February 22, 1850, the Most Noble the Governor-General in Council is pleased to authorize the grant of travelling allowance at the rate of eight annas per mile to all executive and assistant executive officers, for all journeys performed in the execution of their public duties, subsequently to May 31, 1854, which require the officer to proceed to a distance of more than five miles from his place of residence.

2. The mileage will be passed on monthly journals showing the places visited, and the object and results of each journey, and bearing the approval of the superintending engineer.

3. This order is not applicable to the canal department, North-Western Provinces.

With reference to para. 24 of Government General Order, No. 430, of the 21st April last, the Most Noble the Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct, that the Arracan and Chittagong divisions, department of public works, shall be transferred from the control of the superintending engineer in Pegu to that of the superintending engineer of the 2nd circle under the Government of Bengal, under whom the new Arracan road is likewise placed, with the exception of the portion passing over the mountains, which will continue under the superintending engineer in Pegu.

BRIGADE COMMANDS.

Fort William, June 10, 1854.—Circumstances having occurred which render it expedient that the special attention should be drawn to the orders of the Hon. Court of Directors relative to divisional (and brigade) commands, the Most Noble the Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct the publication of the following extract from their letter to the governor of the presidency of Fort William in Bengal, No. 95 of 10th September, 1851, para. 7 viz:—"No officer who is not fully qualified for the discharge of those duties, should be selected for the command, or be continued in it if he become disabled by loss of health."

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ABERCROMBIE, R. to offic. as coll. of Morshedabad.
ANSON, E. H. 2nd asst. to agt. to gov. gen. to Central India at Indore, to be 1st asst. June 13.
BOILEAU, C. E. to exercise powers of jt. mag. and dep. coll. in zillah Budaon.
CAMPBELL, G. retd. to du. June 16, re-attached to N. W. Prov. and Punjab.
CHAPMAN, C. E. to be an asst. to the mag. and the coll. of Bhagulpore, June 15.
DALRYMPLE, F. A. E. to be mag. of Howrah, fr. June 15, but cont. to off. as coll. of Dinagepore, June 20.
FORBES, F. C. transf. fr. Mynpoory to Etawah, June 14, vested with powers of jt. mag. in district of Etawah.
GRANT, D. to be an asst. to mag. and coll. of Banda, to exercise special powers.
HAMPTON, G. B. v. est. with pow. of a dep. coll. in the distr. of Hooghly and Nuddea, June 21.
HOGG, F. F. to be an asst. in district of Etah.
MORGAN, W. to be clerk, of the legislative council.
MUSPRATT, H. to offic. as coll. of Beerbhoom.
NICOLSON, D. G. asst. com. rec. ch. of duties of prin. asst. com. office and treasury of Tenasserim and Martaban provinces on dept. of Capt Tickell to Amherst.
PHILLIPPS, A. L. M. to be an asst. in the Meerut div. June 3.
TAYLOR, S. H. C. to be an asst. to mag. and coll. of Burdwan.
WIGRAM, F. S. to exercise powers of jt. mag. and dept. coll. in zillah Muttra.
WIGRAM, R. J. to be an asst. to mag. of Howrah.
WYATT, T. res. serv. of E.I.C. June 10.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT DATE SPECIFIED.

WEBSTER, H. B. June 17.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

BLUNT, W. 1 mo.
CROMMELIN, A. G. 3 mo.
GRANT, W. C. 1 mo.
LEWIS, J. M. 1 mo.
MORRIS, G. G. 1 mo.
SANDEMAN, H. D. 2 mo. fr. Aug. 1, prep. to proc. to Europe on furl.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

GAWEN, Rev. J. serv. pl. at disp. of the Gov. of India, June 16, to be chap. of Promer fr. April 15, v. Wells, app. canc. June 23.
HILL, Rev. S. J. to be a marriage registrar in the dist. of Moorshedabad, June 13.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

ALLEN, Ens. A. B. to do duty with 37th N.I. at Barrackpore.
BAKER, Capt. F. M. 65th N.I. has furnished certificates of qualification as surveyor and engineer.
BIRCH, Ens. F. M. to do duty with 33rd N.I. at Barrackpore.
CAVENAGH, Brev. maj. O. 32nd N.I. supt. of affairs of the Mysore princes, to be town and fort maj. of Fort William, and ex officio supt. of govt. cadets, v. Brown, June 27.
CHALMERS, Ens. W. G. to do duty with 10th N.I. at Benares.
CHEAPE, Brig. gen. Sir J. K.C.B. fr. Pegu to Cawnpore div. June 9.
COLE, Lieut. A. N. 10th N.I. to be brev. capt. fr. June 12.
D'AGUILAR, Lieut. G. interp. and gr. mr. 4th N.I. to perf. du. of adjt. dur. m. c. of Aikman.
DAVIES, Capt. F. J. 58th N.I. services pl. at disp. of foreign dept. June 27.
DAWSON, Lieut. J. 1st N.I. to continue to act as 2nd in command Arracan batt.
DE BOURBEL, Lieut. R. exec. eng. Damoodah div. in the dist. of Burdwan, is vested with powers of a jt. mag. in the dist. June 13.
EDEN, Capt. W. F. 1st assist. to agt. to gov. gen. for Central India at Indore, to be pol. agt. at Bhopal, June 13.
FAGAN, Ens. H. to do duty with 42nd L.I. at Benares.
FAGAN, Lieut. C. S. 2nd in com. 1st inf. Hyderabad cont. to act as adjt.
GERMON, Lient. R. C. 13th N.I. to be brev. capt. fr. June 12.
GORDON, Lieut. A. C. to be a dept. comm. of 3rd class in Saugor and Nerbudda territories.
GRAYDON, Lieut. W. 16th N.I. to be brev. capt. from June 12.
HALL, Lieut. G. W. M. 2nd in com. 4th irr. cav., to rec. ch. of station st. off. fr. Hilliard.
HAMILTON, Lieut. T. C. to cont. to act as adjt. to Arracan batt.
HARDINGE, Lieut. G. N. 2nd in com. of guide corps, to offic. as adjt. Punjab irr. force.
HASTINGS, Lieut. Hon. E. P. R. H. 32nd N.I. to be brev. capt. fr. June 15.
HAWES, Lieut. B. asst. commis. Saugor and Nerbudda territories, to offic. with the full powers of a mag. as dep. commis. in charge of Seonee, subject to the result of the examination to be held in Oct. next.
HEATH, Lieut. A. H. art. to offic. as exec. offr. Sealcote div. dur. abs. of Lieut. J. H. Maxwell.
HOGGAN, Unposted Ens. G. H. W. to do duty with 19th N.I. at Lucknow.
HUNTER, Lieut. A. 25th N.I. to be brev. capt. fr. June 11.
HUTHWAITE, Lieut. col. comdt. E. c. b. horse art. perm. to draw his pay and allowances fr. Meerut circle of payment.
INNES, Lieut. P. R. 1st Eur. fus. to be capt. of a comp. fr. May 10, v. Combe, ret.
JACOB, Ens. H. J. C. to do duty with 45th N.I. at Bareilly.
JENKINS, Lieut. R. assist. to govt. genl.'s agt. in Rajpootana, to be 2nd assist. to agt. to the govt. gen. for Central India, at Indore, June 13.
JOHNSTONE, Lieut. H. C. 5th N.I. has furnished certificates of qualification as surveyor and engineer.
KEMP, Ens. G. T. to do du. with 42nd L.I. at Benares.
KEYES, Lieut. C. P. 2nd in com. 1st regt. Punjab inf. to offic. as adj. on dept. of Travers.
LIND, Lieut. J. B. to offic. as 2nd in com. 5th Punjab inf. v. Williamson.
MACFARLANE, Lieut. C. 1st Eur. fus. to be 1st lieut. fr. May 10, v. Combe, ret.
MACHELL, Lieut. L. art. to offic. as com. of No. 4, or gar. comp. Dera Ishmael Khan, and commis. of ord. dur. abs. of Mackinnon.
MACPHERSON, Capt. T. C. pol. agent at Bhopal, to be pol. agent at Gwalior.
MACQUEEN, Lieut. A. 42nd L.I. to be brev. capt. fr. June 18.
MAISTER, Lieut. G. art. to offic. for Mecham as a.d.-c. to the Gov. Gen. dur. his abs. on duty.
MALCOLM, Major D. A. rec. ch. of off. of res. at Baroda, fr. Col. Outram, May 30.
MARTIN, Lieut. C. 1st L.C. to off. as adj. and gr. mr. to Gov. Gen.'s body guard, and to act as 2nd in com. June 21.
MARSHALL, Lient. W. E. 48th N.I. is permitted to study at the Thomason College of Civil Engineering at Roorkee until Nov. 1

M'QUEEN, Unposted Ensign J. W. to do duty with head qu. wing of 41st N.I. at Etawah, instead of at Mynpoorie, as previously notified.

MEEHAM, Lieut. R. art. to com. of No. 2 comp. horse lt. field batt. Asnee, v. Stokes, dec.

MERRICK, Lieut. T. C. 3rd N.I. dep. superint. Ganges canal, to remain in that situation.

MOFFAT, Capt. A. R. 58th N.I. to offic. as exec. off. 2nd div. Lahore and Peshawur-road, as a temp. arrangement.

MONEY, Capt. J. art. to act as adj. to left wing 4th batt. art. v. Turnbull, ret. to Peshawur.

MORTON, 1st Lieut. W. E. eng. to be brev. capt. fr. June 11.

NEWMARCH, Ens. H. F. 24th N.I. to be lieut. fr. June 12, v. Howard, dec.

NICOLL, Capt. H. 50th N.I. acting brigade major at Cawnpore, to be a major of brigade on the estab. v. Monteath, res. June 27.

OAKES, Ens. R. E. 52nd N.I. to be lieut. fr. June 1, v. Smith, dec.

OSBORNE, Lieut. H. R. 55th N.I. has passed the exam. in field engineering.

PALMER, Capt. C. O'B. to rank from March 20, v. Williamson, res.

PHILLIPS, Capt. J. C. 3rd Eur. reg. to rejoin as 2nd in com. 18th irr. cav. June 9.

PROBYN, Lieut. D. M. to act as 2nd in com. 2nd Punjab cav. dur. abs. of Nicholson; to be adj. to 2nd regt. Punjab cav. fr. Aug. 5, 1852, v. Couper.

ROBERTS, Lieut. C. J. 43rd L.I. to be brev. capt. fr. June 12.

ROSS, Lieut. E. D. R. 3rd Eur. reg. to rejoin as adjt. 17th irr. cav. June 9.

ROW, Lieut. W. S. exec. off. Adjie div. in the district of Burdwan, vested with powers of a jt. mag. in the dist. June 13.

SHARP, Capt. J. N. engs. appt. to offic. as civ. architect and gar. engr. Fort William, cano.

SHORT, Lieut. W. D. A. R. engr. to be exec. engr. in Midnapore and Culmejole div. dept. public works, v. Rigby, transf.

SMITH, Lieut. col. L. H. inv. estab. perm. to reside at Umballah, and draw his pay and allowances fr. Sirhind circle of payment.

SNOW, Lieut. T. R. 9th L.C. to be lieut. fr. June 18.

STAPLES, Lieut. T. 58th N.I. to proc. to Sulhead, in Hazarah, and rec. temp. ch. of 7th comp. sep. and min. fr. Lieut. G. C. Rowcroft.

SWAYNE, Lieut. J. D. exec. off. north Hidgellie div. in the dist. of Midnapore, is vested with power of jt. mag. in that district.

THOMAS, Lieut. E. 3rd Eur. regt. to be brev. capt. fr. June 12.

TURNER, Lieut. F. M'T. adj. to guide corps, to offic. as 2nd in com. 5th cav. Punjab irreg. force.

TWYNAM, Ens. E. J. L. 25th N.I. to be lieut. fr. May 7, v. Munro, dec.

TYTLER, Capt. J. N. B. F. 9th irr. cav. to assu. temp. ch. of adj.'s off. du. abs. of Fenwick.

WHEELER, Ens. F. to do duty with 50th N.I. at Benares.

WILLIAMSON, Capt. J. 1st Eur. Fus. res. serv. of E.I.C. March 20.

WILLIAMSON, Lieut. J. 2nd in com. 5th Punjab inf. to offic. as maj. of brig. v. Jones.

WILLUGHBY, 1st Lieut. G. D. art. to perform duties of adj. to art. div. at Promie.

WOOD, Lieut. H. dep. commr. of 2nd class in the Saugor and Nerbudda Territories, to ass. ch. of the Dumoh dist.

WREN, Cornet F. S. M. to do duty with 1st L.C. at Cawnpore.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT THE DATES SPECIFIED.

CAVALRY.
BARLOW, M. June 17.
INFANTRY.
GORDON, H. W. June.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ANDERSON, Ens. A. M. 38th N.I. 18 mo. m. c. old reg.

ARMSTRONG, Lieut. C. 14th N.I. 3 yrs. to Europe, m.c. old reg.

BOILEAU, Ens. T. B. fr. April 30 to May 21, in ext. and to enable him to rejoin.

BRODIE, Lieut. C. G. 25th N.I. 3 yrs. m.c. new reg.

CHESTER, Ens. S. D. E. W. fr. June 1 to Oct. 15, to Simla.

CUMBERLAND, Capt. W. inv. estab. 18 mo. to Europe, m.c.

DARLING, Lieut. P. 24th N.I. 3 mo. fr. July 15, to Cashmere, old reg.

DELANE, Lieut. G. 6th L.C. 6 mo.

DEPREE, Lieut. G. C. art. 6 mo. to Neilgherries, m.c. old reg.

EAGAR, Lieut. F. J. 25th N.I. 3 yrs to Europe.

FINNIS, Lieut. col. fr. March 26, to —, to rem. at Benares until arrival of his corps.

FRASER, Lieut. col. engs. 18 mo. to Europe, new reg.

GRANT, Lieut. B. D. 35th L.I. 6 mo. fr. May 20, to Simla, on m.c. old reg.

GRANT, 1st Lieut. J. H. art. fr. 24th May to Oct. 10, to Simla, on m.c. old reg.

HAIG, Lieut. A. S. 55th N.I. 3 yrs. to Europe, m.c. old reg.

HAND, Ens. T. M. 51st N.I. 4 mo. fr. June 15, to Cashmere, old reg.

HASELL, Capt. C. 48th N.I. leave cancelled.

HICKEY, Lieut. R. J. F. 1st Eur. fus. to Jan. 1855, Mauritius, m.c. old reg.

INNES, Capt. J. C. 61st N.I. June 1 to Nov. 30, to Meerut and Simla, on m.c. old reg.

JACKSON, 2nd Lieut. H. D. art. 3 yrs. to Eur. on furl. old reg.

JENKINS, Lieut. H. G. 10th L.C. 6 mo. fr. April 15, to Cashmere and Meerut, old reg.

KENNEDY, Lieut. col. J. D. 5th N.I. fr. May 8 to July 8, to Simal, old rules.

MACKENZIE, Brev. maj. A. h.a. 6 mo. fr. May 20, to Simla, on m.c. old reg.

MANDERSON, Cornet W. J. 2nd L.C. fr. May 28 to Oct. 15, to Simla and hills north of Deyrah, on m.c. old reg.

MARSDEN, Brev. maj. F. C. 29th N.I. 6 mo. furl. to Europe, new reg.

MAXWELL, Lieut. J. H. engs. May 20 to Nov. 19, new reg. to Cashmere.

MCCAUSLAND, Lieut. col. J. K. 50th N.I. fr. June 1 to Nov. 30, to Simla, on m.c.

PERKINS, 2nd Lieut. A. engs. 6 mo. fr. May 16, to Mussoorie and hills north of Deyrah, on m.c.

PIERSON, Ens. W. S. 54th N.I. fr. June 1 to Oct. 15, to Nowgong, old reg.

POULET, Ens. J. 17th N.I. March 1 to Nov. 20, to Simla and Ninee Tal, on m.c. old reg.

SIMPSON, Capt. T. 15 days.

WEBSTER, Lieut. R. F. 3rd Eur. regt. 2 mo. fr. May 20, to pres. and 3 yrs. to Eur. old reg.

WEIFORD, 1st Lieut. C. R. 1st fus. May 6 to Oct. 15, to rem. at pres. old reg.

MEDICAL.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

BEALE, Surg. A. to rank fr. Dec. v. Inglis, ret.

BOWHILL, Asst. surg. J. to be surg. fr. May 16, v. Gerrard, dec.

BROUGHAM, Surg. J. P. M.D. to rank fr. Jan. 20, v. Cumberland, ret.

CHEYNE, Surg. G. M. 42nd L.I. to med. ch. of a detach. of 67th N.I. at Benares.

ELDERTON, Surg. C. A. fr. 4th to 15th N.I. at Peshawur; to rank fr. Dec. 31, v. Grierson, ret.

FOGARTY, Surg. G. T. C. to rank fr. Dec. 1, for the augmentation.

GRANT, Surg. G. to rank fr. March 31, v. Chapman, ret.

HEMING, Sub-asst. surg. R. G. W. att. to civ. stat. of Etah, prom. fr. 2nd to 1st cl. of sub-asst. surgs. May 31.

MACPHERSON, Surg. J. M.D. posted to 12th N.I. in Dec. appt. cano. June 9.

PHILIPS, Vet. surg. J. posted to 3rd L.C. v. Parry, June 9.

NAISMITH, Surg. J. M.D. to rank fr. March 1, v. Wood, ret.

SHURLOCK, Surg. W. to rank fr. Nov. 15, 1853, for 3rd Eur. reg.

TIERNEY, Asst. surg. J. F. to join and do duty with H.M.'s 10th foot.

WELLS, Surg. W. W. to rank March 26, v. Davidson, ret.

ADMITTED TO THE SERVICE.—ARRIVED AT THE DATES SPECIFIED.

DELPRATT, S. June 17. SUTHERLAND, P. W. June 17.
MORGAN, R. B. June 12. YOUNG, A. June 5.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ROLLAND, Dr. P. 6 mo. fr. May 1, on m.c.

HER MAJESTY'S FORCES IN THE EAST.

STAFF.

Dep. inspect. gen. Whyte, assu. ch. of off. on June 8; Capt. G. Horne, 12th Lancers, to be a.d.-c. to Brig. gen. Macleod, com. ceded districts.

CAVALRY.

12th Lt. Drags. (Cornet E. Brown to be lieut.; Cornet A. Fletcher to be lieut.—14th Lt. Drags. Capt. A. Scudamore to be maj. Lieut. Need to be capt. and Cornet Gowan to be lieut. fr. June 1, in succ. to Goddard, dec.; Lieut. H. E. Reader to be capt. v. Chambers, ret.; Lieut. Clements passed colloq. exam.

INFANTRY.

8th. Lieut. A. R. Bayly, passed exam. for surveyor.—10th. Lieut. T. C. Robertson, to May 31, in ext.—22nd. Capt. W. H. Poulet, May 29 to Oct. 31, to Murree, on m.c.; Lieut. G. P. E. Morreson, to be an assist. in civ. eng. dep. in the Punjab.—29th. Lieut. V. Tonnochy, to be dep. superint. of the West Jumna Canal fr. March 21.—43rd. Lieut. L. Graham, Sept. 23 to March 25, in ext. to rem. in Eng.—52nd. Capt. the Hon. E. G. Curzon, 1 mo. fr. May 22, to Simla.—60th. Lieut. J. P. Battersby, pl. at disp. of for. dep. for empl. on roads to New Sanatorium in the Chumba hills.—74th. Capt. W. W. J. Bruce, to Nov. 19, in ext. to rem. in England; Lieut. H. Y. Stonehouse, perm. to retire.—78th. Surg. Webster, to resume med. ch.; Ens. Finlay, 2 yrs. to Eng.—96th. Ens. J. B. Kirk, 5 mo. fr. May 21, to Darjeeling.

DOMESTIC.

BIRTHS.

BOILEAU, wife of Lieut. T. T. 7th L.C. d. at Julundhur, June 19.
CANTER, wife of Capt. 2nd in com. 5th regt. Scindiah's contingent, d. at Gwalior, June 12.

CHAMBERS, wife of Capt. W. F. 75th F. d. at Peshawur, June 16.
 COURT, wife of M. H. d. at Cawnpore, June 16.
 CRAGG, wife of W. d. still born, at Calcutta, June 13.
 DANE, wife of R. surg. of 29th foot, s. at Moulmein, May 21.
 DEERHOLTS, wife of R. of the Bengal off. s. at Calcutta, June 21.
 FERRIS, Mrs. W. d. at Gokoolgunge, June 10.
 FORBES, wife of Conductor J. s. at Dum Dum, June 25.
 GILMORE, wife of M. S. c.s. d. at Poorsee, June 7.
 GRANT, wife of Hon. J. P. c.s. still-born child, June 16.
 INGRAM, wife of M. L. s. at Calcutta, June 14.
 KRUKLEBERG, wife of Rev. C. s. at Chapra, May 25.
 LACROIX, wife of E. H. d. at Calcutta, June 27.
 LASCHELLES, wife of Rev. H. H. chaplain, twin s. at Saugor, June 1.
 LAWRENCE, wife of J. c.s. s. at Murree, May 27.
 LUDLAM, wife of A. L. s. at Nynee Tal, June 2.
 MARTINDALE, wife of G. R. d. at Calcutta, June 18.
 MEREWETHER, wife of W. L. Sindie horse, d. at Shikarpore, June 12.
 MORAN, wife of W. d. at Calcutta, June 14.
 NICHOLSON, wife of Lieut. A. L. 64th N.I. d. at Lahore, June 3.
 RICKETTS, wife of H. A. s. at Doaba factory, June 3.
 ROBERTS, wife of F. M. s. at Dum Dum, June 15.
 SWIFT, wife of B. 87th foot, d. at Penang, May 15.
 WILLIS, Mrs. A. J. d. at Calcutta, June 14.
 YOUNGERMAN, wife of Capt. brig Dido, d. at Calcutta, June 6.

MARRIAGES.

BOISRAGON, Lieut. T. W. R. 69th N.I. to Margaret, d. of Maj. J. G. Gerrard, 1st Bengal fus. at Mussorie, June 3.
 BROWN, J. overseer canal dept. to relict of the late band master, J. Dunn, 31st N.I. at Julundhur, May 11.
 GILMORE, Capt. H. C. inv. estab. to the widow of P. A. Johnson, late of Manchester, at Caumnpore, June 12.
 GORDALL, H. B. to Mary, d. of J. Ede, unconv. asst. to civ. aud. N.W. Provs. at Agra, May 19.
 LEWIS, Capt. H. master attendant of Rangoon, to Catherine, eld. d. of the late J. Norton, of Littleonn Hall, Staffordshire, at Calcutta, June 13.
 ROACH, J. H. to Mary, d. of J. Cordozo, of H.M.'s pension estab. at Gowhatty.
 SLOAN, W. to Laura, d. of A. Vanderputt, at Ichapoor, May 22.
 STEEL, Lieut. J. A. 17th N.I. to Laura, youngest d. of Brig. E. Gwatkin, at Mussorie, June 13.
 WILLIAMS, Lieut. L. H. 6th N.I. to Emma, youngest d. of the late T. Jones, of Clower, at Ohmnpore, June 6.

DEATHS.

BELETY, T. S. asst. foreign dept. Govt. of India, aged 34, at Calcutta, June 26.
 CAVANAGH, H. banker, at Cawnpore, June 2.
 COCKBURN, R. s. of M. D. late c.s. of dysentery, at Luz, June 3.
 CRAGG, wife of W. at Calcutta, June 14.
 DAVISON, W. of Kussowlie, at Simla, June 12.
 DADD, W. aged 57, at Allahabad, June 2.
 FORBES, inf. s. of Mrs. at Dum Dum, June 18.
 FRANCIS, Emma, inf. d. of Capt. engr. at Jakatala, May 27.
 GRIFFITHS, Mrs. T. at Agra, June 9.
 GUEST, J. A. at Meerut, May 30.
 HARWARD, s. of T. H. C. at Cawnpore, June 11.
 HOWARD, Lieut. J. J. E. 24th N.I. aged 26, at Wuzerabad, June 12.
 LOGAN, G. 1st asst. G. T. survey of India, at Mussorie, June 10.
 MERCADO, A. at Chandernagore, June 16.
 MOORE, J. band master 49th N.I. at Phillour.
 NEWMAN, Eliz. inf. d. of James, accountant, at Kuddapah, May 21.
 NOTT, inf. s. of Lieut. R. M. 64th N.I. at Lahore, May 31.
 OGLE, inf. d. of M. at the convent, Hirdhanna, June 12.
 ONSLOW, inf. d. of Maj. W. C. at sea, on board the Bengal, May 8.
 REID, inf. s. of Capt. C. Sermoor batt. at Binsur, Almorah, June 9.
 SAUNDER, inf. child of J. at Calcutta, June 25.
 SMITH, F. W. Electric Telegraph Office, Kedgeroe station, at Calcutta, June 15.
 WILSEY, inf. d. of Serj. E. art. at Meerut, June 10.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

JUNE 16.—Hydrabad, Castle, Adelaide; Cambrone, Youbert, Bourbon.
 —17. Steamer Hindostan, Tronson, Suez, Aden, Galle, and Madras; Paou Shun, Bart, Hong-Kong and Singapore; Meridian, Thibant, Bourbon; Mary Anne, Kinsey, put back from Thornhills Channel.—18. Old England, Pearce, put back Jenky in the ship's upper work; Martaban, Brown, Melbourne and Batavia; Westward Ho, Hussy, California.—19. Superior, Caubery, Melbourne, Batavia and Singapore; Meridian, Theband, Bourbon.—22. Maha Rance, Carr, Liverpool; Parthenon, Baker, Boston and San Francisco.—23. Ereneste, Allenes, Pondomorka.—24. Steamer Fire Queen, Burbank, Chittagong; Thos. Mitchell, Paul, London; William Carey, Emmet, Liverpool; Aga Backur, Barnett, Rangoon; Paragon, Murch, Maulmein; Lismoine, King, Madras; Rose, Punjab, Bourbon.—

25. Steamer Propontis, Maynard, Southampton, St. Vincent, Ascension St. Helena, Cape of Good Hope, Mauritius, Point de Galle, and Madras Ripsima Anna Maria, Hickford, China, Singapore, and Penang; Samuel Appleton, Young, San Francisco.—26. Oceana, Lewis, Sydney.—27. Alexander, John Kerr, Dickson, Madras; Thos. Royden, White, Port Phillip.—28. Asiatic, McLeod, Port Phillip; Sir Robt. Seppings, Clark, Mauritius; Almahamada, Salmon, Mauritius; Albany, Gorham, Port Phillip; Coeur de Lion, Clendon, Mauritius.—29. Steamer Secotris, Neblett, Maulmein; Thalesias, Turbet, Port Phillip; Dashing Wave, Fisk, San Francisco; T. D. Monson, — Mauritius.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per Paou Shun (June 7), from HONG-KONG.—Mrs. Francis.
 Per steamer Fire Queen (June 24), from CHITTAGOON.—Capt. Llewellyn and child, Mr. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Langlois, Mrs. Reid, Miss Steadman, Messrs. Mohr and Law, Capt. Brightman, and Mr. Johannes.
 Per Aga Backer (June 24), from RANGOON.—Mrs. Jones, Mr. Macnamara, and Serjt. Conolly.
 Per Lismoine (June 24), from MADRAS.—Messrs. Warrington and Delacroix, and Mr. and Mrs. Hopwood.
 Per Thomas Mitchell.—Dr. Stewart, Capt. Gowan, Cadet Curtin, and Volunteer Young.
 Per Paragon.—Mrs. Murch and family.
 Per steamer Propontis (June 25), from SOUTHAMPTON.—Rev. Mr. and Mrs. White, Messrs. Brandl and Walker, cadets; and Mon. Curbinson. From CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—Mr. Pearson, c.s. From MAURITIUS.—Dr. Maxton and native servant.
 Per Samuel Appleton (June 25).—Mrs. and Master Young.
 Per steamer Hindostan (June 17), from MADRAS.—From SOUTHAMPTON.—Mr. Curtis, Mr. Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Delprat, Mr. Sutherland, Mr. Rowlow, Mr. Heunlop, and Messrs. Pefenger and Rougrein. From SUER.—Mr. and Mrs. Campbell. From GALLE.—Mr. Sampson. From BOMBAY.—Lieut. col. Havelock. From MADRAS.—Mr. and Mrs. Bell, Capt. and Mrs. Fay and infant, Mr. Webster, and Mr. Lafond.
 Per Alexander John Kerr (June 27), from MADRAS.—Mr. Owen.
 Per Thomas Boyden (June 27), from Port Phillip.—Miss Whyte.
 Per Almahamady.—Mrs. Salmon and 3 children.
 Per steamer Secotris (June 29), from MAULMEIN.—Lieuts. Money and Johnson, of the 4th Sikh I.; Capt. Fugha, of the 4th N.I.; Mr. and Mrs. Presgrave and children, Messrs. Mathewson, Farquhar, Collie, D'Souza, and Athens; Mrs. Robins and 3 children, Mrs. Brown and 3 children, and Mr. Macnamara.

DEPARTURES.

JUNE 11.—Lahore, Teeseyman, Liverpool; Mary Anne, Kinsey, Mauritius.—12. Riensi, Lemas, Boston; Kotka, Bergstrom, London.—14. Frank Johnson, Lothorp, Boston; Winterthur, Kersting, London.—15. Steamer Fire Queen, —; steamer Ganges, Black, Madras, Ceylon, and Suez.—16. Argo, S. V. Hyde, Madras, Ceylon, Mauritius, Cape and London.—18. Ocean Eagle, Somes, Boston.—21. Oreswall, Barnett, London; steamer Formosa, Penang, Singapore, and China; Jomasserra, —, Rangoon.—23. Malad, Feche, Maulmein; Arrow, Rodgers, Singapore and China; Pere Charnegnan, Vullon, Bourbon and Mauritius.—25. Rolling Wave, Davys, Liverpool; Kramse, Smith, Singapore and China.—26. Erin, Box, Penang and Singapore; Pantaloon, Bonnyman, Singapore and China; Gallant, Black, Penang and Singapore; Salazes, Inard, Bourbon.—27. Nuseur Musjeet, Fairweather, Mauritius.

PASSENGERS DEPARTED.

Per screw steamer Argo (June 16), for MADRAS.—Maj. Nott, Dr. Montgomery, Lieut. Sinclair, Lieut. C. G. Dupree, and Mrs. Sladen. For THE CAPE.—J. H. Crawford, Esq. c.s.; and Lieut. Urquhart. For MAURITIUS.—Mr. Martin, Lieut. Hickey, and Mr. Waters. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Mrs. Showers and 3 children; Mr. Arthur King, Mr. Fulton's 3 children, Mrs. Alexander and infant, Miss Welsh, Geo. Hill, Esq.; Mrs. Hill and child, D. Brown, Esq.; Christopher Richardson, Esq.; B. C. Carr, Esq. H.M.'s Gold Coast Corps; M. Anderson, Esq. 38th B.N.I.; Lieut. C. G. Brodie, Capt. La Touche, H.M.'s 86th regt.; Lieut. Merland, Rev. J. M. Bellew's 4 children, Mr. Mackenzie, Mr. C. G. Toovey, Lieut. J. F. Eager, Mrs. Col. Faber and child, Lieut. col. Babington, Mr. Babington, 2 children, 2 infants, and servant, the Rev. J. Harding, Mrs. Harding and child, Maj. Gordon, Mrs. Gordon, Miss Hildy, 3 children, Lieut. James Orr, Lieut. H. W. Ayton, H.M.'s 84th regt. Mrs. Carr and 2 children, infant, and servant, Maj. Shaw, Donald McKenzie, Esq. and Alex. Roylance, servant, Lieut. col. Anstruther and native servant, Mrs. Anstruther, Lieut. C. H. Riley, and Anthony Valle. For GALLE.—Mr. C. H. Roddy and—Simon. For CAPE.—Private Taylor.
 Per steamer Bengal (June 26), to CALCUTTA.—J. Lamond, Esq. Capt. G. W. Peyton, R. L. Bruntton, Esq. lady, and native servant, Mrs. Showers, 5 children, and 2 native servants, and J. F. Durant, Esq.
 Per Amelia (June 24), to PENANG.—Lieut. W. Clark.
 Per Hippogriffe (June 25), to CALCUTTA.—Messrs. A. Coshun, G. Johnstone, F. Johnstone, S. Brown, and C. Anderson.
 Per steamer Tenasserim (June 21), for RANGOON.—Rev. — Gawen, Capt. Lewis, Edward Jones, Esq.; Messrs. D. S. Smith, Solomon, sub-asst. surg.; C. M. Doyle, F. Mendes, and Trevisan. For MAULMEIN.—Mrs. Dawson and child, Mr. G. F. Gemmer, conservator of forests; Mr. C. T. Watkin, Mr. and Mrs. McCormick and 3 children.
 Per steamer Bombay (June 29), for MADRAS.—Mrs. W. McAdam Stewart, Capt. Hopkinson, Mrs. Hopkinson, and child; Mr. S. W. Clark, Mr. T. Roods, and Geo. Ward. For SOUTHAMPTON.—Capt. G. Delane, Lieut. Webster, Mr. J. W. Roberts, Lieut. col. Fraser, c.s.; Mr. Emley, Mr. Burrows, John White, Henry Wilson, and Lieut. Jackson. TO ALEXANDRIA.—Mr. Castley. TO MARSEILLES.—Mr. Valette. TO SOUTHAMPTON.—Mrs. Williamson and a child, Capt. D. Lane, Lieut. Webster, Lieut. col. Fraser, c.s.; Lieut. Jackson, Mr. J. Roberts, Mr. Emley, Mr. Burrows, Mr. Do Russell, John White, Henry Wilson, Messrs. George Griffin, Morris Haynes, James Treanor, and J. Wilson, Lieut. T. O. Barrow, Maj. G. W. Y. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Williams and infant. TO MARSEILLES.—Lieut. T. W. Gibson. TO ALEXANDRIA.—Maj. C. F. Liarlet, W. Ewing, Esq. Mr. Jenkins, Lieut. S. Taylor, H. Montgomery, Esq. m.d.

COMMERCIAL.

Calcutta, June 29, 1854.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.		Sell.	Buy.
Transfer Stock Paper 5 per cent.	prem.	4 0 to	4 8
Third Sica 4 do.	dis.	1 12 ..	2 0
New Co.'s 4 do.	..	1 0 ..	1 4

BANK SHARES.

Bengal Bank (Co.'s Rs. 4,000)	..	2475
Agra Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	700 to 710
N.W. Bank (Co.'s Rs. 500)	..	300 to 305

BANK OF BENGAL.

Discount on Government acceptances (3 months)	..	6 per cent.
Do. on private bills and notes do.	..	4 per cent.
Interest on deposit of Co.'s paper..	..	5 per cent.
Do. on open cash credit accounts ..	..	5 per cent.
On deposit of Metals, &c.	..	6 per cent.

PRICES OF BULLION, &amp;c.

Sycee Silver .....	Co.'s Rs. 104 4 to 104 12	} per ss. wt.
China Gold Bars .....	15 12 .. 16 8
Gold Dust .....	13 0 .. 13 8
Spanish Dollars .....	225 12 .. 226 12	} per 100.
Mexican ditto .....	223 12 .. 224 4
Sovereigns .....	10 0 .. 10 1	} each.
Madras Gold Mohurs .....	16 0 .. 16 4
Old Gold Mohurs .....	20 6 .. 20 8

EXCHANGES.

Six months' sight Bills are 2s. 0½d. to 2s. 0¾d. Treasury Bills, at 30 days' sight, 1s. 11d. to 1s. 11½d. Navy Bills, at 3 days' sight, and Bank of England Post Bills at sight, 1s. 11d. to 1s. 11½d.

FREIGHTS.

To London, 7l.; to Liverpool, 6l. to 7l. 10s.

IMPORTS (Calcutta, June 29).—But a moderate amount of business has been done as far as the Import market is concerned. For British Piece Goods the demand is very slack, dealers keeping themselves back, and offering much lower prices than holders are inclined to accept. An improvement, however, is looked for shortly, unless the present stocks increase by heavy arrivals. Grey and White Shirtings, though selling in moderate quantity, have given way in prices from 2 to 4 annas, and in some instances a reduction of 6 annas has been submitted to for low descriptions. Jaconets are neglected, and dealers would not take them, unless at heavy reductions, which holders do not seem inclined to accede to. Madapollams are a shade lower, and in moderate inquiry. Lappets have declined considerably, yet there does not appear to be a good demand for these, as also for Grey and White Mulls. Very little has been done in Book Muslins, and as to Printed and Coloured Goods, little demand exists. Mule Twists, however, have been improving, and a fair business has been done at full prices both in these and in Coloured Yarns, which are looking up. No improvement to notice in Metals, with the exception of Copper, which has advanced a little. Holders are firm, and the stock is not large.

MADRAS.

REORGANIZATION OF MILITARY ARRANGEMENTS AT NAGPORE.—The Madras United Service Gazette states, that Mr. Mansel has submitted to the Supreme Government a plan for the reorganization of the military arrangements of Nagpore. The late rajah maintained three regiments of foot, amounting to 2,400 men, four ressalahs of cavalry, and 300 artillerymen. There were besides a nondescript, but paid, rabble of some eleven hundred horse and foot. Mr. Mansel proposes to officer the three regiments of foot, and two ressalahs of horse on the plan of the mizam's contingent, and dismiss the remainder. The regiment of cavalry, and two of the regiments of infantry, stationed in the country, may then be withdrawn. Two regular infantry regiments will remain, and the total force in Nagpore will amount to about 5,000 men.

DEATH OF LIEUT.-COL. BREMNER.—“We regret,” says the Madras Athenæum, “to record the death of Lieut.-Col. William Bremner, of the 41st regt. M.N.I., at Kamptee, on the 6th inst. This casualty promotes Maj. Arthur McCally, of the 44th regt. N.I. to lieut.-col., Capt. (Brev.-Maj.) Francis Dudgeon, to major, Lieut. Edward James Lawder, to captain, and Ensign Arthur Raikes to lieutenant.”

LIEUT. TYRRELL, 18th N.I. has been ordered not to rejoin his regiment, his services being required to survey a line of railway which it is proposed to make from Negapatam to Trichinopoly. The iron road in question is to be laid down on the cheap system advocated by Col. Cotton, and will cost perhaps about Rs. 25,000 a mile. Where the rail encounters a nullah or other depression of the surface, it will be carried over on screw piles, the utility of which have never been thoroughly appreciated in Madras. We have heard it said, that as a result not at all unlikely under the vigorous administration of Lord Harris, the line, which is sixty-eight miles in length, may be wholly finished by the 1st of January, 1856. This would be an achievement that would go a great way to remove from the presidency the long-enduring and much deserved epithet of “the Benighted.”—Athenæum, June 13.

RUMOUR OF A DISTURBANCE.—A rumour got abroad about a fortnight since that some of the civilians to the southward had become apprehensive of a disturbance and consequent loss of revenue, owing to the removal from Trichinopoly to the Neilgherries of the principal portion of the European troops serving in the southern division, and that government had it therefore in contemplation to order back great part of H.M.'s 74th highlanders. We expressed our opinion at the time, that such an absurdity as ordering down the highlanders could never have been thought of by the authorities; and as a proof that it never was, we may mention that the government only a few days back sanctioned the disbursement of a small sum for improving the temporary barracks on the hills for the married people, and this they certainly would not have done, had any doubts existed on the subject. Besides, too, if the collector fancies that additional troops are required at Trichinopoly, a squadron, or wing of cavalry, might without difficulty or inconvenience be spared from Bangalore, and an entire regiment of cavalry will probably soon become available, when the proposed changes come into play at Nagpore. Some ten or twelve years ago, when the idea of hill stations was first entertained, we remember hearing that the civilians were strongly opposed to the withdrawal of Europeans from Trichinopoly, on the ground that their absence might possibly encourage the natives to become troublesome, not that there was the smallest real cause for such an idea; on the contrary, indeed, all military men who have ever been stationed to the southward declare, that the people are as quiet a race as any in southern India, and such is borne out by the fact that not a soldier has been required for service, south of the Pallaur river, for the last forty years! We can only therefore attribute the anxiety of the civilians to retain European troops at a station which has ever been notoriously fatal to that section of the service, to the remains of that nervous feeling of suspicion and distrust, with which Madras officials were wont in by-gone days to be affected, in respect to the fidelity of the native troops, and their fitness to cope with a rabble of their own people; but military men, who know them better, are perfectly free from such ridiculous suspicions.—U. S. Gazette, June 20.

CIVIL.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

AGNEW, G. V. to be asst. to the coll. and mag. of Tanjore.
ANSTRUTHER, T. A. civ. and sess. judge of zillah of Rajahmundry, del. over ch. of court to P. Irvine.
COPESTON, F. to be civ. and sess. judge of Rajahmundry.
ELLIS, G. H. S. to be subord. judge of Mangalore.
HATHAWAY, A. sub-judge of zillah of Cuddepah, resumed charge of court.
HUDDLESTON, W. head asst. to coll. and mag. of Chingleput, to be a marriage registrar of that district, v. Fullerton.
ROBINSON, Jas. to be add. sub-coll. and jt. mag. of Canara.
SANDEMAN, Alex. S. to be head asst. to coll. and mag. of Malabar.
SIM, W. C. to be asst. to coll. and mag. of the N. div. of Arcot.
WOODGATE, C. H. acting civ. and sess. judge of zillah of Tinevelly, res. ch. of court.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

ANSTRUTHER, T. A. 1 mo. to pres. and 3 yrs. to Europe.
PRENDERGAST, T. 2 yrs to sea and Simla, on m.c.
ROBERTS, C. A. 1 mo. to Bangalore and Oosoor.
SMITH, H. G. 1 mo. to sea-coast and Madras.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

RICHARDS, J. 1 mo.

MILITARY.

APPOINTMENTS, &amp;c.

BAUMONT, Ens. W. R. to do duty with 51st N.I. to join.
BODDAM, Capt. W. T. 2nd N.I. to be maj. from April 4, v. Garston, ret.
BRYMNER, Lieut. A. R. 41st N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.
BURN, Lieut. R. C. 5th N.I. placed at disp. of commissr. of Tenasserim and Martaban provinces.
CAMPELL, Cornet A. H. E. posted to 7th L.C. as 1st cornet; to rank from March 20; to continue to do duty with 2nd L.C.
CAMERON, Lieut. col. G. P. 1st N.V. batt. ret. to duty.
CHERRY, Cornet E. M. posted to 6th L.C. as 2nd cornet; to rank from April 6; to continue to do duty with 1st L.C.

CHERRY, Cornet C. N. posted to 4th L.C. as 2nd cornet; to rank from May 6; to continue to do duty with 1st L.C.
 CLARKE, Lieut. W. C. 2nd L.C. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 CLERK, Lieut. C. 2nd N.I. to take rank from April 4, v. Garston, ret.
 COSSEBART, Lieut. J. P. 34th L.I. to be adj.
 DAVIDSON, Ens. A. A. posted to 6th N.I. as 4th ens. to rank from April 1.
 DE HAVILLAND, Ens. J. 48th N.I. passed ex. in Hindustani, Moonshee allow.
 DREVER, Lieut. W. S. 31st L.I. passed ex. in Hindustani, qual. as interp. to be gr. mr. and interp.
 DRUMMOND, Lieut. H. A. 15th N.I. passed ex. in Hindustani.
 EASTON, Ens. A. C. posted to 44th N.I. as 3rd ens. to join to rank fr. March 26.
 EWART, Lieut. A. J. P. 16th N.I. to do duty with sap. and min. June 28.
 EWART, Lieut. J. P. 16th N.I. res. app. as gr. mr. and interp.
 FALCONER, Lieut. G. P. De, to rank in engr. fr. June 12, 1852.
 FERRERS, Lieut. E. J. 4th L.C. passed ex. in Hindustani to rec. Moonshee allow.
 FINLAY, Lieut. H. M. prom. to rank in art. fr. Dec. 9, 1853.
 GABBETT, Brev. maj. W. M. art. to act as supt. of gunpowder manufactory dur. abs. of Anstruther.
 GRACE, Ens. C. U. posted to 30th N.I. to rank as 3rd ens. fr. March 14.
 GRANT, Ens. S. F. M. T. 47th N.I. passed ex. in Hindustani, Moonshee allow. disbursed to him.
 GUMM, Ens. C. A. posted to 31st L.I. to rank fr. April 1 as 4th ens.
 GUNNING, Lieut. C. G. 37th Grens. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 HARRINGTON, Lieut. E. H. 2nd Eur. L.I. exec. offi. in ch. of roads in Bellary dist. to be 2nd asst. civ. engr.
 HASTINGS, Lieut. W. J. M. 47th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 HEWETSON, Lieut. col. C. fr. 46th to 41st N.I.
 HILL, Ens. W. 18th N.I. doing duty 44th N.I. to proc. to pres. and report himself to dep. adjt. gen. with view to being provided with a passage to join his corps.
 IRVING, Ens. A. B. 13th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 LLOYD, Capt. H. 20th N.I. to be cantonment jt. mag. at Rangoon, fr. Jan. 1.
 LUGARD, Ens. H. J. 47th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 MCCALLY, Lieut. col. A. posted to 46th N.I.
 MCGOWN, Maj. T. 6th N.I. perm. to res. app. as acting judge advocate gen. of the army.
 METCALFE, Lieut. E. 48th N.I. to be gr. mr. and interp.
 MITCHELL, Lieut. W. S. 22nd N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani, to rec. moonshee allowance.
 MITCHELL, Capt. W. S. ret. list, perm. to res. and draw his pay in India.
 MONCKTON, Lieut. J. E. 2nd N.I. to be capt. fr. May 23, v. Mackenzie.
 MOTTILL, 28th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 NEPEAN, Lieut. H. M. 37th grens. passed exam. in Hindustani, to rec. moonshee allow.
 O'REILLY, Ens. H. T. posted to 33rd N.I. as 4th ens. to rank fr. March 24.
 OSBORNE, Ens. J. W. W. 24th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani, to rec. moonshee allow.
 PARSONS, Lieut. C. M. 31st L.I. passed exam. in Hindustani, to rec. moonshee allow.
 PHILLIPS, Lieut. G. R. 5th L.C. to be brev. capt. fr. June 18.
 PLOWDEN, Ens. C. H. 19th N.I. doing duty 49th N.I. to repair to pres. and report himself to dept. adjt. gen. of the army, with a view to being provided with a passage to join his corps.
 PRITCHARD, Brev. maj. H. dept. judge adv. gen. to act as judge adv. gen. dur. abs. of Chalon.
 RAWLINS, Ens. W. 17th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 RAWLINS, Lieut. H. W. 30th regt. N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 RICHARDSON, 2nd Lieut. J. A. 1st fus. doing duty with 31st L.I. to proc. to pres. and report himself to dep. adj. gen. with view to being provided with a passage to join his corps.
 ROWLANDSON, Ens. G. to do duty with 2nd batt. art. to join.
 ROWLANDSON, Capt. G. art. to act as dir. of art. depôt of instron. dur. abs. of Simpson.
 RUSSELL, Capt. G. W. 2nd N.I. to take rank from Apr. 4, v. Garstin, ret.
 SCOTT, Lieut. C. engs. placed at disp. of commr. of Pegu, for purpose of surveying line of road between Rangoon and Promé.
 SHAW, Lieut. D. 39th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 SILVER, Capt. A. C. 4th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 STANDEN, Ens. D. 28th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani—moon-shee allowance disbursed to him.
 STANSFIELD, Lieut. T. W. 51st N.I. pass. exam. in Hindustani; qual. as interp.
 STEVENSON, Lieut. J. F. J. 26th N.I. passed exam. in Burmese.
 STOKES, Ens. G. B. 29th N.I. passed exam. in Hindustani.
 STUART, Ens. R. C. A. rec. arr. to do du. with 42nd N.I. to join via Calcutta.
